While there was a large entry list for the Golf Committee cup, weekly competition, very few posted their scores. Stuart H. Patterson and C. B. Morgan were tie for first place with a net score of 78, while Julius E. Erickson won the remaining point. The best scores posted were as follows:

Stuart H. Patterson, 98, 20—78; C. B. Morgan, 84, 6—78; Julius E. Erickson, 89, 10—79; Marvin D. Rae, 92, 11—81.

An unusual feature of the women's clock golf competition was that five contestants returned a score of 23 and each one will receive 1 1-5 point. The result of the play is as follows:

Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., 23; Miss Adelaide G. Ball, 23; Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, 23; Miss Sarah Schuvler, 23; Miss Margaret Goddard, 23; Miss Harriet Goddard, 24; Miss Susan Wharton, 25; Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, 26; Miss Uhler, 29.

Owing to many other attractions the attendance at the Park Golf Club on Saturday was limited and only five contestants posted scores for the President's and Park Golf Club cups. John L. Watson, J. B. Betts and Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll won the points for the President's cup, while Charles A. Reed, J. L. Watson and Dr. Carroll on the points for the scratch trophy. These scores were posted:

John L. Watson, 117, 27—83; J. B. Bets, 119, 3—89; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 113, 19—94; Charles A. Reed, 108, 12—96; Samuel Townsend, 121, 19—102.

The chief events at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday were a team match with the Westchester Golf Club and the final play, qualifying round for the June handicap, which begins on Saturday. Westfield lost the team match by a score of 16 to 6, Nassau system.

T. S. ARMSTRONG'S MOTHER PASSES AWAY

MRS. REBECCA B. ARMSTRONG DIES AT HER HOME IN CAMDEN.

Mrs. Rebecca B. Armstrong, wife of the late Francis W. Armstrong, and mother of Thomas S. Armstrong, the druggist, died at her home in Camden on Saturday night. She was in her seventy-fifth year.

She is survived by six sons and one daughter. The sons are Charles A. Armstrong, Judge E. A. Armstrong, of Camden; Thomas S. Armstrong, of this city; George H. Armstrong, of Merchantville; Wallace A. Armstrong, of Moorestown; Howard Armstrong, of SanFrancisco, and the daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Middleditch, of Westfield. The funeral services will be held at the late home Wednesday afternoon.

Country Club Events.

There will be music and dancing at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday night, also an afternoon concert and dancing in the evening on Monday and Tuesday, May 29 and 30. Members wishing dinners served on Monday and Tuesday night, May 29 and 30, will be obliged to send their names to the steward on or before Saturday next.

Funeral of John A. Coddington.

The funeral of John A. Coddington, who died at Peoria, Ill., was held at the Mount Horeb church, Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Stout assisted by Rev. George W. Bowers officiated. Interment was made in the family plot at the Mount Horeb cemetery.

JOHN VALIANT STRICKEN

Representative Borough Citizen Dies From Heart Failure.

FOUND BY HIS WIFE

Had Been Prominent in Local Religious Work for Many Years—Funeral Tuesday.

Stricken suddenly with heart failure that had been sounding a warning for several days, John Valiant, one of North Plainfield's representative citizens, died suddenly at his home on Myrtle avenue early Sunday morning. His lifeless body was found on the floor of his bedroom at 6 o'clock by his wife, who chanced in. It was clad in a robe and from appearances he was about to go to the bath room when the end came.

Mr. Valiant had not been feeling well all last week and Saturday Mrs. Valiant induced him to remain away from business. He staid at the house all day and though he was troubled with pains about the heart, he was able to go about as usual. His ailment was not thought to be anything serious and the family was totally unprepared for its sudden termination.

Mr. Valiant was born at Baltimore, January 17, 1854, and came to Plainfield eighteen years ago, making his home in the borough. From the outset he showed himself to be a man with progressive ideas and he devoted the greater part of his spare time to the interests of the community. He was twice elected a member of the Common Council and for the past three years had been one of the most valued members of the Board of Education.

As an organizer and member of Grace M. E. church, its upbuilding was his constant thought and its growth in no small sense has been due to his efforts. Previous to the establishment of the church, he started a Sunday-school and conducted it regularly, afterward assuming the superintendency of this department when the church was fully organized. He retained it until two years ago.

He was interested in religious work othewise and served on various committees at the Y. M. C. A. At the time of his death he was president of the Board of Trustees of Grace church.

Mr. Valiant had been in the grain commission business for many years, being connected with the firm of Mill, Mine, Bodman & Co. He was also a member of the Produce Exchange and was widely known in New York brokerage circles.

Surviving him are a widow and three children, Mrs. Charles Corning, of Baltimore; Miss Mary E. Valiant and John Valiant, of the borough. His mother and one brother, Joseph Valiant, are residents of Baltimore.

COMMON COUNCIL TO ACT ON LUMBER YARDS

ORDINANCE COMES UP AT JUNE MEETING OF BODY.

Is is expected that the June meeting of the Common Council, Chairman Bullock, of the fire and buildings committee, will present a report on the question of lumber yards in the fire limits. The owners of the yard formerly conducted by DeWitt C. Ivins, have asked for the privilege of allowing the yard to remain as it is, and it is expected that a report will be made on this matter.

According to the ordinance introduced a few weeks ago, this lumber yard would be affected by its provisions if at any time it was desired to again continue the lumber business at the Ivins yard. This being one of the oldest in the city, it is thought that provision will be made to permit such a business being conducted there at any time in the future.

Another matter for the Common Council to consider will be that in reference to a proposed request of Boice, Runyon & Co., to erect additional shed in the vicinity of the Second street entrance on the yards. It is believed that there will be some opposition to this in view of the tendency of the fire and buildings committee to reduce the fire risks in this direction. For the purpose of meeting several of these complications sure to arise as a result of the ordinance, its final adoption has been delayed, but Mr. Bullock hopes to secure its passage within a short time.

Theatre Plans Pending.

The plans for the alterations to Washington Hall for the new theatre are now in the hands of Building Inspector Doane. He will not grant the necessary permit until he has gone over them thoroughly.

Miss Drake at Home.

The home and happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baldwin Drake, of Duer street, is now complete. A little girl was born to them on Thursday.

CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF PLAY

East Jersey Tournament Begins Here on Saturday.

PRIZES OFFERED

T. M. Day, Jr., Chairman of Committee—Contests on Country Club Courts.

The championship tournament of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association for mixed doubles will be held on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, May 27, 29 and 30. Entries accompanied by the entrance fee should be received by T. M. Day, Jr., at 740 Carlton avenue, Plainfield, on or before 8 o'clock Friday night, at which time and place the drawing will be made.

Play will commence on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will be continued on Monday, beginning at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and on Tuesday, both morning and afternoon, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. All matches will be the best two sets out of three. Individual prizes will be awarded to the winning team and to the runners-up. The Plainfield Country Club extends to all the members of the clubs composing the association the privileges of the club during the tournament.

It has been arranged by the home club to serve luncheon to contestants on Tuesday. On Saturday and Monday, luncheon and dinner may be obtained from the steward. There will be music and dancing in the evening on each day.

In conneciton with the tennis tournament, another attraction will be the second of the series of golf tournaments under the auspices of the Woman's Metropolitan Golf Association. This will be held on Monday, and is sure to attract a large number of prominent women golfers from the Metropolitan district. The first of these one-day tournaments was held last week and the contestants from the Plainfield Country Club made an excellent showing. On their own course it is expected that they will do much better.

For the benefit of those unacquainted with the way to reach the courts, it may be said that the Arlington avenue trolley cars run to a point close to the golf course and a short walk across the links will bring one to the club-house and courts. The committee in charge of the tennis tournament has arranged to have a stage run between these two points while the play is in progress. Gardner H. Miller has been secured as referee of the play and this committee will be in charge:

T. M. Day, Jr., chairman; Roger N. Black, F. E. Ferris, Frederick W. Goddard and Owen H. Fleming. Mr. Black is the secretary for the committee.

Class 1905 Holds Dinner.

The class of 1905 of the borough High School held the annual senior dinner in the manual training department Friday afternoon. Members of the faculty were special guests. The affair was in charge of a committee of which Miss Sadie Fountain was chairman.

Cake and Candy Sale.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society, of Trinity Reformed church, will hold a cake and candy sale in the primary department, Sunday-school room, Saturday afternoon, from 3 to 6 o'clock.

MRS. NELSON LEFT ONLY $37,448.93

Riches of Mrs. Fair's Mother Was Grossly Over-Estimated.

INVENTORY IS FILLED

The Six Children Will Get About $5,000 Apiece — Estate Largely in Mortgages.

The reputed riches of the late Mrs. Hannah Nelson, mother of Mrs. Charles L. Fair, was only a dream, and a "pipe dream" at that, for according to the inventory filed in the surrogate's office of Middlesex County, at New Brunswick, at noon Monday, she died possessed of but $37,448 93. General report had credited her with being worth half a million.

There are six children and some children of a deceased child to come in for shares of the estate and so each of the six children will only receive approximately $5,349 apiece. The estate was appraised on Thursday, May 11, by Frank Davis and H. Lewis Benedict and the executors are John B. Bonnell, of Union, and Abram G. Nelson and William B. Smith, both of New Market.

Among the assets are two bonds of the Detroit United Railway, valued at $1,888 and seventy shares of Keystone foundry stock valued at $7,000. Bonds and mortgages owned by Mrs. Nelson aggregated $25,000 and she had $2,997.83 in cash in the Orange bank. In addition to these items a lot of household goods and furniture are enumerated in the inventory.

IS WABASH COMING ?

Report That the Gould Railroad is Making Its Way East to New York.

Surveyors have been busy this week at Bound Brook staking out a new railroad, an extension of the Wabash road from Pittsburg to New York.

The right of way has been secured. The road will pass through the Ross and Sheppard farms, just about an eighth of a mile above the town of Bound Brook.

Already the price of land has advanced 300 per cent.

Continental War Statue.

State Commissioners on Monuments Charles H. K. Halsey, C. Symes Kiggins and Rev. William H. Hoppaugh on Saturday visited the art rooms of the sculptor in New York who is making the statue of the Continental soldier which is to be unveiled at Springfield, Union County, June 23, in honor of the 125th anniversary of the battle of Springfield and Union. They have been assured that the statue will be ready for unveiling at that date.

Breaks Up Tramps' Shanty.

Saturday night Justice of the Peace Milton C. Lowden, of Linden, accompained by two assistants, visited Ziegler's woods, in Linden township, and tore down a frame shanty 12x15 feet, which had been built by hoboes.

To Remove Slot Machines.

Acting on instruction of its local manager the Postal Telegraph Company at Elizabeth will remove all slot machines from its office or any other property which the company has control of there.

Special Farmers' Telephone Service.

The convenience of the city added to the delights of the country. The farmer and the market in touch. Information from nearest railway station available. Doctor always within speedy call. Hundreds of other advantages with FARMERS' TELEPHONE SERVICE.

New York and New Jersey Telephone Company

333 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Telephone 5192

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

Time Table Corrected to Nov. 27, 1904.

For New York—2 17, 3 37, 5 56, 6 02, 6 29, 6 57, 7 05, 7 25, 7 33, 7 48, 7 55, 8 03, 8 17, 8 30, 8 36, 8 46, 9 34, 9 59, 10 28, 11 00 a m, 12 09, 12 44, 1 18, 2 31, 2 42, 2 49, 3 44, 4 18, 4 47, 5 42, 5 52, 6 36, 6 43, 7 08, 7 22, 8 26, 9 40, 10 17, 11 26 p m. Sunday—2 17, 3 37, 5 05, 7 41, 8 01, 8 52, 9 49, 10 08, 11 10 a m, 12 03 m, 12 56, 1 45, 2 49, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 6 45, 6 52, 8 12, 8 32, 9 42, 10 23 p m.

For Newark—5 28, 6 29, 6 57, 7 05, 7 25, 7 48, 8 11, 8 26, 8 46, 9 59, 9 34, 11 00 a m, 1 18, 2 31, 2 49, 3 44, 4 18, 4 47, 5 42, 5 52, 6 22, 6 36, 7 08, 7 22, 8 26, 9 40 p m. Sunday—7 41, 8 52, 9 49, 10 08, 11 10 a m, 12 56, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 6 45, 6 52, 8 12, 8 32, 9 42, 10 23 p m.

For Somerville—5 25, 7 13, 8 21, 9 22, 9 55, 11 00 a m, 1 01, 2 02, 2 11, 3 32, 4 23, 5 03, 5 29, 6 04, 6 19, 6 36, 7 13, 7 33, 8 08, 8 21, 9 37, 10 23, 11 26 p m, 12 50 night. Sunday—5 45, 8 42, 10 51 a m, 2 03, 3 40, 5 27, 6 25, 9 20, 10 15, 11 16, 11 26 p m.

For Flemington—7 13, 11 00 a m, 2 11, 5 29, 6 19 p m. Sundays—8 42 a m, 5 27 p m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5 25, 8 21, 9 54 a m, 2 11, 5 29, 6 41 p m. Sunday—5 45 a m, 2 03, 6 25 p m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5 25, 9 54 a m, 2 11, 5 29 p m. Sundays—5 45 a m, 2 03, 6 25 p m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5 25, 9 54 a m, 5 48 p m. Sundays—5 45 a m, 2 03 p m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8 11, 11 00 a m, 3 44, 4 18, 4 47, 6 22, 11 28 p m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove)—8 52 a m, 3 30, 8 12 p m.

For Red Bank—8 11, 11 00 a m, 1 18, 3 44, 4 47, 5 42, 11 28 p m. Sundays—8 52 a m, 3 30, 8 12 p m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(8 11 Lakewood only), 9 27 a m, 1 18, 2 49, (3 44 p m, Lakewood only). Sundays—8 52 a m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8 11 a m, 1 18, 3 44 p m. Sundays—8 52 a m.

For Philadelphia—5 17, 7 12, 7 44, 8 44, 8 51, 9 44, 10 44, 10 51, 11 44 a m, 12 46, 1 01, 1 30, 2 45, 3 44, 6 45, 7 47, 8 21 p m, 1 17 night. Sunday—5 17, 8 45, 9 55, 10 51 a m, 2 45, 4 55, 6 45*, 5 27, 7 47, 9 47 p m, 1 26, 1 17 night.

For Trenton—5 17, 7 12, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a m, 12 46, 1 01, 1 30, 3 44, 6 45, 8 21 p m, 1 17 night. Sunday—5 17, 8 45, 9 55, 10 51 a m, 2 45, 4 55, 5 27, 6 45, 9 47, 11 25 p m, 1 17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5 17, 5 25, 8 38, 9 54, (10 44, 11 44 Reading only), a m, 2 11, (5 48, through train), 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17 a m, 2 03, 5 27, 6 25 p m, 1 17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5 17, 5 25, 9 54 a m, 2 11, 8 21 p m, 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17 a m, 2 03 p m, 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1 17, 8 51, 10 51 a m, 3 45, 6 45, 7 47 p m. Sundays—10 51 a m, 2 45, 6 45 p m, 1 17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. — C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE ELECTRIC AUTOMATIC BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

On and after May 15, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows—

f 2 35 p m Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis Express.

f 6 40 p m St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6 40 p m Western Express.

f 8 37 p m Pacific Express.

Seaboard Air Line—f 1 04 p m daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12 58, f 8 36, 9 08, f 10 06 a m, 1 04 and 10 08 p m. On Sundays at f 12 58, f 9 08, f 10 06 a m and 1 04 and f 10 07 p m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1 01, 6 46, 7 16, (Trenton only), 8 08, f 8 36, 9 08, f 10 06, f 10 38, 11 46 a m, 12 46, 1 04, 2 04 (Trenton only), f 2 35, f 3 28, f 6 40, f 7 38, 7 44, f 8 37, 10 08, p m. Sundays—1 01, 6 51, f 9 08, f 10 06, 10 40 a m, 1 04, f 2 35, 5 52, f 6 40, 7 44, f 8 37, and f 10 07 p.m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Combined Coach, f 10 38 a m and f 3 28 p m week-days. Sundays (through vestibuled train, Pullman parlor, dining and smoking cars and wide vestibule coaches) f 8 38 a m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, f 2 35 p m week days; 6 51 a m Sundays.

For Cape May—1 01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Stroudsburg, via Trenton—6 46, f8 36 and 11 40 a m, week days: 6 51 a m, 5 52 p m, Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and points on New York and Long Branch R R—4 25, 9 37 a m, f1 08, f3 04 and f3 42 p m week-days; Sundays, 9 05 and 10 25 a m and 5 40 p m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N Y—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W W ATTERBURY, Gen'l Man'g'r. — J R WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man'g'r

GEO W BOYD, Gen'l Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect Nov. 29, 1903.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8 06 a m daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8 43 a m daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

3 12 p m daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4 56 p m daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6 21 p m daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

8 40 p m daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a m, closes 7 p m. On Saturdays close half hour later.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7 30, 8 40, 11 30 a m; 2 30, 5 00, 5 30 p m. Close—7 30, 9 30 a m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00, 7 45 p m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8 40 a m; 1 30, 3 15 and 7 00 p m. Close—7 30 a m; 1 45 and 4 30 p m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Arrive—8 40 a m; 2 30 and 5 30 p m. Close—7 30 a m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00 p m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton.

Close 12 35 p m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8 40 a m; 2 30, 5 30 p m. Close—7 30, 9 30 a m; 1 00, 2 30 and 6 00 p m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7 30, 8 40, 11 30 a m; 2 30 and 7 00 p m. Close—7 15, 7 30, 9 30 a m; 12 35, 4 30, 7 45 p m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4 30 and 7 15 p m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1 00 and 7 15 p m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA (Mt. Bethel)

Arrive—1 30 p m. Close—9 00 a m. Watchung—Arrive 3 45 p m. Close 5 30 p m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9 30 to 10 30 a m. Mail closes at 6 15 p m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

Mrs. Rowland Cox, of New York, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Rowland Cox, of West Seventh street, for a few days.

Rev. G. M. Shott has returned from a visit with friends in New York.

THRONGS AT THE CARNIVAL

Biggest of All the Crowds Jammed the Midway.

LOTS OF SPENDING

Pleasure-Seekers Try Hard to Get Rid of All Their Money—Cheers and Speeches Ends the Affair.

The biggest crowd that has ever assembled at any one event in Plainfield gathered for the close of the carnival Saturday night. The attendance was no near 15,000 that the management was justified in putting it at that figure. From 8:30 o'clock until after 11 the crowd on the midway was so thick that a stroll around the grounds involved a series of bumps from elbow to elbow.

But the marked feature of the crowd was not its size. Its one prominent feature was a spirit of eagerness in spending. Everybody seemed to be in a hurry to get all over at once, and leave as much money behind as possible. The barkers and ticket sellers caught the reflex of the spirit and played on it with an enthusiasm that was actually feverish.

Prominent among the workers were G. O. Stevens, C. T. Elliott, Robert A. Meeker, Jr., J. E. Dumont, Jr., F. W. Butler, S. P. T. Wilbur, Andrew McCardell, A. A. Cannon, A. E. Kenney, H. C. VanEmburgh, Ralph Willis, Howard Hobbis, John Fritts, T. M. Mutz, John H. Coss, G. H. Coss, Henry Barlow, Walter Morton, Councilman William Starr Bullock, M. J. Demens, Carroll Runyon, Dudley Ferguson, Harold Millar.

A few minute after 11 o'clock City Judge Runyon announced the names of those who had secured the various things offered for the benefit of the hospital. The announcements were made from the center of "Midway Circle."

Howard Freeman, fifteen years old, son of Walter Freeman, of South avenue, got the $1,000 automobile. G. F. Updyke and T. Smith, both of this city, secured the two bicycles.

Freeman is a high school boy and as soon as the judge has finished the announcements someone suggested that he might be found at the Casino where the senior class was holding a dance, after a dramatic performance. George MacIntyre hitched the gasoline up and with Judge Runyon in the back seat whizzed down to the Casino, where Howard was found. The auto and its dazed young owner made a triumphal tour of the grounds, followed by a "Well, what do you think of that?" crowd all the way. Somebody asked Howard if he was going to take the bubble to school with him.

"Yes sir, I think I will," he answered politely. Then he came to himself for a brief interval. "Gee!" he said confidentially to MacIntyre, "I don't know what I'll do with the darn thing." He looked as scared as if a short-tempered teacher had caught him putting a tack on his seat.

The rivalry of the Elks and the Knights of Columbus over the piano and piano-player offered for the most popular lodge developed into a whirlwind of ballots. The tally went into a frail-fledged fit in the last few minutes before 11, when W. F. Williams dumped 340, W. A. Coddington 433 and Edward Van Buren 100 ballots for the Elks. They took the music machine 1,881 to 768 The winners cast over 1,400 votes between 9 o'clock and 11. It was figured that the little contest resulted in a gain of something like $700 for the hospital.

In the other contests for the only warmth of rivalry that showed was between Hose Companies No. 3 and 1 for the clock, and the former won.

John Hiles captured the barrel of flour offered to the postman. Partick McGuire got the motorman's five-dollar gold piece, and the half-eagle for the conductors went to J. Lindaberg. Maurice Higgins got the ton of coal offered to the cops. Centerfielder Cosgrove will get the dress suit case as the most popular ball tosser.

Sergeant A. I. Littell, Company K's crack shot, won in the shoot-off of the rifle range contestants. He shot 725 out of a possible 750. C. W. Leonard shot second with a score of 709. Mc Carthy scored 705 and Mashmore 695. Littell made the best individual score all through, making 347 out of a possible 350 in the preliminary shooting. He chose the silver vase for first prize. Dr. Leonard got an umbrella.

High School boys were in charge of the attractions at the last midway Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance, in spite the sporting event. The workers on duty included the following students:

Emil Jahn, Joseph Gavett, Bert Leggett, L. E. Palmer, P. E. Collier, Joseph Osgood, Walter Underwell, William Flanders, Fred Held, Leslie Leland, Stanley Warner, Samuel Bogart, William Deane, Fred Smith, William Klein, Paul Leichtentritt, Weston Gavett, Stuart Freeman, Howard Freeman, Edgar Freeman, Philip Smith, J. H. Jones, Malcolm Davis, Newell Kirkner, Moses Rabinowitz, H. A. Morris, Arthur Bingaman, Arthur S. Whitney.

W. S. Miller, pleased and regretful, pulled up his stakes and carnival equipment yesterday and started the confederated shows for Hackensack, where they will open on Wednesday. The carnival grounds were bare and forlorn-looking by 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Miller was pleased because the crowds and the spending exceeded his brightest hopes, and he was regretful because the Carnival Committee had not accepted his early suggestion to run the affair a week longer than was planned.

"I am delighted with the measure of success that has attended us," said Mr. Miller Saturday night. "I want to thank the people and the organizations of Plainfield for the way they turned out, and turned to, to help the carnival on."

The order to shut down was not given until 12 o'clock, and it was considerably later before the grounds were deserted. A crowd of lusty-lunged Elks and Knights of Columbus, under the leadership of Andrew Mc Cardell and a big megaphone, gathered at the entrance to the headquarters tent for an impromptu wake on the dead carnival, and cheered for everybody and everything connected with it.

In the course of his varied remarks Mr. McCardell spoke in favor of annexation, urged the nomination of C. J. Fisk for State Senator and called Mayor Buckle "the best man that came up the pike."

Mr. Fisk and Judge Runyon were compelled to respond to demands for speeches. The former seized the opportunity to express his deep appreciation of the support accorded his benefit project by the general public, the lodges, and the workers who gave time and money to help make the carnival a success.

"I brought up the idea," said Mr. Fisk earnestly, "but you carried it out. The thanks we owe you cannot be expressed."

"I know I speak for the Carnival committee when I thank you everyone for the help you have given to this project," said Judge Runyon. "I feel that, great as is the good to Muhlenberg Hospital that come out of this thing, the benefits will be that of the whole city in a greater measure. This has brought high and low, rich and poor, together, working in one common cause. The different sections of the city have come to know one another better, and because of it are stronger, and better in every way.

"It is with the voice of the Carnival Committee, I am sure, when I say to all of you who have helped in this: "God bless you!"

Chairman Fisk, of the Carnival committee, is more pleased than Boss-showman Miller.

"The Carnival closed up very satisfactorily indeed," he said this morning. "A statement is now being made up and the receipts and as soon as it is completed it will be made public through the newspapers. The management owes the great results obtained to the interest taken by the people, and thanks everyone individually, as well as all organizations, for the aid contributed.

"We have scored the greatest success that has ever visited a nine-days' carnival, and, naturally, we are delighted."

While none of those connected with the management would venture to estimate the profit to be turned over to the hospital this morning, it is said without fear of correction that the sum will amount to more than $5,000. From the Women's Auxiliary tent alone something like $2,500 actual, net profit has come in. The automobile tent netted over $600.

The P. S. C. got the surprise of its existence Saturday night at the Carnival grounds. The crowd at the headquarters tent during the impromptu closing exercises actually cheered for the corporation.

Superintendent Maguire was so upset he could hardly talk for an hour.

The company deserved it. It contributed to the enterprise in many ways and the special trolley service to and from the grounds for the nine days was remarkably good. Not a knock was heard from either the travelling public or the management, which indicated a continued state of absolute perfection in traffic conditions.

Canadian to Wed New Yorker.

Cards are out for the marriage of Miss Katherine Edith Gorrell, of Ottawa, Canada, to Dr. Arthur Hays Richardson, son of Dr. A. J. Richardson, of New York city, to take place at the home of the bride on Tuesday, June 6. The groom is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Morrison, Jr., of West Front street.

N. P. C., 4; Chatham, A. C., 3.

On the Mountain avenue grounds Saturday morning, the North Plainfield Crescents defeated the Chatham A. C. by the score of 4 to 3.

Woodside Won.

The Woodside A. C. defeated the Jackson A. C. by the score of 16 to 6 on Saturday.

GIANTS COULDN'T SLUG

P. B. A.'s New Pitcher Puts Kibosh on Colored Athletes.

SCORE, FOUR TO TWO

Deabeiters Make a Killing in the Seventh and Clinch the Game—Chill and Silence.

Winter lingering in the lap of the baseball season handed out a chill and obscurer dent to the hand-working Brownie Giants from Philadelphia Saturday afternoon; It was ashivery weather to begin with, and the demeaner of Hon. William Beck, of Weehawken, who made his local debut as a flinger, was so cool and comfortless that Schlichter's Sluggers nearly froze to death at the plate. Thus: Plainfield, 4; Giants, 2.

Daub's leather-chasers were slightly affected by the drop in the mercury, but they restored their warning circulation in the seventh. They warmed up against some of Mistah Foster', s slants, and continued the cultivation of celeric along the alleys. When the inning ended they were in a warm glow that lasted for the rest of the game.

Manny had Slick's bunch of bumpsters wondering all the time, and four measley biffs was the best they could do with the problem. Be said at once: he has the goods. He displayed a sizzling assortment of curves and twists, fast foolers and slow curvelines. All under perfect control; he hit one man, but not a batsman was passed up.

Foster, the Giants' star boxman, held up his end with grace and aplomb for six anxious innings. Until the lucky seventh caressed onto the stage only one Plainfielder reached first base. That was Rube Oldring. Rube took it quite as a matter of course when he punched one of the Foster whizzers far into left field in the first inning, after Cosgrove had filed out. Rube reached third strictly on his merits, and Monroe, charmed by his debonair demeaner, courteously allowed the relay to glide through him and the light-haired disciple of grace carromed in. Connoly and Oregan died easy.

In the second McClellan started things for his piyamasers with a smash into left for two bases. He went on a peg when White filed out and landed at headquarters on Thompson's two-bagger. Thompson met death at second on Kiernan's quick handling of Bowman's grounder, Bowman roosting on first. Bowman was nailed by a peach threw from Pete Oregan in trying to stretch from second to third on Foster's single.

The luck of the seventh began with a quick delivery that buried itself in Oldring's appendicitis patch. He was the first man up and and the motions he put through promised game quickly to pass. Connolly made a quick bunt at the clods as Rube started for second. He missed his shot, but Thompson cowidn't connect with the ball and Rube went around to third. There was a howl from the whole brunette team because Marsity gave symptoms of calling the shots a ball, and the game became a bazzles for a few minutes. When hostilities were resumed Connolly slashed a two-lapper just to show that batting was not the only graceful art he cultivated, and Huber registered. Oregan rapped a prety race to right garden, shoving Connolly around a peg. He swiped second, and both of them bit the rubber on Leonard's smash, which came after Kiernan toddled. Driscoll's grounder to third developed into a double that killed him and Kiernan. Lamar plunked a cinch to White.

They had a great chance to lengthen the lead in the eighth with a pass and a single coming in quick succession right off the reel but stupid base running killed it. The Giants scored one in the ninth on Kiernan's fumble of Meers's grounder and Thompson's long single, but the Weehawken Wonder had them in check. Not even the storied Home-Run Johnson, who came in to punch out Bowman's key, could do better than hang one on Kiernan's trusty book.

The dry but interesting details:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R | H | PO | A | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cosgrove, cf | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 1 |
| Oldring, 3b | 2 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Oregan, lf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Kiernan, 1b | 0 | 0 | 5 | 1 | 2 |
| Leonard, 2b | 0 | 1 | 4 | 2 | 2 |
| Driscoll, lb | 0 | 0 | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Lamar, c | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Beck, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| | 4 | 5 | 27 | 11 | |

GIANTS.

| | R | H | PO | A | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Grant, 2b | 0 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 |
| Hill, lf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Monroe, ss | 0 | 0 | 2 | 3 | 0 |
| Moore, 3b | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| McClellan, cf | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| White, 1b | 0 | 0 | 17 | 0 | 0 |
| Thompson, c | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Bowman, rf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| *Johnson | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Foster, p | 0 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| | 2 | 4 | 24 | 13 | 1 |

*Batted for Bowman in the ninth.

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Plainfield | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0—4 |
| Giants | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1—2 |

HUNT CLUB'S BIG RACES

Held at the Driving Park With 1,500 People Present.

THE VARIOUS EVENTS

Several Riders Thrown in Hurdle Jumping, But No Serious Accidents—Officials at the Meet.

Viewed by 1,500 people from this city and other places, the first annual race meeting of the Watchung Hunt Club, at the Driving Park, Saturday afternoon, was one of the most successful affairs of its kind yet taking place locally. The entry list was good, the races clean cut and exciting and the sport was keenly enjoyed. There were seven events on the card, four steeplechase and three flat, the summary being as follows:

Farmers' race, for horses other than thoroughbreds working on farms and the bona fide property of farmers; purse $50—First, "Boy," Lester Tingley, Plainfield; second, "Baby," D. L. Darby, Fanwood; third, "Bailey," S. A. Sabecker, Rahway road; fourth, "Prince," F. A. Stover, Oak Tree.

Second race, for the Watchung cup, for hunters that have been hunted with the Watchung Hunt and to be ridden by members of that club, steeplechase over two miles; winner, "Red Light," H. A. Bourne, Westfield; all others disqualified for not going the course. In this race, Dr. M. O'M. Knott and W. Webster were thrown from their mounts but neither was hurt, although Webster had a very narrow escape.

Third race, hack or hunters, for three year olds or upwards, three quarters of a mile on the flat; purse $100—First, "Swamplands," Charles Pfizer, Gladstone; second, "Red Girl," W. deLa. R. Anderson, Plainfield; third, "Kildare," W. M. Deegan DePeyster, Gladstone. This was probably the most exciting race of the lot, "Swamplands" and "Red Girl" going a dead heat almost the entire distance and both the former only a few inches in the lead under the wire.

Fourth race, for the Middlesex cup, for thoroughbred hunters, two and a half miles over steeplechase course; first, "Orlick," Leonce Fuller, Gladstone; second, "Ninnette," Charles Pfizer, Gladstone; third, "Flick," Eads E. Schmidt, Morrisown; fourth, Rosebank," Louis Battjer, Elizabeth.

Fifth race, for the Hillside cup, for hunters four years old, two miles over steeplechase course; first, "Silent Bliss," Charles Pfizer Gladstone; second, "Wild Geranium," Earl Milliken, Orange; third, "Adjuster," Joseph VanSchaick, Westchester. "Adjuster" lead this race until the last stretch when his rider lost his balance and all but fell, causing the horse to drop behind.

Sixth race, the Netherwood cup, for ponies 14.3 or under, half mile on the flat; first, "Red Flash," L. T. Martin, Cedarhurst; second, "Simper," Singleton VanSchaick, Westchester; third, "The Flea," Rockaway syndicate; fourth, "Lady Bess," Charles D. Freeman, Rahway. Charles W. McCutchen's Arabian pony, "Mascoe" was a favorite but came in fifth.

Seventh race, the Oak Tree selling hurdle, for three year olds and upwards, one and a half miles; first, "Silver Twist," William H. Wildey, New York; second, "Sir Ellerslie," W. M. D. DePeyster, Gladstone; third, "Swamplands," Charles Pfizer, Gladstone; fourth, "Lorna Doone," Peter Hauck, Jr., Newark. Singleton VanSchaick, mounted on "Simper" was unfortunate in taking one of the hurdles and the horse fell on him. He was unable to rise from the track for a short time but afterward recovered sufficiently to walk unaided. He was examined by physicians who found him severely bruised but otherwise unhurt.

Following the races, the farmers over whose grounds the hunts of the Watchung Club have been conducted, were entertained at dinner served beneath the grandstand. It was largely attended and the guests were highly pleased with the treatment accorded them. There will be no further meet of the organization until September.

The officers of the club and the officials of the meet are as follows: Lewis S. Waring, president; Charles D. Freeman, vice president; Simeon A. Crutkshank, secretary; George M. Ring, treasurer; Dr. Middleton O'M. Knott, M. F. H.; George P. Mellick, steward; Harry A. Bourne, steward; stewards of the meeting, Charles J. Fisk, J. Wesley Johnson, George A. Beaton, Charles McCutcheon, Dr. E. VanD. Hedges, Franz DeLa. Hyde, J. W. Poole; executive committee, Paul Taylor Brown, chairman; C. E. S. Bellows, A. S. Fisk, R. A. Shebbeare, Dr. M. O'M. Knott; judges, M. A. Fairbairn, Bruce Littlefield, J. Taber Milliken; starter, F. M. Ware; clerk of the course, W. S. Bliss.

Day and Cochran Won.

The finals in sport's doubles, at tennis, on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, resulted in T. K. Day, Jr., and H. J. Cochran, defeating F. W. Goddard and Owen H. Fleming, 6—3, 6—0, 6—2.

PRIESTS HONOR FR. EGAN

Celebration of Quarter Century in Orders of the Church.

DIGNITARIES PRESENT

Solemn High Mass—Miss Anna Daly as Soloist—Gifts for Father Egan—Plainfielders There.

In the presence of about seventy priest and a congregation that filled the edifice, Rev. Father Andrew M. Egan, rector of St. Mary's Catholic church, Bayonne, and formerly of St. Mary's church, this city, celebrated Sunday the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination.

Among the visiting clergy were Vicar-Generals Sheppard, of Jersey City, and Fox, of Trenton; Mgrs. O'Grady, of New Brunswick, and Flynn, of Morristown, and Rt. Rev. John Stafford, president of Seton Hall College. Father Egan celebrated solemn high mass. Rev. James Delehanty, of this city, was deacon; Rev. Father William Miller, of North Plainfield, sub-deacon, and Rev. Father J. J. Preston, of Jersey City, master of ceremonies.

An eloquent sermon was delivered by the Rev. Father Cornelius Clifford, of Bloomfield. The mass was sung by the parochial school children, and Miss Anna Daly, of this city, sang "O, Salutaris" at the offertory. After the mass the rector entertained the visiting priests.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

through recent improvements under which gas is now manufactured, that the same can be furnished at the burner for eighty-five cents a thousand, leaving a fair profit for investment. Electric light is sold in many cities under private control at 25 cents a kilowatt and recent investigation in New York showed that it cost about 3.38 cents. In Jacksonville, Fla., under private ownership the price was 38 cents a kilowatt. reduced when it came into public ownership to seven cents a kilowatt, and arc lights were similary reduced. Plainfield pays 18 cents a kilowatt. Lawrence, Mass., 7½ cents. The saving from these sources must be plainly apparent to every common-sense householder.

"In public construction two instances come to my mind. Two great cities, one on the Mississippi and the other on the St. Louis bridge across the Missouri river, cost, respectively $13,000,000, owned by the Gould interests, rates are about as follows: Passengers on cars are charged 25 cents for crossing the same, foot passengers, five cents; one horse vehicle, 25 cents; two horse vehicle, 35 cents; bicyclists, ten cents. Note this is a privately owned bridge.

"In contrast I cite the Brooklyn Bridge, publicly owned, cost $15,000,000. Cost on cars, two tickets for five cents; foot passengers, free; one horse vehicle, five cents; two horse vehicle, ten cents; bicyclists free.

"In opposition to these thoughts it is claimed that these franchises which have been granted are vested rights. From whom did these so-called vested rights come? Who authorized the common councils to grant them? What rights had they to grant them? No power exists in this land to grant public property for private rights. We hold that these franchises were granted in the poor that need protection and help. The rich can take care of themselves. Private interests call such thoughts are socialism and tend to anarchy. It is horrid! Then stop your postoffice system which is run by the government and hence the public, also the public schools run by the public. Stop the flow of the sewer system built and controlled by the public. If these thoughts are dangerous, then Thomas Jefferson, who in 1803 signed a bill for a National road through Maryland, Virginia and Ohio, was a dangerous citizen. So too was Henry Clay when he advocated a National telegraph line and Andrew Jackson for setting his foot on the money monopoly."

Mr. Martine said, that in addition to the list President Roosevelt might be added as an advocate of Government control as he is an enthusiastic advocate of the irrigation measures passed by Congress looking to the irrigation of arid land of the West, wherein they are spending between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000 for the construction of the great Salt Lake Valley dams for the storing of water to irrigate these lands.

Previous to Mr. Martine's address, a vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. L. R. Howard and at the close refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. David Bowden, Mrs. Walter Haughler, Mrs. Henry Hoffman, Miss Annie Furier, Miss Jessie Chamberlain and Miss Lillian Duckworth. The gathering was conducted by a committee from the Young Men's Association composed of George E. Flintbeck, Thomas M. Mutz and J. Fred Wharton.

READY TO TAKE CENSUS

Supervisor Hanna Prepared to Put Enumerators at Work.

TO START JUNE 1

Headquarters to be in Lawyer Newcorn's Office—Provisions of the Law—List of Enumerators.

The census enumerators will begin their work on Thursday, June 1, and according to the provisions of the law it must be completed by Thursday, June 15. Thomas Hanna will have charge of the work in this city and the following have been appointed as enumerators for Plainfield:

First ward—David R. Donavan, Harry Smalley; Second ward—W. R. Townsend, Robert Guttridge; Third ward—John Nagle, Henry Pierce; Fourth ward—J. B. Martin, Abram Angleman and Jacob Erlney.

Mr. Hanna will establish his headquarters at the office of William Newcorn, Esq., on West Front street, and the enumerators will make their reports to him there. The census will show the number of persons in Plainfield on the first day of June, no matter if the names are taken on any other day up to June 15. If a birth or death occurs after June 1, it is not to be recorded on the enumerator's book.

According to law the enumerators are not permitted to tell the result of their work, under a penalty of a maximum fine of $500, in consequence the population of Plainfield on any other place will not be known until announced officially. An enumerator receives two cents for every name enrolled by him.

HURT AT CARNIVAL.

Mrs. James Blair, of Duer Street, Injured on Merry-Go-Round—Boys Attendant Was Drunk.

Mrs. James H. Blair, riding with her two children Saturday afternoon, was injured in a fall from the merry-go-round. A rib was fractured.

Mrs. Blair was standing at the side of one of the horses, near her child, just before the accident occured. She claims that one of the attendants, in attempting to pass around her, pushed her from the moving step. She alleges that he was under the influence of liquor. The attendant himself fell with her, and sprained his ankle severely.

Mrs. Blair was taken home in a hack summoned by Chairman Fisk, of the Carnival committee.

DIED.

GULON—After a brief illness, at his late residence, Plainfield, N. J., on Monday, May 15, 1905, Samuel Seabury Gulon, aged 72 years.

VALIANT—Suddenly, on Sunday, May 21, 1905, John Valiant, beloved husband of Mary E. Valiant, in his 52nd year.

NOTICE OF COPYRIGHT.—Renewal Class N. C. XXC. Nos. 62,076-86. Library of Congress. In it, recorded that on the 5th day of April, 1905, Mary Runyon Lowry, of Plainfield, New Jersey, has deposited in this office the titles of musical compositions by Robert Lowry, viz: "All the Days," "Another Year," "Beautiful Land Ever," "Come Unto Jesus," "Home at Last," "Watching on to Battle," "Jesus, Glory Jesus," "Looking Unto Jesus," "No Hope in Jesus" "Pass in Jesus," "The Lord will Provide," "Room for the Pentent," "At Last," "By the Sunside," "The Glad Morning," "Work and Pray," These in renewal for 28 for fourteen years from April 19, 1905. The right whereof she claims as proprietor in conformity with the laws of the United States respecting copyrights. Office of the Register of Copyrights, Washington, D. C. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress, by Thorvald Solberg, Register of Copyrights. 3 4 4

Wanted
Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided. The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited
P. O. Box 122, Dunellen, N. J.
Orders left at office of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tin ware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning,
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel upon large established business. Local work for others. Position permanent; extra commissions and expenses paid. Old established, solid financial house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Address home and future. Now, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Aves
Plainfield, N. J.

WOOD PLEADS GUILTY TO MURDER IN SECOND DEGREE; COURT SENTENCES HIM TO THIRTY YEARS IMPRISONMENT

Counsel for Defense Accepts Prosecution's Offer and Case is Abruptly Closed.

PRISONER IS UNMOVED

Swackhamer Pleads for Clemency—Clark Points Out Duty Law Owes to Society to Impose Severe Punishment.

Accepting a proposition made him by the county prosecutor, Counsellor Samuel S. Swacknamer in the Somerset County Court Friday allowed his client, George H. Wood, to retract his plea of not guilty to the murder of Grocer George Williams and in its stead substitute one of "guilty in the second degree."

Less than twenty minutes afterward it had been accepted by Justice Abram Q. Garretson, who pronounced sentence, giving the defendant the full penalty prescribed by law, thirty years at hard labor in the State prison, thus ending one of the most remarkable homicide trials that has ever come before the New Jersey bar.

Wood Unmoved.

The stolid, indifferent Wood gave no sign of emotion as the words fell upon his ears, but the brave, little wife who has been constantly at his side during the ordeal, sat as if stunned until kind hands removed her from the gaze of the gaping crowd that filled the room.

With her was their pretty, three-year-old child, who looked wonderingly about at the stern, gray-bearded judge, the stern lawyers and then at three-year-old Alice Williams, the daughter of the man her father murdered.

Wood kissed the wife and child and then with head erect and firm step, moved to the corridor and the cell from where he will next go to the penal institution at Trenton.

State Sees Its Weak Case.

The first hint that the prosecution would accept the plea of murder in the second degree came at the close of Thursday afternoon's session when the last of the evidence had been presented. To the mind of the laymen as well as those versed in legal affairs it could be seen that the State had failed to make out a vital point—that Wood had deliberately and wilfully taken the life of the Watchung merchant. Under these circumstances, the court in its charge, could not instruct the jurymen to bring in a verdict in the first degree and the overtures were made to the defendant counsel.

Wood and Wife Agree.

Mr. Swackhamer held a consultation with the prisoner and also with the family and they expressed the wish that it be accepted. The presentation of this plea, therefore, involved the abandonment of the strong defense which had been made for Wood, but the theory of those defending him was that, even though acquitted, his mental condition is such that he could not be permitted to go free.

A Sound Jury.

On the other hand, it was not thought that this was a case that could properly be submitted on its merits to a jury of matter-of-fact farmers, who would be apt to consider only the fact that Wood undoubtedly shot and killed George Williams, and disregard all the amazing testimony as to dual personality, sub-conscious influence, the "little black man" and adolescent insanity.

Spectators' Expectancy.

This was the state of affairs who court convened this morning. The great crowd of spectators knew that something was to happen as counsel on both sides, Judge Garretson and Judge Schenck, had remained in an ante-room in consultation from 9 o'clock until 9:30. As they took their accustomed places there was an audible murmur until Prosecutor Reger arose and addressed the bench. He spoke of a conference having been held and the said in part:

Prosecutor's Statement to Court.

"The evidence that has been gone over in this case has furnished no proof of premeditation or wilfullness that would warrant or justify a verdict in the first degree. Counsel for the defense declares the burden of insanity to have caused the prisoner to fire the fatal shot and accordingly in the absence of a motive, we ask that he be allowed to plead to murder in the second degree."

Mr. Swackhamer followed with a brief address to the court in which he declared that he and his associate counsels were convinced that Wood is not morally responsible for this act, yet that the defense of insanity had to be made out to the satisfaction of the jury.

Swackhamer Substitutes Plea.

"Wilfull murder has not been made out," said Mr. Swackhamer, "yet we don't want a man of his description let loose on the public. I have conferred with the prisoner and in the face of the testimony from thirty-two witnesses he has told me that he doesn't want to go home, but that he does want to go to State prison that some day his story may be proven true. Under these conditions we withdraw the original plea and enter one of guilty of murder in the second degree."

Wood Enters New Plea.

As he finished, Judge Garretson commanded the prisoner to stand up and he did so with a quick bound.

"Wood," said the court, "do you retract your plea of not guilty?"

"Yes, sir," came the response, with just a suspicion of a quaver.

"Very well, then, what is your plea?"

"I plead guilty to murder in the second degree."

Jury Is Excused.

As Wood resumed his seat, Judge Garretson spoke of having given the entire matter full consideration and that as deliberate murder had not been proven, it was proper to accept the plea. He then excused the jury from further duty and Mr. Reger moved for immediate judgment.

Court Refuses Delay.

To this Mr. Swackhamer responded by asking for time in which to give the change of plans fuller consideration but the court refused and instructed him to make whatever plea he had prepared.

Without further argument the tall counsellor arose and those who knew him best settled back in expectation of a long address. They were mistaken as his entreaty for clemency was brief and to the point. He reiterated his belief in Wood's irresponsibility and then said with an earnestness that held the rapt attention of his hearers:

Swackhamer Asks for Clemency.

"If anyone heard this man's story as I have heard it and would not believe him innocent, would believe that no one would rise from the dead. I ask the court for clemency, I plead with your honor to narrow the sentence to the smallest compass of justice. I believe if he is sent to State prison and watched, it will not be long before he will have to go to an asylum as proof that he was a maniac. It is hardly necessary for me to rehearse the convincing proofs before the court—the tell-tale evidence he left in Plainfield, throwing his card about everywhere, asking the distance to the grandmother's home that he had visited hundreds of times, offering a job to his father-in-law when his business was insolvent and he needed a receiver more than a bookkeeper, his not knowing Williams, the commitment of the act on a public road at high noon in full view of two houses, no malice or jealousy existing and then go directly to his home in New York, tell his family that he had been out in the country—and laugh idiotically as he informs her that her father had left the theatre because he was fired out—it isn't within human experience that a man in his rational mind would act in such a manner.

Wood Not a Brute, He Declares.

"This man with a wife and three children is not a brute. The wife told you on the stand how in their dire poverty George went without food that she and the babies might have it—would a man like that kill his brother? I knew the public must be protected and he agrees with me that he must not be at large. I sympathize with those bereaved but any sentence beyond that necessary, would work no good to the living or bring no joy to the dead."

Mr. Clark in his address declared the State had no desire to be vindictive, and looking with a compassionate eye at the bent-over, weeping figure of Mrs. Williams and her little daughter Alice, in front of him, he said:

Law Must Protect Society.

"The picture which the counsel has just drawn is pathetic but the picture before me is a sadder one. Society must be protected—if sympathy controlled us, we'd all feel sorry for Mrs. Wood, but it should not stop us from doing our duty. If Wood is insane and recovers his reason, there is a court of pardons; if a mistake has been made there is a method of relief, and I ask your honor to deal with the case as the law requires, bereft of all sympathy."

Court Pronounces Sentence.

Judge Garretson, with Judge Schenck, withdrew as Mr. Clark sat down, but returned almost immediately. Wood was told to stand up and with he and the court facing each other unflinchingly, the sentence was pronounced.

State Rests Its Case.

The State declared it rested at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and for the next five minutes the lawyers on both sides were in consultation as to the method of procedure. At its close Mr. Reger arose to make the preliminary summing up for the prosecution, doing so in a remarkably short space of time. He began by informing the jury that there were two facts that must be taken into consideration above all others: first, that George Williams was shot dead on a lonely road; second, that George H. Wood is the man whose hand and pistol directed the shot. Around these, he said, must be grouped all the other evidence.

"Wood was not insane," declared Prosecutor Reger. "He was devilish. Devilishness is not insanity.

Wood's Desperation.

"Wood left New York desperately hard up for money. He bought a revolver. He bought a hat and a sweater. Wood does not remember the things that happened on that ride when Williams received a bullet in his heart. Did you ever hear of such a case existing as a man whose acts are normal up to the time he commits a fiendish murder and whose acts afterward are all of a crafty game—a guilty man seeking to throw off pursuit and hide the evidence of the crime. The evidence seeking to prove the man is innocent is almost wholly based on his testimony that he does not remember the crime.

Insanity Defined.

"Why should he? A murderer's memory is likely to fail him under the circumstances. Insanity is a disease and not a temporary condition of the mind which can be put on as the defense would have you believe before the commission of the crime and shuffled off afterward. If the defendant by simply swearing that his mind was a blank during the commission of this crime, can escape punishment, what protection can the citizens of this county have against such creatures.

"There is no reason why Wood should remember any of the facts in connection with this crime—Williams' lips are sealed in death. But, do you think that a man who has been perfectly sane all his life and up to the time of the act, should be acquitted because he doesn't remember?"

Williams' Haunts Wood.

Here Mr. Reger's voice rose to a high pitch and pointing his finger at the stolid prisoner he exclaimed dramatically:

"I'll wager George Williams' limp figure will linger in that man's memory until his dying day. This story of forgetfulness is an impossibility and if he was capable of distinguishing between right and wrong, then he is guilty of murder.

"No feelings of sympathy for the wife of the defendant should sway your judgment, although the one entitled to sympathy is the lonely widow, who has sat so patiently during this trial, and her innocent child. The evidence alone is what you must take. The State insists that Wood wilfully killed George Williams and we ask a verdict of murder in the first degree."

Mrs. Williams Breaks Down.

Two dramatic incidents interrupted the prosecutor's address. Mrs. Williams, widow of the murdered merchant, broke down and wept convulsively.

Friends led her to an ante-room. While she was weeping in court Wood looked at her, seemingly one half interested and without any show of emotion.

Later the prisoner's devoted young wife broke down and sobbed with her head on his shoulder. Even this did not arouse any feeling in Wood. He hardly regarded her, but kept his wavering eyes on the prosecutor.

Wood Was Sane.

Previous to this address the State put on the last of the witnesses in the trial. They were George Deodlesechs, Eugene Wood, Ferdinand Linneris, George E. Whitten, Edward Marline, William Demler, C. C. Hood and August Mudier. They were examined briefly merely for the purpose of bringing out strongly the fact that Wood acted like a sane person during his stay at Blimm's hotel and his trips over the mountains on January 31 and February 1.

Mudier is the head of the Eagle Iron Works in New York, and when he testified, Mr. Clark again produced the letter than Wood had written to him on the day that his sub-conscious state is supposed to have started. He offered it as evidence on the previous occasions but it was ruled fout each time, yet the court allowed it to be entered Thursday after Mudier left the stand.

Remarkable Interest.

The remarkable aspect of this case as a physical mystery has attracted such wide attention that alienists form New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities have travelled all the way to Somerville to see the prisoner. In court, hundreds of eyes watch his every movement and to the young women of the town who slip past the constables at the doors he is an object of wondering sympathy.

Wolfe Is Found.

Persistent search for "Wolfe, the small, dark man," has resulted in the discovery that there is a Wolfe, John Wolfe, who is an iron worker, who was formerly associated with Wood.

Sheriff Totten went to New York three weeks ago and began a systematic search for Wolfe among Wood's friend. His investigation took him to Albert Bigelow, janitor and agent of several building in Hancock place, Brooklyn, and residing at No. 29, that street, who was formerly an ironworker and associ[illegible] Wood.

Bigelow readily rec[illegible] one Wolfe, a small, thin, much tanned individual, who at one time was associated in some manner with Wood in the iron construction business in Harlem. Bigelow and the Sheriff searched diligently for Wolfe, locating his former residence in Wyckoff street, Brooklyn, but being unable at that time to find him, Wolfe having moved.

A Real Mack?

It is theory of the sheriff and prosecutor that Wood selected Mack, the civil engineer, and Wolfe, the ironworker, most cunningly, feeling sure that they would not step forward and volunteer evidence, and being equally certain that they would not be found; being prepared, however, to fall back upon the pretence that his disordered brain had distorted real persons into fanciful creatures, if their identity should be established. It is believed that the New Jersey authorities have discovered the present residence of Wolfe, but that he declines to mix in the case.

Wolfe Described.

"I know a John Wolfe, an ironworker, very well indeed," said Mr. Bigelow Thursday. "He is a good, hardworking man. He is married, about thirty-two years old, and has two children. Altogether Wolfe is superior in every way to Wood. It is said that Wolfe is an enemy of Wood's, but this I can't believe. The only ill feeling between them grew out of Wolfe's objection to Wood's methods and his refusal to let Wood get the better of him. Wolfe would not do Wood, or any one else, an injury. That is the reason, I imagine, why Wolfe declined to go over to New Jersey and testify against the prisoner."

Did Swackhamer Err?

With the close of the Wood trial at Somerville today, the impression prevailed generally that it was a compromise without apparent gain to the defendant, as the evidence had led up to the almost certain fact that the court would direct against a verdict of first degree murder. The defense built up by Counsellor Swackhamer was little short of marvellous and he had much the better of the fight when the testimony was declared closed. If he had gone on and fought the case out, it is reasonable that Wood would have escaped with ten years for manslaughter or recognition of present insanity.

---

Lumber Yard Improvements.

Boice, Runyon & Co. has plans out for the erection of large and improved lumber sheds to be erected near the site of its West Second street entrance. The idea is to remove the better grade of lumber away from that part devoted to coal so that the coal dust cannot spoil the lumber. It is expected that the plans will be filed within a short time. In case the new building is erected, the old residence now standing near the entrance to the yards will be torn down.

---

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ethel V. Benson, of Duer street, to William Harding, of Grove street. The wedding will take place in June.

WEALTHY PEER TO WED.

Engagement of Marquis of Bute to Miss Augusta Bellingham Is Announced.

London.—The marquis of Bute, whose engagement to Miss Augusta Bellingham, an Irish beauty who boasts an unbroken descent from the days of the Conqueror, has just been announced, is Scotland's wealthiest peer. The fact that his choice did not fall upon a daughter of his native country made a sensation, especially as Lord Bute is passionately devoted to everything Scotch, even wearing the kilt himself on every possible occasion, and keeping an expert piper on the premises to soothe his ear with Scotch reels, strathspeys and lays.

MARQUIS OF BUTE.
(He Is Scotland's Wealthiest Peer and Is About to Be Married.)

Lord Bute is a descendant of the illegitimate son of King Robert II. of Scotland. He is a great coal baron, owning 117,000 acres of land, the town of Cardiff, the Isle of Bute, six country seats, a London residence, large tracts of land in Palestine, and a rental of $250,000 a year. He possesses 11 titles and a baronetcy.

The young marquis, while evincing none of the intellectual endowments of his father—the Lothair of Lord Beaconsfield's famous story—is a good linguist, speaking most modern languages, even Russian, passably well. For the rest, his tastes incline to sporting. He is fond of fishing and is a good shot. He has imported large numbers of birds for his preserves on the Isle of Bute. He has traveled much by land and sea, and once made a cruise to Iceland. Like his father, he is a devout Roman Catholic. He cares little for society. Mount Stuart is his principal seat in Scotland. It is an immense Gothic structure, standing on the coast, five miles from Rothesay.

On June 10 of the present year, the marquis will be 24 years old. When he succeeded to his father's titles in October, 1900, and on his coming of age in June, 1902, there were prolonged festivities in both Scotland and Wales.

Miss Bellingham is the daughter of an Irish baronet, Sir Henry Bellingham, of the county Loth, and about the same age as the marquis. She is a petite brunette of a vivacious temperament, with charming manners. She has no great accomplishments, no fads, and does not go in for anything in particular. Like her future lord she is a devout Roman Catholic. Her only sister, Miss Ida Bellingham, is a nun of the Order of the Holy Child.

HAND GRENADE MORTAR.

Ingenious Device Used with Success by Japanese in Assault on Port Arthur.

Tokio.—The cut shows an ingenious bamboo mortar employed by the Japanese for throwing hand grenades. This method of attack had not been much used in recent warfare until the siege of Port Arthur. Sometimes the grenades were thrown into the Russian trenches by hand, but when the distance was too great these small portable bamboo mortars proved most effective. In their efforts to reduce the stubborn defenders of the invested fortress to yield the Japanese made use of every agent of warfare that promised results, even though it was not modern. Hand grenades have not been in favor with military men for some time, but their successful employment by the Japanese will restore them to their former place.

MORTAR MADE OF BAMBOO.
(Used by Japanese in Shelling Defenses at Port Arthur.)

---

Announcing Births in Holland.

A birth is rather oddly announced in some parts of Holland. A silk pincushion is attached to the doorknob. If the cushion is red, the new arrival is a boy; if it is white, a little girl has come to town.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

George Hackenschmidt, known as the "Russian Lion," won the title of champion catch-as-catch-can wrestler the other night by defeating Tom Jenkins in two straight falls at Madison Square Garden in New York city. The Russian completely outclassed the American, and at no stage of the contest appeared at all in peril.

Hackenschmidt.

Once, early in the first bout, Jenkins, having assumed the aggressive, forced the foreigner into a head spin, but never after did Jenkins have as good as a look-in. It will take another Yousuff or Hali Adali to throw this powerful Russian. The two Turks named—one now dead, and the other out of the wrestling game—could probably have handled the Russian, though it is far from certain that either of them would have had easy game with him. Hackenschmidt combines the agility of a featherweight on his feet with the Herculean strength which is his. The muscles of his neck appear able to cope with the strangle hold and break it. His arms, right and left, are too powerful to fall prey to the hammerlock hold, and his underpinning is so firm as to withstand the most determined efforts at dislodging. Hackenschmidt, according to his admirers, is one of the finest, if not the finest, specimen of the all-around athlete and strong man, and is an inspiration for artists and poets, as the distribution of his muscles is most picturesque. Unlike men of his profession, he is not muscle-bound, as is shown by the fact that he can clear the bar at 5 feet 8 inches, which is his own height. He combines agility with his strength, and it has been this important factor that has won so many honors for him in the wrestling game. Besides being a great wrestler, Hackenschmidt is also a strong man, tumbler and all-around athlete. His great physique is admired by physical-culture and medical experts throughout the world, and he is thought to be the "perfect man" by many. He is 26 years of age, and weighs 210 pounds. Although he is a Russian, he comes from German stock, his relatives having been members of the German army for almost a generation. Hackenschmidt is said to be worth $100,000, and it is asserted that he follows the game for the sport there is in it, and not for the many easy dollars that fall to a man of his ability. In all his career as a wrestler, Hackenschmidt has never been thrown, not a single fall ever having been recorded against him. Among his notable victories is one over Ahmed Marrall, the Terrible Turk, who was the sultan's pride. He lasted less than one minute with Hackenschmidt, and was so badly beaten in that space of time that he was unable to continue.

---

Bowling fans of Chicago and Cincinnati recently had an opportunity to witness an interesting match between two prominent tenpin experts, Charley Mountain, of Chicago, and Phil Wolf, of St. Joseph, Mo. The match consisted of 30 games, half rolled in each city, and was for $500 a side and a purse of $1,000. In the first fifteen games, which were rolled at Chicago, Mountain scored 119 more pins than Wolf. In the fifteen games at Cincinnati Mountain increased his lead by 345 pins, winning the match by 464 pins. Mountain bowled a total of 5,970, his average in the thirty games being 199, while Wolf rolled 5,506, an average of 180 2-5. Mountain is a brother of the crack jockey of the same name.

C. Mountain.

Easily the bowling feature of the past season was the phenomenal performance of the Brooklyn team, champions of the National Interstate league, which averaged 1,123¾ recently. These figures were made in the second half of a series against Buffalo. On their home alleys the Bisons had won and lost two, and looked to be easy winners. Brooklyn, however, put up the most remarkable series in the history of the game. In the four afternoon games getting scores of 1,126, 1,112, 1,122 and 1,131. The last score is the highest ever made in competition in Brooklyn, and four successive scores of 1,100 never have been rolled before anywhere.

---

James J. Jeffries, champion heavyweight pugilist, declares he is about to retire from the prize ring and from the stage, and will go into business with his brother Jack, in California.

Joseph Forshaw, of St. Louis, won the first Marathon race of the Missouri Athletic club the other day. He covered the course from Freeburg, Ill., to the M. A. C. clubhouse, 25 miles, in 3:16:57 2-5, and finished in fine form. Hatch of Chicago was second, and Felix Carvajal, the Cuban, third.

Charles G. Wridgway, of New York, covered 1,000 miles over the Brighton Beach race track in 25 hours, 50 minutes and 1 second recently, in an automobile. This beats the record made by Schmidt near Detroit last year b[illegible] hours, 3 minutes and 56 seconds [illegible] ing the night the track was [illegible] luminated with calcium lights, an[illegible] Wridgway reduced the speed [illegible] machine, to avoid possible [illegible] but after daylight he went [illegible] ing speed, only slowly [illegible] ally to refill the gasoline tanks.

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS

Vets to Hold Exercises in Reform Hall in the Afternoon.

PARADE ARRANGED

Co. K to Take Part—Chorus of Children at the Memorial Services.

The members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., have practically completed most of the details for the observance of Decoration Day.

It has been decided to hold the exercises in Reform Hall in the afternoon of May 30, and the Raritan Brass Band has been engaged to furnish the music. Mr. Berg, as chairman of the music committee, has also arranged a programme of vocal music. The name of the speaker for the day has not yet been announced, but a prominent man will be secured.

During the early morning hours the graves of the departed soldiers in the local cemeteries as well as those at Scotch Plains, Westfield, Dunellen, New Market, South Plainfield, will be decorated with flowers by numerous details from the Post. Later in the morning the veterans and Co. K will assemble for the customary short parade in the city and borough. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the veterans will reassemble and proceed to Reform Hall for the usual exercises.

There will be a large chorus of children to sing patriotic songs, the members of the Women's Relief Corps being in charge of the training of these children for this part of the programme. After the exercises the children will be entertained, according to previous custom, and refreshments will be served. I. L. McVey, as commander of the Post, has full charge of the programme for the day and will be assisted by other veterans.

R. R. TICKET TRAFFIC IS SUSPENDED HERE

LOCAL DEALERS GET NOTICE AND ABANDON CUT-RATE BUSINESS.

Not for some time at least is the Jersey Central likely to be troubled by those who have taken advantage of its monthly commutation tickets to reap revenue here. A little heart-to-heart talk with one of the road's representatives Thursday, it is said, has convinced the leaders in the illegal business that they prefer not to run chances of being prosecuted.

Rather than pay $1.00 for an excursion ticket to New York, some have made a practise of hiring commutation tickets from the self-appointed dealers for one-half the regular round trip fare. These dealers earn $7.20 a month on each commutation ticket and a few have done a land office business, although the traffic was practically done away with three years ago when a general raid was made by the road's representatives. "One dollar is pretty steep but they'll have to pay it hereafter," was the remark of one of the dealers Thursday after he had been seen by a Jersey Central man.

---

Will Entertain Women.

To mark the close of their club season the members of the Congregational Men's Club will entertain their women friends on June 6, when the final meeting before the summer suspension will be held. A programme of entertainment will be presented. Impersonations and orchestral music are among the features already arranged.

---

Raised Money for Memorial.

Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. John Manley, Mrs. Sarah Mattox, Mrs. F. W. Wensel and Mrs. M. C. Dobbins comprise the committee from the Women's Relief Corps which raised the money for the large urn which is to be placed in the soldier's plot at Hillside cemetery on Decoration Day.

---

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Darby, of Fanwood, announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to G. W. Frederick, of Newark. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents in Fanwood on Thursday, June 1, 1905.

---

Silk Flags for School.

The pupils of the Irving School have contributed money enough, each giving a small amount, to purchase two beautiful silk American flags. They are placed in front of the Assembly Hall of the building about the statue of William McKinley. The flags were purchased from Woodhull & Martin's, and are greatly admired.

---

In Justice Hand's Court.

The contract case of Jacob Fass against Sidney Smith, of Westfield, in Justice Hand's court, has been adjourned for a week. H. C. Runyon and William Newcorn are the opposing counsel.

MURDERER'S PLEA PRE-SUPPOSED SANITY

But Wood Stuck to His Story After Being Sentenced.

TO PRISON MONDAY

Prisoner May Only Have to Serve Twenty Years — Lawyer George W. Bird's Statement.

The termination of the George H. Wood murder trial as Somerville, Friday, is said by New Jersey lawyers to be unprecedented in criminal jurisprudence in this country. The process by which the result was reached presupposed the admission by Court, prosecution and defense that the prisoner was insane, and that Henry Wolfe, the Mr. Hyde of Wood's dual personality, impelled him to do murder. Yet by accepting Wood's plea, all parties to the remarkable trial admitted his statement that he was sane, because the plea of a insane man is not accepted by the courts. Only by blazing these new trails into the legal highway could full justice to Wood be insured.

Wood himself said the word which insured the success of the proceedings. His conviction that Henry Wolfe, and Mack, and "the little black man," actually exist was unshaken. He still believes that Henry Wolfe killed George Williams on Mount Horeb on February 2. He denounces the cowardice of Henry Wolfe in not "coming forward like a man" and admitting the crime. But that degree of insanity which is spared him led him to plead guilty for the sake of his wife and three little children.

Mrs. E. L. Pollock, of New York, who married an uncle of Wood, reached the jail after sentence was imposed, taking with her Wood's four-year-old girl. She was weeping when she drew Wood aside from his grandmother and his wife, and said, pointing her finger at his face:

"Now, George, all is over and I want you to tell me the truth. Did you kill George Williams?"

"As I live," he replied, "I have no memory of that week. Oh, I wish I knew all that happened. The testimony that I was near where he was killed stunned me, but so many have said so that I am convinced it is true, but I don't know how I could have been there. I don't remember at all."

Mrs. George Williams, widow of the slain man, wept during the court proceedings yesterday. Her flaxen haired daughter approached her and gently pulled her arm, saying, "Are you crying, mamma?" Mrs. Williams has said repeatedly during the trial that she believed Wood was perfectly sane and that he should be convicted and hanged.

Mrs. Wood, in her deepest misery, had a word of sympathy for the widow. While her eyes were still streaming she said, "I can't help being miserable as I am, losing my husband, but I am awfully sorry for Mrs. Williams, as she, poor woman, can never see her husband again, whereas I may. I am satisfied with the result, as I did not wish to have the case go to the jury. The jurors did not look kind; they were not educated men, like those who have been kind to me, but farmers. What do they know about a queer disease like that afflicting George? I know that he is insane, and he realizes it, too. He told me that if he got out he would not return to live with me, for fear that in sudden insanity he might kill me."

Mrs. Wood, who has three children, is working in a New York cracker factory for $4.50 a week. She had to quit work this week, on account of the trial, but she expects to resume on Monday. She has received a little aid from the Central Baptist church, of which she is a member.

One unusual feature of the case was that while the defense depended wholly upon expert evidence, there was no money to be spent to save the accused. Mr. Swackhamer, who was assigned as counsel, may receive an allowance from the court, but there is little probability that a New Jersey court it will allow him as much as he necessarily had to spend.

The alienists who went forward did so wholly for the purpose of trying to save a man whom they believed to be insane and with no possibility of getting any fees. Dr. William Steinach, P. M. Wise and George M. Parker, of New York, attended the court sessions day after day merely to protect a man whom they deemed unable to discriminate between right and wrong.

Wood will be taken to Trenton Prison on Monday. His sentence will be reduced by commutation to about 20 years and 2 months. It is the present plan of his counsel to have Wood examined later by a commission in lunacy, and the Board of Pardons will be asked to act.

In an interview this morning, in reference to the Wood case, George W. Bird, junior counsel for the prisoner, made the following statement:

"We are all highly pleased with the result, as we could have done no better if we had secured an acquittal on the ground of insanity, as Wood should be taken care of in any event.

"When first called into the case we took the precaution to have Dr. Charles B. Lafburrow, Plainfield's city physician, to accompany us to the city prison in New York and there thoroughly examine Wood, mentally and physically, to see if there was anything in his condition that might explain his actions. After a careful examination, Dr. Lafburrow pronounced Wood's case one of insanity, but of an unusual type. After Dr. Lafburrow's opinion was given us, we knew we had a most novel and unique defense to establish in order to save Wood from the gallows, and at once started to build up a defense along the lines shown at the trial. In this we were most fortunate in having the evidence of Theodore Murray, a New York reporter, who took Wood to Dr. Ball and also the evidence of Dr. Ball, given as a consequence of his eximation of Wood, February 3, the day after the shooting. His evidence was of vital importance.

"The alienists, Doctors Steinach, Wilgus, Parker and Wise, who assisted us were men of eminence, integrity and remarkable ability, and they proved to us that we had made no mistake in the theory we had adopted for our defense. Dr. Wise, alone, having had over fifty thousand insane patients under his personal supervision during his thirty-five years of practice.

"From the beginning we were convinced that the State could prove no motive, as the men were total strangers and no robbery committed, as appeared from the evidence adduced at the coroner's inquest.

"At the trial we had our case well in hand and when the offer to plead to murder in the second degree was made to us by the State, we told the Prosecutor that we would submit the question to our client and his family, which was done in the evening and they were given until morning to consider it. Wood still protested his innocence and his utter inability to recall anything during the week in which the tragedy occurred, although he had heard the testimony of all the witnesses, including his grandmother, in whom he has implicit confidence. With tears in his eyes he stated to us that he would leave to his wife to determine whether he should swing from the gallows or make the plea offered and suffer the penalty. It was explained to him that such a plea would not be confessing that he was morally guilty but only a form which would satisfy the law."

The Episcopal Convention.

Some of the Episcopalian brethren of the New Jersey diocese seem to have the curious notion that a ticket prepared by one faction in the diocese should receive the votes of the members of the convention without question, and that no new candidates should be considered. In politics, that would be called "machine" or "ring" rule. At the convention at Plainfield on Wednesday, there were nominated for places on one of the committees four clerical candidates who had served for a number of years. The younger element thought there should be a change, and voted ballots that contained the names of two clerial candidates of their choice, one of whom was the Rev. Hamilton Schuyler, of this city. A point of order was raised as to the regularity of the anti-machine ballot, and there were some very foolish statements made, which were withdrawn, however, when it was found that the "organization" ticket had won. One of the representatives of the antis stated the case quite aptly when he said: "It's a pity if there are only four men in this diocese who can do this work." The only way to secure new blood on the committee, is to put up a fight. Next year there may be a different result.—Trenton Times.

Honor for Hervey Doane, Jr.

The annual review of the cadet corps of Rutgers College Thursday, was witnessed by Chief and Mrs. T. O. Doane, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hervey Doane, Miss May Doane, Clyde Doane, Miss Ostrom, Miss Moore, Miss Bessie Pound, Thaddeus Doane, Jr., Miss Coriell, the Misses Randal, Miss Marjorie Collins, of this city. Special interest was attached to the event by reason of the fact that Hervey Doane, son of Chief and Mrs. T. O. Doane, was elected Captain of Co. A, of the battalion.

Sues for Commissions.

J. M. Schorb, Jr., has sued J. J. Reidelof, a hardware merchant, for commission on the sale of the stock of his Somerset street store. The case will be heard before Justice Hand next Saturday. H. C. Runyon will appear for the plaintiff and William Newcorn for the defendant.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Carrie M. Kellogg and John G. McLaughlin, both of the borough.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

May 28: "Missions Among Latin Peoples"—I Tim. ii, 8; Heb. x, 19-22.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

The story of our missions to these lands is one of absorbing interest. Some of our leagues are making a study of this work in the form of a tour, visiting each one in turn, as would be done if one was to make a trip to them.

So much material is available at the present time that this can be worked up by almost any chapter and be a means of interesting the members almost more than any other work that is possible.

It is well to begin with Mexico, as she is our "next door neighbor." If a stereopticon can be used it will be pleasant to take a steamer for Vera Cruz from New York. From the gulf port the trip is continued over the really remarkable railway to the capital city of Mexico. From here side excursions are made to the different points of our mission work. The history of the country should be briefly reviewed. More particular attention can be given the story of the founding of the mission of our church by Dr. William Butler and its subsequent development up to the present time. Pictures will make this most interesting and can easily be had by a little care and calculation.

It would be advisable to next take a glance at our work in Porto Rico. The account of the manner in which we acquired the island can be told, and all the needed material for the history of our church work can be had from the mission rooms or from the league headquarters.

Glance at the Panama canal and show its effect on our work in opening up the western coast of South America. A study of magazine literature for the past two or three years will reveal a wealth of material to assist in this work that will astonish any one who has not kept in close touch with it.

The beginning of our work on the west coast of South America was due to the personal efforts of William Taylor, afterward missionary bishop of Africa. He opened school work in Chile on the idea of a self supporting basis. Considerable progress was made under his management. All is now under the control of the Missionary society and is superintended by our bishops, who visit it in turn, so that it has annually the personal supervision needed to keep the whole church in touch with it.

Over the Andes passes the route of travel which we take, and before long it will be possible to make the trip wholly by rail. The railroad has been built from east and west and needs but the connecting link over the mountains to join the two sides of the continent.

Our mission to Buenos Ayres was among the first founded by our church. For many years it grew but slowly. In recent times it has assumed larger proportions and is in a healthy condition now.

Closely connected with this is the work in the capital of Uruguay, Montevideo. Great popular misunderstanding exists regarding the condition of affairs in that part of the world. Our absorption in our own affairs has been so great that we have not realized that a great people of a different type of civilization was growing up in the southern continent. Here are large cities and immense trade and progress only inferior to our own phenomenal advancement. It is a new world that is there emerging, and it is a great world. We would do well to learn more of its conditions and our religious connections with it. Our church literature in the histories of missions and the magazine articles will give all that will be needed to make a fine presentation of this subject.

Our work in Brazil is smaller, but will repay study. The story of that land ought to be better known to us than it is. This is a good opportunity to look it up more fully.

Across the sea, and we take a view of the Italian work. Rome is the center of activity. This was long a debatable ground, and much occurred in the early years to retard the progress. Now there seems to be a clear course. Dr. William Burt was the providential man for the place, and under his skillful management prosperity was secured. His ability so signally shown in this work led to his election as bishop at the last general conference, and he returns to Europe with an enlarged field and increased powers to carry forward the work in which he has so long and so well builded.

There is scarcely any limit to the material which can be had for the representation of this work in Italy. It is a good plan to connect it with the founding of the church in the great center of the Roman empire in the days of Paul. It would be also a good thing to hunt up the history of the early Christian community to which that matchless Epistle of Paul to the Romans was written and see how now there is need in the same city to have those who are not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Destroying Hope.

Hope, then, essentially is an element of man's spiritual life. It is a function of health. It has to do with the health of the body. But as man grows on the side of his manhood hope has its deeper roots in the moral life. It feeds on the infinite. Cut the infinite out of man's life, shut away the sky, mark a border to the possibilities of the universe, and you would kill hope.—Christian Register.

Heaven Will Show Us.

When faith and hope fail, as they do sometimes, we must try charity, which is love in action. We must speculate no more on our duty, but simply do it. When we have done it, however blindly, perhaps heaven will show us why.—Dinah Mulock Craik.

WOMAN'S WILD MIDNIGHT RIDE

AN EVENTFUL TRIP THROUGH STORM TO CATCH TRAIN.

IS ASSISTED BY RANCHERS

Successive Relays of Horses Enable Wife of Wyoming Lawmaker to Reach Bedside of Her Sick Husband.

Denver.—Mrs. A. H. Allen recently reached the bedside of her husband, Representative Allen, of Wyoming, whose life for a time was in the balance. After a ride that Mrs. Allen will never forget, for it was through fierce storms, and the winds of bleaks, barren, windswept Wyoming—an all-night drive through the mountains, every ranchman along the route of 65 miles from Baggs to Rawlins aiding in the effort to catch the morning train on the Union Pacific to whirl her half way across two states to the bedside of her husband, whose life was in danger in St. Joseph's hospital.

Mrs. Allen said: "I received word that Mr. Allen was very ill after the operation for appendicitis. I had been receiving bulletins over the telephone from Rawlins. That is 67 miles from Baggs, and there is no stage out of the place on Mondays. It runs every other day in the week. About two o'clock Sunday afternoon I was informed that I had better come to Denver at once. Dr. McGee, of Rawlins, had sent Mr. Allen on here and had advised an operation. I was naturally fearful about that and knew I must get here in time for the operation. There was a train out of Rawlins Monday morning at eight o'clock and I decided to get it.

"I mapped out a sort of Sheridan's ride programme. We are well known to the ranchmen all along the line. I got busy with the telephone at once, and had a dozen fresh horses waiting for me at intervals of from 20 to 25 miles between Baggs and Rawlins.

"THEY CARRIED US SAILING THROUGH THE MUD."

Then I had the liveryman give me a driver and two of the best horses, and I started. The roads were in bad condition from the rains.

"The first stop for change of horses was at Muddy bridge, 22 miles away. We got in there about nine o'clock at night, changed the relays on the fly, and were off without a break. Then the roads began to get worse, and wheels sank to the hubs. It was tough on the broncos, but they were game—they must have felt how important it was to go right on through it all, because they pulled their little hearts out for me.

"At Sulphur a friend, Mr. Davis, had a pair of fresh horses for us. They had not been worked in a month. They carried us sailing through the mud. About two o'clock in the morning we ran into a blizzard. It was blinding. We could not see two feet in front of us. Another of the ranchmen who had been watching for us along the route, after changing horses again, went ahead of us with a lantern to look out for pitfalls in the mud and warn us against slides.

"When we got within 16 miles of Rawlins another relay which had been sent out to meet us was encountered. We could not swap teams in the mud so we went right on.

"When we were within a mile of Rawlins I heard the whistle of the approaching train. We urged our horses on and came up to the station at a fearful pace. I had been cramped for more than 12 hours, and was lifted into the train. The train was on the move as I stepped on the first step. Then I breathed a sigh of relief.

Seashell Bath the Latest.

Newport.—A seashell bath is the latest innovation in household luxuries that Mrs. John R. Drexel is introducing in her Ochre Point home. Always original and noted for it when she was Miss Alice Troth, of Philadelphia, Mrs. Drexel conceived the idea, which she terms as a happy medium between the lavish silver baths and the prosaic tile. It was while she was on a trip in her steam yacht the Sultana to the Bahamas recently that she made a collection of shells, exceeding in diversity and beauty anything ever obtained on the islands. These shells she will now turn to use in constructing the novel bath. Stripped of their outer layers and clipped to flatness, the shells are being cemented edge to edge with a waterproof compound resembling white coral, as a lining of the bath. A transparent glass will cover them, and salt water, piped from the ocean, will sparkle with the luster of the sea's own jewels.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 28.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Missions in Roman Catholic countries.—Ps. lxvii, 1-7.

Christianity was introduced into many countries of the world by the Roman Catholic church, and in many nations of the world the only conception of Christianity which the people have is that which they have received from the teachers of the Catholic church, and in many instances when Protestant missionaries enter into these fields they find "the people living in darkness, degradation and sin." In such countries as South America and Mexico conditions of ignorance and of superstition exist, and many of the inhabitants of the islands of the sea need the simple gospel of salvation through faith in Jesus Christ.

These being the conditions, there certainly rests a duty upon those who believe in the pure and simple gospel as a means of dispelling the darkness of ignorance and of superstition to do all in their power to spread the light of this gospel abroad. The people that sit in darkness need the light, and God has promised that they shall see it, and this promise is to be fulfilled by the work of his people. Christ is the light, and if all nations are to be saved those who know Christ must give that knowledge to the whole world.

Knowledge is the principal need in Roman Catholic countries today. The Catholic church has never stood for the education of the masses. The Bible has been a closed book to the people, and very often those who have been their instructors in religious things have been in gross ignorance concerning spiritual truth. They need the truth, and the truth will make them free—free from ignorance, from error, from superstition and from sin. All that thousands of those who are in ignorance today need is knowledge of the truth, and they stand ready to do the truth. Many do not live up to their light; but, on the other hand, there are millions of people who would gladly live up to it if they only had it. It is our duty to give Christ and the Bible to them.

Shall we whose souls are lighted
With wisdom from on high,
Shall we to men benighted
The lamp of life deny?
Salvation, oh, salvation!
The joyful sound proclaim
Till earth's remotest nation
Has learned Messiah's name.

Prayer should be made most prominent in this phase of mission work. The psalmist prayed, "God be merciful to us and bless us and cause His face to shine upon us, that Thy way may be known upon earth and Thy saving health among all nations." Let us earnestly pray that God will bless us and that we may become a blessing to others, especially in spreading the knowledge of Him and of salvation through His Son Jesus Christ unto the world.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. ii, 8; iv, 6; lxxii, 17-19; cxix, 105; cxxii, 6; Dan. xii, 3; Acts xiii, 44-48; Rom. x, 14, 15; I Tim. ii, 1; Rev. xxii, 17.

A Worldwide Fellowship.

The following is a list of countries represented in the worldwide fellowship of Christian Endeavor. In each of these the society has a firm footing and is doing a successful work: Australia, Austria, Barbados, Belgium, Bermudas, Brazil, British Guiana, Bulgaria, Burma, Canada, Caroline islands, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Egypt, Ellice islands, Finland, Formosa, France, Germany, Gibraltar, Gilbert islands, Great Britain, Ireland, Grenada (West Indies), Guatemala, Hawaiian Islands, Holland, Hungary, India, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Korea, Labrador, Laos, Lapland, Loyalty islands, Madagascar, Madeira islands, Marshall islands, Mauritius, Mexico, Norway, New Zealand, Palestine, Panama, Philippine Islands, Persia, Porto Rico, Portugal, Russia, Samao, Siam, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Syria, Tasmania, Tokelau islands, Trinidad, Turkey, United States.

Going, Not Standing.

We have been long enough considering what Christian Endeavor stands for. Let us now give more attention to what Christian Endeavor goes for.—Rev. J. D. Lamont.

In Paragraphs.

The American board mission in Fukien, China, has seventy-six Christian Endeavor societies, and the Anglican mission has forty-eight. Christian Endeavor is rapidly approving itself to all the missionaries in the Flowery Kingdom.

Spain now has Christian Endeavor societies in almost every Protestant place—forty-seven in all. There are more Junior societies (twenty) than Young People's (nineteen), but there is one senior society, and there are seven mothers' societies of Christian Endeavor. In the last point Spain leads the world.

Arriving in a Maine town with the thermometer 16 degrees below zero, Field Secretary Crane found the church cold and dark, the date of his coming having been misunderstood. Going into the grocery store to thaw out and "finding as many men gathered about the stove as perhaps we should have had if the church service had been held," he sowed the gospel seed then and there.

The First Presbyterian Juniors of Birmingham, Ala., have increased 425 per cent since last May. Other societies in the union have made gains almost as large, and the lowest gain was 25 per cent.

One of the items in a recent budget of the Japanese Christian Endeavor union is for "newspapers sent to Christian Endeavor soldiers, yen .31."

PLAINFIELDERS HONORED BY EXEMPT FIREMEN

LITTELL, PRESIDENT, AND NASH AND DOANE ON IMPORTANT COMMITTEES.

In addition to the election of Daniel W. Littell as president of the organization, the New Jersey Exempt Firemen's Association, in session at Trenton Thursday, honored two other Plainfielders.

Justice V. W. Nash was appointed chairman of the legislative committee and Chief T. O. Doane was placed at the head of the important finance committee. Justice Nash was also made chairman of a committee to draft a measure to be presented to the next session of the Legislature by means of which the old volunteer firemen of the State will receive some compensation from the State for the services rendered in the days of the volunteer department.

The next convention will be held at Nutley.

BOOK NEWS.

Public Library Notes.

List of Books added to the Library during April, 1905.

- American Chemical Society. Journal, 1879-'96, vs. 1-18.
- American Chemical Society. Proceedings, 1777-'78, vs. 1-2.
- American institute of electrical engineers, transactions, v 22, 1903.
- Annual literary index, 1904.
- Baker, M. N., Municipal engineer, etc.
- Balzac. H. de, Modeste Mignon.
- Bible, translated into German by Martin Luther.
- Coppee, F., Contes rapides.
- Croizer, W. and Henderson. P., How the farm pays.
- Dobson, E., ed., Designing, measuring, etc.
- Dumas, A., Les trois mousquetaires, 2v.
- Eddy, Mrs. M. B. G., Science and health.
- Evans, C., American bibliography, v 2.
- Freytag, C., Soll und haben, 2v.
- Goedeke, K., Goethe's leben.
- Hackländer, F. W., Handel und Wandel.
- Halevy L. and Meilhac, H., Froufrou.
- Haupt, H., Bridge construction.
- Hough, R. B., American woods, v 10.
- Hugo, V. M., Travailleurs de la mer.
- Hugo, V., Ruy Blas.
- Jordan, W., Nibelunge.
- King, M., Notable New Yorkers.
- Le Rouchfoucauld, Maximes.
- London, Jack. People of the abyss.
- Lummis, C. F., Awakening of a nation.
- Luther, Martin, Hymns.
- Masury, J. W., How shall we paint our houses?
- Moliere, J. P. B., Oeuvres complete, 8 v.
- Montaigne, M. E. de., Essais, 2 v.
- New Jersey, Commissioner of Public Roads. 11th annual report.
- New York State Reservation at Niagara. 11th annual report.
- Newark, New Jersey, Message of the Mayor, 1880.
- Pleasanton, A. J., et al, Influence of the blue ray of the sunlight.
- Racine, de J., Theatre.
- Randolph, L. V. F., Survivals.
- Simrock, K. Translation of the Nibelungenlied.
- Spielhagen, Hammer und amboss.
- Sutherland, Harvey, Book of bugs.
- U. S., 12th Census, Mines and quarries.
- U. S. Naval observatory, Interoceanic canals and railroads.
- Verlaine, P., Choix de poesies.
- Zola, E., LeReve.
- Wagner, C, Jeunesse.

S. S. GUION BURIED.

Funeral Services Held at Grace Church Friday Morning.

The funeral services of Samuel Seabury Guion were held Friday morning at Grace church. Rev. E. V. Stevenson was assisted by Rev. S. P. Simpson, former rector of St. Stephen's church.

The pall bearers included Dr. O. L. Jenkins, W. P. Smith, Mr. Wheelin, A. J. Beal and Mr. Perry. The remains were placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery.

At a meeting in the office of the Assistant Appraiser of the Ninth Division, Appraiser's office, at the Port of New York, yesterday, to take action upon the death of Examiner Samuel Seabury Guion, a resolution was adopted, and a committee representing the division was appointed to attend the funeral this morning, accompanied by Deputy Appraiser George W. Wanamaker and Private Secretary Henry M. Clapp.

The committee consisted by Assistant Appraiser H. T. Andrews, Examiner G. W. Thumm, Examiner D. M. Robinson, Examiner George S. Bruen, Examiner W. J. Jones. Action was also taken in regard to a suitable floral offering. An appropriate floral remembrance was sent by the Brokers' Association.

Beer must be bought of a reliable dealer to get it right. Order it of A. Behren, Greenbrook road. He sells the best.

Fruits of all kinds, and whenever they are to be obtained in this market, at Alex. Lusardi's store, West Front street.

When you need a spring tonic go to Dudley Miller's pharmacy on Park avenue. He has the best and the price is reasonable.

Suits made, pressed, cleaned or altered by H. Solomon. Made, pressed, cleaned or altered right—that is the important point.

Good, old Southern cookery at the Southern Restaurant, Madison avenue. It makes you think of ante-bellum hospitality.

BREAK GROUND FOR HALL

Salvationists Ready to Build and Squatter Loses Home.

JIM'S MANSION

Donahue's Shack Removed to Make Way for Improvement—Firemen As Cellar Diggers.

Ground was broken May 17, for the new Salvation Army hall on East Second street, next to Fire Headquarters. The first shovelsful of earth were taken from within the stakes by Driver Frank Hart, of Hose Company No. 2, and Driver Edward Vail, of the hook and ladder. The rest of the firemen cheered as the earth-laden shovels came out of the soil.

The firemen have, in a way, taken the prospective building under their protection. Hart, Joe Clark, Bill Yaeger, Bill Hess and Vail did volunteer service in cellar digging during the afternoon.

The building will be of light-colored brick, two stories high in front and one story in back. Work on it will be pushed rapidly, and Ensign Magee will probably be holding services in the new home before the end of July.

The beginning of the new building makes old Jim Donohue, the only squatter in Plainfield, homeless. Jim's ancient and patched little shack, which stood on the lot, belonged to J. T. Vail, who sold the lot to the Army, and it went with the ground. Jim got notice to move.

Jim was allowed to leave the home a week ago and returned joyfully to his shack.

It is probably the smallest home in the city — nobody knows of any smaller. There was just enough floor space to enable Jim to make a bed of horse blankets. Besides the bedding the shack contained some coats—Jim didn't have very many changes of raiment—a cheap dress suit case, and a few digging tools with which he did odd jobs for people with bigger houses and backyards.

The order to move away Wednesday upset Jim considerably. He tried unavailingly to get the contractor to move the shack to a lot a few doors down the street.

LADDIES' QUICK ACTION PREVENT A BIG LOSS

BARN ABLAZE, BUT FIREMEN STOP FLAMES SPREADING.

Fire partially destroyed Henry Bodenheimer's barn at 251 Somerset street, about 7:45 May 17, causing a loss of nearly $300. In response to a telephone call the borough fire department reached the scene quickly and performed great work in saving three other barns very close to the burning structure. Chief Woolston ordered out the hose wagon and two lines of hose were used from the hydrant near Mountain avenue and Somerset street.

While the firemen were finishing their work, a trolley car came along, ran over a line of hose, cutting it in pieces and shutting off the stream. The motorman, it is said, claims that he did not see the hose. Chief Woolston ordered the motorman and conductor arrested and they were told to appear tonight before Recorder Dead for a hearing.

The origin of the blaze is a mystery. Mr. Bodenheimer says that it evidently started in one corner near a pile of manure. He was in the barn not a great while before the flames were discovered. There was practically nothing in the barn, but the owner estimates the damage to the building will be about $300. It is partially insured. One barn seriously threatened was that of George Winans, containing his automobile. Through good work on the part of the firemen this and the other barns were scarcely scorched.

MILITARY WEDDING.

Miss Waring, of Park Avenue, to Marry Army Officer on June 14.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Florence Waring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, and Captain Chauncey Humphrey, U. S. A., of West Point.

The wedding, which will be a military one, will be celebrated on Wednesday afternoon, June 14, at 4 o'clock, at Grace church, and it will be a brilliant society event.

Dunellen Girl Marries.

Miss Charlotte A. Ryno, of Dunellen, was married May 17, to Robert J. Tappen, of Highland Park, Rev. H. N. Jordan, pastor of the New Market Seventh-Day Baptist church, officiating, at the home of H. B. Ryno in Dunellen.

Miss Tappen Engaged.

Miss Bessie Tappen, of New Market, will be married to Fred Boice, of Dunellen, May 31. The ceremony will be performed at the bride's home.

CHURCH A LIGHTHOUSE

So Says Bishop Vincent to Local Methodists.

AT THE FIRST M. E.

Overflowing Congregation Listens to Eloquent Prelate of Methodism—Tells of Future Church.

Bishop John H. Vincent, LL. D., occupied the pulpit of the First M. E. church, Sunday, and preached an eloquent sermon on the future of the church. The edifice was thronged with friends of the bishop, who listened attentively to his discourse.

Bishop Vincent began by saying that the church is not Christ, neither is it a substitute for Him. It is a lighthouse to guide and help men to seek Christ. He predicted that the church of the future would be more enthusiastic, its members would not only devote their time to special seasons of prayer, but the entire year and everything else will be secondary. He believed that the church would be taken more seriously and that attendance would practically be compulsory.

The bishop also said that the church of the future would develope individual character, it would always be open and would be a school of the Word, there will be classes in Bible study and there will be a great deal of biographical study. Furthermore he believed that the church will reach after world conquest and will cultivate reverence for the Sabbath, the Bible, Sunday-school and sacred hymns. He urged all to love the church, the Bible, to study it and teach its truths to the children who are growing up. He believed it to be the duty of every Christian to make his or her church just as attractive as possible.

C. E. ANNIVERSARY.

Warren Chapel Organization Celebrate its Seventeenth Birthday.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Warren chapel, celebrated its seventeenth anniversary Thursday. Members and friends attended the observance in goodly numbers.

Rev. C. W. Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church, delivered an address on "Keep to the Right and Keep Moving." There were vocal trios by Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, Miss Sheppard and Miss Schenck; piano trios by Miss Baily, Miss Coddington and Miss Schenck; recitations by Miss Lambert; vocal solos by Miss Hilda Bennett; and cornet solos by J. C. Anderson.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, the pastor, delivered the Scripture reading and opening prayer. C. F. Windham, the president of the society, made the address of welcome.

Reports by the secretary and treasurer were read. Both covered the work of a busy and encouraging year. The society is in good shape financially and spiritually for a twelve-month of increased activity.

Westfield Won.

Westfield defeated Cranford at Recreation Park on Saturday in a ten inning contest by the score of 5 to 4. The score by innings:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Westfield.. | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 1 | — | 5 | 6 | 4 |
| Cranford.. | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | — | 4 | 6 | 4 |

Batteries—Waller and Farmer, Maurer and Stratton.

Officers of Mayflower Society.

Among the officers elected at the annual meeting of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of New Jersey, held Friday afternoon at the Hotel Beechwood, Summit, were the following Plainfielders: Governor, Colonel Mason W. Tyler; deputy governor, Leander Newton Lovell; secretary, Boardman Wright; historian, William G. Wright; on board of assistants, William S. Tyler, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Dr. Leonard L. Waldo and William M. Stillman.

A Studio Musicale.

Miss May Vincent Whitney, of this city, will give a studio musicale at 135 Carnegie Hall, New York, on Wednesday, May 31. A few of the more advanced pupils will play and be assisted by Frank Eaton, of Morristown.

New Market Defeated.

The Clinton Avenue Club defeated New Market at the latter place on Saturday by a score of 10 to 4. Scott and O'Loughlin comprised the battery for the winning team and Squier and W. Nelson for New Market.

Open Date Filled.

The management of the Plainfield Baseball Association has filled in the open date of Saturday, June 10, with the Roxboro Professionals, of Philadelphia.

Class Banquet.

The Class '05, Rutgers Preparatory School, held its annual banquet at Truell Inn on Friday night.

David Carr and daughter, Miss May Carr, of Newark, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Liefke, of West Front street.

WOMEN TO STUDY CONSTITUTION AND LAW

DAVID PRESCOTT HALL CONSENTS TO BE THE LECTURER.

The feature of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, held yesterday afternoon at Truell Inn, was the report of the programme committee with relation to the work of the Political Study Class for next winter. Mrs. Stephen Haff, chairman of the committee, reported that several plans had been proposed for the study of political economy, or of various subjects relating to law and government.

It was also proposed that David Prescott Hall should give his course of lectures on elementary law, prepared expressly for women's clubs, before the new study club. Mr. Hall gave a lecture on the origin and nature of the United States constitution before the suffrage league, last month, and this address was pronounced very interesting by the members.

The final decision yesterday was to continue the programme committee in office until the first meeting in October. The members are: Chairman, Mrs. Stephen Haff; secretary, Miss Harriet French; Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mrs. Madeline Durar and Mrs. Florence Howe Hall.

Mrs. Hall announced that there would be an interesting meeting of the State Suffrage Society at Ocean Grove, July 24 and 25. Mrs. Hall expects to go to Ocean Grove to assist the State president, Mrs. Saxton, in the conduct of the meetings.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS PRESENT "THE RIVALS"

MISS ADA WESTPHAL MAKES THE "HIT" IN AN EXCELLENT PRODUCTION.

Before an audience which filled the Casino to its capacity, members of the senior class of the city High School presented Sheridan's comedy, "The Rivals," Saturday night. The work of Miss Ada Westphal as "Mrs. Malaprop" was one of the cleverest bits of amateur acting ever seen on the Casino stage. Other "hits" were made by Theodore G. Gavett, Howard H. Craig, Martin E. Stutsman, George L. Bentley and Miss Anna L. Runyon.

Others in the cast were: Chester H. Briggs, Harry G. Thompson, Harold Brownell, Hazel du M. Grant, Ines M. Telles, Aimee J. Conant, Zella L. Kelley.

Informal dancing followed the play.

REALTY CONVEYANCES.

Transfers of Plainfield Real Estate as Recorded in the County Clerk's Office at Elizabeth.

The following real estate conveyances have recently been recorded in the Union County Clerk's office at Elizabeth:

James Moses et ux, to William R. Codington et al., southeasterly side East Front street, 55 feet southwesterly of S. Manning, $14,000; James Moses et ux, to Albert Pittis, southeasterly side East Front street, corner S. Manning, $11,000; William Jeffery et ux, to Thomas Berkeley, East Second street, 50 feet northeasterly of Edward O. Mulford, $1; Eugene M. Laing to Lemuel A. Tunison, West Second street, corner New street, $1; Irving W. Marcley et al, to Lemuel A. Tunison, same as above, $2,300; Samuel D. Collins et ux, to James W. Jackson, northwesterly side West Seventh street, corner Plainfield avenue, $1; Lorena T. Wingate et al, to Cora O. Lockwood, northerly side Richmond street, 317 feet westerly of Front street, $1; Philip Cottrell et ux, to Annie Stevens, northwesterly side East Third street, corner Lewis Booker, $1; Improved Building Loan Association of N. J. and Pa., to Janet Arthur, lot 20, block B, "Map of Rockview Heights," $123; Same to Frederick C. Burner, lot 25, block B, same map, $123; Mary P. Grannatt et al, to Fred J. Harris, Clinton avenue, 225 feet northwesterly of West Seventh street, $1; Fred J. Harris et ux, to Roger S. Robins, $1; Joshua D. Loiseaux et ux, to Anton Steber, lots 31-32, block B, "Map of Watson Whittlesey," $1; Eliza Neuman et al, to August Bartian et ux., easterly side Richmond street, $1,000; Sarah A. Hetfield to Winfield S. Jimerson, easterly side Leland avenue, corner C. Frederickson, $1.

Miss Minnie G. Morse, of Franklin place, who has been visiting friends in Hartford, Conn., will return home today.

Mrs. I. L. McVey, of East Front street, who has been at Atlantic City, for her health, is expected to return home this week.

Miss Edna Thompson and Miss May Conners, of Somerville, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Higgins, of West Fifth street.

VETOED BY HIGGINS

Bill to Legitimatize Stringer Child Killed at Albany.

GOVERNOR GAVE REASONS IN FULL

"Measure Would Give Legal Status to Semipolygamous Relations in State of New York and Would Be an Insult to Wives."

ALBANY, N. Y., May 24.—A bill introduced to legitimatize a child born out of wedlock, which caused considerable comment but little opposition in its passage through the legislature, has been vetoed by Governor Higgins. The measure, introduced by Assemblyman Stanley of New York, is entitled "An act for the relief of Adelia Queenie Barker."

In expressing his disapproval the governor says:

"This bill presents an astonishing proposition, but the most astonishing thing about it is that it passed both houses unnoticed and without opposition or discussion. It is an insult to every faithful wife and to womanhood itself. The bill recites that Adelia Queenie is the illegitimate infant child of Charles Bell Barker and Adelia Gertrude Stringer and enacts that child is thereby made the legitimate child of its said parents in all respects, the same as if said child had been born in lawful wedlock.

"The father at the time of the birth of the child had and now has a lawful wife living. He and the child's mother, with brazen impudence and utter disregard of the rights of the lawful wife and the rules of morality, unite in a petition of the legislature to legitimatize the issue of their lawless love.

"If this bill should be approved a legal status would be given to a semi-polygamous relation and concubinage would become an honorable estate."

Mr. Barker, who has apartments at the Marlborough hotel, New York, said that in the summer of 1901 he entered into an agreement with Miss Stringer to allow her $5,000 a year "pin" money, she binding herself to care for and educate the child. This sum was later reduced by one-half.

Mr. Barker said that he proposed marriage to Miss Stringer on numerous occasions, but each time she declared she would not marry the best man living. He told in court of her relations with different men and said he wanted to obtain control of the little girl on the ground that it was being neglected, received no motherly attention and was always in the care of a nurse.

He declared he dearly loved the child, who had a warm affection for him, and he had ample means to provide for all wants. He declared that Miss Stringer informed him recently that it was her intention to go on the stage and that she was going to place the girl in a convent.

The litigation for the recovery of the child was begun March 8 by the institution of habeas corpus proceedings.

DEATH OF MRS. LIVERMORE.

Was an Active Worker In the Antislavery Movement.

MELROSE, Mass., May 24.—Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, the well known writer and reformer, is dead at her home here. Bronchitis and a weak heart hastened the end.

Mrs. Mary Ashton Livermore was born in Boston on Dec. 19, 1820, and was the daughter of Timothy Rice.

Mrs. Livermore was active in the antislavery agitation and Washingtonian temperance movement.

During the civil war she took a leading part in the work of the United States sanitary commission. After her return to this state she was for ten years president of the Massachusetts Women's Christian Temperance union. In the course of her work on the platform she delivered lectures all over this country and in England and Scotland. She also was the author of many books.

Will Oppose Presbyterian Cathedral.

WINONA LAKE, Ind., May 24.—The plan for the erection of a central Presbyterian cathedral at the national capital, as proposed by Justice John M. Harlan of the supreme court of the United States and upon which a divided report was submitted by the special committee having the proposition under consideration, when taken up today will, it is said, encounter serious opposition.

Gasoline Explosion Cost $40,000.

TAMPA, Fla., May 24.—Five firemen, one of whom will probably die, were injured in a fire which destroyed two buildings here, entailing a property loss of $40,000. The fire was caused by the explosion of a gasoline lamp. W. D. Kirk, a fireman, was caught under a falling wall and so badly crushed that he is not expected to recover.

Political Sensation at Danbury, Conn.

DANBURY, Conn., May 24.—A political sensation was sprung here last night when papers were served on Mayor William A. Braun for his removal from office on the ground of illegal voting at the March election, when Mr. Braun, who is a Democrat, defeated Mayor John R. Boothby by a plurality of thirteen votes.

Athlete Broke His Leg.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., May 24.—Cadet John Kimball, a fourth class man appointed from Minnesota, in alighting after vaulting over five men and a horse in the gymnasium here broke a bone in one leg and badly wrenched the other.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; north winds.

WAR IN THE COUNCIL

Mayor Weaver Has Dismissed Two Civic Officials.

ELIHU ROOT AND JUDGE GORDON IN IT

Philadelphia Stirred to Its Depths by Drastic Move Just Made In Fight Over Gas Contract—Vacant Offices Filled.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—Mayor Weaver has turned out of office David J. Smyth, his director of public safety, and Peter E. Costello, his director of public works. Their immediate resignations were demanded unconditionally under penalty of dismissal. At the same time word went forth that every big officeholder in the city hall who came within the mayor's range would be weighed in the balance and if found wanting would also be dismissed.

Messrs. Costello and Smyth, the directors of public works and public safety, having refused to resign immediately, Mayor Weaver last night dismissed them from office. He has promptly appointed Colonel Sheldon Potter to the office of public safety and A. Lincoln Acker to be director of public works in their places. The mayor has retained Elihu Root of New York and former Judge James Gay Gordon of this city as his personal counsel.

It is in an effort to defeat the consummation of the plan to lease the city gas works to the United Gas Improvement company for seventy-five years for $25,000,000 that Mayor Weaver has dismissed from office the two principal members of his cabinet and thereby delivered this staggering blow to the dominant political organization of the city, and this has caused probably the greatest sensation in the history of Philadelphia municipal affairs. While the citizens were expecting some sort of a move on the part of the mayor, they were not prepared for the immediate removal from office of these two prominent men. The mayor has announced that he is in the fight to the bitter end.

Consternation would be a mild term to describe the feelings of the tens of thousands of political workers when the news became known. There was a panic, then a wild rush to the ward leaders. The latter in turn hastened to find Israel Durham and his lieutenants, James P. McNichol and Charles Seger. They could not be found.

The last lingering doubt that Mayor Weaver was merely making a bluff and did not really mean to fight the "organization" is removed by his action. Smyth and Costello were the two main props of Durham within the walls of the city hall. Costello had been mentioned for the mayoralty two years hence. With their forced retirement the break with the mayor is complete.

The meeting in the assembly room of the bourse last night was a large and enthusiastic one. Mahlon N. Kline, one of the leaders in the fight against the gas lease, presided, and the principal address was delivered by Colonel Potter, the new director of public safety. Among other things Colonel Potter said:

"I have been suddenly taken from private life to public office. Heretofore I have been telling the people of my ward to individually do their share in cleansing this great city, and tonight I find myself called upon to take part in the administration of what I may term a new government for the city of Philadelphia.

"This new government will be for the people and not for a few contractors who handle our millions. These are trying times. We face the most unscrupulous men that ever undertook to plunder a community, and if we be men we will stand by our colors and fight them until we have driven them out of the city."

Dynamite In Lady's Shoe Heel.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 24.—In the office of the district attorney, Thomas H. Hudson, is a lady's shoe, the hollowed heel of which, it is said, contains enough dynamite and nitroglycerin to kill a number of persons. Mrs. Lulu Engle of Uniontown, Pa., found a pair of ladies' shoes in her back yard. While examining them she discovered that the heel of one had been hollowed out, four exploding caps placed on four iron pegs set in and the hole filled with waste soaked with nitroglycerin. The shoes were turned over to the authorities, who are making a rigid examination.

Approved Rockefeller Gift Decision.

PEACEDALE, R. I., May 24.—The recent gift by John D. Rockefeller of $100,000 to the American board of commissioners for foreign missions was discussed at the state conference of Congregational churches here. Rev. J. H. Denison of Boston read a paper on "Honesty of Thoughts," in which he expressed the opinion that in accepting Mr. Rockefeller's gift the American board did only what was proper.

To Visit Newport and Boston.

PORTLAND, Me., May 24.—Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton has given positive assurance that part if not the whole of the north Atlantic squadron will visit Portland this summer. The time will be determined later. It is understood the squadron will make short stops at Boston and Portsmouth, N. H.

Asked Funds For Tuberculosis Cure.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 24.—Dr. H. A. Warner, president of the national fraternal congress, appeared before the supreme council, Royal Arcanum, here and appealed for funds for the National Tuberculosis sanitarium in New Mexico. Final action on the matter was deferred.

FOR SERGIUS' DEATH

Ivan Kaleieff Hanged For Destruction of Moscow Ruler.

DID NOT FEAR DEATH; GLORIED IN ACT

Assassin Said on the Scaffold, "It Is Said I Asked For Pardon; It Is a Lie!"—Riga's Chief of Police Shot.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 24.—It was semiofficially announced that Ivan Kaleieff, who murdered the Grand Duke Sergius at Moscow, was hanged at 3 o'clock in the morning in the prison yard here.

On the scaffold Kaleieff made a speech, in which he said:

"It is said that I asked for pardon. It is a lie. I am faithful to the traditions of the People's Will. I do not ask any favor. I am glad to die."

The People's Will is the name formerly borne by the party identical with the present social revolutionaries.

Grand Duke Sergius, uncle and brother-in-law of Emperor Nicholas and former governor general of Moscow, who had been condemned to death by the terrorists on account of his severity in suppressing student and other outbreaks in Moscow, was driving from the Nicholas palace in the Kremlin toward the Nikolsky gate when a bomb was thrown beneath his carriage, killing him instantaneously, wrecking the vehicle and mortally wounding the coachman.

The grand duke's head was blown from his body and reduced to a shapeless pulp, and the trunk and limbs were frightfully mangled. The assassin was eventually identified as Ivan Kaleieff. The man gloried in his crime and expressed satisfaction at the fact that he had been able to kill the grand duke without involving his innocent wife, the Grand Duchess Elizabeth.

At Riga the chief of police of the Snyiten district has been shot and seriously wounded by a band of roughs. Ten arrests have been made in connection with the shooting.

Captain Clado, whose dismissal from the navy has been gazetted, has commenced suit against the admiralty for the restitution of his rank.

A Warsaw report says that since the promulgation of the emperor's ukase conceding liberty of worship and abolishing the religious disabilities of the Roman Catholic and other religious Christian communities 28,000 persons are reported to have left the Russian church for the Roman church in the governments of Siedlce and Lublin. The censor has ordered the Polish press not to make any reference to the subject.

A Chefu dispatch tells of the arrival of forty-four lunatic Russian sailors and soldiers from Port Arthur, including a violently insane lieutenant who was on the Sevastopol during the siege, and who were immediately transferred to the Russian improvised hospital ship Whampol under the British flag for transportation direct to Odessa.

The scene was extremely pathetic as the chattering imbeciles mounted the decks of the steamer and entered cages which inclosed the main hatches and surrounding deck space provided for their liberty and comfort during the passage through tropical zones.

A rumor of the death of Admiral Rojestvensky is in circulation here.

General Kaulbars, who succeeded General Gripenberg, is ill and is returning to Russia.

General Linevitch has informed the czar that the Japanese have begun an offensive movement along the whole line.

Tornado Swept Tattnall County, Ga.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., May 24. — The most destructive tornado that has swept Tattnall county for years occurred, lasting ten minutes. During this brief period a section between Reidsville and Collins was practically cleared of all crops and many trees uprooted. Some houses were leveled. A negro employed at a sawmill was killed by a falling smokestack. At Collins a family of five were struck by lightning. They were stunned and their house destroyed.

The Boston Horse Show.

BOSTON, May 24.—At the horse show Mr. Jordan's success continues, and he has secured eight blue ribbons. Lord Belfast and Lord Burleigh were the principal Jordan winners during the day. Mr. Jordan's closest competitor in point of blue ribbons captured was Mrs. J. B. M. Grosvenor of New York, who took three blue ribbons. Reginald C. Vanderbilt of Portsmouth, R. I., was placed first in two classes.

Mooney on Trial For Graft.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 24.—The second trial of Dr. Edward L. Mooney, former school commissioner of Syracuse, has opened here upon a charge of bribery, Justice Watson M. Rogers of Watertown presiding. Dr. Mooney's alleged offense is the taking of $300 from Miss Spring for securing her an appointment as a teacher in the Syracuse high school.

New Brazilian Ambassador Calls.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Senor Juan Nabuco, the newly appointed Brazilian ambassador, made his first formal call at the state department and was presented to Acting Secretary Loomis by Senor Fereira, the retiring minister and charge.

McGilvary Goes to Wisconsin.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 24.—Professor E. B. McGilvary has tendered his resignation from the Cornell university faculty, as he will accept the chair of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED ON MOTORMAN STITES

HIS EXPLANATION OF HOSE CUTTING ACCEPTED BY RECORDER DOUD.

Before Recorder Doud in the borough court, Thursday, Theodore Stites, motorman on the local street railway, had sentence suspended on the charge of neglectfully running his car over a line of hose on Somerset street, at the Badenheimer fire, Wednesday night. He was arrested at the instigation of Chief Woolston but his explanation of the affair was accepted. The Public Service Corporation in addition has offered to pay for the damage done.

Stites said that his car was at Monroe avenue and Seventh street when the alarm for the fire was given and he knew nothing about it. At the Watchung avenue terminus he was simply given instruction to pass over the Somerset street switch and meet the return car near Mountain avenue. This he did and was bowling along at a good speed when the hose loomed in front of him, too late to shut off the power.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS TO PRESENT LARGE URN

WINFIELD SCOTT POST WILL RECEIVE IT DECORATION DAY.

The members of the Women's Relief Corps will have a part in the Decoration Day observance here, when there will be presented to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., a large urn which will be placed in the soldier's plot at Hillside Cemetery. The committee having charge of the purchase of the urn comprised Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. F. W. Wenzel, Mrs. Sarah Mattox, Mrs. John Manley and Mrs. M. C. Debbins.

The urn arrived here on Thursday and since then has been filled with growing plants. It will be taken to Hillside Cemetery on Monday and put in position. The exercises will be held on Decoration Day morning when a member of the committee will make the presentation in a short address.

It will be received by Commander I. L. McVoy. It has also been arranged to have the Raritan Brass Band present to discourse appropriate selections and a large chorus of school children will sing patriotic songs. A number of prominent officials will attend and the public is invited.

WOMEN'S WORK.

Holy Cross Guild Has Done Much for Missions.

Mrs. Samuel Townsend, as treasurer of the Women's Guild, of the Church of the Holy Cross, has just presented the annual statement of finances for the year ending April 4, 1905. The receipts, including the balance from last year, amount to $657.33. There were expenditures amounting to $542.45, leaving a balance of $114.88.

Miss Florence A. Stevens, as secretary, presents an interesting report of the past year, showing that the guild has done a noble work. While the charity began at home it by no means ended there and the barrels sent out by the missionary committee and the funds contributed to missions in different fields have reached nearly one thousand dollars. The poor whites of the South, the Indians at the North, Bishop Brown, of the West, missionaries' families, schools and hospitals in every direction have shared in the guild's generous bounty and thousands have been cheered by the unpretentious messages in books and cards and magazines that have been sown broadcast from this single quarter.

Central to Own Bronx Terminal.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey, which has been using the large freight terminal at 135th street and Mott Haven Canal, New York, owned by the Erie Railroad, has bought the block bounded by the Southern Boulevard and Third and Lincoln avenues, The Bronx, and will build a terminal for its own use. The ground was sold by S. Trimmer & Sons, who have used it as a coal yard. It is also reported that the Erie company has bought two blocks on the east side of Park avenue, between 153th and 137th streets.

Fourth Editorial Excursion.

The management of the New Jersey Central has issued invitations for its fourth annual editorial excursion which has been set for Wednesday, June 7. Lake Hopatcong will again be the destination and the editors and proprietors of newspapers in cities along the line of the railroad to the number of several hundred will be the guests. The trip to and from the lake will be made by special train.

F. C. Iglehart, Jr., of New York, spent Sunday with Charles B. Morse, of Franklin place.

MAGNIFICANT HOME FOR TRUST COMPANY

Stately Structure to Grace Park Avenue and West Second Street.

WELL APPOINTED

Limestone Exterior—Marble, Copper and Mahogany Furnishings—Steel Frame Work—Fire Proof.

The contracters who are to erect the new bank building for The Plainfield Trust Company are preparing to start the work and everything will be in readiness as soon as the side and building lines are fixed by the final adoption of an ordinance now before the Common Council. The cellar has been practically excavated and the next move will be to start the work of laying the foundation. The structure will be erected on magnificent lines.

When this building is completed it will be one of the finest of its kind in the State. In planning the building the directors have taken the future as well as the present into consideration, and the building when erected will be one that will not only be equal to the concern's immediate needs, but one that it may be proud of in the years to come.

It is to be built entirely of Indiana lime stone; the frame work is to be of steel, and it will be as fireproof as modern construction methods can make it. Steel vaults of the latest type will be installed, and the safe deposit accommodations that it will offer to the public will be equal to any thing that may today be found in the largest cities of the country. The interior fixtures will be of marble and copper, and furnishings of mahogany. The company numbers many women among its patrons, and their comfort and convenience has been carefully provided for.

After the contemplated improvements on Park avenue have been completed the widening of the street to sixty feet; the construction of the Trust Company building and the erection of the office buildings by Charles W. McCutchen this section will be the finest business section of the city, and the real estate values in this neighborhood must increase very materially as a result.

The Plainfield Trust Company began business in June 1902; so successful has it been, that today, less than three years from the day of its incep*tion, its deposits amount to more than* one million three hundred thousand ($1,300,000) dollars. The continuation of this splendid growth will place the Company, at no distant date, in first rank among the financial institutions of the State.

The directors of the company are: Ernest R. Ackerman, New York, president Lawrence Cement Company; J. Herbert Case, Plainfield, secretary and treasurer; Frederick Geller, New York, attorney and counsellor-at-law; Augustus V. Heely, New York, the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company; Francis DeL. Hyde, Plainfield, president Union County Investment Company; James W. Jackson, New York, executor Jesse Hoyt estate; Edward H. Ladd, Jr., New York, Ladd, Wood & Co., bankers; Charles W. McCutchen, New York, Holt & Company, commission merchants; Henry A. McGee, New York, Standard Oil Company; George F. Mellick, New York, Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., bankers; Isaac W. Rushmore, Brooklyn, N. Y., dairy products; Samuel Townsend, New York, formerly Townsend & Yale; Lewis E. Waring, New York, Harvey Fisk & Sons, bankers; Orville T. Waring, New York, Standard Oil Company.

The officers are: O. T. Waring, president; A. V. Heely, vice president; H. A. McGee, vice president; J. Herbert Case, secretary-treasurer; Edward F. Feickert, assistant secretary and treasurer.

Fire Near Gas Tanks.

A small fire in the rear of the old D. C. Ivins lumber yard in Watchung avenue, near the gas tanks, called out a portion of the fire department on Saturday afternoon. An extinguisher followed by a hydrant stream soon subdued the blaze which was caused by a locomotive spark. A chimney fire in a house near the East Second street firehouse was put out also by the firemen during the afternoon.

Delightful Reception.

The third of the series of receptions in honor of her daughter, Mrs. C. D. Parfitt, of Canada, was given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph at her home in East Front street. Mrs. Randolph and her daughters received and ten young women, former pupils of Mrs. Parfitt when she was associated with the Randolph Cooley Collegiate School, assisted in the dining room.

Olive P. Hill, of Madison avenue, who has been quite ill with an attack of erysipelas, is now convalescing.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 1, 1905. NO. 22.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Corner the Union, as Well in its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

CHILDREN'S HOME REMODELED AND IMPROVED TO BE THROWN OPEN TO THE PUBLIC TOMORROW

WORTHY INSTITUTION SUPPORTED BY LOCAL BENEVOLENCES HOUSED AGAIN IN WESTERVELT AVENUE STRUCTURE.

The informal opening of the remodelled Children's Home will take place tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock, when the public will be cordially welcomed to inspect the new quarters at Jackson and Westervelt avenues. Flowers will be gratefully received at the Home tomorrow morning from 9 to 11 o'clock. One would not recognize in the remodelled building anything to remind him of the old structure, so complete has been its change. The old part has been removed to the Westervelt avenue side and a handsome addition of the colonial style has taken its place in front, the entire building being well proportioned and an ornament to the neighborhood.

The building is provided with all modern improvements and two large dormitories, one for girls and the other for boys, are the features. The rooms are all large, well ventilated and light, making it possible for the work to becarried on under the best conditions. The improvements were made possible through the benefactions of the late James Clark, who left a generous sum for the work.

The Home will now accommodate nearly forty children. At present there are eighteen being cared for. It was founded thirty years ago in a small house in Grove street by a few friends. Mrs. M. E. Kimball was the first and only president of the institution. The Home was started with three children and there has been as high as twenty-five cared for.

A. L. C. Marsh was the architect.

The Children's Home—Opening Day Tomorrow.

HORSE SHOW NEXT WEEK

Plainfield Riding and Driving Club Ready for Exhibition.

PRIZES AMOUNT TO $2,000

Entry List, Larger Than Last Season, Closes Tomorrow—Programme of Events.

The plan for the second annual horse show to be held at the Driving Park, on Friday and Saturday of next week under the auspices of the Painfield Riding and Driving Club, are rapidly shaping themselves in a most satisfactory manner and there is every indication that the show will be one of the best held in this part of the country. The entries for the open events are being received from some of the most prominent people in the Metropolitan district, as well as from Philadelphia and other points. The committee in charge of the affair, of which Lewis E. Waring, is the chairman, is quite anxious that the local classes fill up. Every inducement is offered local owners to enter their horses, open to amateur owners residing in Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties.

The aggrgate in prizes, cups and cash, is $2,000 . There are four classes for harness horses, two ponies in harness and two saddle horses, with cups for the winners of each, except the first class in the last event, for which a saddle is offered as a prize.

All of the twenty-eight boxes are sold for both days of the show, and many of the parking spaces have been sold. The judges for the show will be Dr. F. C. Grenside and James H. Marshall, Esq., of New York; George Willing, of Philadelphia, and Percy Evans, of Virginia.

In nearly every case all of those who entered horses last year, will again have their horses in the show this year, and additional interest is attached to reason of the fact that several other prominent persons will show their horses, including Mrs. Gerkem, Mrs. VanHausen and Miss Vera Morris, of New York; Miss Maxwell, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Alfred Dietrick, of New York.

The entries will close tomorrow and announcement of them will be made early next week. They include roadsters, pacers ,tandems, combination harness and saddle horses, ponies under saddle, polo ponies, hunters and jumpers and those mentioned in the local classes, making in all thirty-five classes.

The principal officers of the show committee comprise Lewis E. Waring,chairman;Dr. M. O'Malley Knott, secretary; J. Herbert Casey, treasurer, and W. S. Blitz, assistant secretary. These officers together with the general committee , have made every arrangement for the comfort and convenience of those who expect to attend the show as well as those who will exhibit their horses. Exhibitors' horses and vehicles will be transported free from Jersey City to Plainfield and return by special shipment. Many of the horses that will appear are at the Philadelphia horse show this week.

P. H. S. FACULTY CHANGES

Principal I. W. Travell Announces Teaching Corps.

TWO NEW FACES.

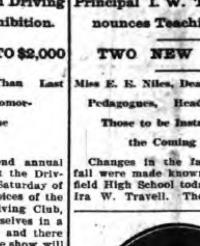
Miss E. E. Niles, Dean of Plainfield Pedagogues, Heads List of Those to be Instructors for the Coming Year.

Changes in the faculty for next fall were made known at the Plainfield High School today by Principal Ira W. Travell. The schedule for next year's school periods were also announced.



Principal Ira W. Travell.

Miss Katharine F. Ball and Miss E. K. Cuming have been granted a year's leave of absence and in their places Miss Mary Lock and Miss E. M. Howard have been engaged. Miss Phoebe D. Lovell, who has been absent for a year on account of her health, will be back again.

Miss E. E. Niles.

Miss E. E. Niles, the dean of Plainfield pedagogues, heads the list of those announced as next year's faculty. The others are Miss S. L. Bass, Miss Phoebe D. Lovell, Miss A. Gilbert, Miss M. E. Berry, Miss Mary Lock, Miss E. M. Howard, Lindsay Best, J. D. Macnab and S. B. Howe.

Through the liberalityof Mrs. G. H. Babcock, well equipped laboratories will be installed in the new high school building and the scientific course next season will be made a feature of the curriculum.

BERGEN POINT PAIR WINS

Finals in Mixed Doubles Tourney, East Jersey Association.

SOME CLOSE CONTESTS.

Many Organizations Try For Prizes on Courts of Plainfield Country Club on Monday and Tuesday.

The second round of the East Jersey Law Tennis Association tournament, played on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club on Monday afternoon resulted as follows:

Second round—Miss B. C. Edgar and Lindsay Dunham, lideran, beat Miss Sarah E .Schuyler and T. M. Day, Jr., .Plainfield, 7-5, 2-6, 8-6; Miss E. Marcus and W. O. Gennert, Danforth, beat Miss Gardner and J. H. Kyte, Westfield, 6-1, 6-1; Miss Jeannette Hobson and E. S. C. Pendergast, Bergen Point, beat Miss Sarah Mae Howel, Park Club, 6-3, 13-11; Miss Edith Condict and Eugen e Newkirk, Jersey City, beat Miss Florence Bradley and Oscar Richardson, Westfield, 3-6, 6-4, 9-7.

The semi-finals were played yesterday morning and the finals in the afternoon. The result:

Semi-finals—Mrs.B. C .Edgar and Lindsay Dunham beat Miss E. Marcus and W. O. Gennert 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, and Miss Jeannette Hobson and E. S. F. Pendergast, beat Miss Edith Condict and Eugene Newkirk, 6-4, 6-2, and in the finals Miss Hobson and Mr. Pendergast won, 6-4, 6-3.

BALL SWEEPSTAKES WON BY ALEXANDER GILBERT

HOLIDAY'S DOINGS AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB.

There was an unusually large crowd of enthusiasts at the Park Golf Club yesterady and the course was well filled with players all day. In the afternoon there was a tea at the clubhouse, which was attended by many members and friends. Among those receiving were Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mrs. John L. Watson, Mrs. George D. Hallock.

One of the principal events of the day was the play for the Holiday cup. This was won by Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll with a net score of 78. Those scores were returned for the cup:

Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 98, 20—78; Nelson A. Miller, 98, 18—80; A W. Kenworthy, 118, 22—88; C. A. Reedd, 100, 12—88; John L. Watson, 111, 22—89; R. D. Rice, 102, 12—90; Rev. C. L Goodrich, 100, 12—90; J. B. Betts, 120, 30—90; Samuel Townsend, 119, 24—95; S. St. John McCutchen, 99, 2—97.

In the morning an interesting event was a ball sweepstakes, which was won by Alexander Gilbert with a score of 76. These scores were returned:

Alexander Gilbert, 106, 20—76; C. W. McCutchen, 105, 21—84; Nelson A. Miller, 103, 18—85; J. H. Howell, 99, 14—85; John L. Watson, 108, 22—86; George A. Chapman, 118, 30—88; Raymond B. Carroll, 94, 2—92; Samuel Townsend, 123, 24—97.

A driving contest was held during the afternoon and resulted in a victory for Rolland D. Rice with three drives averaging 215 yards and two feet. Ralph Hallock was second and Samuel Townsend third. The other competitors were Raymond B. Carroll, Charles A. Reed, Nelson A. Miller, John L. Watson, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Charles B. Morse and Herbert S. Rogers.

In the approaching and putting contest, Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. Goodrich were the winning couple, with Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen and Samuel Townsend and Mrs. George D. Hallock and Ralph Hallock tied for second place.

Mrs. Howe is Eighty-six.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, mother of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, celebrated her eighty-sixth birthday anniversary on Saturday at her home in Boston. In the morning she took a short walk and in the afternoon received friends informally. Her room was literally banked with blossoms. She was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Mrs. John Elliot and Mrs. Henry Richards, and her granddaughters, Misses Laura, Elizabeth, adn Julia Ward Richards. In the course of the day Mrs. Howe received messages and telegrams from friends in all parts of the country, who could not attend.

Men's Club to Entertain.

The Men's Club, of the Congregational church, have arranged for a "ladies' night" for Tuesday night, June 6. There will be an orchestra of ten pieces and Prof. M. P. Ware will entertain.

TWENTY-FOUR MEETS IS THE SEASON'S RECORD FOR THE FLOURISHING WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB

SEVERAL MEADOWBROOK HOUNDS TO BE ADDED TO THE ORGANIZATION'S VALUABLE PACK.

The Watchung Hunt Club has closed its first season. Meets will not be resumed until the weather cools in the fall.

From the first ride, last October, the success of the organization was assured. Applications for membership came in steadily during the season, and the roll increased from forty-five, with which it started, to seventy-eight. The degree of enthusiasm with which the sport was taken up exceded the highest hopes of the coterie that planned and launched the club.

Next season the organization will take up activities with increased strength and a very firm foundation in the city's social life. Moreover, the steplechase with which the club wound up its season a week ago has given Plainfield a high place in the regard of the "smart" horsey set of New York and Long Island.

During the season the club held about twenty-four meets. Its longest ride was to Colonia. Next season the runs will be made with an enlarged pack. Several dogs are to be purchased from the famous Meadowbrook kennels.

The officers of the club, some of whom are shown in the illustration, are as follows:

President, L. E. Waring; vice president, Charles B. Freeman; secretary, S. A. Cruickshank; treasurer, G S. Ring; M. F H., Dr. Middleton O'M. Knott. George P Mellick and Harry A. Bourne, with the five officers, constitute the board of stewards.

Watchung Hunt Club Assembling for the Chase.

TWO MORE VICTORIES TO DAABSTERS' STRING

All-Americans the Victim, and One Contest a Ten Inning two to one game.

A GOOD ARTICLE.

In the Morning Visitors Tie Score in Ninth and Cosgrove Brings in Winning Run in the Tenth—The Tale of Woe.

Plainfield added two more games to the string yesterday, defeating the All-Americans in both games. It took ten innings of fast playing to settle the morning argument; score 2 to 1. The afternoon game was decided all the way through; 12 to 2. Fifteen hundred spectators saw the game in the afternoon; about 700 attended the morning contest.

Kelly and Beck indulged in a flingfest in the morning, and from the popular stand point the former came out ahead. Plainfield only got three hits and the All-Americans banged out seven. Beck, however, kept the welts scattered, and his team mates fielded like lightning in tight places. The All-Americans kept pace, and although each team made five errors the game presented the prettiest picture of baseball activity and trickainess of the season.

Plainfield scored first, in the second. Cregan, first up, got his bag on Christ's error. Christ tried to handle Kiernan's grounder in time to nip Pete at second and failed. After Leonard walked Driscoll drove a long fly to right field and Cregan beat the return from third. Kiernan was nailed at third and Lamar ended the try with an easy one to third.

The All-Americans scored the tie run in the ninth. Hyde singled to right. Christ bumped into the ball after he hit it and died igoominiously, but Hyde continued to second and came in on Oldring's muff of Lamar's throw. Ottmer and Young fanned.

Pitz-Henry hit to right in the opening of the tenth, after two men were down, but Kelly ended the chance with an easy fly to left. Kelly gave his own game away. He passed up Cosgrove, after Beck had flied out, hit Oldring, and put one right where Connolly could reach it for a biff that brought Cosgrove in.

(Continued on page 8.)

BOROUGH SCHOOL CLOCK MAY HAVE THREE FACES

THE CHANGE CONSIDERED AT MEETING OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Aside from hearing the explanation in the Wightman "criticism" matter, the borough Board of Education transacted but little business at its meeting, Monday evening.

In behalf of the citizens, Councilman James K. Arnold asked that the clock to be placed in the Somerset school tower be three faced instead of one. He explained that it would be of little convenience to have a single dial in the front part as people would have to get directly in front of the building to discern the time, whereas if there were others on the side they could be seen from a long distance up or down Somerset street. President Joy informed him that the matter would be given full consideration and it was afterward discussed with probably favorable action. Chairman Cooley, of the building committee, said he had conferred with the builders and architects and had learned that the changes in the tower to accommodate three clocks could be made easily.

Mr. Joy was appointed a committee of one to draw up fitting resolutions expressing the sorrow of the Board at the death of John Valiant, the same to be engrossed and spread on the minutes. The local postoffice reported that it would place a letter box at Watchung and Mountain avenues and it was voted to secure new text books for the stenography class, the new ones now in use to be given the pupils.

Humor and Magic.

Thomas Dobson, humorist and mimic, together with Hendrickson, the magician and shadowgraphist, will give a free performance for men under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. in association hall, tomorrow night. These entertainers are considered among the best and are sure to furnish an enjoyable evening for all who attend.

Speakers at Epworth League.

Rev. Dr. William W. Youngson, of St. James M. E. church, Elizabeth, and Rev George Mooney, of the Monroe Avenue M. E church, will make addresses at a meeting of the Elizabeth District Epworth League, to be held in the Monroe Avenue church Thursday night, at 8 o'clock.

—This is the fresh vegetabe season but it is often difficult to make selections. See Neuman Brothers' big display—a score of suggestions for dinner.

MEMORIAL DAY EVENTS AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

PRIZE GOLF CONTESTS FOLLOWED BY DINNER-DANCE.

There were three important events at the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday, in addition to the semi-final and final play in the tennis tournament. For the Golf Committee cup, E. B. Shoemaker, E. I. Serrell and H. C. Munger finished in one, two, three order For the Decoration Day cup, E. B. Shoemaker and Townsend Rushmore each returned the lowest score of 74.

In the evening there was a dinner-dance at the clubhouse which was attended by a large number of the members and friends.

Littell Makes Speech.

President D. W. Littell, of the New Jersey State Exempt Firemen's Association, presented a handsome monument to the Exempt Firemen's Association, of Hackensack, yesterday, on behalf of the citizens of Hackensack, who raised the money

Schafer Returns to the Borough.

Frank Schafer, who was recently exiled from the borough, was again arrested by the marshals yesterday, on a charge of disorderly conduct. He will be given a hearing tonight.

Ascension Day.

All Catholic and Episcopal churches will celebrate the Feast of the Ascension tomorrow with the prescribed service. Services at St. Stephens church at 10 o'clock

HE DROPPED DEAD AT FRIEND'S HOME.

PATRICK O'KEEFE A VICTIM OF APOPLEXY.

Patrick O'Keefe, for many years engaged as bartender in local saloons, dropped dead this morning while visiting at the home of James Kinlery on South Second street, near Plainfield avenue. He entered the place in apparent good health when he suddenly reeled and fell lifeless. Apoplexy is assigned as the cause.

O'Keefe was thirty-five years old and was a native of Plainfield. His only surviving relatives are a brother, John O'Keefe, of South Plainfield, and two aunts in this city. The body was taken to Cole's undertaking rooms.

T. A. B. Dance.

The T. A. B. Society held a dance at T. A. B hall, West Fourth street, Monday night. It was largely attended. The committee in charge comprised Niles Wilson, chairman; Thomas McInerney, Joseph Kennedy, Richard Birmingham, Clarence Waldron and Wilbur Schaefer.

W. D. Pike, Bank Cashier.

William D. Pike, of East Front street, has resigned his clerkship at the Greenwich Savings Bank and been appointed cashier of the Century National Bank at Fifth avenue and Twenty-first street, New York.

—For best results try The Daily Press.

WIGHTMAN EXPLAINS TO BOARD OF EDUCATION

ADMITS DAILY PRESS INTERVIEW BUT DENIES INTENTION TO CRITICISE.

As provided by a resolution passed at the previous meeting of the Board, the North Painfield Board of Education asked Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, at its session Monday night, for explanation of an interview published in The Daily Press regarding the reported dissatisfaction, and wholesale resignations of borough school teachers The explanation was read in open session but considered in secret. A carefully worded statemhent made to a Daily Press reporter by President James R. Joy, yesterday, was to the effect that Mr. Wightman's explanation had been "accepted." Mr. Wightman was not asked to state all he came prepared to say. He informed the Board, in a statement preliminary to the actual reply to the request for an explanation, that he had two papers to submit. One, he said, was a general reply to the question. The other was a detailed statement of the circumstances leading to the unpleasantness, and "would necessarily draw in the names of other persons than himself."

Considerable discussion took place over the advisability of hearing the statements and considering them in public. President Joy argued strongly in favor of a secret session, in order to protect the person or persons who might be dragged into the matter through the statements in "Paper No. 2." Mr Townsend said that while not averse to a secret session, he believed that, as the matter heretofore had been public, it might just as well continue so.

"While I will not object to hearing the explanation in secret session," he said, "yet I reserve the right to make a motion that some statement of the hearing and its result be made public."

"A greater injustice has been done me in this matter than you may imagine," said Superintendent Wightman after Mr. Townsend had spoken. "But if the Board is desirous of closing the matter, and ending it, as I have no doubt it can be ended, quietly and without further publicity, I will state my side publicly." Mr. Joy again spoke in favor of a secret session, and Mr. Cooley made a motion in accordance with the President's desire. It was not seconded, and Mr. Wightman read "Paper No. 1" in open session. It was as follows:

"It has never been my wish to criticise the Board of Education through the press. It was entirely

(Continued on page 8.)

VETS OF CIVIL STRIFE HONOR DEAD COMRADES

Graves of the Departed are Covered With Flowers and Flags.

EXERCISES LATER.

Rev W. C. Hubbell Makes Stirring Speech in Reform Hall—Women's Corps Presents an Urn.

While all the world is ringing with the valor of an alien race, America yesterday turned loyally to the heroes of her own hearthstone and again a people not ungrateful paid a tribute to its soldier dead. Veterans of the war of the Rebellion everywhere conducted their Memorial day exercises and the fast thinning ranks were cheered by thousands of citizens throughout the country

In Plainfield, the days observance was in charge of Winfield Scott Post, No 73, G. A. R., and from early in the morning until late in the afternoon the old soldiers were faithful to the memory of those who fell in the great struggle. The memorial programme at 7:30 in the morning when the entire detail and the Crescent Band went to Scotch Plains and decorated the graves o the heroes. They were in charge of Staff Commander Charles B. Stephens and were escorted to the cemetery by the village fire department and school children.

Returning to Plainfield the graves in North Plainfield were decorated, after which the usual parade to Hillside cemetery took place, the procession drawing crowds of people from all over the city. It was headed by Captain William Hand, of the post, and Acting Captain W. C. Browning, of Company K, the latter organization taking part. On arriving at the cemetery, the graves were decorated bt the feature of the exercises was the presentation to the post of the urn for the soldiers' plot by the Women's Relief Corps. Mrs. M. C. Dobbins delivered the address which conveyed the urn and it was accepted by Commander I. L. McVey, in behal of the post. Forty school children added a touching part to the formality by singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Nearer My God to Thee." The urn adds greatly to the appearance of the soldier plot and is to be filled with handsome flowers. The committee which se-

(Continued on page 8.)

Woman's Fancies

The Charity That Makes Popularity—The Magpie Lady

The bachelor surveyed the kaleidoscopic crowd of women in gorgeous attire.

Then he closed his eyes and groaned.

"Do you know there is one mistake your sex makes?" he remarked to his friend, the bachelor woman.

"What is it?" remarked the latter. Long criticism had made her a trifle impatient.

"That of dressing too loudly. Oh, of course all don't do it," he hastily corrected, "but, pitiful heavens, just look at the streets this season!"

The bachelor woman for once in her life had nothing to say.

"Does a woman think she is making herself beautiful," he demanded, "when she clothes herself from head to foot in some dazzling shade that makes her face the last thing to be considered and the homeliest? What is the use of wearing a grassy green creation if it causes the face to appear pale or yellow? Why rival the flamingo in one's taste made when it jumps into the eye of the unfortunate passer-by and so blinds him that he sees no girl at all? There are duller shades of red, not so pretty to look at on the counter maybe, but, oh, so much prettier near the face and so much kinder to it! I've heard women deride dark blue as a commonplace color, and I have often wondered if they realised how soft and idealized that same shade of blue made their complexions appear. Why does the average man look so much better dressed than the average woman? Because he sticks to quiet shades. Why won't some one make women realize that it isn't the color, but the complexion, which counts?"

"It might be a good idea," the bachelor woman murmured as she closed her eyes wearily to avoid taking in the spectacle of a sallow woman with a purple hat trimmed with American Beauty roses.

Secrets of Popularity.

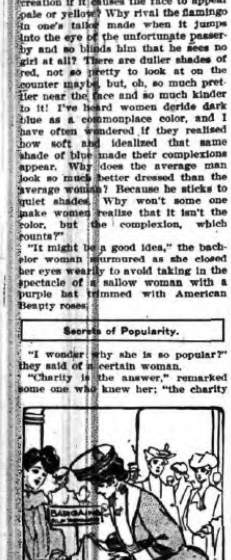
"I wonder why she is so popular?" they said of a certain woman.

"Charity is the answer," remarked some one who knew her; "the charity



BUYING THINGS SHE DOES NOT WANT.

that begins at home and the charity that finds an outlet abroad. She is never in too much of a hurry to make other people happy, to help them straighten out their little affairs, to give them good advice or a good time. In her home she never nags her husband; she always finds occasion for a pleasant word. She has all her sewing and her work done when he comes in, and she never brings her petty worries to tire him. She always has time to smile and be sweet and neat and sunny. Above everything, she never judges rashly; never speaks an evil word of any one.

Women Who Are "Acquisitionists."

Some women are like magpies; they love to acquire just for the pure pleasure of acquiring. How else do you account for the bargain counter fiends, who buy anything and everything regardless of what they need simply because it's cheap? One of these unfortunates came home the other day fagged out, with her hat on one side and her face all smuts. In her arms she held two remnants of silk at 50 cents a yard reduced from a dollar, one a bright green, the other a brighter purple. Neither was long enough to do anything with. She also had a soiled collar of cheap lace, likewise marked down, and she did not have a single waist to wear with it; two pairs of gloves a size too large for her and a spray of artificial flowers she never in a hundred years would use. In addition she had some marked down medicines for some ailments she did not have, but perhaps might worry herself into if she kept on.

And she might have been out of doors enjoying the fresh air and sunshine all that beautiful day.

MAUD ROBINSON.

VACANT LOT GARDENS.

A Return to Nature, Which Is Sadly Needed Among the Poor.

Inspired by the fact that scarcely one of her pupils had ever seen a real garden and watched things growing, a young teacher in a public school of Philadelphia obtained the loan of a vacant lot and started a garden there. It was subdivided into plots, and each child had its own little square where it was privileged to plant whatever it liked. One can form no idea of the excitement which prevailed. The small agriculturists had to be restrained from digging up the seeds to see how soon they would grow.

This idea of utilizing vacant city lots and school yards for gardens is gaining rapid favor. The cities are realizing what it means to the poor to be taught the care of the soil and how to grow things. It means that perhaps soon the rush to great cities, which all sociologists are deploring, will be counterbalanced by an exodus to the country on the part of those who appreciate their own home, fresh air and plenty of green vegetables as contrasted to the cramped life and poor food of the workshop and factory.

DURING RECESS.

Last year $50,000 worth of vegetables were raised by the poor in the vacant lots of Philadelphia, and the number of people benefited was nearly 4,000. Almost every large city by this time has its club for the purpose of obtaining the loan of vacant lots and supplying seeds and utensils for work therein.

Potatoes, corn, peas and beans were all raised in the Philadelphia gardens last season. There were also cabbage patches in the heart of the city, and cucumber vines were very common.

The pupils of one public school made their lawn a thing of beauty covered with flowers. In the spring and fall the teachers held flower shows in which the pupils who had grown the best specimens were given prizes.

Working in the garden in another school was made a reward of merit, and in every case it was noticed that both health and standard in studies were improved.

If there is any town that has not started this movement now is the time to begin.

BEATRICE MILLER.

ARTISTIC DINING ROOM.

A Pretty Scheme of Decoration For a Small House.

White woodwork will make the smallest room appear spacious, and for this reason it was employed in the small dining room shown in the sketch. Notice the roomy mantel, with its design of white pillars and its quaint oval framed painting hung in the center. On either side there is a square, post-like arrangement which holds an electric light incased in a round globe like a lamp. Other electric globes also are suspended from the raftered ceiling, giving a quaint effect and a very good light.

The furniture is odd. It is of mahogany covered with old fashioned bottle green tapestry. Notice the grandfather's chair and clock in the corner; they give an artistic touch. The walls are designed in a series of arches, picked out with gold paint, which touch down a trifle the snowy effect. The rug is green and the floor hard wood. The table is mahogany, and, I may add, the dinner service in this room is green and white to harmonize.

WHITE AND GREEN COLOR SCHEME.

R. DE LA RAUMER.

FEMININE FRIBBLES.

Changeable Silk Shirt Waist Suits. Irish Point Ballons Smart.

Some of the prettiest effects in shirt waist suits are to be seen in changeable silk showing red and green. The skirts are very full and tucked at the bottom, and the waist and sleeves are also tucked. These suits are quite inexpensive and wear beautifully throughout an entire season.

Sailor shapes covered with Irish point and trimmed with a rache of shaded ribbon made full and fluffy about the crown are simple to make and very becoming.

Blouse waists this summer are not the floppy shapeless garments they were last season. To be smart they must fit perfectly. The well fitting waist has no side seams, but the underarm seam is curved to the figure, and the shoulder line curves toward the back. There is, of course, no "droop" at the waist line, and the plaits run from shoulder to belt. The sleeves are rather large all the way down, and the cuff, if cuff there be, is deep or the sleeve is put into a band.

HAT OF BURNT STRAW.

The summer girl will be beribboned to her heart's content. For her dressy white frock she may have several sets of tiny ribbon rose wreaths in empire designs with which to adorn both skirt and waist. She may also wear with the same creation a rose boa made of soft satin ribbon manipulated into roses and sewn thickly on a foundation of plaited chiffon. The boa is about half a yard long and finishes with long ends of plaited chiffon.

The pretty hat shown in the cut is of burnt straw. It turns up abruptly at the back, where it is filled in with loops of black velvet ribbon and Gloire de Dijon roses. These roses, together with two soft wings of pale yellow, form a trimming about the crown. Under the brim near the edge is an inch wide band of black velvet, and toward the face are folds of yellow tulle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HOT WEATHER STYLES.

Five Gored Skirts Liked For Tub Frocks—Jackets of Irish Lace.

Sleeves are getting smaller every week and all semblance of droop at the wrist has vanished. The fullness, what there is of it, comes from the elbow.

With all the changes going on in styles skirts remain almost the same. For every day washtub gowns the new five gored pattern is the best to use. It is slightly gathered at the back and sides and has a deep Spanish flounce quite straight, but not very full. This flounce is tucked and has a wide hem at the foot line. It is mounted to the upper part of the skirt with gathers or with a heading of embroidery or heavy insertion.

WHITE LINEN COAT.

For thin narrow materials a circular skirt top is preferred. A deep circular flounce is sewed to this foundation, on which are any number of smaller ruffles.

Princess frocks are to be seen on many of the best models of handkerchief linen and batiste. They are tucked to fit into the waist line and trimmed with lace and designs in fine band embroidery.

The coat pictured is of white linen. The collar and cuffs are appliqued with a bright navy blue linen. The belt coming from either side the back seams defines the figure and disappears beneath the fronts, leaving the latter free for the display of a pretty lingerie shirt waist.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION'S TREND.

Dainty Garnish For the Summer Girl. New Tucked Skirt Trimming.

The fashionable mixture of coarse embroidery, fine muslin and insertion is stunningly carried out on a fete frock of white swiss embroidery. The full skirt has wide, old fashioned flounces of swiss embroidery alternating with tucks and fine insertion to the top. The short baby bodice has a round yoke of lace insertion, about which is a flounce of swiss embroidery. The three-quarter sleeves are formed of embroidery ruffles, and the folded deep girdle is of white louisine.

A new way of trimming a skirt is to tuck, say, the front width in three deep tucks at the bottom and the two side widths in a similar fashion at the knee bend and so on up and down around the entire skirt. This style is particularly good for pongee and summer silk frocks.

PALE BLUE CHIP HAT.

Pongee either in natural colors or pale shades makes up into the smartest kind of shirt waist dresses. These frocks should not be too elaborate, for in this way they defeat their useful purpose and the laundry possibilities of the material. To relieve the pongee coloring guimpes and cuffs of lace, mull or swiss embroidery are attractive, and several sets make a gown of this description always ready to wear.

The hat pictured is a dainty marquis shape of pale blue chip. It is charmingly trimmed with garlands of roses and bows of dark blue velvet. A white bird of paradise effectively placed at one side of the hat gives height and beauty to the whole creation.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Linen Parasols Both In White and Colors Are Very Smart.

Linen parasols are much in evidence this summer. A stunning sunshade is of mandarin pink linen with a two inch edge of yellow leather. A bow of yellow leather decorates the handle, which is of natural wood.

Very lovely are the parasols of sheer white linen or mercerized cotton encircled near the edge with Chinese embroidery and small sprays of the same work dotted over the rest of the cover. This embroidery is done in white mercerized thread.

Another sunshade which appeals to lovers of color harmonies is in dark green silk with a border decoration of conventionalized daisies worked in green chenille. A dainty white silk parasol has fluffy ruffles of chiffon about the edge and stalks of purple flags in natural colors for decoration painted on the panels.

TAFFETA SILK SUNSHADE.

Extremely attractive is a white sunshade composed of tiny flat ruffles of silk buttonholed in points. The handle is of white wood ornamented with a chic bow of silver gauze ribbon.

A plain pongee sunshade may be brought up to date by having an Eng lish eyelet embroidery pattern stamped on it and worked by the owner.

A new adaptation of broderie anglaise is a single row of eyelet holes edged with pointed scallops, the whole narrow edging shaped in crescents that join by their tips. This trimming is used for outlining yokes and ruffles.

Collar and cuff sets are fascinating and grow deeper and more elaborate each day. Blind and openwork embroidery, light and heavy laces all play prominent parts in their making. In some of the prettiest sets bits of Japanese drawn work is introduced.

The dainty parasol illustrated is of white taffeta silk. The edge is elaborately frilled with chiffon, and four motifs of black lace are appliqued on the sunshade with good effect.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SARTORIAL NEWS.

Chemisettes Are the Correct Neck Finish For Dressy Frocks.

Chemisettes are to be seen on all the smart summer waists. The U shaped ones are the most fashionable. They are made of the finest handkerchief linen daintily embroidered and put together as carefully as the finest baby clothes with tiny beadings, laces and insertions. The collars are carefully shaped, and the whole chemisette fastens with French loops and lace buttons.

Tiny buds made of brussels net is a new trimming for blouse waists. Outlining a yoke trimmed with valenciennes lace these buds are most attractive.

The almost impossible task of getting more fullness into the skirt about the feet is accomplished with an embroidered ruffle shaped and gathered into half circles which join at the tips. Under this ruffle is another one with all the material plaited into it that can possibly be managed. This plaiting only shows in between the sections of the ruffle, but fluffs it out in the airiest fashion.

COSTUME OF INDIA SILK.

The girl's frock illustrated is of white india silk. About the bottom of the skirt are rows of tiny tucks above a band of white silk braid. The waist falls from an all over lace yoke in two double box plaits, flanked by several side ones. Outlining the yoke are bands of the braid trimmed with silk passementerie. The elbow sleeves finish with a ruffle of the silk and lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

UP TO DATE LINGERIE.

Gowns Are Made In Chemise Style. Dainty Yoke and Sleeve Effects.

Charming sets of handmade lingerie are at hand in the shops ready for the early summer bride to add to her trousseau. Handmade underwear is always the daintiest, therefore the most expensive to buy, but many charming pieces of lingerie may be added if the bride elect is clever with her needle. Regulation bridal sets contain three pieces, and an extra short petticoat is often added.

The new gowns are made in chemise style, to be drawn over the head, and with very short or elbow length sleeves. The new feature is broderie anglaise trimming applied as a yoke. Many of the chemise gowns have V shaped yokes in front which round in the back, whence the fullness falls. Entire sleeves cut bell shaped to the elbow are made of the broderie. Both the sleeves and yoke are run with wash ribbon. The yoke is attached to the nainsook skirt with narrow beading, which also holds the skirt seams together.

A LOUIS STYLE CORSET COVER.

Another pretty yoke is made with strips of fine sheer nainsook crisscrossed with half inch wide val lace insertion. The yoke and sleeves are edged with val beading. Ribbon is run through the beading on the sleeves and finished at the elbow with bows. The yoke has the same ribbon finish tied in a bow in the center. Yoke and sleeves can be cut first and crisscrossed with the lace afterward, but the material must be cut from under the lace after it is sewed on.

The corset cover shown in the cut is designed to wear under the new tight fitting bodices. It fastens in the back and is trimmed with insertion and medallions of lace. The material is fine nainsook.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

A Support For Loose Collars—China Silk Frocks For Children.

There is a simple little device for holding up thin unlined collars which is little known. It consists of several thin slides of real or rolled gold, which fasten inside the collar and clamp at the top with screws held in place by jeweled heads. In gold these collar supports are expensive, but in imitation quite inexpensive.

The collars this summer have reached amazing heights, whether they be made of linen, lace, jewels or velvet ribbon. Where they are going to end one does not know, as a depth of three and a half inches is considered by no means too high. The best cut collars are not uncomfortable, for they are scooped out under the chin and are set low down on the waist neck.

To take the place of endless gingham and cotton frocks for small girls over five are the thin, dark dresses made of china silk or soft pongee. They are made up without lining, and a variety of white cuffs and collars gives a bright and becoming touch to the dark frock. These silk dresses are especially good and serviceable for traveling wear.

SILK DRESSING JACKET.

Awfully pretty is the dressing jacket illustrated. It is made of flowered china silk. The shape follows the lines of the kimono with the exception of the capelike sleeves and the attractive curving of the neck. For trimming is chosen a border of plain china silk in the deepest shade of the prevailing tone in the flowered silk. Bows of ribbon to match find their hiding place at throat and arms.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOREOAST OF FASHION.

Pretty and Inexpensive Cotton Materials For Shirt Waists.

There are so many different inexpensive and pretty cotton materials for shirt waists that it is difficult to make a selection. Perhaps mercerized ginghams are the most satisfactory among the cheaper stuffs. This material comes in all colors and combinations of colors, especially pretty, though, are the jacquard or shot effects, the figures being in contrasting colors or of the ground tone.

Dotted effects seem to have taken the place of stripes in popular favor for shirt waist materials. Dainty pink and white ginghams are to be had in cross line checks dotted with self or other colors.

The plain tone ginghams, madras and batiste in light blue, tan and green are smarter than the figured effects, with white as first choice.

There is an expensive cotton voile that is being made up into shirt waist dresses marked at $1 a yard. The effects in this fabric are generally checks sprigged over with tiny rosebuds.

CHINA SILK BLOUSE.

The Frenchy little shirt waist illustrated is of china silk. The front fullness, which crosses in fichu fashion, gets its start from an embroidered rever just above the bust line. The remaining parts of the fronts are plain except for a little fullness at the waist. The chemisette is of tucked mull and is ornamented down the front with two swiss embroidered motifs, one of which is finished with a jabot of mull. The sleeves are leg of mutton of three-quarter length and finished with four frills of mull.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Feminine Snapshots

Good That the Osler Dictum Has Done

The humorous remark attributed to Professor Osler that man reaches the climax of his powers at forty and at sixty ought to be gently chloroformed off the stage has done a world of good even though, as Dr. Osler claims, he did not really say this. The alleged saying has been printed throughout the United States and Europe. In England it has stirred up an almost exciting discussion. A London paper points out that now men will have a stronger motive even than women to keep young and conceal their age as they approach forty. To woman age means loss of physical attraction. To men, according to the alleged Osler dictum, it will henceforth mean "a serious deprecation in their cash value." The writer says, "If passing forty is to knock a considerable sum off a man's living or perhaps to deprive him altogether of a chance of earning a living, I have not the slightest doubt that a great number of men will deem it wise to remain at thirty-two or some such age until they are too old to summon enough breath to gasp out the lie." Good! Now let the masculine sex as well as the feminine wake up to the disgracefulness of growing old. The notable point of the quotation from the English paper is that the article from which it is taken was written by a man.

In Switzerland a German noblewoman, Princess Gertrude Philippine Alexandra Marie Augustine Louise von Isembourg-Buendingen-Waechtersbach, has failed for $15,000,000 and gone into bankruptcy. No wonder!

The recent antiquated vote on the women taxpayers' bill in the New York state senate shows its members to have reached that age where they might with advantage be Oslerized.

Nice civilized country this! The limb on which a negro was hanged in a lynching some time ago in a certain locality has been cut from the tree and made into "little relics and curios" by an enterprising genius who will sell them as souvenirs to all who wish to buy. Will the fair ladies of that region presently be wearing these precious souvenirs attached to gold chains around their snowy necks?

"The funeral of Mrs. Brown, widow of Peter Filkins Brown, will take place Thursday at 11 o'clock at the residence of her mother-in-law, Joseph Jenkins Jones, Esq." Poor "relict!" She was merely Peter Filkins Brown's widow and Joseph Jenkins Jones' mother-in-law. In every stage of life she was only an appendage to some man, and even allowed to have a name of her own! One man's widow, another man's mother-in-law—that was all! Really, is a woman anybody?

Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks, wife of the vice president, makes public speeches, and excellent ones, too, thus setting an example which other women of high social and official station will no doubt follow. In a recent address to a woman's club Mrs. Fairbanks said: "I believe women should set an example of loyalty and patriotism in the home. There is no better way of showing your devotion to your country than in helping to purify politics. I am in favor of politics for women."

Lately a millionaire fell in love with a telephone girl and married her. He was attracted to her first by her "sweetly modulated voice" over the phone. This is good news. Now we may hope that the present anative vocalization of some of the other telephone girls will become sweetly modulated.

What a sight for gods and men it must have been—General Linevitch in Manchuria passing along the lines of his army, kissing every soldier in the ranks!

Queer kind of upside down, wrong end foremost ways this feminine world has! At the time a woman needs to brace up and summon all her energy and grit in the supreme effort to keep young and maintain her activities, mental and physical, to the end of her days, at that very time her own children come around her and begin to drive her out of life. She's too old to do this or that, she needs rest, she need not care any more how she looks or what she wears and at her age this or that thing is not proper for her. The pity of it is that many a time the mother lets herself be governed by the crude, selfish inexperience of her children and actually gives up all that makes life worth living at a time when her powers of body and mind are yet in their prime. It is nothing short of a crime for children thus to drive their mothers into dreary and useless old age. It looks as if the children were trying to coddle and "shoo" their mother out of the world instead of trying to keep her young and active. So, mothers, whatever else you do that you shouldn't don't let your children boss you at any age.

I have just seen the advertisement of a fine seaside hotel conducted by "Mrs. J. J. Blank & Son." Good!

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

A WEARY EXILE FOR FORTY YEARS

SAD FATE OF VIRGINIAN WHO FOUGHT FOR THE UNION.

OSTRACIZED BY RELATIVES

Driven from Home at Close of Struggle by Jibes and Jeers of Former Friends—Dies a Hermit in California.

San Francisco.—Disowned and driven from home by a wife and children because he, a Virginian born, dared espouse the cause of the union, in the war of the rebellion, N. L. Blackman, a veteran of the civil war, a few days ago died the death of a hermit in the mountains near Coverdale, in Sonoma county, Cal., with no comforting hand to soothe the last hours of mortal agony.

His unswerving devotion to the stars and stripes not only cost Blackman his family and loved ones, but his friends as well. Shunning the society of men, he plunged into the woods and sought in the friendly solitude of the forest relief from the cruel wrong inflicted upon him by unrelenting kin. There, in a rude cabin with no conveniences save those fashioned by his own hands, he ran the course of his exile, dying as he had lived, a hermit.

When the war broke out in 1861 old Virginia, the border land between north and south, was aflame with a fierce hatred for the north. Blackman, then a young man about 25, cast his lot with those who favored the union. His family importuned him to recede from his attitude, arguing that their good name would be forever besmirched, but Blackman was obdurate. They beseeched him to take up arms and enlist, but to all entreaties he turned a deaf ear.

Finally he was drafted and compelled to serve in the confederate army. He absolutely refused to shoulder a rifle, however, and under compulsion only served as a roustabout carpenter and laborer.

Sullenly Blackman kept at his work and stood the jibes and jeers of his old friends as best he could. One day, however, it became unbearable, and he slipped away, making his escape into the union lines, where he took up arms in the regular army. His escape was discovered and a close watch kept upon all prisoners in the hope that he might be recaptured and punished.

There came a day not long afterward when the watchfulness of his confederate acquaintances was rewarded, and Blackman was brought back into camp, this time not only a deserter, but a union prisoner. Instead of shooting him, as would have been the fate of any other prisoner similarly captured, he was permitted to resume his former occupation of camp roustabout. He served thus for a time, plotting all the while to make his escape, for the jibes and jeers were worse than ever.

The fortunate day at last came, and Blackman not only escaped, but made his way to a union ship, where he was least likely to be caught again by his confederate enemies. Men were not plentiful aboard ship in those days, and Blackman's services were welcomed. He was put in charge of a crew of powder monkeys and superintended the passing of ammunition from the vessel's hold to the gunners on deck. In this capacity he served until the war's close, and had the satisfaction of seeing the stars and stripes triumph and his traducers beaten into submission.

Return home he dared not, for fear of abuse and possible bodily harm, so he stayed away, not knowing what had become of his young wife. There came a day, though, when the home hunger tugged at the heart strings so strongly that he turned toward old Virginia again, and after a lapse of years ventured back to the town of his boyhood, trusting that his relatives would be willing to forgive and forget and allow him to resume his place again in their midst.

DIED WITH NO COMFORTING HAND TO SOOTHE THE LAST HOURS.

But there was no home for him. His wife had a heart as hard as adamant. He might just as easily have forced water from a stone as pity from her, and [illegible] an exile, to [illegible] friend [illegible].

That was [illegible] years ago. [illegible] It was so [illegible] and would [illegible] city [illegible] of land, miles away from the habitations, out in the very heart of nature's wildest depths. Here he built him a shack for shelter and eked out a bare existence by cutting and selling the wood which abounded on his property. He split pickets and hauled them to town, pausing only long enough to make his trade, secure a few supplies and slip away again into solitude.

When old age pressed its gathering infirmities upon his frame he began to think about a pension. He who had given so much for his country, surely was entitled to that scant relief offered by a generous government to those who had served their flag and bared their breasts to the fire of the enemy. He made his application and was told that he had no standing—that he was a deserter from the union ranks, not because he had been captured, but because he had served subsequently in the confederate ranks.

Months and months went by. The department conceded his point that he had not borne arms, but set up the claim that he had not reported for final discharge. There was red tape and a long investigation by cranky officials, who a year ago finally gave sanction to a pension.

Five hundred dollars was sent the soldier-sailor who had lived a hermit, who had suffered ostracism for his convictions, the money representing the sum he would have received from the date of his original application. Having no immediate need, for so much money, Blackman put it in a bank in Cloverdale, and there it lies to-day—the lawful property of those who spurned him in life and drove him into exile.

Once more his old heart softened. He sent $100 to a daughter in Virginia, believing that she could use it. But the money was returned. He was apparently still unforgiven.

But he had a soldier's funeral, did this poor old man. He had, during his last few years, mixed a bit now and then with a few of his kind in the town where he had come to procure supplies, and the grizzled, bent grand army veterans saw to it that he was buried with proper honors. They draped Old Glory over his plain deal coffin and he was laid away to wait the judgment day when the wrongs of men are made right by the Almighty.

SHE SLEEPS STANDING UP AGAINST A WALL.

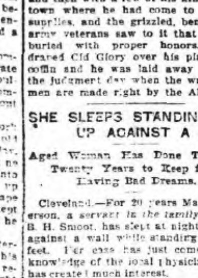
Aged Woman Has Done This for Twenty Years to Keep from Having Bad Dreams.

Cleveland.—For 20 years Mary Dickerson, a servant in the family of Mrs. B. H. Smoot, has slept at night leaning against a wall while standing on her feet. Her case has just come to the knowledge of the local physicians, and has created much interest.

Mrs. Dickerson is 78 years of age, a small woman, but exceedingly strong and wiry for one of her years.



SHE SLEEPS STANDING AGAINST THE WALL.

She informed the physicians that for more than 30 years she was addicted to the use of morphine, but has cured herself of the habit through becoming converted at a religious revival.

"It's this way," she said. "When I took the cure I had the most terrible dreams [illegible] morphine I took the worse the dreams got. I found that when I took [illegible] and went to bed I would dream of falling into hell's fire or going through the worst tortures. I just couldn't stand it, and I'd have to get up and take more dope. I couldn't afford that. I had just money enough to buy a little of the stuff at a time, and couldn't afford to take it day and night. So I started to sleep in a chair. That was better, but the dreams still came, and so I started to sleep standing up. Then I had no bad dreams, and I've kept it up ever since. I couldn't sleep in bed now if I wanted to."

Eagle Tries to Steal Girl.

Long Prairie, Minn.—While school children were on their way home after school the other day a huge eagle swooped down and seized the five-year-old daughter of Loy Reamer and attempted to carry her away. The bird fastened its talons to the child's shoulder and her skirt, and lifted her several feet from the ground, when her frantic appeals for help were answered by several boys, who went to her assistance. They grasped her clothing, and their combined weight was more than the eagle could lift. It released the girl and sailed away. When young Blair seized the girl the bird struck him on the head with its wing, knocking him to the ground. The boys and girls had been watching the eagle sailing to and fro about 50 feet above the ground, when suddenly just as he was directly above them he closed his wings and dropped to the ground. The children attempted to flee but as soon as they saw the bird seize their schoolmate, the boys turned back to rescue her.

FOR NEW ORLEANS

GREAT FUTURE PROPHESIED WHEN CANAL IS IN USE.

MAY OUTRIVAL NEW YORK

Strides Taken by City in Recent Years—Tourists Complain It Is Losing Picturesqueness—Old Town and New.

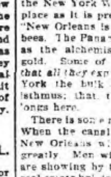
NEW ORLEANS.—Prophets there be that make prognostication of the wonderful growth of this far southern city when once the Panama canal draws traffic through its short route from ocean to ocean. These prophets bid New York look well to her place as metropolis, warn that short and sure will be the contest in which the Louisiana town makes strife for supremacy.

Which, of course, is food for laughter in Manhattan, what has she to fear of that portion of the country lying west her island? The rest of the country, usually of course sees the exaggeration and boasting of the prophecy, but, unlike New York, is willing to concede that New Orleans is fast advancing in importance and that her prospects for growth are of the finest.

Her residents are awake to these possibilities, and her board of trade, Progressive union, and other commercial bodies are exploiting their town to the best of their ability. At present activity is at a high pitch. A correspondent of the New York World thus describes the place as it is presented to an observer: "New Orleans is buzzing like a hive of bees. The Panama canal is looked upon as the alchemist that will make the gold. Some of the business men say that all they expect is to turn from New York the bulk of the trade with the isthmus; that, they say, naturally belongs here.

There is some reason for their dreams. When the canal is opened the port of New Orleans without doubt will profit greatly. Men within and men without are showing by their interest to obtain real estate holdings that they have faith in a coming great prosperity. Property is being sold at enormous prices money that for years has been lying idle is now being invested. And this boom is looked upon as substantial; no Mississippi bubble.

Past and Present.



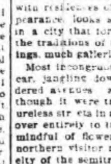
IN DAYS gone by, "befo' the wa'," the clearings of the banks of New Orleans exceeded the clearings of the banks of New York. The war set the place back; but now she is fresh and lusty again, eager to regain and add to her old prestige.

Two centuries and more she can count as her age, this town so favorably situated as a depot [illegible] send down [illegible] cargoes from [illegible] riches to the city [illegible] though frequently [illegible] yellow waters of the [illegible] to control [illegible] is the metropolis [illegible] second largest city [illegible] as she thinks, the [illegible] her more benefit than [illegible] of our ports, no [illegible] dream of [illegible].

To-day the city is a strange compound of the old and the new. Here stand business houses a couple of hundred years old, and near them modern office structures; a modern quarter, with residences of modern date and appearance, looks strangely out of place in a city that for so long has retained the traditions of the low-storied dwellings, much galleried, vine-wreathed.

Most incongruous of all is the trolley car, jangling down the magnolia bordered avenues as unconcernedly as though it were traversing stony, verdureless streets in a northern town given over entirely to trade and business, unmindful of flowers and beauty. The northern visitor never tires of the novelty of the semitropic growths that refresh eye and spirit along the anything but commonplace way the street car follows. On one side may be the smoothest of carriage drives, on the other a delightful bridle path in the center velvety grass with an inner avenue of beautiful trees. The historic French quarter, though resisting with the might and main of prejudice, is being affected by innovations of trolley, railway terminals, modern structures and modern people. All over the town one sees the resistance is not equal to the invasion.

The Old Part.



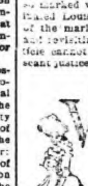
WRITERS innumerable have attempted to picture the quaint charm, the tropical beauty of this lovely town, but one to realize the charm and [illegible] must see for himself. The [illegible] roofs [illegible] streets [illegible] homes [illegible] the S[illegible] wealth o[illegible] these appeal to the onlooker as distinctly foreign, un-United States-y. He feels sure he has been dropped down in a foreign land, and a foreign land that he wants to linger in.

There are, I believe, but two cellars in the town, for the river being higher than the land, cellars are not popular. The houses are built up high above the morass-like soil. There is no place so humble that it lacks a carefully tended hedge, concealing the house's foundations, giving seclusion and adornment. No house so humble but that it has a veranda (or gallery, as it is called here), and few indeed are the verandas that lack climbing rose and nearby blossoming shrubs. One small negro cabin along the path of the street car was so luxuriously draped in roses, an interested northerner took the pains to count them; they numbered two hundred-odd.

The gallery may be a cheap affair built of wood, small in size; or it may be of generous dimensions, run around the entire structure, with splendid pillars and capitals. Sometimes it is of ironwork, of finest workmanship. Rich and poor live on the galleries, a house seems a place to retire to only for sleep. Another institution particularly sacred in this town is the banquette, where the people promenade back and forth for the evening gossip, the sidewalk much more given over to sociability than with us of the north.

In speaking of the old part of the town one must certainly make mention of the cemeteries, shrines and churches so marked with the religion that dominated Louisiana; must at least speak of the markets, surely worth visiting and revisiting. A short newspaper article cannot pretend to do them even scant justice.

About Town.



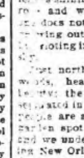
WE WANDER here and there and take keen pleasure in the natural beauties, in the grace and good looks of the southern women, in the glimpses of aristocrat vouchsafed, in the infinite humor of the darky population, in the French half of the town, in all the tide of outdoor life. Some one speaks of New Orleans as the city that lives out doors, and so it may well be characterized. We go to the parks and it seems the whole town is disporting there; placidly enjoying the moss-draped great live oaks, lazily watching the movements of the alligators in the water, or simply basking with their companions in the warmth and light.

In the garden district we find outdoor life in its most aristocratic form, if one may so speak of what is supposed to be a return to the primitive. This was once a far-famed faubourg. Here are numbers of fine old places typical of that elegant, gracious hospitality indulged in by the old families of wealth and high station.

An avenue of magnolias in itself is worth a pilgrimage to from a far distance; the huge white blossoms of intoxicating beauty, the polished green of the leaves shining far down the street. The rose and wistaria draped brick walls one does not soon forget, nor the palms growing out of doors, nor glassed over but rioting in the open air under the blue sky.

Just north of the city are the pine woods, health giving and of much beauty; the palm and the pine not far separated in this land of contrasts. The people are always on the way to some garden spot, park or woods or fields; and we understand the reason for calling New Orleans the city that lives outdoors.

Reforms and Special Virtues.



THOUGH sentimentally we may regret modernizations, yet we confess that not a little of the old was deplorable. Take, for instance, the dirt and rubbish of the French quarter, the garbage cans and smells of that region. And one cannot but acknowledge that the city is badly in need of sewers that it is badly in need of proper cleaning; cannot but approve that it is now spending millions on the installation of a sewerage system. The principal business thoroughfare, Canal street, is dreadfully dirty, and surely those that rail at modernization will allow new methods of street cleaning.

But New Orleans is ahead of many a town that reproaches her for these two just-mentioned civic crimes. She offers the hungry the best of food at moderate prices. Residents say here people eat better and cheaper than anywhere else in this country. While we are not ready to make this positive statement, we do not hesitate to praise both the cooking and the bills of the numberless restaurants and cafes.

New Orleans has delightful weather nine months of the year, a great virtue. New Orleans has the sweetest-faced, sweetest-voiced shop girls; a decided virtue. New Orleans has a fine street car system; a virtue. Is it not, Chicago? And how full of interest are her curiosity and antique shops, where are to be seen (and bought if one have the purse) rare pieces from the homes of the early French settlers, many of the first families of France. As one looks over the treasures kept under the jealous eye of the collector one thinks back on those early days of New Orleans, the French, Spanish and creole people. And one wonders how soon the leaven of industrialism shall have banished all trace of these.

CHRISTOPHER WEBSTER.

JACOB AND THE FORTY THIEVES

MODERN SYNDICATE OF CRIMINALS DISCOVERED IN FRANCE.

GANG RAIDED MANY LANDS

Stole Property Valued at Over Million Francs—Biography of Chief—Band of Arabian Nights' Fame Outdone.

Paris.—The case of the "anarchist burglars," which opened recently before the assizes court of Amiens, is one of the most extraordinary romances of crime I have ever heard of, writes the Paris correspondent of a London paper. This trial is an event of no mere local interest.

The gang, which consisted of about 40 members, 26 of whom are arrested, ranged from the North sea to the Mediterranean and from the Atlantic to the Alps. They even raided Belgium and Switzerland. Most of the sensational burglaries committed between 1900 and 1903 have been traced to them, and yet the police had no suspicion of this organized body of "Forty Thieves" until April of the latter year.

The investigation into their crimes has lasted two years the records concerning them consists of 20,000 minutes. 95 charges have been set forth in the indictment and the total value of the robberies, as far as can be ascertained, runs up to 1,200,000 francs. Over 150 witnesses have been subpoenaed from every part of France.

The members of the "Abbeyville gang," as they are commonly called, on account of the place where their leader was arrested, belonged all to the better educated working class. Among their professions I note those of antiquary, compositor, cabinet-maker, goldsmith, wood carver, sculptor, layer of mosaic, locksmith, flower seller, shop clerk, house painter etc.

I am sure Sherlock Holmes will note with particular interest the apparently trivial—albeit quite fortuitous—circumstance that led to the capture of the gang. An Abbeyville coffee-house keeper, M. Leleu, who lives on Cathedral square, was suffering one night from toothache. Unable to go to sleep, he paced up and down his room in the small hours of the morning with his hand to his cheek, when his attention was called to three strangers stopping in front of his windows. He saw them pick the lock of a neighbor's house and they succeeded in opening the door. M. Leleu pluckily enough went out to rouse the police. Unfortunately the strangers heard him close his door, and when the police came up they had disappeared.

THEY WHIPPED OUT REVOLVERS AND FIRED ON THE POLICEMEN.

M. Leleu, however, who is evidently a man of head, was able to give a good description of them. He had seen them in the light of an electric lamp. They had been noticed on the high road to Calais, and it was conjectured that they intended to catch a train at the first station (they knew better than to take the train at Abbeyville). Two policemen sent after them caught them without difficulty. The prisoners accompanied them meekly into the station waiting-room. On being charged, however, two of them whipped out revolvers, and fired on the policemen, one being killed, the other seriously injured.

The station officials were panic-stricken, and ran off, and so did the three criminals—in different directions. One of the fugitives, who was no other than the leader of the gang, named Jacob, lost his way and got stuck in one of the marshes around Abbeyville, where he was easily secured. The second also was caught. The third made his way on foot, over 100 miles distant, sleeping at night under haystacks, and avoiding the larger towns. At Paris he was arrested.

The prisoners refused to answer questions. The police, however, in their pursuit had picked up some torn bits of paper, and these, coupled with information given by the telegraph office, led to the discovery of the gang.

The "Abbeyville gang" operated in the following manner: : Their headquarters were in Paris. When an expedition was decided upon one or two scouts were sent out in advance. To find out whether a house was empty they placed on the door little strips of dark-colored paper. If, after 24 hours, the strips were found intact, a telegram was sent to headquarters. The message consisted of one work, "George," which meant: "You can come down." They passed the whole night in the houses they robbed in order not to be seen in the streets, and they left by early trains. All the booty was shared with the whole gang. Gold jewelry went into the melting pot; stock market securities were sent abroad.

Among the notable deeds of the gang are the burglaries of the cathedrals of Beauvais, Rouen and Tours (where they "lifted" 200,000 francs' worth of old tapestries). When I say "worth," I mean the sum at which they sold these objects d'art.

Jacob, the chief, is 26 years of age, and a Marseillais. He started in life as a cabin boy, became a compositor, wrote anarchistic tracts (one bears this title: "When Shall We Cut Throats?") and manufactured dynamite bombs.

His first robbery was characteristic. Assuming the part of a police superintendent, he seized a quantity of jewelry at a pawnbroker's. He was arrested. He then shammed insanity and was sent to a lunatic asylum and escaped, after enrolling one of the wardens in the gang. He seems to be a Napoleon among burglars. Among the prisoners are Jacob's sweetheart, his mother and a couple of other women. They have been given a front seat in the dock, and they all wear fur pelisses. One of the men, who played the part of a society gentleman, was arrested at Jibutil, in the Red sea, on a cable warrant. He was a first-class passenger to Tonquin.

The gang were in every way up to date. They were provided with most extensive tools of hardened steel, and carried incandescent lamps.

FAIR THIEF, A BRIDE, TRAPPED BY STEPS.

Woman Storekeeper Solves Mystery of Numerous Robberies by Sprinkling Flour on the Floor.

New York.—Betrayed by a "floury" trail which led from a grocery store she is accused of robbing to her door, Mrs. Elizabeth Bauer, a bride of a few weeks, was trapped by the Long Island city police. The store was owned by a woman, and it was she who devised the plan of sprinkling the floor with flour in order to track the thief, who had been making nightly visits to the store for several weeks.

The plan worked well, but as the tracks led to the door of a friend and neighbor, she hesitated to make an accusation. She turned the case over to District Attorney Gregg, who set the trap which caught the thief. The owner of the store is Mrs. William Huber, of the Blissville section, a widow with six children and with two small grocery stores on her hands. Her store at 161 Pearsall street is in charge of her daughter, a girl of 17.

Recently the small stock had become depleted very fast, while trade was never so dull. Goods that were in place when the store was closed were missing in the morning.

Mrs. Huber hit upon the scheme of scattering flour about the floor in the hope that the footprints of the thief would give a clew. On the following morning more goods were missing and the prints of a woman's foot were plainly marked in the floor, and they led to the door of Mrs. Bauer, who occupies rooms in the same building. Mrs. Huber was on good terms with Mrs. Bauer and refused to believe that she was guilty, but consulted the district attorney.

Mr. Gregg sent Policeman Rigney to the store with instructions to hide and remain on watch all night. No one entered the place until just at daybreak, when Rigney heard a key inserted in the lock of a side door and he saw a woman enter. She selected some canned goods from the shelves and then Rigney crept up and took her by the arm.

THE FOOTPRINTS LED TO THE DOOR OF MRS. BAUER.

The woman pleaded in vain that her husband be spared the humiliation of her arrest. She promised restitution to the widow and anything that could be asked of her to save the disgrace. The woman was arraigned before Magistrate Smith in the police court a few hours later. She confessed that she had been in the store many times and had taken the missing articles. She was married to John Bauer only a few weeks ago. He bears a good reputation. Mrs. Bauer was held in $1,000 bail for examination on a charge of burglary.

Woman a Grandmother at 30.

Bangor, Me.—Mrs. Sarah Jane Dearing, wife of Capt. Charles F. Dearing, of 167 Sheridan street, Portland, although but 30 years old, is a grandmother, and in recognition of this distinction she has just received from President Roosevelt his photograph bearing the presidential autograph. Mrs. Dearing, who was married when she was under 13 years of age, is the mother of seven children, of whom six are living and in the best of health. She was about 13 years and eight months old when her eldest daughter, now 16 and the mother of a fine girl baby, was born.

A NEW UNDERTAKING

BUREAU OF MANUFACTURES IS PREPARING FOR WORK.

To Perfect Our Product and Further Trade — Head Is J. Hampton Moore, President of National Republican League.

The cabinet is branching out, not restricted to the narrow lines of the days prior to the important and long-neglected department of agriculture. This last-named department, which has in its short period of service worked such wonders, is not yet 20 years old. A correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle says concerning its work: "Although it was only 17 years ago when agriculture got this recognition (place in the cabinet), how has the importance of that recognition to the farmer been demonstrated? The scientific farmer has taken the place of the old-time plodder, and almost his every interest, from the protection of the roots of his plants against bugs to the utilization of the autumn leaves that fall from his trees, has been taken care of by specialists in government employ."

J. HAMPTON MOORE.

[illegible] the value of the agricultural department the country is becoming acquainted [illegible] the new undertaking we would consider here is the bureau of manufactures of the department of commerce and labor. The head of this bureau is a young Philadelphian, Mr. J. Hampton Moore, who has been newspaper man and student of industrial problems, although best known as president of the National Republican league. Concerning the bureau, which he is to direct, Mr. Moore remarks: "The bureau will be the Yankee salesman, with gripsack in hand, showing his goods to the world and encouraging good feeling among the foreign customers. It will be the promoter and boomer of American manufactures. It is the first government bureau whose business it has been to stand at the entrance of the American store and invite people to come in. In other words, our function is to foster, promote and develop, not only the manufacturing interests of the United States, but the markets for them. We shall be promoting editors, and people that want information that is appropriate shall get it from us. Assimilated with the information which we shall gather will be data obtainable from the other bureaus of this department—from the census bureau, the bureau of labor, the bureau of statistics, the bureau of fisheries, the bureau of standards, the bureau of navigation, the bureau of immigration, and so on. We will utilize the information which the statisticians and scientists of the government have gathered and will work upon the foundation which they have laid."

But the work is to be aggressive as well as educational. Mr. Moore refers to various ways of presenting American goods abroad; to the establishment of stations where these goods shall be on display, and also suggests that there may be inaugurated great floating sample houses. This last is not such an improbable thing; not long ago an association of British manufacturers chartered a steamer to make a trip around the world with an exhibition of British manufactures. American consuls have declared that some such means of making our goods known would be valuable, is necessary; but we have neglected their advice, and allowed much valuable trade to slip through our fingers.

Mr. Moore deplores the fact that we have let Europeans monopolize the valuable South American trade. We quote from his words: "South America and Asia especially are the foreign markets which our manufacturers are most neglecting. In South America there are 50,000,000 people who need our manufactures and should have them. While all the riches of many countries in Europe have been made in South America for centuries, we are still standing by and letting this great market get out of our hands. Asia, of course, is attracting the attention of the whole commercial world now, and so is Africa to a growing degree. Germany recently completed a commercial arrangement with King Menelik of Abyssinia and France, with Madagascar."

Mr. Moore is well acquainted with German methods of commercial invasion, believes we should follow after in the fostering of trade and industrial schools. The German schools not only teach how to make a good product, but the commercial schools train the young men how to introduce the products into the "most distant [illegible]."

And our [illegible] [illegible] the advancement of the [illegible] product.

[illegible] as [illegible] you [illegible] Brooklyn [illegible]

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, ... Proprietor

Thursday, June 1, 1905.

Admiral Togo is doing a Russian business at sea.

Now just watch that galery-player who occupies the district-attorney's office in Gotham distribute the salve for a mayoralty nomination.

If there are any characteristics for which the people of Plainfield are noted it is the way they respond to whatever will help the place and the manner in which they advertise the city when away from home.

It is very generous of Mr. Fisk to say that he desires to step out of the presidency of Muhlenberg Hospital's Board of Governors at the expiration of his present term, but the question is can he be spared? In all kindness to his colleagues on the board there is none who is so much in touch with the people and who would probably be able to devote so much time to the institution's interests. Mr. Fisk's popularity with the masses is probably more pronounced than that of any other single individual in the city and borough and despite his reluctance to enter upon a sixth term, every effort should be made to induce him to continue in office.

Friends of good government in every city in the country can send up a prayer of thanksgiving that the mayor of Philadelphia had the courage to revolt against machine domination and has shown himself to be a true servant of the people. For the first time in the memory of man has a chief executive in that boss ridden municipality proved himself a man by daring to do right. The defeat of the "machine" which tried to sell the city to the gas gang will have a far reaching effect. The people in other communities, troubled by the same baneful influences, will realize what they possess when attempts are made by crooked officials to barter away valuable franchises against their will.

As "half a loaf is better than no bread," so is the new automobile law superior to what we have had, though it is by no means all that is desired. The chief fault to be found in it is the provision allowing a maximum speed of a mile in three minutes when it does not endanger life, liberty or property. A moment's thought will bring the conviction that no end of trouble will be caused by the condition annexed. When and where will it be dangerous to maintain the highest rate of speed allowed? Who is to judge, the chauffeur, the policeman or the courts? We have in mind an automobilist who dashes around corners in the business section of this city in a way that imperils life, and yet his machine is not traveling at the rate of a mile in three minutes by any manner of means. Were he allowed to be the judge, there never would be a conviction. Were the court allowed to judge from hearsay, it is doubtful if the reckless autoist would be found guilty. Were the policemen permitted to be the sole judge, it would be vesting him with too much power. What applies to dashing around corners of a block bears equally to a straight course. The condition contained in the provision renders the entire section ineffectual. Through such viciation, the whole bill is spoiled for that is its most material feature. Nothing can be done now, but there's opportunity for the next Legislature to greatly improve the present statute.

AMUSEMENTS.

Rightful title to the theatre-going throng has descended to the "Heir to the Hurrah" which is now showing to packed houses at the Hudson, in W. 44th street, New York. The success with which this best of American comedies has met has surprised even its own managers who predicted that it would prove one of the best drawing cards on the boards. There's a laugh a minute at each performance. Evenings at 8:30. Matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays. Purchase your tickets by mail in advance if you want to get a choice selection in seats.

LITERARY.

A writer whose mind was occupied with a knotty problem left the Lotos Club in New York to drive through Central Park in the hope that the open air would clear the cobwebs from his brain.

"Up-town," he said to the cabby.

The driver headed northward for four miles, until he reached the Harlem River. Then he thought it time to make inquiries.

"Beg pardon, sir," he said to his fare, "what street do you 'want?"

"What streets have you?" asked the writer absently.—"Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree," Everybody's Magazine for June.

BIDDLE EXPLAINED.

Bowen-Loomis Controversy Reopened by Taft.

SALT BONDS PAID FOR DESTROYER

Jaurett Borrowed $5,000 From Loomis, Which Was Subsequently Returned—Russell Now Only Witness to Be Heard.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Secretary Taft has again taken up the Bowen-Loomis matter and examined at some length Nicholas Biddle, a correspondent of the New York Herald, who visited Caracas some time ago. It was Mr. Biddle who published in the Herald what purported to be a note from Mr. Loomis to Mr. Russell, the secretary of legation, notifying him that he would buy a portion of the Mercador claim. Mr. Biddle explained in detail to Secretary Taft what this meant. The letter itself was among the papers submitted to Secretary Taft by Mr. Bowen in the presentation of his case.

Mr. Bowen said he found this among other papers in a box in the legation safe after Mr. Loomis had left. Mr. Biddle told Secretary Taft that Mr. Bowen had said that he wanted his side of the case presented, but that he did not care to be quoted. Thereupon he had placed a number of papers, including this letter, in Mr. Biddle's hands.

The explanation of the letter as contained in Mr. Loomis' statement to Secretary Taft is in substance as follows:

"The Spanish government sold a torpedo boat to the government of Venezuela for 400,000 bolivars. Instead of the cash it was arranged that the Venezuelan government should turn over 1,000,000 bolivars in salt bonds at their face value.

"After reimbursing itself to the extent of 400,000 bolivars the Spanish government was to turn over the remainder of the salt bonds to the American minister at Caracas, the proceeds of which were to be applied to meeting certain claims against the Venezuelan government."

This arrangement was approved at Washington. Among these claims was one amounting to about 60,000 bolivars due Mercador, a promoter and business man, on account of a contract; another for 60,000 bolivars on account of the German railway and several minor claims. Mercador sought a loan from Jaurett, who was at that time semiofficially attached to the American legation.

Jaurett lacked $5,000 of the necessary amount and borrowed it from Mr. Loomis, pledging a portion of the Mercador claim as security, and this was subsequently redeemed by the sale of a portion of the salt bonds to the banks. Mr. Loomis was on vacation and not in Caracas at the time, which accounts for the writing of the note to Mr. Russell. He received for his $5,000 just $5,080.

Secretary Taft does not now believe that it will be necessary to take the testimony of any witness besides Mr. Russell, now en route to Washington from Cartagena.

Panic In Catskill Theater.

CATSKILL, N. Y., May 31.—Smoke from some burning paper in a coal hod standing in the entrance to the gallery of the Nelida theater here last night started a panic in the audience of over 1,000 gathered to hear the memorial exercises of Watson post, G. A. R. A moment after Pastor Knapp rose to read Lincoln's address at Gettysburg the entire gallery was on its feet in a mad rush for the one exit, and this stampede started a scene of wild excitement throughout the auditorium. Women fainted in the rush on the gallery stairs, but no one was seriously hurt.

Chicago Honors Confederate Graves.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 31.—Federal Memorial day was observed in Charleston as a half holiday by many, and at the cemeteries the graves of soldiers who died during the Spanish war en route for Cuba were decorated with flowers and flags. A significant event was the placing of wreaths, sent by Colonel Henry Turner, First Illinois regiment, Chicago, upon the monuments and graves of Confederate soldiers.

Eight Hour Day on Isthmus.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—In view of the announced decision of the isthmian canal commission to enforce the eight hour law on the canal work after June 1 Secretary Taft has stated the grounds upon which Attorney General Moody had reached his decision on that important matter. It was to the effect that as the work of canal construction, regardless of place, was being done by government labor the eight hour law must apply.

Mrs. Lord Left $2,000,000.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Nearly $2,000,000 for charity was left by Mrs. George P. Lord of Elgin, one of the wealthiest women in Illinois, who was well known for her philanthropic work. Mrs. Lord left her husband $350,000 and considerable real estate and to the town of Carpentersville, Ill., the place where she was born, she bequeathed $50,000.

Alfonso In Paris.

PARIS, May 31.—King Alfonso of Spain has arrived here on his tour. Last night M. Loubet gave a gala dinner at the Elysee palace in honor of his majesty. In the course of the dinner the king and the president exchanged cordial toasts, and the president gave expression to the warm sympathy existing between the two nations.

UNION AND FREEDOM

President's Address at Slocum Memorial Services.

"A GENUINELY REUNITED COUNTRY"

"Civil War Has Left No Scars of Bitterness, Dishonor or Shame to Offset the Memories of Its Great Glory."

NEW YORK, May 31. — President Roosevelt at the unveiling of the statue of General Slocum in Brooklyn spoke in part as follows:

"Mr. Mayor, Mr. Commissioner and you, my fellow citizens, and, above all, you who took part in the great war in which the man whose statue is raised won for himself and his country renown and honor:

"I listened to a sermon recently in which the preacher, dwelling upon the exercises to be held throughout the Union, preached on the text which commemorates the altar raised by command of Moses to commemorate the victory gained by the children of Israel over the wild tribes of the desert who sought to bar their march toward the promised land, wherein Amalek came out and Israel fought all day and while Aaron and Hur upheld the hands of Moses until as night fell the sun went down on the Israelites, and they raised an altar to Jehovah—to Jehovah, who stood as the exponent of the principle for which Israel warred; they raised it to the principle of righteousness, which alone can justify any war or any struggle, and, Mr. Mayor, that is the thought that you developed in the excellent address to which we have just listened—that we make to commemorate the great victory, the triumph of the cause of union and liberty, not primarily because it was a victory, but because it was a victory for righteousness and the peace and the liberty and the eternal spiritual welfare of mankind.

"I see before me here men who won high honor serving as comrades of General Slocum, and I know that there exists in the Union no men who will appreciate more the fact that now, forty years after the war, the crowning triumph of what they did is to be found in the fact that we have a genuinely reunited country, a country in which the man who wore the blue stretches out the hand of loyal friendship to his erstwhile foe, his now devoted friend and fellow countryman, the man who wore the gray.

"A short while ago I passed through the great state of Texas. Wherever I stopped in that great state I was greeted by representatives of the Grand Army marching side by side with or intermingled with men clad in the gray uniform that showed that they fought in the armies of the Confederacy, men who had tested one another's worth on the stricken fields, men who knew each that the other had been ready when the hour of supreme appeal came to show his worth by his endeavors and men who leave to their children and their children's children as a heritage of honor forever the memory of the great deeds done alike by those who fought under Lee, for we, because of the very fact that the Union triumphed, now have the right to feel alike pride in the valor and devotion of those who valiantly fought against the stars in their courses and those who finally saw their efforts, their sufferings, crowned by triumph.

"Think of it, my fellow countrymen! Think of what a thrice blessed fortune has been ours, that the greatest war that the nineteenth century saw after the close of the Napoleonic struggles should have left, not as most wars inevitably do and must leave, memories of bitterness, dishonor and shame to offset the memories of glory, memories which make the men on one side hang their heads, but which have left, not that, but should have left to the victors and vanquished alike, after the temporary soreness is over, the same right to feel the proudest satisfaction in the fact that the Union was saved and the greatest pride in the honor, the gallantry, the devotion to the right as each side had given it the right to see the right done alike by those who overcame as victors and those who finally went down in defeat.

"I congratulate the people of Brooklyn not primarily upon raising this statue, because that they ought to do, but upon the opportunity, upon the chance, of having it to raise. I congratulate them upon the good fortune of having the fellow citizen who in war and in peace alike served the people so well as to make it their duty not so much to him as to themselves to erect the statue that it migh serve as a lesson for the generations to come. And, my fellow citizens, I am sure we all realize the peculiar appropriateness of having the statue of General Slocum received on behalf of the city of New York by its chief magistrate, whose father was General Slocum's illustrious colleague.

"We are able to point to General Slocum as the type of what a decent American citizen should be, as a man who was an example in his family life, an example in his business relations, an honest and upright public servant no less than a fearless and able soldier."

Iowa Scientists Honored.

COPENHAGEN, May 31. — Gisle Bothne, professor of languages in the Norwegian Lutheran college of Decorah, Ia., who is returning after making scientific investigations in Greece, had an audience with Crown Prince Gustaf here. The prince invited the professor to dinner.

Weather Probabilities.

Partly cloudy; variable winds.

BICENTENNIAL SERVICES

New Market Seventh Day Baptists Celebrate Event.

HISTORICAL ADDRESS.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, Three Times Pastor of the Church, a Speaker—Ovation for Oldest Elder.

Seventh-Day Baptists from all over the field covered by the Eastern Association of the denomination joined with the members of the New Market church yesterday in celebrating the 200th anniversary of the congregation. Rev. L. E. Livermore was chairman of the day; A. W. Vars was clerk.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of this city, delivered a historical sermon at the morning service. Rev. H .H. Baker, a former pastor, and the oldest elder in the denomination, offered prayer.

Dr. Lewis's theme was "Waiting With God is Not Fruitless."

A praise service was held in the afternoon, at which Rev. L. E. Livermore, three times pastor of the church, delivered a historical address. His discourse was interesting to an unusual degree.

Rev. H. H. Baker spoke, and was accorded an ovation. Messages from the following ex-pastors were read: L. A. Platts, Milton, Wis.; J. T. Burdick, Jackson Center, O.; E. D. Saunders, Alfred, N. Y.; F. E. Peterson, Eadelstein, Ill.

A reminiscence service and the closing conference of the convention were held in the evening. Among those who spoke in reminiscent strain were L. T. Titsworth, of this city, and Ellis Dunn, of New Market.

The following officers were elected upon the recommendation of the nominating committee: President, Rev. F. J. Greene, Berlin ,N .Y.; vice president, Rev. E. F. Loofboro, New York; recording secretary, Miss Mildred Green, of Plainfield; assistant secretary, Miss Laverna Langworthy; Westerly, L .I.; treasurer, A. J. Spicer, Plainfield; engrossing clerk, Miss Gertrude Stillman, Ashaway, R. I.; corresponding secretary, Miss H. Louise Ayers, Westerly, R. I. Delegates were chosen as follows: To Southeastern association, Rev. Madison Harry, Westerly, R. I.; alternate, Rev. H. N. Jordan, New Market; to Central and Northwestern associations, Rev. E. B. Saunders, Shiloh, N. J.; alternate, Rev. A. J. Potter, Noank, Conn. The next convention will be held in Berlin, N. Y.

Vets Attend Divine Service.

The members of Winfield Scott Post. No. 73, G. A. R., and Women's Relief Corps, attended divine service at the Christian church in Grove stret, last night, Rev. Phil. A. Parsons, the pastor, delivering an earnest sermon of a patriotic character.

Don't wait too long before ordering your next winter's supply of coal. TenEyck & Harris will sell you the best coal at low prices.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between The Board of Trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund, complainant, and James Armstrong, et als., defendants. Fi. Fa. for sale of Mortgage Premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale at public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF JULY, 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, beginning at a point formed by the intersection of the southwest side of New Street with the southeast side of West Fourth Street, thence southeasterly along the southwesterly line of New Street, a distance of eighty-five (85) feet to other property belonging to said Frank C. Cook; thence with the line of his other land, south fifty degrees and fifty-four minutes west a distance of forty-seven and sixteen one hundredths (47.16) feet; thence north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west a distance of eighty-five (85) feet, more or less, to the southeast side line of West Fourth Street, thence with said side line of West Fourth Street northeasterly forty-nine (49) feet, more or less, to the beginning. Together with the land in front thereof to the centres of New and West Fourth Streets.

Being a portion of the same premises conveyed to the said Frank C. Cook, by deed of the executors of William Cortright deceased, dated April 12, 1904, and recorded in book 429 of deeds for Union County, pages 598, etc.

B. FRANK CORIELL, Sheriff.
Wm. M. Stillman, Sol'r.
E. D. J. & C. 5 31 C 5

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between William M. Stillman, assignee of Isaac W. Rushmore, complainant, and James Armstrong, et als., defendants. Fi. Fa. for sale of Mortgaged Premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF JULY, 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey. Beginning at a point in the southwest side line of New Street, distant in a southeasterly direction along said line, eighty-five (85) feet from the southeasterly side of West Fourth Street; thence along said side line of New Street ,south thirty-nine degrees and forty-five minutes east, seventy-three and ninety-five one hundredths (73.95) feet to a stake; thence south fifty-one degrees and nine minutes west forty-five and ninety-five one hundredths (45.95) feet to a stake; thence north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west seventy-three and seventy-five one hundredths (72.75) feet to a stake; thence north fifty degrees and fifty-four minutes east, forty-seven and sixteen one hundredths (47.16) feet to the beginning, together with the land in front thereof to the centre of New Street; being a portion of the same premises conveyed to the said Frank C. Cook, by deed of Simon P. Whitaker and Frank M. Bacon, executors of William Cortright, deceased, dated April 12, 1904, and recorded in book 429 of deeds for Union County, on pages 596, etc.

B. FRANK CORIELL, Sheriff.
Wm. M. Stillman, Sol'r.
E. D. J. & C. 5 31 C 5

MINISTER DENOUNCED GAMES OF CHANCE

Rev. McCrea Scored Card Playing on Trains and a Carnival Scheme.

HIS CONDEMNATION.

Declared That He Would Not Attend Hospital Benefit Because of the Automobile and Like Contests.

The constant practice of commuters in playing cards on the train between here and New York, games of chance conducted at the recent Carnival as well as other times, were the basis of a strong sermon delivered by Rev. A. C. McCrea at the First M. E. church, last night.

Rev. A. C. McCrea.

In no uncertain tones he denounced all games of chance and referred especially to those allowed at the recent Carnival held for the benefit of the hospital, adding that it was for this reason that he would not attend the affair.

He cited the fact that one boy who held a single chance on an automobile, won the machine, while others held as high as fifty chances and received nothing.

Referring to card playing on trains, he said that it was no secret that the play was for money and he mentioned a case where the wife of a commuter, who had won some money and failed to get it, became very indignant over the failure of the loser to pay over the sum.

This and other forms of gambling and games of chance were treated by Mr. McCrea in a vigorous fashion.

MONEY FOR MISSIONS.

Trinity Reformed's Junior C. E. Sells Cake and Candy.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, conducted a very successful cake and candy sale in the primary room, Saturday afternoon. It began at 3 o'clock and two hours later everything on the tables had been sold, the society's treasury was enlarged by an addition of $10, which is to be applied to mission work.

Miss Josie Tier, superintendent of Trinity church's primary department, had general supervision of the affair. In the arrangements she was ably assisted by Miss Ida Van Arsdale and the Junior's executive committee composed of Edna Dilts, Harold Schenck, Helen Smith, Edna Cole and Mary Brokaw.

Westfield, 2; Rahway, 1.

Westfield's team had another narrow escape from defeat on Saturday when Rahway played at Recreation Park. The score was 2 to 1 in favor of the home team.

WEAVER AN EXAMPLE AND ROOSEVELT TOO

President Welch, of Ohio Wesleyan University, on "Your Business."

HE TALKS TO MEN

Chief Executive of Nation in Politics for What He Can Put in It, Not Take Out, Declares Speaker.

Rev. Dr. Herbert Welch, who was recently elected president of Ohio Wesleyan University, gave a talk of exceptional interest before the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church, Friday, taking for his subject "Your Business." After explaining that some men might say "What does a minister know about business, let him attend to his preaching and we will look after the business," the speaker gave a few valuable hints to those engaged in the secular affairs of life.

He compared the idle rich to the tramp and thought that one class was as undesirable as the other. The reason why all parties respect President Roosevelt," said Dr. Welch, is that he is a man in the true sense and is not afraid of work. He went into politics for what he could put in it and not what he could get out of it.

In the second place Dr. Welch said that a man should have a religious occupation and throw his energy and enthusiasm into it every hour in the day and every day in the year. He then referred to the many ways in which a man can combine his business and religion, and cited Mayor Weaver, of Philadelphia, as an example. He hoped that the prayers of all people would go up for him in his efforts to break one of the most corrupt rings in the country.

Rev. A. C. McCrea was introduced by the president, Nelson A. Miller, and he made a short address applying some of Dr. Welch's earnest words to his own church and men, urging them to be just as enthusiastic in their church and to use their overtime for the Master.

An enjoyable feature of the evening was the instrumental music by Vincent Sokol, 'cello, and Arthur B. Mosher, violin.

Nelson A. Miller, president of the Brotherhood, was in the chair, and conducted the transaction of some business at the close, including the election to membership of Mr. McCrea. A social time followed and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

CHURCH GUILD'S WORK.

St. Agnes', of Holy Cross, Holds Successful Sale.

The members of St. Agnes' Guild, of the Church of the Holy Cross, held a very successful sale on Saturday afternoon in the Parish House. Candy, cake, dolls and fancy articles were for sale, together with ice cream, twenty quarts of which was donated by a friend of the Guild. The various tables were served by the young girls of the Guild. The sum of $25 was realized, which will go toward the support of the Guild.

When you want to get first-class life insurance consult H. G. Adams, representative of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Philadelphia.

Think What It Means

To be able to talk to your neighbors near or far at any hour, to learn the news or to summon help when needed.

New York and New Jersey Telephone Company
333 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N.J.
Telephone 5192

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

Time Table Corrected to Nov. 27, 1904.

For New York—5.18, 6.21, 6.45, 6.29, 6.57, 7.00, 7.25, 7.29, 7.48, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.20, 8.38, 8.46, 9.34, 9.59, 10.26, 11.00 a. m.; 12.09, 12.46, 1.18, 2.21, 2.29, 2.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.06, 7.32, 8.38, 9.40, 10.17, 11.23 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 3.37, 5.06, 7.41, 8.51, 9.59, 10.08, 11.10 a. m.; 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.45, 8.13, 8.32, 9.42, 10.23 p. m.

For Newark—5.18, 6.29, 6.57, 7.00, 7.25, 7.48, 8.11, 8.38, 8.46, 9.59, 10.26, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 2.21, 2.29, 2.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.53, 6.22, 6.45, 7.06, 7.32, 8.38, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.49, 10.08, 11.10 a. m.; 12.58, 1.45, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.45, 6.53, 8.15, 8.32, 9.42, 10.23 p. m.

For Somerville—5.25, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m.; 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.22, 4.33, 5.03, 5.29, 5.44, 6.19, 6.45, 7.47, 7.22, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.23, 11.26 p. m.; 12.59 night. Sunday—5.46, 8.32, 10.51 a. m.; 1.45, 2.03, 3.40, 5.37, 6.35, 8.30, 10.15 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m.; 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29, 6.41 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m.; 2.03, 6.35 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.03, 6.35 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.23, 11.23 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove)—8.52 a. m.; 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 3.44, 4.47, 5.42, 11.23 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.; 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—8.11 (Lakewood only), 9.27 a. m.; 1.18, 3.49, (3.44 p. m., Lakewood only). Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m.; 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 8.51, 9.44, 10.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m.; 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 6.45, 7.47, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.46, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 4.55, 6.45, 7.47, 9.47 p. m.; 1.25, 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m.; 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 2.44, 6.45, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 4.55, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47, 11.25 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 5.25, 8.38, 9.54, (10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m.; 2.11, (5.49, through train), 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m.; 2.08, 5.37, 6.35 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45 p. m.; 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA.

Protected Throughout by the Electric Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after May 28, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.06 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.36, 9.06, f 10.06, f 10.33, 11.46 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, 3.23, f 6.40, f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.06 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40, 7.44, f 8.37, and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 3.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.36, and 1.40 a. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 4.25, 9.27 a. m., f 1.03, 3.04, and f 5.42 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.05, 10.02 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.
GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect Nov. 29, 1903.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.06 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.43 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Jersey Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

2.12 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkes-barre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent,
213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.
Telephone 112-B.

Thanks to the Recorder.

Acknowledgement is made to the Sabbath Recorder for its kindness in loaning the cuts used in these columns Saturday to illustrate the Seventh-Day Baptist Conference story.

HIS LOVE SPURNED BY MAIDEN; HE SHOOTS HER AND KILLS HIMSELF

Frank Huber, Alleged Married Man, Commits Suicide Believing He Had Killed Eighteen-Year-Old Louisa Kraemer.

SUNDAY TRAGEDY STIRS PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Attacks Girl at Her Father's Home—Fires Three Times at Her, One Bullet Shattering Her Jaw Bone—Ends Life in Field.

In a fit of insane jealousy, Frank Huber, forty-one years old, made a desperate attempt, yesterday morning, to kill Louisa Kraemer, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Charles Kraemer, of Midway avenue, Fanwood, and believing he had killed her from her home but committed suicide shortly afterward in a patch of woods near Johnston's drive.

The girl is in Muhlenberg Hospital. The doctors believe her recovery is certain. Out of three shots fired at her from a .38 calibre revolver, two went wild and the other entered her neck just, missing the jugular vein, then taking an upward course, shattered the jaw-bone and passed out the right cheek.

Huber came to this city from Cincinnati, last fall and secured employment as a moulder at the Scott Press Works. He boarded with the Kraemers and though it was said he had a wife and two children living in the West, he began paying attention to Louisa. The girl did not reciprocate his love. Subsequently father was forced to warn him and they had several stormy interviews. This made him morose and moody and a month or so ago he left Scott's and went to Newark to work.

He returned to the Kraemer home Saturday, and by pleading illness, induced the parents to allow him to remain a few days until he recovered. He consulted Dr. F .W. Westcott and though the physician could find no trace of organic trouble he insisted that there was and added:

"I know there is something wrong with me and I believe something is going to happen."

Louisa was engaged in some household work at 8 o'clock yesterday morning when Huber came down stairs and renewed his protestations of love. She scorned him and he wrought himself into a furious passion. Becoming alarmed she started to leave the room but had taken only a few steps when Huber whipped out the revolver and fired. The first shot lodged in the wall, the second struck her and the third hit a door. He then turned the weapon upon himself but it failed to explode.

He started from the house down Hunter avenue on a fast run. His excited appearance led a party of Italians to stop him but he brushed them aside by shouting that a girl had shot herself and he was hurrying for a doctor. He continued on his run as far as the new bridge over Mountain avenue, where he failed and for some reason started to disrobe, taking off a jersey and a heavy shirt. After this he went on again and disappeared in the woods just off Johnston's drive. His body was found at 9:30 by Edward John son. He had shot himself twice, once in the breast and a second time in the head, the bullet passing clear through.

Johnston hurried into Scotch Plains to make known his discovery and Chief Kiely and Detective Moriarty, of this city, were asked to take charge of the case. They went to the scene and had the body removed to Cole's undertaking rooms in this city. The suicide occurred in Somerset County and its authorities were apprised of the case.

The injured girl was first treated by Dr. Westcott and was then taken to the hospital. She retained consciousness and was able to tell all the circumstances in connection with the shooting. The remarkable course taken by the bullet makes the injury exceedingly painful and at one time yesterday the patient declared she preferred death to the agony she was undergoing.

But little is known of Huber as he made few friends at Scott's and he avoided talking about himself when in conversation. The local police believe he carefully planned the shooting as the revolver had been purchased in Newark Saturday. The girl is well known throughout the city, having been employed for a long time at Hersig & Kapp's skirt factory on Watchung avenue. She is attractive in appearance and has a pleasing disposition.

German Marine Band Coming.

The famous German Marine Band, under direction of Herr Louis Kinderman, a noted musician of Germany, the organization that proved to be the musical sensation of the St. Louis Fair, is negotiating with Manager Mase Edwards, of the Casino, for an early appearance in this city.

YALE GOLF TEAM WINS

Administers First Defeat to Country Club Players.

A SCORE OF 33 TO 0.

Plenty of Other Events on the Local Courses Saturday—Social Affairs a Feature.

With a team match and a number of other events in golf, as well as the initial play in the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association tournament, there was plenty to interest the golf and tennis enthusiasts at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. The attendance on the courses and courts was large and a good sized gallery watched the play. The clubhouse was also the centre of attraction for many who enjoyed the social features, as well as the dancing in the evening, music being furnished by the club.

In the team match between Plainfield and Yale, the home team met its first defeat of the season, the visitors simply snowing the local players under by a score of 33 to 0. There were some very low scores returned by the visitors, notably a 75 by Mason Phelps, a 72 by Carhart and a 74 by Knowles. With such playing the home team did not have a show. The summary:

Yale—Phelps, 3; Carhart, 7; Knowles, 6; Havemeyer, 0; Cutler, 3; Simmons, 3; Bundy, 9; Bull, 2. Total, 33.

Plainfield—J. Whitney Baker, 0; W. L. Glenney, 0; Dudley H. Barrows, 0; Frank Dumont, 0; H. R. Stockton, 0; S. D. Lounsbery, 0; Thomas R. VanBoskerck, 0; W. T. Glenney, 0. Total, 0.

J. A. Lane won first honors for the Golf Committee cup with a net score of 78, while Ira M. Pierson and G. T. VanBoskerck finished second and third. The scores:

J. A. Lane, 92, 20—72; G. M. Furman, 86, 13—73; G. T. VanBoskerck, 84, 10—74; E. B. Shoemaker, 82, 5—77; G. F. Earl, 96, 19—77; C. B. Morgan, 84, 6—78; Roger F. Murray, 84, 5—79; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, 88, 8—80; Julius E. Erickson, 96, 10—86.

Mrs. Walter Gaston won the women's handicap cup, offered by Mrs. Marvin D. Rae. The scores:

Mrs. Walter Gaston, 105, 12—93; Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, 96, 0—96; Miss Margaret Goddard, 105, 7—98; Miss Martha Robert, 125, 24—101; Miss Maud VanBoskerck, 112, 8—104; Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, 140, 36—104.

In the women's clock golf competition, Miss Harriette Goddard won first honors with a score of 20, while Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and Miss Sarah E. Schuyler divided the remaining honors, each receiving a point and a half. The scores:

Miss Harriette Goddard, 20; Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, 21; Miss Sarah E. Schuyler, 21; Miss Margaret Goddard, 23; Miss Maud VanBoskerck, 23; Miss Adelaide G. Ball, 23; Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, 24; Miss Stewart, 25; Mrs. A. B. Davies, 26.

A. W. Kenworthy, with a net score of 76, won first honors for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club on Saturday; J. L. Watson finished second and S. St. John McCutchen and Rev. C. L. Goodrich divided the remaining point. For the scratch cup, S. St. John McCutchen finished first, H. S. Rogers second and Rev. J. O. McKelvey third. The scores:

A. W. Kenworthy, 106, 30—76; J. L. Watson, 113, 36—83; S. St. John McCutchen, 91, 7—84; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 101, 17—84; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 100, 12—88; J. H. Howell, 103, 14—89; H. S. Rogers, 96, 7—89; Charles A. Reed, 102, 12—90; J. B. Betts, 123, 30—93; Samuel Townsend, 118; 22—96.

During the afternoon there was a large number of women at the clubhouse to enjoy a social tea.

Agriculturists to Meet.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture will be held in the Court House at Somerville Saturday, June 10. Prof. E. B. Voorhees, or New Brunswick, will read a paper on "The Best Method for Raising Wheat" A general discussion will follow.

P. H. S., 20; Reading, 1.

The Plainfield High School team defeated Reading Academy, of Flemington, at the latter place, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 20 to 1. Conway, of the Plainfield team, made a home run, the feature of the game.

"TOO SLOW," DAABSTERS

Quakers Register 2 Runs While Locals Knock Out 12.

GIFT FOR COSGROVE.

Center Fielder Gets a Suit Case While He and Manager Daab Get Bouquets of Praise.

Through eight and a half innings nine helpless young men from Philadelphia, called in bitter irony the Professionals, struggled feebly against Daab's lusty crew Saturday afternoon. Thereafter they faded away silently and in gloom, to wit: 12 to 2.

Miseries of one-old-cat and the sweet joys of lawn tennis forbid that the show produced by those weary Professionals be called baseball. They plastered themselves with errors so thickly and steadily that the score couldn't keep up with them. Only four of the nine men didn't make miscues, and High insisted on making four all by himself. Beck had them frozen stiff at the bat, and only four welts got away from him, two of them punky in nature.

Daab's myrmidons did more to that bunch of weaklings than was good for a tender-hearted person to witness. They belted the ball all over the lot on necessary occasions, and never seized every chance that the open-work playing of the visiting delegation offered. Driscoll was the only player who didn't get a hit. Pete Cregan got three, and Connolly lammed the leather for a complete circuit. Eleven hits, five earned runs, and four stolen bases—were the Professionals jarred, yes?

Festivities began when Cosgrove stepped up to the bat. Big Chief Daab called him back, and City Judge Runyon, fixing a kindly eye on the blushing athlete, informed him in a voice that shook the scoreboard loose that he had been elected the idol of the baseball world at the Carnival. Daab carried the trophy of popularity, a dress suit case, to the plate, and the idol took his cap off. Cheers from the populace. The Judge added a bunch of verbal posies for Mr. Daab, breathing the heartfelt joy of the populace over the advent of the Hoboken Moser who ranked them out of the baseball wilderness. Wild cheers, and Daab played up a rosy flush that paled Cosgrove's countenance. The Philadelphia athletes regarded the proceedings from their positions with childlike wonderment. Maybe Daab had something to do with their collapse. It certainly was a tea-party session, and hard businesslike baseball might have seemed out of place after the soft social graces of the first round.

Anyway, the Professionals blew up in the second and stayed very bad for the rest of the battle. Forget the game. It was so painfully lopsided that half the beauty and symmetry vanished in silent grief after the fifth inning.

Plainfield's fielding was a bright spot in the darkling scene. Cregan did sensational work in his patch, pulling them down with one hand, on the run, and in other storied ways. Oldring made some beautiful stops. What the scorer saw:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R | H | PO | A | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cosgrove, cf | 2 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Oldring, 2b | 2 | 1 | 6 | 4 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 2 | 3 | 6 | 1 | 0 |
| Kiernan, ss | 1 | 1 | 2 | 4 | 2 |
| Leonard, 3b | 2 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 1 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 1 | 0 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Lamar, c | 1 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| Beck, p | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Totals | 12 | 11 | 27 | 14 | 3 |

PHILADELPHIA PROFESSIONALS.

| | R | H | PO | A | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Stricker, cf | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 1 |
| High, ss | 0 | 1 | 1 | 5 | 4 |
| Dickel, rf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Dobbins, 1b | 1 | 0 | 9 | 0 | 1 |
| Wolff, 2b | 0 | 1 | 4 | 1 | 1 |
| Bergan, p | 0 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| Mathews, 3b | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| Busby, lf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Galbraith, c | 0 | 0 | 5 | 1 | 0 |
| Totals | 2 | 4 | 24 | 12 | 8 |

Plainfield .4 0 2 0 2 0 0 4 x—12
Phil.-Prof .0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1— 2

$75 IN FINES.

Recorder Doud Not a Bit Stingy in Dealing With Eleven Prisoners.

Recorder Doud reaped a harvest of shekels at his session of court, Monday night, when he disposed of eleven prisoners. Six of them were taken in the raid on the colored carousal at George Smith's house at Grove street and Greenbrook road, Sunday afternoon. Smith and his wife were fined $20 each, which they paid; Mr. and Mrs. William McIntyre were fined $10 each and couldn't pay so took thirty days; Ed Porter paid $10 and Ben Vandervoort decided to keep the McIntyre's company, not having any coin.

Five Swedes, three of them from this city and two from Westfield, who were arrested early Sunday morning for disorderly conduct at Grove street and Mercer avenue, were fined $5 each and paid up.

Delicious creations in cake are always among the Saturday specials at John Wirth's bakeshop, West Front street. Remember this.

TWO MORE VICTORIES

(Continued from page 1.)

Ball facts:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cosgrove, cf | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Oldring, 2b | 0 | 0 | 7 | 2 | 2 |
| Connolly, rf | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 1 | 0 | 4 | 0 | 1 |
| Kiernan, ss | 0 | 0 | 1 | 5 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 0 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 0 | 0 | 10 | 0 | 0 |
| Lamar, c | 0 | 0 | 7 | 1 | 1 |
| Beck, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| | 2 | 3 | 29* | 15 | 5 |

ALL-AMERICANS.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Holland, cf | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Fitzhenry, 2b | 0 | 2 | 2 | 4 | 0 |
| Kelley, p | 0 | 1 | 0 | 5 | 1 |
| Woelfle, c | 0 | 0 | 5 | 1 | 0 |
| Hyde, 3b | 1 | 1 | 4 | 1 | 0 |
| Christ, ss | 0 | 0 | 3 | 2 | 4 |
| Ottmer, 1b | 0 | 1 | 11 | 0 | 0 |
| Young, lf | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| McGuire, rf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| | 1 | 7 | 28* | 13 | 5 |

*Christ out—Hit by batted ball.
*One out when winning run was made.

Plainfield....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2
All-Americans 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1

First on balls—Off Beck, 1; off Kelley, 6. Struck out—By Beck, 6; by Kelley, 4. Left on bases—Plainfield, 8; All-Americans, 7. Double plays—Kiernan to Oldring to Driscoll. Passed balls—Woelfle, 2; Lamar, 1. First base on errors—Plainfield, 3; All-Americans, 1. Stolen bases—Leonard, Fitzhenry, 2. Sacrifice hits—Kelley. Hit by pitcher—Beck, 2; Kelley, 1. Time of game—Two hours. Umpire—Merrity. Attendance—700.

Deegan pitched the afternoon game, and the crowd saw lots in his style to admire. The opposing batsmen never got within dangerous distance of hitting him until their own errors and some timely welts by his mates put the game beyond the visitors' reach. Then he slackened up, but even at that the opposition was not one to be accorded respect.

The All-Americans were weak in the pitching box and their infield did all sorts of unworkmanlike things. Plainfield scored five runs in the second. McGuire passed one man and hit two. He was batted freely and errors helped the runners to register. In the fifth three hits, two passed, and some other things netted four more runs, and Murphy was put in to do the rescue act. He did fairly well, but the Daabsters were far from subdued.

The All-Americans escaped a shut-out in the eighth, after two were down. Murphy was on first by virtue of a pass and Ottmer roosted on second, the result of a single and a steal. Holland sent one that Oldring allowed to go through him, but Ottmer was caught at the plate on Cosgrove's throw-in. Fitzhenry popped to Murphy and Holland home. Kelly forced Fitz.

Plainfield's fielding was at top notch and the crowd got full value for its money in that quarter. Oldring's error was the only miscue marked against the team.

Historical statement:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cosgrove, cf | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Oldring, 2b | 1 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 1 |
| Connolly, rf | 2 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Kiernan, ss | 2 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 1 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 2 | 1 | 6 | 1 | 0 |
| Lamar, c | 3 | 3 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Deegan, p | 2 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 1 |
| | 12 | 10 | 27 | 10 | 1 |

ALL-AMERICANS.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Holland, cf | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Fitzhenry, 2b | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 5 |
| Kelley, rf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Woelfle, c | 0 | 1 | 5 | 1 | 1 |
| Hyde, 3b | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 1 |
| Christ, ss | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| Ottman, 1b | 0 | 0 | 10 | 0 | 0 |
| Young, lf | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 | 2 |
| McGuire, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 2 |
| Murphy, p | 1 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 |
| | 1 | 2 | 4 | 24 | 11 | 8 |

Plainfield. 0 5 0 0 4 1 2 0 x—12
All-Americans. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0— 2

Earned runs—Lamar. First base on balls—Off Deegan, 1; off McGuire, 3. Left on bases—Plainfield, 8; All-Americans, 2. Wild pitches—McGuire. First base on errors—Plainfield, 5; All-Americans, 1. Struck out—By Deegan, 8; by McGuire, 4. Stolen bases—Oldring, Cregan, Leonard, Lamar, Ottman. Sacrifice hits—Cosgrove, Oldring, Leonard, Lamar. Passed balls—Lamar, 1; Woelfle, 1. Hit by pitcher—Leonard, Driscoll, Holland. Time of game—One hour and forty minutes. Attendance—1,500. Umpire—Merrity.

WIGHTMAN EXPLAINS

(Continued from page 1.)

contrary to my wishes to be reported in any way regarding any of the points that were stated in the article of The Daily Press. That they should appear, either under the guise of an interview or otherwise, have been very objectionable to me.

"I had nothing whatever to do with the statements in the Weekly Review, and said that to the reporter from The Press. I also said to him I could not confirm the statement in the Review and asked him to consult the president of the Board of Education, which he said he would do.

"It was my express request that these matters be not mentioned, as they would not benefit anyone concerned. I regret that they appeared, because it has placed me in a false light, and it has given some people the false impression that the board, as a body, are not acting for the best interest of the school.

(Signed) H. J. Wightman."

"It seems to me," said President Joy, "that this statement answers the query of the board. Is there any reason why the second paper, in which the names of other persons figure, should be submitted?" This seems to cover the ground. We were concerned with what appeared, from the newspaper report ,to be an attack on the Board. The statement just made by the superintendent, I confess, changes my view; it does not look to me now as if Mr. Wightman had designed to put out an interview deliberately, to assail the board."

The president made another appeal for a secret session, and this time a motion to that effect, made by Mr. Townsend, was passed.

When asked yesterday as to the action of the Board on the superintendent's statements, President Joy said:

"The one that was read in the public session was considered in the executive session and the explanation was accepted. The other paper was not called for. I consider the matter closed."

"Can it be said that Mr. Wightman has been relieved of all odium in the matter at the end of the board?" he was asked. "Were cordial relations re-established?"

"As your paper publishes the statements," was the reply, "they appeared to be an attack on the board. The board asked for an explanation. Mr. Wightman's explanaton was accepted."

HONOR DEAD COMRADES

(Continued from page 1.)

cured the funds for its purchase and made the selection consisted of Mrs. Dobbins, Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. Sarah Mattox, Mrs. John Manley and Mrs. Fred Wenzel.

The address was made by Rev. W. S. Hubbell. Himself a veteran, he related many anecdotes of the battlefield, picturing the gallant charges, the weary marches and the terrible sufferings, and afterward directing words of commendation to the men before him. There were patriotic songs by the children at the close cloe the audience joined with them in singing "America."

The day's exercises were in charge of a committee composed of W. C. Smith, chairman; Chas. B. Stephens, Mason W. Tyler, J. F. Husband, Dr. J. F. Berg, W. W. Coriell, S. W. Reese, William D .Johnson, J. W. Coddington, Job Coddington, Fred Wenzel, Nathan Pennington, P. B. Goodfellow, and H. C. Smith. The children were in charge of Mrs. John Manley, Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. Sarah Mattox, Mrs. Catherine Cubberly and Miss May Hqwlett.

SCHOOLS OBSERVE THE MEMORIAL DAY

IN THE CITY AND BOROUGH INTERESTING EXERCISES ARE HELD.

In all the public schools on both sides of the brook, excepting one, Memorial Day exercises were held today. The exception, Bryant School, celebrated on Friday.

The feature of the high school was an address by former-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph. Singing by the school and an address by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, composed the programme at the Franklin School. At the Irving School W. W. Coriell made an address.

The programme at the Bryant School included an address by Capt. M. C. Dobbins and recitations. Capt. W. C. Smith was the speaker at the borough high school.

In the borough primary school recitations and declamations were delivered. W. W. Coriell spoke.

The graves of deceased brothers of Camp 41, P. O. S. of A., were decorated yesterday by a committee from the Camp.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Sundays, 9.30 to 10.30 a. m. only.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00, 8.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 6.00, 7.45 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.30, 3.15 and 7.00 p.m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.45 and 4.30 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.30 and 5.30 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 6.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton. Close 12.25 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.30, 5.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 6.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.15, 7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 12.35, 4.30, 6.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4.30 and 7.15 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 7.15 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE AND GALLIA (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—2.00 a. m.

Watchung—Arrive 6.45 p. m. Close 5.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m. Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

AFTER DEBAUCH TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Jerry Foss Strangling When Policeman Cut Him Down.

IS SOON REVIVED.

Despondent Man Had Made a Noose of His Shirt—Bears a Good Reputation.

Weak and despondent after a long debauch, Jerry Foss ,of Duer street, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide in the North Plainfield police headquarters, Saturday night. With a noose made by twisting his shirt and fastening it to the steel grating of a cell, he was slowly strangling to death when discovered by Marshal Fred Emmons.

He was promptly cut down and "first aid" measures were adopted until the arrival of Dr. Dundon. The physican found him in a semi-conscious state but he was soon revived.

Foss, who formerly conducted a seafood market on Park avenue, has always borne an excellent reputation but a few years ago he took to drinking and has since been intoxicated the greater part of the time. Early last week the borough police locked him up for safe-keeping and after three days' confinement it was thought he had been straightened out.

He was released but immediately started out to drown his sorrows all over again and Saturday afternoon was locked up for the second time. No one was in the jail corridor for some time and early in the evening Marshal Emmons chanced in to get his bicycle. He glanced in the cell and then made the discovery.

MARRIES HIS NURSE.

New York Man Weds Miss L. B. Thorne, of This City.

Friends in this city have received cards announcing the marriage on April 22 of Miss Lillian Beatrice Thorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guillermo Thorne, of East Second street, and Walter Henry, of New York. The groom is a native of Ottawa, Can., and met Miss Thorne while a patient in the Newark City hospital, where she was attached to the nursing staff.

The wedding took place quietly in New York where they are now living.

DIED.

WALLEY—In this city, May 30, 1905, Mrs. Mary A. Walley, in her fifty-seventh year.

RYAN—In this city, May 35, 1905, Edward Ryan, aged 48 years.

QUINN—In this city, May 26, 1905, Margaret A. wife of Michael Quinn, in her 58th year.

BELCHER—On Friday, May 26, 1905, Fannie M., wife of George Belcher, aged 45 years.

NOTICE OF COPYRIGHT—Renewal Class C. C. XXc. No. 1909-May 27, 1905. Entry of Congress to wit: Be it remembered that on the 8th day of April, 1905, Mary Runyon Lowry, of Plainfield, N. J., has deposited in this office the titles of 16 musical compositions by Robert Lowry, viz: "All the Days," "Another Year is Dawning," "Gentle and Lowly," "Glory to Jesus," "Home at Last," "Marching on to Battle," "Jesus, Only Jesus," "Looking Unto Jesus," "No Hope in Jesus" "Pass in Jesus," "The Lord will Provide," "Rooss for the Penitent, "At Last," "By the Seaside," "The Gladness," "Which shall it be?" These in renewal for fourteen years from April 19, 1905. The right whereof he claims as Proprietor in Conformity with the laws, the United States respecting copyrights. Office of the Register of Copyrights, Washington, D. C. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress. By Thorwald Solberg, Register of Copyrights. 544

Wanted. Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided. The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer,

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. All work done by the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME.

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000,

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Vice-Pres.
Jeremiah Manning, Vice-Pres.
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement; established reliable house; chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, with increase and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public, Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

Corner Front St. and Park Aves

Plainfield, N. J.

KING'S DAUGHTERS ELECT

Mrs. C. A. Reed Re-named President of City Union.

MUCH ACCOMPLISHED

Receipts Encouraging—Dr. Grossmann Delivers Address—Trustees Chosen.

Interesting reports of the past year's work from the various circles, as well as the treasurer, Miss Helen Phillips, and the renewal of pledges to the amount of $935, together with an important amendment to the constitution, election of officers, and an able address by Dr. Grossmann, comprised the important features at the annual meeting of the City Union, King's Daughters, held in Vincent chapel, Thursday afternoon. A majority of the circles were represented and the work for the coming year was taken up with renewed energy. Mrs. Charles A. Reed, president of the Union, and Mrs Frank Whitney French, secretary, were in their positions. Rev. A. C. McCrea conducted the devotional exercises.

Miss Helen Phillips showed by her report as treasurer that the expenses and receipts during the past year amounted to $1,301.86 and there is a good sized balance in the treasury. Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, chairman of the nurse committee, reported that 591 visits were made by the city nurse and fifty-seven persons cared for. There is a balance of $8.50 in the treasury. Mrs. Howard A. Runyon, as chairman of the camp committee, presented a verbal report showing that the work is in good condition and that an addition has been built to the camp to be used as a bathroom, something needed for the children.

The various reports from the circles were then presented, and in each case excellent work has been accomplished, the members contributing to the Union work, the Children's Home and other charities, besides assisting families under the direction of the Organized Aid Association and sending aid to numerous poor families.

The amendments to the constitution as presented by Mrs. Charles A. Reed were adopted. These provide for a board of trustees, instead of an executive committee, each circle to be represented by one member, also a camp committee to be chosen in the same way. They also provide that the trustees meet after the May meeting to elect officers and that the trustees meet on the first Thursday in each month to consider such business as may be presented. The Organized Aid Association and the Plainfield Relief Association are permitted and asked to attend the meetings of the trustees for co-operation, but are not entitled to vote.

These trustees were elected:

Benevolent Band, Mrs. F. S. Martin; Charity Circle, Mrs. R. W. Ware; Daughters of the Cross, Mrs. Charles A. Reed; Brightside Circle, Mrs. F. W. Jones; Whatsoever Circle, Park Avenue Baptist church, Mrs. Augustus N. Laggren; Golden Rule Circle, Grace M. E. church, Mrs. Anna Most; Cup Bearers Circle, Mrs. Harry Hall; Silver Cross Circle, Miss Helen Phillips; Loyal Daughters, Mrs. C. C. Burke, Sr. Those elected to the camp committee, selected from the above circles in the order named, are as follows: Mrs. Joseph M. Shellabarger, Mrs. E. J. Patterson, Mrs. A. R. Faber, Jr., Mrs. C. H. Rugg, Miss Olive DeLany, Mrs. Charles Herman, Miss Alice Titus, Mrs. Frank Whitney French and Mrs. C. C. Burke, Sr.

At the meeting of the board of trustees after the meeting these officers were elected for the year: President, Mrs. Charles A. Reed; vice president, Mrs. Harry L. Hall; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anna M. Most; recording secretary, Mrs. L. A. Laggren; treasurer, Miss H. Helen Phillips. Mrs. Reed has not appointed the chairman of the camp committee, nor any other committees, but will probably do so at the meeting of the trustees on Thursday, June 1.

In accordance with the usual custom the various pledges were received at this time as follows:

Benevolent Band, $250; Charity Circle, $150; Cheerful Workers, no report; Daughters of the Cross, $300; Whatsoever Circle, Trinity Reformed church, $85; Brightside Circle, $15; Whatsoever Circle, Park Avenue Baptist church, $10; Golden Rule Circle, Grace M. E. church, $35; Opportunity Circle, Mt. Olive Baptist church, no report; Cup Bearers Circle, $75; Silver Cross Circle, $75; Loyal Daughters, $100; total, $935.

After a vote of thanks to Mrs. Reed for her earnest efforts during the past year, and a brief talk by Miss Ball regarding the work of visiting the Industrial Home and asking for co-operation, Dr. Grossmann was introduced and spoke for over a half hour on the subject of nervous and typical children concerning which he has had much experience.

Dr. Grossman related some personal experiences at his school to show the development of children's minds and exhibited remarkable specimens of work performed by children at his school to show what talent they have, even though their minds are not always well developed.

At the close of the address, a vote of thanks was given to the speaker.

RECITAL PLEASES PUPILS' FRIENDS

MISS MINNIE S. MARSH ENTERTAINS APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE.

Before a large and appreciative audience the pupils of Miss Minnie Scudder Marsh gave a delightful piano recital at her home on Madison avenue, Thursday afternoon. The programme, a most excellent one, was of double interest by reason of the fact that Mrs. George Stuart Ring, alto, and Miss Sarah Mae Howell, a former pupil of Miss Marsh, assisted and both were well received. Miss Marsh's pupils performed creditably and showed marked improvement in their work. The selections, all very difficult, were rendered with ease and expression, reflecting much credit upon the thoroughness of the method taught by Miss Marsh.

This was part first of the programme:

"Air de Danse," the Misses Katherine H. McCutcheon and Gladys Peck; "On the Meadow," Miss Ellen Hovey; "By the Spring," Miss Dorothy H. McCutchen; "Start Up Waltz," Miss Emily Martin; "Curious Story" and "Dance of the Gnomes," Miss Anna Scott Yerkes; songs, "Since We Parted," "To My First Love," "You'd Better Ask Me," Mrs. George Stuart Ring; "Venetian Boat Song," and "Norwegian Dance," Miss A. Elizabeth McGee.

The Misses Howell, McCutcheon, Kaufman and Fisk opened part second of the programme with "Krie's March Der Priester," by Mendelssohn, which was followed with "Berceuse," by Miss Katherine McCutchen, and "Idilio," by Miss Gladys Peck. Mrs. George S. Ring then favored the audience with "I Know a Lovely Garden," and Rose songs, "Because She Kissed It," and "In My Garden."

A feature of this part was the playing by Miss Howell. Her first selection was "Poeme Erotique," by Grieg, and the second, "The Wedding Day," by the same composer. In this could be distinguished the bridal party approaching the church, marked by the rythmic sound of the horses' feet; the quiet ceremony; the wedding bells, and the return home, making this quaint tone picture. This selection was received with great appreciation.

The recital closed with a quartette selection—"Schwanenlied und Kiss's Jubelgesang," Wagner, by the Misses McCutcheon, Howell, Kaufman and Fisk.

LITERARY.

The May number of Pearson's Magazine contains, in addition to the usual number of bright, snappy short stories, a number of features of especial importance. Some interesting revelations regarding the shackling of Jefferson Davis, as told by an eye-witness, appear in an article entitled "The Shackling of Jefferson Davis." "The Revival of Ocean Yacht Racing" is a well illustrated article, by W. J. Henderson. Martin M. Foss has contributed an article on "The Bucket Shops of the Book World," and A. V. Straton one on the manufacture of lead pencils. Albert Bigelow Paine writes on "Nathan Straus, Merchant Philanthropist." "Houseboats," "How DeOro Won the Pool Championship," "The Mounted Police of the West" and a paper of Kate V. Saint Maur's "Self-Supporting Home" series complete the list of special articles.

South Plainfield Meeting.

Announcement has been made of a public meeting of the citizens of Piscataway Township to be held at Hotel Nelson, New Market, June 2, to consider the advisability of passing two ordinances. One is entitled "An ordinance granting the consent of the Township of Piscataway to the Piscataway Water Company, its successors and assigns, to lay, maintain, repair and use mains, pipes, and conduits in the highways of the township, and prescribing and imposing the conditions upon which the same shall be laid, maintained and repaired" and the other an ordinance granting permission to the Somerset, Union and Middlesex Lighting Company and Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, to lay, construct, operate and maintain gas pipes or mains in the streets and highways of Piscatawey Township.

Arion Club Arranges Dance.

The Arion Club has issued invitations for its first annual "shirt-waist" dance to be given in Central Hall, Tuesday, June 6. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of Leonce Texier, chairman; Harry Holmes, Joseph Baker, Landrum Jennings and Lucian Chateline.

EXPERIENCE OF A HOMESICK BOY

CROSSES SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS IN STOCKING FEET.

LYNX FOLLOWS IN HIS TRAIL

Fifteen-Year-Old Lad Almost Overcome by Cold and Exposure in Desperate Effort to Reach His Parents.

Cambridge, Vt.—A fit of homesickness nearly cost Verne Casey, a 15-year-old boy, of this village, his life recently. As it is he will be confined to a bed for a month or more.

Young Casey went to work about three weeks ago for a farmer in Cambridge, 18 miles distant, and on the other side of the Green mountain range, and seemed contented until one day, when he was attacked by homesickness, and declared his intention of returning here. He had little money, and started to walk.

He was told that he could shorten the distance by cutting through Smugglers' Notch, and set out in that direction, carrying his 50 pounds of effects in a grip. For several miles he followed the lumber roads, and struck into the forest at a point where the Notch begins. Immediately the snow deepened, and when he had gone two miles further it was up to his thighs. Still he kept on, but soon found himself in an exhausted condition. As he was half-way through, he decided to push ahead, rather than return, and he sat down to rest.

The day was warm, and while this prevented his freezing it softened the snow and made progress all the more difficult. A little lunch the boy had brought was soon disposed of, and he again took up the trail. At nightfall he was still in the deep forests and getting weaker and weaker, and when he finally fell in a swollen brook and his rubber boot was filled with water, he threw the boots away and continued in his stocking feet.

When the moon came up he was so tired that he could hardly move, and, scooping out a place in the snow, he lay down and was soon fast asleep. He says that he never expected to awaken, but at daybreak next morning he came to his senses, and, though numb with cold and weak from his exertions and lack of food, he felt rested. He still had ten miles to tramp, and he started out, desperately clinging to the grip.

In the night he had heard the baying of a Canadian lynx, and he had not proceeded far before he found fresh tracks. The animal had circled close to him in the darkness, but had evidently kept at a respectful distance. At the end of eight miles the boy again lost strength, and, leaving the grip, he wrapped his overalls about his feet and crawled to the mouth of the gulch. Here he found a hollow stump, and, crawling into it, took a short nap. It was about noon when he awakened, and continued crawling toward a log-ger's shanty, from the chimney of which he saw smoke ascending. On his arrival he was so weak that he could scarcely speak. His condition was more eloquent than words, and he was put to bed, rubbed with stimulants and fed. During the rest of the day he was in a stupor, and it was night before the lumbermen were able to find out the name of the visitor and get an account of his adventure.

HE THREW THE BOOTS AWAY AND CONTINUED IN HIS STOCKING FEET.

They then went back up the gulch and recovered the grip. On the way they discovered that the lynx had trailed the boy to the edge of the forest, and that near the spot where he had crawled into the hollow log the lynx had been joined by two other animals of the same species. The grip was ripped open and its contents strewn over the snow.

The following morning young Casey was able to be moved, and he was dragged to the village on an ox sled, where he was turned over to his parents and a local physician. The physician said that the lad's great vitality alone saved him from succumbing to exposure.

Feathered Fury.

A more vicious enemy than an angry ostrich cock would be hard to find, for that 400 pounds of sinew and temper backs a kick that can split an inch board with one blow of the powerful toe, tipped with a nail like the end of a steer's horn. The keepers now and then get a sharp blow for all their care, and a Mexican who thought to take a short cut across the farm through the breeding yards had to go to the hospital for repairs.

ROYAL MATCHMAKER

DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT MANAGES WELL FOR HER GIRLS.

Chosen from Among Many Marriageable Princesses—One to Be Queen of Sweden and One Queen of Spain.

Not every intriguing mother can ensnare a crown prince and a king. But perhaps they call it diplomacy rather than ensnaring, when it relates to princesses, is an international affair.

The girls are the Princesses Margaret and Patricia, of Connaught. The mother is the duchess of Connaught. The young men are the crown prince of Sweden and the king of Spain.

Who are the Connaughts? The duke is the brother of King Edward, his titles are formidable; he is Royal Highness Prince Arthur William Patrick Albert Duke of Connaught and Strathearn, duke of Saxony and prince of Coburg and Gotha. He might have occupied the throne of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, but preferred remaining an Englishman to becoming a subject of the sovereign kaiser.

PRINCESS PATRICIA.

No wonder Margaret and Patricia, whose "uncles, aunts and cousins occupy all the thrones of Europe," are proud princesses—they are known as the proud sisters. But gossip says it was not merely rank that caused the suitors to select them for future thrones; gossip goes so far as to say it was good clothes, and good clothes bought under the generalship of their mother.

When the girls came out she made up her mind they should cause a sensation, and at once set to work to enhance what charms they possessed by all the arts of gown maker and jeweler. The society journals were full of the dresses worn at this court function, at that one. Let us glance at the manner in which mamma decked out herself and the girls: "The duchess of Connaught, arrayed in ivory satin and wearing a superb tiera and a diamond dog collar, was accompanied by her daughters, dressed exactly alike in turquoise and pearls. They carried themselves as proudly as queens." Docile girls, evidently.

And listen to this account: "The Princess Margaret of Connaught wore a gown of crushed ruby velvet made in evening fashion. Her form is so slender that she could well wear the voluminous folds in which the gown was laid. Her ornaments were old gold, deeply encrusted with rubies and diamonds, and both she and her sister, Patricia, looked the royal princesses to the notch."

When the young ladies traveled, their ambitious mother saw to it that they were attended by full state and ceremony, she believed in no modern informality for her daughters. And the king of Sweden, who thinks maiden royalty should be properly hedged about, approved of these carefully brought-up princesses. He entered into negotiations leading to procuring one for the future queen of Sweden. Gustavus Adolphus, son of the crown prince, met with the Princess Margaret. He proposed and she accepted.

Margaret is 23 years old. She made her debut in 1902, and, rumor says, since that event, has had numerous opportunities to wed. But no less a personage than Gustavus Adolphus seemed fitting to the mother.

Who was the duchess of Connaught? Daughter of Prince Charles Frederick of Prussia. When first she came to England she showed much timidity and nervousness, her shyness made the demands of court very difficult. In domestic life she has been happy, and is very proud of her husband, who is immensely popular. The daughters, who are sprightly, as well as queenly, are thought to take after the father.

Princess Patricia is 19, the same age as her betrothed, Alphonso of Spain. It is told the love story of these two has a bit of romance as well as parental manipulation; Alphonso saw Patricia's picture, and declared he loved the girl at once; likewise Patricia became enamored of the young king. Maybe so, let us hope it is.

Naturally shy or not, the duchess of Connaught has accomplished wonders with her two girls in the way of matrimonial prospects; has earned the title of royal matchmaker. And in some way or other, pretty grievous obstacles have been overcome. It is said King Edward at first opposed the match, and is well known that Spain favored a princess of the Catholic faith. An eligible Catholic mate was proposed for the young ruler but the ministry pointed out the benefits accruing to the nation from an alliance with the reigning house of England, and the Catholic mate faded into obscurity. And then, too, the king saw Patricia's picture.

DOROTHY SUMNER.

A Heavy One, Too.

"Say, pop, what's a floating debt?" "Your mother on her annual trip to Europe."—Town Topics.

AN INDIAN HEROINE

SHOSHONE WOMAN RECEIVES TARDY RECOGNITION.

Faithful and Intelligent Guide and Interpreter of the Lewis and Clark Expedition—Bronze Statue in Her Honor.

The Lewis and Clark exposition pays honor to a brave woman, an Indian squaw, whose untiring aid was of greatest benefit to the intrepid explorers that made the famous journey across the wide continent a century ago.

The woman's name is Sacajawea, pronounced Sak-ah-ja-we-ah the accent on the fourth syllable. Concerning the importance of the part played by her in the expedition, a writer declares: "Sacajawea, or Tsakakawea, as some authorities write her name, was the bird woman who guided Lewis and Clark across the mountains and who, on several occasions, aided the explorers when all hope of ever seeing the ocean seemed lost. Next to Jefferson, who sent them, it is Sacajawea who guided them, who the exposition managers think deserves to be eulogized with Lewis and Clark."

It is a rather tardy recognition this country is bestowing on this woman, but a graceful recognition; though late, a noble tribute. An heroic bronze statue of the heroine is to stand in the center of Columbia court, which is the central plaza of the exposition. The statute, which cost $7,000, was executed by a woman, Miss Alice Cooper, of Denver.

STATUE OF SACAJAWEA.

And speaking of this monument to a member of the red race, reminds there is evidence that far and wide artists and sculptors are making haste to preserve the intensely interesting fragments of history of the Indians, are living the half-primitive life with them that they may catch the spirit of this strange people, now fast fading away. Miss Cooper had for her model a Shoshone girl, for a member of this tribe was Sacajawea.

The way she happened to be a member of the Lewis and Clark expedition is as follows: Captured as a girl by the enemies of the Shoshones, the Mintares or Blackfeet, she was sold by the captors to Charbonneau, a French-Canadian voyageur, and became one of his three slave wives. Charbonneau became attached to the expedition as interpreter, and Sacajawea accompanied her master.

From Fort Mandar, where Charbonneau joined Lewis and Clark in the toilsome journey up the Missouri, Sacajawea not only drudged patiently, but early rendered the party valuable services. At one time, with her husband and child traveling in a canoe that held the scientific instruments, valuable papers and medicines, the canoe was caught in the rapids and began to fill with water. The Indian woman, who saw the papers floating out on the water, rescued them before she turned attention to her child. This was the first notable instance of the courage and presence of mind that distinguished her long period of service with the explorers.

The fact that she was a Shoshone helped the party immensely when they came into the country of these Indians. Sacajawea immediately made friends with the squaws and recognized the chief as her brother. There was mutual recognition and joy, and the strangers were treated most hospitably by the Shoshones. They were given horses, directed as to routes, shown every courtesy. From this time on Sacajawea was looked upon as something more than a slave woman. She became the most important of the interpreters.

In a time of lack of food, she gave Lewis a piece of bread she had saved for her baby. "The annals of white man's history presents no more vivid story of sacrifice of heroine for hero. May the Indian woman henceforth share with that sturdy captains the glory of their exploit, as she shared with them the dangers and the toils of the journey and the piece of bread she had saved for her babe."

On the return journey Sacajawea twice directed the party when everyone else was lost; she showed Capt. Clark the way out of the Ross hole on July 6, 1806, and piloted him over the Bozeman pass to the Yellowstone.

At the close of the expedition the captains gave Charbonneau $500 for his services; Sacajawea received nothing. "Sacajawea lived on with her husband the old life that she had been accustomed to. From having been the moving spirit of an expedition which made its leaders famous all over the world, and which resulted in a vast acquisition for the country they served, she became once more the slave wife."

KATE SELMER.

MISS EMMONS' PUPILS DO WELL AT RECITAL

SECOND ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT LARGELY ATTENDED.

The second annual recital by pupils of Miss Aimee Louise Emmons at the Casino, last night, attracted an unusualy large number of parents and friends, and the entertainment was of exceptional merit. The programme opened with a Japanese parasol drill, arranged by Miss Emmons and given by the Misses Fowler, Englehart, Johnson, Woolston, Brown, Wean, Winant and VanDeventer. This won great applause.

Then followed a number of recitations in which these pupils acquitted themselves creditably: Miss Helen Woolley, Miss Elsa Schwed, Miss Mildred Johnson, Miss Grace Woolson, Miss Ida Englehart, Miss May Smith, Miss Marguerite Woolston, Miss Margaret VanDeventer, Miss Marion Wean, Miss Florence Fowler, Miss Amy Winant and Miss Ariline Brown.

In addition there was a play entitled "Aunt Mary," given by Miss Woolston, Miss Englehart, Miss Fowler, Miss Smith, Miss Johnson and Miss Brown. A flower drill was given by the Misses Woolley, Schwed and Woolston. There was a dumb-bell drill by the Mises Wean, Brown, Van Deventer and Winant. The entertainment closed with statue poses arranged by Miss Emmons and presented by the Misses Woolston, Fowler, Englehart, Johnson and Smith. After the entertainment there was a dance.

THE "LIVING ALBUM" AFFORDED AMUSEMENT

CHURCH SOCIETY RAISES FUNDS FOR A GIRL'S EDUCATION.

An entertainment was given in Vincent chapel last Friday under the auspices of the M. E. Young Ladies' Mission Circle, the proceeds of which will go toward the support and education of a Porto Rican girl. A part of the programme was devoted to the exhibition of a living album, the various characters being represented by the young people of the church dressed in old-fashioned costume.

There were recitations by Miss Ella Case, a soprano solo by Miss Laura Geiswein, a contralto solo by Mrs. S. H. Tugwel, after which was shown the living album. Miss Millie Spicer represented "Mrs. Elmira Pease," and as she read the quaint and humorous story she would frequently open the huge album which revealed the pictures of the following:

"Mother," Miss Kate Slade; "Father," Edward Shearer; "E," as a little girl, Miss Jubilee Rowley; "Eben," my husband, Philip Smith; "Me," as a bride, Miss Blanche Giles; "The Twins," Miss Anna Rebley, Miss Ethel Clarkson; "The Parson," Louis Wilson; "Parson's Wife," Miss Helen Whitney; "Parson's Boy," Lawrence Edgar; Sister Jane Higgs," Miss Martin; "Jane's Husband," Arthur Humble; "Sophila," Jane's eldest daughter, Miss May Wilson; "Anna Eliza," youngest, Miss Georgiana Ruckman; "Village Beauty," Miss Alice Higgins; "Grandpa Hobbs," Elmer D. Cutting.

The programme was concluded with a tenor solo by Elmer D. Cutting and a piano solo by Clifford A. Braider. Miss Alberta Waterbury was the accompanist.

After the entertainment there was a social time and refreshments were served by these young women, who also acted as ushers at the entertainment: Miss Kittie Webster, Miss Clara Slade, Miss Anna Higgins, Miss Mary Brown, Miss Margaret Nash, Miss Nellie Clarkson. Miss Susie Jackson and Miss Minnie Sharp were in charge of the refreshments. Mrs. F. S. Work was chairman of the whole affair and was assisted by Miss Fanny Chandler and Miss Lucy Ruckman. John Nagle assisted in the entertainment by operating a calcium light which was thrown on the living album.

Miss Grace Webster is president of the circle, and Mrs. J. M. McNaughton announced the programme. The sum of $35 was received for the support and education of the Porto Rican girl.

Justice Mosher to the Rescue.

In turning the corner at Second street and Park avenue at too sharp a pace, yesterday afternoon, a team of horses belonging to the Natural Ice Company, slipped and was thrown to the ground. They became entangled in the wheels of the wagon and were in a position to become badly hurt when Justice J. P. Mosher and other by standers succeede in extricating hem. One of the animals receive a few cuts.

3 NURSES GRADUATED

Annual Exercises of the Hospital's Training School.

MR. NICKERSON'S TALK

American and Canadian Flags Formed Decorations, the Graduates Being From the Dominion.

Completing their three years' course of instruction in the care of the sick, three young women members of the Muhlenberg Hospital training school for nurses, graduated with full honors, Tuesday. The exercises took place in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church and were witnessed by a large gathering of city and borough people interested in hospital affairs. The graduates were the Misses Florence and Maude Sibbald, of Toronto, and Miss Margaret Carson, of Barrie, Ont. As they are natives of Canada, the American and Canadian flags were intertwined above their heads over the platform.

President Charles J. Fisk, of the Board of Governors, was in charge of the exercises. They were opened by a piano duett by Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury and Mrs. J. P. Stevens, followed by prayer from Rev. E. V. Stevenson. In making his annual address, Mr. Fisk spoke of the high standard maintained by the Muhlenberg training school and asserted that those who graduated from it were in constant demand and that it is seldom that one can be found who is not engaged. The course of study, he said, is very hard and he congratulated the three young women on their successful completion.

Continuing his remarks, Mr. Fisk gave some statistics in connection with the work at Muhlenberg, stating that in the past year over 500 people were treated at the institution, only half of whom paid for the service.

The expenses aggregated $20,000, of which $6,000 came from the city and county, another $6,000 from patients and a similar amount from private subscription. The deficit of $3,000 was what led to the recent carnival being planned and which more than met the amount.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, who also spoke words of commendation to the class and dwelt at some length on the nobleness of the profession. He "said a good word" for the old-fashioned nurse, who had her own ideas as to what should be done in the sick room, devoid of all technical training, but declared their notions were fast disappearing and that today the nurse's calling stands next to that of the doctor. The parting words from the medical staff at Muhlenberg were spoken by Dr. W. H. Murray. The presentation of diplomas and the class pins by Mr. Fisk and Charles E. Brooks brought the exercises to a close.

During the evening a vocal solo was rendered by Willard Wadsworth and another by Mrs. Joseph Shellabarger, accompanied by Miss Sarah Mae Howell and Miss Hyatt with piano and violin. Before adjournment was made, refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

LOCAL DELEGATES TO TORONTO CONVENTION

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONFERENCE NEXT MONTH.

Rev. A. E. Finn, George Hall and R. W. Barnes, of this city, are among the delegates who will represent New Jersey at the International Sunday-school convention to be held at Toronto, Canada, from Tuesday to Friday, June 20 to 23. The institute will be opened with a joint meeting under the auspices of the field workers' and the primary and junior departments.

New Jersey leaders will take an important part in this convention. Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, of Newark, will deliver the annual address at the field workers' conference in the Knox Presbyterian church on Wednesday, June 2, and in the afternoon he will conduct a round table conference on statistics. The same day Mrs. J. Woodbridge Barnes, also of Newark, who is the primary and junior secretary of the International Association, will give her report at the meeting of the elementary section in the Bond Street Congregational church. Friday morning she will be in charge of a conference of secretaries. Miss Josephine Baldwin, of Newark, elementary superintendent of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association, will take part in a round table on "Organized Work." New Jersey is entitled to a representation of forty-eight delegates in this convention.

Incorporators Dissolve.

The Plainfield Silver Plate Co., with registered office at 301 Madison avenue, this city, has filed a certificate of dissolution at Trenton.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Reports Are Given by Delegates From Sister Associations.

SEVERAL ADDRESSES

Miss Ethel Haven and Rev. George B. Shaw Active at Last Friday's Session—Sermons and Talks.

Reports from all the Seventh-Day Baptist associations of the country were read at Friday's sessions of the sixty-ninth annual convention of the Seventh-Day Baptist Eastern Association in the historic old Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market yesterday. Words of cheer came from every section. In some associations there is a scarcity of young people and in others there is a dearth of ordained pastors, but on the whole the denomination is holding its own, and promises of healthy growth abound.

The reports were submitted after a brief devotional service, which started at 2:30 o'clock, under the leadership of Rev. E. H. Socwell.

Lucian Lowther, who later made the address of the afternoon, started the reports with a statement from the Southeastern Association. Miss Ethel Haven reported for the Central Association. Miss Haven is a former teacher in the Plainfield schools; her present home is Leonardsville, N. Y. Rev. S. H. Babcock reported for the Western Association; Rev. G. W. Burdick for the Northwestern Association; W. L. Clark, by letter, for the Southwestern Association; and Rev. E. H. Socwell for the Southeastern Association. Through Mrs. W. P. Davis, of California, a former New Market resident who is visiting relatives in her old home, a report for the Pacific Coast Association was received. The far Western Association is not united with the sisterhood of associations, and no regular delegate was sent to the convention. Mrs. Davis' statement of the condition of the association as she knew it was received with much pleasure, and the usual motion to accept the delegates' reports and welcome the delegates to participation in the convention was amended to include her.

Rev. G. B. Shaw, of this city, who represented the Eastern Association at the meeting of the Southwestern Association, reported on his trip. Mr Shaw informed the convention that he had extended is trip to include missionary and fraternal visits and had assumed a share of the expense because he deemed his journey longer than the association's credentials warranted. Dr. A. H. Lewis and other prominent members of the association spoke in hearty commendation of Mr. Shaw's self-imposed journeyings, and he was urged to allow the association to assume its full share of the expense. Mr. Shaw, however, smilingly refused to consent to that.

"I spent such a delightful time," he said earnestly, "that I feel it a pleasure to help pay for the trip."

On motion of Dr. A. E. Main, former pastor of the church in this city, now dean of the theological seminary at Alfred University, the corresponding secretary was instructed to send a letter of greeting and good cheer to Rev. and Mrs. FitzRandolph, who are doing splendid work in the face of adverse circumstances in the Southwestern Association.

The address of Lucian Lowther, delegate from the Southeastern Association, was an eloquent review on "The Employment Problem; Its Relation to the Church and Individuals." He said in part:

"Combinations of capital are driving out the small businesses, thereby calling young men to the cities and depopulating the country districts. The Seventh-Day Baptist church has yielded to this state of affairs without giving special thought to the crisis in church life brought about by it, and have lost some of its brightest young men and young women.

"It is possible for business men to so control the largest business enterprises, furnishing employment to the young men and young women, as to give them the opportunity to remain within church influence. This great business question must be solved by Christian business men, for they are the only class who can give the question attention from an unselfish point of view.

"While it is necessary that the young man be furnished employment, yet as much depends on the young man himself as on the employer, for back of every young man's life must be found a desire for more work and a devotion to principal and ideals of character. It is necessary for young men to avoid searching for excuses for not being true to a great principle.

"No man ever reaches higher than he aspires. Give me a young man whose wagon is hitched to a star."

Arthur J. Spicer, of this city, made his report as treasurer of the association. Miss H. Louise Ayers, corresponding secretary, also reported.

An invitation from the Berlin, N. Y., church to hold the 1906 convention there was received. It was filed without action.

At 5 o'clock the convention adjourned to Friendship Hall for supper. The delegates reassembled at the church at 7:45 o'clock for devotions. A. H. Burdick led a praise service and Rev. G. W. Burdick, delegate from the Northwestern Association, preached.

Saturday's sessions began at 10 o'clock and was occupied for the greater part of the time by a discussion in connection with an address given by Rev. G. B. Shaw, president of the Sabbath School Board, on the subject, "The wisdom of sending out a Sabbath-school field secretary." The duty of the field secretary is to go throughout the whole denomination. Walter L. Green, of Alfred, N. Y., one of the ordination class, has been assigned to this division. Remarks on the subject were made by Rev. A. E. Main, of Alfred, N. Y., Rev. Booth Davis, of Alfred University, and Rev. Clarence C. Chipman, of New York. Afterward Dr. Main answered numerous questions on the subject of training Sunday-school and church workers.

A second address on "The Common Problem," was delivered by Miss Ethel Haven, of Leonardsville, N. Y., a delegate from the Central Association. This led up to luncheon which was served in Friendship Hall. One of those in attendance today is Rev. H. H. Baker, of this city, the oldest elder in the denomination now being in his ninety-second year.

GOV. STOKES SIGNS THE NEW AUTO BILL

ITS MOST IMPORTAAT PROVISION IS THAT INTENDED TO STOP RACING.

Gov. Stokes has signed the Automobile bill which passed the last Legislature. It will go into effect June 1.

All motor cars must be registered. A fee of $1 is charged. Every license must be preceded by the filing of a proper application. A license granted a machine when owned by one person shall not hold good if the machine is sold.

Every machine must be registered, except in the case of manufacturers, for whom a special provision is made. The machines when in use must have the license number on the front and back of the machine in figures not less than four inches high and one-half inch wide. Side lights must also show the number.

Speed is limited to a mile in three minutes, and such speed may be maintained, but not so as to endanger life, limb or property. Judgments are obtainable by suit at law for damages caused by negligent, careless or reckless handling of a motor car.

The racing or running of cars on bets or wager or in an effort to make a speed record are prohibited on the streets, roads and highways.

Fines for various offenses range from $15 to $100, doubling on second offense and in some cases involving at discretion, a ten days' jail term. Some arrests may be made without warrant, but usually the name and residence of the owner of the machine and the registered number of the license are to be taken. Any failure to give needed information justifies an immediate arrest.

NEWSPAPERS ON TRENTON TROLLEYS

NEXT IT IS EXPECTED MAGAZINES WILL COME AND THEN PERHAPS LIBRARIES.

The Public Service Corporation has began to run cars hourly to Trenton and on these cars, on Monday and, according to an order that has just gone forth, will be files of the principal metropolitan and New Jersey newspapers.

The length of the Trenton run is the reason for the order. Pretty scenery, say the Public Service Corporation officials, may make a road seem short, but a newspaper will make the occupant of a car forget that he is traveling.

Following the advent of the newspaper it is only a matter of time when magazines will go into the cars. On the line that runs between Boston and New York even books are used, which may be had by application to the conductor.

Should the idea go further there is no knowing where it might stop. A trolley commuters' library might be formed. Every person buying a Trenton ticket would be entitled to a coupon and so many coupons would give him the right of a ticket. A locker library could be installed in the cars, and, upon presentation of the card, the commuter could get any book in the library.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

June 4: "The Making of a Christian; Helping One Another"—Eph. iv, 1-6; Heb. x, 24, 25.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

There is a sense in which it is a good thing to provoke people. Paul in the lesson for the day exhorts us to provoke one another. In some senses there is too much of this provoking, but there is no danger that we shall do too much of that kind which the apostle recommends.

The word provoke has undergone some change in use since the Bible was first translated into English, and that makes it sound a little strange. It actually means to call out. In that sense it is an excellent counsel that is given us. We need to consider each other to call out love and good deeds.

This is so much the fruitage of the new life in Christ that we can never intermit in the smallest degree in it without danger of blunting our sensitiveness to spiritual things.

Then we need to ever be on our guard against the allurements of the life by which we are surrounded lest we forget and give more attention to worldly matters than is wise and so lose our relish and zest in the works of Christ and love for His service.

The need of our fellow Christians is also great, and we should be ever on the alert to give them the heart sympathy essential for growth in the things of the kingdom and also to assist them in everything that may be needed of a temporal nature.

How quickly all jealousies flee when once the heart gets warm toward one in need! How rapidly we grow in divine things when the soul is filled with love and we are absorbed in some scheme for interesting others in the work of the Lord and His church.

It is really wonderful what a transformation in appearance and feeling comes over a person when he gets interested in enlisting others in some enterprise of loving kindness.

It is all too apparent that many Christians are not very much provoked this way. Their minds are so fully occupied with other matters that these things find no little corner for themselves. The result is disastrous to themselves, to those they are associated with and to the cause of Christ in general.

The real revival that is sadly needed is one in which there shall be more real affection felt and displayed toward our fellows. We need to get closer together in work, and then we shall come to know one another better and will see the good things in the lives and characters of those whom we have never half understood or have wholly misunderstood and wronged. There is nothing else that works half so quickly and well in correcting mistakes and misjudgments as to get folks yoked together and pulling to get the same load ahead. We come to see their strength and good nature where we had never supposed they had any qualities to be admired. Perhaps these same elements in them had never before actually been called out by any circumstances in which they had been placed. They may have proved as great a surprise to themselves as to others.

There is many a man who will never amount to much in this world or in any other world unless some one finds him and calls him out and stirs him up—provokes him, in the good sense, to put forth his energies and do something.

When Jesus would do a man a kindness he asked him, "Wilt thou be made whole?" He aroused his dullness, and when the wishing process was set up he said, "Get up," or, "Stretch out your hand," or something to call out the man's own powers and put them into action. God never injects salvation into a man's nature without the co-operation of the man himself.

Then, again, there is much of the work to be done that is far beyond the power of any of us working alone. The great tasks must have the massed strength of many workers. There is picket duty to be done where the single soldier can prove his fidelity, but there is also the movement in mass which calls for no less of skill and endurance.

We need to give good heed to those words at this time no less than did those to whom Paul first wrote.

How shall we do it?

The first thing requisite is to stop and think soberly of the work as it lies at our hand to be done and is yet not done. Then we should carefully look over all the ranks of the workers possible to be enlisted in any service in any manner. We should not stop our enumeration with those who have heretofore done all the work. We need not think that because some persons have never before done anything outside a particular beaten track they are therefore not fitted to do anything new. Of course the far easier plan is to use folks in the same old treadmill way, but that does not solve the problem; it rather complicates it.

You must find the way to do the new thing. If you put your mind to it your mind shall be quickened and illuminated until you shall wonder you have ever been so dull you failed to see the thing which is so apparent now.

The Holy Spirit gives insight to those who seek His help, and His help is indispensable in this work.

Consider! Ah, that is it! Stop long enough from the rush and push to consider. Then you will find out how to get provoked yourself and will get power to provoke some one else. Let the good work of provoking folks this way go on increasingly.

The Denver Convention.

It is estimated that Denver will be called upon to entertain between 20,000 and 30,000 people on the occasion of the seventh international convention of the Epworth League, which is to be held July 5-9, 1905.

HONOR FOR ITALIAN.

Signor Des Planches, Ambassador from Rome, Succeeds Cassini as Dean of Diplomatic Corps.

Washington.—Sig. Edmondo Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador, is to be the dean of the diplomatic corps in Washington. He succeeds to the honor through the transfer of Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, to the post at Madrid. The dean of the corps is always the ambassador who has been longest in service in this city. Lord Pauncefote long held the place, and he was succeeded in turn by Holleben, the German, and Cassini, the Russian ambassador.

SIGNOR DES PLANCHES.
(Italian Ambassador Who Becomes New Dean of Diplomatic Corps.)

To be dean is an honor highly cherished by the diplomats. Precedence is everything in official life. On state occasions it is the dean who leads the glittering procession of the foreign representatives. At social events the dean and his wife take the lead. He is the spokesman of the diplomats, their chief in all matters. To follow him are the ambassadors, ministers and attaches of 38 countries stationed in this city.

The Italian ambassador and his accomplished wife are among the most popular members of society here. They like to entertain, and invitations to affairs at the embassy always meet with eager response.

Incidentally, the change in the leadership of the corps will make life a little more agreeable for Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese minister. Naturally, there has not been any great degree of cordiality between Takahira and Cassini. While the latter was dean, however, the Japanese was obliged to defer to him in some matters of formality, and it was a duty far removed from pleasure. With a leader from beyond the war zone, the legation of Japan will be free from embarrassment.

GAMBLING BARRED IN SIAM

King Says Evil Must Go, Although It Hits His Treasury—Abolition to Extend Over Three Years.

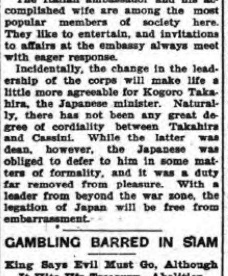
London.—While Europeans regard Siam as a benighted country, and the Siamese as outside the pale of civilization, a new view must be taken in the light of the order of the king of that country abolishing all gambling.

The king has long been impressed by the fact that, although the revenue derived from gambling is an important factor in the finances of the kingdom,



KING OF SIAM.
(Asiatic Ruler Who Has Forbidden All Gambling in His Country.)

the evils resulting therefrom are much greater than the benefits.

People expend in gambling not only their own wealth, but the wealth of others. They devote to gambling time during which they should be attending to their work.

Large sums of money, which come into the hands of the gambling farmers, also leave the country, and gambling is responsible for much of the crime that is committed.

Its abolition would, therefore, not only result in an improvement of the morals of the people and increased industry, but money expended in it would remain in the country, adding to the wealth of the community.

The abolition is to extend over three years. A hundred gambling places will be closed immediately; 22, which then remain outside Bangkok, will be abolished this year; and the most valuable of all—those within the city—must cease in 1907—the Siamese year 126.

Was Relative of Mozart.

The last relative of Mozart has just died, Baroness Berchthold zu Sonnenberg, who was a granddaughter of the composer's sister. Mozart had a family of six children, of whom only two survived, Carl and Wolfgang Amadeus. Neither of the two married. Carl died in 1858, Wolfgang in 1844. The latter adopted the musical profession, and composed a good deal.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 4.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The making of a Christian; helping one another.—Eph. iv, 1-6; Heb. x, 24, 25.

There is perhaps nothing more important in the development of a Christian than his relation to others. "No man liveth unto himself." God expects us to have a social life. He does not ask His people to exclude themselves in retreats far from the activities of life. We are to live and move and have our being among our fellow men. What our relation to the people of the world should be is therefore a most important question, and more important still is the duty that we owe toward the other children of God. We are to "do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith."

Mutual consideration is one great duty of Christian people. "Let us consider one another" is the injunction of the writer of the book of Hebrews. We should consider one another's feelings, opinions and frailties. "With all lowliness and meekness, forbearing one another in love," we should "walk worthy of the vocation to which we are called." Meekness instead of kindness, forbearance instead of irascibility and proneness to take offense at every provocation or fancied neglect, should characterize Christians in their dealings with one another. The failure to practice these precepts has caused untold trouble in the Christian church and has stunted the growth of many a Christian.

Christians should help one another. Passive endurance of the weaknesses of others is not enough. We should be a positive help to them that are of the household of faith. Let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works, * * * exhorting one another, and so much the more as ye see the day approaching." By our example we are to encourage others to love and to serve the Lord, and so far as we can we are to help those who need our help to help themselves and in turn to be a help to others. To incite the Corinthians to charity Paul mentions the liberality of the Macedonians. By our good deeds men will be provoked to goodness, and it should ever be our aim by precept and example to help them on in the service of God.

In helping others we best help ourselves. Christ considered not Himself, but others. He came "not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many." And today because of His self denial and sacrifice He reigns at the right hand of God the Father. Selfishness thwarts its own purpose, while the man who serves others rather than himself has the richest blessing of God upon him. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. xxii, 35-40; xxv, 31-46; Luke x, 25-37; Rom. xii, 10-21; xv, 1-7; Gal. v, 1-15; vi, 1-10; Eph. iv, 31, 32; II Tim. i, 16-18; Jas. ii, 14-26.

Good Work In Turkey.

American Endeavorers will be rejoiced to hear of the progress that Christian Endeavor is making in Turkey. Our society in Mardin of less than ten members in 1894 has grown until we have an older society of some seventy members. They have interesting meetings every Sunday and are helping in many ways to make the world brighter. They support a little girl in the day school. They have helped the refugees in Macedonia and the girls' school in Erzerum, whose members lost their all when the school building burned last spring. The last business meeting voted to take up some work in Africa.—J. Louise Graf, Mardin, Turkey in Asia.

South Africa's Field Secretary.

Rev. Carl Stackman of Connecticut has recently been appointed field secretary for South Africa and has already entered upon his duties there. Dr. Clark says of Christian Endeavor in South Africa: "In no part of the world has there been greater progress during the past year. Boers and Britains came together in fraternal harmony at a meeting attended by the writer in Cape Town last May." Such is the field where Mr. Stackman will find play for his splendid Christian Endeavor enthusiasm.

REV. CARL STACKMAN.

Dr. Clark's Message.

The following timely message of Dr. Clark appeared in a recent Christian Endeavor World:

"What are you doing, fellow Endeavorer? What are you planning for? Again I plead with you to mark this pre-eminently as a year of evangelistic effort, of soul winning service. God Himself points the way. Shall we not follow and use every effort to bring to Christ our associate members and our friends who are outside of the society?"

Evan Roberts and Baltimore.

Mr. Evan Roberts, the leader of the great revival in the south of Wales, which is attracting such worldwide notice because of its unusual power, has been petitioned by Dr. Francis E. Clark as president of the World's Christian Endeavor union to visit and address the Baltimore convention in July, at which something like 20,000 or 30,000 young people will be present. Mr. Roberts has not yet given a definite reply.

HAMILTON DROPPED FROM REGULAR FORCE

POLICE COMMITTEE DO IT FOR THE GOOD OF THE SERVICE.

As a meeting of the police committee of the Common Council, last night, Patrolman Peter Hamilton was formally dropped from the force. He was appointed as a probation officer eighteen months ago but was never confirmed. Several citizens waited on the committee as the meeting to learn why he was not to be appointed a regular. Chairman Tyler told them it was for the good of the service.

Several candidates for appoinment to the force who passed the necessary examinations last week, appeared at the meeting. They were considered by the committee and Theodore Martin, Daniel McDonald and John Payne were selected as probationery men. Their names will be presented for confirmation at the next Council meeting.

It is said the Common Council is to be appealed to by Hamilton's friends.

NEWSPAPER VENDER BUCKS R. R. COMPANY

TOM CARTY DETERMINED TO SELL PAPERS AT THE STATION.

As a result of an action taken by the Union News Company against Thomas Carty, newsdealer, the latter has been compelled to remove his newsstand from Park avenue at the entrance to the eastbound station, but he still sells newspapers there, carrying them under his arm and being careful not to trespass on the railroad property.

This fight between the news company and Mr. Carty has been on for some time, the company doing all in its power to protect its interests for which it pays a large sum to the railroad company. The police department informed Mr. Carty this week that he would not be permitted to maintain a stand at the point in question as a license is required by law.

WANT ALL PROPERTY TO BE TAXED EQUALLY

UNION FREEHOLDERS TELL ASSESSORS TO ACT SQUARELY.

Before adjourning its special meeting, Thursday afternoon, the Union County Board of Freedolders unanimously adopted the following, which was offered by Freeholder Krause, chairman of the appropriation committee:

"The respective assessors of the various taxing districts throughtout the county of Union are requested to carefully consider the valuation of all property within their respective districts and to assess the same on a fair and equitable basis, so that valuable property, whether private or corporate, shall be assessed equally with the small or less valuable property within these districts. And be it further resolved that a copy of this preamble and resolution be forwarded to the various assessors throughout the county and also to the County Board of Assessors."

The amount to be raised by taxation in the county for county expenses for the coming fiscal year is $251,000, an increase of $19,000 over last year, $5,000 of which is for the taking of the county census.

DRIVING CLUB ELECTS MR. JOHNSON PRESIDENT

ORGANIZATION TO OFFER $700 IN PRIZES AT JULY 4TH MEET.

The Plainfield Driving Club met at the Casino last Friday, elected directors and considered plans for matinee races to be given on Saturday, June 17 and the afternoon of July 4. President J. Wesley Johnson was in the chair.

These directors were chosen: R. A. Fairbairn and J. S. Irving, Westfield; Paul Taylor Brown, Newton B. Smalley, J. V. N. Willis, E. M. VanBuren, George A. Beaton, W. A. Coddington, J. Harry Green, Plainfield; L. A. Ballis, Dr. E. B. Voorhees, Somerville.

Resolutions and rules to govern races were adopted. It was decided to offer about $700 in prizes for the Fourth of July afternoon races and at a meeting to be held Thursday night the classes for both races on July 17 and July 4, will be decided on.

Mr. Johnson informed the club that the Public Service Corporation will have the trolley tracks extended to the Driving Park by July 1.

ORGIES AT DEWEY PARK

Piscataway Township People Aroused Over Gambling.

WANT IT STOPPED

Sports From This City and Dunellen Prey on the Deluded Youths Who Congregate at the Woods.

Citizens of Dunellen and Piscataway township are aroused over the weekly recurrence of Sunday gambling orgies in the woods at Dewey Park. It is said by those who have investigated the conditions that the state of affairs has reached a plane that is nothing short of disgraceful, and indignant demands that prompt steps be taken to suppress the disorder are likely to hum around the ears of County Prosecutor Berdine if action by the Middlesex authorities does not soon materialize.

So-called sports from this city, Dunellen and North Plainfield congregate in the woods early in the forenoon every Sunday, and remain there all day. Poker, craps, pocket-roulette and other games of chance are run with little or no attempt at secrecy or quiet. It is said that several professional gamblers—men who maintain themselves by their winnings at this and other places—from Plainfield make Dewey Park their Sunday headquarters and fleece the self-deluded youths who hang around them in the conviction that they are seeing "life" and living like "thoroughbreds." Most of the gamblers bring two or more flasks of whiskey with them to the woods, and the inevitable result follows the presence of the stuff among the youngsters.

It is said that one of the Dunellen officials—a man who joined in a recent crusade against gaming in Dunellen itself—takes a prominent part in the gambling. The Dunellenites who have become aroused to the conditions at Dewey Park are especially indignant against this man.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle, pastor of the Methodis church, Dunellen, who conduced a successful battle recently against the licensing of another hotel in Dunellen, has enlisted in the movement against the Dewey Park gamesters. With Mr. Doolittle leading the crusade, the agitation is very unlikely to die out until action of a positive character develops.

MEXICO THE SUBJECT AT MEN'S MEETING

TRINITY'S ASSOCIATION HEARS REV. C. E. HERRING'S TRAVELOGUE.

Before the Men's Club, of Trinity Reformed church, Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, delivered a travelogue on Mexico Friday. Mr. Herring's talk was impressionistic rather than descriptive. He carried a well-sustained vein of humor through the talk that made it one of the most delightful ones to which the club has listened in the course of an unusually interesting season.

Mr. Herring devoted some time to a description of pulque, the national thirst-killer of Mexico. Mexicans call pulque food, drink, clothes, home and several other things worth living for.

Mexicans consume 75,000 gallons of pulque a day. The liquor is made from the juice of a species of the century plant.

"I didn't see a bullfight," said Mr. Herring. "I wanted to be a little original. You know, most people travelling through Mexico make a rush to the bullfight and then rush to their friends and say: 'I saw a bullfight. It's horrible! Don't you go!' And the friends go, and tell some others not to go, and so on without end. I knew I didn't like bullfights, so I thought I'd be consistent and not see one."

Mr. Herring has a poor opinion of Mexican standard of honesty.

In addition to the lecture, there was a novel musical programme by A. E. Willard and Company. Mr. Willard played the piano and the mouth organ, accompanying himself in his solo on the latter. He and L. C. Schemerhorn played duets on the mouth organ and the humanophone, accompanied by Miss Lavena Culver. Miss Lottie Willard, Mr. Willard and Mr. Schemerhorn played mandolin and guitar trios.

President F. P. Storr presided over the affair.

Another House.

Mrs. John F. Loeser has given orders for the erection of another house alongside the one she is now building on East Seventh street. Architect Fred L. Lancaster is drawing the plans.

Mrs. Stevens to Build.

Mrs. Annie Stevens will build a house on East Third street, near Berckman street. Architect Lancaster has drawn plans for the structure.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE WILL OPEN AUGUST 24 WITH HENRY W. SAVAGE'S "COUNTY CHAIRMAN"

OWNER W. J. COUNIHAN AND MANAGER W. H. GELATT BUSILY ENGAGED PREPARING FOR $15,000 IMPROVEMENTS TO THE PLAYHOUSE.

With the assured certainty that the alterations to the present Washington Hall building on West Second street will have been completed in time, W. H. Gelatt, who is to be business manager of the new Plainfield theatre, announced today that the opening would positively take place on August 24. For the initial attraction he has secured Henry W. Savage's original production of George Ade's political satire, "The County Chairman," perhaps the most successful comedy of recent years. The cast will be headed by Maclyn Arbuckle, who created the title role at Wallack's New York theatre, and George Thatcher, Plainfield's well-known minstrel man, will be seen as "Sassafras Livingston," a part which has added still further laurels to his fame as a versatile actor.

OWNER COUNIHAN.

George Primrose's mammoth minstrel company will be the second attraction and for the third on Labor Dya, Manager Gelatt has booked "Running for Office," the musical comedy that aided the Four Cohans in their leap to fame. During September and October some of the Broad way successes to be seen are "Buster Brown," with Master Gabriel in the title role; the reigning Lyric Theatre hit, "Fantana," with Jefferson De Angelis and winsome Katie Barry; "Little Johnny Jones," the musical comedy that has set the whole country to whistling, with George Cohan, Jerry Cohan and Ethel Levey heading the cast; "San Toy" and James T. Powers; Weber & Fields' original "Hoity Toity;" Nat M. Wills in "A Son of Rest;" Pete Baker in "The Legend of the Catskills;" Gus Hill's big company in "The Smart Set;" "The Seminary Girl" and the greater part of Al. H. Wood's popular priced attractions, mainly big scenic and melodramatic productions.

Owing to the magnitude of the majority of the plays to be seen the management will have to charge the New York prices, that is $1.50 for the best seats and dropping down to twenty-five cents for the others. This will not be the established rate as it is proposed to have popular prices prevail once or twice through the week, especially on Saturday night. This is the same system maintained at Jacob's Theatre at Elizabeth and has been found to be the most satisfactory where the grade of plays alternates.

W. H. Gelatt, who has charge of the present bookings, is a theatrical man in every sense of the word. For many years he was with Klaw & Erlanger, the greatest producers in the country, and what he learned from them has aided him in his recent ventures. Personally, he is the height of geniality and during his few visits to Plainfield in connection with the purchase of the building that is soon to be a theatre, he has made a host of acquaintances, all of whom acknowledge him to be a "fine fellow." W. J. Counihan, with whom he is associated, has been in the theatrical and show business all his life. At various times he has been with the Buffalo Bill forces, Barnum & Bailey, Shelby's Chicago Academy of Amusement, with John Haviland at St. Louis and for two years as business manager with Gus Hill's shows. He will make his home in Plainfield and will assume the personal management of the playhouse.

MANAGER GELATT.
Photo by Stone.

A conference was held this morning between the theatre people and the Elks, who own the building at the present time. Former Mayor Fisk, Mayor Buckle, President of the Board of Trade Woolston and former Senator Reed, represented the Elks. Owner Counihan and Manager Gelatt as well as Architect Marsh and Building Inspector Doane were also present. The plans were approved as submitted after a few minor changes were made by the theatre people and work will be commenced next week.

LITERARY.

Pearson's Magazine for June presents as its leading article the first in an interesting series entitled "The Profession of Getting Hurt." The author, Theodore Waters, spent five months visiting the various big cities, where he unearthed among public corporations and among the various municipal heads a most amazing state of affairs, showing how annually millions of dollars are "grafted" by this brand-new class of fakers. "New York's Tunnelers," by A. W. Rolker, tells vividly of the difficulties and dangers encountered by the engineers and the men who are boring through the mud and slime, sixty feet beneath the waters of the East River.

The first of the early summer issues to appear, the June Metropolitan is a veritable garden of delight among magazines. It is rich pictorially, strong textually, and appeals to every taste. Beside a cover in four colors there is a superb frontispiece in full color, reproduced from a pastel painting made for The Metropolitan Magazine. This frontispiece is the first of a series of six beautiful subjects illustrating "Old Fashioned Girls in Old Fashioned Gardens." The series, executed by George Gibbs in that most delightful of all artistic mediums—pastel—are reproduced with a fidelity to the originals that even in this day of clever reproductive processes must be acknowledged as both extraordinary and charming.

There is so distinct a war flavor to the June Century that it might well have been called a Memorial Day issue. Thomas M. Semmes contributes "A Pupils' Recollections of 'Stonewall' Jackson;" Leighton Parks, very happily told, "What a Boy Saw of the Civil War;" George Langdon Kilmer, "Boys in the Union Army," a subject of growing interest; and "by one who followed him," "Recollections of Jubal Early. "Four stories round the same theme: "Miss Sally and the Enemy," in Gouveneur Morris's happiest vein; "In the Virginia Room," by Arlo Bates, a story to read with heart full of sympathy; "Two Peacemakers," by Harry Stillwell Edwards, bubbling over with quiet fun; and Ruth Kimball Gardiner's "John Edward's Friend," a Memorial Day story of childish pity and patriotism. Coming down to later days, Capt. Horace M. Reeve recounts the stirring story of "The Defense of Baler Church" by Spaniards in the Philippines, and Herbert J. Hagerman has much of interest to tell of "The Russian Court."

The June number of Scribner's Magazine obtains articles by distinguished writers, including Henry van Dyke, Dr. George P. Fisher, President John Finley, and Mrs. Wharton; and an abundance of beautiful illustrations, notably the very humorous drawings by A. B. Frost, which lead the number (reproduced in tint) and also the illustration in color by F. C. Yohn to accompany "The Soldiers' Recessional," a highly imaginative Decoration Day poem by President Finley. This magazine has been always exceptionally fortunate in the letters which it has published from time to time, from the Thackeray Letters in the first year of its existence, down to Madame Waddington's correspondence of recent years.

In "With 'Everybody's' Publishers" for June, the publishers review the achievements of the magazine in the past two years. "Beless important things," they say "Everybody's Magazine two years ago was a 96-page magazine It now carries an average of 160 pages a month of reading matter. Two years ago we were running 72 pages of advertising, for which we received $9,742.64 gross. In this number we have approximately 120 pages of advertising, for which we receive $45,000 gross. Two years ago the circulation of Everybody's Magazine was 150,000 copies a month. Our edition this month will be practically five times that—750,000."

Newark Academy, 10; Leal's, 6.

Newark Academy defeated Leal's School at Newark on Saturday by a score of 10 to 6 and won the interacadamic League championship. Newark won every game in the series.

ARE AT VLADIVOSTOK

Two Russian Warships Have Escaped the Japs.

ROJESTVENSKY, WOUNDED, RESCUED

Russians Report Two Japanese Battleships, Two Cruisers and Many Destroyers Sunk—Togo Sweeping Sea For Fugitives.

LONDON, May 31.—A Vladivostok special dispatch says that two ships alone of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's powerful flotilla, the swift cruiser Almaz and the torpedo boat destroyer Grozny, lie at anchor there in the curving harbor of Golden Horn, they having separated from the fleet in the early stage of the battle which began in the Korea strait Saturday and headed, in obedience to orders, with full speed to Vladivostok.

No other vessels of the Baltic fleet have yet arrived, and the signal stations at Askold and Rimskykorsakoff islands have reported none in sight.

A St. Petersburg report says that Mme. Rojestvensky, wife of the commander of the Russian fleet, has received a telegram from Vladivostok, signed by her husband, saying that he had arrived there on board the cruiser Almaz and that he was severely wounded in the neck, back and abdomen.

Officers of the Almaz and Grozny say that both fleets had already sustained terrible losses when the Almaz and Grozy broke through the hostile line.

Of the Japanese two battleships had gone down before their eyes, and two cruisers, their sterns high out of the water, seemed ready to plunge foremost to the bottom of the sea.

The Russian fleet, they say, was even in a sadder plight. Rojestvensky's flagship, the Kniaz Souvaroff, and her sister ship, the Borodino, and the cruisers Oslabya and Orel were utterly destroyed, and when the fog closed down and hid the scene of battle from sight northward of the speeding ships a third great Russian battleship, the Alexander III., seemed in sore distress, but limping northward, putting up a valiant fight against throngs of torpedo boats and still continuing her attacks on the cruisers of the island empire. Torpedo boats were also clinging round the other ships of the fleet like angered wasps, separate flotillas darting in again and again to launch their weapons.

The Almaz, which has arrived at anchorage here, bears scars of the battle. Her mizzen mast is shot away, and one of her smokestacks is pierced by a cannon shot. But the Grozny, though engaged for several hours in a running fight at short range with a large Japanese destroyer, shows no signs of the fray, and finally, after her commander, Captain Andriffski, had been wounded and an officer and three men had been killed, the Grozny succeeded in sinking her opponent with a luckily placed shot and reached Vladivostok.

A warrant officer of the Russian repair ship Kamchatka who landed at Moji, Japan, says:

"Our fleet entered the strait of Korea numbering thirty-six vessels. The Kamchatka received several shots and was partly disabled. Finally a shot struck a vital part, and sixty men entered boats. When they were nearly clear a great explosion occurred, and the ship sank. The captain and seven officers were killed during the battle. Two officers were wounded, and two jumped overboard. Three other officers were drowned.

"We could see our battleships to the northward enveloped by the Japanese. Seemingly they were badly damaged."

A Tokyo dispatch says that Admiral Togo has wired Admiral Yamamoto, minister of the navy, as follows:

"The main force of the Russian second and third fleets is nearly annihilated. Please feel assured of it."

The captured Russian battleship Orel arrived at the Maizura navy yard at noon yesterday. The battleships Nikolai I. and Admiral Seniavin and the coast defense ironclad Admiral Apraxine reached Sasebo at 11 o'clock. It is reported that the Orel and Nikolai I. are slightly damaged.

Early in the battle an officer of the Almaz while watching Rojestvensky's flagship, the battleship Kniaz Souvaroff, for a signal saw the flagship shudder from stem to stern as if under a blow from a gigantic hammer and hesitate in her course, while the waves rose high from her armored sides. Then she commenced to list and sink.

The officer believes that the debut of the submarine boat as an effective agent in naval warfare or perhaps a large mine caused the disaster to the Kniaz Souvaroff. The damage, however, was so extensive that the flagship soon went down, leaving the deck officers and many of the crew struggling in the waves.

One of the Russian torpedo boats, either the destroyer Buiny or the Bravi, ran in and picked up a number of the swimmers, one of whom was recognized through a glass as Admiral Rojestvensky.

It is officially announced from Tokyo that all of the Russian battleships have been sunk except the Orel and Nickola I., which were captured. Admirals Rojestvensky, Voelkersam and Nebogatoff are all reported prisoners.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says that Admiral Rojestvensky has arrived at Vladivostok on board the torpedo boat destroyer Buiny. During the battle he sustained a wound in the head.

Admiral Durnovo, a member of the council of the empire and superintendent of posts and telegraphs under the minister of the interior, has received a dispatch from his son, who is in command of the Buiny, describing fully how his commander in chief, Admiral Rojestvensky, was saved. The admiral was washed off the deck of the Kniaz Souvaroff just before the flagship foundered and was picked up by the torpedo boat destroyer Buiny.

Other dispatches from Vladivostok say the Russians lost twelve warships sunk and captured during the engagement. According to these reports, the Japanese torpedo boats played the principal role in the defeat of the Russian fleet. They were sent in for action again and again under a perfect hail of shot from the Russian rapid firing guns. More than one-half of the Japanese flotilla of torpedo boats was sunk. The protected cruiser Jemtchug, reported sunk in the Tokyo dispatches, has arrived at Vladivostok.

Official announcement is made from Tokyo that Admiral Rojestvensky has been captured and that he is seriously wounded.

Admiral Togo continues his great sweep to the northward in pursuit of the remnant of the Russian fleet. Complete reports will possibly increase the extent of the Russian disaster. It will be some days before complete results of the battle are known. At the end of the week Admiral Togo's fleet is expected to reassemble, and until then it will only be possible to secure approximate details.

The Russian government seems to be in a quandary as to how to break the news to the country. A war council was held at Tsarskoe-Selo at which the emperor was urged to issue an imperial manifesto.

So far as the newspapers are concerned the public might believe Vice Admiral Rojestvensky had achieved a victory. The censor passed all the vague rumors favorable to the Russians, but blue penciled everything indicating a Russian disaster. While the disastrous news was spread like wildfire by word of mouth over the capital and was quickly telegraphed privately to the big centers by the antigovernment leaders the country can be said to be still in a state of ignorance as to what has happened. The editors of the liberal papers here, being conversant with the contents of the Tokyo dispatches, warn their readers in a [illegible] fashion against harboring [illegible] hopes based upon dispatches which appear in their news columns. The Bourse Gazette quite openly declares it would be a sin to conceal the [illegible] that all hope of Russia obtaining the mastery of the sea has vanished, adding:

"The significance of the collapse of this hope is self evident."

The Novoe Vremya and the Russ while admitting that the fate of the far east has been determined decline to accept the Japanese reports. Their editorials, however, breathe a tone of unutterable sadness.

The admiralty officially admits the sinking of the battleships Kniaz Souvaroff, Borodino, Oslabya and Orel and the repair ship Kamchatka. The loss of these vessels was definitely established by Captain Chagin of the cruiser Almaz. No statement regarding the ships captured was made.

The report that the Kniaz Souvaroff, flagship of the Russian fleet which was defeated by the Japanese in the strait of Korea, was sunk and that Admiral Rojestvensky was wounded and placed on board a torpedo boat destroyer is confirmed. The whereabouts of the destroyer is not known.

It Was British Steamer Olhamia.

SHANGHAI, May 31.—It now appears that the report of the sinking of an American vessel by the fleet of Admiral Rojestvensky grew out of the seizure by the Russian fleet of the British steamer Olhamia, bound for Japan, which was later retaken by Japanese warships.

Guilty of Lese Majesty.

VIENNA, May 31.—The trial here of several Austro-Italians from Triest, charged with high treason for having engaged in a plot to start a revolution last summer in the Italian province of Austria, has ended in the acquittal of the accused on the main charge. They were, however, found guilty of lese majesty and of disturbing the peace and sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from six to nine months.

Funeral Horses Stampeded.

BUFFALO, May 31.—The firing of a salute at the dedication of the new soldiers' plot at Forest Lawn stampeded the horses in a funeral cortege which was just entering the cemetery. Several carriages were wrecked, and four persons were injured. Emmanuel Roseau, Henry Haenlien, Kaufman Greenberg and Albert Ashley were taken to the hospital. All of them will recover.

Missionaries Murdered In Tibet.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 31.—Advices received here tell of a missionary uprising in Tibet. Four French missionaries at different stations in Bathang district were murdered and a number of the members of their churches massacred. The missionary in charge of the district was Rev. Father P. Grandjean. Troops have been sent to the district from Szechuen.

Passes In, Indiana Barred.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31. — Governor Hanly has surprised the state officers and other public officials of Indiana by declaring that any such officer who accepts a pass from a railroad company, or any railroad company that issues one, is liable to a heavy fine under the railroad commission act.

War Veteran Dead.

AMERICUS, Ga., May 31.—Captain Calvin W. Felder, aged eighty-five years and a pioneer citizen of south western Georgia, is dead at his home here. Captain Felder was a veteran of the Seminole Indian war and of the civil war.

HAMBURG SECOND.

Kaiser's Representative In Ocean Race Off Scilly Isles.

LONDON, May 31.—The German yacht Hamburg, second contestant in the kaiser cup race to cross the Atlantic from Sandy Hook, was off the Scilly island station at 8 30 o'clock yesterday morning.

When the Hamburg passed four miles south of Bishop lighthouse at 9 o'clock she was almost becalmed.

Captain C. Peters of the Hamburg, replying to a megaphone message, said he had a splendid voyage and had not met with any mishaps up to reaching Scilly. He had good winds and met with only one gale. When informed of the record made by the American yacht Atlantic, Captain Peters said he was astonished at such an achievement.

Philadelphia Horse Show.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31. — Rain kept down the attendance at the Philadelphia horse show on St. Martin's Green at Wissahickon Heights, but did not seriously interfere with the judging of the various classes of horses shown. Blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Horse in harness, shown before brougham or victoria, won by Dr. Selwonk, ch. g., Reginald Vanderbilt, exhibitor; ladies' saddle horse, won by Lucille, ch. m., Mrs. W. S. Elliot, New York, exhibitor; pair of horses in harness, suitable for park work in a T cart or phaeton, won by Bugler, br. g., and Fife, br. g., W. H. Moore, New York, exhibitor.

Buttling Won at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Before a crowd of 30,000 persons J. L. McGinnis' Buttling, a 30 to 1 shot, captured the Parkway handicap, one mile and a sixteenth, at Gravesend. Dolly Spanker, the hot favorite, was second and Major Daingerfield third. Buttling went to the front at the lifting of the barrier and led by five lengths at the finish, winning very easily. Dolly Spanker was four lengths in front of Major Daingerfield Jacobite, the 11 to 10 favorite, won the Hudson stakes by a head from Jerry Wernberg, who closed very strong.

Stamsen Held Championship.

MUSKEGON, Mich., May 31.—Fifteen thousand people saw the Federation of American Motor Cycle championship races here. Stamsen of Muskegon, present western champion, ably defended his title against competitors from six states. His best time was in the five mile open, which was run in 6:47. Serbel of Milwaukee was second and Seramur of Toledo third.

A MAD ELEPHANT.

One Hundred Men Choke Gigantic Pachyderm to Death.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 31.—Prince, a gigantic trick elephant, was put to death here in the Yammerthawl quarry. The beast had shown signs of madness and his owners decided to kill him. It took 100 men with block and tackle ninety minutes to put the pachyderm out of existence.

Stakes were driven in the ground on both sides of the elephant. Hawsers one and a quarter inches thick were fixed to each stake with block and tackle. The ropes ended in slip nooses which were placed around the elephant's neck. A gang of 100 men then began to haul on the ropes.

Twice the hawsers broke and the dangerous operation of replacing them had to be undertaken by the trainer. Prince offered no resistance, submitting quietly to the commands of his trainer. The hide was removed from the carcass and given to the Buffalo Historical society.

Blue and Gray at Portsmouth, Va.

NORFOLK, Va., May 31.—Confederate and federal veterans marched together in the Memorial day parade in Portsmouth, Va., which also was participated in by detachments of marines and sailors from the Norfolk navy yard. Following the decoration of the graves of the Confederate and federal veterans there was a grand military mass at St. Paul's Catholic church, with an oration later at the naval cemetery by Lieutenant C. P. Shaw, U. S. N., retired.

In Memory of Phillips Brooks.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Graduates and undergraduates of Harvard college united in presenting to the Virginia Theological seminary, located near Alexandria, Va., a handsome inscribed tablet in memory of the late Rev. Dr. Phillips Brooks of Massachusetts, who was once a student of the seminary. The address of presentation was delivered by Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins, pastor of Holy Trinity church, Philadelphia.

Miners' Monument Dedicated.

PITTSBURG, May 31.—In memory of the Harwick mine disaster of over one year ago, in which 189 men were killed, about 2,000 miners and several thousand of their friends gathered at the Springdale cemetery to witness the dedication of a magnificent monument donated by the miners of western Pennsylvania.

Floods Cost Half a Million.

EL PASO, Tex., May 31.—A half million dollars is a conservative estimate of the damage done by the overflow of the Rio Grande north of El Paso in the Mesilla valley. Some 7,000 acres of farm lands are under water, crops and farm machinery have been lost, and all houses in the path of the waters were washed away.

Choate's Farewell to London.

LONDON, May 31.—Mr. Choate, the retiring ambassador, and Mrs. Choate left Euston station on their way to Liverpool, where they will embark on the Caronia for New York. A large gathering of [illegible] and few Americans bade them farewell.

OLD DEBTORS' PRISON.

Building at Georgetown Still in Good State of Preservation — Now Used as a Church.

Washington.—South of the canal on Thirty-second street, Georgetown, stands the old debtors' prison, one of the oldest buildings in that historic city.

Years prior to the laying out of the District of Columbia this structure was built, and as far back as the latter part of the seventeenth century was used as a municipal prison, among its first inmates as prisoners being Michael and Matthew Dulaney, charged with setting fire to a tobacco warehouse. The prison was regarded as unsafe and the men were placed in PRISON FOR DEBTORS.

(Ancient Building Still in Good State of Preservation.)

irons and special guards placed over them. This was the only prison in the then lower part of Montgomery county, Maryland, although the county court was held at Rockville, and there it was that all violators of the state laws in the county were carried for trial. Even in those good old days people would get into trouble and into jail. The laws were strict —early to bed and early to rise, and if one failed to meet his financial obligations he was thrown into jail.

The old building has been used for many purposes since then, and now a faithful band of colored people, Baptists, hold religious services there, entrance being through an end door which is reached by a long rickety flight of stone steps. The lower floor is used as a storage house for fertilizer, but this does not interfere with the worshipers. Barring the dilapidated condition of the roof, windows and chimneys, the building which is of stone and brick, is in a splendid state of preservation, and unless torn down to make room for another building will doubtless remain as a historic spot of interest for many years.

CAPT. HOBSON WEDS.

Hero of the Merrimac and Miss Hull Married—Both Come of Famous Ancestry.

New York.—The marriage of Miss Grizelda Houston Hull and Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, the hero of the Merrimac, on May 25 was the culmination of an interesting romance and marks an alliance which joins some of the best blood in the country. The marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Tuxedo. Only relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties were present.

Mrs. Hobson is on her father's side related to the Hulls, Strongs, Farnhams and Doolittles of New England, and is through her mother, who was a Miss Lucia Houston, daughter of Judge Russell Houston, of Kentucky, related to some of the finest families of the south. She is the grandniece of Gov. Houston, of Alabama, who was recognized as one of the greatest executives who ever presided over the destinies of that state. She, therefore, has in her veins the blood of the Polks, the famous President Sam Houston, of Texas, the Longs, the Joneses, the Eatons, and other noted families of Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky and Tennessee.

CAPT. R. P. HOBSON.
(Hero of the Merrimac Has Entered Holy Bonds of Wedlock.)

Capt. Hobson, too, comes of famous ancestry, both south and north. Through his mother, who was Miss Sarah Croom Pearson, daughter of Chief Justice Richmond Pearson, he is related to the Saltenstals and Brewsters, of Massachusetts, and on his father's side is related to the Moreheads, Whites, Williams and others who did much to lay the foundations of the great states in North Carolina.

Catches Prize Codfish.

Capt. Lorenzen, of the schooner E. A. Hooper, of Gloucester, brought in the prize codfish to Boston recently. The fish was a monster in appearance, with a head like that of a good-sized swordfish. It was caught off Halfway rock. The fish weighed 83 pounds dressed, and according to fishermen who saw it must have weighed nearly 100 pounds when caught. The fish measured almost six feet in length. It was bought by one of the wholesale houses and sold immediately to a retail dealer in the Back bay.

FINE BAND CONCERTS

Leader LaVere Now Arranging for the Summer Series.

FIRST ONE JUNE 9

Many New Features to be Introduced, Among Them Moving Pictures for Illustrating Songs.

Having completed his plans for this year's series of summer band concerts, Leader Ben LaVere yesterday had workmen begin the construction of a new stand at Concert Park on Chatham street east of Watchung avenue. They will be completed and the grounds in shape by next week, though the first concert is not to be given until Friday evening, June 9.

The grand stand will accommodate 1,000 people, a much larger number than was provided for last year, and will be twenty-five feet nearer the musicians. The seats are to be decidedly more comfortable and roomy aisles will allow moving about without disturbing anyone.

The stand for the band is also to be much larger and will have a gradual rise from the front to the rear. A circular roof is to cover the top in order to hold in the sound better, and other improvements are to be added that will greatly facilitate Mr. LaVere's work.

As for the concerts themselves, it is the aim of the promoter to have them eclipse anything of the kind yet furnished local people. Every member of the band, and there will be half as many again as in other seasons, will be a soloist with his own particular instrument. Mr. LaVere has already perfected arrangements for the opening night and through close friendship has secured W. S. Mygrants, one of the best known cornetists in the Metropolitan district. He is the only player in the country who can hold a note two and a half minutes and will do it at the first concert.

Besides the band there are to be other features each night, among them being two vocalists, moving pictures and illustrated songs. Before the first instrumental number, one of the singers will give a popular song and moving pictures will illustrate the chorus. This feature that was introduced in New York last fall and which proved highly acceptable. During the band intermission, the usual two songs wil be given with colored slides. An experienced electrician has been secured to arrange for them and they will be so placed that they can be seen from any part of the grandstand.

While Mr. LaVere has funds enough in hand from the recent fair to conduct the concerts for part of the season, their continuance will depend upon the patronage accorded the stands. A small admission fee will be charged and the aggregate will be placed in the general fund, of which M. C. VanArsdale is treasurer. The crowds that have attended the series in other years always appreciated the music and with the added attractions there should be no hesitancy on the part of the public to aid the project by occupying the stands.

Epworthian' Rally.

Members of the Elizabeth District Epworth League, group No. 4, comprising the local chapters and those of Westfield, Scotch Plains, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville and Raritan, will hold a rally in the Monroe Avenue church on Thursday night, June 1, at 8 o'clock. An interesting programme, including addresses by Rev. Dr. William W. Youngson, of St. James church, Elizabeth, and Rev. George Mooney, will be presented.

Masquerade Surprise.

Walter Mellick, of Alton, was surprised by a number of friends Friday night. The party came to the house masked. Games, music and refreshments were the features. Several Plainfielders were present, among them Mrs. Mary Jagger, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Chatlin, and Mrs. William Alpaugh. Others present included W. R. Hetfield, O. M. Hetfield, Miss Mary Hetfield, Miss Mary Baldwin and Miss Nettie Baldwin, of Dunellen; Mr. and Mrs. Len Mellick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mellick, Mr. and Mrs. Banks and Miss Rowley, of Alton; and others.

Baseball Boys' Fair.

The "American Boys," a young amateur baseball nine, held a successful fair Saturday afternoon on the lawn of George Webster, captain, on Duer street, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase bats, balls, mask, etc. The sum of $2.20 was realized as net profit.

Wife Beater Jailed.

Vincent Popek, charged with drunkenness and disorder and beating his wife, was sent to Elizabeth for sixty days by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. Patrolman Meyers arested Popek at his home yesterday in the midst of a violent assault on his wife.

House Quarantined.

A young son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hanigan, of Duer street, has a light attack of scarlet fever and the house has been quarantined by the Board of Health.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1905. NO. 23.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Corner the Union, as Well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

FISH PEDDLER KILLS HIS RIVAL

Two Italians in a Fatal Duel With Knives and Pistol.

MURDERER FLED.

Bloody Battle Witnessed by School-children on North Avenue—Identity of Slayer and Victim Unknown.

Two rival Italian fish peddlers from New York quarreled over the division of territory in the Italian colony on North avenue this noon. One of them is now lying dead in the morgue, stabbed a half a dozen places and shot through the breast, and the other is fleeing before Chief Kiely.

The peddlers have been in the habit of coming to the city with baskets of fish every day, peddling their stock from door to door among the Italians. None of the Italians in the colony appeared to know the murderer by name after the fight, and all the police could learn about them is that the dead man is Lorenz Foush who was commonly called "Joe." They both came from New York.

The men met opposite the Hygiea ice plant. They were fighting within a few seconds, and the fight rapidly took on a desperate character. Knives came out on both sides, and the steel played for several minutes. The fight was witnessed by a number of school children, on their way home to lunch, from the other side of the street. One of the men sprang back suddenly, dodged a blow from the other's knife and drew a revolver. He fired and Foush fell. The murderer shoved the pistol back in his pocket and ran up the street.

John Sharkey, a Richmond street butcher, heard the shot and ran out. Foust was just drawing his last breath as Sharkey reached his side. Some of the children ran for Dr. Zeglio, who was in a house near by, but the doctor found nothing for him to do.

Chief Kiely was notified a few minutes after the shooting, and he chased after the murderer in a buggy. It was thought at first that the man had run through a house and fled by a back way to Scotch Plains, but later trailing indicated he had jumped on an eastbound freight train at Berckman street. Chief Kiely made the wires hum in all directions and is hopeful of running his man down before night.

Foush is about forty years old. He is supposed to have a wife and five children in New York.

Later the murderer was seen getting off a train at Cranford.

MUST CHANGE PLANS PLAINFIELD THEATRE

AUTHORITIES WILL NOT ISSUE BUILDING PERMIT.

Plans for the proposed Plainfield theatre are held pending material alterations, without which the board of engineers and councilmanic fire committee will not give their approval. Work on the remodelling of Washington hall will be delayed until the theatre people submit amended plans.

Chief Doane insists for public safety that the stage and proscenium walls be made fire proof; that asbestos and water curtains be used on the stage; that the roof of the stage be fire proof; that the auditorium aisles be of the proper width; that the fire walls be thicker; that automatic sprinklers be placed over and under the stage, and a few other changes made.

First Borough High License.

Borough Collector George F. Brown has received from Charles Jensen, the first $700 liquor license fee to be paid in North Plainfield. All the other dealers had their licenses renewed just before the increase was made by the county court and are paying but $400 for the privilege until next May.

Mercury Takes a Tumble.

Yesterday's rain knocked the bottom out of the thermometer. The chill wind and the chillier water shoved the mercury down twenty-six degrees. At 10 o'clock yesterday the thermometer was 80 and at noon today 54 degrees.

SANITARY INSPECTION OF HOUSES FOR MAY ### NEED FOR THE WORK APPARENT BY THE RESULTS.

The house-to-house inspection started by the Plainfield Board of Health some time ago, was resumed last month and the need of the work is shown by the results. The crusade will be continued with the greatest possible energy during the coming months.

Inspections were made during May on West Fourth street, between Park and Grant avenues, with this result:

Number of houses inspected, 168; privy vaults found, 88; cesspools, 34; privy vaults requiring cleaning, 31; cesspools requiring cleaning, 5; abandoned privy vaults not properly filled, 19; abandoned cesspools not properly filled, 5; abandoned wells not properly filled, 6; driven wells found, 29; dug wells found, 9; defective plumbing systems found, 0; unsanitary cellars found, 6; chicken yards, 31; privy vaults too near well, 8; cesspools too near well, 8; houses overcrowded, 4; accumulation of garbage, 8; accumulation of ashes, 13; accumulation of ashes mixed with garbage, 5; accumulation of manure mixed with garbage, 1; accumulation of manure, 5.

MEN'S CLUB HOST OF WOMEN FRIENDS

ENTERTAINMENT AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH ENJOYABLE.

To mark their last gathering until fall, the Men's Club, of the Congregational church, entertained its women friends last night. About two hundred persons attended the affair, which was the most successful of its kind the club has ever held. Walter David, reader and entertainer, of New York, won much laughter and applause with recitations and stories. A double string quartette, under the direction of Arthur S. Mosher, played a number of selections.

Refreshments were served. The committees in charge of the affair were made up as follows: Entertainment, F. A. Weeks, Curtis Bates, Rev. C. L. Goodrich; refreshment, Sidney Dunning, M. C. VanArsdale, Clarence LaRue.

GERMAN MARINE BAND TO BE HERE TONIGHT

FAMOUS ORGANIZATION TO APPEAR AT THE CASINO.

The musically inclined portion of our populace are no doubt anxiously awaiting the engagement of the famous German Marine Band and Herr Louis Kindermann, its masterly director, which is announced for tonight at the Casino.

Among the various bands now touring this country, there is perhaps none that can boast of as extensive a repertoire of selections, and which includes grand and comic operatic, also classic and popular music, all of which is played with equal perfection. This is the same grand organization that created the musical furore of the St. Louis Fair, and is composed of fifty artist musicians and celebrated soloists, representing Germany's best and most skillful musical academy graduates. The organization is now on a triumphant transcontinental tour, which is limited and calls for concerts at the principal cities and musical centers only, prior to their return to Berlin next November.

Mission Circle Elects.

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle, of the First M. E. church, held its election last night. The officers: Miss Fannie Chandler, president; Miss Alice Higins, first vice president; Miss Virginia Devine, second vice president; Blanche Giles, third vice president; Miss Nan Wilson, fourth vice president; Miss Nellie Clarkson, corresponding secretary; Miss Catherine Slade, recording secretary; Miss Clara Slade, treasurer; Miss Lucy Ruckman, mite-box secretary.

Elks' Annual Excursion.

Elizabeth lodge, No. 189, B. P. O. E., has already issued tickets for its annual excursion which is to be held this year on June 29, with Dreamland, Coney Island, as its destination. A good-sized delegation from this city will be in attendance.

BARBERS WANT LICENSES

Every "Tonsorial Artist" in the City has Filed an Application.

INSPECTION RESULT.

Stick Alum is Found in Some Shops—Lack of Sterilizing Arrangements.

In accordance with the provisions of the new ordinance licensing and regulating barber shops, the Board of Health has received an application for a permit from every barber now doing business in the city. An inspection was made of all the shops and general conditions were found to be very good. No sponges or powder puffs were used in any shop, and with one exception, each shop had a plentiful supply of towels so that each patron could have a clean one. Stick alum was used in a majority of the shops, but the most common fault was the lack of antiseptic or germicide for sterilizing the razors, scissors, combs and brushes.

In many cases the wash basin in the shop was not connected with the sewer, but emptied into a pail, which in turn, was emptied into a sink outside of the shop. Hot water was obtained in many cases from an ordinary receptacle, and in one instance in a coffee pot.

The barbers seem anxious to comply with the ordinance and the changes necessary to comply with the rules can be made easily. Detail reports of the inspection of each shop can be seen at the office of the Board of Health at any time. As soon as the necessary changes are made in the barber shops applications will be granted.

ALL COLLEGIATES NEXT FOR PLAINFIELD

STRONG TEAM SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Not being satisfied with the general makeup of the Roxborough team which was scheduled to appear on Crescent Oval on Saturday, and wanting to present a first-class attraction, the local management has cancelled the contest with that club and instead will be opposed by the "All-Collegiate" team composed entirely of college players. Every man on the visiting team is very fast and most of them are known to the local fans. They have defeated many of the best college and semi-professional teams in the country this season and enjoy the distinction of having defeated last season the team now representing Plainfield. Mahoney and Dolan, either of whom will be called upon to pitch, are recognized as twirlers of the first-class, and everyone will be pleased to see that old favorite Cotter, formerly of Westfield, behind the rubber. Particular bright stars on the team are Bouche, short stop, Fallon, left-field, Lamar, first base, Carroll, second base and O'Harra center-field and captain. Mr. Daab assures the public that the team is the best and that the contest will be a fine one. The locals will have to play their best ball to win and it will be no "cinch" for them. The lineup of the two teams will be as follows:

All-Collegiate — Carroll, 2b; O'Hara, cf—Capt.; Bouche, ss; Fallon, lf; Mahoney, rf—p; Connolly, 3b; Cotter, c; Conan, 1b; Dolan, rf.

Plainfield—Cosgrove, cf; Oldring, 2b; Connolly, rf; Cregan, lf; Kiernan, ss; Leonard, 3b; Driscoll, 1b; Lamar, c; Beck or Deegan, p.

U. S. Hotel's Opening.

The United States Hotel at Ocean Grove will open on June 24. E. V. and A.-Z. Waldorf, of 132 and 134 Crescent avenue, this city, are the proprietors of the hotel and also the "Waldorf" at 132-134 Crescent avenue. The Plainfield house is open all the year. Persons desiring board and rooms at either of the places can be accommodated by communicating with the proprietors.

A Birthday Surprise.

A birthday surprise party was tendered Mrs. Carrie Howard, of Central avenue, by twenty-five members of Minna Lodge, Odd Ladies, Monday night. With the aid of games, music and general sociability, several hours were passed in a delightful manner. Refreshments were served shortly before midnight.

Souvenir Postal Cards

The latest fad in souvenir postal cards are those produced by the famous oilette process, direct from either a water painting or water color. Raphael Tuck & Sons Co., of 122 Fifth avenue, who control the sales, have named the series the "wide, wide world." They are easily the handsomest on the market.

THIRTEEN ARE ARRAIGNED

All But Two Plead Guilty to Indictments in County Court.

THREE FROM HERE.

James Springs, on Forgery Charges —C. Carr, Battery and J. Gardner, Larceny—Plead Not Guilty.

The defendants in thirteen jail cases were arraigned before Judge Vail in the Union County Court this morning, on indictments found by the Grand Jury, and of them three were from this city. The local cases are: James Spring colored, indicted on two charges for forgery; Charles Carr, colored, indicted on charge of assault and battery on his wife, and James Gardner, indicted on two charges, one for larceny of a bicycle owned by the Public Service Corporation, and the other for withholding facts about the burning of a barn belonging to the Morey & Larue Laundry Company. All three entered a plea of not guilty and their trials were set down for Wednesday, June 14. They are represented by W. G. DeMeza, Esq.

The other cases arraigned are as follows:

John Burke and James Fallon, Elizabeth, entering and stealing, not guilty, trial June 14; Otto D. Pyord, Elizabeth, assault and battery, breaking entering and stealing, not guilty, trial June 14; P. DeBoice, Linden, assault and battery, on W. J. Barnett, not guilty, trial June 14; W. H. Hawkins, colored, Elizabeth, assault and battery, guilty, sentenced June 21; Michael Groubey, Austrian, Elizabeth; two indictments larceny, not guilty, trial June 14; James Touhey, Elizabeth; break, entering and stealing 17 cents, non vult, sentenced June 21; Richard Steadham, Elizabeth, breaking, entering and stealing, not guilty, trial June 14; Edna Rash, colored, Elizabeth, assault and battery, not guilty, trial June 14; Eva Butler, colored, Elizabeth, larceny, gold watch, valued $36, not guilty, trial June 14.

The defendants in the cases will be arraigned on Friday.

DINNER AND DANCE AT THE PARK CLUB

GIVEN BY MR. AND MRS. MILLER IN DAUGHTER'S HONOR.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, of Myrtle avenue, gave a progressive dinner party and dance at the Park Club, last night for their daughter, Miss Hope Miller, who is home from Miss Baldwin's school at Bryn Mawr, and her guests, Miss Fannie Pitcairn, daughter of U. S. Consul General Pitcairn, of Hamburg; Miss Helen Haefaker, of Tamaqua, Pa.; Miss Helen Ogden, of Orange, and the Misses Jean and Edna Annette, of Bayonne, all at Miss Baldwin's School.

Other guests were Morgan T. Townsend, Arthur Peck, Vaughn McGee, Herbert Rogers, and Eldon Miller of this city, and Frederick von Rapp, of Philadelphia.

The clubhouse was decorated with palms and cut flowers, and the tables were garnished with roses. Following the dinner there was dancing, music for which was furnished by Westervelt of Newark.

Miss Pitcairn has been the guest of Miss Miller for several days, and tomorrow morning she will sail for Hamburg.

COL. TYLER'S GIFT.

Donates $100 to Public Library for Books.

Through the generosity of Col. Mason W. Tyler, the directors of the Public Library and Reading Room have received $100 for the purchase of such books as the library committee may decide upon. A number of the clubhouses have been received recently. The thanks of the board were extended to Col. Tyler at a meeting of the directors held last night.

The matter of the coal supply for 1905-6 was left in the hands of William M. Stillman with powre and in the matter of the vacations for the librarians and assistants for the summer, the same arrangements were made as prevailed last season.

Sam Frazee Will Play.

Sam Frazee, the violinist, will furnish music for dancing at Chimney Rock on July 4, and on Saturday nights every two weeks for the rest of the season.

Colored Drunk Released.

Chales Dunham, colored, was arrested for drunkenness. Sentence was suspended.

CITY'S HEALTH IN MAY

Only Twenty-four deaths from Communicable Disease.

ANALYSIS OF MILK

Formaldehyde Found in One Case —Dealer's Licenses Granted— Two Deaths from Tuberculosis.

The sanitary conditions of the city still remain satisfactory as shown by the monthly reports presented at the Board of Health meeting, yesterday. There are only two contagious disease cases under quarantine. During the month there were the following communicable diseases reported:

Scarlet fever, 4; diphtheria, 3; typhoid fever, 5; measles, 5; chickenpox, 5; tuberculosis, 2. There were two deaths from the last named disease. The board is sure the typhoid fever was contracted outside of the city.

During the month the usual practice of dairy inspection and milk analysis was continued and conditions were found to be satisfactory, with the exception that formaldehyde was detected in one dealers milk and cream. Steps were taken at once to prevent its further use.

Milk dealers who failed to make application for renewal of permits, did so during the month and there were several new applications as well. These were granted:

A. R. Phillips, Chas. F. Debele, Geo. R. Wooden, P. J. Haines, Mrs. Geo. Schuck, Frank Welland, F. M. Suydam, W. S. Terry, Sam'l Hetfield, I. W. Fisher, Thos. O'Gorman, G. W. Henry, Thos. Callahan & Son, G. W. Smalley, L. G. Henry, Wm. H. Clark, Alex Gordon, W. J. Dealaman, Geo. Vlebrock, Mack Scudder Co., Geo. Glebelhouse, M. C. Jennings, J. Hummel, D. S. Cole, S. Sharkey.

DON'T HOLD A DANCE WITHOUT A PERMIT

POLICE BUTT IN ON THE SOCIAL WHIRL —ARIONS SUMMONED.

The orchestra was playing "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and the young people were tripping lightly at the Arion Club last night when officer William Messler poked his head in the door. He had an air of business, and Chairman Aleck Muir, of the committee, went over to discover what the business was.

"Have you got a permit?" asked Messler.

Muir didn't know a permit was needed.

"Sure," said Messler. "I guess you can go on with this thing, but you'd better see the chief in the morning and explain."

Muir, V. Nash and Leonce Texier saw Chief Kiely this morning.

"Is a permit needed for dances?" they asked.

"Didn't you know that?" asked the chief.

The committeemen didn't. They said later that they couldn't find anybody else who did, or any bona fide organization that had ever secured one.

AUTOIST ARRESTED.

George R. Morris Charged With Speeding and Ignoring Cop.

George R. Morris, an automobile Judge Runyon in the city court next Wednesday, charged with speeding his car in excess of the legal limit up North avenue yesterday afternoon. Morris was detected by Patrolman Higgins, who says the chauffeur zipped on without paying any attention to his signals. Higgins spotted the number and got his man later in the day.

Mayor Smalley, W. A. Coddington and James Davis have been summoned as witnesses against the autoist. Chief Kiely had the hearing set for next week in order to perfect the case against Mr. Morris.

The Way to Find a Dog.

A dog belonging to S. P. T. Wilbur disappeared Sunday, and Mr. Wilbur advertised for it in Monday's paper. A short time after the paper was out a Dunellen woman telephoned to Mayor Buckle, in whose name the ad. had been inserted, that she had the dog. It is supposed that the animal followed an automobile until exhaustion compelled it to stop, and then limped homeward. It was weak and shakey when the Dunellen woman gave it shelter.

—Rockdale print and creamery butter is standard for the world; once tried, always used. Neuman Brothers are the local selling agents.

CONTRACTOR'S MISTAKE GIVES $1,000 TO THE CITY

ONLY ONE INSTANCE OF MONEY MAKING IN NEW HIGH SCHOOL WORK.

Through the announcement that the new Plainfield High School would not be completed until January, the Board of Education learned that there had been numerous delays in the work and mistakes on the part of contractors, yet it had been the gainer nearly every time.

G. H. Woolston, inspector for the supervising architects, informed the board that the city had cleared up $1,000 at one stroke by a contractor making a mistake in addition. When he submitted his bid, it was just that much less than what he intended it should be, but even if it had been included, he would have been lower than the others. It was for one of the minor contracts and Mr. Woolston ventured the remark that no one but the city is making anything out of it.

In other instances, changes in plans have held up work while the price of material was dropping and when it was purchased money was saved. Several of the contractors in figuring had also gone low on supplies and had come out just barely ahead when they placed their orders, the prices having risen.

STREET PARADE BEFORE RARITAN'S FIRST GAME

CITIZENS TO MARCH TO BRASS BAND MUSIC.

Saturday will be a gala day for the baseball fans in Raritan. The season will be opened on that day. The town has a new ball team; a new enclosed ball ground, with a spacious grandstand. The strong Flemington nine will be the opponents. Boedtker, of Newark, and Allen, of Plainfield, will be the battery for Raritan and on the team will also be "Spike" Enright, of Plainfield safe-works fame, and his brother, "Mike" Enright. "Charley" Miller, an old-time local favorite, will play.

There will be a street parade starting at 3 o'clock. The teams and prominent citizens will be in line in autos and carriages, escorted by the Crescent Military Band, of Raritan. A target shoot will be a big day for the Raritanians.

FRANCHISE QUESTION COMMISSION NAMED

GOVERNOR STOKES APPROVES SUBSTITUTE FOR COLBY BILL.

Governor Stokes has approved the committee substitute for Assemblyman Colby's bill, No. 148, authorizing the appointment by the governor of a commission of five members to investigate the whole subject of franchises granted by municipalities to public utility corporations in their relation to the municipalities and to the State, and to report to the Legislature in connection therewith. The provisions of the bill, in brief, are as follows:

"The governor shall appoint a commission of five persons, whose duty it shall be to investigate the entire subject of the grant of franchises by municipalities to public utility companies, permitting the use and occupation of the public streets and highways, and to report to the next session of the Legislature, together with such recommendations in connection therewith as it shall deem proper, including a recommendation as to what legislation, if any, regulating, controlling and limiting the power of municipalities in making such grants, ought to be enacted.

"The commissioners shall investigate and report upon the advisability of having the value of franchises of corporations using the public streets for trolley, gas, telephone, telegraph or water purposes, annually assessed by some appropriate taxing authority and taxed at local rates of taxation."

Captured Fox Brings $50.

John Hurley, of Belmont avenue, who recently captured a "blue-red" fox in his hennery, yesterday, sold the animal to Colonel J. T. Frelinghuysen, of Somerville. The latter will use it in connection with runs of the Bernardsville Hunt Club.

Plainfielder to Wed at Raritan.

The wedding of Thomas F. Flynn, of Plainfield avenue, and Miss Anna B. McWilliams, of Raritan, will take place in St. Bernard's church, Raritan, this afternoon. It will be witnessed by a large gathering of guests, many of them from this city.

CONTRACTOR'S MISTAKE GIVES $1,000 TO THE CITY

ONLY ONE INSTANCE OF MONEY MAKING IN NEW HIGH SCHOOL WORK.

Through the announcement that the new Plainfield High School would not be completed until January, the Board of Education learned that there had been numerous delays in the work and mistakes on the part of contractors, yet it had been the gainer nearly every time.

G. H. Woolston, inspector for the supervising architects, informed the board that the city had cleared up $1,000 at one stroke by a contractor making a mistake in addition. When he submitted his bid, it was just that much less than what he intended it should be, but even if it had been included, he would have been lower than the others. It was for one of the minor contracts and Mr. Woolston ventured the remark that no one but the city is making anything out of it.

In other instances, changes in plans have held up work while the price of material was dropping and when it was purchased money was saved. Several of the contractors in figuring had also gone low on supplies and had come out just barely ahead when they placed their orders, the prices having risen.

STREET PARADE BEFORE RARITAN'S FIRST GAME

CITIZENS TO MARCH TO BRASS BAND MUSIC.

Saturday will be a gala day for the baseball fans in Raritan. The season will be opened on that day. The town has a new ball team; a new enclosed ball ground, with a spacious grandstand. The strong Flemington nine will be the opponents. Boedtker, of Newark, and Allen, of Plainfield, will be the battery for Raritan and on the team will also be "Spike" Earight, of Plainfield safe-works fame, and his brother, "Mike" Enright. "Charley" Miller, an old-time local favorite, will play.

There will be a street parade starting at 3 o'clock. The teams and prominent citizens will be in line in autos and carriages, escorted by the Crescent Military Band, of Raritan. A target shoot will be a big day for the Raritanians.

FRANCHISE QUESTION COMMISSION NAMED

GOVERNOR STOKES APPROVES SUBSTITUTE FOR COLBY BILL.

Governor Stokes has approved the committee substitute for Assemblyman Colby's bill, No. 148, authorizing the appointment by the governor of a commission of five members to investigate the whole subject of franchises granted by municipalities to public utility corporations in their relation to the municipalities and to the State, and to report to the Legislature in conection therewith. The provisions of the bill, in brief, are as follows:

"The governor shall appoint a commission of five persons, whose duty it shall be to investigate the entire subject of the grant of franchises by municipalities to public utility companies, permitting the use and occupation of the public streets and highways, and to report to the next session of the Legislature, together with such recommendations in connection therewith as it shall deem proper, including a recommendation as to what legislation, if any, regulating, controlling and limiting the power of municipalities in making such grants, ought to be enacted.

"The commissioners shall investigate and report upon the advisability of having the value of franchises of corporations using the public streets for trolley, gas, telephone, telegraph or water purposes, annually assessed by some appropriate taxing authority and taxed at local rates of taxation."

Captured Fox Brings $50.

John Hurley, of Belmont avenue, who recently captured a "blue-red" fox in his hennery, yesterday, sold the animal to Colonel J. T. Frelinghuysen, of Somerville. The latter will use it in connection with runs of the Bernardsville Hunt Club.

Plainfielder to Wed at Raritan.

The wedding of Thomas F. Flynn, of Plainfield avenue, and Miss Anna B. McWilliams, of Raritan, will take place in St. Bernard's church, Raritan, this afternoon. It will be witnessed by a large gathering of guests, many of them from this city.

GRANT TWO FRANCHISES

Water Company to Pay Piscataway $500; P. S. C. Nothing.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Partial Victory for Township Committee in One Case, Complete Breakdown in the Other.

The Public Service Corporation is to get a gas main franchise for nothing and the Piscataway Water Company is to get a $500 franchise in place of its present one from the Piscataway Township Committee. The fencing bout between the corporations and the township solons reached that termination yesterday after a consideration of the two matters, and conferences with the representatives of the corporations, by the committee behind closed doors.

The committee went into executive session immediately after cleaning up the payment of bills and other routine matters, and remained closeted in a private parlor for the better part of two hours. Col. Hine, the P. S. C. representative, was called in first. When the committee learned just how much importance the Public Service people attached to the franchise, Chairman Giles sent for Robert Carson, the representative of the Water Company. Mr. Carson was in the room longer than Col. Hine. He had more to argue about. His company already had a free franchise, which, although the committee had denounced it as an instrument obtained by apparently underhand methods, stood a very good chance of being sustained by the courts if its validity were ever brought into question.

When the committee filed out Township Counsel W. A. Coddington announced the results of the deliberations.

The committee has been in conversation with Col. Hine of the Public Service Corporation, with the representative of the Piscataway Water Company, and with Mr. Bird, who offered $1,000 at the last meeting for the water franchise asked for by the Piscataway Water Commpany.

Mr. Bird had not organized a company nor asked formally for a franchise, and was not, therefore, ready under the law. He was asked if he was ready to organize a corporation, and said 'No,' and withdrew his tender".

"You might tell the reason, Mr. Counsel," observed Mr. Bird.

"Mr. Bird says the franchise would be tainted—open to attack in the courts," explained Mr. Coddington; "although I do not see where the taint would come in."

"In dealing with the Piscataway Water Company," continued the counsel, "the committee insisted that $2,000 be paid for the franchise. The Water Company absolutely refused to accept this condition. It offered $500. We think this figure entirely to low, but remember that they have the first ordinance and have declared that rather than pay more than $500 they will fight the matter in the courts. A law suit would consume perhaps a year and a half, lead to expense, and no one knows how it would terminate. We might win, or they might win. We said to keep out of the courts, and remembering that the company has agreed to pay all the expenses attendant upon the re-passage of the ordinance, the committee, after careful consideration, thinks it best to accept the company's offer.

"As to the gas franchise, the representative told us, and his company so instructed him to tell us, that the application would be withdrawn unless it was granted without cost. In this matter the committee was compelled to consider the petition presented by the people of East Bound Brook and Lincoln, asking for the installation of gas service. The committee recognized that they represent these petitions and that their wishes must be considered. In deference to the expressions from these petitioners the committee will eliminate the $1,000 clause form the franchise."

The two franchises were rushed through their first and second readings without comment from the three committeemen and will be passed on their final readings next week.

Board of Health's Report.

The annual report of the Board of Health, recently published, has been distributed in pamphlet form to the number of nine hundred. Copies can be obtained at the office of Health Officer Thurlow.

Sixty Days for Annie.

Annie Morando, whose face is familiar in police circles, was sent to jail for sixty days by Judge Runyon this morning for drunkenness. Annie's face is familiar at the jail too.

WOMAN VISITS FIERCE SAVAGES

FRIEND OF STANLEY SPENDS 14 MONTHS IN AFRICA.

TAKES TRIP FOR RESEARCH

Mrs. French Sheldon Tells of Her Remarkable Expedition in the Congo Free State—Customs of the People.

London.—Mrs. French Sheldon, who is now in London, has just told something about the adventures that befell her on the remarkable expedition in the Congo Free State, from which she has just returned.

The motive that took this intrepid American woman explorer off to the dark continent for the second time was entirely different from those which have inspired most of her other expeditions. The three exciting trips around the world made by Mrs. Sheldon, like the famous journey through savage east Africa that earned her the friendship of Henry M. Stanley and Paul Du Chaillu, not to mention a fellowship in the Royal Geographical society, were undertaken partly through a love of research. But the painstaking journey Mrs. Sheldon made through the Congo Free State at her own expense to see for herself whether things there were as black as they were painted was quite another affair.

At first she simply thought she'd like to go to the Congo to catch butterflies. The Free State is a famous place for butterflies, and Mrs. Sheldon, besides being explorer, physician, novelist, sculptor, playwright and a few other things, is an ardent entomologist. But once started thinking about the Free State, it struck this venturesome American that she would like to know, if only for her own satisfaction, whether all the stories of atrocities practiced on the natives there—of some being flogged to death and the hands of others cut off because they didn't bring in rubber enough—were true, and if so whether these things really were done, as has been asserted so often, at the command of Belgian administrators.

Mrs. Sheldon has exposed her life so many times in different parts of the globe that she has got used to being surrounded by dangers, and it proved rather difficult to make her dwell on the perils of one kind and another that accompanied almost every step of her journey through the Congo State. expedition through East Africa, however, it was probably the most hazardous as well as about the most difficult journey ever attempted by a woman.

MISS SHELDON WITH HER CANNIBAL GUARDS.

Begun in October, 1903, Mrs. Sheldon's investigating expedition did not come to an end until the last days of last December, and it wouldn't have been finished then had not the explorer met rapids in Congoland, the consequences of which forced her to return to England. There was, however, hardly a corner of the Free State which she had left unvisited.

Whenever possible she traveled by the state steamers, which go up the Congo once in two or three weeks. One of the privileges granted her by King Leopold was the right of having these steamers stopped at any port for two hours; but, of course, her visits to the interior of the country had to be made on foot. In this way she covered hundreds of miles, and it speaks well for her constitution that she never lost a single day and was never attacked by fever or any other of the ills that ordinarily beset travelers in Africa.

A lot of her traveling had to be done through swampy districts, and for days together she and her native carriers marched through water that was often waist deep. While on her march Mrs. Sheldon was clad in white duck, and she says that except at such times as she was wading through the swamps she kept herself as immaculate as Capt. Kettle himself. Her caravan usually numbered about 100, including four or five native soldiers, and with the exception of their leaders every member of the expedition was a cannibal. Whenever she was in the neighborhood of a government post Mrs. Sheldon, of course, accepted the administrator's hospitality, but when in the wilds she slept in her tent with only two of the native soldiers keeping guard. Mrs. Sheldon was armed with a Lee-Enfield rifle and an American revolver, with both of which she is a dead shot.

She had the liveliest kind of a fight with a wild cat, or leopard cat, as it was called in the Congo. The explorer was sitting near a window in a village dwelling, when the cat jumped down upon her from the branches of a tree outside, alighting on her shoulders and entangling its fore paws in her hair. No one was near and Mrs. Sheldon was badly scratched before she succeeded in shooting the animal with her revolver.

In spite of the fact that she penetrated into the most savage parts of the Congo district, especially those on the old caravan routes, where the blacks have been made degenerate and brutish by the drink supplied to them by traders, she never was molested. She seems to have made a really extraordinary impression on the natives, the more so as there are practically no white women in the Congo and the blacks regard their own women merely as chattels. Mrs. Sheldon, however, they dubbed "Bibi Baana Penba," which means "white woman master," and in some districts she was given the title "Bibi Bula Matari," which the natives apply to all officials of state and which means "rock breaker." It was first given to Henry M. Stanley, who blasted his way through part of the Congo Free State.

Mrs. Sheldon learned more about the Congo women than probably any explorer ever did before. "I found out lots about them," said Mrs. Sheldon, "by getting them to help me catch butterflies. After all, I did quite a lot of butterfly-hunting and have brought back some beautiful specimens. The women took a delight in helping me and had no idea how closely I was studying them all the time."

What impressed her most about these women was the fact that, in spite of the contempt with which they are looked upon by their "men folks," they are physically rather more than their equals. They act as carriers, side by side with their husbands, and work for the state in making roads and on the coffee and cocoa plantations and in potteries. Only when sickness comes along do they prove less robust than the men, and Mrs. Sheldon thinks that this is because none of them is allowed any meat, the men keeping it all for their own use.

The chief object in life is to contribute to the comfort of their lords and master. Mrs. Sheldon says that often while on the march her women carriers, even though burdened by heavy loads, made a point of keeping well ahead of the main body, so as to arrive beforehand at the stopping place to find water, get fires burning and have food prepared before the men arrived.

"The women of many tribes," said Mrs. Sheldon, "are keen votaries of fashion and show an elegance in the manner in which they wear their clothes and in arranging their hair that a civilized woman might envy. They are martyrs to many tribal customs, one of them the wearing of enormous brass collars weighing from ten to twelve pounds. Around their ankles, too, they have from two to four equally heavy and cumbersome brass or iron rings.

"And not only are they so fastidious as to their own personal decorations, but they bestow constant care on the decoration and valeting of their husbands, and among some of the tribes the men's coiffures are as elaborate as the women's."

Incidentally Mrs. Sheldon mentioned the simplicity of divorce proceedings among the Congo natives. The Belgian administrators insist on their being legally married, and a certificate is given in every case. But when a man and wife decide to separate they just tear up the certificate and that constitutes the divorce.

STROLL IN RAIN IS LATEST CAPITAL FAD.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish and Companion Walk Washington Streets Oblivious to Downpour.

Washington.—Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, of New York, who gave a party a few years ago at which all the guests were required to appear dressed to imitate some animal, has given Washington something more to talk about. Apparently Mrs. Fish has given it out that it is bad form to allow a storm to break up one's plan to take a walk.

The other day, while it was raining pitchforks and hammer handles, Mrs. Fish and a companion sauntered down Connecticut avenue, one arrayed in a rose-colored reception gown and the other in a tailor-made suit. Neither had an umbrella or other protection. Nor apparently gave they a thought to the fact that to ordinary mortals a severe storm prevailed. They loitered along Connecticut avenue from Dupont circle, the center of the fine residence district, down to the shopping quarter, stopping to look into every shop window.

ENTIRELY OBLIVIOUS OF THE RAIN.

When they reached a Turkish bath room they appeared to believe they were wet enough and disappeared therein. The feat is too much for the comprehension of Washington. Capitoline society has not been able to figure out whether it is bad form to permit a rainstorm to break up a walk or whether it was simply a case of being caught in the rain and coming to the conclusion that a little more water would not make the dresses any greater wrecks.

BABY TIMBER WOLVES

SMUGGLED INTO A SLEEPING-CAR AND FED BY HAND.

Look Like Queer Little Dogs—These Small Bunches of Fur Exhibit Much Ferocity When Given Meat.

After the porter had gone, the little wolves settled down in their box for the night and were so still that I should never have known they were in the berth at all. When I awoke, the train was running into Boston, so I gave the cubs a hasty breakfast on the last of the milk, and, having dressed myself, started out of the car, the porter carrying the livestock, and grinning in anticipation of the promised "tip."

Business made it necessary for me to stay over a day in Boston, so I took the infants straight to my hotel. I looked over the rules of the house, and found that neither dogs nor cats were allowed in the rooms. Fortunately wolves were not mentioned. (neither were elephants, for that matter), so I registered and sent the bell-boy ahead with my traps, following with my precious charges, far enough in the rear to prevent his hearing any stray whines or scratchings which might find their way out of the box.

Next I wanted some warm milk for the infants, and, as I did not care to raise questions by sending a bell-boy, I went to the cafe for it myself. The waiter in charge took the bottle and said, with a smile: "For a baby, I suppose?" And meeting his smile with another, I answered, brazenly: "For babies, yes."

When I let the little wolves out in my room I had my first good look at them. The casual observer would have taken them for puppy dogs of some kind, though he would not have recalled the breed precisely. A certain wolfish look about the ears might have made him a little suspicious, and they had a way of shuffling off into dark corners at every opportunity, with their tails pressed close to the body, which was not exactly dog-like. Their hair was of two kinds; a short, woolly gray fur below, with a much longer and coarser hair sprinkled through it.

As soon as I set them on the floor, they crawled away again, and I left them huddled together in a corner under the bed. When I returned, they were not under the bed, nor were they anywhere on the floor, and at last I found them all in the box in which I had brought them from New York. The box was so tall that it was only by standing on their hind legs that they could reach the edge of it, yet they had scrambled into it somehow. Now why had they taken the trouble to get into that box? It could not have been because it was dark, for the box was open at the top, and stood near the window, in the brightest part of the room. There was some excelsior at the bottom of it, but it had been packed hard, and was not so soft as the carpet. I am inclined to think they recognized that box as the most familiar or homelike thing in the room. I placed the box in different parts of the room, but they went to it wherever it was, and after I finally brought them to New Hampshire, they regarded that box as home, until I took it away from them and gave them a larger one.

A PITCHED BATTLE.

As soon as I got them home, I gave them milk in a saucer, and they learned to lap it very readily; more readily, I think than any other young creatures I have reared. Since then it has been comparatively little trouble to feed them. But they quickly showed that they did not care very much for milk and bread; after taking a few laps, they would leave it and come toddling to me, as though looking for something else. I tried them with a large piece of raw beef, and they allowed I had guessed right the first time. The change which came over those cubs was remarkable. Before they saw the beef, they were innocent, toddling blue-eyed babies, but at the first sniff of the raw meat, their savage natures came right to the top. They seemed attracted to the food almost entirely by smell, and so intent were they upon the odor that some of them ran around and even over the meat several times without seeing it. But as each one realized that he had found it, he snapped right at it, and at once began to tear and chew it, meanwhile growling as horribly as such diminutive bunches of fur can manage to growl. The noise was loudest when two cubs came near together and began to chew at the same corner of the meat. The growls would grow louder and louder, and they would push and shove each other with their bodies, bracing their feet firmly as they did so, until one would let go his hold and fly straight at the other, and there would be a pitched battle for several seconds, during which there was little damage done by either side as a rule.

ERNEST HAROLD BAYNES.

SPOOKS OUST A KENTUCKY FAMILY

A MENIFEE COUNTY DOCTOR MOVES BECAUSE OF GHOSTS.

AGONY OF SITUATION AWFUL

After Terrible Experience in Home Which the Neighbors Said Was Haunted Physician Gives Up and Vacates Premises.

Louisville, Ky.—One of the most puzzling enigmas that students of psychic phenomena have tried to unravel today is puzzling scholar and neophyte in the lore of mysticism. Not only has this marvel amazed those who delight in revealing the fact that many "miracles" are due only to some person's wonderful imagination or morbid thoughts, but it has also driven from a home of luxury a family that found itself unable to solve the personality, or, rather, the nonpersonality, of a ghostly visitant.

Dr. Joseph King moved with his family into a beautiful country residence near Rothwell, Menifee county, Kentucky. Gossip of the wives of the countryside had never connected with the mansion, practically rebuilt by the physician, even the slightest tinge of mystery. Superstitious babblers had never hinted of the customary accompaniment of nocturnal ramblers from the nether world—the sound of clanking chains and occasional flashes of light that came from a portion of the house known to be unoccupied.

But the quiet life of the happy family soon was changed. Three days after the house was occupied Dr. King was awakened by a cold, clammy object placed upon his face. What it was he could not tell, and a careful search of the house by himself and the rest of the family failed to reveal traces of anything unusual. Dr. King describes the sensation of his first awakening thus:

"Like the touch of a lifeless hand!"

Thereafter he was often roused from sound slumber by the feeling that there was resting on his face the hand of a corpse."

That was only the beginning of the ghostly visitations, and almost nightly occurrences of the same sort finally drove the family out.

CAREFUL SEARCH FAILED TO REVEAL ANYTHING UNUSUAL.

The members of the household were frightened by noises such as could be made by planks sliding along the floor and then dropping with a sudden crash. Sitting at the fireside the children would be frightened almost into convulsions by the crash of a heavy object falling upon the floor behind their backs.

A section of the roof would seem to fall off in the night and gates and doors would slam, but no one was ever seen. Song and conversation were heard in the wee hours of the morning, but no traces could be found of the owners of the ghostly voices. Evidently the ghosts were of a modern make, for in the songs snatches of ragtime mingled with selections from classic operas.

Ghostly footsteps were heard to cross the floor at all hours of the day, while mysterious gavels seemed to be rapping upon the table for order as the family sat down at their meals. Canes were pounded upon the floor in the presence of the King family, but no one could be seen. For a year this went on, until the health of Mrs. King was so affected that her husband feared further residence in the house would cost her life. Then the decision to move was made.

It was rumored that the former owner of the house had been a believer in spiritualism. When approached by Dr. King she admitted that spirits had been called back to the house by her. She declared that she had summoned the spirit of her dead husband, as well as that of a murderer hanged many years before in Menifee county, and expressed the belief that these uncanny visitants were causing all the trouble.

Many residents of the county have heard the noises and corroborated the stories told by Dr. King. Many have even assisted in the hunt for the ghosts, but in vain.

Weds Woman He Robbed.

Ames, Ia.—Fred Alyn, of Denver, Col., was arrested here the other day on the charge of stealing diamonds valued at $1,500 from a woman by the name of Ray Charlton, also of Denver. On being searched the jewels were found sewed up in the waistband of his trousers. The woman has been in the city several days waiting for the arrival of the suspect, as she had learned that he was expecting mail at the post office. Upon the return of her jewelry she withdrew the charges against him on condition that he would marry her, which he agreed to. They are both theatrical people.

WINNIPEG LETTER

THIS INTERESTING NORTHWEST TOWN CHICAGO OF CANADA.

BOOM A SUBSTANTIAL ONE

Its Wonderful Growth the Last Five Years—Railroad Center—Some Statistics That Tell of Big Things.

WINNIPEG.—I came to Winnipeg from Minneapolis on a palatial train; as fine a combination of cars as can be found running anywhere on the American continent. I left Minneapolis in the evening and arrived here the next morning on the Soo line. The train ran 45 miles an hour to cover the nearly 500 miles in that time. There are but comparatively few trains on the continent that make better time.

Four years ago I traveled from Minneapolis to Winnipeg on the best and fastest train that was then running between the two cities. The running time was just seven hours longer than is now consumed to cover the same number of miles between the two cities. I rode in a sleeper then, to be sure, but the sleeper was a stock car by comparison with those in service now. Such things as dining, parlor, library and buffet cars were unknown then. To-day they are a part of the regular equipment of trains in this service.

I marveled at this change, which told me much of what I was to find in this metropolis of this great northwest country over which flies the union jack, and which is people largely by energetic, hustling people from the states. There must be a reason for such a train service, I argued with myself; and as I obselver the well-filled sleepers, the reason was apparent; the trains were running because the patronage not only warranted them, but demanded them.

"But why the reason for such an amount of travel to this north country?" I queried of myself. Again the answer was apparent by a glance at the passengers. It was the growing commercial interests that were sending these prosperous merchants backward and forward on business errands.

From Town to City.

FOUR years ago Winnipeg was a thriving frontier town. It then had 35,000 people, counting such as were coming and going—principally coming. To-day Winnipeg is a city, a commercial metropolis of 100,000 people who are staying, and more coming.

"This place will be the Chicago of Canada, in fact is the Chicago of Canada now," said a merchant friend. "Just look at its position. Everything going or coming to and from this broad western country must pass through Winnipeg. The large lakes to the north prevent any transcontinental Canadian railroad from escaping us. We have practically two such lines to-day in the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern, and the Grand Trunk is now beginning the construction of a third. It is merely a question of a few years until we are a second Chicago in point of railroad connections, as well as in location."

The truth of the matter is that with its 100,000 of population, and its two lines of railroad, Winnipeg has already distanced Chicago in one important particular. That is as a wheat shipping point. Reliable figures that did not originate in Winnipeg show less than 40,000,000 bushels of wheat inspected in Chicago annually, while Winnipeg has passed the 50,000,000 bushel point, an amount greater by 10,000,000 bushels than is inspected each year in Duluth and Superior together.

Probably nothing better illustrative of the city's growing commercial importance may be found than a visit to the railroad yards. No single system of railroad on the American continent has so large a freight yard at any point as that of the Canadian Pacific at Winnipeg. It reaches the enormous total of 120 miles of sidings. And this 120 miles of sidings is a moving panorama of freight cars bringing in the products of the western factories and taking out the products of the broad reaches of the western fields. It is a undisputable evidence of prosperity and push.

Real Estate Prices.

HOW many fortunes have been made in Winnipeg real estate within the last four years I would not presume even to guess, but they have been numerous.

Four years ago I asked the ruling price of land along desirable portions of Main street. From $400 to $500 a front foot, was the answer I received.

"Are not such prices rather crowding things in a town of this size?" I asked.

"It will double that in five years from now," I was told.

And in less than five years it has not only doubled, but trebled and more. It is indeed an undesirable lot on Main street that brings less than $1,600 a front foot to-day, and they are still saying that land is too low.

Four years ago a friend told me of some lots his wife had bought south of the Assinaboine river. "They are so covered with underbrush that we have never been able to find them, but we know they are there, and in time they will pay good interest on the investment," he said.

The investment amounted to $100, and the lots numbered 21. I asked about them again yesterday, as we were traveling about the city in his big American-made motor car. Three minutes later he drove the machine past them, and explained as he did so that 19 of them had been sold for a total of $7,800, and $2,000 had been offered for the other two. I could easily believe the statement when I noted the homes that had been and were building upon them. Pretentious looking houses, the cost of none of which would run under 5,000 each. But there are square miles of just such homes that have gone up within the last 18 months, and besides these both banks of the Assinaboine are lined with the yet more pretentious homes of the western merchant princes whose business has made Winnipeg the metropolis that it is.

Then and Now.

MAIN street in Winnipeg, as I saw it four years ago, made an impression upon me that I do not believe I shall ever forget. Its 200 feet of paved width even at that time gave it a stamp of future greatness. Much of this future greatness, however, was then covered up by the rows of board shanties and shacks that did duty as business houses, with here and there a pretentious looking brick or stone structure, all of which I soon learned to distinguish as places where money was loaned. I remember a remark I then made to a friend to the effect that the town seemed to be made up of two classes, judging from its business buildings, one of whom had money to loan, and the other of whom it seemed to be in a sad need of a chance to borrow.

To-day the frame shacks have given place to substantial business blocks and towering office buildings. And Main street not being long enough to easily accommodate all the growing business interests it has spread around onto Portage avenue. Imagine a town in which four years ago the retail dry goods business, with the exception of one store—the Hudson Bay company—was done in one-story frame shacks, with counters and shelving down either side of a center aisle, now profitably supporting immense department establishments covering square blocks of territory and running seven stories into the air. Such will give one an idea of the growth of the retail business of this town in four years.

As for the wholesale business, the growth has been even greater. Mere figures are too dry to quote, and besides they are not nearly so expressive as are the massive brick and stone structures that have replaced the "lean-to" sheds which housed the wholesale stocks of merchandise four years ago. One can so easily see the growth of year to year by looking for the line of new bricks that mark the addition of a new story or a new addition to the dozens of wholesale business houses. To the student of things that make history it is interesting.

Some Figures.

I HAVE just said that mere figures were too dry to quote, but I am tempted to print a few just to prove that my observations of this—well call it a boom town, if you like but it seems a substantial boom that has come to stay—are correct.

Bank clearings are a criterion of business conditions, and the bank clearings of Winnipeg were the third largest in Canada last year, amounting to more than $294,000,000, a gain of about 20 per cent. over the previous year.

The post office receipts are another fair criterion of a city's business, and those of Winnipeg for last year amounted to $256,519, which represented the mailing of some 7,000,000 letters, 3,000,000 packages, besides post cards, newspapers, etc.

To turn from the strictly commercial interests to the building of homes for the rapidly increasing population, let us glance at the building record. The number of permits issued by the building inspector last year for the erection of new buildings was 2,288, an average valuation of nearly $5,000 for each building. The records so far this year are considerably in excess of those of last year.

In the way of municipal improvements the city paid for labor on the streets alone last week the sum of $37,000. It now has more than 120 miles of paved streets; 54 miles of which are boulevards. It has 316 acres laid out in public parks, in which the flowers were in bloom before the 1st of May. It has 30 miles of street railway; 95 miles of watermains, and 220 miles of sidewalks. These figures are from a city of 100,000 population, with an area of 12,750 acres.

I like things that have a dash and go about them, and I like Winnipeg. I like also that vast stretch of a thousand miles of western territory upon which the city's business interests are builded.

WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.

Hard to Please.

He—Then I am to understand that you have given me the mitten, as it were?

She—You have said it.

"And is this all?"

"Of course it is. What more do you want—a pair of socks?"—Chicago Daily News.

TAR AND FEATHER SUSPECTED WOMAN

HUDSON, MICH., SEES WORK OF VIGILANTES.

RIOTERS FACE PRISON TERM

"Avenging Angels" May Be Lodged Behind the Bars as the Result of Their Work — Reason for Dastardly Act.

Hudson, Mich.—Twenty centuries ago, in Jerusalem, a band of vigilantes prepared to take a woman who had been indiscreet without the walls of the city and stone her. Seeking advice from a lowly Nazarene whose teachings the majority of the civilized world now professes to follow, the "regulators" were told to "let him who is without guilt cast the first stone."

On April 10, in the year of the same lowly Nazarene, in this little Michigan town of 3,000 inhabitants, a band of men and women, all of whom, so far as they are known, profess to abide by the laws laid down by Jesus of Nazareth, heaped a worse indignity than stoning upon a woman against whom they had less proof of sin than had the men against the woman they would have mobbed save for the interpretation of the moral law as expressed by the Great Teacher.

On the night indicated, Mae Post, a woman who has lived in Hudson for the greater part of 11 years, was visited in her home, a flat in the business center of the town, by a body of men and women whom the public has since dubbed "avenging angels." Entrance to her home was forced at the point of revolvers, her companions—one her divorced husband, who was visiting her, and the other a man whose friendship for the woman was well known to the people of the town—were kept in submission with revolvers at their heads, while the women "angels" cut off her hair, administered a coat of hot tar and embellished the nasty mess with a storm of feathers. Not content with performing these outrages, the woman who was apparently the leader among the female vigilantes bespattered the walls and floor of the room, the clothing cut from the woman's body and her other wearing apparel with ancient eggs. The vandalism was carried to such an extent that the woman's entire wardrobe was ruined, embryo chickens being found in practically every drawer of her dresser.

THEY ADMINISTERED A COAT OF HOT TAR AND FEATHERS.

The alleged reason for the acts of these men and women, most of them prominent residents of the town and community, was the supposed intimacy of Mrs. Post with Loren Barrett, a well-to-do stockman living near Hudson. Barrett is a married man, and at least three of the band of "avenging angels" were members of his wife's family. Two others were his own brothers.

As a result of the outrage a large crop of suits at law have been started, among them damage suits aggregating nearly $50,000, a divorce suit, and criminal proceedings against four of the members of the mob. In the criminal proceedings, which charge the defendants with rioting, the penalty which the four men who were members of the party face is a term of two years in prison or a fine of $500, or both.

Mrs. Mae Bennett Post, the victim of the "avenging angels," has made Hudson her home since she was about 15 years of age. She has been twice married. Her first husband, a worthless wight named Bennett, whom she married at the age of 15, failed to support her, and she was compelled to earn a living for herself and her baby boy as a waitress in a local hotel. After a few years Bennett died, and following a brief period of widowhood, the young woman married Gordon Post, a musician of Mansfield, O. She lived with Post until about a year ago. Her son had been kept by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, in this city. Mrs. Post wished to live near him, and returned to make her residence here.

Her second husband secured a divorce from her on the grounds of desertion, but has, it is claimed, and evidence is offered to substantiate the claim, contributed an amount averaging $20 a month to Mrs. Post's support since the divorce was granted. Friendly relations have been maintained between Post and his divorced wife, and he has on a number of occasions visited her in her home here.

SHIRT WAIST SUITS.

A Large Assortment of Materials For These Useful Costumes.

Almost every thin material is used for shirt waist suits except foulard, which is very much out of the running. Voile and mohair are favorite materials and pongees both in natural and dyed colorings. In mohairs the prettiest pasted checks are seen that have no end of wear to them. Chiffon taffetas in tiny broken checks and hair lines are also good. All these fabrics make up into most satisfactory summer traveling dresses.

Silk shirt waist suits have changed a great deal since last year, and a number of them have the chemisette in one form or another introduced on the waist. Little round or square necks are much liked, and on surpliced waists the V shaped chemisette is seen.

An attractive way of making a shirt waist suit is with several circular flounces from the knees down. The gored upper skirt has tucks run up and down, panel fashion, on each side of the front and back widths. The waist worn with this skirt is tucked back and front in panel effect. The shoulders are plain, and stitched bands of the material in a broken line define the yoke and tiny square neck. The yoke and cuffs may be separate or attached.

GRADUATION GOWN OF WHITE ORGANDIE.

The graduation dress of white organdie herewith illustrated has a skirt with a deep hem, above which are a row of tucks, a wide band of Irish lace beaded top and bottom with valenciennes lace and another row of tucks. The full bodice has the lace trimming put on as a collar about the shoulders and crossed, surplice fashion, in front. The gown is worn over a slip of banana yellow silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

LINGERIE ITEMS.

Hints For the Fashioner of Dainty Handmade Underwear.

A very attractive corset cover is made from a wide, swiss embroidered piece of ruffling a yard and a half long. More fullness is allowed for the fronts, and at the sides the plain part of the ruffle is slightly curved to fit well over the hips. A ribbon is run at the top of the ruffle drawn up and tied in a pretty bow in front. Ribbon straps keep the cover in position and tie in a bow on the shoulders. Wide beading run with ribbon may finish the cover at the waist, or the gathers are put into a fitted basque of muslin.

In some of the smart lingerie shops in Paris colored batiste is used for underwear. Pale flesh colored batiste in beautifully hand sewed gowns and chemises are among the prettiest of the foreign bridal sets.

CORSET COVER OF LONG CLOTH.

Beautiful all over embroidery, with insets of lace, is one of the exquisite new trimmings of the summer. All lace and embroidery costumes are the smartest of the season. Often hats, gowns and parasols are all made of the lace or English eyelet embroidery.

The camisole or corset cover in the cut is made of fine long cloth. Cluny insertion in a waved pattern trims the fronts. The round neck is drawn up with two rows of beading run with wash ribbon and edged with a lace ruffle. Beading also adorns the center plait on each side, outlines the tiny basque and draws in the waist fullness.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HOME CONVENIENCES.

Science Gives Country Folk Furnace Heat and Water Supply.

The uncivilized, insanitary country house of the American pioneer is rapidly vanishing and giving place to a home that is provided with all city conveniences.

Old country houses can be fitted with furnace heat and water supply. New farm and rural homes should be in no case built without them. It is better for awhile to do without a piano and a velvet parlor carpet or a costly carriage than without a bathroom. The furnace, bathroom and abundant water supply in the house constitute the mark that distinguishes civilized man from the savage.

Water Supply In the Home.

Where the household is dependent on rains for water supply the usual method is to dig cisterns. A force pump will convey water from one of these to a tank in the attic. I have the word of a gentleman who has such an arrangement that the labor of pumping the water into the tank is not extremely heavy. The attic tank furnishes fall enough for the water to run into a bathroom upon the first or second floor. The tank may also be filled directly from the roof rainfall by means of troughs or leaders that empty into it from the roof. The better way is undoubtedly to have the tank filled from the rain upon the roof. The tank foundation must be firm.

Some country homes in hilly or mountainous districts are situated near a natural spring or brook, with water flowing downhill toward the house. In this case a home may be made beautiful as well as convenient. The pressure is often sufficient to drive the water through pipes to the second floor of the house or even higher. Besides being utilized for the house supply the spring will feed a fountain in the yard. Frost proof covering is manufactured that will protect the water in both tank and pipes from freezing even in the coldest weather.

The Windmill Pump.

Thousands of well to do farmers have windmills to pump water from streams or from driven wells for their live stock, but many of them never have a thought of supplying water through their dwellings by means of the same pump. It is not difficult to do this.

The windmill makes a picturesque addition to the landscape. It is sometimes placed upon a high tower to secure a water pressure. Again it is affixed to the roof of a house or barn. In this case it must be strongly supported from below. Where the water supply is abundant the windmill may be used to irrigate lawn, garden or field or even to keep a fish pond going. Another use to which this addition to family comfort may be put is affording mechanical power for cutting feed and sawing wood.

A COUNTRY HOME.

The Country House Bathroom.

Where the water flows in pipes through the country dwelling a bathroom may be constructed as easily as in a town house. Thorough drainage may be secured by attention to the laws of mechanics and gravity. It requires thinking on the part of both plumber and house owner, but people who do not use their brains do not deserve to live in civilized houses. I have seen recently an account of how a house owner himself put a bathtub in his home, making the pipe connections and doing all the work with his own hands. The thing complete cost him $75.

The problem of heating water for the bath, so that one can have a hot scrub at any time, is not extremely serious. What is called a "water back" is furnished with kitchen stoves or ranges, so that water can pass through the back of the stove itself, being heated whenever there is fire. A tank holding some thirty gallons is fixed to the wall above and behind the stove, so that the hot water can flow from it to the bathroom.

Another arrangement, which in England is called a geyser (there pronounced "geeser"), will heat water for the bath in a few minutes by being placed under the conducting pipes. A similar device is on the market in this country. Gas, oil or gasoline can be used as a fuel.

The bathroom, of course, will at all times be warmed by hot air pipes from the furnace under the house. The comfort and cleanliness, the saving of labor and fuel, that come from one big fire supplying a whole house cannot be overestimated.

MARY ELIZABETH HART.

China's Women Rulers.

The Chinese nation has had previously four women rulers, each as great and famous as the present Empress Tsi An. A series of large volumes called the "Books of Four Women" gives details of these empresses' lives and lays down the rules which should govern the conduct of the feminine sex.

MILLINERY MATTERS.

Picture Hats Bent In Queer Curves. Flowers Accentuate the Angles.

Picture hats are limited only by the imagination of the milliner. To get away from any style that may have existed seems to be their aim. The one idea that prevails is that all shapes shall be bent, often the more angles the better. Wide brims are turned up in the back, front or sides, and sometimes at all these places flowers fill in the hollows.

Panama and leghorn weaves are rejoicing in a wave of popularity and chip is running them a very close race. Then there are crin straws—those transparent ones that are really best in delicate colorings. Great care must be exercised in selecting a color that suits one's complexion, as it may be damaged or enhanced by this transparent weave of straw.

LEGHORN HAT.

Leghorn flops are dainty hats for dress and garden party wear. The hat is wired about the brim and is then bent into a becoming shape. The top is draped with plumes or banked with roses, and a knot of velvet gives character to the design. The under brim is faced with velvet chiffon or mousseline, making a bewitching frame for the face. A medium sized bandeau is inserted in the crown, lifting the chapeau from the head to display the soft waves of the pompadour.

The hat in the picture is of leghorn raised with white ostrich tips at one side and finished daintily with bows of black velvet. A piping of velvet edges the brim.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION'S FRILLS.

Smart Girdles Match the Shirt Waist. The Craze For Embroidery.

Always wear white girdles with white blouses. They accentuate the length of the waist, which is a consummation devoutly to be wished this season. A dark girdle even with a dark skirt gives a cutoff appearance that is anything but attractive.

Changeable and shaded ribbons become prettier and prettier every day. Those that shade from a half deep color to white are perhaps the most attractive.

White linen shoes in every style are to be extremely popular this summer, and white spats often go with them. Indeed, overgaiters are one of the novelties of the season. Bright or dark ones will tread on the heels of the white gaiters.

WHITE PIQUE COAT.

The craze for embroidery has spread to linen shoes, and many of the stunning new models have the entire vamp worked in linen thread.

There is a new lingerie hat for grownups which is more severe than the hat made with frills. It is more like a toque made of fine batiste embroidery.

Slips to wear under sheer blouses are made of lawn or china silk cut on the same lines as the blouse itself. They are really a sort of corset cover very simple in design and bloused just a wee bit at the waist and fastened down the back.

Ruching is just as much worn as ever in all colors and in white.

The coat shown in the illustration is of white pique made in directoire style. Coarse Irish lace bordered with bands of pique trim the jacket, which is finished with tabs held in place by buttons of brown taffeta. The crossed waistcoat is of brown and white striped silk. The loops are of taffeta.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Notable Women

Mrs. Ruggles Kitson, Sculptor of the Bickerdyke Monument

One winter day more than half a generation ago a little girl playing in the front yard of her home in Brookline, Mass., modeled a snow horse. It was an imposing looking animal, large, recumbent, with fore feet extended as if in the act of rising from the ground. The weather was very cold, and the snow horse remained in full view several days. The little artist was Theo Alice Ruggles, and friends and neighbors who saw her work were much impressed with it. Finally some of her parents' friends called to say that the child ought to study art by all means.

The parents were wise enough to let their daughter do as she wished. She did wish very much to be a sculptor. Accordingly she became the pupil of Henry Hudson Kitson, already a distinguished Boston sculptor. Young Miss Ruggles studied and worked very hard in Boston first, afterward in Paris, still under the guidance of Mr. Kitson. She was so gifted and industrious that by the time she was eighteen she was able to exhibit some of her modeling in the Paris Salon and received honorable mention for it. After a time she returned to America and became the wife of Mr. Kitson, her faithful teacher. The two now have a studio in Boston, where they do famous work. The woman sculptor has been especially successful with the modeling of military subjects. She has made several soldiers' monuments, one of them being in the national battleground park at Vicksburg. She is now engaged on the monument to "Mother" Bickerdyke, the great civil war army nurse. It is to be erected at Galesburg, Ill.

THEO ALICE RUGGLES KITSON.

Lawyer and Mother.

Mrs. William George Mulligan of the law firm of Mulligan & Mulligan, New York, is a successful mother, housekeeper and lawyer all in one. Before her marriage Mrs. Mulligan was Miss Agnes K. Murphy. She was and is a real estate broker, and one of the shrewdest in New York city. She began her business very quietly, learning it from her father. She was known to none of the professional real estate brokers of New York, and when suddenly the sale of a piece of property worth over $100,000 was announced these gentlemen began to inquire who it was that had thus been cutting the ground from under their feet. They were astonished to find their rival was a woman, a very young woman at that. She was elected a member of the New York Real Estate Exchange, the only woman member.

Later Miss Murphy studied the legal profession, later still was married to one of her classmates in the law college and formed with him a partnership in business as well as in domestic affairs. Both partnerships have proved successful. Mrs. Mulligan is rich enough to afford whatever she desires, so has had constructed on sanitary and scientific principles a schoolroom and nursery as an annex to her law offices.

A Woman Sanitary Inspector.

Miss Joanna von Wagner of Yonkers, N. Y., has shown American cities, even the largest, how properly to conduct sanitary inspection. The women of Yonkers had her appointed official inspector after they had made a strenuous fight to secure better tenement house regulations.

Being a woman, Miss von Wagner intuitively knows about babies and family matters. Being a strong-minded, educated woman, she also knows how to make the poor tenement house mothers her friends and her helpers in cleaning up their homes and taking right care of their children. At first they were very angry when she insisted on examining their squalid, packed quarters. One family even threatened to throw her downstairs. But Miss von Wagner speaks French, German and Russian; thus she is able to address tenement house dwellers in their own various languages, which gains their good will at once.

Mothers learned to wait her coming and ask her advice about their babies, thankfully following it, though at first they resented wrathfully any suggestions. One exclaimed in anger: "I ought to know how to bring up children; I've buried eleven."

MARCIA WILLIS CAMPBELL.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Frocks Are Marvels of Lace and Embroidery—Tucks Attractive.

The handsomest lingerie frocks are marvels of embroidery and lace inset and applied in a number of different ways, the frock materials being fine mull, lawn, batiste or some of the sheer linens.

Many of these dresses are made by machine, the guimpe or yoke alone displaying hand work. Tucks are one of the modish trimmings of the summer, and when they are hemstitched by hand the acme of chicness is reached in a gown.

A wonderfully attractive frock of white lawn had its skirt trimmed with groups of hemstitched tucks a few inches higher than the knees. The surpliced fronts of the simple little waist were finely tucked on each side, and the sleeves just above the elbow trimmed in the same way. The only other trimming was a lace chemisette and puff undersleeves of valenciennes insertion.

On tub gowns this summer one often sees puffings of the material inset between bands of embroidery. This trimming is difficult to launder, but often these gowns are worn an entire season without visiting laundress or cleaner, and the style then is both effective and practical.

FROCK OF WHITE LINEN.

The frock illustrated is of heavy white linen. The odd trimming about the bottom of the skirt is accomplished with narrow insertions of lace sewed on in serpentine fashion. Between the convolutions are graduated dots embroidered in mercerized cotton. These dots appear on the bloused waist as a trimming below the yoke of lace insertion and on the sleeves, extending to the beginning of the small puff.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

COIFFURE WRINKLES.

How the Hair Should Be Arranged to Enhance the Hat's Effect.

The summer hats necessitate a special coiffure arrangement. Formerly the chapeau conformed to the requirements of the hat; now the milliners are having their day, and the hairdresser is obliged to dress tresses to suit the saucy hats of the season.

A great deal of artificial hair is being used, principally dainty fringes of curls, which fall gracefully over the knot of hair, arranged to meet the hat at the back. Some ambitious milliners sew these fringes across the backs of their hats, but imagine the effect of a girl's pretty curls hanging on her lap at the theater!

The pompadour, instead of disappearing, as some fashion chroniclers are fond of announcing, has really taken a new lease of life. It does not hang over the forehead in a soubrette "dip," but fluffs about the dome of thought in a soft, becoming fashion.

CORONAL HAIRDRESSING.

Hair dressed high, brushed up behind and neatly held in place by a plain comb is the style most accepted.

The girlish coiffure arrangement illustrated is the last mode in the hairdressing world. The coronal plait is lost at the back beneath the slightly bouffant sides. The front hair is broken into undulations, but without any exaggerations to mar the freshness of a young face.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY MODES.

Ribbons and Roses on Summer Hats. The Polo Shape Is Chic.

Ribbons and roses seem to be the trimmings for hats this summer, but other flowers are also in favor. Particularly smart are hats trimmed with greenish white water lilies, flowers, egg shaped buds and leaves. On a green crin chapeau these lilies are charming mingled with a touch of dull pink velvet.

The polo toques are becoming more and more popular. They are charming when carried out in soft fancy straws with two prettily toned wings placed downward at one side of the little "pill box." Some of the latest shapes are quite square or else the front is straight and gives an appearance of squareness even when the hat is rounded at the back.

PARISIAN MATINEE TOQUE.

A charming example of this effect is a deep yellow fancy straw resembling somewhat a palm leaf fan in weave and shape. A bandeau lifts the hat off the face and is covered with soft folds of pale yellow tulle toward the face. Inside the wide brim, near the edge, is a two inch band of black velvet. Covering what would be a crown, but in this instance is more like a plateau, are large shaded Dijon roses and their foliage. Massed at the back, where the hat rounds up abruptly, are more roses and loops of black velvet ribbon. This model is very girlish and becoming.

The picture shows one of the newest small matinee toques from Paris. It is of black neapolitan straw with a brim composed of tea roses placed as close together as possible. The osprey is white and stands gracefully upright at one side of the front. Many of these toques have bunches of valley lilies instead of the osprey.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION'S FLOTSAM.

Skirt Trimming About the Knees. Scalloped Louis XVI. Rings.

The new skirts have all their trimming arranged about the knees. A favorite style is that of a five inch band of the material put into five vertical tucks and edged with two broad tucks top and bottom. In other instances the tucked band is edged with braid or lace insertion.

STRIPED PERCALE DRESS.

The Louis XVI. ring, scalloped around the edges, is much worn, and diamond rings of this description are set in silver.

A useful hat of crinoline is in what is called burnt straw color. Around the crown of the small saucer shape are closely set rosettes of dull pink ribbon. The brim of the hat tapers off and comes into a band at the center of the crown, where it is caught in place by a straw medallion. The trimming at the back is also of ribbon rosettes.

Many of the belts worn with tailor mades are heavily braided. These braided belts are very smart worn with shirts of white linen, batiste or embroidered lawn.

Another belt is made of strands of black velvet ribbon boned and fitted with the point coming upward.

A charming novelty belt is of soft taffeta, gathered and boned with an entre deux of Irish crochet.

The child's summer dress illustrated is of blue and white striped French percale. This material makes up into the most useful morning frocks. The skirt is gathered very full about the waist. The bodice has something of a sailor effect and is finished with a collar of English embroidery. It laces up the front with fine white cord over small white pearl buttons.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SUMMER OUTING HINTS.

Some Conveniences For Travel Both on Land and by Water.

Until women accept and adopt the convenience of man's many pockets they will never be really "advanced." As it is now, women carry their valuables in little hand bags which are easily lost and always a temptation to thieves, their handkerchiefs are tucked in their sleeves and their money in their stockings or in those insecure little purses fastened to their garters, so that the list of "lost and found" grows daily in the papers.

When but one pocket is made it is apt to sag, because it is generally overloaded, but when a dress is made in strict tailor style and properly fitted with many pockets, each adapted to its own burden, their presence could not even be suspected. Such suits need not be ugly. It all depends upon the way the pockets are set in and where. A suit intended for traveling either in the mountains or anywhere away from the comforts of home should be so constructed as to afford a convenient receptacle for many things which are absolutely necessary and which would be a burden too great if all were put into even a bag slung over the shoulder.

In the illustration are two such suits. They do not differ in appearance from others made without pockets. The one in the background has seven pockets, all large enough to be useful. Under the right side of the fold in the front of the skirt is an opening, hidden by small hooks and eyes, and beneath it is a pocket six inches wide by eighteen inches deep. Another of the same size is on the left side, fastened in the same way. Under the third plaits on each side are two more pockets as deep and two more under the sixth folds. All these are made deep, so that whatever is put in them may be hidden by the fullness of the lower part of the skirt. These will hold combs, brushes and the dozen of other small necessaries. Handkerchiefs fill one, and, in fact, whatever one needs is there. At the bust line under the tabs is another pocket made of chamois and so arranged that it buttons firmly. This is for money and other valuables. It is made in three compartments, so that the contents will not form a bunch. It is really not noticeable. Thus all the weight is distributed and one can carry quite an array of things unsuspected. A small pocket in the cape is handy for a handkerchief. The other suit is fitted with an abundance of pockets in the same way.

Mohairs in black, gray, brown or dark blue are better than anything for mountain climbing, but the waterproofed cheviots and other rain proof materials are excellent, since they are strong and light. The trimming is generally composed of tucks, folds and perhaps a very little braid in tabs, but good taste would suggest something that rain would not cause to pucker.

SENSIBLE OUTING SUITS.

The question of headwear is a large one, and each person is at liberty to choose the most becoming hat, but durability, after all, is a better guide, and the varnished hats of light straw are the best, for even though they are varnished they remain, to a certain extent, porous. Veils are nuisances in real outings, but if any one thinks she really cannot live without a veil she has the privilege of wearing one.

Hosiery for outings should be considerably heavier than ordinary and if possible have white feet. Do not take lisle thread, but choose soft sea island stockings unless you can rise above blisters.

Shoulders were made first to look pretty and next to bear burdens, so the elastics should be fastened to the corset. And, though this is not exactly fashion, do not forget pins, needles, thread, small scissors and thimble as well as talcum powder for the skin and cold cream to allay mosquito bites.

Short capes are very much liked for all kinds of outing. Some dark and flexible material is best, the double faced melton being always stylish. Shoes need to be easy, but not too large, as the foot might be hurt by slipping around in them. Thick soles and common sense heels are best. Canvas tops or all leather can be found, but if for mountain climbing stout shoes with leather leggings are best and a protection against snakes.

What is suitable for mountain is suitable for sea, with the addition of a long, hooded cloak, and the many pockets will be found quite as useful in foreign travel as in our mountains at home. Riding habits for summer are made of thick gray linen, with the addition of a short coat of cloth. Hats are derbies or straw in sailor shape. Boots are worn.

OLIVE HARPER.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Ford, Ed. and Proprietor

Thursday, June 8, 1905.

Now girls, be honest and tell the census man your right age.

Elizabeth has a lucky Coyne to toss in the senatorial contest.

A Roosevelt cabinet position is the stepping stone to a $50,000 job. Get Next.

It's getting so now that a man has to hire detectives to watch his bank balance.

"Gas" Addicks, of Delaware, should telephone his condolence to "Boss" Durham.

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," reports Mr. Schwab every time the Japs destroy a Russian warship.

The Duchess of Westminster has been robbed of her jewels. Didn't know she was planning to go on the stage.

Mystery as to why Lawson should be gunning for Rockefeller and Rogers is cleared up. He was once an official in a Kentucky town.

The running time between Chicago and New York has been reduced considerably on the Pennsylvania route. Pretty tough on New York.

Philadelphia's mayor went to New York to secure counsel in his fight against the gas gang. That was the only way he could get down to the Root of the evil.

You are right, Mr. Bondholder, Jersey's new law against taking water out of the State does not apply to what a New Yorker can squeeze out of the stocks floated here.

Think hard now. If it takes a Councilmanic committee six years to frame a spite-house ordinance, how much blackmailing can be done while the proposition is being "considered?"

New auto law is now in effect. Notice that it permits us to speed at the rate of a mile in three minutes —which will finish collecting 894,000 trading stamps for one of those pesky things.

See that Captain "Putty" Strong is doing a turn at Hammerstein's Victoria. If his father were living the reckless young man would probably be doing a number across his paternal ancestor's knee.

No, fond reader, it is not because Gov. Stokes lent his efforts to having proposed statutes doctored up in plain and correct English that Dickinson College has seen fit to make him an LL. D.

By all means legislators should organize a union or the business will lose its most inviting feature. It was $300 in Jersey by down Arkansas way; assemblymen are accused of selling out for a paltry $125. This cut-rate business will have to stop.

James E. Martine stops meditating on "The rise and fall of Democracy as caused by the donkey's kick." We suggest that a Plainfield coop can get all the exercise he needs in patrolling his beat without resorting to physical culture fad at the Y. M. C. A. gym.

Hot from the Women's Federation convention at Passaic—Mr. Cleveland has said some things "about club work and federation and club women which will cost him his third term." Awfully sorry for you, Mr. Cleveland, but you've been married long enough to have known better.

Grand chorus: "We have troubles of our own." Nicholas II, John G. Rockefeller, Israel W. Durham, James H. Hyde, Admiral Rojestvensky, Abe Hummel, Mayor Dunne, H. W. Bowen, Thomas W. Lawson, and Frank Gould. Will positively appear daily. See daily papers for change of bill.

Evidently the Elizabeth Times is not familiar with Philadelphia politics when it suggests that the Quaker City should jail some of its crooked politicians to convince them that the reformers mean business. What's the use of putting men in prison when there are courts and governors to let them out.

What's the matter with putting four faces on that Somerset street clock. It is conceded there's as much reason to let the people over towards the park know the time as it is to give that opportunity to the rest of the borough. And while we're registering a kick, let us suggest that the pen shaped weathervane be restored to its place on top of the flagstaff. Increased to be more than ornamental and is missed by residents who want to know which way the wind's blowing.

The exposure of boodling and the punishment of the boodlers in Missouri were followed by increased business activity in that State. The re-establishment of honest government by Folk was widely advertised in the news columns of daily papers throughout the country, and as a result new capital and new labor flowed into the State attracted by the prospect of a "square deal." Philadelphia is now being similarly advertised wherever newspapers are printed. The gang has been crushed and a business administation inaugurated. The publicity given to these facts cannot fail to have a beneficial effect upon trade. Outsiders who had almost forgotten our existence have had their favorable attention directed hither. Advertising is as helpful to a city as it is to an individual.——Ex.

"While there's life there's hope," except in the Equitable.

Brooklyn man broke into his tailor's to get a suit and now he's facing another in police court

Thought that Rev. Dr. MacArthur would butt in on the "tainted money" episode. Haven't heard from Edward Bok yet.

The West End avenue philosopher says that the only man kicking against low wages nowadays is the walking delegate.

Coming in rather slowly, but editorial paragraphs in 399 exchanges on a Bona(br) parte navy is not a bad showing at any rate.

The talk about placing Taft at the head of the Equitable Life must have arisen from the statement of the President that he could keep the "lid" down all right.

See that church organist is named as co-respondent. He will probably not find it so pleasant to face the music he'll hear in the marital disc(h)ord.

Asbury Park Press complains that wife-beating is getting altogether too common in that city. Try as they will they can't keep those women off the board walk.

If President Roosevelt proposes to settle the war in the East he'll find more trouble diplomatically dealing with the Russian bear than he had in the West with the grizzly.

We congratulate Rev. Dr. Lewis and his wife upon having lived that "one grand sweet song" for half a century. The doctor is a strict Seventh-Day Baptist but he has the winning smile seven days in the week.

New York Tribune thinks that ten per cent. is a pretty good dividend to be earned in the new subway. Yes, pretty good ,but nothing when compared to what Tammany gets out of "underground" schemes.

"Every month in the year is fishing season with the get-rich-quick investment colleagues," says the Constitution. Is Clark Howell playing his subscribers for suckers, or don't they publish "fakes" down his way?

New Providence News opines that Philadelphia is liable to wake up and take a look at the thieves running away with her money bags. Don't fear, neighbor, there's no use "locking the stable door after the horse is gone." All Philadelphia has left is a pile of debts.

The momentous question that confronts city folk in June July and August is: "Where shall I spend my vacation?" The solution of all questions that have to do with spending is largely influenced by advertising. The resorts whose attractions are most widely heralded will claim the attention of the greatest number of holiday-makers. The next problem to the selection of a hotel or boarding place. Again the advertisements prove a determining factor. The summer resort man who wants to entertain the public must issue a public invitation. People hesitate to go where they are not certain of a welcome.—Ex.

It does seem surprising to learn that the Jersey Central has postponed a much needed improvement at the East bound North Avenue station because the bids were too high. As a matter of fact the railroad company can get work done as cheaply as anybody else and in the long run generally much cheaper. Why then delay making an addition to the station for the accommodation of baggage? More than double the amount of baggage is shipped on east bound trains than on those moving west and under the present arrangement is naturally much inconvenience is encountered by local patrons of the road Plans have been made to build a handsome station at Cranford and proper arrangements have been made to handle the baggage on the east bound side of the tracks. It is not unreasonable to say that if the company can afford to give such accommodations to Cranford, it can well afford to make such an improvement here where it does more passenger business than possibly anywhere along the line.

West Point Cadet's Furlough.

N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of East Front street, who is a five year man at West Point, is expected to return home on Wednesday, June 14, to attend the wedding of Captain Chauncey Humphries and Miss Florence Waring. On Tuesday night, June 13, his class and the graduating class will attend the performance of "Fantana," at the Lyric Theatre, New York, after which they will have dinner at the Murray Hill Hotel. This will be Mr. Rogers' first furlough since entering the academy.

CHILDRENS HOME OPEN.

Handsome House Inspected at Public Reception.

The opening of the new Children's Home Thursday afternoon was attended by a throng of people. Every part of the handsome structure was pointed out and closely observed and the universal comment was that the appointments had been planned with great care.

The gift of $10,000 from the family of the late James Clark made the erection of the building possible and it is now thought it will serve the needs of the institution for years to come.

Among the members of the board who assisted at the reception were Mrs. Horace Kimball, its president; Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. George H. Babcock, Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Mrs. Ruth Leonard, Mrs. W. W. Duna, Mrs. Frank Rowley, Mrs. J. B. Yerkes, Mrs. J. C. Peck, Mrs. George D. Hallock, Miss Ella Serrell and Miss Everitt.

RAISED A DOLLAR EACH.

Trinity's Mission Band Doing Good Work.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, at its last meeting for the summer, yesterday afternoon, engaged its time by sewing and planning to prepare a box of useful articles to be sent to some western Sunday-school about Christmas time. Mrs. F. E. Woodruff gave an account of the recent anniversary meeting of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church.

A collection of about $20 was received, each member giving a dollar which she was supposed to earn. The way in which the money was obtained was not related at the meeting. There are several dollars yet to be received. Miss Lillian A. Force, as chairman of the entertainment committee, was in charge and her committee looked after the refreshments.

LITERARY.

A tale told of a Kansas minister, a great precisionist in the use of words, whose exactness sometimes destroyed the force of what he was saying. On one occasion, in the course of an eloquent prayer, he pleaded:

"Oh Lord! waken Thy cause in the hearts of this congregation and give them new eyes at night and new impulse to do. Send down Thy lev-er or lee-ver, according to Webster's or Worcester's dictionary, whichever Thou usest, and pry them into activity."——Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree," Everybody's Magazine for June.

Mayor Dunne, of Chicago, General O. O. Howard, Charles Warren Stoddard and Dallas Lore Sharp head the list of contributors to the June National Magazine. Mayor Dunne's theme is "Chicago and Municipal Ownership," and he declares there are ninety millions of water in the stocks of the Chicago street railways that will never be paid for by the city. General Howard's paper, illustrated, deals with the Lincoln Memorial University in the Tennessee Mountains. Mr. Stoddard, in "Rudyard Kipling at Naulakha," quotes many of Kipling's letters—vividly personal and picturesque—to illustrate Kipling's methods of literary work.

Michael's Slip.

In March, 1904, Michael Gleason promised Judge Runyon in the city court to stop drinking and be a model citizen. Gleason broke his word until Saturday night, when he got drunk in Henry Windham's saloon and cursed Windham wildly because the saloonkeeper obeyed instructions from the authorities and refused to sell him. Michael escaped the judicial wrath yesterday morning by being very humble and contrite. "I am a wild man when I'm drunk, and I'll never drink again as long as I live," he said, and Judge Runyon gave him another chance.

Remarkable Magnolias.

Borough Councilman James K. Arnold has on exhibition in his Somerset street store, an exceptionally large and beautiful magnolia, taken from a remarkable tree which he has at his residence on Manning avenue. The flowers measure fully eighteen inches long. An unusual thing about the flowers is that they exhale a sweet aroma that can be detected for a block about Mr. Arnold's home.

Patrolmen Appointed.

Mayor Buckle has appointed John Payne a pcial patrolman and James McKeon and Dennis O'Keefe, now specials, as regular patrolmen and the Common Council has confirmed the nominations. Building Inspector T. O. Doane has reported that twenty-five permits were granted during May.

Hash-fighting Team.

Arrangements are being made for a game between the Clinton Avenue nine and a combination formed among the men in an East Orange shop boarding house. Bernard Dwyer, a former Plainfielder, is getting the East Orange team together. The game will be played here.

Golf Medal Golfer.

Roger F. Murray, of the Plainfield Country Club, winner of the match for the third eighteen at Paterson, last week, will receive a gold medal. Frank O. Reinhart received a medal for the lowest score made in the qualifying round.

THREE NEW BRIDGES FOR UNION COUNTY

$1,700 APPROPRIATED FOR THE PURPOSE BY BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

The building of new bridges throughout the county and the repairing of some that had deteriorated from wear and time was the principal topic of consideration before the Board of Freeholders Thursday afternoon. The sum of $1,750 was appropriated for the erection of three new iron bridges, and a number of committees were appointed to consider the repairing of several bridges, or the replacing of them by new structures the committees to report at the next meeting of the board.

Director Hallock, of this city, and Secretary Ryno were not present at the meeting, the former having been ill for the past three days.

A communication was received from the Charity Organization Society, of Plainfield, asking that a room in the county court house be given to the society as a meeting place, other rooms being offered for this. It was stated that the society was a quasi-public corporation, affiliated with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. It was referred to the committee on public grounds and buildings.

A Valuable Publication.

The passenger department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has published the 1905 edition of the summer excursion route book. This work is designed to provide the public with descriptive notes of the principal summer resorts of the United States, with the best routes for reaching them, and the rates of fare. It contains all the principal resorts of the country, and comprehensive handbook of summer travel ever offered to the public. The cover is handsome and striking, printed in colors, and the book contains several maps, presenting the exact routes over which tickets are sold. The book is profusely illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of scenery at the various resorts and along the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad. This very interesting book may be procured at the Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application to George W. Boyd, general passenger agent, Broad Street station, Philadelphia, Pa., by mail for twenty cents.

Patrick Meaney, of High Bridge, has been visiting relatives here.

Patrolman John Kelley is kept from duty by a severe attack of muscular rheumatism.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between The Board of Trustees of the Presbyterian Baptist Memorial Fund, complainant, and James Armstrong, et al., defendants. Fi. Fa. for sale of Mortgage Premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale at public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF JULY, 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, beginning at a point fifty-seven (57) feet, three north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west of the intersection of the southwest side of New Street with the southeast side of West Fourth Street, thence southeasterly along the southwesterly line of New Street, a distance of eighty-five (85) feet to the corner of property belonging to said Frank C. Cook; thence at right angles to the other land, south fifty degrees and fifty-four minutes west a distance of forty-seven and five ten one hundredths (47.05) feet; thence north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west a distance of eighty-five (85) feet, more or less, to the southeast side line of West Fourth Street; thence with said side line of West Fourth Street northeasterly forty-seven (47) feet more or less, to the beginning. Together with the land in front thereof to the centre of New and West Fourth Streets.

Being a portion of the same premises conveyed to the said Frank C. Cook, by deed of the executors of William Cortright, deceased, dated April 12, 1904, and recorded in book 429 of deeds for Union County, pages 596, etc.

B. FRANK CORIELL, Sheriff.
Wm. M. Stillman, Sol'r.
E. D. J. & C.
Adv. fees—$9.00. 5 31 C 5

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between William M. Stillman, assignee of Isaac W. Bushmore, complainant, and James Armstrong, et als., defendants. Fi. Fa. for sale of Mortgaged Premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale at public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF JULY, 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey. Beginning at a point in the southwest side line of New Street, distant in a northeasterly direction along said line, eighty-five (85) feet from the southeasterly side of West Fourth Street, thence along said side line of New Street, south thirty-nine degrees and forty-five minutes east, seventy-three and ninety-five one hundredths (73.95) feet to a stake; thence south fifty-one degrees and nine minutes west forty-five and ninety-five one hundredths (45.95) feet to a stake; thence north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west seventy-three and seventy-five one hundredths (73.75) feet to a stake; thence north fifty degrees and fifty-four minutes east, forty-seven and sixteen one hundredths (47.16) feet to the beginning, together with the land in front thereof to the centre of New Street; being a portion of the same premises conveyed to the said Frank C. Cook, by deed of Simon P. Whitaker and Frank M. Bacon, executors of William Cortright, deceased, dated April 12, 1904, and recorded in book 429 of deeds for Union County, on pages 596, etc.

B. FRANK CORIELL, Sheriff.
Wm. M. Stillman, Sol'r.
E. D. J. & C.
Adv. fees—$9.00. 5 31 C 5

N. J.'S G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

Annual Session to be Held at Trenton Thursday and Friday.

LOCAL DELEGATES.

Winfield Scott Post to be Represented — Trenton Citizens Make Big Preparations.

Department Commander James M. Atwood, formerly of this city, has issued orders relative to the thirty-eighth annual encampment of the Department of New Jersey, G. A. R., to be held in Masonic Temple, Trenton, Thursday and Friday, June 22 and 23. Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of this city, will be represented by its past commanders and Andrew Cox and J. Worth Coddington.

The State Department headquarters will be established at the TrentonHouse.

The encampment will convene in Masonic Temple Hall at 10 o'clock, June 22. Post commanders will report promptly on their arrival to this committee and receive the number of encampment badges for their delegation.

A rate of two cents per mile from every point within the State has been established by the Trafic Association, and card orders for transportation at this rate may be obtained from the local ticket agent of each railroad.

Commanders are requested to notify headquarters at the earliest date of the probable strength of their posts in attendance at the encampment, and whenever practicable posts are requested to report as such, bringing with them their flags and banners. For this purpose a committee, composed of some of the leading citizens of Trenton in every business and profession, has been organized, and are preparing a splendid greeting and entertainment for the expected comrades and the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary Association.

The city will be artistically decorated and brilliantly illuminated at night. Facilities for night-seeing will be provided by means of automobiles and carriages, an entertainment of high-class vaudeville will be tendered in the Taylor Opera House the evening of the first day, and his excellency Governor Stokes, his honor, Mayor Katzenbach, and Past Commander-in-Chief Thomas J. Stewart, of Pennsylvania, have promised to deliver addresses on that occasion.

Beautiful souvenirs, the products of Trenton's pottery industry, will be distributed to the members of the encampment and the delegates to the convention of the Woman's Relief Corps and the women of the Grand Army of the Republic, and many other evidences of the hospitality and patriotism of the citizens will be made manifest.

They Wedded Secretly.

Miss Mabel Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, of Nowe street, and Harry Bolmer, of the borough, were quietly married in Brooklyn on Tuesday night. The relatives of the bride and groom knew nothing of the marriage until their return, when they showed a wedding certificate

"Belle Hayes" Leaves Plainfield.

J. W. VanSickle, of East Third street, has sold his speedy bay mare, "Belle Hayes," to a Long Island man. The animal is well known by local horsemen who were frequently left behind in brushes with her.

PARK AVE. PROPERTY BRINGS $375 A FOOT

Big Figure is paid for 80 Feet of Boice Runyon Business Tract.

TO SPECULATE.

J. G. MacLaughlin the Purchaser—Width of Street to be Sixty-five Feet.

John G. MacLaughlin, of the borough, has purchased for speculative purposes, a portion of the Boice, Runyon Company property on Park avenue, adjoining that of the property recently purchased by Charles W. McCutchen. The property has a frontage of 80 feet and a depth of 150 feet. According to the terms of the deal, Boice, Runyon & Company will remove their office to a point next to the railroad embankment. Between sixty and seventy feet will be cut off the lumber and coal sheds to give Mr. MacLaughlin's purchase the required depth. The consideration was about $30,000.

Between the property of the company and that purchased by Mr. MacLaughlin there is reserved a space of twelve feet as a perpetual right-of-way. It is authoritatively stated that neither Mr. McCutchen nor The Plainfield Trust Company have anything to do with this deal.

According to the ordinance which provides for the opening of the avenue, between Second street and the railroad, the width is to be sixty-five feet and the sidewalk twelve feet.

It is understood that Mr. McCutchen intends to begin soon the erection of a modern building, stores and offices, on his property.

GOVERNOR'S DATES.

Stokes to Make Number of Speeches This Month.

Governor Stokes is beginning to show signs of the strain during the last few months in his efforts to accept invitations to public functions in all parts of the State. His physicians advise him to quit public dinners and to refrain from making addresses until he can recuperate. He insists however, on making an address at Brown University, his alma mater, and also at the G. A. R. encampment, in Trenton, and the National Educational Association, at Ocean Grove, on the occasion of the visit of President Roosevelt Other addresses will be made late this month. Then the Governor will go to Sea Girt and rest for several weeks during the encampment of the National Guard.

Satisfied With $10,000.

A dispatch from Topeka Kan., states that Frank Smith, one of the Fair heirs who recently appeared at New Market, has returned to that city and resumed his old position as chef in a hospital. It further states that he gave it out that he had received $10,000 from the estate and that as he was satisfied with the settlement.

W. F. Arnold Improving.

Greatly improved in health and toned up by a most delightful voyage, A. M. Griffen and City Treasurer W. F. Arnold have arrived in Naples, Italy. Word of their landing has been received by the families of both. Neither of them, the letters say, suffered even a sight touch of seasickness.

We Have

Telephones

For

Farmers

We Want

Farmers

For

Telephones.

New York and New Jersey Telephone Company

333 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Telephone 5192

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

Time Table Corrected to Nov. 27, 1904.

For Newark—5.28, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.48, 8.11, 8.36 8.46, 9.58, 9.34, 11.00 a. m., 12.18, 1.45, 2.17, 2.30, 5.41, 6.45, 8.05, 8.12, 8.38*, 9.45, 10.32 p. m.

For Somerville—5.28, 7.12, 8.21, 9.22, 9.55, 11.00 a. m.; 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.32, 5.08, 5.39, 6.04, 6.44, 7.38, 8.38, 10.32 p. m. Sundays—8.21, 9.27, 10.22, 11.26 a. m.; 12.59 night. Sundays—8.45, 8.42, 10.51 a. m.; 2.03, 2.40, 5.37, 6.55, 8.38 p. m. Sundays, 11.16, 11.28 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m.; 2.11, 5.39, 8.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m.; 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.28, 8.21, 9.55 a. m.; 2.11, 5.39, 8.19 p. m. Sunday —5.45 a. m.; 2.02, 6.35 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Manch Chunk—5.28, 9.55, 9.64 a. m.; 12.58, 2.11, 5.39 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.02, 6.35 p. m.

For Lehighton, Mauch Chunk and Scranton—5.28, 9.54 a. m.; 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.02 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 2.44, 4.12, 4.47, 6.23, 11.12 p. m. Sundays (except Ocean Grove) —8.56 a. m.; 4.30, 6.14 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 2.44, 5.48, 6.23 p. m. Sundays—8.56 a. m.; 2.30, 6.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(8.11 Lakewood only), 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 2.49, (8.44 p. m., Lakewood only). Sundays—8.56 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 2.44 p. m. Sundays—8.56 a. m.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m.; 12.44, 1.01, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.44, 6.46, 8.57, 9.47 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 7.47, 8.57, 10.01 a. m.; 12.01, 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 8.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 4.55, 6.46*, 8.57, 9.47 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m.; 12.44, 1.01, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.44, 6.46, 8.57, 9.47 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 8.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 4.55, 6.46, 8.57, 9.47 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m.; 12.44, 1.01, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.44, 6.46, 8.57, 9.47 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 8.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 4.55, 6.46, 8.57, 9.47 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 5.28, 8.21, 9.55, 11.00 a. m.; 2.11, 5.49, (10.44, 11.44 p. m., Reading only). a. m.; 2.11, 5.49, through Reading), 1.17 night. Sundays—8.17 a. m.; 2.08, 6.37, 6.51 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.28, 9.54 a. m.; 5.48 p. m. Sundays—8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sundays—8.17 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.46 p. m.; 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, C. M. BURT,
Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electric Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after May 28, 1905.

Trains will have Elizabeth as follows: f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 1.04, 5.06, 8.06 a. m., 12.01, 12.06, 10.05 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, 10.06 a. m., 12.01, 11.40 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.36, 9.06, 10.06 a. m., 12.01, 11.40 p. m. Sundays—2.04 (Trenton only) f 2.35, 3.33, f 5.40, f 7.35, f 8.37, 10.06 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.31, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m., 1.04, 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40, 7.44, f 8.37, and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express trains, 9.06 a. m., 2.04 p. m. Passenger Conch, and Combined Coach, 10.32 a. m. Through Parlor Cars week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars, and Broiler and Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Cape May—Via Delaware River Bridge, f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Stroudsburg—Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.36, and 11.40 a. m. week-days; 6.51 and 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 8.06, 9.37 a. m., f 1.04, 2.04, and f 5.40 p. m. week-days Sundays—9.37, 10.25 a. m. and 5.40 p. m. Through Car for North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex Boats, Brooklyn Ferry.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, J. R. WOOD,
Gen'l Manager. Pass'r Traffic Man.

GEO. W. BOYD,
General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect Nov. 29, 1904.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.06 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.47 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

12.12 p. m. daily local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.08 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car to D. L. & W. Station, Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.09 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Niagara and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent,
213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.
Telephone 112-B.

Injured Boy Improving.

Howard Sharp, who was seriously injured in a runaway accident Monday afternoon, regained consciousness at the hospital Monday night, and his general condition is much improved with excellent chances for recovery

THEY WANT COMPENSATION FOR FRANCHISES

Piscataway Citizens Argue Against Gifts to Corporation.

AT PUBLIC HEARINGS.

Col. Hine Says P. S. C. Wont Pay $1,000 for Gas Main Privilege —Water Company Kicks at $2,000.

Corporation greed and intriguing methods were roundly scored at a public hearing held by the Piscataway Township Committee yesterday afternoon, on the application of the P. S. C. for a gas main franchise through the township Water Company's franchise. The committee wants the P. S. C. to pay $1,000 for the privilege of laying pipes, and has offered the water company its choice between paying $2,000 or having the franchise revoked. The company is accused of getting its franchise by trickery and of attempting to conceal its real aims and purposes. H. K. Bird, a large real estate owner in Dunellen and Piscataway, and a leader in the fight to prevent the giving away of franchises, fired a bomb at the water company by offering to take the water franchise himself for $1,000 down, and submitted maps showing the exact location of the plant he would put up. Nobody, including the men who represented the company at the hearing, knew or would tell where the P. S. C. plant is to be.

The meeting attracted a good deal of attention in South Plainfield and New Market, and leading citizens of each place were present and spoke. The hearing was held in the parlor of Thornton's hotel. Township Committeeman Nelson Giles presided. Township Counsel W. A. Coddington, of this city, was present to answer questions as to the laws involved.

The P. S. C. franchise came up first. Among its clauses are three which provide that the quality and price of gas shall be the same as in Plainfield and North Plainfield, that the company shall furnish, at cost, all new or second hand ranges, water heaters or any other fixtures that the consumer may desire; and, finally, that it shall pay $1,000 for the privilege of laying and maintaining its mains.

Col. Hine, chief stalking horse for the P. S. C. in franchise hunts, opened the discussion at Chairman Giles' invitation.

"The ordinance as drafted by the Council is satisfactory," said the Colonel urbanely, "with two exceptions among the clauses. Now, clause No. 6, which provides for the installation of all sorts of fixtures by the company, whenever requested by a consumer, at cost, means more, I am sure, than your counsel or your committee intended. We are willing to sell ranges and heaters at cost, as in other localities, but we think it is too much too ask us to give consumers gas-logs, parlor heaters or other fixtures of that kind.

"Paragraph No. 11, gentlemen, which provides for a payment of $1,000, I tell you frankly is prohibitive. We have, as you know, just entered the borough of Dunellen, at the request of citizens of that place. It occurred to the company that it might be well at this time, while our men are in this neighborhood, to connect our Bound Brook and Plainfield plants, so that a breakdown at either end would not be followed by cessation of service in the territory affected. Residents of Lincoln, hearing of our intention to ask for the privilege of that connection, asked us to divert our line to their place to serve them with gas. We planned to run our line through there in response to that petition, and for no other reason. It is our intention to lay mains throughout the township. It is the intention of the company, as provided for in the ordinance, to make connections when requested by petitioners representing 100 feet of pipe. This is not a territory where the company can anticipate any considerable consumption of gas, and the character of the population precludes the idea that it ever will contribute a profitable amount of business.

"We would like to make this connection, and it would help the community, but it is not a matter of sufficient importance to the company to pay $1,000. I do not want to seem arbitrary, but if that condition is to be imposed, gentlemen, I must frankly say that I am wasting your time and you are wasting mine."

"The time has gone by to give franchises away," said Mr. Bird. "If this franchise is worth nothing, let's keep it until it is."

"I am opposed to granting perpetual franchises for nothing," said Stanley Day. "If they cannot pay let 'em stay outside. Anyway, no franchise should be granted in perpetuity. A franchise should not be granted for longer than ninety-nine years on any terms."

"There are franchises and franchises," said F. Percy Vail. "This franchise isn't much. Let them have it. We'll get back at 'em in taxes."

"The Standard Oil Company paid for the privilege of laying its pipe line," commented Edson Davis, "and there is no reason why the P. S. C. shouldn't. Let us be as strict in dealing with township property as with our own."

The question arose here as to whether the franchise granted the P. S. C. a monopoly de jure. Counsellor Coddington said it didn't.

"No competition is likely," said Dr. M. J. Whitford. "This is an age of combination, not competition. All franchises should be paid for; the time for giving them away has passed."

S. D. Drake said with characteristic emphasis that there was no mistake in giving away franchises. He said public utility corporations always boomed communities.

"I have here a petition from people of Lincoln," he said, "representing $1,000,000 in wealth. They want the gas there."

Clerk Day read the petition. Mr. Bird's disrespectful comments on the wealth represented by the signers called a rebuke from the chair.

C. E. Kelly echoed Mr. Drake's contention that franchises ought to be given away. He figured that the taxes paid the community. He opposed limited franchises, because the corporation would find itself at the mercy of lawmakers when its lease expired. Nobody laughed at him.

Answering Dr. Whitford's contention that, as the community developed the roads, the P. S. C. had no right to use them without compensation. Col. Hine closed the discussion with some earnest remarks on the share corporations have had in developing the Northern part of the State.

The water matter was taken up immediately. Practically the same speakers gave the committeemen their views on that franchise, and the tone of the remarks was much the same as in the first hearing. The situation that confronted the citizens was this: The committee, in February, granted what the members thought was simple permission to form the Piscataway Water Company. They learned later, when Counsellor Coddington looked over the ordinance, that they had granted a franchise giving the township to the water company. The company representatives convinced the committee, when taken to task, that they didn't know a misunderstanding had taken place, but the committee promptly had two ordinances prepared; a repealer of the one passed and one compelling the company to pay $2,000 for laying pipes.

As soon as the chairman called for discussion, Mr. Bird handed in his offer and maps showing the location of his water plant. He backed the proposition up with a $250 forfeit check. He said frankly that he didn't want the franchise very badly, but that he could take it and demonstrate that there was lots of value in it.

"Give me that franchise for $1-000," he said, "and I wouldn't have to visit more than three Wall street offices to get all the capital I need for a plant."

F. J. Faulks, a Newark lawyer, and Robert Carson, of New Brunswick, one of the incorportors of the company (which has a nominal capitalization of $10,000), was present the company. Mr. Faulks explained the objects of the company.

He didn't see why the company should pay for a franchise, because the Plainfield Water Company, under the State law, could come into the township and lay pipes and take all the water it wanted without any regard to the township authorities. He called the citizens' attention to that fact that water service made more and lower-priced insurance available and that other benefits would accrue from the P. W. C.

Mr Carson, in the course of his remarks on the many benefits to be derived from water service, intimated that the company would fight to the last ditch in the courts to retain the original franchise. He devoted some time to explaining why the franchise wasn't worth paying for.

"It seemed to me," observed Dr. Whitford, "that if the franchise isn't worth paying for it isn't worth expensive litigation. Mr. Carson's statements are hard to reconcile."

"I am sorry that the committee didn't know enough to see what it was granting in the first place," said Stanley Day, "but now that it is engaged in an effort to secure what is right, let us, as tax-payers back them up to the limit in litigation."

Several queries were put regarding the location of the plant. Both Mr. Faulk and Mr. Cadskin said they didn't know; the matter was in the hands of an engineer. There is a general idea that the company is really engaged in a scheme to pipe water from outside the township to other places, merely using the township as the Standard Oil Company does in piping oil.

Mr. Kelley voiced the general idea when he declared that there was a general jar of deception about the company's whole proceeding. None of the citizens present spoke a word in favor of granting the franchise.

The committee will take action on both the water and gas matters at a matter to be held next Tuesday.

YOUNG MISSES HELP THE FRESH AIR HOME

NET $75 AT ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN AT C. W. HOLLAND'S HOME.

Under the auspices of nine young women from the city and borough for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, a successful entertainment and sale was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Holland, 740 West Seventh street. It was originally intended to hold the affair on the lawn, which had been attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns and bunting, but the rain interferred and it was necessary to continue it on the porch of Mrs. Holland's home.

A decided feature of the affair was a short play entitled "The Paying Off of Emma," which was presented by the Misses Marion Rocap, Alice Rowland, Alveretta Holland, Mary Rushmore, Frances Perkins, Gwendolyn Gough and Marie Dickenson. The play was written by Miss Frances Perkins, aged twelve years, and it made such a hit that the young women were obliged to repeat it several times.

In addition to those taking part in the play Miss Jean Saunders and Miss Elizabeth Hawthorn, assisted in the sale of fancy articles, candy, ice cream and cake. All of the young women wore Japanese costumes. During the play their mothers took charge of the several booths and tables. About $75 was realized for the Home. The ice cream which was left after the sale was sent to the Children's Home.

"A KETTLE OF FISH" WAS VERY AMUSING

AMATEURS DISPLAY SOME FINISHED ACTING AT THE PARK CLUB.

Amateur dramatics never scored higher artistic success than that eached by the cast of "A Kettle of Fish," a three act farce comedy, at the Park Club last night.

The play was well staged, and the cast exhibited no rough spots in any situation. The lines were not only well read, but the bits of stage business were always apt and pat on the second. A full house greeted the performance, and applause was frequent and generous.

So well balanced was the cast that it would really be very hard to note contrasts in point of finished acting. Charles H. Lyman, Effingham Pinto, Clifford W. McGee, H. C. White, Miss Mabel Van Deventer, and Miss Nanon West in the leading roles, were lacking nothing essential to the full strength of the situations.

MISS DARBY'S WEDDING.

Alton Belle Married to Newark Man.

Miss Florence Darby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglass L. Darby, of Alton, and George Frederick, of Newark, were married Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Mr. Stein, of the Westfield Presbyterian church. The home was attractively decorated with flowers and palms.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Annabel Frederick, of Newark, a sister of the groom, as maid-of-honor; Miss Florence Lambert, of Madison Hill, as flower girl; Miss LaForge, of Rahway and Miss Cora Miller, Scotch Plains, were the bridesmaids. Miss Anna F. Littell, of Willow Grove, plaed the wedding march.

Herbert Whitehead, of Newark, was best man, and Harry and Aaron Derby, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The bride was gowned in white mull and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid-of-honor and bridesmaids were gowned in white organdie and carried white carnation. The flower girl was dressed in China silk and carried a basket of roses.

The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends. A reception followed after which the bride and groom left for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will live on Chadwick avenue, Newark. The bride received a large number of valuable gifts, including bric-a-brac, furniture and silverware.

Elizabeth Wants More Firemen.

The Elizabeth Council appropriated $2,400 for the purchase of a site for a new fire tower, and also for a prospective engine house. An addition of sixteen men to the department was asked for by the fire commissioners. It was explained that the call system could be done away with by the increase. To run the department next year $72,670 was asked for.

Dr. A. W. Anderson, of East Second street, has leased his home for the summer, and with his family will spend the season at Suffern, N. Y.

JUST ONE DAY'S GOLF

Benedicts Defeat Bachelors in Country Club Team Match.

TROPHY PLAY SCORES.

Golf Committee Cup and Clock Golf at Country Club — President's and Club's Cups at Park's Course.

The ideal weather on Saturday attracted a large number of golfers to the Plainfield Country Club and the entry list in each of the events showed an increased interest in the game. There were three events scheduled—play for the Golf Committe cup, the points which were won by C W. Abbott, S. D. Lounsbery and H. D. Hibbard, each returning very low scores; a team match between the married and single men in which the bachelors were defeated by a score of 19 to 11, and the clock golf competition for women in which Miss Adelaide Ball was the winner with a score of 19.

These scores were returned for the Golf Committee cup:

C. W. Abbott, 82, 8 74; S. D. Lounsbery, 84, 8-76; H D. Hibbard, 83, 6-77; W. F. Merrill, 97, 18-79; Dr. G. W. Endicott, 91, 12-79; L. H. VanBuren, 95, 16-79; C. A. Stover, 94, 15-79; Arthur Murphy, 89, 8-81; W. L. Gleney, 79, plus 2-81; J. A. Tompkins, 92, 11-81; G. M. Furman, 92, 10-82; J. F. Raymond, 102, 18-84; G. H. Condit, 117, 26-91.

The summary of the team match is as follows:

Married Men—E. B Shoemaker, 0; H. D. Hibbard, 5; S D. Lounsbery, 2; Arthur Murphy, 0; J. E. Erickson, 0; E. E. Iremonger, 4; E. B. Goodwin, 0; C. C. Burke, 2; C. A. Stover, 2; H. W. Beebe, 0; G. M. Furman, 4; A. L. Otterson, 0; H. F. Fox, 0. Total, 19.

Single Men—H. C. Munger, 4; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, 0; W. L. Glenney, 0; L. H. VanBuren, 1; C. B. Morgan; 2; George Schoonmaker, 0; G. T. VanBoskerck, 2; Earl Stockton, 0; E. I. Serrell, 0; J. Whitney Baker, 2; Dr. F. C. Ard, 0; Howard Huntington, 0; J. P. Murray, 0. Total, 11.

These scores were posted in the clock competition:

Miss Adelaide G. Ball 19; Miss Ann Murphy, 22; Miss Margaret Goddard, 23; Miss Susan Wharton, 23; Mrs. J. Atchinson, 23; Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, 24: Mrs A. B. Davies, 25; Miss Frances Weir, 25; Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, 25; Miss Harriette Goddard, 26; Miss Maize Wadsworth, 26; Mrs. Walter Gaston, 26; Miss Edith Tracy, 27; Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, 28.

A good sized field took part in the weekly competition, for the President's and club trophies at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, and some very good scores were returned. Samuel Townsend, Ralph E. Hallock and A. W. Kenworthy won the points for the President's cup, while for the scratch cup Raymond B. Carroll, Ralph E. Hallock and Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll won the points. These scores were posted:

Samuel Townsend, 106, 26-80; Ralph E. Hallock, 102, 17-85; A. W. Kenworthy, 108, 22-86; Walter McNaughton, 113, 25-88; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 102, 13-89; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 113, 12-91; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 105, 12-93; Raymond B. Carroll, 94, 0-94; Charles A. Reed, 106, 10-96; George T. Rogers, 122, 20-102; John L. Watson. 126, 22-104.

Mr. Colby's Announcement.

Assemblyman Everett Colby, of West Orange, who married Miss Edith Hyde, of this city, has formally announced that he will be a candidate for the nomination for State Senator from Essex County at the Republican primaries to be held next September With the announcement Mr. Colby issued a declaration of principles, in which he set forth the grounds upon which he will appeal to the Republican voters of the county for support, and specified what he would do if he should be nominated and elected.

"Cy" Kinsman, M. E.

Cyrus E. Kinsman, son of F. E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue, will be graduated this month from the mechanical engineering department at Cornell University. Owing to his high standing he was able to leave the institution a week earlier than the usual time. Mr. Kinsman expects to associate himself with his father in the electrical business.

Congressman To Go Abroad.

Congressman Ira W. Wood, of the Fourth District, has been appointed as one of the American delegates to the thirteenth Congress of the Interparliamentary Union, to be held in Brussels, Belgium, early next September. The delegates have been invited by the Belgium government, and as their guests, are given free transportation over the Belgian railroads, and other privileges.

Petition for Public Toilets.

A petition from the W. C. T. U. asking that public toilets be suitably arranged about the city was referred to the public affairs committee at the meeting of the Common Council last night.

Children's Performance Netted $50.

"The Festival of Flower and Song," given at the Bryant School netted a profit of $50 and it will be repeated at the school on Wednesday afternoon.

HOLIDAYS GRANTED TO THE POLICEMEN

EACH COP TO GET TWO DAYS OFF IN A MONTH.

On recommendation of Chief Kiely, the police board has consented to allow the men on the force two days' vacation in each month. Owing to lack in the numerical strength of the department, the holiday play was abandoned two years ago much to the regret of the men, who felt that they should be allowed the same privileges as accorded the fire laddies.

Chief Kiely's recommendation was approved by Chairman Tyler and the memebers of the board and under the arrangements the chief will designate the days for time off. The scheme will not be put into operation, however, until after the regular summer vacation are ended. The first of these annual vacations will be begun in two weeks.

TO UNVEIL MONUMENT.

Revolutionary Battle Ground to be Marked June 23.

Everything is now in readiness for the unveiling of the monument which is to be placed in front of the Presbyterian church in Springfield June 23, and the ceremony will be witnesed by representative men of the county, including many Plainfielders.

The monument is to be a high as that which is to be placed at Union square. It will surmount a rough brown granite block and the figure will represent a Continental soldier, while the Elizabeth stone will represent a minute man. In speaking of this fact with a newspaper representative, Commissioner Halsey stated that the Continental soldier was most appropriate for Springfield since it was the Continental soldier who fought the real battle at Union while the British were harassed and baited by the rough and ready farmer-boy minute men until the Americans had attained a good fighting ground. The skirmish took place at the crossroads, and for that reason the statute of the farmer boy is to be placed at Elizabeth.

DR. HEDGES TO SPEAK.

Among Prominent Physicians to Address N. J. Medical Society.

Leading Physicians of this and other States will make addresses at the 139th annual meeting of the Medical Society of New Jersey to be held at Hollywood Hotel, Long Branch, June 20, 21 and 22, among them being Dr. E. W. Hedges, of this city.

The regular business will begin on Tuesday afternoon, June 20 Mayor C. Asa Francis will deliver the address of welcome. Dr. Hedges will discuss "Uraemis Surpises."

Reckless Autoist.

A horse owned and being driven by David T. Kenney, of the borough, Sunday afternoon, became frightened at an automobile, No. 688, N. J., and only by clever handling of the animal was an accident averted. Mr. Kenney's wife and daughter were in the carriage with him, and he was obliged to call loudly to the driver of the machine, a woman, to stop it to prevent the horse from running away.

Forming a Nine.

Although the Y. M. C. A. will not be regularly represented on the diamond this season, it is probable that a team representative of the membership and the baseball talent to be found in it will play exhibition games. Hervey Marsh, captain of the defunct team, is endeavoring to get a nine together for occasional games with the strictly amateur combinations of the city and vicinity.

Her Wedding Date Set.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. John Neagle, of Madison avenue, to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Kizzie T. Neagle, and Edward Burke Rowland, of North Plainfield, which takes place Monday afternoon, June 12.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Saturdays close half hour later.

Arrive—7.20, 8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00, 5.30 p. m.

Close—7.20, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 5.00, 7.45 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.30, 3.15 and 7.00 p.m. Close—7.20 a. m.; 1.45 and 4.30 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30 and 5.30 p. m. Close—7.20 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 5.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton. Close 12.35 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30, 5.30 p. m. Close—7.20, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.20, 8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.15, 7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 12.25, 4.30, 7.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4.30 and 7.15 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 7.15 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE AND GALLIA (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—2.30 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

Watchung—Arrive 6.45 p. m. Close 5.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m. Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

SILVER WEDDING OF MR. AND MRS. H. G. RUNKLE

OBSERVED ON HOMECOMING OF MR. AND MRS. D. RUNKLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Runkle and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Runkle, gave a charming reception at their home in West Eighth street, Saturday night, which was attended by about 200 friends. The affair was of double significance, it being the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Runkle, and marking the home-coming of their son and his bride from their wedding trip.

One of the delightful features of the evening was the incidental vocal music, solo and quartette, by Miss Grace Carroll, contralto, of this city; Miss Chapman, soprano; John Young, tenor; Frederick Wheeler, bass, and Victor Harris, accompanist, all of New York.

Among the guests from out-of-town were Miss Randolph, of Morristown, and Robert Farlee, of New York.

Knocked Down by Auto.

An auto belonging to C. Wesley Holland, which was being towed home with his large machine, Friday afternoon, swung from the street to the sidewalk, kocking down Mrs. J. P. Mosher, of West Fifth street. Her clothing was torn ad she received bruises and a shock that will detain her at home for several days. Mr. Holland assumed all the blame for the accident and made an amicable settlement.

Nine Years Married.

Mr. and Mrs. Maze Edwards quietly celebrated the ninth anniversary of their wedding on Saturday. Many friends extended congratulations.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Excursion.

Franklin Council, No. 41, and Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will run an excursion to Asbury Park on Saturday, July 22. They will remain at the shore until 9:30 o'clock.

Alfred and William Martin, of Newark, with a party of friends spent Saturday and Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Garrett J. Powers, of Jackson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Blair, of East Second street, have rented their cottage at Belmar for the season and they returned to their home here yesterday. They were accompanied by Mrs. A. W. Anderson, also of East Second street, who has been sojourning at Belmar.

DIED.

WALLEY—In this city, May 30, 1905, Mrs. Mary A. Walley, in her fifty-seventh year.

O'KEEFFE—Suddenly, in this city, May 31, 1905, Patrick O'Keeffe, aged thirty-five years.

NOTICE OF COPYRIGHT.—Renewal Class C, XXC, Nos. 92,078-33. Library of Congress to wit: Be it remembered that on the 6th day of April, 1905, Mary Runyon Lowry, of Plainfield, New Jersey, hath deposited in this office the titles of 16 musical compositions by Robert Lowry, viz: "All the Days," "Another Year is Dawning," "Gentle and Lowly," "Glory to Jesus," "Home at Last," "Marching on to Battle," "Jesus, Only Jesus," "Looking Unto Jesus," "No Hope in Jesus?" "Peace in Jesus," "The Lord will Provide," "Room for the Penitent," "At Last," "By the Seaside," "The Glad Forever," "Watch and Pray." These in renewal for fourteen years from April 18, 1905. The right whereof she claims as Proprietor in Conformity with the laws of the United States respecting copyrights. Office of the Register of Copyrights, Washington, D. C. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress, by Thorwald Solberg, Register of Copyrights. 544

Wanted

Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided. The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head. An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies 141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Scientific American.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, | Vice-Pres.
Jeremiah Manning, |
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life)

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Aves

Plainfield, N. J.

REV. DR. AND MRS. A. H. LEWIS CELEBRATE THE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR MARRIAGE

WEDDING JUBILEE OF SABBATH RECORDER'S EDITOR AND HIS WIFE, SERVES AS OCCASION FOR A FAMILY REUNION.

The observance of the golden wedding anniversary of Rev Abram Herbert Lewis, D D., LL.D., and his wife, Augusta Johnson Lewis, at their home in West Seventh street, today, is an event of more than usual interest to the many friends of this couple. Coming to this city in 1880, when Dr. Lewis assumed the pastorate of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, continuing as such until 1897, both the doctor and his wife have a warm place in the hearts of all who know them.

Not only because of his pastoral work here, but for the part he has taken in advancing the principles of his denomination, has Dr. Lewis become widely known throughout the country. He has always stood for sound principles in religion and municipal affairs, frequently being called upon to speak in defense of both. His position in the cause of temperance is also well-known. Mrs. Lewis has also been a valuable help to her husband, being highly cultured and educated and even during the past five years of her illness, her mind is as active as ever.

The couple is surrounded today by their five daughters, one son and their grandchildren and the celebration, although a quiet one, was marked by a family dinner at which Mrs. Lewis' was present.

Dr. Lewis was born at Scott, Cortland County, N. Y., Nov. 17, 1836. Mrs. Lewis—Augusta Melissa Johnson— was born at Natic, near Providence, R. I., Aug. 6, 1837. They were married at Berlin, Wis., June 2, 1855. They pursued preparatory and collegiate studies at Ripon College, Ripon, Wis., and at Milton College, Milton, Wis., from 1856 to 1861. Their studies were continued at Alfred University until 1863, at which time, Dr. Lewis graduated from that institution: Mr.s Lewis spent the latter years of school life in art studies.

Dr. Lewis entered his first pastorate, Jan. 1, 1864, taking charge of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at Westerly, R. I. In 1868 and 1869 he was pastor of the first Seventh-Day Baptist church in the city of New York, where he took post-graduate studies in Union Theological Seminary, making a specialty of church history. From 1876 to 1880, he filled the chair of Church History and Homiletics in Alfred University. In 1880, he became pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of Plainfield, N. J. ,in charge of which he continued until 1897. He was then elected corresponding secretary of the American Sabbath Tract Society, and a year or two later, was assigned to the editorship of the Sabbath Recorder, continuing also as secretary, which position he still holds.

Dr. Lewis began work as a specialist upon the Sabbath and Sunday question, as early as 1860. His first book was published in 1870, since which time, a number of books have come from his pen. Among them are: "A History of the Sabbath and the Sunday in the Christian Church;" "A History of Sunday Legislation from 321 A. D.;" "Paganism Surviving in Christianity:" "Swift Decadence of Sunday,', a volume on homiletics, etc. Dr. Lewis became widely known as editor of the Sabbath Outlook, from 1882 to 1894. That periodical gave special attention to the history of the Sabbath and Sunday question, and the scholarly character of the magazine gave it a national reputation, in theological circles. Dr. Lewis was also associated with the late Aaron M. Powell, of Plainfield, N. J., as a writer and speaker upon social purity, and kindred reforms. An address upon "The Sacredness of Fatherhood," delivered by him before the National Purity Congress, held in Baltimore, in 1896, attracted such attention that he was called to repeat it in Philadelphia, New York and Boston, during the winter of 1896-7. He is now engaged in literary work, with occasional addresses before conventions, etc.

Mrs. Lewis has always been in close sympathy with her husband in literary and pastoral work—a helper, indeed. In the summer of 1889, she assisted him in literary research, in Europe, mainly in London and Berlin. Among the treasures of his private library, are several well-filled note books, in her hand-writing, which are prized the more highly now, since she has been unable to write, because of paralysis, for nearly five years past.

Doctor and Mrs. Lewis have five daughters and one son, all of whom are living, and are in attendance at the golden wedding of their parents. The oldest daughter, Addie Lena, is the wife of Dr W. L. Russell, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who is medical inspector of the insane hospitals in the State of New York. They have three sons, Paul Lewis, Ernest Frederick, and Blake. The son, Edwin H. Lewis, Ph. D., is at the head of the department of English literature in Lewis Institute, Chicago. He is the author of several text books, and a writer and lecturer on literary themes, already well and widely known. His wife, Elizabeth Locksley Taylor, is a niece of the late Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry, of Plainfield, N. J. They have two children, Herbert Taylor, and Janet Locksley. The second daughter, Grace Edna, is the wife of James H. Parsons, president of the Parsons Water Purifying Company, of Chicago. He is a successful business man. They have one daughter, Louise. The third daughter, Mary Anna, is the wife of Benjamin F. Langworthy, an able and rising lawyer in the city of Chicago. They have two daughters, Frances Lewis and Marygold McIntosh The fourth daughter, Louise Augusta, is the wife of James Everitt Kimball, of Plainfield, N. J. Both he and Mrs. Kimball are well known in Plainfield, in literary circles, and as church workers. They have two children, Margaret and Lewis Everitt. The youngest daughter, Eva Minette, is the wife of B. W. Spencer of Chicago. Mr. Spencer was with Roosevelt at Santiago. He is now connected with the Sprague Mercantile Agency in Rochester, N. Y. They have one daughter, Benita.

Although Mrs. Lewis has suffered from complete paralysis of the right motor center, and almost absolute paralysis of the speech-making center of the brain, for nearly five years, she has taken keen interest in current affairs, and special interest in the celebration of her golden wedding. Her case is an unusual one, from the medical standpoint; since. Although she is helpless, except slight use of the left hand, her general health remains good and her mental faculties are unimpaired. Because of Mrs. Lewis's health the celebration was not elaborate. Many congratulations came to hand through the mails.

REPENTANCE WAS NOT GENUINE, SAYS COURT

DIVORCE HAS BEEN RECOMMENDED TO MRS. MARY TOTTEN FROM A.W. TOTTEN.

Vice Chancellor Bergen has filed an opinion in the Court of Chancery at Trenton in the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Mary Totten against her husband, Abram Willard Totten, overruling the defendant's plea of condonation of the alleged offense and recommending that the divorce be granted. The question of alimony is left for a further hearing.

The parties to the suit reside in Middlebush, Somerset County, and Totten is the son of a former sheriff of the county. The co-respondent named was Miss Sara DeHart, organist of a church at Franklin Park. Totten was precentor in the same church.

Mrs. Totten charged her husband with infidelity with Miss DeHart on numerous occasions in 1903 and 1904 Totten put in a novel defense. He admitted unfaithfulness to his marriage vows with Miss DeHart during 1903, but claimed he was reconciled with his wife in December, 1903, and that they lived together until June, 1904. This was held to condone the offense admitted and remove all ground for divorce Any offense after the reconciliation was denied.

The vice chancellor's opinion concludes: "The wrongful intercourse having been established in this cause, my conclusion is that the defendant, by his subsequent conduct, demonstrated that his repentance was not genuine, and his associations with his paramour in June and July, 1904, was of such a character as to overthrow the condonation and entitle the petitioner to the relief she seeks."

Planning for Elks' Convention.

From present indications Plainfield lodge, No. 885, will be well represented at the Elks' convention to be held at Buffalo, next month. The majority of the Planfielders have planned to go on the excursion to be conducted by the Newark lodge, but others will select their own route. Among the latter are Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon, Fred Nelson and John H. Cose, who will make the trip in an automobile.

Dr. Zeglio Surprised.

Twenty-five friends of Dr. P. J. Zeglio called at his home Wednesday night and gave him a surprise, the occasion being the anniversary of his birthday. During the evening a musical programme was given by Miss Alberta Waterbury, Miss Etta Rayoert and E D. Cutting. Mrs. J. P. D. Kirch and Miss Elizabeth Kirch, nieces of the doctor, arranged the affair.

Sues Rosell for Liquor Bill.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., has commenced suit in the Supreme Court against A. B. Rosell, formerly of this city but now of Danville, to recover $400, alleged by the S. W. Smith Company, of Philadelphia, to be owing them for liquors. The case will be heard at the October term.

To Drop Bowen.

There is good reason for the statement that the Bowen-Loomis affair has practically been terminated and that Herbert W. Bowen, a brother of H. G. Bowen, of this city, is to be either dropped from the service or intrusted with some post much lower than he holds.

MODJESKA RETIRES

FAMOUS POLISH ACTRESS WELL LOVED BY AMERICANS.

Exiled from Poland Seeks Home in New Land—Her Professional Career and Interesting Personality.

Modjeska is a woman of charm. Modjeska is a woman of rare courage.

The two generations that have observed her work on the American stage will emphatically agree with the first statement; those that know something of her attitude toward the oppressors of her country will not contradict the second.

For ten years Modjeska played leading lady at the Imperial theater in Warsaw, but political troubles caused her to leave the home land for distant America. One of a colony of unusually talented people, exiles from Poland, she came to Anaheim, in southern California. It was a sort of Brook Farm experiment, their country life and community life there; and, as in the Brook Farm experiment, the company was a most brilliant one. First and foremost there was Modjeska; a co-experimenter Sienkiewicz, author of Quo Vadis; Paderewski, who needs no explaining. Financially the experiment failed, the company disbanded. Modjeska then sought to retrieve the fortunes of the family in San Francisco, her husband, Count Bozenta, who was ill, spending part of his time in the south in the endeavor to gain health.

THE GREAT POLISH ACTRESS.

San Francisco did not pay much attention to this talented woman, theatrical managers looked upon her with a certain suspicion., were wary of a lady of title seeking a career as actress. At the time a "fake" Russian princess was in the city, and her assumptions were not accompanied by any superior talent. But Modjeska had three qualities that make for success; possession of talent, belief in herself, and indomitable energy. She at once set to work at study of the English language, and in three months and a half mastered the parts of Cleopatra, Adrienne Lecouvreur, Juliet and Ophelia. She spoke with an accent, but her accent was adorable.

It was a hard matter to get a manager to give her a hearing, but finally one was corralled. Modjeska read for him the last act of Adrienne Lecouvreur, "and made such an impression he begged to bring John McCullough, who was then a theatrical manager, to hear her. She was at once booked for a two weeks' engagement at the California theater.

That was in 1877. The first night she played to a small house, but enjoyed a triumph. Her teacher of English, Miss Josephine Tucholsky, says of this first appearance: "There never was anything seen like it. I think, in a San Francisco theater before nor since. People stood up, they cheered, they cried, they wanted to stampede upon the stage and shake the hand of this woman who had made their emotions the plaything of her genius."

Thirty-eight years Mme. Modjeska has acted in English, playing in this country and in London, and to-day her admirers, a multitude, are slow to concede that she shows signal loss of power. She has played many parts in her time; in tragedy of "Marie Stuart," and in "Camille," winning laurels, as Ophelia, Lady Macbeth and other leading Shakespearean parts, displaying the delicacy and finish of her art.

When resting from her professional duties, Modjestka seeks the seclusion of her beautiful California ranch; for it is in that western state, where first she sought refuge, where her American triumphs began, she has established her home. The Count and Countess Bozenta dispense here a generous, gracious hospitality, and indulge in their hobby, country life. Among her fruits and flowers the actress has spent her waking hours when the round of theatrical duties was finished, and doubtless here she will pursue the days of her hard-earned rest.

For she has this year taken farewell of the stage, at the great benefit performance given her lately in New York she made her last bow to the public. It is with regrets her long-time friends see her withdraw from the stage she has graced and given prestige to, but all must grant she has earned her holiday.

A generous woman, ever glad to give a helping hand, is Modjeska, and to-day not a few that have risen to high place point to her as patron and inspiration. She helped Paderewski pursue musical studies at Vienna; under her auspices Jean and Eduoard de Reszke first appeared at a concert. But while she is a warm friend, she is also an outspoken enemy of oppression; and her denunciations of Russian tyranny has made it wise to live in exile from Poland.

CHRISTOPHER WEBSTER.

Favorite Decoration.

For children's hats forget-me-nots are a favorite floral decoration.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

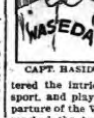
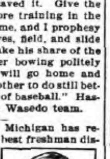
A baseball team composed entirely of Japanese is now touring this country.



CAPT. BASIDO.

The team is made up of students of the Waseda university of Tokio and they expect to play many of the leading college nines in this country before their return. From all accounts the little subjects of the mikado have mastered the intricacies of our national sport, and play a good game. "The departure of the Waseda team for America marked the beginning of a new era in the athletics of Japan," says Fred Merrifield, ex-captain of the Chicago university baseball team, who is at present coaching the Waseda nine. "Hitherto the Japanese players have measured themselves with the pick-up teams of the ports from the foreign warships, or at best by themselves. Of late years the local players have usually been easy victors over their American and English opponents, who have had little or no opportunity for practice. There seems to be nothing that these people cannot do if they set their minds to it. The Japanese students ordinarily wear white uniforms in their play, with blue socks or 'tabi' for footwear No doubt such dress is much cooler in the hot weather, with no stockings or stiff shoes, but there is a corresponding loss of speed and quickness of start which spikes would at once make possible. Nor does the player feel at all backward about exposing his shins and calves to the sun and crowd, for it is the custom in this stockingless land to leave a brief space between the tabi and the loose robes. The native baseballs are a trifle smaller than our own, and do not keep their shape and hardness as well. The American balls, bats, etc., are not strangers, however, to these children of progress. All this apparatus may not be understood at once, but it is here and is used until it is mastered. Perhaps the breast protector will not hold air and is considered worthless. But when once that little screw at the side is understood no further questions are asked, and the rubber is always in good order. One day I was coaching a new pitcher on 'drops,' 'placing,' etc., and was acting as batter to help his eye. At a suitable stage in the process I turned to instruct the catcher on some point or other. The point was understood, and we were about to resume our positions, when zip! came the ball past my ear, and caught the unfortunate catcher square on the cheekbone. Two more points are illustrated; the catcher scarcely moved a muscle and never a sound came from his lips; he quietly walked away to bathe his swollen face. That is a bit of Japanese stoicism, for we all know how a straight ball stings. Again, the pitcher had been working so hard to master that new finger movement and 'locate' his batter that he all but did the opposite to his fellow player. That is Japanese persistence and eagerness, just a bit of it. There is another good point in the Japanese style of playing. They may not be good hitters yet and may not know much about curves, but they listen to the umpire and know how to accept decisions without a question, and the financial question has nothing to do with the matter, either. I have seen ball after ball skim the batter's eyes and 'Strike!' from the umpire would not affect his temperament in the least. The pitcher might put several telling drops over the outer corner, and if the slow-eyed umpire said 'Ball!' it remained without a murmur, although one acquainted with the situation knew of the disappointment suppressed because the game was in the balance, and these drops should have saved it. Give the Japanese a little more training in the fine points of the game, and I prophesy he will hit your curves, field, and slide with the zest, and make his share of the fun. And then, after bowing politely to the umpire, he will go home and teach his younger brother to do still better at the great game of baseball." Hasido is captain of the Wasedo team.

The University of Michigan has recently developed the best freshman distance runner that ever came to that school. His name is Rowe, and the other day he defeated his team mate, Coe, in a mile race, going the distance in 4:31 4-5. Rowe is the understudy of Kellogg, the fastest distance runner in the west up to his graduation from Michigan last June.



ROWE.

Rowe to-day is every bit as good while still a freshman as Kellogg was at the height of his powers, and is running ten seconds faster than Kellogg ever did his freshman year. Like Kellogg, Rowe's best event is the two-mile run, and Michigan is counting on taking this event again at the conference, just as in the past four consecutive years. Rowe began his running very young, and in consequence he has no waist line at all. His upper running muscles, especially above the hips and abdomen, are so enormously developed as to completely fill the space ordinarily allotted to graceful curves in men trained down as hard as Rowe. In his 4:31 4-5 mile run, made on a cold day not particularly conducive to speed. Rowe finished apparently good for better than 4:30 if he had been pushed. No western runner has yet done better than 4:30 in an outdoor collegiate contest. Rowe ran the entire last quarter of his fast race with one shoe so far off that he had to use a skating motion to keep from losing it.

PEOPLE'S COLLEGE

SUCH IS THE HOME CULTURE CLUB OF NORTHAMPTON.

Started in This Northern Town by Well-Known Southerner—What Work Has Grown To Under Mr. George Cable.

In one of the fairest New England cities, Northampton, there has been quietly carried on for years a movement that has resulted in bringing culture into many lives that were lacking educational and social opportunities, a work that bestows much of the academical and social life of the college proper.

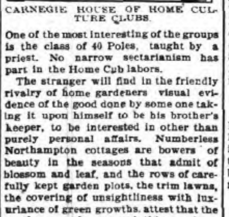
We speak of the Home Culture clubs, the idea that of Mr. George Cable. Mr. Cable is widely known as the author of those charming creole tales, but his zeal and success in lines of social betterment have been modestly kept in the background. The recent Carnegie gift to the Home Clubs now brings this phase of the author's life into prominence.

When Mr. Cable moved north, he either acquired there, or else brought with him a store of inexhaustible energy, and this store he soon began to put at the service of others. In 1887 he organized the Home Culture club, the object the coming together of neighbors for study, discussion and recreation. Very shortly 20 clubs were organized, and then the question of reaching the young people employed in the mills was presented. A reading room was opened for them in 1888, where they could come together to read or for social intercourse. The club spirit prevailed; the one reading room was twice enlarged, and finally a clubhouse was provided.

Not finally, either, for just now the Home Clubs are establishing themselves in the beautiful new quarters, the Carnegie house for the Home Clubs of Northampton. In this large clubhouse varied activities of the club life will be carried on; there is a concert room, and provision is made for dramatic entertainments, one of the features of the organizations; a ballroom is no unimportant part, dancing a recreation looked upon with high favor by the promoters, the Saturday night dances considered one of the most attractive of the many attractive parts of the liberal programme.

The aim is to reach People, people generally, old and young, rich and poor, cultured and those longing for culture, educated and uneducated, men and women, employed and unemployed. The scope is so wide one cannot begin to tell of the work accomplished, that planned. We shall speak of certain things that seem of especial value. The clubhouse extends welcome to its lounging-room of anyone, stranger or townsman, to enter and rest. He may remain quiet, or he may take part in conversation; but this club is his club for the moment, a home where he may indulge the moments mood. There is an employment bureau, where employed and unemployed come in touch. There are bowling alleys and billiard tables for those that desire to play and without games of tennis, football, many sports.

But we seem slow in getting to the study part of these Home Culture clubs. Teachers from the famous woman's college situate in the town, Smith college, act as teachers; they and others from the city giving their services to the classes. Wide is the range of subjects studied, and widely differing the students; there are 20 nationalities represented in the classes and 70 occupations.



CARNEGIE HOUSE OF HOME CULTURE CLUBS.

One of the most interesting of the groups is the class of 40 Poles, taught by a priest. No narrow sectarianism has part in the Home Cub labors.

The stranger will find in the friendly rivalry of home gardeners visual evidence of the good done by some one taking it upon himself to be his brother's keeper, to be interested in other than purely personal affairs. Numberless Northampton cottages are bowers of beauty in the seasons that admit of blossom and leaf, and the rows of carefully kept garden plots, the trim lawns, the covering of unsightliness with luxuriance of green growths, attest that the southerner who entered this northern mission field brought with him an ardent love for the beautiful.

A late addition to the clubs is the household arts department. Here are to be studied home-making, home beautifying, the duties of wife and mother, all branches of domestic service.

Mr. Cable's clubs have been established in many communities. Surely a noble work; surely it takes away some of the reproach of modern indifference.

ELLEN THAYER.

Disappointment.

"Luck never manages things just right," said the irritable man who dislikes music. "It might just as well have been the other way around, but it wasn't."

"What's the trouble now?"

"My daughter who plays the piano has a sore throat and the one who sings has a sore finger."—Washington Star.

EPWORTHIAN GATHER AT MONROE AVE. CHURCH

RALLY OF ELIZABETH DISTINCT GROUP LAST NIGHT.

The last rally of Epworth League Group No. 4, of the Elizabeth District, was held at Monroe Avenue M. E. church last night. Rev. W. W. Youngson, of St. James M. E. church, Elizabeh, delivered the address. R. V. Brokaw, vice president of the district and group leader, presided over the meeing. One hundred and ten Leaguers were present, representing the following places in delegations noted: Westfield, 5; Scotch Plains, 15; First church, Plainfield, 12; Monroe Avenue church, Plainfield, 40; Grace church, North Plainfield, 9; Dunellen, 4; Bound Brook, 8; Somerville, 17; Raritan, East Millstone, Centerville, Warrenville and Mt. Horeb, the other places in the group, did not send delegates.

The song service, with which the rally started, was led by Rev. George E. Mooney, pastor of Monroe, and Rev. S. K. Doolttle, of Dunellen, read the Scriptures. Miss Avis Aldrich played.

Mr. Youngon spoke on "The Life of Service."

"Nowadays," he said, in his peroration, "the man who hoards his money is regarded as a thief—an embezzler of trust funds."

Refreshments were served after the devotional service. The committee in charge comprised Walter Mc Gee, chairman; Miss Emily Haff, Mrs. J. C. Pierson, J. C. Pierson, Miss Beulah Cline, Miss Olla Cline, George Fisher, N. Mansfield Smith, Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith, Miss Edith Manning and Miss Margaret Williams. They were assisted in serving by young ladies of the Monroe branch.

A COSTLY MISTAKE.

Partially Constructed Building to be Razed—Plans Read Wrong.

Through a mistake in the reading of plans the building being erected for Mrs. Charles Graves at Liberty and South Second streets, will have to be torn down. The construction has progressed rapidly but it has been found that the foundation should have been started eighteen inches lower as the roof is to conform with a building adjoining. Various means were adopted to overcome the trouble but without result and the work of "beginning all over" has commenced with the razing process.

As the structure was about half finished, the loss to the contracting mason will be quite heavy.

Dr. Groszman to Wed June 24.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Mary Scott Emmons, of Washington, and Dr. Maximillian Groszman, of this city. The event will be celebrated at at the home of the bride on Saturday, June 24. Miss Emmons, who has been a teacher in Dr. Groszman's school on Watchung Crest, for several months, was recently operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital for appendicitis and she is expected to leave the hospital in a few days. She will then return to her home to prepare for her wedding.

Weightman Will Contest Begins.

The will of the late William Weightman, of Philadelphia, involving sixty millions of dollars, has been set aside by the Orphan's Court for consideration and the fight for its distribution of the estate is now on. The contest is of importance locally from the fact that Aubrey Weightman, one of the grandchildren who may benefit, marrid Miss Fanny Cox, of West Seventh street.

Back From Conference.

Secretary Harry Manning, Physical Directr F. A. Henckel and W. D. Murray, of the State committee, have returned from the conference of secretares and physical directors of the Y. M. C. A., of the United States and Canada at Niagara Falls. Mr. Murray was among those who read papers before the conference.

Donations to Missions.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, has sent a valuable barrel of clothing and useful articles to the Mountain Whites in Kentucky, also a barrel of useful articles to the Schofield School in South Carolina.

Selected as Judges.

Rev. Dr J. A. Chambliss, Dr. Norman H. Probasco and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore have been appointed judges for the G. H. Babcock prize in English composition to be awarded at the Plainfield High School Commencement, June 22.

New School Superintendent Here.

H. C. Krebs, superintendent-elect of the North Plainfield public schools, has moved his household goods to his new home, 23 Fairview avenue, and will take possession September 1. Mr. Krebs expects to be away during the summer.

Miss Lunger to Wed.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Jennie Lunger, daughter of William F. Lunger, of 77 Fairview avenue, and Morris Sutphen, of this city. The event will be celebrated Wednesday night, June 14, at the home of the bride.

BANKRUPTCY ORDER AGAINST C. L. HYDE

Railroad President Takes Action to Recover $50,000 From Wealthy Resident.

HYDE IS MYSTIFIED.

Son of the Late Millionaire Declares He Was Not Served With Papers by U. S. Marshal After Automobile Chase.

Friends of Charles L. Hyde, formerly of New York and Tuxedo, now of Central avenue, this city, will be surprised to learn that an order in involuntary bankruptcy has been obtained against him in the United States District Court at Trenton, N. J. He himself said last night that he too, was surprised to hear of it. He also declared that he had not been served with any order in such a case.

New York papers say that Mr. Hyde was served by an U. S. Marshal after a lively chase in an automobile in this city yestedday.

Mr. Hyde declared to a reporter for The Daily Press last night that he had been in this city all day yesterday and had not been served with any papers in bankruptcy and neither had he seen any U. S. Marshal. In addition he declared that he knew of no bankruptcy proceedings pending or about to be started against him by anyone.

He had the appearance of being very much surprised over the story.

"It's all tommy-rot," he declared.

The order in involuntary bankruptcy, which marks the climax of litigation that has been in the courts for nearly five years, was obtained by Snowden H. Marshall of the firm of Battle & Marshall of 170 Broadway, at the instance of Charles L. Spier, who is president of the Staten Island Midland Railroad and a director and officer of a number of other corporation interested in traction and land enterprises in Richmond.

Mr. Hyde, who was a member of the banking firm of Hyde & Jackson, now defunct, since 1900, has been a defendant in various actions brought by Mr. Spier, who had been interested with Mr. Hyde and William R. Garrion, son of Commodore Garrison, in a typesetting machine. Mr. Spier in that year brought suit against Hyde in the Supreme Court in Trenton, under the allegation that Hyde had failed to render a proper accounting regarding the profits realized in the enterprise, and in fact had appropriatd all the profits to his own uses, in all some $150,000, of which Mr. Spier claims one-third.

Mr. Spier won the case and a judgment was then issued against Hyde or $50,642 and $1,132 costs. A judgment was also issued against Garretson for $6,770.

In the involuntary bankruptcy petition it is alleged that Hyde, shortly after the judgment had been obtained against him, mortgaged his Tuxedo house, valued at $150,000, to his father-in-law, C.W. Godfrey, who is a member of the firm of Drexel, Morgan & Co., and that soon after the death of his wife a year ago, he sold it to Henry B. Redmond, a Wall Street banker, and moved to Plainfield, after first covering up all his assets in this State.

Mr. Hyde is considered wealthy. He is the son of the late Charles Hyde, of this city, who made $6,000,000 as a pioneer in the oil industry, and for whom Hydesville, Pa., was named. From him Mr. Hyde is said to have inherited real estate valued at $400,000. His wife, who was Miss Godfrey, daughter of a former partner of Drexel & Co., of Philadelphia, died a year ago and after hat Mr. Hyde parted with his fine home at Tuxedo and since then has been living in this city.

Work of Vandals.

As a result of miscreant acts of a gang of hoodlums that has sought to make all sorts of use of their summer cottage on the mountain during the winter and spring months, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Herring, of Park avenue, have been compelled to abandon their plans to occupy it this season. The vandals took out the windows, as well as all of the furnishings and boarded up the doors. No amount of warning seems to have had any effect on the rascals. Ever since the King's Daughters' baby camp has been located on the mountain, in the vicinity of the Herring cottage, it has suffered more or less from such depredations and those in charge have on several occasions been obliged to ask for police assistance.

Fair Commission Disbands.

The St. Louis World's Fair commission, of which James T. MacMurray, of this city, is a member, has held its final meeting. Out of the unexpended appropriation $15,000 was set apart by the last Legislature to remove from the St. Louis Fair grounds and re-erect on the Sea Girt encampment grounds the New Jersey building and its furnishings. The building has already been taken down and most of it has arrived at Sea Girt. The work of erecting has been postponed until a location has been decided upon. The selection of the site has been left to Governor Stokes.

FLOWER AND SONG FEAST

Children of Bryant School Present Pleasing Programme.

MANY TAKE PART.

Pupils Represent Various Flowers —Some Good Solos and Recitation as Features.

The children and parents gathered at the Bryant School this afternoon to join in a "Festival of Flower and Song," arranged by the principal and teachers of the school. The programme was one of the best ever presented and was pleasing to all.

Part one of the programme opened with a piano solo by James Vail, followed with a song—"The Broom, the Shovel, the Poker and the Tongs," by Edna Johnson, Rae Boice, Jessie Smith and Oswald Love. Miss Amy Winant gave a recitation entitled "The Gossips," and Miss Frances Caldwell gave a piano solo entitled "Hunting Song." A feature was a song, "A Japanese Love Song," by Lyle Smith and Leonard Lewis. There was a violin solo by Arthur Lewis, a piano solo, "Heather Rose," by Kate Elliot, a song, "The Duck and the Kangaroo," by Frank Line and Arthur Lewis, and a piano solo, "Rondo," by Hannah Bingaman.

In part two the children represented the different flowers in costume. The sight was a pretty one and called forth favorable comment from the audience. The part was called "The Coming of the Flowers," and these children took part:

"Little Miss Daisy"—Marion Gildersleeve, Adelaide Ricketts, Helen Thompson, Lillie Handte, Jane Stout, Calvin Tildon. "Daffy-Down-Dilly"—Clementine Bremble, Margaret Stout, Elinor Stover, Ethel Johnson, Elizabeth Manning, Ruth Stanley "The Dear Little Pansies"—Marielle Dunham, May Ella Hand, Sadie Moskowitz, Margaret Stout, Jennie Bremble, Marguerite Hope, Edith Little, Helen Weseman. "The Dandelions"—Edna Bohl, Virginia Gary, Edith Higgins, Vanie Faikens, Isabel Harvey, Ethel Naylor, Marion Thompson. "Here We Come With a Hop"—Edward Ford, William Harper, Donald Bromfield, Philip Moskowitz. "Sleepy Poppies"—Gertrude Blimm, Thelma Curtis, Dorothy Huntsman, Evelyn Buckley, Jennie Guttridge, Ruth Seal, Rubie Taylor "Calling the Violets"—Elizabeth Bremble, Frances Caldwell, Elizabeth Hamman, Marion Schuyler, Jennie Wheelan, Fannie Berkowitz, Katharine Bingaman, Clara Neuman, Elinor Sperry, Anna Wurgler. "Just Waking Up"—a chorus of flowers—song—a, "In Daisy Time," b, "The Rose in the Garden," Miss Marie Louise Newman.

The entertainment concluded with a "Pink Rose Drill," in which these girls took part:

Blanche Berry, Mary Tygard, Elsie Stanley, Susie Ackerman, Edna Oliver, Marguerite Walsh, Mabelle Koch, Mildred Brown, Minnie Dobbs, Sadie Dufficy, Frances Mann, Jessie Stewart, Helen Platt, Edna Johnson, Agnes Scribner and Jennie Geibler.

WEDDED THE NURSE WHO RESTORED HIM TO HEALTH

PRETTY ROMANCE OF MISS LILIAN THORN AND WALTER H. BUCHANAN.

Back of the announcements received by friends yesterday, telling of the marriage of Miss Lillian Beatrice Thorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guillermo Thorne, of East Second street, and Walter Henry Buchanan, of New York, is a pretty romance that had its beginning in the Newark hospital last fall.

Miss Thorne was attached to the nursing staff of the institution and in the course of her duties was assigned the care of a patient suffering from fever. He proved to be Mr. Buchanan and while she was strength they became fast friends. Her gentle ministrations while the fever was raging made him a devoted lover and when he left the hospital it was only to return shortly after, not as a patient but as a seeker for the hand of the pretty nurse. She became his wife on April 22 last the ceremony being performed at his home in New York by the pastor of the Fourth Methodist Episcopal church.

Mr. Buchanan is a native of Ottawa, Can., and is employed by the American Bank Note Company, holding a responsible position. Mrs. Buchanan was graduated from the training class for nurses of the New York City hospital on Blackwell's Island and was assigned to the Newark hospital some time after completing her course.

Medicine Company Manager.

Robert N. Crane, of East Second street has been appointed manager of the Mason Medicine Company for the district embracing New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York.

P. H. S. Seniors Class Day.

Class Day exercises will be held at the Plainfield High School on Tuesday night, June 20.

GEO. B. CORTELYOU'S COUSIN IN CASTS

SHE WILL TAKE LEADING ROLES IN SHAKESPEARIAN PRODUCTIONS HERE.

In securing members of the Frohman force to compose the cast of the two outdoor performances of Shakesperian plays on the Casino grounds, June 10, the management has been especially fortunate in gaining the consent of Miss Cortelyou to assume the leading roles. Aside from the fact that she is a cousin to George B. Cortelyou, Secretary of Commerce, and one of the most beautiful women on the stage, her ability as an actress won commendation from the most severe critics. She is especially proficient in emotional roles and during the time she has been under Mr. Frohman' management she has scored several distinct triumphs.

Th remainder of the cast will be of the same calibre and the performances given promise to be of the very highest order. Though Winfield S. Angleman has charge of the arrangements the company will appear under the auspice of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home.

FILED AT ELIZABETH.

The following real estate conveyances have recently been recorded in the County Clerk's office at Elizabeth:

Anna L. C. Hardwicke et al. to Ira L. LaRue East Second street, northeasterly corner D. S. Roberts, Plainfield, $1; Alexander N. Adams to Fred R. Adams, lot 6, block 4, "Map of Washington Fire Insurance Co." Plainfield, $1; B. Frank Coriell, sheriff, to Mary Galbraith, Fourth street, corner James Smith, Plainfield, $815.62; Lizzie M. Smalley to William H. Bohl, West Seventh street, 286 feet southwesterly of Monroe avenue, Plainfield, $1; William H. Bohl et ux. to Lizzie M. Smalley, southwesterly side Arlington avenue, corner Union street, Plainfield, $1; Frank A. Pope et ux. to Marcus L. Clawson, Park avenue, opposite the middle of West Fifth street, Plainfield, $1; same to same, West Fifth street, corner John King, Plainfield, $1; Robert D. Benedict to Lewis V. F. Randolph, East Second street, 583 feet of Berckman street, Plainfield, $2,600; James A. Baker et al. to Plainfield Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order, Second street, corner Martin Giles, Plainfield, N. J., $16,500; William M. Rice Institute to same, same as above, $1; Oscar Fay Adams et al. to James L. Love, southeasterly side Astor place, 269 feet southwesterly of Clinton avenue, Plainfield, $1; Alex. W. Mann et ux. to Franklin P. Coddington, southeasterly side LaGrande avenue, 350 feet of Centre street, Plainfield, $1.

Contracts.

John B. Paterson with Michael D. O'Keefe, entire work new building, easterly side Netherwood avenue, Plainfield, $2,117; Frank T. Clawson with Arthur M. Griffen, plumbing work new building, corner East Sixth street and Park avenue, Plainfield, $1,490.63; Emanuel Schloss with James C. Hansen, painting new building 324 East Front street, Plainfield, $525; same with Den. J. Galbraith, plumbing, $1,042; same with Charles H. Dutcher, heating, $704.

MISS SOPHIA M'INTYRE IS NOW MRS. JORDON

WEDDING AT ST. MARY'S RECTORY FOLLOWED BY RECEPTION.

With only relatives and a few intimate friends in attendance, Miss Sophia Francis McIntyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. McIntyre, and Leon Harris Jordan, of Durham, N. C., were married last evening in the rectory of St. Mary's church. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 by Rev. Father Bogan. Miss Maria Carty, of this city, was bridesmaid and Francis McIntye acted as best man.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine over Liberty satin and carried white roses. Her attendant wore Nile green crepe de chine and carried pink roses.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on North avenue. It was attended by 100 guests from this city, New York, Newark, Westfield, Somerville and other places. Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Jordan left on a trip to Niagara Falls. The groom has been residing at New Rochelle, N. Y., where he is employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Church Treasurer Resigns.

Alexander Gilbert, who has been treasurer of the First Baptist church for many years, has resigned and J. Herbert Case has been elected in his place. Mr. Gilbert still retains his membership in the Board of Trustees.

No Board of Trade Meeting.

There will be no meeting of the Board of Trade tonight, the postponement being made in order to get the consent of former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, to address the members next Thursday.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

June 11: "Not Ashamed of the Gospel"—Rom. i, 13-17.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

The feelings of glory and shame are known to all, but are not aroused in different people by similar experiences. What some persons admire others despise. This was very apparent at the time when Paul wrote his letter to the Christians in Rome.

He had never been in Rome, but was well acquainted with many who lived there. Some of these were Jews, and others were Greeks and Romans. His letter was written from Corinth about the year 58 A. D. The disputes among the Jews in Rome regarding one called "Chrestus" had become so violent as to cause the Emperor Claudius some eight years before this time to banish all Jews from the city. It is altogether probable that those who were at the first Pentecost present in Jerusalem from Rome carried to their home city the story of Christ and created as great a disturbance in Rome as the preaching of the apostles made in the Holy City itself. The number of the Jews in Rome must have been very large at the time of the banishment, for Pompey had carried a multitude of them there as slaves in 63 B. C., and their religious pertinacity made them worthless as servants and led to the emancipation of many, who became wealthy and influential. In fact, attendance on the synagogue became a fad with the Roman women of position who were inclined toward religion, and it is said that Poppaea, whom Nero married, professed that faith.

In view of all these circumstances Paul's declaration to the friends in Rome that he whom they knew had been educated by Gamaliel as a strict Pharisee—that he was a follower of the Christ and desirous to come to them that he might tell them more of the doctrine and impart to them the inner truth of the faith—this must have been impressive if not absolutely startling.

The gospel of Jesus Christ was the absolute reversal of all religious ideas and standards of action of the old religions, both Jewish and heathen, as held and practiced by the great mass of the followers of both.

The heathenism of that time was absolutely vile in its divorce from morality and the deification of lust and licentiousness. Judaism was rigid in its protest against this and raised the barriers of exclusion against all who did not practice its ritual of customs.

The gospel of Jesus Christ declared that neither had found the right way to God, who was in nature a Father of love and desired all men to worship Him in the spirit of love. It offered salvation to all men on the same terms of faith in Christ and proclaimed that all men were brethren and ought to love one another.

Such declarations roused all the resentment of the Jew and the derision of the Greek and Roman, who hated and despised each other intensely.

But this was the gospel which Paul knew to be the power of God unto salvation and the only possible way of life. He was ashamed of his old way of life, for he had found the truth in Christ and was not ashamed of it, but gloried in its proclamation.

In similar position are we today. Never was there greater need of clear discernment of the right way and fearless championship of the truth. Dead formality tends to replace real heart worship, and licentiousness is rampant in society, while corruption and avarice seek the control of business and civil affairs. The need of the time is the clear, loving, forceful preaching of the whole gospel message and enforcing it by pure living in all walks of life.

The need is of men who are not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ and of whom the gospel need not be ashamed.

Prayer.

Go not, my friend, into the dangerous world without prayer. You kneel down at night to pray, and drowsiness weighs down your eyelids. A hard day's work is a kind of excuse, and you shorten your prayer and resign yourself softly to repose. The morning breaks, and it may be you rise late, and so your early devotions are not done or are done with irregular haste. No watching unto prayer—wakefulness once more omitted, and now is that reparable? We solemnly believe not. There has been that done which cannot be undone. You have given up your prayer, and you will suffer for it. Temptation is before you, and you are not ready to meet it. There is a guilty feeling on the soul, and you linger at a distance from God. It is no marvel if that day in which you suffer drowsiness to interfere with prayer be a day in which you shrink from duty. Moments of prayer intruded on by sloth cannot be made up. We may get experience, but we cannot get back the old freshness and strength which were wrapped up in those moments.—Frederick W. Robertson.

Sentence Sermons.

Heaven's gates are not so highly arched as princes' palaces; they that enter there must go upon their knees.—Webster.

God has two dwellings—one in heaven and the other in the meek and thankful heart.—Izaak Walton.

Life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy.—Emerson.

Obedience is the organ of spiritual knowledge.—Robertson.

The way to preserve the peace of the church is to preserve the purity of it.—Matthew Henry.

One ought to talk only as loud as he lives—a rule which would deprive some people of the privilege of shouting.—Chapman.

HANDSOME FACE RUINED AN UNFROCKED PRIEST.

Chance Reunites Man and Woman, Former Lovers, After Nearly Forty Years.

Paris.—A strange and pathetic romance has been brought to light by the discovery of an aged and miserably clad man and woman, who were found asleep on a bench in the Boulevard Diderot.

They were clasped in each other's arms and looked ill and emaciated.

They were removed to the adjoining police station, where cordials were administered and the couple revived. It was then ascertained that the man, whose name was Jean Lanfret, 68 years old, was an unfrocked priest.

THEY WERE FOUND ASLEEP ON A BENCH.

Thirty-eight years ago he had fallen deeply in love with a woman who came to him as a penitent. She was living apart from her husband, and the priest, in his infatuation, abandoned his sacred calling for her.

A year later the woman left him, and the former priest fell upon evil times. Finally he earned his living as a waiter, but he became ill, and, after many vicissitudes, he found himself homeless and a vagabond, picking up a few shillings now and then as a market porter.

As he sat on the bench on the Boulevard Diderot the other night an old woman, who had been trying to sell a few faded flowers, came and sat next to him, and in her the priest recognized the woman who had abandoned him many years ago.

She also had suffered many reverses, which had removed the last traces of her beauty. Chance had brought her to the bench, and, both suffering from the cold and hunger, they had sunk into sleep as they sat, clasped in each other's arms, until discovered by the police.

BOY WAS A CHAMBERMAID.

Sixteen-Year-Old Youth Piqued at Rebuke Runs Away from Home Dressed as a Girl.

Gloversville, N. Y.—Charles Steele, 16 years old, son of one of the most prominent families of Gloversville, has been masquerading as a woman for three days. A severe rebuke for reckless expenditures caused him to leave home. His parents searched everywhere, and appealed for help in looking for him, but they could get no later trace of him than his appearance in a village store when he purchased a woman's sack.

His identity concealed with a wig and clothes of the latest mode, the boy-girl walked the streets unrecognized and ran accounts with several dry goods establishments for large quantities of woman's apparel, both dress goods and underwear, and with jewelers for trinkets and a gold watch. In the stores where his family was known he had things charged, saying he was Miss Steele.

Hearing that the parents of young Steele were looking for him, a saleswoman, having suspicions, had the proprietor put Steele through a rigid questioning. The "girl" objected, attempted to run away and in the shuffle a wig fell from "her" head.

For three days young Steele had been employed in the Hotel St. Charles Disguised as a woman, he engaged to work as a dining-room girl. Not proving an ideal waitress he was changed to chambermaid.

Doggie Has Teeth Cleaned.

New York.—"Doggies' dentist." That is the latest. Mrs. Conquest of Boston probably has the distinction of owning the first dog that ever underwent the experience of having his teeth scraped and polished. She brought Muggins, for that is his name, all the way here from Boston to have it done.

Muggins is a Yorkshire and weighs only two and a half pounds. Most of the two and a half is long, wiry hair. He was seven years old on his birthday the other day. Mrs. Conquest noticed that Muggins didn't eat with his usual gusto. She looked him over and found his teeth were covered with carbon and tartar to a frightful degree.

Mrs. Conquest brought Muggins to New York and gave the case to Dr. Andrew Armstrong.

Muggins was etherized, a spool was put between his jaws and his upper teeth were cleaned. He was then revived, and the next day was etherized and the lower set cleaned.

Eagle Whipped by Crows.

Philadelphia.—One hundred crows whipped a big eagle in a fight at the farm of Darlington Beebe, of Westtown, and drove it several miles from the place. The crows attacked the king of birds in a body, and at one time had it so exhausted that it alighted in a field and fell over on the ground, though it finally escaped.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 11.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Not ashamed of the gospel.—Rom. i, 13-17.

There were some things in the life of the apostle Paul of which he was probably ashamed. He was ashamed that he had stood by and guarded the clothes of those who stoned Stephen, the first martyr, to death; ashamed that he had even raised his voice against Jesus of Nazareth and ashamed that he had persecuted the followers of Christ. But after he had seen Christ and had been converted he was not ashamed of the Christ or His gospel. In Ephesus he preached it boldly in the face of those who ardently worshiped Diana of the Ephesians. In Athens he proclaimed it to Greek philosophers on Mars hill. In Corinth, the rich and aristocratic city of his day, he preached it as against the vices and immoralities of its people, and when called upon to speak for himself before the royal tribunal of Agrippa, Bernice and Festus he forgot to speak for himself and spoke for Christ—not ashamed of the gospel even before kings and queens. Many Christians today can stand before the poor and afflicted and say: "I am a Christian. Won't you become one?" But when they stand before the rich and influential, even if they get that far, their "tongues cleave to the roof of their mouths," and with apology and almost shame they speak of Christ, even if they speak at all. There may be many things in ourselves of which we may be ashamed, but no Christian need ever be ashamed of the gospel or apologize to any one for the fact that he is a Christian.

Paul was not ashamed of the gospel for four good reasons. (1) It is the power of God unto salvation, and therefore it actually saves men. (2) It is offered to men who need to be saved, because they have sinned. (3) It is offered upon the condition of faith—"to every one that believeth." (4) It is offered to all men. What reasons could be more convincing? All men have sinned and need to be saved. In the gospel God freely offers salvation to all men upon the simple condition of acceptance of it, and, moreover, this gospel actually saves. Why should any one be ashamed of such a gospel? If any one had an effectual cure for all the physical ills of mankind and could offer it to men for nothing, would they be ashamed to proclaim such a fact to the world? They would be glad to do it, and the world would gladly receive their message, and men will gladly receive the gospel, the message of spiritual and eternal salvation, if as Christians we show by our lives that we have been saved, and with manly boldness instead of stammering tongue, apologetic and cringing mien, we present the gospel to them. Paul was willing to preach the gospel in Rome, the great imperial city, because he was not ashamed of the gospel. He did preach it in Rome, and Rome listened and became the chief center of Christian activity, from which the gospel spread throughout the world.

Yet some people are ashamed of the gospel. Some are ashamed to openly acknowledge Christ as their Saviour by uniting with His church. Some after publicly confessing Him are weak and timid in presenting Him to others and in letting others know that they are Christians. In proclaiming our patriotism and even in standing for denominationalism we are not hesitating, but bold and without thought of shame. We are proud to say, "I am an American," or "I am a Methodist," "I am a Baptist," "I am a Presbyterian," but for some reason there is a hesitancy in boldly proclaiming our allegiance to Christ and our faith in the gospel of Christ. But this should not be. In no spirit of personal boasting, but in the truest spirit of personal humility, we should loyally stand by Christ and the gospel.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xl, 9, 10; cvii, 1-8; cxvi, 17-19; cxxxvii, 1-6; Isa. lii, 7; Matt. xxvi, 69-72; Mark viii, 38; John ix, 19-27; Rom. v, 1-5; ix, 33; I Tim. iv, 1-8; I Pet. iv, 16.

An Endeavor Musician.

It may not be generally known outside of Washington that the recent inauguration ceremonies closed with a great concert in the pension building, attended by 12,000 people. The chorus consisted of 500 voices trained and led by Percy S. Foster. The success of this concert and Mr. Foster's able handling of much larger choruses have awakened a desire in Washington for a permanent festival chorus under Mr. Foster's management. The Times, Post and other papers strongly advocate such an enterprise. All Endeavorers will rejoice in this recognition of the splendid musical director of so many Endeavor conventions.

At Home and Elsewhere.

In Bohemia and Moravia are five Christian Endeavor societies, called Krestanska Snaha.

The Richmond Hill (N. Y.) Baptist Endeavorers have made the splendid increase of more than 70 per cent since last June. They have also formed a Junior society, which is carried on by a Junior committee from the older society.

The inspiring motto of the European Christian Endeavor convention to be held at Berlin July 8-13 is, "Full Obedience to the King of Kings."

Joyful News is a Tamil monthly published at Pasumalai, India. It devotes half its space to Christian Endeavor and thus abundantly justifies its name.

A vigorous sermon to Christian Endeavorers was recently preached by Rev. John Herron of the Central Presbyterian church, Akron, O. He used the suggestive text, "A man was famous according as he had lifted up axes upon the thick trees" (Ps. lxxiv, 5).

JUSTICE METED OUT TO A NOISY TENANT

JUSTICE THREATENS LANDLORDS IN DISPOSING OF DISORDERLY CASE.

As a result of the raid on Mrs. Annie Madden's house in Dunellen, Decoration Day, Peter Givamont, of Dunellen, and Edward Mercier and George Totten, of this city, were arranged before Justice VonMinden in Dunellen yesterday afternoon. A fight between Mercier and Totten, in which the latter was severely pummeled, caused the raid. Several women were in the house, all more or less under the influence of rum, according to the officers, when the raid was made, but only the men were taken into custody Mr. Madden was ordered to appear as a witness.

Mercier was fined $15 and costs. Givamont was let off with a lecture, Totten was found guilty, but sentence was suspended after the judge had characterized his conduct in strong terms.

The Madden house has been a source of scanda to the neighborhood for some time, it is said, and Justice Vnn Minden scored the woman roundly. He told her that another complaint would lead to her commitment to jail, and advised her to move from the borough.

"It is the only way in which you can be certain to save yourself from jail," said the court. "At the slightest hint of trouble from your place we would place a constable in front of the house and keep him there twenty-four hours a day, and at the first opportunity you would be taken in. And if you come here again you will go to New Brunswick."

The justice gave notice to all landlords in the borough that the law holds the landlord equally guilty with the disorderly tenant, and he would enforce that phase of the law in every future case.

After the trial the court was given to understand by a brother of the Madden woman' s landlord that she would be compelled to move as soon as it was possible to oust her

NO BAGGAGE ROOM FOR EAST BOUND STATION

JERSEY CENTRAL NOT TO MAKE NEEDED IMPROVEMENT FOR SOME TIME.

Owing to the fact that bids recently submitted were considered too high, the Jersey Central Railroad has decided not to build a baggage room at the East bound station on North avenue this year. The idea was to make an addition at the east end of the station. This addition was to be in keeping architectually with the handsome structure that the company built in 1901.

A narrow track of ground to the south of the railroad property and fronting on Watchung avenue was purchased by the road some time ago and is now being filled in. It is intending to build it up so that it will be gradually sloped from the heighth of the land just south of the platform at that point and there was some talk of building a baggage room there although the officials have not confirmed that report.

MATINEE RACES, JUNE 17 AND BIG MEET JULY 4

SCHEDULES ARRANGED BY THE PLAINFIELD DRIVIG ASSOCIATION.

Members of the Plainfield Driving Association held a meeting at the Casino, last night, at which arrangements were perfected for a free matinee race meet at the Driving Park on Saturday, June 17. The card will consist of four races for prizes, a blue ribbon for the first, red ribbon, second and yellow ribbon, third. The first race will be a free for all, the second a 2:25 trot or pace, the third a 2:30 trot and the fourth a 2:35 pace. There will be no entrance fee charged.

The association has also prepared for its annual Fourth of July race meet and the members hope to make it one of the most successful in years. Three events are on the programme and there will be three purses of $200 each. The race will be a 2:17 trot and 2:20 pace, a 2:22 trot and 2:25 pace and a 2:30 trot. Prominent horsemen throughout this section have announced their intention of making entries and nearly all the best known local horses will be seen on the track.

Mr. Casey's Latest Composition.

James W. Casey, the well known musical composer who is at present visiting in Plainfield, has recently had issued by his publishers, the Essex Music Co., of New York, a new song that gives promise of exceeding in popularity his world-famous, "Sing Me a Song of the South." It is entitled "Sing Me the Songs of Dixie Land" and is being featured in New York by the Knickerbocker Quintette and the Trocadero Quartette and in Philadelphia by Robert Emmett Lennon, of the Royal Imperial Band.

$4,000 DAMAGE TO BARN

W. B. Wadsworth's Structure Gives Fireman Hard Fight.

CONTENTS SAVED.

Blaze Probably Due to Spontaneous Combustion or Electric Wires —Loss Covered by Insurance.

Caused either by effective electric light wiring or spontaneous combustion, in all probability the latter, fire broke out in the handsome brick barn on the William B. Wadsworth place on West Eighth street, at 6:30 this morning, resulting in damage estimated at $4,000. The blaze was one of the most stubborn the local firemen have had in many months and they had a three-hour fight before getting it out. Two tons of hay were stored on the second floor and this was either burned or rendered useless, but the remainder of the contents were uninjured.

The blaze was discovered almost simultaneously by members of the family and a passerby, the latter turning in an alarm from box 36. It was then in an upper part and Mr. Wadsworth and his son were able to get out an automobile and the horses and carriages. The interior of the structure is finished off with yellow pine and th smoke from this together with the burning hay made it almost impossible for the firemen to get at the seat of the trouble.

Four lines of hose were laid in and the pipemen were forced to crawl along the floor by degrees frequently having to abandon the fight and return to the outer air. Captain Daley, of No. 1 company, was all but overcome several times and other men were made sick. Despite these drawbacks the flames were confined to the second floor and the roof. The latter will have to be rebuilt and much of the interior work will have to be replaced.

The barn was one of the handsomest in the city and cost originally about $7,000. The furnishings were of the very best and though defective insulation has been mentioned as the origin of the blaze it seems hardly possible as all of the wires are in iron conduits. The coachman left the place at 5 o'clock and at that timeeverything appeared to be all right. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

MISS BESSIE TAPPEN BRIDE OF F. C. BOICE

WEDDING IN NEW MARKET CHURCH WITNESSED BY MANY FRIENDS.

Miss Bessie Tappen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Tappen, of Randolphville, and Fred Calvin Boice, of the same place, were married last night, at the home of the bride. Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the New Market Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The wedding was largely attended.

The decorations were elaborate and unusually striking. The bay window in the parlor was bowered with living ferns, the front curtained by swaying foliage. The clergyman stood back of this curtain while performing the ceremony

The six bridesmaids, gowned in girlish creations of white organdie, came in before the bride and groom carrying ropes of evergreens and daisies that swung in festoons between them. Down the novel aisle thus created Mr. Boice and his bride and their attendants marched to their places before the clergyman. The maids grouped about them in a circle during the ceremony, enclosing the four in the rope of green and white.

The maid of honor was Miss May Tappen, sister of the bride, and the best man was Dr. Norman H. Probasco, of Plainfield. The bridesmaids were Miss Helen Boice, sister of the groom; Miss Wenzel, of Plainfield; Miss Margaret Boice of Metuchen; Miss Helen Hall, of Bound Brook; Miss Regur, of Whitehouse, and Miss Grace Tappen, of Metuchen. The ushers were Fred Dayton, of New Market; Harry Boice, of Metuchen; Charles Miles, of Plainfield; George Morris and Harry Richard Hoagland, of New York.

The wedding music was played by Miss Estella Sofield, and the programme included the "Lohengrin" march and Mendlessohn's "Song Without Words"

The bride wore white lace, and a veil.

Supper followed the ceremony. Before it ended the bride and groom left on their honeymoon trip, to New York State. On their return they will reside at Mr. Boice's Meadowbrook Farm, Randolphville. Mr. Boice is the son of the late Calvin Boice, who was one of the best known residents of Piscataway.

The bride received a large number of handsome gifts, including silver, china, glass, rugs and furniture.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Henry, of Fanwood, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary C., to John C. Titus, of Westfield. The wedding will take place on Monday, June 17.

FROHMAN CAST FOR OUTDOOR PERFORMANCES OF SHAKESPERIAN PLAYS ON CASINO GROUNDS

"AS YOU LIKE IT" AND "THE MERCHANT OF VENICE" TO BE GIVEN FOR LOCAL CHARITY ON SATURDAY, JUNE 10.

Arrangements have been completed by Winfield S. Angleman for two outdoor performances of Shakespearian plays on the Casino grounds on Saturday, June 10. Leading members of Frohman's companies will compose the casts and the productions will be given on the Casino grounds in West Seventh street.

It is planned to make the performances the finest that have ever been given in this city. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of either the Children's Home or the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, arrangements now being made for either one or the other to take charge of the enterprise.

Charles MacGeachey, a prominent representative of Frohman, has gotten together an all star cast. Herbert Sidney, who played Shylock to Ada Rehan's Portio, in the "Merchant of Venice," will be one of the leading actors to take part in the productions.

For the matinee performance, "As You Like It," will be put on and for the night performance "The Merchant of Venice" will be given. In case of rain the Casino will be used both afternoon and night.

All the scenery, stage effects and paraphernalia to be used will be brought direct from the Frohman houses in New York. The attraction is counted upon to draw big audiences not only from Plainfield but from the surrounding country.

TRIP IN AN AUTOMOBILE

A Little Tour to Newburgh Covers Seventy-Eight Miles.

THE ROAD IS GOOD

How the Journey Can be Extended for a Day or Two—What is to be Seen.

Automobilists in Plainfield, who have a hobby of taking extended trips in their machines, will find a journey to Newburgh a particularly delightful one. The Auto Bulletin, which has just made its initial appearance at Newark, gives the route and it is herewith reproduced:

"The early part of this month we started from Planfield, going by the way of Scotch Plains, Springfield, South Orange, Montclair, Paterson, Ridgewood, Suffern, Tuxedo, Turners, Highland Mills, Vails Gate, and Newburgh. Distances, Plainfield to Springfield 9 miles, to Paterson 28 miles, to Suffern 44 miles, to Tuxedo 52 miles, to Highland Mills 65 miles, to Newburgh 78 miles.

"The road the entire distance is especially adapted for automobiles. We found it in splendid condition, and good time can be made, except where the speed limit prescribes a slow pace. For three miles before reaching Suffern the road is especially rough, rutty, and stony, and is the poorest stretch of road between Plainfield and Newburgh.

"Should the automobilist wish to extend his trip for day or two no more delightful route can be selected than up through the Berkshire Hills. Crossing the river at Newburgh take the road to Poughkeepsie by way of Woppingers Falls. A part of this distance is over the new State road, which is one of the finest in this section of the State. Distance from Newburgh to Poughkeepsie 16 miles. From Poughkeepsie take the road to Washington Hollow, thence to Amenia, Sharon,, Egremont, Great Barrington; from that point going by way of Housatonic Valley over good roads to Pittsfield, Mass.

"From Newburgh to Poughkeepsie 16 miles, to Washington Hollow 27 miles, to Armenia 39 miles, to Sharon, 44 miles, to Egremont 55 miles, to Great Barrington 74 miles, to Pittsfield 93 miles. The entire distance, from Newburgh to Pittsfield, Mass., is over roads that are above the average for county thoroughfares, and with only a few exceptions for short distances an even steady speed can be maintained, except where hills are encountered. In that section of the route near Armenia and Sharon a number of steep hills will be encountered, especially the hill known as "Armenia" hill, which is a long, winding, and rocky road. Beyond this section the country road lies through a delightful farm district with scenery that is well worth the extended trip.

"In Newburgh, Mason's garage on Broadway affords ample facilities for supplies, repairs or other accommodations. In Pittsfield, Mass., the Central Automobile Station is probably one of the most commodious garages in Massachusetts, and all necessary repairs for supplies can be secured at moderate cost, and the tourist will be guaranteed satisfactory and courteous attention.

"As Berkshire County is famous for its delightful scenery and attractive rides, the tourist will find Pittsfield and its vicinity a most delightful place to spend a few days in touring. Most of the roads are in good condition and favorable for automobiles; although quite a number of hills will be encountered in this section of Massachusetts."

Clay Bird Tourney.

Neaf Apgar, of this city, was among the contestants at the first annual clay target tournament of the North Branch Gun Club on the grounds at North Branch Thursday afternoon with a large crowd of sportsmen present from all parts of the country. Twelve events were shot off, and excellent scores were made. Mahlon H. Rupell, of the North Branch Club, won the bulk of the money.

SEWER PROJECT DROPPED

Mayor Smalley Says Borough Should "Bide A Wee."

FAVORS TRUNK OUTLET.

Declares Borough Will Gain By Waiting and Watching the City Experiment With Its System.

Through pointed remarks made by Mayor Smalley at last night's Common Council meeting, the agitation to begin preliminary work for a sewer system in the borough, it is believed, will in all probability remain dormant for a year at least. Chairman Arnold, who has been especially active in the matter and who has been assisting in the postal card canvass to learn the sentiment of property owners, asked that something be done at once but the remaider of the councilmen did not back him up after Mayor Smalley spoke.

Mr. Arnold stated that it is now costing the borough residents twice as much for cesspools as it would for a sewer system and that though the question of making the improvement nad been talked of for two years nothing had been done. The mayor expressed a willingess to see North Plainfield up-to-date in this respect but he declared that it would be far better if nothing was done for another year in order to more fully consider the various method of disposal.

"The Plainfield system is all right," he said, "but still it is not a success because it is too near town. We would build an independent plant of this nature at a cost of $75,000, but I think it would be far better if some plan could be devised whereby Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen and could unite in building a pipe line to tide water."

The Plainfield septic tanks seem to be working satisfactorily, in fact I understand the Council is to build additional beds at a cost of $15,000, still it wont hurt us to hold off for a while and let them experiment further. Personally ,I want to wait another year, though I believe the lack of a system is retarding the borough in its growth, but if the Council will motion to have a committee appointed to arrange for a public meeting, I shall assist so far as possible."

No one cared to make the motion and the matter was allowed to drop without further discussion.

SCHOOL CHANGES.

Board of Education Not to Continue Lease on Epworth House.

As previously announced, the Board of Education at the close of this school year, will give up the lease of the Epworth House on Monroe avenue, which is being used as a kindergarten, and the children who have been going to school there will be put in the Irving School, while some of the older pupils will be sent to the Whittier School.

It is intended to hold half sessions for the younger children at the Irving School, it being impossible to give them proper time and attention considering the crowded conditions. It was hoped that the new High School would bring the much-needed extra room in the over-crowded quarters in the other schools, but it appears that there will be no change in conditions in the West End school.

Raritan Club Horse Show.

Secretary Hope, of the Raritan Driving Association, has announced the programme for the horse show to be held at the Highland Park track on Saturday, June 17. There are fourteen events and entries will close on June 12. There will also be a hurdle race.

Assemblyman Coyne Ill.

Assemblyman Coyne is confined at his home, in Elizabeth, with illness, and it is stated he is in quite a serious condition. He was stricken on Memorial Day with difficulty in his throat, the nature of which cannot be determined by his physician until this evening.

CRUELTY TO NEWBURGH

Plainfield Adds a 6-4 Game to its Season's Clean Slate.

BECK AN ARTIST.

Not Until the Fifth Did the "All-Nationals" Visit the Home Plate—Conroy Contributes a Three Bagger—Ancient History.

Some of Bill Beck's nerve went on exhibition Saturday afternoon. Bill pulled himself out of some tight places with a comparatively whole skin. The nine lithe and graceful gentlemen known as the Newburghs, alias All-Nationals, didn't take as much comfort out of the exhibition as the breathless multitude. It kept them two runs from glory, 6 to 4.

As our noble band was four runs to the good and Newburgh didn't have anything in that direction when the fifth round opened, Bill wasn't prepared for any sassiness from the honored guests. Conroy took a mean advantage of Bill's lull and pasted the toy for a three-sack trip. Bill's chagrin can be imagined. He got on his job immediately and Gorman, colliding with the Beck coolness, fanned dismally. Cheers from the populace, and hope rampant. Hope got a belt that nearly laid it flat when Rube Oldring went after Steinman's turf-ripper. Rube got so much mixed with the ball that Conroy was swinging on the front gate and Steinman rested on a cushion before he untangled himself. Bill was pained at Rube, but he didn't reproach him. He just took the burden all on himself and fanned the next two men. Bill is O. K.

Our heroes made six grievous slips, and the other parties to the competition went one better. Bill made three himself, and helped considerable in putting Newburghers where they could do damage to our eclat.

After Lamar made an easy out in the third, Bill slashed a screamer into left for one sack. Cosgrave shoved one at Conroy, and Con flung it away without any regard to the location of first base. Cossy went on after Driscoll, who was sprinting for Beck, and both of them came in on Wolf's untamed chuck to third in an effort to choke Dave at the bag. Oldring and Connolly died easy.

Next round, Pete Cregan did the airy and graceful, but Kiernan dented center for a sack, stole second and went on to third by virtue of Wolf's high fling to second. Leonard fouled out. Driscoll plumped one to the good in right, and Kiernan reported at headquarters. Klett didn't grab Dave's contribution with proper emphasis and Dave travelled to third before the globule was retrieved. While Barberick was gracefully twisting his arm about for a fancy fling Dave snooped up three-fourths of the way toward home and came down under full steam before the leather thing was turned loose. Wolf had to dig the ball out of the dirt and never even tried to head Dave off. Popular hysteria compelled Dave to pull his forelock. Pete Lamar expired without agony, Conroy to Donahue.

Next try the other bunch got busy, as hereinbefore touched upon. In our half of the furious struggle Beck succumbed, third to first; Cosgrave got a pass, stole second, likewise third; Oldring did nothing but wave his hat, but Connolly singled to right, and Cossy loped in. Cregan halted festivities with a tender little bump to Barberick.

In the seventh our heroes faced a blow-up, but escaped by virtue of Bill's sang froid and some amendatory hustling. Conroy, first up, popped to Mike Leonard. Then Bill got jarred cruel. Gorman banged into right field for a sack, and Steinman followed with a bump into center, sending Gorman to second. Bill became over-zealous and monkeyed with a ball he had no business to touch, and McGrath landed safe on his mishandle. Bases full and one out; outlook dull and gloomy. Things brightened when Bill whiffed Hoag, but they slumped again on Barberick's rap into the diamond. Bill thought he could handle that and made the same mistake as before. Gorman came in and the sacks still groaned beneath a full complement of unworthy Newburghers. Here's where Bill's frigid foxiness shows. Keeping his eye fixed firmly on all the bases at once he made energetic and bewildering motions with his salary arm at all of them. Steinman succumbed to the hypnotic effect of the agitated arm and fell into a trance two feet off third. What happened to him was plenty, and removed the haunting fear of the scorer from the mind of the breathless populace.

Newburgh scored twice in the next inning, but it wasn't such a threatening display. Cox, next in to take Klett's place in the sixth, singled to left. Wolf bunted out a sacrifice. Donahue lifted one to Cosgrave that wasn't squeezed properly and went to second, Cox taking third. Conroy sent one to Beck, who whipped it back to the plate in time, but Pete Lamar couldn't hang on and Cox scored. Gorman smashed out a two-bagger, and Donahue tallied, but Steinman and McGrath popped up easy ones.

Oldring scored the sixth run for Plainfield in the eighth, on Donahue's error, Connolly's sacrifice and another error by Donahue. Cregan was nailed on Kiernan's infield tap, and Leonard made the third out with a bounder to short. The visitors retired tamely for good in the ninth one-two-three.

Book talk:

| PLAINFIELD. | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cosgrave, cf. | 2 | 0 | 5 | 0 | 1 |
| Oldring, 2b. | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 1 |
| Connolly, rf. | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf. | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Kiernan, ss. | 1 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b. | 0 | 1 | 3 | 2 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b. | 1 | 1 | 7 | 1 | 0 |
| Lamar, c. | 0 | 0 | 7 | 0 | 1 |
| Beck, p. | 1 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 3 |
| Totals | 6 | 5 | 27 | 8 | 6 |

| NEWBURGH. | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Klett, rf. | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 |
| Cox, rf. | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Wolf, c. | 0 | 1 | 5 | 2 | 2 |
| Donahue, 1b. | 1 | 1 | 14 | 0 | 3 |
| Cohroy, 2b. | 1 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 1 |
| Gorman, lf. | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Steinman, cf. | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| McGrath, ss. | 0 | 0 | 3 | 2 | 0 |
| Hoag, 3b. | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| Barberick, p. | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| Totals | 4 | 7 | 24 | 13 | 7 |

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Plainfield | 0 | 0 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 | x | —6 |
| Newburgh | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | —4 |

Two-base hit—Gorman. Three-base hit—Conroy. First base on balls—Off Barberick, 2. Struck out —By Beck, 7; by Barberick, 4. Left on bases—Plainfield, 3; Newburgh, 6. Double plays—Barberick to Wolf to Donahue. First base on errors—Plainfield, 4; Newburgh, 2. Umpire —Merrity. Time of game—One hour and thirty minutes. Attendance—900.

NEW JERSEY REVIVAL.

State on Threshold of Religious Wave.

That New Jersey is on the threshold of a great religious revival to be far reaching in its scope, a revival which will embrace the entire State and will be carried out in systematic and aggresive form under the Presbyterian General Assembly, assisted by the evangelistic committee of the New Jersey Synod, seems to be assured. The Synod's evangelistic committee will hold a special meeting in the Presbyterian building, 156 Fifth avenue, New York, Monday afternoon, June 12, for the purpose o fbeginning plans for the proposed campaign, and all Presbyterian ministers and elders in Jersey will be invited to attend.

According to present arrangements, the revival will be started about the middle of November and last a month or six weeks It is intended to hold meetings simultaneously in the large cities, conducted by the general assembly's special committee ,and from the cities to inaugurate metings in the neighboring towns, these to be in charge of the local pastors. It will not be a denomination movement, although it will be conducted under the direct ministration of the general assembly. As soon as the evangelists, who, it is expected, will number forty, arrive in any ciy, there will be immediately called a conference of all the Protestant pastors in the place to confer with them for united action. While the large Presbyterian churches will naturally be thrown open for the gatherings, it is expected that churches of other denominations will be asked to hold services, too.

H. L. M'GEE'S POSITION.

Secretary of Half Million Dollar Concern in New York.

The Standard Concrete-Steel Company, organized under the laws of the State of New York, with a capital of five hundred thousand dollars, has taken over the Guy B. Waite Company, of New York, well known throughout this part of the country as fireproofing engineers, and Harry L. McGee, of North Plainfield, has ben chosen secretary of the new concern.

The new company has opened offices at 100 Broadway, in which they will carry on the general business and will use the factory and yard formerly used by the Guy B. Waite Company at Thirty-first and Thirty-second streets, New York.

OPEN HOUSE JULY 3.

Funds on Hand to Begin Fresh Air Home Season.

The Netherwood Freh Air Home will be opened on July 3. Charles W. McCutchen ,F. H. Andrews and W. S. Angleman have been elected members of the committee to fill three vacancies on the executive committee.

David M. Runyon, treasurer, reported a balance on hand sufficient to open the Home. The first public meeting will be held in the Cresecnt Avenue church on Sunday night, July 9.

Somerville Wants a Nine.

The management of the proposed new baseball team for Somerville is hustling to get a team ready for the first game in about three weeks. Several fine players have been signed and two or three local amateurs will be given a tryout. No game has been scheduled, but the manager expects to have no trouble in securing a strong attraction from New York. The old West End grounds, Altamont field, will be enclosed with a high board fence and the diamond put in first-class condition.

PITY THE CENSUS MAN

The Trying Times He has in Getting Facts and Figures.

WEST END EPISODES.

A Talkative Father, a Discreet Blonde and a Worthy Housewife Make Him Earn His Money.

"Is that the man to take the census?" shouted the father of the family down the stairs, as his wife opened the door. "Well, don't tell him anything till I get down."

The young man, who with a dozen others started in last week to get Plainfield's share of New Jersey's decennial sensus, sat down on the hall tree. It was in a West End house and he hardly expected what followed.

"Now, young fellow," said the father. "I suppose you're going to put a lot of impertinent questions. I want to say right here that I never speak about my life or antecedents. I'll be glad to give you the bare facts, but remember that I'm a busy man—

"Where was I born? I was born in England, on the shore of the North Sea. I was the last of fourteen children—all most intelligent children. In school when they were five years old; writing Latin pentameter at ten. I went to Rugby, and lived in th same room that Tom Brown had"—

"Wait a minute," interrupted the census taker; "you're going too fast. What did you say your occupation was?"

"Occupation? I'm a manufacturer of hats. Before that I used to make pantaloons, but the market was bad. And before that I ran a seaside hotel for a while—oh, you don't care to go back so far? Oh very well. All this is obnoxious to me anyway. I hate to go into these personal details."

The young man entered the names and ages of the hat manufacturer's family and shut his long, cream-colored portfolio with relief.

At the next place on his schedule his ring at the doorbell was answered by a blond woman who appeared to be on the shady side of thirty.

"How old are you?" he asked. "How old do you think? she answered. "My goodness, but that has a familiar ring. I guess you're forty-five." "Oh, heavens, not quite yet. Put me down for twenty-three."

About half an hour later the enumerator wandered around to the back of a dwelling on West Third streetand found a house-wife in the midst of a family washing.

"It's the cinsus ye want, hev?" exclaimed the worthy woman, extracther hands from the soapsuds. "Well, it's five fine boys in Ireland that I'm after havin'. Ye kin put them down and me ould man who was killed on the railrod seven years agone."

Thus the young man went on with the other enumerators who are covering the four wards of the city, and the questions and answers given in different places would be enough to supply the joke artists for years to come. At some places, the doors are only opened just a crack until the caller fully explains his mission, but on the whole, the enumerators are having no great trouble and the work is progressing nicely. The tabulated results are to be sent to Trenton by June 15, and from present indications Plainfield's sheets will be ready in plenty of time

ROWDY BALL AT CRANFORD.

Decision Angers Pitcher Griffin and He Assaults the Umpire.

The baseball game between the Cranfords and Pearsall A. C. of Jersey City, at Cranford, Saturday afternoon, ended in a row through Pitcher Griffin, of the visitors, assaulting Umpire Lenahahn because he did not like a dicision. Members of both teams jumped into the tussle and a "free-for-all' was in swing when Policeman Huffey hauled the belligerent pitcher from the field. He was taken before Justice Mendell and fined $3 and costs.

Griffin is well known in Plainfield, having pitched for the Alls team last season. The game stood 8 to 6 in favor of Cranford and the management refused the visitors the guarantee.

Strip Added to Church Land.

Calvary Baptist church has purchased four feet of land from the Reform Hall Association, on the southeast side of the church, running from the front to the rear of the lot. It will be used to make an alley way to the rear of the church.

Gets His "Little Black Man."

S. S. Swackhamer has a little black man of his own now. Some friend in New York mailed him a tiny leaden image, in the form of the famous psychic-epileptic myth, yesterday. Somebody has evidently manufactured them for sale by street fakirs.

Commission Case Appealed.

The contract case between John Schorb, Jr., against J. J. Heideloff, for commissions on the sale of the latter's hardware store, which was decided in Justice Hand's court for the plaintiff last week, has been appealed. William Newcorn is Heideloff's counsel.

FOR FURTHER WIDENING

Borough Council Takes up Somerset Street Improvement

OWNERS ARE READY.

Ordinance to Close Unused Portions of Summit and Fairview Avenues Passes on Third Reading.

The first active step toward the further widening of Somerset street, from Jackson avenue on, was taken by the borough Council at its meeting, last night. A resolution was introduced by Councilman VanWinkle in which it was stated the matter would be considered provided a petition, signed by the freeholders, be presented to that effect. The property owners are ready for the improvement to begin and the necessary petition will be offered at a meeting to be held in the near future.

The ordinance to close the unused portions of Fairview and Summit avenues beyond Westervelt avenue, was passed on its third reading and now goes into effect. The vote on adoption was unanimous, while none of the property owners affected offered objection.

In the way of routine business, the Board of Education asked that officers be assigned to have special charge of truancy matters and requests that crosswalks be laid at Watchung and Mountain avenues. Several manufacturing concerns submitted bids for the construction of the proposed combination chemical and hose wagon for thefire department, Mr. Krewson asked that $1,000 be borrowed for general purposes and Mr. Lee offered a resolution that a committee be appointed to prepare resolutions on the death of the late John Valiant, a former councilman.

Mayor Smalley reported that he had appointed August Wolf a special marshal and Walter Emmons a call man in Hose Company, No. 2, both being confirmed. The mayor also said that he had verbally offered the Board of Health the use of the rooms over the police station for meetings and that there had been a verbal acceptance. On motion of Mr. Arnold, it was voted to buy 150 feet of twelve inch pipe for use in connectng a catch basin on Stone street and Mr. Arnold was given instructions to give residents of that thoroughfare second notices that they must put down flag walks within thirty days or else have it done by the borough.

Mr. VanArsdale, for the police committee, reported that during the month there had been twenty-three arrests and a total of $53 in fines collcted.

PARK CLUB PROGRAMME FOR INDEPENDENCE DAY

FIREWORKS AND A DANCE TO BE THE ATTRACTIONS.

In accordance with the custom of previous years the members of the Park Club are preparing for a glorious celebration of Independense Day. The affair will be under the direction of the entertainment committee. It is proposed to give a fine display of fireworks, to be followed by dancing in the clubhouse. Owing to the limited space avilable, the committee has decided that it is necessary to restrict the attendance to the members, their families, associate and junior members, their out-of-town guests, all of whom will be expected without further invitation.

The plans as now arranged are to have the fireworks begin about 8 o'clock and last one hour. During the next hour there will be general sociabilities and the dancing will begin at 10 o'clock and last until the small hours of the morning. There will be music during the entire evening. The patronesses for the affair include Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. George D. Hallock, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Augustus W. Kleinecke, Mrs .Townsend Rushmore and Miss Munger.

It is also expected that there will be tennis play on the club courts during the day and a tournament will undoubtedly be arranged by those interested in the game.

Sunday-school Party.

The primary department, including Mrs. Condict's class and the kindergarten and cradle roll, of the Crescent Avenue Prebyterian church Sunday-school, will attend the annual party to be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Murray, on Saturday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. If the weather is unfavorable the affair will be held in the church parlors at the same hour.

Minerva Temple's Plans.

The Pythian Ladies, of Minerva Temple, have called regular meetings off until the Knights of Pythias return to their quarters in Washington Hall, after improvements are made. In the meantime the members will hold social meetings at their homes.

WORK OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

Monday Afternoon Club Represented at State Federation.

A CHARTER MEMBER.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall's Part in the Organization and Growth of the Women's Societies.

The semi-annual session of the State Federation of Women's Clubs was held at Passaic yesterday and among the organizations presented was the Monday Afternoon Club, of this city. The delegates from here were Mrs. F. O. Herring, president of the local club, and Mrs. Josiah Brown and Mrs. F. D. Warren. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall and Miss Harriet French, also of this city, attended the meeting. All are actively interested in the Monday Afternoon Club and women's club work generally.

The meeting of the Council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs is to be held in Atlantic City on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. It recalls the fact that the Monday Afternoon Club, of this city, was one of the charter members of this association.

In 1889, Sorosis called a convention to meet in New York to consider the question of a union of the Women's Clubs of the United States. The result was the formation of the General Federation with Mrs. Charlotte Emerson Brown, of New Jersey, as president Mrs. Charlotte Emerson Brown was appointed chairman of correspondence to help on the work in the various States.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, was appointed chairman of correspondence for New Jersey, and held the office for six years. Durng Mrs. Hall's term of office she served as a member of National committees. She was charman of the department of literature, and presided over its sessions, at the Biennial held at Louisville, Kentucky, in 1896.

Mrs. Hall was one of the promoters of the State Federation of New Jersey, which received a strong impetus toward formation, at a luncheon given by the Monday Afternoon Club, of Plainfield, during Mrs. Hall's presidency, in 1892. While the Monday Afternoon Club is no longer directly connected with the General Federation, it is affiliated with it, through the State Federation of New Jersey. Mrs. Hall was vice president of the State Federation for two years, and director and chairman of the department of education for three years.

PLAINFIELDER'S SUCCESS BEFORE THE FOOTLIGHTS

WALTER SHERWIN NOW WELL UP IN THE THEATRICAL WORLD.

Walter Sherwin, of East Second street, who has been playing the part of "Valentine" in Porter J. White's "Faust" company, closed in Ashtabula, O., last week, and has returned to Plainfield for his summer vacation. During the past winter he presented the character over 200 times in the western and southern states. Though but a very young man, in fact one of the youngest who was ever trusted with the role of "Valentine" in so large a production as that carried by White, the press of the country has been unanimous in its approval of his interpretation. The New York Mirror, a representative theatrical paper, recently devoted a lengthy account to his work, embellishing it with his photograph in costume.

Sherwin was always fond of the theatre and his early dramatic "education" was secured at Music Hall. He studied dramatics in a New York school and secured his first engagement with the Burrel Comedy Company, a repertoire organization that ferequently visited this city.

He remained with it two seasons and since then has been with several organizations. He played "Surly Jim" in the well known melodrama "Saved from the Sea" and in the season of 1903-'04 gained prominence in the theatrical world by undertaking a dual part in the scenic melodrama, "Over Niagara Falls," which had a long run in New York city. He made a quick change each night from an excitable Frenchman to a stolid, stoical Indian and did it so cleverly that few in his audiences knew it was the same actor.

Goethe's immortal work had appealed to him from his younger days and when an engagement was offered him in the White company he quickly accepted. He was already familar with the part of "Valentine" and from the first night he acted it his interpretation was acceptable. He improved rapidly and when the season ended last week he was asked to report for rehearsals again next August. He has other plans in view, however, and the coming year may see him with some other organization as several metropolitan managers have been seeking his services.

Fred H. Firstbrook, of Grant avenue, is out after two week's confinement at home by illness.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1905. NO. 24.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cemet the Union, as Wels in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

SECESSION DECLARATION

South Plainfield Citizens' Ways and Means Committee Report.

FIGURES AND REASONS

Leaders in Borough Movement Point Out the Handicap Under Township Government —Enthusiastic Sentiment.

Succinct and pungent reasons for the divorcing of South Plainfield from the rest of Piscataway Township were given by the Citizens' Ways and Means Committee in a report to the voters at a meeting in Washington Hall, South Plainfield, last night. The meeting, one of the regular monthly gatherings that are being held by the supporters of the borough movement, was attended by practically every voter in the entire district and the sentiment in favor of a separate municipality was markedly unanimous and enthusiastic.

The committee's report was as follows:

"This is a village which comprises more than one-third the wealth of the township; more than one-half of the population, and less than one-fifth of the area. We have two schools, costing about $7,000. The rest of the township has, or is to have within a year, schools costing about $32,000. There is $1,500 paid yearly for transportation, of which we get no benefit.

"The taxable wealth of the entire township is $1,848,510. Our taxable wealth is $627,355. From this it can be seen that we furnish $23,516 more than one-third of the taxable property and hold only a little more than one-fifth of the school property of the township, while we get none at all of the benefit of the transportation tax. In addition to furnishing a farm for the poor, worth $10,000, the township pays yearly $1,200 for its maintenance, of which we pay more than one-third, while there is not, we are glad to say, a pauper from our district.

"In the past year the township paid $2,529 for official service; our share of this amount was nearly $900. Our district is represented by one officer, namely, town committeeman. He receives about $130, while we were entitled to a patronage of $900 in the disposition of salaries. Gentlemen, if this place was a borough we would not pay $900 and get $130 worth of service. We would pay $450 and we would get $450 worth of service, that is, $100 to a borough clerk, $100 to a treasurer, $100 to our assessor and $150 to our collector. All the rest of the officers in a borough get no salaries.

"We are peculiarly situated at one end of a township about ten miles long. We are the wealthiest and most populous village in the township, but owing to the central location of New Market it is the seat of government. Our interests differ from those of New Market, inasmuch as we are a suburb of Plainfield, and our people are dependent, for the most part, on public works, while New Market is the headquarters of a farming community and dependent, for the most part, on farming interests. Consequently, the government that is best suited to the interests of New Market and the rest of the township is detrimental to our interests.

"We need a government that will labor to induce manufacturing enterprises to locate within our territory, and trolley connections to carry such of our people as are employed or may be employed in Plainfield, to and from their work. But as things are now, if any industry seeks to locate here, who is it that has authority to deal with them? Surely nobody in South Plainfield has any authority. Why, if a burglar enters your house and carries off all you possess, you have not sufficient authority to cause his arrest until you first get a warrant from New Market. And this, understand, is a village that has nearly as many inhabitants as the rest of the township. Does not that remind one of the tail wagging the dog?

"You have heard of people being made a lamb's tail of, but we wish to tell you, gentlemen, that we have been made a township tail, and, what is more, to our shame, we have meekly accepted the humiliating position, as if we were men who were afraid to stand for our rights. We don't know if you, gentlemen, have noticed that although this township is nearly 150 in the majority Republican, when a South Plainfield Republican runs against a New Market Democrat for any office, the Democrat wins by as much as 30 majority; and we want to tell you, gentlemen, that we give New Market credit for it, because a man who will go back on his own people is no good in any way in this world.

"Now then, considering all we have said, there seems to be but one remedy. Let us make South Plainfield a borough.

BITTER ON NEW MARKET

We understand there are a few people in South Plainfield who think it will be the means of raising their taxes. Well, we don't see how anybody can give them a bond that their taxes will not be raised, whether this place is made a borough or not, but judging from how things have been done in the past we can't see much to fear from in that quarter. If we did, we would not be in favor of it. In the last year there was raised by taxation in this township $31,662.57; of this amount the State and county got $15,897.77, leaving a balance for general purposes of $15,764.80; of this amount we were entitled to more than one-third, or, say, $5,500. We had expended on roads about $1,600, on schools about $1,400, and on salaries of township committeeman $130, making a total of $3,130. Now, understand we do not mean that our schools were both run for $1,400, because the State furnished from twelve to fifteen hundred dollars.

From this you can see that if our village was a borough and we paid the same amount of taxes as last year and made the same amount of improvements as last year, we would yet have a balance in the borough treasury of $2,370, or nearly one-half of the amount raised. Besides, do you know that there is no kind of municipality over which the law has such a check as a borough. If this was a borough and its officers wished to raise the taxes, do you know that they could not do so without the ocnsent of the people?

"Now, Mr. Chairman, from all that has been said we hope we have made it clear that there is no cause to fear that the borough would raise the taxes.

"But since your committee has started out on the duty for which it was appointed, they have noticed a certain condition about to exist, which is a real danger to health and property, and which, as a community, in our present coindition, are unable of ourselves to resist. We refer to the establishment by Glazier of a dead animal rendering plant, better known as a stench factory. If this was a borough we could make an ordinance prohibiting the existence of such establishments within our borders.

"Above and underlying all this, there is a sentiment born in the hearts of every human being, in every age and in every clime. It is a desire to manage their own local municipal affairs. The great fathers of this glorious republic possessed it, and they showed the world what they could do, and we would indeed be unworthy of the name of American citizens if we did not voice their sentiments."

After the report had been read a motion that all those in favor of the establishment of South Plainfield borough stand up was made. Every man in the hall rose.

The meetings will be continued, and the agitation will go on with increased force. The citizens have subscribed over $150 to defray the expenses of the meetings.

ALL CUBANS NEXT.

Unusually Strong Team Scheduled for Saturday.

Fans are looking forward to Saturday's baseball contest with the All-Cubans as one of the banner attractions of the year. This fast bunch of ball tossers from Cuba have been making a great record since coming to the States a few weeks ago, and they have an unbroken string of victories thus far. The defeat of the locals on Saturday by the Philadelphia Giants has put Manager Daab's men on edge and they are determined to regain their winning streak. "Billy" Beck, who was touched for fourteen singles by the colored brethren, is not discouraged, especially when he remembers that McKenna, pitching for the Plainfield team, was hit thirteen times safely by the same bunch. Yet he was more fortunate in winning his game through phenomenal fielding on the part of his team mates.

The defeat on Saturday will do the team lots of good and tend to "ginger" the players. The All-Cubans are much stronger this year than last and they are sure to give a fine exhibition. A feature of their play is that they do all their coaching in Spanish. They are remarkably fast as fielders and base runners, and their playing holds the interest of the crowds throughout the game.

The lineup of the teams will be as follows:

Plainfield—Kiernan, ss.; Cosgrave, cf.; Oldring, 2b.; Connolly, rf.; Cregan, lf.; Leonard, 3b.; Driscoll, 1b.; O'Neill, c.; Beck or Deegan, p.

All-Cubans — Bustamente, ss.; Valdes, 2b.; Almeyda, 3b.; Palomino, rf., p.; Garcia, c.; Hildago, cf.; Marzan, lf.; Cabrera, 1b.; DeMeza, Perez, Medina, p.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Williams, of Watchung, are the parents of a young son, who came to their home Sunday.

THOMPSON FOR SENATOR

Somerset County Leader to Oppose Frelinghuysen as a Candidate.

SITUATION IN UNION.

If Fisk's Name is Presented by Plainfield He Can Have Unanimous Nomination for State Senatorship.

The Newark News' political writer had this to say yesterday of the situation in Somerset and Union counties:

The News has already set forth the causes of the leaders' apprehen-Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, personal aide to the Governor and chairman of the Somerset CountyCommittee, wants the Senatorial nomination. It seems that the old rivalry which divided the Republicans of Somerset into the Thompson and Reed camps has been revived. Former Senator and Former Clerk in Chancery Lewis A. Thompson is incensed at the way in which the colonel opposed the reappointment of James L. Griggs for prosecutor of the pleas and got the place for John F. Reger, and has announced his intention of punishing the Governor's aide by appearing at the primaries as a candidate against him.

The leaders are annoyed, it is said, that this factional fight should have broken out in Somerset at this time, when the utmost harmony is needed in the party ranks to secure the election of a State Senator who will have a vote for United States Senator Dryden's successor.

There is one prominent State leader, whose position in the party should make him thoroughly familiar with the situation, who takes a pessimistic view of the conditions in Union County. There is an impression abroad that tne Republican county leaders have decreed that the Senatorial nomination shall go to Plainfield next fall. According to the man referred to, this is not exactly correct. The real understanding is that if Plainfield presents a man who comes up to the Senatorial standard established for Union by such men as Chancellor Magie, Judge Benjamin F. Vail, Foster M. Voorhees and Judge Joseph Cross, she can have does not come up to this standard, the nomination will go elsewhere.

William Runyon has been spoken of as the choice of Plainfield for the nomination, and the leader referred to emphatically declares that he does not size up to the situation, and that if Plainfield presents him at the convention he will be opposed. If, on the other hand, former Mayor Charles J. Fisk should be brought forward as Plainfield's candidate, he would receive the nomination without opposition.

Mr. Fisk, however, has not consented to be a candidate, and it is by no means certain that he will allow his name to be used in connection with this.

It has been said that inasmuch as the friends of Representative Charles N. Fowler were actively promoting the candidacy of Mr. Fisk, Senator John Kean and his followers would oppose him and his nomination would stir up the two old-time factions anew and ruin all chances for that harmony which will be required to carry the county for the Republican party in this off year. The News's informant, who is close enough to talk for him, said that there was nothing in this because Mr. Fisk's nomination would be entirely satisfactory to the Senator and his followers, and that, as he put it, Representative Fowler was such a dead one, both in Congress and Union County, that it did not make the difference of a cent's worth whom he supported or opposed.

Plainfield has still another candidate for the Senatorial nomination in the person of Ernest R. Ackerman, a former freeholder and a man of standing in the community, who, it is said, comes up to the standard for a Union County Senator.

If Mr. Runyon should receive the nomination, the News's informant went on to say, he would be severely cut by the regular Republicans, besides which he would fail to obtain the support of the great majority of that independent vote which is so large in Union.

Should the Democrats exercise any wisdom in making their nomination and name a man who has the confidence of this independent element, he would poll almost all of this vote. About as strong a man as the Democrats could name, the speaker thought, is former Judge Patrick Hamilton Gilhooly, of Elizabeth. Mr. Gilhooly was for several years a member of the Common Council of his city, but of late he has devoted his time to the practise of his profession na let active politics alone. He is said to stand high in the estimation of his fellow-citizens, and would undoubtedly make a formidable candidate for the Senatorship.

RUN OVER BY ICE WAGON DYING IN HOSPITAL

FOUR-YEAR-OLD CHILD CRUSHED BENEATH 5,000 POUND WEIGHT.

From injuries received yesterday afternoon from being knocked down and run over by a heavy ice wagon belonging to the Natural Ice Company, Linda Bartel, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bartel, of Watchung, is dying in Muhlenberg Hospital today. Her right thigh was crushed and broken and she received internal hurts that may cause death at any moment.

The child was playing in front of her home near where the roads diverge at Williams' grocery, when an automobile came speeding along. She turned to get out of its way and ran directly into the ice wagon, driven by Edward McDonough. The pole struck her, and before McDonough could apply his brake, the wheels had passed over her. The vehicle was loaded with 5,000 pounds of ice, and it is a mystery to the physicians how she escaped being crushed to instant death.

MAN AND WIFE GET $3,000 FOR SERVICES

MR AND MRS. ARMITAGE RECOVER FROM GILL ESTATE.

After deliberating for four hours, the jury in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Armitage T. Oakley, of this city, against John P. Emmons, executor of the Estate of Mrs. Emma Gill, deceased, returned a verdict for $3,000 for the plaintiffs, yesterday afternoon in Judge Heisley's Court, Elizabeth. W. S. Angleman, Esq., represented the plaintiffs and I. P. Runyon, Esq., the executor. The suit was for $5,-000.

The case is one of long standing, dating back to February, 1904, when Mrs. Gill died at her home in West Fourth street. It was claimed by the Oakleys that they had assisted Mrs. Gill off and on for nearly ten years after the death of Mrs. Gill's husband and during her illness. Although the law would not allow the plaintiffs to testify in their own behalf, it was shown by other witnesses and by photographs that an electric wire and push button were installed between Mrs. Gill's home and that of the Oakleys next door, to be used when Gill needed assistance.

It was also shown by witnesses that Mr. and Mrs. Oakley performed many services for Mrs. Gill and that it was understood that when Mrs. Gill died she was to remember them in her will. At her death it was learned that she did not leave anything to them, but instead the bulk of the $11,000 left by her went to relatives in England. There were a few minor bequests to persons in this city, but the Oakleys received nothing. It was further claimed that Mrs. Gill promised to give the Oakleys a residence property owned by her, but this she did not do.

Dr. Sarah D. Kenney was one of the principal witnesses for the executor, as she was Mrs. Gill's physician for several years. She testified that she had never seen the Oakleys at Mrs. Gill's home and that her acquaintance dated practically from the time the suit was started. She could not remember that they had performed any special service for her patient.

Immediately after the verdict was rendered Mr. Runyon announced his intention of applying a rule to show cause why a new trial should not be granted, and the case will probably be taken up.

TURN DOWN ROAD.

Thoroughfare on Way From Plainfield to Shore Turned Down.

Elijah C. Hutchinson, State road commissioner, following an inspection of the Oak Tree and Woodbridge road in Middlesex county, the macadamizing of which has just been camplete, has refused to accept it on behalf of the State road department, on the ground that it was not built according to specifications. The road cost $100,000, the State's share of which would have been one-third, or a trifle over $33,000 Under the action of the commissioner this will not be paid.

The road is one of the main thoroughfares from this city to the shore, and the specifications for its improvement were approved by the State department December 22, 1903. The macadam was to have been 12 feet wide and 8 inches deep. On the inspection Monday Commissioner Hutchinson found the surface good, but in places the road had been built five feet above the proper grade.

Roy Cox, of West Seventh street, will return from Harvard College, this week. He is a member of the senior class.

ST. GABRIEL'S EXERCISES

Bishop McFaul Makes Address at the Commencement.

PUPILS TAKE PART.

Held at the Park Club—Visiting Priests on the Platform—Bishop's Remarks.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the pupils of St. Gabriel's Academy conducted their annual commencement exercises in the Park Club house, yesterday afternoon. The programme rendered reflected great credit on the classes and their teachers and both were warmly complimented. The recitations were exceptionally good, the music, vocal and instrumental, was true and inspiring, the customary operetta was cleverly given and the movements of the class in physical culture were gracefully and skillfully executed. The "Star Spangled Banner" in pantomime was exceedingly beautiful and earned a well deserved encore. At the conclusion of the programme, Bishop James A. McFaul, of Trenton, gave an appropriate and helpful address on "Education."

In his address, Bishop McFaul said man naturally longs for the truth, and that education brings him to it. All schools have the truth for their precept and it broadens the mind, giving men physical and moral liberty. Education, he said, also inculcates patriotism, as it makes children love their homes and their country, as the country is but a collection of their homes. In closing, he complimented the pupils on the completion of their year's work and their rendition of the programme.

The pupils who took part in the programme were the Misses Lillian Pauly, Marie Kenney, Anna Pedeflous, Irene Duchesne, May Duchesne, Mary Logan, Francis LaPorte, Grace Rafferty, Jennie Dinneen, Bernadette Duchesne, May Noonan, Nettie Blank, Edith Joerges, Theresa Schneider, Mary Berkhan, and Hortense M. Sheldon; Masters George and John Noonan, Morton Kapp, Francis Lee, William Fullard, Charles Moraller and John Pedeflous. The Misses Hoover and Pauly acted as accompanists and Martin Korff was violinist.

Among the visiting priests who occupied seats on the platform were Mgr. O'Grady, of New Brunswick; Father Dunphy, of Dunellen; Father Tyrrell, of Rahway; Father Westman, of Cranford; Fathers Shandel and Miller, of St. Joseph's, and Father Bogan, of St. Mary's.

VAN ORDEN GUILTY OF NEGLECTING WIFE

JUSTICE SMALLEY ORDERED HIM TO PAY HER $3 WEEKLY.

Rendering a decision reserved for a week, Justice Smalley yesterday ordered Daniel B. VanOrden, a contracting carpenter who lives on Stoney brook place, to pay his wife, Harriet VanOrden, three dollars a week for her support and maintenance. VanOrden was arrested on a charge of desertion and non-support.

The wife alleged, and brought forward testimony to prove, that VanOrden had neglected her at various times, and given her insufficient money for household expenses. Two weeks ago, she alleged, he deserted her, and after waiting two days for he return she went to the home of her married daughter for shelter. VanOrden tried to prove, by grocers and other witnesses, that he had maintained his household properly, and that his absences from home were made necessary by business. He submitted testimony to the effect that he had returned from his last trip after two days and a half.

After considering the evidence for a week, Justice Smalley arrived at the conclusion that VanOrden had been neglectful as charged, and rendered his decision accordingly. Fred J. Huff conducted the woman's case.

Grammar Graduating Exercises.

The graduating exercises of the city Grammar Schools will be held in the assembly room of the Franklin building this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The address will be made by Rev. Charles E. Herring, and in addition a programme has been arranged for the parents and friends of the pupils.

Veterans' Trip.

The members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps will leave tomorrow morning for Trenton to attend the annual session of their respective organizations. Post No. 73 has been given the position of honor in the line of march.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA CRIPPLE WAS A FAKE

CONTORTIONIST SWINDLER WHO FOOLED PLAINFIELDERS IS EXPOSED.

George Bronson, a fake cripple with a remarkable record for money-making at the expense of the public sympathy in New York, was exposed and run out of town by the police of Hoboken Monday. The fact is of interest locally because Bronson worked his little game with a lot of success here for two days last week.

Bronson is a skilful contortionist, and his game is the imitation of an extreme attack of locomotor ataxia. He came into the city apparently in the most horrible shape from the disease. His walk was a nightmarish thing of shakes and quivers, and his head sagged down between his shoulders at every step. His legs seemed to bend above the knee, and he always appeared to be on the verge of toppling over. He applied to Mayor Buckle and Chief Kiely for a permit to sell laces, and at that time the authorities were fooled completely. Chief Kiely thought Bronson was in a terrible state and pityingly gave him the necessary permission to work here for two days.

In the time he was here Bronson gave about a thousand citizens the creeps, and nickels and dimes flowed his way. He offered his wares to every helper, but nobody felt mean enough to take anything in exchange for the money.

Detective McCarthy, who is a synic by way of business, watched Bronson closely, and the second day after the "cripple's" arrival he saw some things in the unfortunate's make-up that led to a quiet tip to get out of town quickly. Bronson tried to bluff his way through the call-down, but weakened when examination by a doctor was suggested. He said he preferred to move on.

To the Hoboken police Bronson made a complete acknowledgement. He said his favorite field was Twenty-third street, New York, where he had cleaned up over $200 a day at times. He must have gotten over $50 here.

MISS PATTEN WEDS.

Now the Wife of Edward C. M. McKay, of Cleveland.

Miss Louise Patten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Patten, of 327 East Seventh street, and Edward Creighton McKay, of Cleveland, O., were quietly married yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. William C. O'Donnell, formerly pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, but now of the West End Avenue M. E. church, Jersey City, performed the ceremony. Invitations to the wedding were limited to the relatives and a few intimate friends. Neither the bride or groom was attended.

There was a reception at 5:30, after which Mr. and Mrs. McKay left on a wedding trip. They will reside in Cleveland, where the groom is engaged in business as president of the Bodifield Belting Company.

The bride is well known here and is a favorite in a large circle of friends. She received many handsome and costly gifts, as well as the best wishes of all.

Caledonian Club Entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Williams, of East Randolph road, entertained the Caledonian Choral Club, of New York city, Monday night. A lunch on the lawn was an important feature, after which the guests strolled through the woods and gathered wild flowers. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John R. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. John Werle, the Misses K. and A. Werle, the Misses A. and G. Kathman, the Misses M. Mc Gee, A. McKinley, A. Miller, C. Heim and F. Abrams; C. B. Hayes, R. Young, Edward Cleveland, B. Kutz, J. Waterson, Mr. Green, Mr. Blubonds and Mr. James. The club is one of the practice classes of Damrosh's Choral Union.

New Hotel Proprietor.

W. S. Rapp, of Albany, has purchased Mrs. Earl's interest in the Scotch Plains Hotel, and will continue the business in a first class manner. Mr. Rapp thoroughly understands the needs of a hotel and will do all that is possible to provide for the comfort and convenience of patrons. He has arranged to give dances every Wednesday and Saturday night in the pavilion, commencing on Saturday night. Naylor's Superior Orchestra will furnish the music.

Senior Class Dance.

John Leal and the senior class of Leal's School gave the annual reception and dance at the Casino last night, and the affair, like previous ones, was greatly enjoyed by members and friends of the school. There were one hundred guests, including a number from out of town. The dancing began about 9 o'clock and continued until 2 o'clock this morning. At midnight refreshments were served.

CLASS DAY AT THE P.H.S.

Absence of "Roasts" on Faculty Marks Exercises of 1905's Graduates.

ODD THROUGHOUT.

Resolved Into a Class Meeting During Which the Programme Numbers Are Given.

Class Day exercises were held by the high school seniors in the assembly room of Franklin School last night. An audience composed of graduates, undergraduates, and their friends in goodly numbers, filled the room and overflowed into the hall. One notable feature marked the programme. The faculty was not roasted; not even the mildest of unkind cuts was launched at Principal Travell and his associates. It was denied after the exercises that the censor had been at work, and the old graduates were puzzled to account for the omission.

In beginning the exercises the class introduced a new wrinkle. The members resolved the gathering into a class meeting, and rung in every number under parliamentary rules. Harry Thompson, the regular president, presided. Miss Ella Kelly was elected secretary, to take the place of Miss Florence Derby, who was too ill to be present. The girls were ranged on one side of the platform and the boys on the other. The former were dressed all in white and the latter wore duck trousers, topped by dark coats.

After Miss Kelly had read the minutes of the last meeting, which were strictly regular, a class song by Miss Derby was sung.

George Bentley was accorded the floor, and undisturbed by the pained expressions on the faces of rival classmen, read the class history. If there was ever a more remarkable collection of young men and women at P. H. S. than '05, Mr. Bentley never heard of them.

The school song, "The Blue and the White," was sung in chorus. Miss Amy Conant, dressed as a gypsy, delivered the prophecy.

A quartette composed of Harold Brownell, Howard Craig, Chester Briggs and Theodore Gavett sang a school parody on "Yankee Doodle Boy." Miss Lillian Snodgrass read the class poem.

President Thompson called for a report from the presentation committee, and the chairman made public the fact that '05's parting gift to the school will be five bas reliefs, to be hung in the new building.

A class song, by Howard Craig, in chorus closed the outlined programme, but Cushing got the last actual number. The seniors didn't get down and mingle with the throng until a motion to adjourn had been carefully passed.

A dance followed the exercises. Suhr's orchestra furnished the music.

RECEPTON AT FAITH CHAPEL.

In Honor of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson.

In honor of the completion of his first year as pastor, the members of Faith chapel gave Rev. J. W. Musson and his wife a reception at the chapel last night. The place of worship was attractively decorated with flowers, and the members and friends were present in large numbers to give pastor and wife a cordial greeting.

Deacon U. B. Crane was in charge of the programme, which opened with a prayer by Frank Stewart. After a piano duet by Miss Lottie May Conger and Miss Helen Jeter, there were several addresses.

Charles W. McCutchen, Rev. J. A. Chambliss, Rev. A. E. Finn, L. W. Randolph and Rev. J. W. Musson were among those to speak. The success of Mr. Musson's pastorate during the past year was recounted and a continuance of it was hoped for the future. Mr. Musson responded in a pleasant manner and thanked all for the kindly words spoken.

Following the addresses there was a solo by Willard Miner and a cornet solo by Whitney Frazee, accompanied by Miss Charlotte Conger. The programme was concluded with recitations by Miss Ida Englehardt and Miss Helen Myers, together with a selection by the choir.

A social time followed and refreshments were served by the committee in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Musson will soon leave on their annual vacation. A portion of the time will be spent in the mountains and one week in their former home at Washington.

—The verdict of the family and guests at the Patton-McKay wedding last evening, was that the supper served by Davide Demolli & Co., the West Front street caterers, compared favorably with the best efforts of the leading New York caterers. There were over one hundred people present.

NEW FERRY ON JUNE 25

Jersey Central's Handsome Ferry House at Foot of Twenty-Third St.

A FINE STRUCTURE

Description of the Building—Great Convenience to Suburban Shoppers.

The June number of the Suburbanite, published by the Jersey Central Railroad Company, tells of the new uptown ferry to be opened in New York on Sunday, June 25. It says:

"Among the most far-reaching of the various improvements which have been steadily made along the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, is the new uptown ferry, at the foot of West Twenty-third street, New York. June 25 is the date when this additional route will be thrown open to the public.

"The boats which will be placed on the new ferry service are the "Wilkesbarre" and the "Elizabeth." These are twin-screw boats, recently built, of the latest and most approved model. They are "double-deckers," for the Twenty-third street ferry passengers will be landed from both the lower and upper decks. Owing to the speed which it has been possible to develop in boats of this type, the trip from Jersey City will be accomplished in about twenty minutes ,thus giving commuters and other passengers a most delightful and refreshing sail, with a glimpse of the interesting activities of the North River and a panoramic view of New York's water front and skyscrapers. These boats are of that commodious, well ventilated type, and neat, clean appearance, which has given distinction to the New Jersey Central ferry service.

"The Twenty-third street terminal is a modern structure ,beautiful as well as utilitarian, with every provision that can conduce to the comfort and satisfaction of patrons as well as their quick handling. Both the river and street fronts are faced with heavy copper, surmounted by four-foot raised letter, "C. R. R. of N. J.," which will be illuminated in electric light at night.

"A cab service at low rates has been provided, and the cabs will meet the passengers at the water front, instead of on the street. The Metropolitan Street Railway Company has cooperated by putting in loops at the foot of West Twenty-third street for the following lines: Fourteenth street cars. Twenty-third street cars, and the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth street line. A handsome glass roofed canopy, or marquise, fifty feet wide, extends along the street front of the ferry house, so that passengers can step directly into the cars, without having to raise an umbrella in inclement weather, or running the gauntlet of the street traffic.

"The various railroads that will use the combined terminals are the Pennsylvania, Erie, Lackawanna, and New Jersey Central, the latter having the slip furthest downtown. Instead of each road having a ferry house of distinctive design, one architect was employed by all, with the result that the entire structure is harmonious in its exterior lines, and presents to the eye the appearance of a unit. Different contractors, however, carried out the details of the work, the one engaged by the New Jersey Central being C. T. Willis, whose reputation for this class of work is of the highest, and who is well known as the builder of the New York Stock Exchange and many other important buildings. A landmark which will be seen far up and down the river is a clock tower 150 feet high, the face of the clock being illuminated at night by electric light. The architect of the whole was Kenneth M. Murchison, Jr.

"The New Jersey Central's ferry house is double decked, with two waiting rooms, the one on the main floor being 50x80 feet, and the one on the upper floor 50x60 feet. The lobby is 34x60 feet. On the street side is a large glass arch, made up of pivoted panes, which gives a handsome exterior. The finish throughout is in quartered oak, while for the main floors the best grade of asphalt has been used.

"Every convenience has been provided for patrons. Opening off the lobby are three ticket offices, an information office, United States Express office, telegraph office, telephone booths and commodious baggage and parcel rooms. Adjacent to the main waiting room are a smoking room, ladies' retiring room and toilets. On the upper floor are also offices for some of the company's employes. The frontage on the river is 100 feet.

"Thus, four of the railroads traversing New Jersey, the Pennsylvania, Erie, Lackawanna and New Jersey Central, united some time ago to secure adequate space on the water front at the foot of West Twenty-third street. This is, in a way, one of the strategic points of the city. Twenty-third street has long been noted as a great shopping center. The crosstown lines intersect with the various branches of the elevated, which all have stations on this street, while New York's new Subway presents still another means of transportation up and down the island. This is, furthermore, the heart of the hotel and theatre section, while the Grand Central depot is in the neighborhood of a mile distant.

ELIZABETH SITE OF ANCIENT PAPER MILL

AND WAS OWNED BY BRADFORD, FIRST GREAT AMERICAN PRINTER.

William Bradford, America's first great printer, whose monument stands in Trinity churchyard, New York, and who published the first newspaper in New York, lived in Elizabeth in the year 1730-31. His reason for living there was because he had bought the old paper mill, one of the first in America, which stood about where the South Broad street bridge crosses the Elizabeth river. Bradford's first paper was the New York Gazette ,which was first issued on October 16, 1725, benig the first weekly paper established in the city of New York.

In the first issue was an advertisement of a slave that had run away from Elizabeth Town. The negro man was called Clause. He was about 27 years years of age, and could play upon the fiddle and speak English and Dutch. This valuable servant was the property of Solomon Bates.

The paper mill, said to be the oldest in America, but more likely the second, was sold at auction with about ninety acres adjoining. Bradford bought it in 1728 because he wanted to make his own paper and be independent of the foreign manufacturers. The Bradfords, father and son, had a monopoly of government printing.

SINGLE-END CARS.

P. S. C. to Introduce Them on All Lines.

The Public Service Corporation is planning to operate the single-end car system on the Boynton Beach line. Such a system is used in the West to a large extent, and it is considered a modern method by railroad men. This system is used at Newark and it is the intention of the company to operate such a system wherever possible. The single-end car systém means a car with the controller and brake on the forward head end.

The rear platform is clear of these appliances and the platform is built larger. The removal of the controller and brake from the rear end of the car makes conditions more comfortable and less dangerous for passengers. In order to operate this system cars must be turned or run over a Y. On these single-end cars a heavier fender is used and the headlight and rear lamp are in permanent position.

BIG LIGHTING PLANT.

Voltage 6.600 at Perth Amboy Power House.

The Public Service plant at Perth Amboy Junction is becoming one of the largest electric stations in New Jersey. There are five large and modern boilers in use there now, which makes it necessary to have five huge stacks projecting from the roof of the plant. In the módern and powerful machinery building a brick office building will be located, which will be the offices of the central department of the Public Service. General Superintendent H. C. Richardson will have his headquarters there.

Daniel Feary, an experienced electrical engineer, is chief engineer of the plant, which promises to be one of the largest in the State. The voltage supplied at the present time reaches 6,600, and in a short time will be increased. The Pertn Amboy-New Brunswick trolley will be run by power furnished by this station.

DEEDS ON FILE.

Recent Conveyances of Plainfield Realty on Record.

Rosa F. Cuthbert et al. to William Willis, New street, corner Fifth street ........................$1

Improved B. L. Association of N. J .and Pa. to George G. Buss, lots 4-5, block A, "Map of Rockview Heights ...................$492

Sadie Walker et al. to James H. Walker, southeasterly side East Third street, 35 feet westerly of Philip Cottrell ...............$1

John P. Emmons et ux. to William Jones, southeasterly side East Third street, 91 feet of Filmore avenue. $1

Mary A. Vail to Jasper Cadmus, northerly side East Sixth street, 215 feet easterly of Franklin place...$1

William H. Mehaffey et ux. to Louise M. Vedder, westerly side Marion avenue, 156 feet southerly of Moffett avenue ...............$1

Sophia Denckiau to Jacob Pantz, Fourth street, corner Benjamin Wycoff ......................$1

A July 4th Event.

The Plainfield Country Club announces that Independence Day will be observed at the club in an appropriate manner. There will be music at the clubhouse from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and in the evening there will be dancing. Arrangements have been made for the running of sages between the trolley terminus and the clubhouse, both afternoon and evening. There will be special events in golf and tennis to interest the members and friends.

PISCATAWAY'S EXERCISES

School Commencement in a New Market Baptist Church.

TWO SPEAKERS.

Addresses by Rev. Frank Fletcher and Rev. A. J. Walters—A Women's Orchestra.

The graduation exercises of the Piscatawey schools were held Wednesday in the First Baptist church, at the village of New Market. There was a large attendance. The church was handsomely decorated with flowers and plants. The tenth year graduates were Lillian F. Harris and Annie E. Giddes; the latter was valedictorian. The grammar school graduates were Hilda C. Johnson, Pauline Ward, Mabel Whitford, George Bieler, George Coriell, Lester Nelson, Alfred Becker, Minnie Naylor, Clementine Petit, M. Grace Parker, Harry Zucker, Charles Sebring, Nellie Geary, Marguerite McDonough, John Geary, John Ryan. There were twenty-nine primary school graduates. Seventy-five certificates for attendance were presented. Addresses were made by Rev. A. J. Walters, of the Reformed church, Harlingen, and Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the First Baptist church, New Market. Supervising Principal J. Alfred Wilson presented the class. Music was furnished by the Ladies' orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Charles S. Day. The programme was as follows:

Overture, orchestra; "March de Concert," orchestra; invocation, Rev. H. N .Jordan, of Seventh-day Baptist church, New Market; salutatory, Harold Voorhees; recitation, M. Grace Parker; class song, chorus; essay, Annie E. Giddes; selection, orchestra! recitation, Hilda C. Johnson; recitation, Nellie Geary; essay, Lillian F. Harris; gavotte, orchestra; recitation, Clementine Petit; violin duet, Minnie Naylor and Sadie Brouwer; valedictory, Annie E. Giddes; address, Rev. A. J. Walters; "Down in the Vale of Shenandoah," galóp, "Stampede," orchestra; presentation of class, J. A .Wilson; address to class, Rev. Frank Fletcher; awarding of diplomas and certificates; benediction, Rev. J. A. Cubberley, of South Plainfield Baptist church.

SALES AND RENTALS

Reported by Real Estate Broker Mulford.

Through the agency of Armstrong Mulford, real estate broker, on North avenue, these sales and rents have recently been effected:

Joseph F. O'Keefe, of New York, has purchased a lot on West Seventh street, near Spooner avenue, and will erect a fine dwelling in the near future. A. C .Penn, of New York, has rented 515 Grant avenue. Miss E. Gill has purchased the property corner of West Fifth street and Central avenue belonging to Daniel McCarthy, of New York. Mr. Deisler, of New York, has rented Mrs. Tenan's house, 750 Kensington avenue, for the summer. E. M. Lockwood, of New York, has rented Mr. Currin's 92 Summit avenue, and Jennie A. Cole, of Netherwood, has purchased Laura M. Lewis' lot on Netherwood avenue. Joseph Harrigan, of East Fourth street, has purchased a lot of the estate of Edward C. Mulford, adjoining his residence. Ida Rosenson has purchased the property at Spooner avenue and South Second street. Mrs. Stanley Emmons has purchased of the estate of Edward C. Mulford the property at 404 East Fourth street. F. Harrington, of Binghamton, N. Y., has rented the large dwelling at Rockview and Sycamore avenues, North Plainfield. Armstrong Mulford has sold his fine dwelling at 126 Westervelt avenue, North Plainfield, to John Johnston, of the firm of Shirley & Johnston. James Abbott Hutchinson, of New York, has rented the house, 115 East Sixth street, and will occupy the same this month.

Trolley Turnout.

It is the intention of the Public Service Corporation to install a turnout on the Arlington avenue line near Randolph road, in the near future, thus making it possible for the cars to maintain a fifteen-minute schedule that is satisfactory. The company wanted to place a turnout on Randolph road, near Park avenue, but the city objected owing to the width of the road. No doubt the request of the company would have been granted had it offered to widen the street a few feet, but this did not appeal to the company. The next best thing is to place the turnout on Arlington avenue, and this will probably be done.

Won a Scholarship.

Dr. Augustus B. Wadsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wadsworth, former residents of this place, received, on Wednesday, at the commencement of Columbia University, New York, the Alonzo Clark scholarship, offered to the alumni of the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Hot weather comfort, and a world of it, lies in Hodge's soda fountain. Go, with the majority of the other thirsty souls, to P. B. Hodge's pharmacy, East Front street.

HOW TO PURCHASE THAT AUTOMOBILE

SOME SAGELY ADVICE FOR THOSE ABOUT TO BUY.

A prominent local automobilist was asked the question: "Which is the best automobile? Which is the best motor car made?" He said:

"This all depends upon the color of the glasses you happen to be looking through. In the first place, if you are a patriotic American, only American made machines need be considered. A preference for a certain motor car is a great deal like the same sentiment toward women. Your wife may have a pug nose and a wart upon her chin, but you prefer her above all others because she suits you better than any other. It is the same way with motor cars. Tastes differ. I would advise anyone to buy:

"First—a machine that has been on the market at least one season and proven satisfactory.

"Second—Buy of a reputable firm that has a business standing in the trade. Don't buy a freak or any experimental machine or be led astray by new ideas or wonderful things.

"Third—Buy the machine that suits your fancy best and with capacity and strength to fill your requirements.

"The following points must also be considered:

"Touring on country roads requires more power and heavier running gear than city boulevards.

"If you have never owned a motor car, and object to hiring a chauffeur, select a single cylinder or two-cylinder, as a four-cylinder one would be too complicated to begin with.

"Most any good machine will last three to five years with ordinary care; but in these days of evolution only the exceptional buyer will retain a machine longer than the second year.

"If you have a mechanical turn and are so inclined, then calculate to operate your machine all the time, and take care of all adjustments and some of the light repairs. This wi!! be extremely interesting, the machine will last longer and do better work, and at far less expense than if operated by th eaverage high-priced chauffeur. Of course, it is very desirable to hire the tank filled, lamps cleaned and coach work washed and polished.

"If you have owned a machine heretofore, then get one with four cylinders, and with plenty of power, although it should be light, and be careful with it. You will have less mechanical troubles than with a light machine. Remember, the manufacturers must make their machines very heavy to withstand the treatment of the ordinary man without experience, who is, I must say, for the most part, an ignoramus. If you have had experience and are careful, you can afford to take the chance of damaging a light car by misuse."

JUNIOR ENDEAVORERS' CLOSING EXERCISES

A TRINITY CHURCH SOCIETY WITH 88 MEMBERS.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held its closing exercises for the season, in the primary class room of the church, Wednesday afternoon, when an excellent programme of recitations and music, and presentation of gifts helped to make the occasion one of the pleasure for both young and old. Miss Edna Dilts, president of the society, was in charge of the exercises, assisted by the superintendent, Mrs. Josephine M. Tier.

The programme included recitations by Ella Van Arsdale, Mildred McAfee, Helen Woolley, Ray Stevens, Horace Van Arsdale, Lulu Trewin, Willie Day, Nellie McAfee; piano selections by Edna Cole, Anna Stevens, Helen Smith, Harold Storr.

This was followed with the roll-call, fifty-two members responding. A pleasant feature was the presentation of a photograph holder to Mrs. Tier, which was greatly appreciated. For attending every meeting during the year, the president, Edna Cole, received a handsome piece of crockery. Kate Leighton, who missed only one meeting; Louise Leighton, who was absent twice, and Harold Schenck, who was absent from three meetings, each received small china trays After the programme refreshments were served by a committee comprising Edna Dilts, Helen Smith, Edna Coles and Louise Leighton.

The report of the secretary, Helen Smith, shows that the total attendance for the year was 1,135. Thirty-five meetings were held, with an average attendance of thirty-two. The offerings for the year amounted to $22.09, an average of sixty-three cents at each meeting. The receipts from cake sales and entertainments were $21.90. The membership of the society is eighty-eight.

Belated Announcement.

Albert Perry, Jr., announces his marriage to Miss Mary Shay, which took place on November 6 last. Mrs. Perry is a sister of Miss Bessie Shay, of Second street.

THEY WANT A BOARD OF EXAMINERS NOW

TRAINED NURSES WILL GET INFORMATION BEFORE SEEKING LEGISLATION.

A special meeting of the New Jersey State Nurses' Association was held at the City Hospital, Newark, Wednesday, at which proposed amendments to a bill passed by the Legislature two years ago, making it necessary for all graduated nurses to be registered, were discussed. Miss Bertha J. Garner, of Newark, president of the association, called the meeting to order. About thirty nurses, some of them from Camden, and other South Jersey towns, were present.

The main object of the session was to bring to the attention of the members the necessity of having a board of examiners, composed of women, whose duties it would be to travel over the State and keep in close touch with the affairs of all training schools and to pass upon the merits of all would-be nurses. In proposing this the nurses wanted it understood that there would be no money taken from the State's treasury, as the examiners would be required to pay their own expenses from fees to be exacted.

The association is only four years old, but it has made rapid strides during that time toward effecting plans whereby unscrupulous persons would be prevented from posing as regularly registered graduate nurses.

SOMERSET SPENT $37.50 ON KILLING FOXES

PRICE PAID FOR PUTTING 11 FOXES OUT OF THE WAY.

It cost Somerset county last year $37.50 for the killing of eleven foxes in the county, according to the annual report of County Collector E. B. Allen, which has just been issued. The county pays $3 per fox for every one killed. It considers that it is worth that much to the peace of mind of the farmers to know that they are dead.

The county must have proof that the fox has really been caught in the county and that he has been put to death. In order to furnish this proof the hunter must take the fox before a justice of the peace and secure a certificate that the justice is satisfied that the fox is dead. The justice is a sort of county executioner of foxes, and he gets 50 cents from the county for such service. During the last year the county escaped paying two of these certificate fees in some manner, and so the total cost was reduced a dollar. The men who caught the foxes are James A .Smith, 3; David Card, Jacob Schneider, Jediah Higgins, E. Woods Hendershot, Wilmer Whited, 1 each.

MRS. LUCY TOMLINSON AS A JUNE BRIDE

BECOMES THE WIFE OF PHILIP SPENCER SUFFERN.

Mrs. Lucy Dunham-Tomlinson, widow of Harold Tomlinson, and Philip Spencer Suffern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Suffern, of the borough, were married Wednesday at the home of the bride on East Sixth street, near Washington.

The nuptial event was a very quiet one, only the members of the immediate families being present. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, of which the bride and groom are active workers, performed the ceremony.

The bride was a former resident of Dunellen, and has lived in this city for several years. Both she and Mr. Suffern have a large circle of friends. After a honeymoon they will continue to reside here.

A FIVE MILLION CONCERN.

Henry A. McGee and Others in Big Corporation.

Several wealthy men, including one of the Havemeyers and Henry A. McGee, of North Plainfield, have incorporated the Standard Concrete Steel Company at White Plains, with a capital of $5,000,000, for the purpose of carrying on a general fireproofing construction, equipment and building business in all parts of the country.

The principal office of the new corporation will be in Yonkers. The directors are John F. Havemeyer, Henry A. McGee, William B. Nisbet, Samuel A. Simpson, Jesse Grant Roe and Leonard I. Roe.

Addition to Art Collection.

Lawyer Fred J. Huff has just added to the art collection in his offices a beautiful painting by John R. Johnston, the Baltimore artist. It was executed in 1872 and depicts a scene on the Susquehanna river just below Harrisburg, and is remarkable for its color blending. Mr. Huff has owned it but a few days, but has already received numerous offers for it.

OLD NASSAU'S GROWTH UNDER WOODROW WILSON

MANY ADDITIONS TO ITS MATERIAL EQUIPMENT.

The expansion of Princeton, which is now rapidly placing the New Jersey institution in the front rank of American universities, is illustrated by the many additions to its material equipment under way or about to be begun, as well as by the establishing of the new preceptorial system. In the immediate future the campus will be enlarged and beautified; the Carnegie Lake will be pushed forward to completion; a small separate campus, with its own buildings, has been secured for the graduate students; new and elegant club houses will be erected, and also a football stadium, while better railroad facilities will be provided to handle the crowds on big game days.

The man who, above all others, is responsible for the growth of Prince*ton, is President Woodrow Wilson.* Since his inauguration, two years ago, he has been tirelessly traveling about the country, telling of his high ideals for Princeton and urging the alumni to support him. In the college itself he has encouraged all sorts of student activities, but has insisted always that scholarship should be the first consideration.

The Preceptorial System.

Next fall the preceptorial system will go into operation, with the addition to the teaching force of the college of fifty preceptors, with the rank of assistant professors. When this scheme was broached it was realized that the graduate school must be enlarged in order to keep up the supply of preceptors, and so the trustees bought "Merwick," the estate of the lat Grenfill Blake, as a home for the graduate students, who heretofore have been scattered about the town and campus.

Changes on Campus to Be Made.

Several minor changes in the campus are also about to be undertaken. The lecture room of the old Presbyterian church, on Nassau street, and the residence of Professor Cornwall adjoining will be removed, thus adding eighty feet frontage to the campus. 'These removals will also afford an access to Alexander Hall from Nassau street, which has been long needed.

Further down Nassau street, in front of Nassau Hall, the Fitz-Randolph gateway and fence is nearing completion. This is a memorial to the donor of the original Princeton campus, and is the gift of the late Augustus S. Van Wickle, of Hazleton, Pa. The gateway, which will be opposite Witherspoon street, is designed by McKim, Mead & White, of New York, to be built of white limestone and wrought iron. The central gate posts will be twenty-four feet hig hand surrounded by eagles carved in stone.

Several changes have recently been made in Nassau Hall itself, in an attempt to restore it to the original design. This historic building, built in 1756, was gutted by fire in 1855, and in the rebuilding was considerably changed. Two towers, called the "pepper boxes," were added at the extremities. These have been removed.

Class Club Houses.

More in the line of the undergraduate effort is the erection of new upper class club houses on Prospect avenue. These clubs, however, have become such an important part of Princeton that their buildings are as much university matters as are now dormitories. The University Cottage Club has just completed its new house and opened it with its annual dinner. The house, with the furnishings, cost nearly $200,000. The building is in the shape of an open rectangle. Between the two wings is a paved court with a fountain, imported from an old Italian villa, in the centre. Besides dining hall and kitchens, the house contains a library, billiard room, several bedrooms and lockers and showers for those who use the squash and tennis courts connected with the club.

Colonial Club to Build.

The Colonial Club has also decided to build on a similar elaborate scale. Their present building will be moved during the summer, so that the new structure can be erected without inconvenience to the club members. The new house will be colonial in style, either red brick with white pillars, in the Southern fashion, or all of wood, like New England colonial buildings.

The Cap and Gown Club will add a wing to its building which about doubles its capacity.

Assurance of the Stadium.

With the announcement of the Army-Navy football game at Princeton comes the practical assurance that the much discussed football stadium will be built. As there will be at least one big game here a year, it will be necessary, under present conditions, to put up the temporary stands every fall. The saving of this expense would pay for the new stadium in a few years. To handle the large football crowds, the Pennsylvania Railroad will build a new double track line to Princeton Junction.

Approaching Marriage.

Miss Jennie Wilson, of East Seventh street, and Theodore Stites, of Grove street, will be married on Thursday night, June 29, at the rectory of St. Mary's church by Father Brogan, the rector.

R.A'S NEW ASSESSMENTS

Holt Apgar Claims That Raise is Absolutely Necessary.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

Old Members Pay Most—Five Options Are New Allowed—Now on Solid Financial Basis.

Counselor W. Holt Apgar, member of the supreme body of the Royal Arcanum, made an address before Capital City Council, No. 392, at Trenton, the other night, on the increased assessment rates adopted at the recent meeting of the supreme body at Atlantic City.

Mr. Apgar claimed that the raise in rates was necessary to put the order on a sound financial basis, owing to the fact that in the past the insurance has been carried at rates far below its actual cost and much cheaper than the old line companies.

Mr. Apgar presented the following statements as a foundation for the necessity of the increase. For eleven years leaders in the fraternity have seen that the old rates were inequitable in that they did no tprovide sufficiently for the future. At the meeting of the imperial council in Cleveland in 1898 the executive committee submitted a report providing for a raise in the rates. The report was prepared with the help of actuaries of high repute. But sixteen out of ninety-six members favored this report. A compromise .was adopted under which an emergency fund was created. By 1903 this had grown to $2,000,000.

In 1904 the order paid out in benefits $271,654.40 more than it received, and in the first five months of 1905 the deficit was $227,573.90. To meet these over drafts $300,000 worth of bonds were sold and $95,-000 was paid out of the emergency fund.

Old Members Pay Most.

Mr. Apgar explained the deficits by saying that an equitable financial plan was not adopted when the order was first organized. The rates were low and only enough assessments were collected to meet immediate needs. No provision was made for a surplus, such as the insurance companies provide.

The speaker said it was charged that the new rates were unjust in the cases of the older members. He acknowledged that th erates were higher proportionately for them, but said this fact must be remembered. These members joined the fraternity when it was young, and then paid far from an equitable sum annually to guarantee the order in the future. In the first years of the organization, it was claimed, only two or three assessments were called for annually because that was all that was needed at that time.

So, claimed Mr. Apgar, these old members, during all these years of their membership, have kept in their pockets money that, had the rates been properly fixed at the start, would have gone into a surplus fund, rendering the present increase unnecessary. The argument was, therefore, that the older members, under the new rates, will pay more in the aggregate of years than they would have paid had the rates been equitably adjusted in the past. Speaking further, Mr. Apgar said:

Five Options Allowed.

"Notwithstanding the steady growth of the order during the past eleven years, each year shows a larger number of the 'fifty years and upwards class' over the preceding year; also, that there has been a steady increase in the number of deaths in such class, as well as an increased percentage when compared with the whole number of deaths. The increase in the aggregate number of deaths each year is largely due to these annually augumented classes of advanced ages.

"But not only have the deaths increased in number, as is shown, but the liability of the order is being largely increased without any corresponding income from these more hazardous risks. Thus in 1903 the amount contributed by our membership assessed at ages below fifty was approximately $6,834,329.68, and by those assessed at ages of fifty and upwards was approximately $690,-556.68. The amount paid for those dying at ages actually below fifty was $2,970,500, and for those dying at ages actually fifty and upwards was $4,488,000.

"The latter class thus contributed approximately $3,792,443.32 less than it received, or, reversing the statement, this fifty years and upwards class received about five and one-half times as much as it paid in. In 1904 the amount contributed by those assessed at ages under fifty was about $7,180,198.50, and by those over fifty about $703,710.72. The amount paid for deaths under fifty was $3,045,500, and for those above fifty, $5,100,500, or more than seven times as much as they contributed."

Mr. Apgar explained the five options allowed by the new rates. He said the increased rates were based on the mortality tables worked out by expert actuaries from the records of 400,000 members of the fraternity during a period of about twenty years. He insisted that now the Royal Arcanum is on a solid financial ground, and will in future pay its own way under all conditions.

Feminine Snapshots

How Shall the Unfortunate Feminine Sex Please Everybody?

Woman, marry! That's your business, commands the old fogy who is always with us. Suppose she does marry and finds she must afterward earn her own living or starve? Married woman, get back home and stay there! You've no right to take the bread out of the mouths of single women. Starve if you will and let your children starve, but don't come in competition with the single woman, once more thunders the old fogy. For twenty years the New York board of education has been thrashing over the aged straw of the question whether married women may be "permitted" to teach in the public schools, and when the knell of the twentieth century strikes it will probably be at it still. In connection with this may be mentioned some recent statistics of married men who desert their families. Last year 574 such abandoned families applied for aid to the Public Charities organization in New York. There were 1,565 children in the families thus abandoned by their alleged breadwinners. The cause of the man's desertion of the helpless ones for whose existence on this plane he is responsible is in the majority of the cases, so far as they can be hunted down, intemperance on his part, frequently combined with laziness. One deserter claimed that his wife was a religious fanatic and very deaf and suspicious besides. In this case one's sympathies are with the deserter, but he appears to be the sole victim. The others are simply no account men. Yet all the world is desperately shooing woman into matrimony. Then after she is in and finds herself tied to a man who either cannot or will not maintain her in the style she has a right to expect, if she tries to earn her own bread all the world is up again and tries to shoo her out of life. Nice planet this is for a woman to live on, isn't it?

* *

The best way to succeed and the easiest in the long run for women who know they can do something is to start enterprises of their own. The posts in established industries are already largely filled by men who are not going to give their places up, and, indeed, there is no reason why they should. But let the woman who is strong, determined and shrewd—the more gentle and womanly she is the better, also—think things over carefully, decide what she can do, then begin it on her own account and stick to it till success comes. A notable example of the wisdom of this policy is Miss Mattie Sheridan, founder and editor of a lively little art and society magazine in New York. Miss Sheridan was a Louisville girl who knew how to write. She went bravely to the great city, where success is so hard to gain, starting first as a newspaper contributor. She won speedily a foothold that would have satisfied many, but not Mattie Sheridan. After several years she founded a periodical of her own, which has made her independent socially and financially.

* *

When you hear a woman say she has all the rights she wants you may conclude she has for sure all the rights she is capable of exercising.

* *

I wonder why it is that benevolent working people do not start a mission among the benighted rich to teach them how to do something useful.

* *

What would the newspapers of New York do without these two headlines: "Women In Panic In Trolley Crash," "Women In Panic In Ferry Crash?"

* *

Most people would be very much surprised to learn what their greatest faults are in the estimation of their acquaintances, and they would indignantly deny that they possessed such faults.

* *

A curious thought has come into my mind. Lately I saw a picture of Hiram Cronk, the old soldier of 1812, who died a little while ago at the age of 105. Grouped around him were also half tone pictures of his children, aged eighty and thereabout. The portrait of the venerable Hiram himself looked not a day older than that of his eighty-year-old son. Now, if an individual 105 years old looks no older than eighty, why should the person of eighty look any older than fifty-five? See? Why should not the scale slide backward in the same proportion?

* *

The greater the victory the greater must be the struggle to gain it.

* *

A bachelor man, explaining why so many of his sex do not marry, says: "We all go on the theory that no man, however good, is good enough for a woman. That is why we don't get married. Are bachelors happy? Well, they think they are." And are bachelor girls happy? Well, they, too, think they are.

* *

A bill was introduced in the last New Jersey legislature to stop hanging women for murder in that state. This is plain justice. If capital punishment is ever justifiable it should never be inflicted on women till women have the right to sit on juries that condemn members of their sex.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

HOT WEATHER GOWNS.

Costumes, Parasols and Millinery For the Summer Days.

I have a young friend who spends her summers in a small country hotel, and during four consecutive seasons she worked steadily and hard to make herself a lace dress, all to be wrought on a surface of batiste. When it was completed that particular style had been put into that strange place where all old fashions are stored and no one knoweth where. All that beautiful work went for nothing, for now lace gowns are not in the swim—that is, if you go to buy a gown which shall be a thing of beauty and a joy until one's rival comes out with a prettier one. Now, instead of the graceful sweep of a plain skirt overlaid with lace the skirts are flounced and plaited and treated in such a manner as to require from ten to twenty-five yards of material. Is that a forerunner of the crinoline that certain manufacturers have been trying to force women to wear for many past seasons? It may be.

Well, to return to lace dresses. If there are few gowns all of duchess lace or Limerick or Cluny or Irish crochet, there are many pretty light laces set on the edges of the flounces and on all places where it can be put, and deep cuffs, yokes and insets, and sometimes one may find lace inset in the skirt if the material is suitable. No matter where lace is put, it is pretty and an ornament. The parasols are light and gracefully trimmed with lace put on in many fanciful ways. One, for instance, had the body of the parasol made of closely shirred pink chiffon, with a regular fluff at the point, then a row of black silk guipure lace, with three little tabs of black velvet fastened so that they would fall on each rib from the black line, then another row of shirring and a full ruffle of chiffon, with a row of fine valenciennes half an inch wide set on straight. The handle was of ivory, with inset pieces of fine Whitby jet. This parasol cost $75. A young girl who saw it with me went home and covered her white parosol with pink chiffon in exactly the same way, and it was every bit as fine, only hers had a coral handle. But who was to know that the original was of carved ivory and jet?

The majority of parasols are plainer this season, although there are many of the fluffy kind for summer days and pretty toilets when there is no rain. One pretty plain silk one had little tabs of black lace half an inch wide beginning from under the edge and extending part way up the body. More pieces are laid at the point so that they are like a star. A dainty little bow of pink ribbon is at the handle, and that reminds me that all the summer parasols have bows of ribbon at the handle. Some very unusual parasols are made of brocaded silk, with a full ruching of white chiffon along the edges. Others seem to have had a special design woven for them in the factories, for the edges show a fancy stripe that otherwise could not have been brought there. Pink, apple, green mauve and soft old rose in many shades are seen, and so is deep ox blood red. Blue I have not yet beheld. It would be an anomaly.

SUMMER COSTUMES.

Among the lovely fancies in lace for the adornment of summer dresses are the circular lace berthas. They are about four inches deep and three feet long, but are curved like a flat collar.

For summer afternoons there is no end to the light and lovely stuffs, but of them all veilings and eoliennes are the best, while the rich and useful mohairs are a close second. In the illustration is a soft tan veiling, with a vest front of white cut embroidery, now so popular, and a bias band two shades darker around the skirt above the flounce and along the front of the tucked blouse and sleeves, with their cuffs of the cut work. A hat such as Captain Marryat describes in one of his once popular novels is wide of brim and bound around the crown with blue and white ribbon, and a crush belt of the same is brought to a sharp point, though some folks predicted that there would be no pointed belts this season.

A mohair suit for a young lady is in a pale, frosty blue, the skirt entirely plain save for the perfection of the finish. The waist is in sailor style, with white silk castle braid on the collar. The V is of tucked white linen, and it is high, like a stock. The sleeves are cut square, but tucked into shape nearly to the elbow.

The hat is of blue chip of the exact shade of the mohair and is trimmed with a piece of silk mull, with cut out work. This falls over the brim in the back like a long plume. This silk mull can be washed if soiled. To wash it lay it in well soaped water awhile, then clap it between the hands till dry and iron. OLIVE HARPER.

FAKE SETTLEMENT WORKERS

Where Sweet Charity Is Made to Serve Personal Ends.

"You wish to help this settlement? Have you any experience in settlement work?"

The young and blooming applicant fidgeted nervously. "Well, no," she admitted. "But, do you know, I have always been dying to do something useful, and I would just love to go among the poor."

The matron in charge of the settlement, strange to say, did not jump at this sweet offer of a helping hand. Instead she smiled dryly. "Well, leave me your name and address, and I will think about it."

The next day the fair creature was notified that they were very sorry, but they could not accept her kind offer.

"Society climber!" was the reason given to me by the matron, who is a friend. "You see, Mrs. Four Hundred is at the head of this particular branch. She is as good as gold and has given her whole life to the poor, but she is perfectly tired to death of fake charity workers, who try to worm themselves into her private life by using their acquaintance with her at the settlement. They come here and they gush over the poor, and then they gush over her and write her notes about the work. Good gracious! Why, there's no end to their pushing! You'd simply be horrified if you could see what is done in charity's name.

WEAR THEIR PRETTIEST GOWNS.

BEATRICE MILLER.

THE DEMONSTRATIVE GIRL.

She Makes Herself a Nuisance In Public and In Private.

"Well, goodby."

"Come to see me soon."

Smack, smack!

"Perhaps I'll come tomorrow."

"All right, darling; only be sure to telephone."

Smack, smack!

"Oh, git ou wid yez. Does yez t'ink the car kin wait till yer through slushin'?"

This last is from the rude conductor, who has been waiting, bell rope in hand, for the two friends to get through their goodbys and kisses.

You would think they were not going to see each other for a week. As a matter of fact they live ten streets apart.

Heaven defend us from the demonstrative woman! She screams when she is frightened, she laughs boisterously when anything happens, she weeps tempestuously when she has the blues.

She certainly is a nuisance and makes too much racket for her size. What makes it worse is that she is many times not sincere—in fact, nine cases out of ten it is all on the surface. Don't trust the woman who squeezes you around the waist all the time and cooes "Duckie" and "Girlie" into your ear. She is not your best woman friend. It is oftener than not that cold, unsympathetic one who feels [illegible] her heart, who hasn't much to say, but who rises to the occasion when you need her and who does things.

KISSES ON THE STREET.

The woman who [illegible] calls you pet [illegible] much [illegible] does the same [illegible] and [illegible] the bargain. [illegible]

ATTRACTIVE TRIFLES.

Checked Silk Under Sheer Materials—Violet Trimmed Slippers.

Silk in large checks is used under plain voile or other sheer materials with good effect. An attractive French gown carrying out this idea is of the new white serge, which is very sheer, made over a foundation of bright red and white checked taffeta. The gown is trimmed with white fiber braid and pipings of the red silk.

Violet satin slippers with large clusters of violets on the instep certainly sound theatrical, but in reality they are very pretty worn with a mauve frock.

A belt with a watch pocket is something new in pique or linen. The belt is four or five inches wide and fastens with the usual oval gilt buckle. The pocket is at the left side, a little pointed flap buttoning down over it to hold the watch securely.

Among the new fabrics for coat and skirt suits is linen duck. All linen, from every country and clime, is fashionable, but exclusive dressers are wearing the linen with a dull finish.

WHITE BATISTE GOWN.

Colored linen suits are very smart this summer with gobelin and porcelain blues in the lead.

Butchers' linen in white, which sells for 10 or 15 cents a yard, makes a most satisfactory summer frock.

White serge is smartest of all the wool materials for coat and skirt gowns. It is a serge we have never seen before, sheer and soft.

No woman need worry about the length of her coat. It is merely a matter of becomingness as far as fashion goes. Any length is right. A short woman should not wear a long coat unless it touches the hem of her gown.

The girl's frock pictured is of white batiste. English embroidery is inserted in the skirt in band effect, trimmed top and bottom with valenciennes lace. The baby waist is made with a double yoke—a small round one of embroidery and a larger one of batiste. Both are outlined with lace ruffles. The cravat and belt are of pale blue ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

NOTES ON FOOTWEAR.

Oxford and Colonial Ties Are Smart Styles In Low Shoes.

It is harder to practice economy in the shoe branch of the summer wardrobe than in any other department. The short dresses worn on all occasions—morning, afternoon and evening—make their selection a serious matter and models built on the very best lasts are not cheap by any means.

In low shoes the fashionable styles are the oxford and colonial ties and the new pumps. The simple pumps with cuban heels, round toes trimmed with flat bows, is the smart low shoe for warm weather.

Low shoes in suede in dull finished kid and patent leather are much worn. Patent leather certainly does wear abominably, still while new it looks extremely well and sheds the dust much better than the dull leathers.

This season tan shoes and slippers are more worn than ever, of course with stockings to match. Some of the white canvas and kid pumps are laced with wide black ribbon. The effect is more striking than elegant.

WHITE LINEN SHOE.

All of the smart low shoes have the Spanish heels, the high French stilts being reserved for evening slippers. With the short skirts the moderately high heels are prettier than the common sense two lap ones.

Children's sandal slippers, the real old fashioned kind with ankle straps, are made with spring heels to suit the modern child.

Linen spats to match linen shoes are made to order by the shoemakers.

The dainty low shoe illustrated is of white linen. The vamp is elaborately embroidered with a conventional design in cotton thread. Through the eyelet holes are drawn wide linen tape laces. JUDIC CHOLLET.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 25.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Our national heritage.—Isa. iv, 1-12. (Home missions. This may also be used as a temperance topic.)

In speaking of Christ in the opening chapter of his gospel John says, "And of His fullness have all we received, and grace for grace." The addition of grace to grace not only comes by growth, but also by inheritance. We inherit all the good of the ages that have gone before us. In philosophy, in invention, in theology and in religious experience we have the advantage of all that has been thought out and accomplished in the past periods of human history. The heritage of the American nation is a glorious one. When we think of the priceless privileges and glorious advantages that we enjoy today as a nation as a result of God's blessing upon our godly ancestry we cannot be too thankful to God and too appreciative of the sacrifices and toils of those brave bands of men who at great cost laid the foundation of the republic, whose freedom and manifold other blessings we enjoy today as an inheritence that has cost us nothing. As a nation we can truthfully say, "The lines are fallen unto us in pleasant places; yea, we have a good*ly heritage.*"

Not the least of our national blessings, inherited from those who have gone before, are our religious blessings. The men who laid the foundations of our republic were strong religious men. The manliest men of the world have always been religious men. The religious privileges that should have been theirs by inheritance had been cut off by tyranny and oppression, and to a new land they came and won them back for themselves and handed them down to their children and their children's children, let us hope, until the end of time. These religious blessings are ours today—faith in God, the Bible, the Sabbath day, religious liberty and all the minor blessings that go with these greater possessions. And these priceless inheritances are abundant proof that God has called us from among the nations unknown when Isaiah wrote and that as a nation we have earnestly sought the Lord our God and the Holy One of Israel because He glorified God. Hitherto our national life has centered in God and in Christ, who glorified God. And may it ever be so. Realizing that nations as well as individuals should "seek first the kingdom of God," may our nation ever give God the first place in its life and exalt that righteousness which exalteth a nation and avoid sin, which is a reproach to any people.

The inheritor, to show his appreciation of his heritage, should use it well and strive to pass it on to those who come after him in still better condition. One of the darkest facts in human history is that of wasted inheritances. In how many cases inherited fortunes have been a curse rather than a blessing! May it not be so with our national inheritances. As we have fully received the gospel from those who have gone before us, may we extend it throughout our land and hand it down in its purity and simplicity to those who come after us. And as our national ancestors lived close to God and avoided the evils of life that destroy, so may we also live, practicing, above all things, that self control for which they were noted and by means of which they were able to do great things for their God and for their fellows. Thus can we best thank God and thank them for our goodly national heritage.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xx, 8-11; I Kings xv, 11-15; II Kings xviii, 1-8; Ps. xvi, 5-7; xxxiii, 12-20; Prov. iv, 25-27; xiv, 34; Acts i, 8; Rom. ix, 1-5; x, 14, 15.

An Objection Box.

The English Christian Endeavor Times suggests as an attractive feature for Christian Endeavor meetings an occasional objection box. At one time, for example, members might be asked to bring to the meeting all the objections they had heard raised against foreign missions. Some skillful speaker of experience will be prepared to answer those objections and to send the members away ready to meet them with convincing argument when they occur in the course of future conversation. At another time in a similar way objections to the Christian Endeavor pledge might be considered, or to our Christian Endeavor consecration meeting, or to the practice of tithing.

A New Endeavor.

Japan has a new sort of Endeavor society—a 'Warriors' Families' Endeavor society, started in Yokosuka among the families of sailors. The empress became interested in the organization and sent a generous contribution to its treasury. It is established also at the Maizuru naval yard and consists mostly of families of sailors and cares for needy relatives of absent seamen.

A Tribute to Maine.

[Written for the first number of Maine's new Christian Endeavor organ.]

All hail to the state of the sturdy pine,
Whose sons are as masterful ever,
And hail to the sturdiest product of all,
The Pine State's Christian Endeavor!

Honor the state of the temperance host,
Discouraged, demoralized never,
And honor that teacher of firm self control,
The Pledge State's Christian Endeavor!

A cheer for the state that gave Longfellow birth,
The poet of young hearts forever,
And a cheer for that poem of God and of youth,
Perennial Christian Endeavor!

And never may weakness or sin or decay
These three from our banner dissever,
But always may power and pureness and youth
Be the glories of Christian Endeavor!

—Amos R. Wells.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

June 25: "The Vast Field of Southern Asia"—Mal. i, 11; Matt. viii, 11; John x, 16.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

"My name shall be great among the gentiles." India, from the snowy Himalayas to the farthest cape that looks out upon the southern seas, has for long ages been the home of uncounted millions of human beings who have struggled with each other for existence. A wonderland in fertility and natural resources, it has been the seat of empires vast in extent and fabulous in resources and luxury. It has been the object of the cupidity of every world conqueror in the successive centuries. It is today the special care of Britain and desire of Russia.

It is the home of religions having the largest following the world has ever produced. Hindooism and Buddhism were born there. The temples now in use are among the most numerous of any religion, while the ruins of those no longer maintained are objects of wonder and admiration for their architecture.

More than twoscore nationalities and many other tribes with a variety of languages and dialects numbering into the hundred, with a complex of customs and manners utterly bewildering and fastened by centuries of practice—all these go to make up a world almost unintelligible even to those who have studied it longest and with best opportunity.

It is into this mass of humanity that our religion has been carried and is making some of its most noted triumphs. Every league should at some time in the year make a particular study of our missions in southern Asia. History is making so rapidly at the present time and is so intensely fascinating that no one can afford to be ignorant of the conditions in this great peninsula of nations which is destined in the near future to play an important part in all probability in the drama of the world's progress.

Our own church began operations in India in 1856, when William Butler was sent out to found our mission. He selected the northwest provinces as our field because, among other reasons, no other church had missions there and also because our missionaries would not need there to learn so many languages as in other parts.

The story of our progress reads like the veriest romance. Today we cover the whole peninsula with our work and have extended our lines far down the eastern division of farther India, past Rangun, to the far strait of Malacca, and are firmly intrenched at Singapore and are reaching out into great Borneo and the unexplored fastnesses of the islands of the tropic seas.

The type of Methodism which is rising there is of the finest. Some years since, after he had made a tour of visitation of our missions there and had held all the conferences, Bishop Foss declared that if Christianity was lost from all the rest of the world there were sufficient vitality and aggressive power in the church in India to evangelize the world. Since that time the advance in the work has been very great.

All our young people should know the story of Sooboonagam Ammal of Madras. It will make an evening of much pleasure and interest to have it read in our chapters. The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will supply copies if asked.

Thy Will Be Done.

To step out of self life into Christ life; to lie still and let Him lift you out of it; to fold your hands close and hide your face upon the hem of His robe; to let Him lay His cooling, soothing, healing hands upon your soul and draw all the hurry and fever from its veins; to realize that you are not a mighty messenger, an important worker of His, full of care and responsibility, but only a little child, with a father's gentle bidding to heed and fulfill; to lay your plans and ambitions confidently in His hands as the child brings its broken toys at its mother's call; to serve Him by waiting; to praise Him by saying, "Holy, holy, holy," a single note of praise, as do the seraphim of the heavens, if that be His will; to cease to hurry so that you lose sight of His face; to learn to follow Him and not run ahead of orders; to cease to live in self and for self and to live in Him and for Him; to love His honor more than your own; to be a clear and facile medium for His life tide to shine and glow through—this is consecration and this is rest.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

Obedience to Duty.

We believe that obedience to duty is the way of life, and no one can do wrong without suffering. We believe in truthfulness, honesty of conduct, integrity of character, wise and generous giving, purity of thought and life. We believe that no real harm can befall the righteous in life or death.—C. F. Dole.

"Tell Him So."

If you have a word of cheer
That may light the pathway drear
Of a brother pilgrim here,
Let him know.

Show him you appreciate
What he does, and do not wait
Till the heavy hand of fate
Lays him low.

If your heart contains a thought
That will brighter make his lot,
Then in mercy hide it not;
Tell him so.

Wait not till your friend is dead
Ere your compliments are said,
For the spirit that has fled,
If it know,

Does not need to speed it on
Our poor praise. Where it has gone
Love's eternal, golden dawn
Is aglow.

But unto our brother here
That your praise is ever dear;
If you've any word of cheer,
Tell him so.

In Woman's Sphere

Why Does She Attempt Man's Work? — The Appropriate Girl

"Ah, ha!" remarked the bachelor. "I see that women are complaining of the scarcity of situations! Here is a stenographer who writes on behalf of her sister key tappers that after they have spent all their money in getting educated they can't get positions that will bring them a decent salary."

"Um—very sad!" remarked the bachelor woman dryly.

"Good heavens!" he snapped. "Why can't you have a little sympathy for your own sex? I don't expect you, a working woman, to slush over the sweet home creature, but at least have some pity for the poor, hard worked woman who, like yourself, has to earn her living and who can't get a situation!"

"What do I do for a living?" asked the bachelor woman calmly.

"Why, you make women's dresses—you are a dressmaker," he answered, puzzled.

"Yes, and I make a good living at it, don't I?"

"You do, indeed, considering the unholy prices you charge."

"I don't try to do man's work, do I? I don't try to be a doctor or a lawyer or even indulge in office work. No; I do woman's work, and if more of these people who are starving were to indulge in woman's work instead of having office work on the brain there would be less weeping and wailing about low salaries.

Woman's False Pride.

"Women are full of false pride. A woman will do anything but be an efficient servant, and those who are servants do not put their hearts into it. Take the cooks, for instance. How many of them try to learn how to improve themselves and to be more valuable to their employers? And yet, look at the men cooks—how they make a fine art of their trade and get salaries accordingly! There are a few women who are high priced chefs to millionaires and restaurants, but what is the percentage compared to that of men? You can't deny that the average woman has a much better head for cooking than she has for figures. Then why be a poor accountant or stenographer or private secretary and earn a weekly pittance instead of being a first class cook and working up ultimately to some household where one's salary is estimated by the year?

EVERY ONE ADMIRES THE TAILOR MADE GIRL.

"Then take my trade. It takes a pretty poor dressmaker not to have customers. Unless she cuts out two sleeves alike and makes her skirts pull up in front she is going to have all the work she wants. And, as for the artists in the profession—well, they charge their own prices, and people are glad to pay them. It is the same with millinery, laundry work or keeping boarders. You see women who would do well at something they could practice in their own home going out into offices, losing their health and making poor wages, while some man steps in and succeeds at their work."

The Appropriate Girl.

"Others may admire the beautiful girl, but give me the appropriate one," remarked a man in my hearing recently.

"But what do you mean?" we all asked.

"The girl who always looks right and does the right thing at the right time. When you invite her out into the country, for instance, she doesn't lace herself within an inch of her life and wear tight boots so she can't walk; neither is she that aggravating specimen who never has anything to wear (which means that she has everything but the right thing). When she goes traveling she dresses plainly and sensibly in a neat gray or blue costume. She looks like a lady, and I can assure you that under those circumstances every one admires the tailor made girl infinitely more than the fancy one."

MAUD ROBINSON.

The Constitutionalist
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Ed. ... Proprietor

Thursday, June 22 1905.

The West End avenue philosopher says that "V. M. C." on the Royal Arcanum insignia means "very much changed."

Dowie says that the only place on earth where there is no graft is Zion City. Undoubtedly, the "prophet" monopolizes that end of the industry.

Why all the anxiety these days to cut down the time between New York and Chicago? What we want to know at this time is how to get to the arctic region in eighteen hours.

Who will donate a sum sufficient to allow the City Union of King's Daughters to install a telephone at the baby camp on the mountainside? This institution is doing a good work and deserves general support.

In addition to being somewhat of a statesman, those who have read his recent speeches are inclined to believe that the Governor is more or less a scholar. Oh, if we only had a United States Senator who could express himself as does Edward Casper Stokes.

This is not a want ad. column, but if any well-disposed resident desires to do a good act the City Union of King's Daughters will be glad to hear from him or her. A telephone is much needed at the baby camp on the mountainside, and the organization cannot afford to install it. Who will help?

Party leaders are enraged over Everett Colby's platform for the State senatorial nomination in Essex county and a disruption is probable. Any political body that cannot accept his platform, limited term franchises and equal taxation, is dishonest and should be driven from power. If Colby is the kind of fighter that Philadelphia' mayor seems to be, his battle will do a lot of good in New Jersey even if he doesn't land the coveted office.

California produces about 2700 cars of raisins every year, while the consumption in the United States is about 1000 cars, says the Philadelphia Record. The surplus is sold to the distilleries at a sacrifice. A prominent grower at Fresno proposes advertising as a remedy for these conditions. The food value of the raisin should be made a matter of educational publicity. The million dollars that annually slips through the fingers of the producers in disposing of their surplus would pay the cost of an adequate advertising campaign five times over. Advertising is the universal adjuster that makes consumption commensurate with production in any industry to which it is properly applied.

Attorney General McCarter has nullified the proceedings of the citizens of North Plainfield whereby a $4,000 school bond issue was authorized on May 23. In his ruling the Attorney General makes the point that the ballots should have borne the full text of the resolution instead of the words "for" and "against." The borough Board of Education in its procedure complied strictly with the law and with the rules of the State board so far as they were informed of them. The new ruling is to be embodied in a circular which the State authorities have not yet distributed. It is worthy of note that the proceedings last month, which are declared irregular, were precisely the same as those of June, 1904, when the $36,000 of school bonds were voted on the same sort of ballot which is now rejected. As the money is absolutely necessary to complete and furnish the Somerset street school house immediately, it is to be hoped that the Board of Education will lose no time in resubmitting the proposition to the people. It went through unanimously before, and there is no likelihood of opposition now.

CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES.

At Seventh-Day Baptist Church on Saturday.

Children's Day exercises were held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Saturday morning in place of the regular services. Miss Green, president of the Christian Endeavor Society, was in charge. The decorations consisting of potted plants and other flowers of the season, adorned the platform.

The programme comprised an organ involuntary by Miss Jessie Utter, a processional during which the school marched into the church in a body singing a hymn. There was an anthem by the chrous choir, followed with a recitation by Hannah Shaw, a Children's Day anthem by the primary department, recitation by John Cottrell, Jr. Mrs. John Cottrell sang a solo during the offertory and the pastor, Rev. George B. Shaw, conducted a Bible reading in place of the sermon, and made a few remarks. An anthem by the choir concluded the services.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Casino and the Princess are closed for the season. The Lyric, where "Fantana" is nearing its two hundreth performance on Broadway, continues to house exceptionally large audiences. Jefferson De Angelis, Katie Barry, Julia Sanderson and George Beban remain in the cast. Matinees Wednesdays (at popular prices), Saturdays and July 4. Katie Barry, the surprisingly clever little Cockney girl, who is appearing in "Fantana," has been protesting, through the New York Evening Telegram, at our idea of the Londoner's inability to appreciate a witticism. There is a great deal of good, hard sense in her remarks, especially when she speaks of "the ungraciousness of making fun of a whole nation because its view point is not precisely yours."

There is practically a new bill on the circus ring at Luna Park this week. Will Hill, king of the high wire, whose unmatched feat of daring still thrills the crowds nightly, as it has done for the past two years, is billed to appear twice a day during the entire season. The seventeen bears which have just arrived from Hamburg, Germany, will be put through their acts which created a furore throughout Europe. Julius Seeth, the well known animal trainer, has an admirable colaborator in Mlle. Louise, who is in the big barred ring alone with the animals throughout the act. The other changes include the following: Mons. Legette, single trapeze and ladder walker; Jack Theo Trio, sensational novelty act; the Three Madcaps, lady acrobatic dancers; Breakaway Barlows, in their startling breakaway ladder act; Le Vanion, Spanish rings and trapeze; Be Anos, gymnasts; the La Dells, hand balancers and acrobats; the great Lynch, marvelous performance on the slack wire; European Comiques, Francois Danalloh and Baino.

Bostock's Wild Animal Show, unequalled for originality and stirring amusement, is again the centre of attraction at Coney Island, having opened for the season under the personal direction of Frank C. Bostock, the famous animal king, last week. The greatest interest is of course centred in Bonavita, the brave and fearless conqueror of a hundred lions, who has returned from Bostock's Paris Hippodrmoe direct for the summer engagement.

Thursday evening next will mark the full opening of the season at Manhattan Beach, for at 8 o'clock in Pain's Amphitheatre will be produced Port Arthur, the pyro-spectacle of the season, depicting the most important event of the Russo-Japanese war. The scenery has been painted with great care, so as to maintain strict truthfulness as to the locations of the various important points in the fortress. The picture presents a view of Port Arthur looking diagonally towards the sea. In the foreground are seen the old and new towns and the permanent fortifications. Across the harbor is Rihlung or Ehrlungshan (Mountain of the Two Dragons), which was reduced December 30, 1904, and which was the immediate cause of the surrender of Gen. Stoessel. To the right is the narrow entrance to the outer harbor from the shelter of the hills, while outside Admiral Togo's vessels are seen in the offing.

Luna Park, Coney Island, is now running full blast. The advent of the warm weather has proved a magnet for Coney Island, drawing the people there in hundreds of thousands and from noon till midnight and later every noise that the ingenuity of man has invented calls patrons to the respective show places. In the matter of attendance this year Luna Park is distancing all competitors, records of previous years falling by the board each warm day. Thompson & Dundy credit this to the fact that the free circus has been so enlarged and improved that for the gate admissions persons may enjoy a day in Luna Park without the expenditure of another cent. The best and biggest circus acts of the world, many of them brought direct from Europe for Luna Park, are in continual progress from noon to midnight with no repetition in the programme.

Perhaps the individual hit of the Circus on Mars at the Hippodrome has been made by Marceline, the English clown, who has kept his audience in roars of laughter by his droll grimaces, funny antics and grotesque tumbling. Bessie McCoy, the "saucy soubrette," has danced her way into the hearts of her audiences. In the circus part proper, the famous Clarksonians ride and do their unique aerial act; Carre presents his horses, dogs and ponies, and the Ballatzer Sisters and many other European acts find place on the boards. In "The Raiders" are presented two tableaux, one at West Point at the outbreak of the Civil War, showing the corps of cadets on the drill ground, and the second the battle at Rocky Ford.

To Make Rat Killer.

B. Farbman and Nathan Metz, of this city, have formed a corporation and purchased the United States rights to the manufacture and sale of a rat and mouse exterminator from the inventor, a German by the name of David Kraemer. The exterminator is a powder and a factory for its manufacture will be erected in this city.

LITERARY.

Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, has an interesting story in the June Recreation, entitled "John Davenport, Colfax." The story is illustrated liberally by the cartoonist and is a brief skete hof actual incidents which occurred in the life of his uncle during the early days in the far West. The story sheds an interesting side light on the ancestry of Mr. Davenport, whose kindness of heart and sincerity of purpose is known to thousands who have visited his stock farms in New Jersey or have met him in social or business life.

The renaisance of the Panama Canal is one of the topics of the day. But Panama is the biggest thing in canals, and will not suffer from any form of profitable competition. Not so with the little old Morris Canal of New Jersey. It has had its day and exists only as a picturesque ruin. As such Frederick Gould describes it in the June number of The Booklovers Magazine. And very attractive are the pictures which Arthur Hewitt took on a recent trip on an ancient canal boat through its long, tortuous, and deserted reaches and locks and lifts. The reader can conjure up visions of an ideal journey through the old canal in a house boat.

The career and experience of Mr. Togoro Takahira embraces most of the varied changes in modern Japanese history. In his early youth he felt keenly and deeply the ancient feudal life of Samurai and Shogun, and when Japan abandoned the old order and set her face toward the new he swung into and developed with the new national life. Mr. Takahira is a fine example of the diplomat and gentleman of the Far East. His culture and training are many sided—he is learned in Chinese philosophy and literature, he is a thorough scholar in the intricate literature of his own country, and he speaks and writes fluently in several European languages.—American Monthly Review of Reviews.

The contents of The Era Magazine this month are remarkably attractive and entertaining. There are no less than ten original stories. "The Queen of Italy in Private Life," illustrated with numerous photographs, gives interesting information concerning the Italian monarchy. A full account is given of Booker Washington's great work at the Tuskagee Institute. G. P. Blackiston contributes an interesting illustrated article on "The Real Gibraltar." The seventh article of this magazine's important series on "The Despotism of Combined Millions" gives amazing revelations concerning the misuse of the funds of life insurance policyholders. Besides these features, there is an impressvie article by James M. Mason, throwing light on the all-important question, "Should the Government Control the Railroads?"

Gertrude Atherton never writes an uninteresting story. Her novel, "The Traveling Thirds," which opens the July Smart Set, is a particularly striking piece of work, full of brilliant dialogue and exquisite bits of description. The tale concerns the adventures of a party of Americans who travel through Spain third class, in order that they may come into close contact with the people of that country. The heroine, Catalina Shore, is as independent, as original, as refreshing as the author's famous Patience Sparhawk. The love story in "The Traveling Thirds" is delightful, and the sensational denouement is one of the most dramatic scenes which Mrs. Atherton has ever written. The Smart Set has published a long line of novelettes which have lived a far greater length of time than the usual magazine story, but Mrs. Atherton's latest piece of fiction will win even a more lasting measure of praise.

HORSEMEN THRONG THE DRIVING PARK

A GOOD MATINEE CARD PRESENTED SATURDAY.

The matinee races at the Driving Park Saturday brought out a good crowd of horsemen from this city and other places. Four races were on the programme, and there were a fair number of entries in each. The results were as follows:

First Race; free for all—Won by Charles Brower's Tattler Burns; Adam Blair's Rex, second; J. H. Green's Glitter's Lad, third. There ware two heats, Tattler Burns winning both in 2:25 and 2:29.

Second Race; 2:24 class, mixed—Won by Edward Kinsey's Jack Spratt; Edward Sweet's Lady Francis, second. Time for heats, 2:27 and 2:26¼.

Third Race; 2:30 class—Won by Thomas Brantingham's Midget; Charles Brower's Rose Lake, second. Time, 2:28 and 2:32.

Fourth Race; 2:35 class—Won by J. H. Green's Lady Trivol; Stacey Smith's Walter E, fourth. Hodge's Brown Mare and H. Evans' Ruby Stranger tied for second place, each winning second and third in a heat. Time, 2:42 and 2:30½.

The judges were J. Wesley Johnson, W. F. Williams and W. A. Coddington, of this city, and Dr. Voorhees, of Somerville.

STREET DEPARTMENT AS BUSY AS USUAL

WORK BEING DONE UNDER DIRECTION OF COMMISSIONER GAVETT.

For the purpose of overcoming certain difficulties that have existed carrying off the surface water at West Seventh street and Plainfield avenue, Street Commissioner Gavett is having strong iron culverts installed at that corner. This will make it possible to get at the drain for cleaning and thus prevent obstructions which have heretofore held the surface water back.

Other work being performed by the street department is the turnpiking of Hillside avenue, between Evergreen avenue and Randolph road. This has also been rolled, making it one of the most serviceable streets leading to the hospital.

The work of resurfacing Belleview avenue, which leads from Park avenue to Hillside Cemetery, has been temporarily delayed owing to the lack of fine stone. This is expected to arrive next week, and when the work is completed this will be one of the best macadam roads in the city.

The next work of importance to be taken up will be the resurfacing of Hillside and Evergreen avenues, the surface of which has been considerably disturbed by the sewer work. After that it is quite probable that East Fifth street, between Watchung avenue and Richmond street, will be resurfaced. Other repair work in various parts of the city will be taken up in accordance with the necessity of it.

The street sprinkling work is being done quite satisfactorily, although Mr. Gavett has recently discovered some of the drivers putting too much water on certain streets. This difficulty will be remedied at once and effort made to have a more even distribution of water.

TIMES' GREAT DAY.

Martine Speaks on Behalf of Plainfield Papers.

The opening of the Elizabeth Times Publishing Company's new building at Elizabeth on Saturday, was an enjoyable affair. The auspicious event was marked by a number of speeches, including one by James E. Martine, of "Cedar Brook Farm," who spoke in behalf of the Plainfield papers.

Other speakers included John Moody, Rev. Dr. J. R. Atkinson, Joseph McManus, James C. Connolly and N. C. Barton. In addition to the addresses in which the enterprise of The Times Publishing Company was praised and the new building favorably commented upon, there was a luncheon which was not the least of tne pleasant features. The guests were all permitted to inspect the building afterward.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between The Board of Trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund, complainant, and James Armstrong, et als., defendants. Fi. Fa. for sale of Mortgage Premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale at public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF JULY, 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, beginning at a point formed by the intersection of the southwest side of New Street with the southeast side of West Fourth Street, thence southeasterly along the southwesterly line of New Street, a distance of eighty-five (85) feet to other property belonging to said Frank C. Cook; thence with the line of his other land, south fifty degrees and fifty-four minutes west a distance of forty-seven and sixteen one hundredths (47.16) feet; thence north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west a distance of eighty-five (85) feet, more or less, to the southeast side line of West Fourth Street, thence with said side line of West Fourth Street northeasterly forty-nine (49) feet, more or less, to the beginning. Together with the land in front thereof to the centres of New and West Fourth Streets.

Being a portion of the same premises conveyed to the said Frank C. Cook, by deed of the executors of William Cortright deceased, dated April 12, 1904, and recorded in book 429 of deeds for Union County, pages 598, etc.

B. FRANK CORIELL, Sheriff.
Wm. M. Stillman, Sol'r.
E. D. J. & C. 5 31 C 5
Adv. fees—$9.00.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between William M. Stillman, assignee of Isaac W. Rushmore, complainant, and James Armstrong, et als., defendants. Fi. Fa. for sale of Mortgaged Premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF JULY, 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey. Beginning at a point in the southwest side line of New Street, distant in a southeasterly direction along said line, eighty-five (85) feet from the southeasterly side of West Fourth Street; thence along said side line of New Street south thirty-nine degrees and forty-five minutes east, seventy-three and ninety-five one hundredths (73.95) feet to a stake; thence south fifty-one degrees and nine minutes west forty-five and ninety-five one hundredths (45.95) feet to a stake; thence north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west seventy-three and seventy-five one hundredths (73.75) feet to a stake; thence north fifty degrees and fifty-four minutes east, forty-seven and sixteen one hundredths (47.16) feet to the beginning, together with the land in front thereof to the centre of New Street; being a portion of the same premises conveyed to the said Frank C. Cook, by deed of Simon P. Whitaker and Frank M. Bacon, executors of William Cortright, deceased, dated April 12, 1904, and recorded in book 429 of deeds for Union County, on pages 598, etc.

B. FRANK CORIELL, Sheriff.
Wm. M. Stillman, Sol'r.
E. D. J. & C. 5 31 C 5
Adv. fees—$9.00.

'PLAINS EDEN BROKEN UP

Brooklyn Wife Causes Arrest of Charles Olsen and Successor.

HELD FOR COURT.

Olsen in Jail and Wife No. 2 Released on Her Recognizance—He Tells His Tale.

About four months ago Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olsen, who said they came from Far Rockaway, rented a house on Mountain avenue, Scotch Plains, and settled down to housekeeping. They were devoted to one another to all appearances, and though they made few friends the neighbors regarded them as a model couple and respected them accordingly. On Saturday a woman, who said she was Mrs. Charles Olsen, came out from Brooklyn with a detective. She said she was the real Mrs. Olsen and that the other woman had no legal or moral right to the name.

After sleuthing around the detective located the Olsen home on Mountain avenue. Then he and the woman went to Elizabeth and secured a warrant for the arrest of the couple from Justice Kelly. Constable Walpole, of Scotch Plains, served it.

Olsen was held in $500 bail for the Grand Jury. He was unable to secure a bondsman, and was locked up. The woman was released on her own recognizance.

Olsen is said to have acknowledged the truth of the complainant's allegations. He says her temper caused the breaking-up of their home in Brooklyn. He met the other woman after leaving his wife, he said, and a mutual affection sprang up between them. He said he had merely tried to forget the old life and start all over again. The Mrs. Olsen of Scotch Plains has a four-months' old infant.

Olsen's friends have interested themselves in his case, and an effort is being made to secure a bondsman. The Brooklyn wife has a ten years' old child.

BACK FROM CONVENTION.

District Deputy Vanderhoef Returns from Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of Prospect place, have returned from Milwaukee, where Mr. Vanderhoef represented New Jersey at the session of the Supreme Conclave, Improved Order Heptasophs, at which nearly all the old officers were re-elected.

The various reports presented showed the order to be in a flourishing condition. Mr. Vanderhoef was instrumental in having Atlantic City selected for the next Supreme session in 1907.

Exercises at Watchung Crest.

The term exercises of the Groszmann School at "Watchung Crest," were held Saturday afternoon. There were guests from New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and this city. Almost all of the pupils took part in the exercises, which comprised six different numbers, representing the victory of spring and summer over winter. In connection with the exercises there was an exhibit of pupils' work, showing the progress of the children.

Mrs. James Moran, of West Fifth street, has recovered from her recent severe illness.

Edmund Rushmore and L. Herbert Condict, of this city, have been stopping at the Victoria, Asbury Park.

FREEDOM CASTLE AT DIVINE SERVICE

G.E. MEMBERS AT DEPARTED BROTHERS GRAVES.

For the first time in the history of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, the members observed Memorial Day Sunday, taking this opportunity to visit Hillside Cemetery during the afternoon, accompanied by a detachment of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, where the memorial service of the order was conducted at the graves of the late members, Frank Bowman and Vincent Gulick. Horace J. Martin was in charge of the services, assisted by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan. Thirty-eight Knights attended. After the services the Knights adjourned to the home of Mr. Martin, on Marion avenue, and were served with refreshments, which were very acceptable, owing to the extreme heat.

Last night about sixty Knights attended divine services at the First Baptist church, where the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. H. Chambliss, delivered an appropriate sermon for the occasion. His subject was "Christian Manliness," and after referring to the noble and worthy objects of the order and expressing his pleasure regarding the fact that it was founded on Christian principles, and wishing it a continuance of success, he delivered his regular sermon, which was enjoyed by all.

During the service there was special music by the choir, including several anthems and a solo by William Holmes.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS' MEMORIAL OBSERVANCE

CRESCENT COMPANY AND VISITING DELEGATES DECORATE GRAVES.

With a greater number of men participating than ever before, Pythian memorial day was fittingly celebrated by Crescent Company, No. 13, Uniformed Rank, Sunday. Fully 200 members of the order were in line, delegations coming to Plainfield from Brooklyn and Port Chester, N. Y.; Jersey City and Newark. Colonel P. Frank Shanley and staff, of Jersey City, were among the distinguished visitors.

Services were conducted over the Pythian dead in the North Plainfield and the Plainfield avenue cemeteries. At the former, Captain John Hall was in charge and was assisted by Joseph C. Blimm, Oliver R. Pearson, Jr., David Bowden and Charles McGinley. At the other, Captain Hale, of Rathbone Company, Brooklyn, officiated. The Knights marched to and from the cemeteries and with the full Independent Fife and Drum Corps in the lead, the large body of uniformed men presented a handsome appearance.

Following the memorial work, the visitors were entertained at a sumptuous supper served at Timbo's. This is the first time in many years that this part of the day's programme did not take place at Scotch Plains, the change being made because of the large number of men to transport each way. The graves at that place were decorated in the morning by a special delegation.

Realty Transaction.

The Estate of E. C. Mulford has sold to Joseph Harrigan an additional eight feet of land on East Fourth street, near Richmond street, and the new owner will erect two cottages in the near future.

Stay at Home and Save Money

With a Telephone you can arrange to sell your products or buy whatever you need, saving many trips to town

New York and New Jersey Telephone Company
333 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J
Telephone 5192

Reading System
New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, ..and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets..

Time Table Corrected to Nov. 27, 1904.

For New York — 2.17, 3.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.06, 7.25, 7.28, 7.48, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46, 9.34, 9.59, 10.26, 11.00 a. m., 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.21, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.03, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday —2.17, 3.37, 5.05, 7.41, 8.01, 8.52, 9.49, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12 m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.45, 6.52, 8.13, 8.32, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.38, 6.29, 6.57, 7.06, 7.25, 7.48, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.59, 9.34, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.53, 6.22, 6.33, 7.03, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.49, 10.08, 11.10 a. m.; 12.58, 1.45, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.45, 6.52, 8.13, 8.32, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville—5.25, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m.; 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.33, 5.03, 5.29, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.32, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.23, 11.26 p. m.; 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 10.51 a. m.; 2.03, 3.40, 5.37, 6.35, 8.30, 10.15 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m.; 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29, 6.41 p. m. Sunday —5.45 a. m.; 2.03, 6.35 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.03, 6.35 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52 a. m.; 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 3.44, 4.47, 5.42, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.; 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(8.11 Lakewood only), 9.27 a. m.; 1.18, 2.49, (3.44 p. m., Lakewood only). Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 8.51, 9.44, 10.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 6.45, 7.47, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47 p. m.; 1.25, 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m.; 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44, 6.45, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45 4.55, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47, 11.25 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 5.25, 8.38, 9.54, (10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m.; 2.11, (5.48, through train), 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m.; 2.08, 5.37, 6.35 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45 p. m.; 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electric Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after June 11, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06, f 10.33, 11.42 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.40, f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays —1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40, 7.44, f 8.37, and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 3.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.40 a. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 4.25, 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, f 3.04, and f 5.43 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.05, 10.05 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.
GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect Nov. 29, 1904.
LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.06 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.42 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

2.12 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.49 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Suffern, who have been spending their honeymoon at Atlantic City, have returned home.

Miss Laura Salmons has returned to the Plainfield Business College after a brief experience in the New York business world.

SOMERSET COUNCIL, 104, JR. O. U. A. M., CELEBRATES ITS 14TH ANNIVERSARY

Delegations From Sister Councils Present at the Exescises.

SOME GOOD SPEECHES.

New Market, Bound Brook, Dunellen, 'Plains, Westfield, Galia Represented.

The fourteenth anniversary of Somerset Council, No. 56, Jr. O. U. A. M., was celebrated Friday in the Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall, West Front street, in happy fashion. There were delegations present from Franklin and Benevolent Councils, of this city; Pioneer, of Bound Brook; Friendship, of New Market; Central, of Westfield; Fairview, of Gallia; William G. Holton, of Dunellen, and Twilight, of Scotch Plains. In addition State Council Secretary W. H. Meiers, and Past State Councilor, Rev. J. Morgan Reed, of Trenton, attended and each officer, as well as the representative from each Council made appropriate remarks in congratulating Somerset Council on its excellent record.

William Latourette, councilor of Somerset Council, was in the chair, and had charge of the programme, while other members of the Council had charge of the refreshments and minor details. The room was attractively decorated with American flags, bunting and various colored lights.

The Speeches.

The addresses of the evening were delivered by W. H. Meiers and Rev. J. Morgan Reed, and they gave the members a clear idea of the progress of the order in New Jersey, as well as other States. The old fight, between the Councils of New Yor, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and a few other States, against the Western Council, was reviewed, and this showed that the seceders are steadily gaining ground and have nothing to fear from the other Councils. Both addresses were along the line of patriotism. Mr. Reed won much applause in his reference to the fact that Governor E. C. Stokes is an active member of the order and has been a staunch friend of its principles, especially that in reference to the public school system.

Among the other speakers were Councilor H. C. Runyon, of Benevolent Council; John G. Bicknell, of Franklin Council, and representatives from the other councils. A feature of the programme was the rendition of a fine programme of music by an orchestra comprised of Juniors, under the direction of David Dreier, of Somerset Council. After the programme, refreshments were served and everyone had a general good time.

Has 265 Members.

Somerset Council was instituted June 12, 1891, in Spencer's Hall, in the borough, with thirty-five members. Today its membership is 265 and constantly increasing. Although organized in the borough and taking the name of Somerset, a few years later the Council moved to this city where better accommodations were secured. Recently, Somerset and Franklin Councils joined in leasing the present handsome lodge rooms in the Scheuer Building on West Front street, and meetings are held there every Friday night.

Its Officers.

The present offices of Somerset Council are:

Councilor, William Latourette; vice-councilor, George Wilson; junior past councilor, Fred Sopher, Jr.; warden, Arthur Dow; conductor, George Watts; inside guide, Arthur Thorn; outside guide, George Gannon; recording secretary, Walter Walker; financial secretary, George Allen; treasurer, Jesse Scull; trustees, P. H. Latourette, George Gannon and Peter Bennett.

State Bar Session.

Atlantic City, June 17—Important changes in the judicial system of the State may be recommended at the seventh annual meeting of the New Jersey State Bar Association, which opened at the Hotel Chelsea yesterday. A special committee appointed last year has made a study of judicial procedure and will make a report on methods by which the law business of the State can be simplified and expedited. Alan H. Strong, president of the association, was toastmaster at the annual banquet of the organization, which took place last night, and J. Hampden Dougherty is the principal speaker at the meeting session today.

State School's Anniversary.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the New Jersey State schools was observed at Trenton Saturday. Addresses were delivered by Governor Stokes and James L. Hays, president of the New Jersey State Board of Education.

Miss Ruth Maxson and Miss Ethel Titsworth, who were graduated from Smith College, yesterday, have returned home, accompanied by several Plainfielders who have been at Northampton, Mass., during commencement week.

ELKS LODGE LOCATES A MISSING MEMBER

ELIZABETH COUNCILMAN FOUND AT LAST DOWN EAST.

Councilman Edward P. Mohr, the missing representative of the Sixth ward, of Elizabeth, who disappeared March 5 and who it was feared had met with foul play, has been located in Portland, Maine, through a circular letter sent out by Elizabeth lodge, No. 289, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He left Elizabeth without giving anyone the least hint of where he was going, after dissolving his business relations in the real estate office of E. P. Mohr & Company with Thomas A. Clark, and resigning as treasurer of Boudinot Council, Independent Order of Foresters.

As soon as it was known that Councilman Edward P. Mohr, who is a member of the Elizabeth Elks, had disappeared, the Elizabeth lodge mailed a descriptive circular to every lodge of Elks in the order. This contained a photo of Mr. Mohr, together with a minute description of him. One thousand lodges were thus notified.

As the result of this thorough search, the Elizabeth lodge received word Saturday from Portland, Me., that Brother Mohr had attended a regular session of the lodge June 14, and was in the best of health and spirits.

JUDICIAL SYSTEM MAYBE MUCH CHANGED

COMMISSIONFR GETTING OPINIONS FROM LAWYERS OF THE STATE.

The commission appointed by Governor Stokes to consider and report on changes in the judicial system of New Jersey, consisting of ex-Governors John W. Griggs and Franklin Murphy, ex-Supreme Court Justice Bennet Van Syckel, Charles L. Corbin, of Jersey City, and John R. Hardin, of Newark, has sent out queries to lawyers and others in the State with the request for brief replies.

The principal questions are:

"First—Are you in favor of an independent court of last resort, and how many judges should this court contain? Should this court be constituted as an appeltate division of a Supreme Court, the other divisions of which would be the law division and chancery division?

"Second—Are you in favor of uniting the Supreme Court and the Court of Chancery as one court, with one set of judges, part of whom shall be assigned to the law division to hear law cases, with all the powers now exercised by the Supreme Court, and others assigned to the chancery division, with the powers now vested in the Court of Chancery; the law procedure and practice and the equity procedure and practice being retained substantially as it now exists?"

The purpose of such a change beand expense where a suit is commenced on the law side of the court, when it includes a subject of equitable jurisdiction and vica versa; and to enable the court more readily to transfer the case to the proper jurisdiction, to be there conducted in accordance with the appropriate procedure. This question is based on the assumption that the amendment will be so framed as to practically preserve both the law and equity jurisdiction to be exercised separately with the well understood powers each court, when the action is exclusively legal or equitable.

Journalism Yellow With Age.

Exactly 100 years have elapsed since the New Brunswick Guardian, whose meteoric career in the sky of New Jersey journalism has been long forgotten, printed the following:

"The art of political lying, being in general use and of great service to every party, ought to be well understood and reduced to some certain principles. To affirm, for instance, as some of our newspapers have done, that General Washington had purloined the public money, and was a traitor, tyrant and murderer, will not pass even on the most ignorant and credulous minds."

And yet it is said that modern reporters and editors are "yellow!"—Trenton True American.

Census is Complete.

Census Supervisor Thomas D. Hanna says that his enumerators have completed their work and that if anyone has been missed it is not too late to be enrolled. A postal card to the supervisor will bring an numerator to the door of the person who has not answered the required questions.

Miss Lottie Wilson, of Whitehouse, has been spending a few days with Plainfield relatives.

WHEN AUTOISTS OFFEND

Part of the New Law Bearing on Wrongful Acts.

LIMIT OF SPEED.

What Automobilists Must Do and Must Refrain From Doing in New Jersey.

Every resident of the State who is the owner of a motor vehicle and every non-resident owner whose motor vehicle shall be driven in this State, must file in the office of the Secretary of State, a declaration duly verified that such owner is competent to drive the motor vehicle for which application for license is made, and a written statement containing the name and address of such owner together with a brief description of the character of such motor vehicle, including the name of the maker and the manufacturer's number of the motor vehicle, if number there be, and the rated horse-power of the motor vehicle, and shall pay to the Secretary of State a registration fee of $1 for each motor vehicle. The Secretary of State shall issue for each motor vehicle so registered a certificate properly numbered, stating that such motor vehicle is registered in accordance with this section, and shall cause the name of such owner, with his address, the number of his certificate and a description of such motor vehicle or motor vehicles, to be entered in alphabetical order of the owner's names, in a book to be kept for such purpose. Upon any and every transfer of said motor vehicle said owner thereof in whose name the same is registered the said registration and certificate thereof shall forthwith be and become void, and the holder of said registration certificate shall return the same to the Secretary of State for cancellation, and the purchaser thereof shall thereupon, in conformity with the provisions of this section register the said motor vehicle anew and procure a certificate, as hereinbefore set forth. Every manufacturer of or dealer in automobiles instead of registering each automobile owned or controlled by him may make application, as hereinbefore provided in this section, for a registery number, and the written statement in addition to the matters herinbefore contained, shall state that he is a maunfacturer or dealer, as the case may be, and that he desires to use a single number for all machines owned or controlled by him; and thereupon the Secretary of State, if satisfied of the facts stated in said application, shall issue a certificate, as hereinbefore set forth, assigning the same a number as hereinbefore set forth, which certificate shall contain the statement that the same is issued to the applicant as a manufacturer or dealer, as the case may be, and that one certificate shall cover and be valid for all automobiles owned or controlled by such manufacturer, or dealer until sold or let for hire, or loaned for a period of more than five successive days, and all such automobiles shall be regarded as registered under such general number, provided and if, it be displayed on the front and back of the car as hereinbefore provided, there shall be added the letter M, of equal size and prominence. The fee dealer's license shall be $10.

2. Section three of said act shall be amended to read as follows:

3. The owner of each and every motor vehicle driving the same upon the public streets, public road, turnpikes, parks, public parkways, public driveways or other public highways in the State shall have the number of the license issued as aforesaid by the Secretary of State, upon both the front and back of every such motor vehicle, in a conspicuous place, so as to be plainly visible at all times, during the daylight, such numbers to be separate Arabic numerals, not less than four inches in height, and the strokes to be of a width of less than one-half of an inch, and there shall not be placed upon the front or rear of said vehicle another number similar in size and general appearance, which shall conceal or confuse the identity of the registration number of said motor vehicles.

Section four of said act shall be amended to read as follows:

4. Every motor vehicle shall carry, during the period from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise, at least two lighted lamps, showing white lights, visible at least two hundred feet in the direction toward which such motor vehicle is proceding, and shall also exhibit one red light visible in the reverse direction. Upon the sides or fronts of the two aforesaid lamps showing white lights shall be displayed, when said lamps are lighted, in such manner as to be plainly visible, the number of the license issued as aforesaid by the Secretary of State, the same to be in separate Arabic numerals, not less than one inch in height. Every motor vehicle shall also be provided with good and efficient brake or brakes and shall also be provided with suitable bell, horn or other signal device.

Section five of said act shall be amended to read as follows:

5. A rate of speed of one mile in three minutes may be maintained, but on any public street, public road, or turnpike, public park or parkway, public driveway or public highway, in this State, the said rate of speed driving a motor vehicle; provided, however, that nothing of this section contained shall permit any person to drive a motor vehicle at any having regard to the traffic and use of highways, or so as to endanger the life or limb or to injure the property of any person; and it is further provided that nothing in this section contained, shall effect the right of any person, injured either in his person or property by the negligent operation of a motor vehicle to sue and recover damages as heretofore.

5. Section eight of such act shall be amended to read as follows:

8. Any person driving a motor vehicle the owner of which shall not have complied with the provisions of this act, and which motor vehicle shall display a fictitious number, the same being a number other than designation for such motor vehicle by the Secretary of State, shall, upon conviction, be fined in a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, and, in default of payment thereof, be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding thirty days.

Section nine of said act shall be amended to read as follows:

9. Any person driving a motor vehicle upon any public street, public highway, public road, turnpike, park, public parkway or public driveway in this State (1) in a race or on a bet of wager; (2) or to make a public speed record exceeding the rate of one mile in three minutes; (3) or any person driving a motor vehicle thereon who shall in violation of the provisions of section six of this act, pass from either dlirection a person riding or driving a horse or horses at a speed greater than one mile in three minutes; (4) or who shall drive a motor vehicle thereon at a speed greater than one mile in two minutes shall, upon conviction, be fined in the sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, or may, in the discretion of the magistrate, if the violation be wilful, be imprisoned in the county jail for a period not exceeding ten days; provided, however, that no conviction or imprisonment shall be had, under the provisions of this act upon the uncorroborated testimony of a constable or police officer, and provided that nothing in this section contained shall authorize a speed greater than that provided in section five.

An Old Newspaper.

This office has been favored by a friend with a copy of the "Daily New Brunswicker," of Monday, June 22, 1857, which is the first title of the Daily Press, changed shortly afterwards to the Daily Fredonian. The Daily Press was fifty years old as a daily newpaper last January, being sixteen months older than the Republican party whose principles and candidates it has espoused in every campaign in the party's history. Yet the precious gang that has fastened its venomous fangs upon the party's organization in this city and county thinks it owes its highest allegiance to a newspaper which seized the psychological moment to change its politics a few years ago when it had become evident that the party whose fights had been made under circumstances of adverse character by the Daily Press and the Daily Fredonian alone for nearly a half century was destined soon to come into power. This course of conduct is in line with the policy of giving many choice offices to former Democrats to the exclusion of lifelong and loyal Republicans. Such Republicans, so-called, are but traitors in disguise, who will more than likely flop back again when conditions change, and no Republican is called upon to have his Republicanism tested by any question of loyalty to such foolhardy leader*ship. The best Republican service* can be rendered by those who love the Republican party for its principles and its honorable history, by striking down at the earliest opportunity such asinine and treasonable "leadership." — New Brunswick Daily Press.

MARRIED.

TOMLINSON—SUFFERN—At Plainfield, on Thursday, June 15, by the Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, Lucy Dunham Tomlinson and Philip Spencer Suffern, both of Plainfield.

DIED.

SHERWIN—Suddenly on Sunday, June 18, 1905, at his residence, 302 East Second street, Orren Sherwin, in his 82nd. year.

RANDOLPH—On Monday, June 19, 1905, Alice F., daughter of the late Isaac F. and Isabella F. Randolph.

HOGAN—At South Plainfield, N. J., June 12, 1905, Elen Hogan, at her late residence, Front street, South Plainfield, N. J.

JENSEN—On Thursday, June 15, 1905, Carl John, infant son of Carl J. F. and Abelone Jensen, aged 1 year, 8 months and 15 days.

BENEDICT—On Thursday, June 15, 1905, Charles E., son of Lucy A. and the late George Benedict, aged 58 years.

STOVER—In his 32d year, on June 16, 1905, after a lingering illness, Frank E., youngest son of Carrie H. and the late Rowland M. Stover.

BIGUELIN — On June 16, 1905, Henry Robert, infant son of Henry Robert and Elsa Pfeiffer Biguelin, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

PLAINFIELD'S WATERLOO

After Ten Successive Victories Daabsters Meet Defeat.

COLORED TEAM WINS.

Once in a while the expected happens. Everybody knew that the winning streak couldn't last forever, and in strict accordance with the law of averages or some other consarned principle it was busted by those Philadelphia Giants Saturday afternoon. 11 to 6, too. Tough; but bearable. Ten goes without a flunk is not any considerable to the bad, and it was a deserving bunch of athletes that plugged the going. Charlie Dixon wasn't there to see the plugging; he was off on a trip. Fate is kind to Charlie, yes.

What happened to us embraced a thick wad of woe for W. Beck, the grocery boy wonder, and a glittering bunch of unctuous satisfaction for Mistah Bowman, his hated rival. Surrounded by an air of grim determination, those Giants fell on our William in a body and cocked it to him something cruel. They plugged his delivery for fourteen good and sufficient plunks, including a homer, three triples and two doubles, earning seven of their marks by the honest sweat of their swatpoles. This looks bad for Bill, but there was a sneaking suspicion among the assembled experts that the Giant gents would have slugged anybody in the flinging busiress. They wiggled their sticks like Demon Batsmen for a fact.

As for the Hon. Mistah Bowman, he had the Mysterious Mr. Snuffles beat a mile for seven eventful innings. Our heroes couldn't tumble to him. Up to the eighth they landed on him for only three clips. Several times a goodly swat would have meant a run, but that swat was not. In the eighth our devoted band rallied in great shape, but though they tore away from the whitewash man in inspiring order, that pluck-the-victory-from-the-jaws-of-defeat act was not for theirs.

All these things were accomplished to sweet and tuneful accompaniment from soft-toned colored brethren who filled the rightfield bleachers. Another such victory for a tinted team hereabouts will surely result in apoplexy and joyful death among dark hued experts.

Among the other exhibits was Frederick Douglas Abraham Lincoln Monroe, chief coacher and gentle humorist. Munny talked freely. He also played third base and biffed the bail on the nose. All of which he did up to expectations. Munny recently struck Manager Slichter for a raise. Slick ought to have handed out without being asked.

Another interesting feature. J. O'Neill, late of the Orange A. C., appeared in the late P. Lamar's boots back of the bat. What he did included some passable work, a meritorious attempt at a foul, and one bum chuck to second. Jack looks like an earnest youth, and we saw nothing to raise misgivings as to his ability to fill Pierre's footgear. Welcome, Jack.

Things began with the tinkle of the gong. One out, Hill singled to center, and loped in on Munny's three-sacker to the same place. Munny was nipped at the plate on a fake chuck to second and Moore foul fied to Cregan.

In the third, the round thing hummed. Booker, first up, smashed a three-bagger to center, and came in on Grant's single. Hill dittoed, and Grant went on. He was forced at third by Munny, who roosted safe on fielder's choice. Johnson ripped off a two-bagger, Munny and Hill scoring. Moore foul flied, but McClellan banged one to center, scoring Johnson. White made the third out with a left field fly.

Another one in the fourth, with two out, on Leonard's fumble of Grant's plunk, O'Neill's bum throw to second and Beck's feeble block of Hill's whack. Munny flied out.

Three more in the next, thus: Johnson hit safe to left, Moore sacrificed him along, and McClellan hit him in with a two-bagger. Bowman smashed one over Cregan's head for a beaut homer, scoring McClellan ahead of him.

Bill Beck came in waving the distress signal, but Manager Daab told Bill he still had faith in him. The grandstand gave Bill a great bunch of encouraging hands. Then Bill went up to the bat and struck out. Very tough.

Two more in the next, and with two out, thanks to a bum error on Mr. Kiernan's part. Monroe hit to Kiernan and the gent at shortstop tried to pick the ball up with his feet. Munny stole second and Johnson took the vacated bag as a gift. Thereupon comes Mr. Moore with a three-bagger. McClellan popped out and Mr. Kiernan went behind the grandstand and kicked himself.

After that, nix for the demon batsmen, and for us a few in the eighth, as afore touched upon. Cosgrave singled to center and went to third on Oldring's biff—his third; 'twere a great day for Rube—in the same place. Connolly toddled. Then loometh Mr. Cregan very large on the horizon with a two-base belt to center that sent everybody home. Leonard died, short to first. Driscoll walked. O'Neill plunked one to Munny, and Munny chucked to second to head off Dave. It arrove too late, and the sacks sagged beneath waiting and hopeful athletes. Intense excitement reigned as Bill the Wonder stepped up, but the best Bill could do was a long fly, Cregan scoring on the throw in. Kiernan made the third out, short to first.

In the ninth, one out, Oldring was punched on the funny bone; he stole second and loped in on Connolly's peach welt to left for three sacks. Con squeezed in like greased lightning on Pete Cregan's plunk to third. He took the final end of the trip on his tummy, ripping thereby his panties from knee to hock, swallowing a lot of dust and biting a piece from one of Booker's spikes. It was a great dive. Leonard landed on White's error, and Driscoll dumped a Texas leaguer in right, but O'Neill popped out. Finis, whipped but undaunted.

Fragments of the fray.

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss ...... | 0 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 1 |
| Cosgrave, cf ..... | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Oldring, 2b ..... | 2 | 3 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf ..... | 2 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf ...... | 1 | 1 | 8 | 1 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b ..... | 0 | 0 | 5 | 3 | 1 |
| Driscoll, 1b ...... | 0 | 1 | 8 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c ....... | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 1 |
| Beck, p ....... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 |
| Totals ........ | 6 | 8 | 27 | 9 | 4 |

PHILA. GIANTS.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Grant, 2b ....... | 1 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 0 |
| Hill, lf ........ | 2 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Monroe, 3b ...... | 2 | 2 | 0 | 3 | 1 |
| Johnson, ss ..... | 3 | 2 | 5 | 3 | 0 |
| Moore, cf, 1b .... | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 1 |
| McClellan, rf .... | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| White, 1b ...... | 0 | 0 | 6 | 0 | 0 |
| Washington, cf .. | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Bowman, p ..... | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Booker, c ...... | 1 | 1 | 6 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals ........ | 11 | 14 | 27 | 9 | 2 |

Plainfield .0 0 0 0 0 0 0 4 2— 6
P. Giants ..1 0 4 1 3 2 0 0 0—11

Earned runs—Phila. Giants, 7. Two base hits—Johnson, Bowman, Cregan. Three base hits—Monroe, Booker, Moore, Kiernan. Home run—Bowman. First base on balls—Off Beck, 2; off Bowman, 4. Struck out—By Beck, 1; by Bowman, 5. Left on bases—Plainfield, 10; Phila. Giants, 6. Stolen bases—Oldring, Monroe, Bowman. Sacrifice hits—Moore. Passed balls—O'Neill. First base on errors—Plainfield, 2; Phila. Giants, 3. Hit by pitcher—Oldring, O'Neill. Time of game—One hour and fifty minutes. Umpire—Merrity. Attendance—1,000.

Baptist Pulpit Supplies.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will take his vacation during the month of August and announcement of these supplies has been made: August 6, Rev. B. D. Stelle, Philadelphia; August 13, Rev. G. M. Shott, Scotch Plains; August 20, Rev. George H. Wald, Vassa, Michigan; August 27, Rev. J. R. Ellis, Cohoes, N. Y.

Makes Arcanum Appeal.

Howard C. Wiggins, Supreme Regent of the Royal Arcanum, who lives at Rome, N. Y., has issued from there a circular letter addressed to the collector of every Royal Arcanum Council calling upon them to prevent any defection from the order.

NOTICE OF COPYRIGHT — Renewal Class C. XXC, Nos. 92,078-95. Library of Congress to wit: Be it remembered that on the 8th day of April, 1905, Mary Runyon Lowry, of Plainfield, New Jersey, hath deposited in this office the titles of 16 musical compositions by Robert Lowry, viz: "All the Days," "Another Year is Dawning," "Gentle and Lowly," "Glory to Jesus," "Home at Last," "Marching on to Battle," "Jesus, Only Jesus," "Looking Unto Jesus," "No Hope in Jesus?" "Peac in Jesus," "The Lord will Provide," "Room for the Penitent," "At Last," "By the Seaside," "The Glad Forever," "Watch and Pray." These in renewal for fourteen years from April 18, 1905. The right whereof she claims as Proprietor in Conformity with the laws, the United States respecting copyrights. Office of the Register of Copyrights, Washington, D. C. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress, by Thorwald Solberg, Register of Copyrights. 544

Wanted Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided.

The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenu

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and wormanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Jeremiah Manning, } Vice-Pres't
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before Janu*ary tenth will draw interest from the* first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life]

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Aves

Plainfield, N.J

LEAL'S SCHOOL CLOSES

Exercises at Boy's Private Academy Take Place Friday.

DR. ZELIE TALKS.

Prizes Are Awarded — Honorable Mention List — The Graduates.

The closing exercises were held Friday at John Leal's School for Boys. There was an attractive programme of prize speaking, declamations and awards of prizes and honorable mention for proficiency in work, and an able talk by Rev. Dr. J. Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent avenue Presbyterian church.

The first part of the programme was occupied with declamations by these boys: Charles Hyde, William Jewett, Kenneth Browne, Russell Phillips, R. H. Depew, Jr., Reginald Gough, Thomas R. Jewett, Harold A. Painter, Henry S. Fullerton, Jr., Lyman Campbell, John Uhler and Donald Fullerton.

In the prize speaking, John Uhler was awarded first prize; R. H. Depew, Jr., second, and Lyman Campbell and Harold A. Painter received honorable mention. The penmanship prize was won by R. H. Depew, Jr., and Donald Fullerton and J. H. Jewett, Jr., received honorable mention.

The other awards were honorable mention, a percentage of 90 being required. These boys received such mention:

English; first year—William W. Wilson, R. H. Depew, Jr., Thomas W. Foote; second year—Eldon D. Miller, Chauncey Haughey, J. K. Jewett, Jr.; third year—George H. Higbee; fourth year—Stanley E. Bates, Eliot Rowland; fifth year—Percy A. Chapman, Harold H. Millar.

Greek—Eliot Rowland, Lawrence C. Stryker.

Latin—Otis Averill, J. Cochran Martin, Percy A. Chapman.

French—George H. Higbee.

Algebra—George H. Higbee, Stanley E. Bates, C. Douglas Waring.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, who was one of the judges for the prize speaking, made a short address, at the conclusion of the awards, and his remarks were greatly enjoyed. The awards were made by John Leal. The graduates are Percy Chapman, Frank Curtis, Edward M. Daniel, W. P. Smith, Jr., Harold A. Millar, C. Douglas Waring, Charles Perkins, John K. Jewett, Jr., Roger Wilcox, Edward Suffern, Sherman Reese and Hervey Wyckoff.

There will be a few changes in the teaching corps at the school for next year, and announcement of this will be made later.

A STORAGE HOUSE TO COST $25,000

MONO COMPANY PLANS FOUR STORY STRUCTURE

The Mono Investment Company, which is composed of local capitalists, has plans in view for the erection in this city of a large storage warehouse to cost about $25,000. The details have been under consideration for several months, and final action as to what course to pursue will be taken at a meeting tonight, when several contracting firms will submit bids for the work. The company owns several large plots of ground in Plainfield and the site will be selected from these if it is determined to build.

As outlined in the plans, the structure is to be of brick, four stories in height and will be equipped with the improvements that mark similar buildings in the metropolis. These include electric elevators for the carrying of goods from one floor to another and other devices for moving them in and out.

NEWSPAPERS' DEATH KNELL.

Collector's Report Will Go to the Lowest Bidder.

The Monmouth County Board of Chosen Freeholders has sounded the death knell for several of the small weekly publications, which depended largely on the revenue received for publishing the county collector's semi-annual report. A resolution has been adopted authorizing the director of the board to procure bids from the county newspapers for printing in pamphlet form 20,000 copies of the report for distribution among the taxpayers.

The printing of the collector's report has heretofore been awarded to a number of the county papers. Politics entered into the awarding of the contract and the number of papers to receive the work gradually increased until last year every paper in the county received the contract. This entailed great expense to the county and, although $9,000 had been appropriated for printing and publishing, $12,000 was spent for this purpose last year. At the annual meeting this spring the printing appropriation was cut down to $4,000.

Mrs. Michael Clark, of Oneida, N. Y., is visiting her cousin, Mrs. James McCarthy, of West Fourth street.

EIGHT GIRL GRADUATES

Dunellen High School Class Addressed by Prof. Mulford.

TALK ON QUALITY.

Mrs. Charles S. Day Leads Orchestra—Chorus of Fifty Pupils—Programme in Full.

Exercises marking the graduation of eight young women from the Dunellen High School were held in the First Presbyterian church, Dunellen, Thursday. A lengthy programme had been prepared and its rendition was enjoyed by a large gathering of parents and friends. The class colors, pink and green, were used in the decorations and made a beautiful effect.

The graduates were the Misses Agatha Badum, Nettie Baldwin, Estelle Eick, Enid Fonda, Lillian Federman, Clarice Gray, Kathryn Kelly and Anna Rinehart. They were seated upon the platform and presented a charming appearance in the customary commencement gowns of white material.

The speaker of the evening was Prof. H. D'B. Mulford, of Rutgers College, who gave an address on "Quality." An orchestra, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles S. Day, rendered appropriate selections and a chorus of fifty children from the schools contributed several vocal numbers.

The programme in detail was as follows: Graduates' march, "The Return of the Heroes," Miss Kathryn Sampson and Miss Susie Lowrie; overture, "Rose d'Amour," orchestra; invocation, Rev. S. K. Doolittle; salutatory and essay, "Every-day Heroes," Miss Anna Rinehart; essay, "Our Women Singers," Miss Agatha Badum; selection, "Voices of the Woods," chorus; reading, "The Decisive Battles of the Rebellion," Miss Lillian Federman; piano solo, Miss Nettie Baldwin; essay, "Ameri can Wit and Humor," Miss Enid Fonda; essay, "Our Debt to the Ancients," Miss Kathryn Kelly; gavotte, "The Court Jester," orchestra; essay, "A School Girl's Sermon," Miss Clarice Gray; selections by chorus (a) "Sing On" (b) "Barcarole;" essay and valedictory, "Opportunity," Miss Clarice Day and Miss Estelle Eick; address by Prof. Mulford; intermezzo, "Cupidetta," orchestra; presentation of diplomas and prizes by Wilson S. Frederick, president of the Board of Education; selection, "Mountain Echoes," chorus; benediction, Rev. W. W. Casselberry.

TO NEWSPAPER WRITERS.

Don't Think Noah Webster Was the Whole Thing in Words.

Invariably write on both sides of the sheet. The printer is always happy when you do this. It keeps him from swearing.

Never write plainly. It would give the printer heart disease, and the coroner might hold you responsible for his death.

If you cannot spell a word, leave it to the printer. He has plenty of time to consult the dictionary, whereas your time may be very valuable.

Never forget to close a death notice by extending your sympathy to the family. It looks well in print, and then, you may not have time to write a personal letter of condolence.

Make as many flourishes as possible in your writing. If there is one thing a real printer loves it is to wrestle with flourishes.

Always wait until the last minute before returning your copy. Everybody about a newspaper office has time to enjoy a rush at the final moment.

Never get to the office any earlier than you have to. The publishers always like to see you come in late.

Never fail to prefix "Hon." to a man's name whenever possible. He may not deserve it, but it will make him feel that he really is somebody.

Remember that in any elopement the man is always a "gay Lothario."

Don't fail to keep in your vocabulary such words as "Sundayed," "Tuesdayed," "Fridayed," "summered," "wintered," "autumned, "talled," "springed," and the like. How much better it looks to say "Bill Jones, of Podunk, Sundayed in our town," than to make it "William Jones, of Podunk, spent Sunday here." Don't forget that Webster was not the whole thing in the word business.

Use the hardest lead pencil you can find, or buy. The fainter your writing the more time required to decipher it, and newspaper offices have time to burn.

Never say a good word for the administration unless it is of your politics, then never say a bad word.

Use "picknicked" and "picknicker" often as possible. Purists may not sanction them, but what do you care for purists?

Remember that, although you may put up the money and furnish the brains to run your paper, it really belongs to the people, and that each one of them has a perfect right to tell you just how your paper ought to be conducted. You have no rights and must not make the mistake of thinking so.

When referring to a boy or girl always prefix "young." If you don't some people might think the boy or girl was old.

STOKES ON EDUCATION AND RIGHTEOUSNESS

Governor Says It is Development of Individual That Uplifts Society.

AN ABLE SPEAKER.

Chief Executive of State Talks to Pennington Graduates on the Value of an Education.

A number of Plainfielders listened to the address of Governor E. C. Stokes at the commencement exercises Wednesday at Pennington Seminary at Pennington. Governor Stokes was greeted with prolonged applause and his speech was masterly. He said in part:

"Knowledge is democratic. She has no favors. Her fruits may be gathered by all, but in her vineyard every one must strive and toil for himself. Graduating diplomas are not hereditary. They are not handed down like entailed property, from father to son. They are given to those who earn them by actual merit. You may send a substitute to war, but you cannot send one to school. The wealth of Croesus would not buy a single acquisition for the mind, or employ a single laborer for the brain. Every aspirant for educational development must depend upon his own efforts. This is the Pennington spirit. It teaches the nobility of effort and self-help.

"Education is an internal process. It is possible to enrich material things from the outside. Common wood may be veneered with mahogany; common metals may be covered with silver and burnished with gold, but living beings must be developed from the inside. You cannot make a man grow by law. He must absorb the nourishing food that gives strength to his bones and muscle, and flush to his cheek. Men cannot be made wise by external application. You can build a man a house and place him therein, but he may lose it through extravagance and wastefulness. On the other hand, you can instill in him the ideas of economy, industry and thrift, and he will build his own house. Inspire and stimulate the reason and man will fill his own library with books. Cultivate the taste and the imagination and men and women will fill galleries with pictures. Stimulate the inventive faculties and men will create tools and machinery. Appeal to the springs of justice and men will go forth to cleanse iniquity and wrong.

"It is the development of the individual that uplifts society and makes for good. True men and women are needed in this life. Evil comes from men and not from systems. An autocracy is a good government provided the autocrat is a good man. A democracy is a good government provided the officials are good officials. The weakness of many of our refrom movements lies in the fact that they merely involve a change. They substitute one set of agents for another. They displace one machine with another equally unscrupulous.

"Far be it from me to excuse the spirit of fraud or duplicity, or to lessen the punishment of those who take advantage of their fellows, but I would go farther than this. I would not only punish the wrongdoer, I would deprive him of his occupation by teaching his followers to be honest, just as a minister of the gospel combats the operations of his satanic majesty by lessening the number of his possible supporters.

"Christ has not by fiat crushed ou the power of evil, but He gives us the gospel of hope and salvation by which we learn to resist evil. So long as we permit ignorance, cupidity, avarice, covetousness, false ideas of right and wrong to grow in men's hearts, so long do we furnish a rich field for the adventurers and a constant invitation to ply their schemes.

"You would better build a fence along the precipice than provide an ambulance at the bottom of the abyss.

"If one-half the energy today devoted to reforming criminals was given to preventing crime; if one-half the energy devoted to the relief of poverty was devoted to instilling the principles of thrift and economy, there would be more genuine prosperity and reform. Education is a preventive rather than a reformer. It does not wait till ignorance has grown intolerable before it acts. It begins with the youth, awakens his desire for knowledge, stirs his ambition until ignorance has no power to allure him.

"The good that this institution has done in spreading truth, in teaching men and women to know and love the right, has been in the nature of prevention by developing high ideas and high standards in its graduates."

Plainfielders Honored.

S. St. John McCutchen, Henry M. Maxson, Ira W. Travell and Charles J. Baxter have been appointed as members of the reception commitee at the convention of the New Jersey National Education Association, which will be held at Asbury Park.

PLAN FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Interacademic League Arranges for Fall Games.

ELECT OFFICERS.

Institutions Represented Are Leal's, Pingry, Newark Academy, Carteret and Montclair Military.

After a successful year, the interacademic league of Northern New Jersey held its first annual business meeting recently and elected officers for the coming year. The league is a year old, and has proved one of the most successful ever conducted in this State. The institutions represented are Pingry, of Elizabeth; Newark Academy, of Newark; Carteret Academy, of Orange; Montclair Military Academy and Leal's School, of this city. Newark Academy has pulled out first in all events this year, with the Pingry School a good second.

The league contests commenced last fall, when the five schools contended in football. There was no basketball or hockey league, though both will be conducted next season. Baseball and track games were the main features of the league since the opening of the outdoor athletic season.

On the track, Pingry made the best showing, three records having been made by the local sprinters. In baseball the schools were all weak, Newark Academy winning the pennant with a team inferior to many of the High School teams in the State. Pingry was second.

Routine business in closing the year's accounts was transacted at the annual meeting. The treasurer's report showed a balance in the treasury. An executive committee, composed of a representative and an athletic director from each school, has the business of the league in charge. The honor of president of the league for next year was accorded to the Pingry representative. Orel P. Keeney was elected to that position. H. F. McGiphin, of Newark Academy, was appointed vice-president, and C. A. Smith, of Montclair Military Academy, an instructor, was made secretary and treasurer.

The football schedule for next year was made out as follows:

Pingry Games—October 14, Newark Academy at Elizabeth; October 28, Leal's School at Plainfield; November 4, Carteret Academy at Orange; November 18, Montclair Military Academy at Elizabeth.

Carteret Academy Games—October 21, Leal's School at Plainfield; October 28, Montclair; November 4, Pingry School at Orange; November 18, Newark Academy at Newark.

Leal's School Games—October 14, Montclair Military Academy at Montclair; October 21, Carteret at Plainfield; October 28, Pingry at Plainfield; November 4, Newark Academy at Newark.

Montclair Military Academy Games—October 14, Leal's School at Montclair; October 21, Newark Academy at Newark; October 28, Carteret at Montclair; November 18, Pingry at Elizabeth.

Newark Academy Games—October 14, Pingry at Elizabeth; October 21, Montclair Military Academy at Newark; November 4, Leal's School at Newark; November 18, Carteret at Newark.

In addition to the above games, Pingry will have an independent football schedule. E. M. Van Vechten will manage the team. He has already outlined a part of the schedule, which will include several of the best teams in the State. As for material, the school will be well classed with other State teams, and a good showing is anticipated.

FIRST VICTIM OF AUTO LAW.

Assemblyman Perkins' Chauffeur Before the Court.

The first case to be tried under the provisions of the automobile laws of March 23, 1903, was in Judge W. B. Toucey's court at Westfield, Wednesday, when a jury of twelve men decided that Frank Logan, driver for Assemblyman and Mayor Randolph Perkins was not guilty of violating the automobile speed limitun der the provisions of the law. Under the provisions of the new law, all fines collected go to the overseers of the poor of the city of town.

Witnesses could not state positively the rate of speed at which Logan drove the car, and the complaint had three counts, including alleged offenses on three streets, but with insufficient evidence to adjudge Logan guilty. The jury was out just twelve minutes and polled two votes, returning into court with a verdict of not guilty. Those who appeared against Logan as well as the complainant had no timekeepers on the auto. Their evidence was, therefore, considered weak.

Editor Saw the Game.

Editor Baxter, of the Hoboken Inquirer, was a spectator at the Plainfield-Philadelphia Giants' game on Saturday and although he was sorry to see the locals lose, he considered the exhibition a good one. It was Mr. Baxter's first trip to Plainfield and it is safe to say that it will not be the last one.

PLAINS' COMMENCEMENT

Rev. T. Moore-Smith Addresses The Graduating Class.

YOUTH HIS TOPIC.

Dr. F. W. Westcott Presents the Diplomas—Several Essays Read—A Dance Follows.

The auditorium of the Scotch Plains Baptist church presented a happy scene Thursday, the occasion being the annual commencement exercises of the public school. It is the one annual union event of Scotch Plains and Fanwood. The decorations were simple but pretty, the pulpit being banked with a combination of flowers and green, behind which sat the graduates and Principal Howard Dare White, Dr. F. W. Westcott, president of the Board of Education, and Rev. T. Moore-Smith, who made the address of the evening.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith.

The evening's programme opened with an overture by the orchestra, under the direction of William E. McClymont, of this city. Rev. Moore-Smith asked a blessing upon the exercises and the school. "Some Common Wild Animals," an Essay by Joseph Carrono, was an interesting paper read by the writer. "The Daily Life of the Romans," by Harvey Goodwin, was a well arranged essay on the home life and surroundings as well as the architecture of the buildings of these ancient people. "The Leap of Roushan Beg," a recitation by Miss Marjorie Collins, was one of the best numbers of the evening's programme.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith was introduced by Principal White. After paying a tribute to Principal White the speaker announced his subject "Youth." The speaker declared that the advantages of youth are many, but one of the greatest is that of love, which is inspired in the boy or girl at this age of life. Stirred by love, with an ambition to succeed, he said, obstacles are overcome. "Youth," he said, "means love, hope, triumphs, gladness and joy. The class who are to receive their diplomas tonight are attaining that which they have hoped for, and tonight they have the joyful success which has crowned their efforts."

"In this time of youth," declared the speaker, "habits are formed and friendships made which go with us through life." Character is built. Self-developement is one of the greatest opportunities of life.

"The greatest men of this and past ages are those who you can trace back to the days of their youth, and see they grasped the opportunities of youth and built their character upon them. The world today needs young men and women who are full of enthusiasm and energy. The possibilites of success were never better," he added.

Miss Josephine Lambert, valedictorian of the class, read a pleasing essay upon the life and work of Miss Louise Alcott.

Dr. F. W. Westcott, president of the Board of Education, in presenting the class its diplomas, said he hoped the graduates, in taking their place in the world, would still strive to attain success and be a shining example to the graduates of the future.

At the close of the programme at the church the graduates and their friends enjoyed a reception in the assembly room of the school building.

$63,000 for Y. M. C. A.

For the purpose of assisting General Secretary J. H. Strawbridge, of the Elizabeth Young Men's Christian Association, to raise the necessary $10,000 with which to furnish the dormitories of the new Young Men's Christian Association building, now in course of construction in East Jersey street, below Broad, in that city, the Women's Auxiliary has voted $1,000 towards this part of the fund. This makes now about $63,000 of the $70,000 needed to complete the structure entirely. This amount will be further reduced, it is thought, when the returns are made with the managers of Columbia, the benefit entertainment given in Jacobs' theatre recently. It is believed that the Young Men's Christian Association will net a little over $1,000.

RAOD WASHINGTON TRAVELLED IN 1789

WHEN HE PASSED THROUGH ELIZABETH TO NEW YORK.

In letters written before the War of Independence we read of Matthias Ogden going crabbing on the Sound and in Newark Bay. There was shipping in abundance according to the business of the day, and many persons thought that Elizabeth might some day be a greater seaport than New York. This seems incredible, but is borne out by letters written by business men of that day. The Elizabeth River, with no bridge below what is now South Broad street, in that city, was wide enough and deep enough to accommodate the vessels of that day, and the market was at Broad street, and later at Bridge street, just below Thompson's lumber yard.

Elizabeth avenue and First avenue was called the King's road, and from the "Crossroads" was a road called the ,"New Point road," which led to Crane's landing, above where is the bay bridge.

Washington, when he rode through Elizabeth, in 1789, to take the boat at the Point for New York to be inaugurated, traveled Old Point road, now First avenue, and so on down to the foot of Water street, now Elizabeth avenue.

In 1889 the Board of Trade of that day, and citizens generally, did honor to the memory of General Washington and to his successor of the day, General Benjamin Harrison, by tendering him a reception and an escort through the city. The procession led over the same route covered by Washington and close by the remains of the old Ricketts place.

Ricketts was a wealthy man who had his estate before the time of the Revolution, on "First avenue," and extending a considerable distance. He was as patriotic as the average citizen of Elizabeth of those days, and, although warned, has refused to salute the British flag when coming in his boat form the Battery, New York. As a result his wife with his family and opposite the English fort the boat was fired upon, and one of his maids received a mortal wound.

The man who used to visit at the Ricketts place was James Alexander Lord Stirling, brother-in-law of Peter Van Brugh Livingston and of Stevens, of Castle Stevens, Hoboken. —Elizabeth Journal.

LINDABURY DENIES SPEEDING.

Files Objections to Fine — Gives Reasons.

Decision has been reserved in the case of Richard V. Lindabury, the Newark lawyer, who is one of the three rich automobilists who recently had charges made against them of exceeding the speed limit in Morris township.

Mr. Lindabury appeared Thursday before Justice Stilwell, and filed objection to the fine of $50 which was imposed on him. He declared he never exceeded the speed limit and remembered that when he was passing the stretch of road on which the offense was said to have been committed, he looked at his speed indicator, which, he says, registered nineteen and one-half miles an hour.

Mr. Lindabury was charged with traveling at the rate of 1,200 feet in thirty-one seconds. He said he did not calculate the momentum the auto gained in going down grade, which would not register on the speedometer, but claimed that if he was going at the rate of 1,000 feet in thirty-one seconds that was about twenty-six miles an hour, and he should only be fined proportionately, which he thought would be $15.

Princeton's Catalogue.

The new catalogue of Princeton University shows that in number of students Pennsylvania leads, with an enrollment of 342; New York has 252, and New Jersey 296. The Southern States show an increase, there being at present over 150 students from south of Mason and Dixon's line. The registration shows a total of 1,274 in all classes, a decrease of fifty-two over last year. The freshman class is less by twenty-one, and in the graduate school there is also a marked decrease—87, as compared with 114 last year. In the School of Science there are 278, while last year's enrollment was 596. The decrease in the academic department is 56.

Convention Cities Convenient.

Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, N. J., where the National Educational Association will hold its convention July 3-8 are twin seaside resorts, separated by a pretty lake. New York is distant 57 miles by rail and Philadelphia 81 miles. Excellent train service is maintained from both places. A union depot is located in Asbury Park, convenient to every local point.

St. Mary's Closing Exercises.

Closing exercises well be held at St. Mary's Parochial School on Thursday and Friday nights, June 22 and 23, when a play entitled "Katinka," will be given by the pupils. An unusual feature this year is that there are no graduates from the school. William J. Romaine, of this city, is training the children for the play, which will be given under the supervision of Sister Mary Esther.

WM. L. SAUNDERS URGES CONSOLIDATION

Tells Board of Trade It Should Take up the Matter.

REVIEWS THE SUBJECT.

Former Mayor of North Plainfield Willing to Make Speech on Question in the Fall.

In reply to a request of the Board of Trade that he appear before that body at an early date to address the members on the subject of consolidation, former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, urges that the discussion of merging city and borough be reopened. Mr. Saunders is the president of the Rand-Ingersoll Company, one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the world, and is one of the most public spirited citizens of the borough. He is known as the father of the annexation and consolidation movement and is undaunted by the defeat of the former plan some time ago. His letter follows:

L. B. Webster, Esq., President Board of Trade:

I assure you that it is with regret that I am compelled to forego the pleasure of addressing the Board of Trade this month on the subject of consolidation. Please accept my thanks for the courtesy of the invitation which has been extended to me and which under ordinary circumstances I should be happy to accept. My only excuse is that certain business obligations in which I have become recently involved require all of my time. If the Board of Trade wishes to hear me in the fall, I shall be happy to respond.

The Board of Trade has from the first taken the initiative in the movement looking to the consolidation of the Plainfields, and it was through the action of your board that I put in a good deal of time and some expense in the preparation of laws which were passed by the Legislature about three years ago. Two bills on this subject were made laws by the signature of the Governor. One of which (the Annexation Bill) was acted upon by the people, and for all practical purposes is now extinct. It must not be forgotten, however, that the other bill providing a means by which consolidation may be effected has never been acted upon and is still on the statute books. This consolidation bill is a clean measure, drawn by able and able attorneys, and though it has been subject to censure and criticism it has withstood the attack, and when understood will, I have no doubt, be appreciated and approved. Under this bill we may consolidate Plainfield with North Plainfield by majority vote on both sides, and without further action of the Legislature until such time as it may become necessary to change the county line. I am, and always have been, for consolidation first and for annexation only as a means to reach consolidation. The people have voted annexation down in a campaign full of misapprehension and because the subject was not understood, its merits were not appreciated, and its best friends were handicapped by certain political conditions, the importance of which were, I think, magnified. But we must face the facts as they exist, and we cannot but recognize the great difficulties in the way of further legislation on this subject until consolidation has first been effected. I am, therefore, anxious that the Board of Trade should take up this measure on lines of consolidation only, looking to the municipal governments in one without county line changes and thus making the first step, the success of which will insure a further and practically unanimous movement for annexation and complete union.

Again thanking you for the courtesy which has been extended to me, I remain,

Yours truly,
W. L. SAUNDERS.

O. F. C. WEAK.

Seven to One in Favor of the Laundrymen.

The American Steam Laundry team easily defeated the Orange Field Club, of this city, at Elizabeth, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 7 to 1. Sherwin, the Field Club pitcher, was batted hard and often. Morey played a good game for the laundrymen. The score:

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| A. S. L. | 2 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | x | —7 |
| O. F. C. | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | | —1 |

Hits—A. S. L., 10; Orange F. C., 6. Errors—A. S. L., 3; Orange F. C., 2.

Batteries—Morey and Healey; Sherwin and Bird.

Lawn Party at Fanwood.

A lawn party was given by Miss Jean Schumbeck at her home, Terrell road, Fanwood, on Saturday afternoon. A large number of her friends were present from Plainfield and Willow Grove and they spent an enjoyable afternoon playing croquet, and other games. Refreshments were served by Miss Irene Katyle, of Willow Grove, and Miss Evelyn Schumbeck, and Miss Barnes, of New York.

MISS WARING BRIDE AT MILITARY WEDDING

Society Throngs Grace Church to Witness Nuptial Ceremony.

BRILLIANT SCENE.

Captain Chauncey Benton Humphrey, U. S. A., the Groom, and Attendants in Full Uniform of the Regular Army.

One of the most charming of June's brides, at one of the prettiest weddings of the season, Miss Florence Amelia Waring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, was married Wednesday afternoon to Capt. Chauncey Benton Humphrey, U. S. A., at Grace P. E. church. Over 1,400 invitations were issued for the event, and the church was crowded to the doors with guests. The wedding was a military one, and brilliant features marked it.

Practically all Plainfield society was in the gathering, and many out of town people, principally from New York and Philadelphia, were among those present. Special cars attached to the 3 o'clock train from New York brought the latter here, and carried them back on the 5:30 o'clock train.

It was a green-and-white affair. The church was decorated with peonies, syringas, smilax and oak boughs. The flowers were banked about the chancel and the chancel steps, and the greens hung about the columns and side aisles. A large silk American flag draped the lectern, and broad white ribbons ran from pew to pew, the full length of the entire aisle.

Down this aisle, at 4 o'clock, the bridal party marched. Four of the five ushers, brother officers of the groom, led, clad in the full dress uniform of the United States Army. They were Capt. Charles Exton, 20th Infantry; Lieut. Robert Foy, 1st Cavalry; Lieut. Joseph Baer, 6th Cavalry; and Lieut. H. E. Yates, 5th Infantry. The fifth usher, W. S. Wheeler, of Philadelphia, a civilian, did not join in the procession. After the ushers came the flower girls, Ruth Timpson, niece of the bride, and Katherine Drayton, bearing white leghorn hats filled with sweet peas; then the bridesmaids, Miss Gertrude Hall, of Morristown; and Miss Charlotte Lowe, of this city; the maid-of-honor, Miss May Waring, sister of the bride, and, finally, the bride herself, on the arm of her father, who gave her away. As the bridal party neared the chancel steps, Capt. Humphrey and his best man, Capt. A. J. Bowley, of the Artillery Corps, both clad in dress uniform, stepped out from the door of the vestry room and the parties met before the altar.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace, performed the ceremony. As the bridal party came down the aisle, Mrs. W. A. Freeman, the organist, played the Lohengrin march. When Rev. Mr. Rodman began the nuptial service the organist sounded soft improvisations, and the Mendelssohn march thundered as the ceremony ended.

The bride was dressed in white satin, over white satin, with a straight veil crowned by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried an ivory prayer book, from which a bookmark, bouquet of sweet peas trailed. The maid-of-honor wore white chiffon, with a white hat. She carried white sweet peas, tied with white ribbon. The bridesmaids were gowned in green chiffon radium, with white hats with green feathers, and carried white sweet peas tied with green ribbons. The flower girls wore white hats, trimmed with lace, and wore white hats.

The ceremony was followed by a large reception at the house, which was attended by practically all those at the church. The decorations at the house, like those in the church, were green and white.

The wedding supper was served from a large marquee tent on the lawn. Music for the reception was furnished by T. G. Austin, of New York.

Early last night Capt. and Mrs. Humphrey left for New York, to begin a four-months' honeymoon trip. They will travel to various points in this country until late in the fall, when Capt. Humphrey will be stationed at San Francisco.

The bride received an unusually large and handsome array of gifts. Among them were presents from men high in Standard Oil circles, with whom her father has been associated for many years. Those gifts included a gold bowl from John D. Rockefeller, a loving cup from William Rockefeller, silver dishes from H. M. Flagler, breakfast plate from Wade Hampton, and other things of like nature from John D. Rockefeller, Sr., Horace A. Hutchins, and General Charles A. Miller.

To her attendants the bride gave jade bracelets, and necklaces of pearl beads to the flower girls. Capt. Humphrey gave his best man and ushers stick pins of various designs, set with jewels.

Capt. Humphrey is a tall, broad-shouldered young man, with an enviable record of field service. He graduated from West Point in 1898, and has served in Cuba, the Philippines, and in an Indian outbreak in Minnesota. He was on General Fred Dent Grant's staff in the Eastern possession, and has been military attache in Venezuela and Panama. He was appointed to West Point from Kansas, his home being near Wichita. His last station was at West Point, where his groomsman and the ushers are stationed. He has been detached from his regiment, the 23d Infantry, which is now in the Philippines, for four months.

RHEY SNODGRASS WEDS BROOKLYN GIRL

FORMER PLAINFIELDER BECOMES A BENEDICT.

A beautiful home wedding took place Tuesday at high noon at the residence of Dr. Dudley D. Roberts, 84 Remsen street, Brooklyn Heights, when his sister, Arline Douglass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Roberts, of Newark, was married to M. Rhey Thompson Snodgrass, also of the latter place. The groom formerly resided here and is a son of Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, until recently pastor of the First M. E. church.

The ceremony was performed by the father of the groom, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of Newark, assisted by Rev. Dr. Fred Clare Baldwin, of East Orange. The bride, who was preceded by her sister, Mrs. Leonard B. McWhood, of New York, as matron of honor, came down the winding stairs, escorted by her father, and met the groom and his brother, Harlan Snodgrass, of Summit, who acted as best man at the altar, in the drawing room.

The room was banked with palms and daisies, and the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Professor Leonard B. McWhood, of Columbia University. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon cloth, trimmed with duchesse and point lace, and a veil of tulle, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. The matron of honor was gowned in white crepe de chine, and she carried sweet peas.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, the guests being limited to the families and a few friends of the couple from Newark and this city.

MISS FEIRING THE BRIDE OF HARRY KESSELRING

POPULAR YOUNG PEOPLE WEDDED AT HOME CEREMONY.

At the home of the bride's parents, on Harrison avenue, Wednesday, Miss Anna Feiring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Feiring, was married the wife of Harry Kesselring, of Chatham street. Rev. W. Montgomery Dowey, former rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, performed the ceremony at 7:30 in the presence of 150 guests.

Miss Feiring was attended by Miss Nellie Mosher, of Brooklyn, as bridesmaid, and Augustus Feiring, Jr., acted as best man. There were two ushers, William Feiring and William Dean. The bride wore white silk lace trimmings and carried roses. She was given away by her father.

Following the wedding, a reception was held, during which the young couple received and were tendered numerous congratulations. During the evening a supper was served, and at its conclusion they departed for a wedding trip of one week at Atlantic City. On returning they will make their home with the bride's parents.

Mr. Kesselring is widely known in the city and borough and is an exceedingly popular young man. He is employed in the carpet department at Woodhull & Martin's, and is also a call man in the city fire department.

The decorations at the house were very pretty, consisting of palms, plants and cut flowers.

POLICE COMMISSION CASE OFF.

Action Not Likely in Elizabeth Contest Until Fall.

Although the Supreme Court has opened in Trenton for the June term, the hearing in the Elizabeth police commission certiorari and quo warranto proceedings have not yet been brought up. City Attorney James C. Connolly and Judge P. H. Gilhooly, the latter representing the prosecution in the cases, Peter Egenolf, Philip Mohr and others, are preparing their briefs, both lawyers agreeing to present their cases before the Supreme Court in briefs instead of giving an oral hearing.

Testimony will be taken possibly this month and a decision will probably be given next November. This means that the writs which have been issued against the commissioners will hold good until then, and in the meantime all their acts may be called up before the court on a question of its legality.

Leave your bread and cake orders with M. Demolli & Co., West Front street. Orders left there mean satisfaction for the purchaser.

HOW KANE GOT CHURCH

Counsel Review the Story of Battle for Possession.

CITE COURT OPINION.

Fillmore Baptist Congregation Defaulted in Mortgage Payments and Trouble Began—Legal Proceedings.

The story of Alexander Kane's fight to obtain possession of the Fillmore Baptist church property is not generally known, although the long battle caused much discussion. The Court in its opinion just handed down, sustained Mr. Kane in his counsel's contentions.

Coddington & Swackhamer, counsel for Mr. Kane, said this morning:

"The contest between Alexander Kane and the Trustees of the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church of Fillmore avenue, has at last been decided by the Supreme Court. This matter dated back to February, 1903, when the trustees of said church entered into an agreement with Salome Scheidecker, who was then the owner of the property, to purchase the same and pay for the same in installments. Some time thereafter, Mrs. Scheidecker died, and her heirs then sold the property to Alexander Kane, representing that the trustees of the church had made default in their payments, and that he would be entitled to possession. Kane purchased the property and paid the cash therefor, but the trustees refused to vacate and deliver possession. Kane then, through his attorneys, Codington & Swackhamer, brought a suit in ejectment in the Supreme Court of this State, against the trustees, and judgment was entered against the trustees on November 12, 1904. On November 34rd of the same year, the trustees, through their attorney, W. S. Angleman, Esq., filed a plea to said action, but Kane's attorneys advised him that the plea was too late and that it should be ignored; and execution was issued and delivered to the sheriff, who, with his assistants, went to the church removed therefrom its furniture, and delivered possession of the premises to Kane.

"The trustees then obtained a rule to show cause why the judgment should not be set aside. The case was argued last February before Justices Dixon, Garrison and Swayze, and on June 12th, 1905, they handed down their opinion, in which they hold that the judgment has been regularly entered, and that the rule to show cause, obtained by the trustees of the church, should be discharged with costs.

"By reason of the peculiarity of the case, it being an ejectment suit, and the defendant being a corporation, it is necessary to obtain an order of the court, directing the manner of the service of the summons, and it was urged by counsel for the defendant church, that judgment could not be entered at the expiration of twenty days from the service of the declaration, but the court in its opinion, says:

"'Nor do we think there is any force in the suggestion that the summons in this case was served in a special manner by virtue of a judge's order under section 6 of the ejectment act. It seems to have been served legally, and the fact that the judge's order did not direct the manner in which the declaration should be served, does not deprive the plaintiff of the right given by section 95 of the Practice Act to annex the declaration to the summons and have it served therewith; nor does it change the effect of such service in preventing the defendant's time to plead.'

"Mr. Kane over a year ago, paid cash for the property, and until the present time has had no use whatever of the same, said property having been in litigation; nor has he ever received any money from the trustees."

DR. GESSWEIN MARRIED.

Miss Bessie Morrow Is His Bride.

Miss Bessie Morrow, of Hamilton, Ohio, and Dr. Carl A. Gesswein, of East Fifth street, was married Wednesday night at the home of the bride, by Rev. C. E. Schenck, of the Westminster Presbyterian church. After the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. They will return to this city to live. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morrow, and has been quite prominent in society at her home. The groom is a native of Boston, Mass., a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Chicago, Class '02. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Gesswein, of this city, and has practiced medicine since coming here.

Dr. Whitney's Address.

The thirty-first annual commencement exercises of Centenary Collegiate Institute closed Wednesday. The commencement exercises proper were held in the institute chapel. The address to the graduating class, which numbered thirty-six members, was made by Rev. Dr. George H. Whitney, of this city, president emeritus of the school. President Noble announced the awards of prizes at the close of the exercises.

OFFICIAL PROGRAMME FOR THE ENCAMPMENT

ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT OF G. A. R. AT TRENTON THIS MONTH.

The citizens' committee of the G. A. R. State encampment, scheduled to be in Trenton, Thursday and Friday, June 22 and 23, has sent out the following announcement as the official order of exercises.

Wednesday evening, June 21.—Final meeting of the council of administration at the Trenton House.

Thursday, June 22—Reception of the visiting comrades, presentation of the keys to the city of Trenton to all visitors, distribution of souvenir encampment badges at Masonic temple to delegates and members of the encampment.

10 a. m.—Opening of the encampment at Masonic temple.

11 a. m.—Meeting of the W. R. C. department of New Jersey in the rooms of Aaron Wilkes Post, 22. Distribution of souvenirs to the delegates.

11 a. m.—Meeting of the ladies of the G. A. R. department and New Jersey, in rooms of Bayard Post, 8. Distribution of souvenirs to delegates.

2 p. m.—Parade of G. A. R., S. of V., National Guard and patriotic organizations.

3 p. m.—Concert of Winkler's Second Regiment Band at Cadwalader Park. Baseball game on Y. M. C. A. grounds. G. A. R. badges admit free. Sightseeing and visitation of public institutions, places of interest, potteries, rubber works and other industries in automobiles and carriages, furnished by the reception committee on application at the Trenton House.

8 p. m.—Camp fire at Taylor's Opera House. Addresses of welcome by his excellency, Governor E. C. Stokes; his honor, Mayor F. S. Katzenbach, Jr.; Comrades Adam King, of Maryland, S. V. Commander in Chief, and General Thomas J. Stewart, of Pennsylvania, P. C. in chief. Instrumental and vocal music by the best talent. Concert at battle monument by Wilkes Post Band. Brilliant electrical display and illumination of the city.

Friday, June 23.—9:30 a. m.—Business meetings of the encampment of the G. A. R., the W. R. C., and the ladies of the G. A. R.

Preparations are under way by Adjutant General Breintnall for an exhibition of Civil War relics to be held in the State House, June 22 *and 23, in connection with the en*campment.

Search of the arsenal and the files of the office has been made and trophies of the Civil War have been unearthed.

These will be taken up to the State House and exhibited in cases which Custodian Weseman is having built especially.

There will be 1,500 pictures of men in the ranks as well as men in command of troops during the war, all of them men from Jersey regiments.

A NOVEL MAP.

Issued by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, of Boston and New York, of which the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is a part, has issued a valuable map, showing the lines of the Bell Telephone Companies in the United States and Canada. The map is a large one and in addition to indicating the vast territory covered by the telephone, is useful in other ways.

Accompanying the map are statistics showing the rapid increase in business during the past year, over the previous one. There are now 4,080 central offices against 3,740 on January 1, 1904; 1,799,633 subscribers, against 1,525,167 a year ago; 167,213 sub-licensed stations against 120,836, 3,549,810 miles of exchange wire against 2,983,189; 136,547 miles of toll pole line against 130,178; 1,121,228 miles of toll wire against 975,702, and 67,432 employes against 61,126.

The entire system now transmits upwards of 8,000,000 communications per minute, 472,00 per hour, 11,000,000 per day, 307,000,000 per month and 3,687,000,000 per year, while the toll sysetem connects over 30,000 cities, towns and villages in the United States and transmits upwards of 300,000 messages per day, 8,000,000 per month and 96,900,000 per year. With all this increase Plainfield is doing her share and the amount of business done here compares favorably with any other city of its size in the country. The constant improvements here to meet requirements.

Woman Mysteriously Shot.

Mrs. William Hall, of Somerville, is suffering from a shot wound, which she received in a mysterious manner Wednesday. Mrs. Hall went out to a well near her home to draw some water. She felt a stinging sensation in the back, but did not know she was shot until some hours later, when the wound became so painful that she consulted a physician. He was unable to find the bullet, which was deeply embedded in the flesh below the shoulder. Two boys, who were seen with rifles along Peters Brook about the time Mrs. Hall was shot, are under suspicion, but no arrests have been made.

SALVATION ARMY LAYS CORNER-STONE

Mayor Buckle Presides at the Exercises Conducted by Army's Officers.

STAFF BAND PRESENT.

Col. Gifford Makes an Address—A Consul Booth Tucker Memorial—Ensign Magee's Work.

With Mayor James F. Buckle presiding at the ceremony, the local Salvation Army Corps laid the cornerstone of its new building on East Second street, directly next Headquarters, Wednesday. The exercises were decidedly interesting and were viewed by a large gathering of citizens, while many officers of the army from other places were present. The latter included Colonel Gifford, of New York, with his full staff, numbering twenty-eight.

Before the stone laying Colonel Gifford conducted on officers' council or conference in the Army hall on Park avenue, and the hours were spent in spiritual advice and discussion of the work in Plainfield.

Directly after the council the party was invited to have their photos taken just outside of the new hall, after which lunch was served by the local corps in the Army hall.

Promptly at 7 o'clock Mayor Buckle arrived at the new building site and was escorted to the temporary platform. With music and singing and banners flying, Colonel Gifford and his staff marched up and was introduced to Mayor Buckle by Ensign Magee of the local corps.

The Mayor at once took charge of the proceedings, giving out a hymn, called up Major Stangon to play, then called upon Bandsman Allen for a cornet solo and proceeded to introduce Colonel Gifford to the Plainfield people.

He said it gave him pleasure to be present, that he recognized the fact that the Salvation Army reached a class of people that were not generally reached by other organizations and that he would gladly do anything in his power to assist the work.

Colonel Gifford thanked the Mayor for his presence and for his kind remarks.

On behalf of the local corps he thanked the people of Plainfield for their generous cooperation. He called several to the platform and proceeded to lay the corner stone, a beautifully polished affair, presented by L. L. Manning, bearing the inscription, "Consul Booth Tucker Memorial, June, 1905." The contractor and a workman put the stone in position, Colonel Gifford, trowel in hand, tapped gently upon it, called up Major Shepperd to pray and then solemnly pronounced the words "In the Name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost I pronounce this stone well and securely laid," adding other suitable words of prayer.

Brigadier Atkinson, of New York, then moved a vote of thanks to his excellency the Mayor. Colonel Gifford seconded the motion. It was put to the meeting, and unanimously applauded. A collection was taken afterwards, Mayor Buckle starting it off with a five dollar bill. Colonel Gifford gave fifty dollars, Major Shepherd a check for five visiting officers, and friends made it up to one hundred dollars.

An after meeting was held in the Army hall, where addresses of congratulation were given by Ensign and Mrs. Magee, Sergeant Major Boulter, Miss A. E. Mair and members of the local corps as to the success of the enterprise so far.

INVENTIVE JERSEYMEN.

Weekly Report of Patents Issued to Residents of This State.

Patents were issued to Jerseymen for the week ending June 13, 1905, as reported by Dietzgen & Steward, patent attorneys, United Bank Building: Carl P. Astrom, East Orange, motor operated dumping car; Edward J. Brooks, East Orange, cording seal; bottle seal; Charles E. Buell, North Plainfield, automatic sprinkler; (2 patents) Colin Campbell, Jr., Union, computer; Charles F. Cox, Milleville, glass blowing machine; R. B. Debacher, Hoboken, toilet article; William J. Dick, Bayonne, clothes rack attachment for bedsteads; George Dilks, Jersey City, furnace door; Frederick Jochen, Jersey City, treating silk; Albert C. Loomis, West Orange, match lighter; Ernesto Monteleone, Jersey City, lotion; Louis Perotti, Newark, weighing and screening machine; David Petri-Palmedo, Hoboken, linotype machine; Orvey Price, Plainfield, bolt dogging means for safes or vaults; William D. Quigley, Newark, leather splitting machine; Edward S. Rowe, Millburn, pistol; Paul Richter, Tenafly, hinge; Henry Robinson, Newark, machine for capping bottles; Bror E. Westlin, Arlington, door lock; James N. Wright, Newark, hoisting apparatus.

Tender little fillets, choice cuts, fine bits of the best and most tempting that comes from the butcher shops these days are to be found at Fred Endress' store, West Front street.

MORRIS C. SUTPHEN HAS TAKEN A BRIDE

MISS JENNIE LUNGER IS NOW HIS WIFE.

In the presence of 100 guests from this city and other places, Miss Jennie Lunger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lunger, of Fairview avenue, and Morris C. Sutphen, of East Seventh street, were married Wednesday. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. A. C. Mc-Cres, pastor of the First M. E. church.

Miss Carolyn Coombs, of Linden avenue, was the bride's only attendant. The ushers were John and Gilbert Sutphen, bothers of the groom, and Chauncey B. Coons, of Sandford avenue. There were also two pages, Russel Creveling, the bride's nephew, and Walter Sutphen. Miss Emma Lunger, of Newark, rendered the wedding march.

The bride wore a gown of white silk mulle over white silk, trimmed with Valenciennes and duchesse lace. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses. Miss Coombs was gowned in white organdie with pink trimmings, and carried sweet peas. The decorations were very pretty and consisted of smilax and daisies in the parlor and red roses in the dining room.

The ceremony was followed by a reception and later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Sutphen departed for a wedding trip to last a week. On returning they will make their home at Fairview avenue, which has already been furnished by the groom. Mr. Sutphen is a son of the late Dr. *Sutphen, at one time mayor of Plain*field, and is widely known. He is a prominent member of the local Y. M. C. A. and has also been identified for many years in athletic circles. Both he and his bride were the recipients of numerous handsome presents.

FISHING IN BARNEGAT BAY.

Barnegat Bay is the largest inland body of water of the State of New Jersey, covering upwards of 300 square miles of surface. As a perfectly safe sailing, rowing, fishing and shooting water area, it has no equal in the North and no superior anywhere. The nerve center of operations in the fishing season is at Forked River, Waterford, Barnegat, and on the shooting season at Harvey Cedars, both on the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Forked River has the largest number of catboats, both with sails alone and with sails and motors, for rental by the week, from $2 to $5 per day, directly on the edge of the best fishing ground. Harvey Cedars has the largest number of sneak boxes, decoys and stands for duck and geese shooting, with similar rates by day. There are plenty of all-the-year-around hotels at rates of $2 and $2.50 per day. All northern sea fishes and all water fowl are plentiful in their respective seasons. There are no licenses to be paid by non-residents. Naturally, weakfish are most sought for by the general fishing public, because they are more plentiful and easier caught than other species. For bait, shrimps and shedder crabs are best and can be had from baitmen at the various resorts. No special tackle is required and any pole with ten yards of line is sufficient. To catch weakfish, select a spot near where others are fishing, in channels at the edge of saltgrass areas.

HIGH SCHOOL WITHOUT HEAD.

None May Be Hired by Elizabeth Board.

It is a matter of doubt now whether the Battin High School, of Elizabeth, will open next September for the year, in spite of the fact that the Board of Education voted to have one at its meeting in May. The committee on rules, pursuant to instructions, has presented a statement showing how the rules of the board should be reworded in certain paragraphs to allow for the employment of a principal at a salary of $2,000 a year. This report was laid on the table till the next meeting of the board.

"Will the Battin High School have a principal next year?" was the question put to one of the commissioners on the committee.

"I don't know," he told the reporter, "am just as much at sea on the question as you are."

So far over fifty applications have been received from persons desirous of becoming principal of the Battin High School.

MRS. WADSWORTH'S GIFT.

Sends Check to Firemen For Saving Her Property.

In appreciation of the fine work performed at her home recently in extinguishing a fire, Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, has presented a check for $100 to Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, to be placed in the firemen's pension fund. This is the highest single amount ever received for this purpose.

The fund now amounts to nearly $200, and Chief Doane hopes soon to be able to take advantage of the State law which provides for such a fund.

LINCOLN IS PROSPERING

Founder Silas Dewey Drake Tells What He Has Accomplished

MANY IMPROVEMENTS.

Gas to be Introduced and New Electric Light is Promised for the Village.

A Daily Press reporter paid a visit to Lincoln last week and called on Postmaster S. D. Drake. The latter was looking over some plans and specifications for a number of houses that are being built at Beechwood Heights, which lies between Beechand Bound Brook. Mr. Drake is "operating" Beechwood Heights.

"Good morning, young man," greeted the genial postmaster; "aren't you lost so far from Plainfield?"

"No," answered the reporter. "I Have a cigar," observed Mr. Drake, thoughtfully.

"Well," began Mr. Drake, "there are many things going on of great importance in this section, and I am at present bubbling over with suppressed exuberancy on operations that have lately been closed, and others that are being perfected and will soon be consummated."

"My good man," said Mr. Drake, "sometimes I talk and sometimes I only saw wood, and it works just the same both ways. When I purchased eight years ago, the corn and buckwheat fields where you now see these large factories in operation, I did some tall talking, and it made other people talk all kinds of ways. At that day I never dreamed that Lincoln would be with its depots, trolley lines, sewers, electric lights, factories, etc. Some believed, some doubted. But as time passed by I was handicapped in my plans and operations by certain parties who tried to check me in my plans, and it was necessary for me to overcome their influence; and I guess I have done it pretty effectually. So much so that I will give you some recent doings as evidence that the men, property owners and citizens of Lincoln and vicinity approve my policy and operations.

"Recently the P. S. C. sought a franchise to lay gas mains on the country road between Dunellen and Bound Brook, permission was granted them by the Freeholders of Middlesex county, and the pipes were laid along the roadside. I immediately got up a petition, which was signed by all the owners of the factories of Lincoln and by a large number of property owners, asking the township committee to give the franchise free, as this great public utility, gas, would be a great benefit to this country property. The franchise was granted, and pipes will be laid by July 4.

"These days, very much is being said," continued Mr. Drake, "pro and con, on the subject of municipal lighting and the franchises, etc. I will not discuss them at this time, but will refer to my incident, which may be an incentive to any section, town, or borough. About four weeks ago, Mr. Abram Giddes, who lives near Green pond, came to my office and showed me a petition that was signed by nearly every voter or property owner on the road from Dunellen to Beechwood Heights, asking the township committee to extend the Lincoln lighting district so as to give their section the benefit of electric light. The township committee granted the request of the petitioners.

"So, at a meeting of the voters of Lincoln lighting district number 4, held at my office last Tuesday, twenty-five legal voters, property owners and others, voted an appropriation of $900 for furnishing fifty-five lights. Conrad Egel, Abram Giddes and S. D. Drake were elected commissioners, and the commissioners will have the lights distributed on the main road from Dunellen to Beechwood Heights, and from some road to Greenbrook at both points. There is an immense amount of valuable property in this district to be assessed to pay for this improvement, and as this is a leading avenue running east and west between Plainfield and Bound Brook, it certainly will be greatly appreciated by the property owners and the general public. And, Mr. Reporter, do not forget when this lighting system is in operation I shall attribute the Greater Lincoln district number 4 to the good women who conceived it and helped to push it through. So, dear boy, do you like the story?"

"Well, that is all you get today. Have another cigar. I have a few more good things up my sleeve that mean much to Lincoln and vicinity. Good day."

The reporter went away smoking the second cigar. The doctors say his great vitality may enable him to pull through.

Mayor Ten Broeck Wide-awake.

Mayor Ten Broeck, of Asbury Park, having read in the newspapers that many cities in the union were anxious to obtain the Russo-Japanese peace tribunal, sent out a series of telegrams to Count Cassini, president Roosevelt, Mr. Takahira and United States Senator John Kean, recounting the attractions of that place as a meeting place for the commissioners and asked that the negotiations be conducted there.

DR. CHAMBLISS' MASTERLY ADDRESS FEATURE OF N. P. H. S. COMMENCEMENT

His Talk on Education in the South an Instructive Discourse.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM.

Gift to Retiring Superintendent Wightman During the Exercises —Dr. Joy Presents Diplomas.

With beaming faces that nodded acknowledgment and appreciation, eight young people who have completed their course of study in the North Plainfield schools received, Friday night, from Dr. James R. Joy, president of the Board of Education, the cherished diplomas that represent years of hard work. The presentations were made in connection with the annual commencement exercises, held in Y. M. C. A. Hall, and which were witnessed by a gathering of proud relatives and friends that occupied every available seat. The graduates were seated upon the stage behind an array of palms, while back of them on the wall there stood out boldly the numerals "1905" and the motto "Perge Modo," in blue and white colors.

The Graduates.

Those in the circle and the course they had finished were Miss Sadie B. Fountain, classical; Clarence J. Hand and Julius J. Newmark, scientific; Miss Bertrude Townley, William H. I. Cubberley, Robin S. Hamilton, Otto Frederick Maeck and Carl Steiner, commercial. For high standing in studies, Clarence Hand had been accorded the honor of delivering the salutatory and Miss Fountain the valedictory. Superintendent Wightman and Dr. Joy were also seated upon the stage.

Invocation by Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons opened the exercises, after which a chorus of fifty selected voices from the High School, in charge of J. Edmund Skiff, sang Meyerbeer's "The March of Progress" with a sweetness and expression that won merited applause. The salutatory, "School Spirit," was delivered by Mr. Hand in a firm manner that fitted his subject.

Address by Dr. Chambliss.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, who took as his subject "Education in the South." At the outset Dr. Chambliss stated the fact that he is a Southerner by birth and that the greater part of his life has been spent below Mason and Dixon's line, thus enabling him to study conditions closely. The North, he said, has many mistaken impressions as to the illiteracy of the South, but, in truth, the people, with the exception of the "mountain whites," are as well educated as the rest of the world. Continuing, Dr. Chambliss said:

Where the Ignorance Is.

"You may be slow to accept some of the statements I make, but I say the ignorance is confined almost exclusively to the dwellers in the mountainous regions and the negroes. In the towns and agricultural regions it is as uncommon to find people who cannot read and write as it is in New Jersey. There was no free school system in the South before the war—private tuition was almost the only method because of the small expense, yet there were numerous colleges patronized by all classes. I may say at this point that the majority of the people of the South, even in the best sections, never owned slaves. It was not necessary for them to do so in order to be comfortable or to have the necessary means to educate their children properly.

Education Suffered from War.

"The colleges in the ante-bellum days were not much higher than schools of the present day, but the universities of Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia of fifty years ago were not surpassed by the Harvard, the Yale and the Princeton of that time. The war changed all things and education suffered badly. The universities were impoverished or paralyzed and the free school system was slow to be taken up. Despite those obstacles, the people fought for education and the colleges now are better than ever before.

"Few states in the Union are more lavish in their appropriations for education than those of the South. Texas takes three and a half millions from its common treasury each year, exclusive of another million from local taxation; Tennessee has a perpetual school fund of over two and a half millions, and other states spend vast amounts.

South's Enormous Expanse.

"The lack of educational opportunities in the rural regions is due to the enormous territory to be covered and the sparsity of inhabitants. The people of Massachusetts, for instance, are worth five times as much per capita as the people of Georgia. Massachusetts can build a school house every square mile and have sixty-five children in it. Georgia could have but eleven children, and of these, six would be white and five black. This would require two separate schools every square mile, if they are to be within the reach of the children. I say separate schools, because the question of black and white is settled in the South; it is sacred with the people, and they refuse to discuss it.

The Whites' Great Burden.

"There are 10,000,000 negroes in the South, and that means just double the number of schools that would be required in the North. Ninety-five per cent. of the taxes are paid by the whites, yet the two colors share and share alike. The negro schools are similar in equipment to the whites' and the teachers are required to pass the same examinations; in fact, everything is done to give one side the same opportunities as the other.

Not Boasting of Their Aid.

"Since the war ended the whites of the South have spent $100,000,000 alone for the education of the negroes, but of what they have done and what they are still doing for the black man, they make no boast. While they are under no peculiar obligation from the fact of their previous ownership, since they inherited them from your forefathers as well as their, yet they could do no less than they are doing without turning a deaf ear to the united voices of humanity, patriotism and even self-protection. In a spirit of genuine kindliness toward the negro the white people of the South are disposed to give him all wise and real help.

Who the Lynchers Are.

"Do not, I pray you, form your judgment of the Southerner's attitude toward the black man from the horrible lynchings and barbaric cruelties of which you read. Of the millions that make up the white population of the South, I believe it would be quite within the truth to say that not 5,000 in all the states in all the years have had anything to do with lynching, and these, as a rule, have come from the lowest and most degraded classes. The characteristic spirit of the white man is in keeping with the words of the great Christian, Wade Hampton: 'God bless all my people, white and black alike.' Education and prosperity go hand in hand, and the people of the South stand shoulder to shoulder with their fellows of the North in the effort to strike off the shackles of illiteracy.

The Quaint Mountain Whites.

"As to the men of the mountains, whose dialect and quaint mannerisms have been made familiar in fiction, and whose ignorance and low social condition have been amusing when they have not become repulsive, I have this to say: They are the descendants of Scotch, Irish and English settlers, the same as those who built up New York and Pennsylvania. There are no facts to support the statement that they are the descendants of indentured servants and renegades escaped from camps, but there is much to prove their courage, their integrity and their fighting qualities. It was they who fought many of the great battles of the Revolution, the War of 1812, and the Mexican War; who sent many valiant bands to both sides in the Rebellion and who contributed more men in the late struggle with Spain than any State in the Union except Massachusetts.

Field for Educational Work.

"Their peculiar characteristics are due to isolation. It is the lack of railroads and the modern day methods of intermingling that have made them a distinct type. It is not to be denied that they are in a deplorable state, socially and literally, as it is these people and the negroes who give the South its high average of illiteracy; yet a great and good work is going on and the time is soon coming when they will be uplifted from their ignorance, and you young people can choose no other aim in life than to contribute your share of labor in this broad field for educational workers."

The Valedictory.

As Dr. Chambliss concluded, he was accorded hearty applause, the truth of his words making a deep impression on his hearers. The chorus rendered two selections, "Where Are You Going to" and "Lullaby," after which Miss Sadie Fountain, the valedictorian, was introduced. She talked briefly on the "Power of Education," laying stress on the fact that it has been thought and learning that has built up nations and ignorance, quoting Russia as an example, that has retarded others, or caused them to topple. In conclusion she thanked the members of the Board of Education and the faculty for their efforts in behalf of the students and spoke the parting words to her classmates, expressing sorrow at the leavetaking and bidding all to bear in mind that "commencement" meant the beginning of a new life.

The presentation of diplomas was made by Dr. Joy, who improved the opportunity by speaking of North Plainfield's excellent school system and congratulating the graduates on the successful completion of the required course.

Supt. Wightman Surprised.

A final number was to have been given by the chorus, but before the singers could assume their places, M. K. W. Heicher, of the school faculty, took the center of the stage and addressed Superintendent Wightman. He spoke regretfully of the parting that was to come through Mr. Wightman's accepting the principalship of school at Altoona, Pa., and then, in behalf of teachers and students, presented him with an elaborate bronze desk set. The recipient, in responding, expressed pleasure and surprise at the gift and then said:

"I have been with the North Plainfield schools eight years, and though they have been fraught with hard work, I shall always look back to them with pleasant thoughts. I have done my best in promoting the cause of education, and I believe that through it all I have had the support of the public."

The delightful chorus selection, "Gipsy Life," by Schumann, brought the exercises to a close.

SOMERVILLE BARKS AT PLAINFIELD FANS

DON'T WANT GAMES HERE ON JULY FOURTH.

In reply to a recent article in The Daily Press intimating a series of baseball games between Plainfield and Somerville is a possibility, The Somerset Democrat pleasantly remarks as follows:

"The above article appeared in The Press, Tuesday night, and might lead Plainfielders to believe that Somerville was getting a team in shape just to play Plainfield on their grounds. Mr. Press man, for your information (if you are not close enough to Manager Daab to find out), Somerville will play no more games in Plainfield until that team has played here.

"We went to Plainfield last September and besides winning the game by a big score, making 15 hits off of "Jack" Cronin, we took down paid their way into the game and put many dollars into the defunct treasury.

"Now, it can be stated on authority in this paper, that if any games are arranged for July 4, they will be played in Somerville, and not in Plainfield. Then we will have a chance to see if the pinheaded sports from the Watchung gravel hole are up to the market price, and whether their jeans contain more than two cents' worth of cigarettes.

"It is a business proposition when Somerville goes to Plainfield to play ball. Right down in their hearts they would rather play any team than Somerville—because they can never win; but they know a loyal crowd follows the team and they are after the money. Do they think we are playing ball here just for our health!"

GRANT COTTAGE SOLD.

Home in Which Mother of the General Died Goes for Lumber.

The cottage in which Mrs. Jessie Grant, mother of General U. S. Grant, died twenty-one years ago, was sold at auction this week in Jersey City to make way for a new courthouse. The building is near the old courthouse on Jersey City Heights. A large plot was necessary for the new building and the historic old house was condemned. The house was sold for $500, to be torn down for the lumber in it. It is a two-story and attic cottage. The cottage was the home of General Grant's sisters, Mrs. Mary Grant Cramer and Mrs. Virginia Grant Corbin. Mrs. Cramer died recently at the home of Mrs. Corbin, in East Orange. The cottage was owned by Mrs. Corbin, who received a fair price for the property, but is engaged in a dispute with a former neighbor over a narrow strip, to which the neighbor claims title by adverse possession.

Mrs. Grant attended the Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church, near the house. The pastor was the Rev. Howard Henderson, who had been a colonel in the Confederate army, and had not forgotten the bitterness engendered by the rebellion. General Grant wrote a courteous note requesting him to officiate at the funeral. Mr. Henderson declined, and suggested that some pastor whose sympathy was with the cause of the Union be selected. General Grant answered promptly, writing a characteristic note, and the rebel colonel-minister capitulated. He officiated at the funeral, and from this incident a warm friendship developed between General Grant and Dr. Henderson.

GAMBLE IN GREENBROOK.

Another Sunday Haunt Called to the Authorities' Attention.

The attention of the Somerset County authorities has been called to another haunt of the open-air Sunday gambles that infest the environs of Dunellen. In as large, if not larger, numbers than at Dewey Park, young men gather every Sunday morning at Greenbrook, just over the Dunellen line, for a day of uninterrupted gambling.

On newspaper spread beneath the trees they play poker, craps and other games. To a certain extent the older men who "run" the Dewey Park game, are the ones who keep the Greenbrook one going. A curious feature of the circumstances is that the official who was detected playing at Dewey Park has been seen at the Greenbrook hangout playing poker.

GARDNER MUST LEAVE

Banishment for Youth Who Withheld Information From Police.

LAWYERS INTERESTED.

His Case the First of Its Kind, and They Wanted a Trial—Police Relieved.

James Gardner, the youth who was indicted for withholding information as to the identity of the incendiary who fired the Morey & LaRue laundry last January, has been ordered to leave Plainfield by Judge Vail. When Gardner's case was decided originally by the court he was placed in the hands of the probation officer. Chief Kiely did not think this disposition of the boy was entirely right, and told the court so, and his reasons for thinking so.

Gardner—all the boy's family, in fact—it is said, have been a source of constant trouble to the police. For several years one or another of the family has drawn the attention of the officers, and in the case of this particular member of it the chief is convinced that the criminal tendency is ingrained and certain to crop up again and again, as often as opportunity presents itself.

The chief told the court that he had no desire to hound the boy or see him immured, but he believed that the cause of right and justice, as far as Plainfield went, demanded that he be kept out of the city. The court saw the justness of the contention and the mother of the boy was instructed accordingly. She wrote to the chief, telling him that both she and the boy would live the city, if "he would let up" on the latter.

"I haven't any desire to keep at young Gardner," said the chief, "but I don't want such characters in the city. His departure makes a satisfactory termination of the case for me."

A number of lawyers were disappointed because the indictment against Gardner was not pressed. This is the first time in the history of New Jersey's criminal code that anyone has been charged or indicted under the law making the withholding of information as to criminal acts a punishable offense, and the lawyers were anxious to see the action carried through.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL GAME AT CASINO

SCORE WAS 8 TO 7 IN WHITTER SCHOOL CONTEST.

An exciting game of basketball was played on the Casino grounds Friday between the seventh and eighth grades of the Whittier School, for the girls' championship. The eighth grade won by the score of 8 to 7. There were two minute halves, and at the end of the first half the score was 4 to 3 in favor of the seventh grade. In the second half the seventh grade made three points to five for its opponents.

The play throughout was very close and the supporters of the respective teams were present in large numbers to cheer them on to victory. This was the concluding game for the season and gives the eighth grade the championship.

The teams were as follows:

| Eighth Grade. | | Seventh Grade. |
|---|---|---|
| | Forwards. | |
| Barbara Fleming | ...... | Fanny Carr |
| Stella Rink | ...... | Hariette Moody |
| | Centers. | |
| Bessie Alpaugh | ....Lillian Cuming | |
| Hariette Knox | ...... | Edna Templin |
| Mary Radford | ....Madeline Durar | |
| | Guards. | |
| Margaret Leggett | ..Caroline Lambert | |
| Marion Snyder | ......Tillie Shrager | |

The officials were: Referee—Caldwell; umpire—Doane; linesmen—Woodhull and Loughlin.

WILL EDUCATE THE FARMER.

State Board of Education Has Begun Campaign.

The State Board of Agriculture has just begun a campaign of education for farmers and fruit growers of New Jersey. Secretary Franklin Dye has this to say concerning the work:

"We want to teach the farmers of New Jersey to produce larger and better crops from a smaller acreage. It is really pathetic to see how poor farmers will spread their efforts to increase their incomes by cultivating as large an acreage as possible. Farmers in these days must study their business and go about their work in a business-like way. They must learn about the soil of their farm, its needs and capabilities. One acre, well fertilized and well cultivated, will produce more than five or ten acres poorly farmed and at infinitely less expenditure of labor and money."

Miss Addie Carney, who has been spending some time at Bayonne, has returned to her home in the borough.

Miss Edna Kelly has returned from a stay with relatives in Newark.

SOMERVILLE UNABLE TO PLAY ON JULY 4

TOO LATE TO GET A TEAM TOGETHER AGAINST PLAINFIELD.

While it was decided at a meeting of the Somerville Baseball Association, last night, that it would be impossible to get a team together to play Plainfield on July 4, it was unanimously agreed that a series of contests be arranged between the two nines a little later, possibly within a month's time. The Somerville enthusiasts find that the time is too short to get the right kind of a team on the field, one that would be of equal strength to the local aggregation. In view of this, it was voted to give up the Independence Day contests here.

In the meantime the association will go to work at once to organize a team of the proper strength and prepare for a series a little later.

The Somervillians are very enthusiastic over the prospects of a series with Plainfield and they will put forth every effort to take a majority of the games. This they feel confident they can do, when fully organized. They know the strength of the local team and when the two organizations meet it will be a battle royal for honors. Rather than bring a team here that would be no match for Plainfield the association thought it best to defer the meeting, knowing that the contests will be all the more satisfactory to the fans of this city and Somerville by so doing.

Manager Daab will now make other arrangements for July 4, and he will bring a first class attraction here to meet the locals.

SQUIRE A LIFE-SAVER.

J. C. Cooper Nearly Drowns in Rescuing Another.

Justice of the Peace John C. Cooper, of Warrenville, brother of Sheriff Edward Cooper, almost lost his life Thursday night. Albert Marshall was bathing in a lake made by an old mine, when he slipped over a ledge into thirty feet of water.

Justice Cooper was attracted by the man's cries. He dived after him. Marshall seized the justice by the legs, and they both sank beneath the surface. When they came up Cooper struck Marshall a blow on the jaw, stunning him and causing him to release his hold.

Cooper then seized the man and swam with him to shore. Marshall became unconscious before he was taken out of the water and a doctor was summoned. He was revived with difficulty. Cooper was nearly exhausted when he was taken from the water.

LICENSE FEES.

New Ordinance by Elizabeth Councilmen.

An ordinance has been passed on first and second readings by the Elizabeth Council increasing license fees. The fee for a circus charging 25 cents or more admission will be $200 daily; charging 10 to 25 cents admission the license will be $50 a week or a portion thereof, and $25 for each additional week. For a concert or entertainment charging 50 cents or more admission, the fee will be $10 each performance. Charitable or benevolent affairs are exempt from this license.

The theatres will be required to pay a license of $150 a year and concert halls where liquors are sold a license of $20 a month. The ordinance will be in effect as soon as passed on third reading.

Plainfield Tax Rate.

While it is expected that Plainfield's tax rate for the coming year will be the same as last, 2.52, this cannot be definitely known until after the Union County Board of Assessors meet at Elizabeth in August. The local Board of Assessors has completed its work here and the Common Council has approved the books. Now a report must be made to the county board of assessors, when the various rates will be established throughout the county as well as the county rate.

"Bosey" Reiter Here.

R. H. Reiter, formerly of Princeton University, but now at the head of the department of athletics at Wesleyan University, is spending some time here, prior to going to the Harvard Summer School. He anticipates that the coming year will be one of the best in athetics at Wesleyan, and that the various teams will be heard from in their contests with other colleges.

Jersey Memorial Society Session.

Mrs. Donald McLean, president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was unable to attend the meeting of the New Jersey Memorial Society at Somerville Saturday afternoon, owing to illness. She was to make the chief address. Speeches were made by President Richard F. Stevens, Rev. Dr. Knox and Mrs. Althea Bedle. About seventy guests were served with a fine luncheon under the historic oaks at the Wallace House.

Brockholst Kipp Miller, of Watchung avenue; Kerro Knox, of the borough, are among the students home from Williams College for the summer. Alden Moore will return home tomorrow.

SOME ATTRACTIONS AT SEA GIRT CAMP

DAILY PRACTICE ON RANGE FOR SHOOTING EVENTS.

Sea Girt, June 17.—This spot, known to everyone because of the beautiful reservation on which the State militia encampments are held, will be thronged with visitors this year. In addition to the regular field days of the different regiments of the National Guard which always attract crowds of mothers and sisters of the State's soldiers to the hotels overlooking the ocean, there is to be a competition in rifle shooting of picked shots from all the regiments of the regular army, held on the rifle range. The grounds of the State reservation have been greatly enlarged since last season, and gangs of men are hard at work getting the new tract in shape before the arrival of the first troops. For some time detachments of soldiers from Governor's Island have occupied tents on the old camping ground. They are practising daily over the ranges in preparation for the coming event.

Aside from the interest the presence of the soldiers lends to the summer life of the community, Sea Girt itself has natural attractions enough to well repay a visit. The hotels and summer cottages are picturesquely situated on high land commanding a magnificent view of the ocean, as well as the surrounding country. The roads in and about the place are of fine hard sea sand, admirable for driving or automobiling. In many cases they run through lines of pines and low lying bushes of sage and scrub pines for miles and miles. There are many very fine summer homes scattered along the coast, and some pretentious houses are in course of construction, quite far inland. A regular feature of the life here, as well as at many of the other places along the coast, is to see the fishermen visit their traps each morning and return with their catch.

All along the shore, at intervals of a mile or two, fishing huts have been established. The traps lie about a mile from shore, and the fishermen who, for the most part, work on shares, visit them every day, no matter how bad the weather or how high the surf runs. Their boats are large, roomy and long, capable of accommodating six or eight men. They were originally propelled by oars, but recently transferable engines have been installed in most of them, greatly to the comfort and convenience of the fishermen. To see one of these boats ride in on the breakers, her engine puffing like a locomotive and the crew jumping like monkeys from one side to the other to keep it trimmed, is a sight well worth taking in.

Then there are the United States life saving stations, which dot the shore every three miles. Interest in the work of this corps never ceases, and their comfortable and well kept establishments are thronged with visitors throughout the season, who are cordially welcomed by the crews, glad of anything that will break the monotony of their lives. Exhibition drills are given at frequent intervals, which anyone is at liberty to attend.

There is also a large steamer which makes regular fishing trips far out to sea during the season, on which the cottagers and hotel guests frequently take passage. While the accommodations are naturally somewhat rough, the fishing is perfect, and amply compensates those discomforts that they may have had to endure.

SCHOOL BUDGET APPROVED.

Amount to Run the Elizabeth Institutions Is Less Than Last Year.

The Board of Education of Elizabeth has approved of the report of the Board of School Estimate, which placed the amount to be asked for running the schools for the coming year at $155,420. This is $10,000 less than was originally asked for. School Superintendent Shearer has called the attention of the board to the benefits that have been accomplished by the truancy law and the way it was being enforced in Elizabeth.

Minister on Nasal Music.

That there is a time for all things, even to the use of the handkerchief, has been impressed upon the choir of St. Paul's Episcopal church, at Hoboken, by the Ven. Archdeacon William R. Jenvey. An address on this subject suggested itself to Dr. Jenvey at the choir rehearsal in his church yesterday.

At the conclusion of an anthem he said: "I have noticed here, as I have noticed repeatedly in church, that the members of the choir use their handkerchiefs at most inopportune times. I would beseech the ladies and gentlemen of the choir to remember that the art of using the handkerchief or not using it is just as important during the singing of an anthem as the proper method of breathing or enunciating."

Smith Fanned Eighteen.

Phil Smith's superb pitching was the feature of the Dunellen-East Millstone game, at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon. He struck out eighteen men. The score was 4 to 0, in Dunellen's favor.

J. L. Randall, formerly of this city, but now of Taunton, Mass., is visiting relatives here.

TEMPLAR'S SWORD A GIFT

Brooklyn Knights' Present to Grand Commander Kirkner.

ELABORATE DESIGN.

Plainfielder an Honorary Member of Clinton Commandery which Gave the Token of Esteem—One of Many Gifts.

Jacob Kirkner, of West Eighth street, who by his election on May 9 last as Grand Commander, Knights Templar of New Jersey, was made the foremost member of the order in the State, has become the possessor of one of the handsomest Templar swords ever carried. It was presented his last week by Clinton Commandery, No. 14, of Brooklyn, without his receiving the slightest hint in advance as to why he had been called to their asylum. The gift was made for no other purpose than to show the esteem the Brooklyn Knights have for him personally and their recognition of his devotion to Trinity Commandery, of this city, with which he has been connected thirty years.

The sword is made of the very best quality of steel, permitting it to be bent double, and is the handiwork of G. Brenner & Co., of New York. The blade is beautifully etched with Templar emblems and is surmounted by an ivory hilt bearing the monogram "J. K.," surrounded by a wreath composed of various colors. On the reverse side is the badge of Trinity Commandery. The blade bears the inscription, "Presented to Right Eminent Sir Jacob Kirkner by Clinton Commandery, No. 14, K. T., May 24, 1905." The difference in dates is due to the fact that it was the intention of the donors to make the presentation earlier than they did.

The scabbard is of an elaborate design and is heavily gold plated. Near the top is a Templar cross composed of ten perfect garnets and significant emblems traverse the entire length. The whole affair represents the highest art in sword manufacture and excites favorable comment whenever shown. In his career as a Knight Templar, Mr. Kirkner has received many gifts which he prizes highly but none of them have the beauty or elaborateness of the last one.

The members of Clinton Commandery are not strangers to Plainfield as they exchange visits with Trinity Commandery every year. Their meeting was first brought about at the field day held in this city in 1879, when at the suggestion of Charles G. Little, of Sandford avenue, a member of Clinton, Mr. Kirkner, then eminent commander of Trinity, invited the Brooklynites to participate. They came with a large delegation and have been coming at different times ever since and a very warm feeling exists between the two. Shortly after the field day, Mr. Kirkner was made an honorary member of Clinton Commandery and Mr. Little became an honorary member of Trinity.

PLAINFIELD HORSES WIN MANY PRIZES

LOCAL EXHIBITORS TAKE SEVEN CUPS AT HORSE SHOW.

Plainfield horses walked off with a majority of the prizes at the annual horse show held in New Brunswick on Saturday, particularly to the stables of Miss Leila Cruikshank and Charles W. McCutchen, as well as W. J. Buttfield. Of these, Miss Cruikshank took four firsts, one second and three thirds, while Mr. McCutchen had three first and a second to his credit. Miss Cruikshank gave a fine exhibition of horsemanship. She rode both Fassiferee and McGregor in their trials over the fence.

Miss Banahan, W. J. Buttfield, took first prize for roadsters, shown to wagons, and Reuben T., C. W. McCutchen, took second prize. All Ablaze, C. W. McCutchen, took first prize for horses to vehicles; also first prize for ladies' saddle horses. In the hunter class, Miss Cruikshank took first and second, and Dr. M. O'M. Knott, third. Miss Banahan took first prize in the pair of roadsters' class.

Horses owned by Miss Cruikshank, C. W. McCutchen, Dr. Knott and W. J. Buttfield also took prizes in the classes for pairs of horses, saddled horses, jumpers and hurdle raec.

Big Celebration at Park Club.

The entertainment committee of the Park Club is gradually completing arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration at the club. The affair promises to be more elaborate than ever and every effort will be made to surpass the celebrations of previous years. The display of works will be a large one and the social events of the evening, including the dance, will be attractive.

Mrs. Augustus Hoffman and four-year-old daughter, of Fourth street and Madison avenue, will sail today for Europe, where they will visit Mrs. Hoffman's former home in Denmark. They will be away three months.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1905. NO. 26.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Camet the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

ON THE GOLF COURSES

P. C. Langdon Won Independence Day Cup at Country Club.

RESULTS OF CONTESTS.

Miss Uhler Lead in Clock Golf Competition—George T. Rogers a Winner at the Park Golf Club.

Tuesday was a gala day at the Plainfield Country Club and the Fourth was celebrated with play in many events on the golf course. The club house looked more attractive than ever in its dress of American colors, and altogether a most successful time resulted, while the members and their friends fully enjoyed the many social features, including the many dinners and the orchestra concert, as well as the various competitions. Because of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association tournament at Roselle, the tennis planned for the day on the local courts was given up.

Probably the greatest interest centered in the first play for the club championship at golf. From among a number of players a qualifying eight was selected, and there was also play for a consolation cup and the third eight cup. This was the result of the play:

Championship Cup—First round, match play—C. W. Abbott beat E. B. Shoemaker by 2 up.

D. H. Barrows beat A. L. Otterson by 5 up and 4 to play.

Morris J. Dumont beat Arthur Murphy by 4 up and 3 to play.

W. L. Glenney beat Robert Abbott by 2 up.

Consolation Cup—First round, match play—H. R. Stockton beat R. F. Murray by 1 up; C. B. Morgan beat J. E. Erickson by 6 up and 5 to play; H. C. Munger beat G. T. Van Boskerck by 3 up and 1 to play; E. I. Serrell beat H. D. Hibbard by 2 up and 1 to play.

Third Eight Cup—First round, match play—T. R. Van Boskerck beat C. B. Andrews by 5 up and 4 to play; C. A. Stover beat E. A. Cruikshank by 8 up and 6 to play; E. E. Iremonger beat Howard Huntington by 2 up and 1 to play; W. B. Tyler beat L. H. Van Buren by 3 up and 2 to play.

The semi-finals in these three matches will be played off Saturday, and the finals the following Saturday.

Another event of great interest was the all-day play for the Independence Day cup. This was won by P. C. Langdon with a net score of 70. The scores:

P. C. Langdon, 79, 9—70; C. B. Andrews, 92, 21—71; E. B. Shoemaker, 75, 4—71; W. B. Tyler, 93, 22—71; A. L. Otterson, 86, 13—73; M. J. Dumont, 81, 8—73; G. M. Furman, 84, 10—74; Arthur Murphy, 81, 6—75; Robert Abbott, 75, plus 2—77; Walter Gaston, 97, 20—77; E. T. Barrows, 96, 19—77; C. A. Stover, 88, 10—78; E. A. Cruikshank, 93, 15—78; W. L. Glenney, 76, plus 2—78; L. H. Van Buren, 94, 16—78; J. P. Murray, 95, 16—79; J. E. Erickson, 89, 10—79; H. C. Munger, 84, 4—80; S. H. Patterson, 98, 18—80; W. L. C. Glenney, 99, 19—80; H. D. Hibbard, 87, 6—81; Harold Serrell, 106, 25—81; H. F. Fox, 98, 15—83; R. F. Murray, 89, 5—84; C. W. King, 112, 27—85; J. H. Carman, 99, 13—86; A. H. Atterbury, 110, 22—88; A. C. McParker, 118, 259—3.

In the clock golf competition Miss Uhler was the winner with a score of 26. The scores:

Miss Uhler, 26; Miss Harriet Goddard, 27; Miss Margaret Goddard, 27; Mrs. Walter Gaston, 28; Miss Taylor, 28; Miss Marjorie Fleming, 28; Miss Rogers, 28; Miss Burke, 28; Miss Adelaide G. Ball, 29; Mrs. Evarts Tracy, 29; Miss Sarah Schuyler, 30; Miss Maude Van Boskerck, 30; Miss Fleming, 31; Miss Holly, 31; Miss Anne Murphy, 32; Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, 32; Mrs. E. T. Barrows, 23.

C. B. Andrews won first honors for the golf committee cup, with a net score of 71, while A. L. Otterson and G. M. Furman divided the other three points, each returning a net score of 73. The scores:

C. B. Andrews, 92, 21—71; A. L. Otterson, 86, 13—73; M. J. Dumont, 81, 8—73; G. M. Furman, 83, 10—73; Arthur Murphy, 81, 6—75; E. T. Barrows, 95, 19—76; S. H. Patterson, 95, 18—77; C. A. Stover, 88, 10—78; E. A. Cruikshank, 93, 15—78; L. H. Van Buren, 94, 16—78; J. P. Murray, 95, 16—79; Howard Huntington, 95, 15—80; H. C. Munger, 84, 4—80; Harold Serrell, 106, 25—81; J. F. Earle, 97, 16—81; H. F. Fox, 98, 15—83; R. F. Murray, 89, 5—84; George E. Cathcart, 95, 10—85; T. R. Van Boskerck, 93, 8—85; J. H. Carman, 99, 13—86; A. H. Atterbury, 110, 22—88; A. McParker, 118, 25—93.

Many special events attracted a large field to the Park Golf Club yesterday to celebrate Independence Day and in the afternoon the women gave a tea, Mrs. C. W. McCutchen, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. G. D. Hallock, Miss Hattie Shreve being in charge. The course was crowded throughout the day with players.

In the morning there was a bogie handicap ball sweepstakes, which was won by George T. Rogers. Herbert Rogers and C. F. Cummings were tie for second place. The event of the day was the afternoon play for the holiday, president's and Park Golf Club trophies. George T. Rogers also won the holiday cup, and scored first three points for the president's cup, while Rev. C. L. Goodrich and R. B. Carroll, with a score of 82, divided the other three points. R. B. Carroll won first honors for the club cup. Mr. Goodrich secured two points and E. R. Hallock one point. The scores:

George T. Rogers, 102, 24—78; C. L. Goodrich, 95, 13—82; R. B. Carroll, 87, 5—82; Samuel Townsend, 102, 19—83; C. F. Cummings, 101, 17—84; E. R. Hallock, 99, 9—90; L. R. Thurlow, 109, 18—91; J. W. Clark, 122, 30—92; S. R. Titsworth, 105, 13—93; Alex Gilbert, 111, 17—94; L. W. Hallock, 104, 9—95; Charles B. Morse, 110, 15—95; J. L. Watson, 116, 20—96; C. W. McCutchen, 114, 17—97; R. D. Rice, 120, 12—108.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich and Miss Lydia Loizeaux won the putting and approaching contest with a score of 10.

The event at the Westfield Golf Club yesterday morning was a cross country sweepstakes, which was won by W. J. Bogert, Jr., by a score of 53. E. B. Floyd was second with a 54. In the afternoon there was a mixed foursome. Mrs. W. E. Gibbs and H. E. Knight were the winners, with a score of 101, 6—95. Mrs. J. Johnston and Joseph Sherman, Jr., finished second with a score of 103, 2—101, and Mrs. A. E. Keller and E. B. Proudfit third, with a score of 109, 6—103.

Last night there was a large dance at the club house, which was attended by many society folks from Westfield and nearby towns.

CLARK HOUSE LICENSE TRANSFERRED TO SONS

COUNCILMAN TYLER'S UNSUCCESSFUL FIGHT.

When Councilman Tyler, as chairman of the license committee, reported back the application of Mrs. Anna Clark, executrix of the late Bernard Clark, asking that the liquor license held by her late husband be transferred to her sons, John and Frank Clark, at the regular meeting of the Common Council Monday night, he moved that the same be refused. In doing so he referred to his ordinance introduced some time ago and now on the table, which provides for restricting the saloon area.

Mr. Tyler expressed his regrets that the ordinance was not now in force, so that the Common Council could take advantage of it and exclude this licensed place which that ordinance provides. He said that he hoped that although the ordinance was not in force, the members would catch the spirit of it and refuse the application.

Councilman Frank Randolph took exception to Mr. Tyler's remarks and said that the license should be transferred, that it would be robbery to take the money for it and then refuse to make the transfer.

Mr. Murphy thought that if the transfer was to be made, it should be to one person instead of two, and he offered an amendment to that effect, but it was not adopted, although William Newcorn, Esq., counsel for the Clarks, agreed to the change.

At Mr. Gloak's suggestion, Mr. Newcorn was given the privilege of the floor.

Mr. Bullock considered the matter a technical one at the best and by the transfer he could not see that the status was changed.

The question, on Mr. Gloak's motion, made early in the discussion, that the license be transferred, was called for, and it was adopted, Councilmen Daniel, Bullock, Gloak, Higham, Hibbard, Charles C. Randolph and Frank Randolph voting in the affirmative and Councilmen Murphy and Tyler in the negative.

School Election Tame.

Just twenty-five votes were cast at the borough Board of Education special election for the issuance of $4,000 school bonds Monday night. There was no opposition and the board can now go ahead with its arrangements for furnishing the new school. James R. Joy acted as chairman at the meeting and Fernando Ward was secretary.

A Church Guild Sale.

The St. Mary's Guild of St. Stephen's church conducted a successful ice cream and cake sale on the premises adjoining the residence of J. W. Johnson, on East Seventh street, yesterday afternoon. The grounds were prettily decorated and the attendance was large.

FIX PUBLIC HEARINGS

Council to Give Interested Citizens Chance to Talk on Proposed Improvements.

ALL ON AUGUST 17.

To Clean Cedar Brook and Richmond Street Storm Sewer—To Widen Several Streets.

Just as the Common Council was about to adjourn at the regular meeting on Monday night, it being Mr. Gloak's intention to introduce several street matters at the adjourned session, President Daniel thought it would be just as well to finish up the business while the members were in session, thus obviating the trouble of holding another meeting this month.

The first matter introduced by Mr. Gloak was a resolution fixing Monday night, August 7, as the time for a public hearing on the proposed action of widening and deepening Cedar Brook, in accordance with plans already prepared. The cost for the improvement is to be borne by the property owners benefited.

Mr. Tyler wanted to know if the ordinance had been drafted yet, and when informed that it had not been, he said he thought it would be better to wait and have the ordinance prepared first. Mr. Gloak took exception, saying that the matter had been held up long enough. He thought it was time to act before the corporation counsel goes away and makes further delay possible. The resolution, amended to authorize the city clerk to send a personal notification to each property owner interested, was adopted.

Another very important matter introduced by Mr. Gloak was an ordinance providing for the installation of a storm sewer in Richmond street, proposed a long time ago. This is to be a separate sewer and drain with three outlets at East Fifth street and three on South avenue, which, it is believed, will relieve that section in heavy rains. The cost, which will be about $2,000, is to be paid for out of a general tax, and Monday night, August7, is the time fixed for a public hearing.

In connection with this Mr. Tyler referred to the proposed storm sewer in Plainfield avenue, and said he was willing to let the Richmond street sewer go through if the one in Plainfield avenue was shown equal consideration. It is proposed to expend about $2,000 on the Plainfield avenue sewer.

Mr. Gloak offered another resolution calling for a public hearing on the proposed widening of Sycamore street, between Fourth and Fifth streets. This will be held on Monday night, August 7, as will also the public hearings on the proposed opening of Stebbins place, between Second and Fourth streets, and the proposed widening of Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad, resolutions to that effect being offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted by the Common Council.

Still another resolution by Mr. Gloak provided that the city flagg its property at 921-925 Park avenue. The resolution was adopted, all voting in the affirmative except Presiden Daniel.

A FINE OUTING.

Plainfielders Entertained at Hamden Over the Fourth.

Following their yearly custom, a party of boroughites, including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force and their daughter, Miss Lillian A. Force, paid a visit to Mrs. J. F. Grandin, Hamden, Hunterdon county, over the Fourth. They left here Saturday and returned today, after being most pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Gran*din and her two accomplished daugh*ters, Miss Todd and Miss Grandin. The Grandin home, which is one of the most modern in romantic Hunterdon, presented an Independence Day appearance. The verandas and dining room, particularly, being adorned in National colors. At the enjoyable Fourth of July dinner dainty and appropriate souvenirs were a feature

During the day group pictures of the visitors were taken and outdoor games, including fairy bowling and croquet, were played. A fireworks display at night ended the festivities.

Dinner Party for Nephew.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Clark, of West Seventh street, gave a dinner party at the Park Club, last night, for their nephew, Hugh G. Baldwin. Covers were laid for ten, and the guests were the Misses Hooley, McCutcheon and Northrup, and Messrs. Cooley, Hallock and Brokaw.

Home From Philippines.

Boardman Drake, son of T. B. Drake, of Duer street, has returned home after an absence of several years in the Philippines.

TUESDAY'S ACCIDENTS

One Man Loses His Right Hand as Result of Cannon Cracker Explosions

SOME MINOR CASES.

Many Receive Severe Burns—Big Fire Crackers and Toy Cannons Cause Trouble.

Several accident cases, due to Fourth of July celebration, were received at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday and today, and these, together with the other cases, made the day a busy one for the nurses.

Fred Potter, aged 44 years, of Annandale, allowed a giant firecracker to explode in his right hand, inflicting injuries which necessitated the amputation of the hand at the wrist. The man reached the hospital at 7 o'clock last night.

Martin Gillman, aged 10 years, of New street, suffered severe burns about the face and hands yesterday, a quantity of gunpowder exploding while he was setting off firecrackers. He is still at the hospital.

George Penny, aged 16 years, was fooling with a toy pistol, a cartridge exploded prematurely and wounded a finger.

George Stephens, aged 15 years, of Watchung, was discharging a home-made cannon at his home this morning, when he was burned about the arms and eyes. Dr. Dundon gave temporary treatment and sent the patient to the hospital. His burns are superficial.

The wadding of a blank cartridge buried itself in the hand of Frank O'Brien, of Manson place, inflicting an ugly wound. He was taken to Dr. Cregar and the physician took every precaution to prevent blood poisoning or tetanus.

Edward Galbraith, of West Third street, approached too close to a lighted cannon cracker and the explosion burned him severely about the head and face.

Willie Sears, of Liberty street, inadvertently dropped a lighted fire cracked in his coat pocket. His hands were painfully burned in his efforts to put out the resulting fire.

Miss Kate Innis, of West Third street, picked up a cannon cracker that was supposed to have gone out. It hadn't. She will nurse badly burned hands for some time.

DAAB CLEAR OF THE NATIONAL AGREEMENT

GETS WORD HE CAN HAVE HIS CHECK BACK—BLANKET REPLY.

Manager Daab will get his $500 check back and his release from the National agreement. In a blanket reply from Garry Herrman, covering the matter of National and American leaguers going into games with outlaws, the jump of Rube Oldring to Montgomery, Alabama, and the forfeit money, he was informed that he could have his check back if he insisted by writing to the secretary of the National Commission. Mr. Daab, with rare presence of mind, immediately insisted.

Respecting the commingling of leaguers and outlaws in this vicinity, the commission said boldly that it would try to stop it, if its attention were called to violations, after the first offense. In Oldring's case the commission shrugs its shoulders and blandly intimates that Daab will have to lose Rube unless the latter gets a hankering to return.

Mrs. Emily Cornell.

Mrs. Emily Cornell, widow of William Cornell, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alonzo Aldrich, of Sherman avenue, after a long illness. She was in her ninety-fifth year and came to Plainfield from New York. The funeral will be held from Mrs. Aldrich's residence tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Church to be Flat Building.

Aleck Kane, who bought the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church and spent as much as the purchase price in getting possession of the structure, has decided to turn it into flats. The work is to start at once. Kane has also purchased the old parish house of Grace church and will commence tearing it down tomorrow.

Negress Fined.

Agnes Holmes, colored, was fined $5 in the city court this morning for quarreling with Emma Burgess, also colored. She was charged with hitting the Burgess woman with the butt of a buggy whip.

—Daily Press want ads. pay.

—If it's made from Neuman Brothers' Formosa Oolong, there is nothing in the way of hot weather drinks to equal iced tea. Formosa Oolong sells for fifty cents a pound.

TWO MORE ON THE LIST

Newburgh's Drop Both Ends of Double-Header Here.

A NO-HIT GAME.

Beck Pitches in Record-making Shape in Morning Contest—Hipkins' Bubble Busted in Afternoon.

Continuing their new winning streak, the Daab myrmidons took both halves of the double header from the Newburghs, of New York, Tuesday. Neither game came hard, the afternoon contest being as easy as the usual Saturday runfests.

In the morning game Plainfield shut out the New Yorkers 5 to 0. Beck accomplished the no-hit flinging feat, the first time the stunt has been pulled off on the grounds. Fast fielding helped to hang up the record.

The afternoon contest was largely a matter of busting the Great Hipkins Bubble. Last Sunday Hipkins, with the Bostons back of him held the Daabsters down to three hits in Hoboken. McGrath put him in yesterday afternoon and expected him to do the same trick, only more so. The score was 11 to 3, and it represents largely what happened to Mr. Hipkins.

There was nothing much outside of the Hon. W. Beck's flinging in the morning game. The opposing athletes never had a look in at the hit game. In six innings they died one-two-three, and never a man of them reached third. Bill fanned six of them and passed up only two. With the aid of Old Sol, Bill further distinguished himself by peeling off a Texas leaguers. It fell safe while five husky and willing athletes gazed in silent awe at the heart of the beautiful sunshine.

There was never any doubt of the way the game would end after the second, when the Daabsters peeled off three marks on Leonard's single to left, a steal, Driscoll's saunter, Beck's sun-kissed welt and steal and Kiernan's rap to centre. The Daabsters did not rip Metcalf to bits exactly, but they went at him in a businesslike way that spelled ruin.

Metcalf was not blessed with the brightest kind of gilt-edge support, and the other two tallies were push-
The home fielders were snappy.
Cregan and Connolly made swell ed along by errors.
running catches, and Mike Leonard nailed an old fashioned screecher.

Among the special features must be mentioned the presence of C. Denman, great chief of Westfield, on the bench, and a cosy little bunch of villagers from up the line in the grandstand. They looked friendly, but watched Bill's flinging with dubious sighs.

Sylvan echoes:

Morning Game.

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss | 0 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 2 |
| Cosgrave, cf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Cohalan, 2b | 0 | 1 | 2 | 4 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 1 | 1 | 0 | 4 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 2 | 1 | 11 | 1 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c | 1 | 1 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Beck, p | 1 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 0 |
| Totals | 5 | 7 | 27 | 14 | 2 |

NEWBURGH.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fallon, lf | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 1 |
| Demay, 2b | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| Gorman, cf | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Donahue, rf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 |
| Frambach, 1b | 0 | 0 | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Cooper, 3b | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| McGrath, ss | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 1 |
| Brogan, ss, 3b | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 |
| Cotter, c | 0 | 0 | 8 | 1 | 0 |
| Metcalf, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| Totals | 0 | 0 | 24 | 10 | 4 |

Plainfield ...0 2 0 2 0 1 0 0 x—5
Newburgh ..0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

Earned runs—Leonard. First on balls—Off Beck, 2; off Metcalf, 3. Struck out—By Beck, 6; by Metcalf, 3. Left on bases—Plainfield, 7; Newburgh, 3. Double plays—Beck to Driscoll to Cohalan. First base on errors—Plainfield, 2; Newburgh, 2. Hit by pitcher—Kiernan, Cosgrave, O'Neill. Stolen bases—Plainfield, 5. Sacrifice hits—O'Neill. Time of game—1 hour and 40 minutes. Umpire—Merrity. Attendance—500.

Hipkins was hit freely in the afternoon game, and he helped the bumps with two costly wild throws. The Plainfields got to him in the third, scoring two runs on three bunched hits and a sacrifice. They scored again in the next stanza, three marks going up on some passes issued by Mr. Hipkins and a small packet of singles.

Deegan pitched superb ball until the sixth. At that stage we were 6 to 0, and Deegan let up. He slowed down so perceptibly that even the hated rivals saw it and the welts that were made evoked no gurgles of satisfaction. McGrath started the marking for the Newburghers with a single to centre. Donahue put one to right, and they came in on Brogan's hit to centre. They got their last tally in the eighth on McGrath's single to right, Deegan's balk and Donahue's long fly.

Mike Leonard again covered himself with hurrah, and Cregan made a sensational catch in deep field. Driscoll stained a fine and spotless record with a fumble of a thrown ball. It wasn't a pretty throw, but it slapped his first error on the hitherto untainted average.

Among those present were:

Afternoon Game.

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 1 |
| Cosgrave, cf | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Cohalan, 2b | 1 | 0 | 4 | 4 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 0 | 2 | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 1 | 1 | 1 | 5 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 2 | 1 | 10 | 0 | 1 |
| O'Neill, c | 2 | 1 | 5 | 1 | 0 |
| Deegan, p | 2 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 1 |
| Totals | 11 | 8 | 27 | 12 | 2 |

NEWBURGH.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fallon, lf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| McGrath, ss | 2 | 2 | 2 | 5 | 0 |
| Demay, 2b | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 1 |
| Donahue, rf, 1b | 1 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 2 |
| Metcalf, rf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Ferris, 1b | 0 | 1 | 7 | 1 | 1 |
| Brogan, 3b | 0 | 1 | 0 | 5 | 0 |
| Gorman, cf | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| Cooper, c | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Hipkins, p | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 2 |
| Totals | 3 | 7 | 23* | 14 | 6 |

*Cregan out, hit by batted ball.

Plainfield .0 0 2 4 0 3 2 0 x—11
Newburgh .0 0 0 0 0 2 0 1 0—3

Earned runs—Plainfield, 3; Newburgh, 3. Two base hits—Deegan. Base on balls—Off Deegan, 1; off Hipkins, 4. Struck out—By Deegan, 4; by Hipkins, 3. Left on base—Plainfield, 5; Newburgh, 7. First base on errors—Plainfield, 4; Newburgh, 2. Hit by pitcher—Cooper, Kiernan. Stolen bases—Brogan, Cosgrave, Cregan. Sacrifice hits—Deegan. Time of game—1 hour and 45 minutes. Umpire—Merrity. Attendance—1,000.

WADSWORTH SCHOOL SOLD FOR $7,500

MRS. BABCOCK MAKES PART PAYMENT OF $5,000 DONATION.

At its regular meeting, Monday night, the city Board of Education formally passed the sale of the Wadsworth school property to John B. Cottrell, of New York. It was specified that the deed should be given him on July 17 and that the price to be paid is $7,500, instead of $7,000, as at first reported. In the contract drawn up it was mentioned that the deal had been made by J. T. Vail and that he is to get $187.50 as his commission.

During the meeting, several slight changes were made in plans for the new High School and it was reported by Supervisor Morse that there is every prospect of its being completed by November 1. The work is progressing nicely and, Mr. Morse said, "in a more thorough manner than any building he had ever watched over." A communication was received from Mrs. George Babcock enclosing a check for $2,000, the first installment of the $5,000 she is to give for the fitting up of the Babcock laboratory.

Charles W. Smith, of West Front street, made application for the appointment of engineer of the new building and Jesse M. Scull was transferred from the janitorship at the Wadsworth building to the Bryant building.

H. G. Lapsley's Story.

Plainfielders have come in for a liberal share in the awards for Tribune stories during the past month. Howard G. Lapsley, who was graduated last month from the Plainfield High School, has received honor. His contribution has been selected as one of twenty stories out of a hundred to receive special prizes. Louis Arnold, of Liberty street, is one of the names on the honor list.

Grocers Play Ball.

The nines composed of clerks employed in the Neuman Bros. and J. A. Smith & Bros. groceries met in their annual baseball contest on Hope Common yesterday. The Smiths won, 20 to 10. The batteries: Smiths—Daly and Polhemus; Neumans, Squires and Bundy.

Directors' Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A., scheduled for tomorrow night, has been postponed to July 13 on account of the number of directors who left town over the Fourth.

Their Final Rehearsal.

The members of the troupe to give the Montross minstrel benefit will hold their final rehearsal in the rooms of the Timbo Social Club this evening.

COUNCIL'S ROUTINE WORK

Ordinance For Sewer Bed Extension Passes to Third Reading.

MAYOR'S APPOINTMENTS

Three Special Policemen—Unsanitary Condition of Tier's Pond to be Remedied.

Suspending the regular order of business, Mr. Gloak introduced the ordinance for the proposed improvements of the sewage beds, at the meeting of the Common Council Monday night. It was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised, after an opportunity had been given anyone present to speak for or against the improvement. This ordinance refers to the work for which a contract was awarded to Richards & Gaston at the June meeting. No one spoke for or against the ordinance and it will be adopted on final reading at the next regular meeting.

Rev. Scott Wallace, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, asked the Common Council to remit a 1904 tax of $75.60 assessed on the church property and to return $86.45 paid in taxes in November, 1904, to prevent a sale of the property. The reason given for imposing the tax was that during the periods mentioned it was claimed that the National Provident Loan Company was the owner of the property, while Pastor Wallace claims that is simply held the deed for the property temporarily, pending the payment of a loan. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Residents of Midway avenue, below Netherwood avenue, asked to have that thoroughfare levelled off to permit building and the establishment of the proper building lines. The matter was referred to the street committee, and a petition for three electric lights on West Third street, between Halsey street and Clinton avenue, will be considered by the light committee.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow called the attention of the Common Council to the unsanitary condition of Tier's pond, owing to the prevalance of mud and slime. He said that Charles J. Fisk, president of the Board of Health, had suggested that the work of making the pond be undertaken by the city and the expense divided among the property-owners affected. This matter was referred to the public affairs committee.

Mayor Buckle appointed Charles A. Peterson, Theodore Martin and John H. Conroy as special patrolmen, Pierre Moore as dog catcher and Charles A. Peterson as poundkeeper, and the Common Council confirmed the appointments.

City Judge William N. Runyon's half-yearly report showed that there had been 284 arrests during that time and $271 collected in fines, out of which $32.70 had been paid to Chief Kiely for expenses. The balance was turned over to the city treasurer.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of twenty-six permits during June.

Mr. Murphy offered a resolution, which was adopted, transferring $5,000 from the general fund to the fire fund and $2,000 from the general fund to the poor fund.

Another resolution by Mr. Murphy authorized the city clerk to draw a warrant for $62,612.43 in favor of W. F. Arnold, custodian of school money, it representing the amount received from the last sale of school bonds, completing the sum of $125,000, the cost of the new High School building.

Mr. Murphy recommended the granting of an electric light on Grant avenue, between Sherman avenue and Eighth street, as petitioned for and the recommendation was adopted.

FIREMAN INJURED.

James Mowry Fell Beneath Wheels of Hose Truck.

A false alarm of fire rung in from box 153 in the borough, Monday night, brought the department out on a wild-goose chase and as is generally the case in "fake" runs, resulted in accident. James Mowry, a call man, attempted to jump on the hose wagon as it was leaving the house and fell beneath the wheels. One of them passed over his knee cap and he sustained a severe bruise that was at first thought to be a break. He was cared for by Dr. Dundon and was afterward taken to his home.

The box is located at Giraud and Myrtle avenues and is the one from which a false alarm frequently comes on Hallowe'en and the night before the Fourth. It is thought to have been done by boys and Chief Woolston is conducting an investigation.

Rowland Rockfellow, of this city, is spending his two weeks' vacation with his mother at Cardinal, Va.

MEN PROMINENT IN CITY AND COUNTY GATHERED AT CAPT. HUBBARD'S BIER

Political, Religious, Business, Military and Charitable Bodies Represented.

DR. LEWIS'S EULOGY.

Deeply Impressive Services Over Body of Venerable Director of Freeholders at His Late Home.

Not only the leading residents of his home town, but every official of prominence in Union county met with bowed heads and sorrow-laden hearts at the late home of Captain James Franklin Hubbard, on West Seventh street, Thursday afternoon, when the funeral service was conducted over his body. It was a group of representative men from all walks in life, but gathered for one common purpose—to pay tribute to one who had earned and deserved it. The attendance included twenty members of the Board of Freeholders, with which he had been connected thirty-seven years, the same number of former freeholders, the survivors of Company H, Thirieth New Jersey Volunteers, of which he had been in command; and representatives from the City National Bank, Dime Savings Institution, Plainfield Water Supply Company, Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.; New York Commandery, Military Order Loyal Legion; Muhlenberg Hospital and the Seventh-day Baptist church.

The house was filled to overflowing when the service was opened by the singing of "Rock of Ages" by E. E. Runyon and Charles L. Lewis, after which Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, read Scripture.

No more touching tribute has ever been accorded a departed Plainfielder than the one paid Captain Hubbard by Dr. A. H. Lewis, former pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, who followed. In boyhood they were constant companions, and in after years bosom friends; their path in life was traversed together and they had grown to love each other. With a voice that faltered from emotion Dr. Lewis spoke of his helper and advisor in words that he and his hearers knew to be true, no false acclaim and no meaningless laudation.

"I have been blest in my knowledge of him," said the reverend doctor, "as many here have been blest who knew him, and if all who have been so blest could do so, they would crowd this place to honor him. I need not tell his history; whatever has gone to make society or political history better and brighter in all this part of the country for the past fifty years is made up by the tribute our hearts bring to his memory today.

"First of all, he was a man of conscience. His life proves that the highest type of manliness, unless the standard of action be measured by the Divine, had been attained. He was a quiet man with very little to say, and this element of quiet was shown in every turn of his life and character. He was a consistent and an efficient man, one who saw the end from the beginning. Whether it was in the rearing of some great building or the settling of some important question or the promotion of a large enterprise, he was far beyond the ordinary man of detail.

"Untiring in his appreciation and carefulness of everything given him to do, I here urge that these elements grow only out of the soil that conscience makes.

"He was a man worthy of trust, and here I would coin a word—he was a trustworthful man. Those who knew him know he was worthful—your experience proves this. It was a blessing to stand in touch with him. I am saying this in the hope that it may bring the mantle of trustworthfulness over our own shoulders. And I am saying it for you, young men, to show no man gets position who clamors for it—no man gets honors who hunts for them. He was a man who would almost rebuke me if he could hear me now saying. 'I have done nothing that would deserve commendation.'

"Last of all, and largest of all, he was a quiet Christian man. It was during the last years of my pastorate here that he would drop into my study day after day for a close personal talk. His parents and mine were bosom companions and a strange coincidence is that the man who baptised Captain Hubbard and myself was the grandfather of our pastor now. We were talking one day about the reading of Scripture. The day before he had been listening to a man reading a portion of the Scripture in a manner that did not please him. He said: 'I do not like to hear a man read my chapter in that way.' I asked him about this chapter, and he said, 'When our regiment was on reserve at Chancellorsville, expecting at any moment to be called into action, I sought a secluded spot, drew out my testament and read the fourteenth chapter of John, beginning 'Let not your heart be troubled.' I read that chapter, put my testament back in my haversack, and from that hour I have felt the peace that came over me and blest me, and I cannot bear to have any one read that chapter carelessly.'

"To you, his comrades in arms, I tell this story as a revelation of the inner life of your officer and my brother. I do not wonder that yesterday, at Harvard, President Roosevelt said, 'I am for peace, but peace with righteousness.' In 1861 we were forced to purchase peace with the sword, and we owe an everlasting debt of gratitude to the men who purchased that peace. Captain Hubbard, with courage as true as his sword, represented the true soldier. As a son, husband, business man, patriot and worker in the church of Christ, he was so much above the average man that he seems unlike most of us. I come here as a friend, glad to come here as a brother and acknowledge that I am the better because I knew him.

"This testimony is not so much to him as a man as the manhood he presented. You could no more associate the thought of graft with the name of Captain Hubbard than you could with the name of your mother. Only a day or two slips by since we have bid good bye, only a day or two passes when we shall follow into that larger life—a sweeter peace that is to come upon us.

"Brothers, friends, bereaved ones, our little circle has been broken again. To the Divine love we commend you. Our Father will guide the feet that are still left to tread the paths of life, but it will not be long before we shall all gather in the ineffable peace found alone in the presence of Him who loved us and hath redeemed us."

As Dr. Lewis concluded, Charles L. Lewis sang with great depth of feeling, "Crossing the Bar," and prayer was offered by President B. C. Davis, of Alfred University, of which Mr. Hubbard was one of the Board of Trustees. The service closed with the singing of "Lead Kindly Light," by Mr. Lewis and Mr. Runyon.

When the opportunity was given the mourners to view the features of the captain it required a long time for the line to pass by. The casket was draped with the Stars and Stripes and the floral tributes were so numerous as to occupy half the room. There were immense set pieces from all the organizations and societies with which he had been connected and from individuals.

The interment was made at Hillside, the greater part of the attendants proceeding to the graveside. Scripture was read by Rev. Mr. Shaw and the committal and prayer was made by Dr. Lewis.

The casket was borne by I. N. Van-Sickle, A. L. Titsworth, D. E. Titsworth, G. E. Stillman, W. H. Rogers, C. H. Dunham, Frank J. Hubbard and William C. Hubbard.

The gathering at the house included Judge B. A. Vail, who adjourned the cour. of Common Pleas at 1 o'clock that the attaches might attend, County Collector E. M. Wood, Surrogate George T. Parrot, County Physician F. W. Westcott, County Registrar F. H. Smith, Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, former Sheriff Robert Houston, County Engineer Jacob Bauer, S. Rusling Ryno, clerk to the Board of Freeholders; Charles E. Reid, secretary to the Republican County Committee; former county clerks, William Howard and John L. Crowell; County Attorney W. R. Coddington, Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway; Hamilton F. Kean, Frank Bergen, Street Commissioner Thompson, former Mayor P. J. Ryan, C. H. K. Halsey, Postmaster P. H. Charlock and Editor Joseph Louden, of Elizabeth. Among the local officials who attended were Mayor James F. Buckle, City Clerk James T. MacMurray, Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, Chief T. O. Doane, Chief P. S. Kiely and members of the Common Council, also former Mayor Dr. O. L. Jenkins. Muhlenberg Hospital was represented by Ernest R. Ackerman and William S. Cock.

The survivors of Company H who were present were Nelson Runyon, Charles H. Randolph, James L. Mundy, Charles B. Roger and Randolph Thorn, of this city; Harry Champlin, of Newark, and John Fromm, of Elizabeth. In addition there were twenty members of the 30th. N. J. regiment.

Pistol Prizes for Cops.

Chairman Tyler, of the police committee, is much interested in the efforts of Chief Kiely to improve the marksmanship of the force. To encourage the men in target practice, Mr. Tyler has announced that he will offer prizes for the best scores made during the practice season. The men have been shooting for several weeks already on the Plainfield Gun Club grounds.

Colonel Offers Medal.

Col. Dennis F. Collins, commander of the Second Regiment, has added a new prize for the regimental marksmen. The enlisted man who makes the best qualifying score as a marksman at the State's expense will receive a gold medal.

STATE PRESS TRIBUTES TO CAPT. J. F. HUBBARD

The Elizabeth Journal pays this tribute to the late Capt. Hubbard:

"The death of James Franklin Hubbard is a loss to Union county that will be sincerely felt. He had resided in Plainfield since 1854, and in that period of more than half a century, his life had marked him as a citizen of the best type, worthy of the esteem and the honor which his fellow citizen delighted in according him. He was a modest man, never seeking self-preferment, but his influence was in the strength of his character. He was a gentleman in every sense of the word. He was gentle in his ways and courteous in his speech. He was a leader because men recognized that he was a true man, whose integrity fitted him for the confidence they imposed. Mr. Hubbard was distinguished for his faithfulness and zeal for the public good. In every department of life he was a power for good. He was known for quickness of perception and soundness of judgment, and his advice was eagerly sought. As a friend none could be warmer or more helpful; as a citizen none could be more useful or more loyal; as a public official none could be more faithful to every trust confided to him. Mr. Hubbard will be missed; profoundly missed. His loyalty to Union county was intense, and his devotion to its interests unceasing. For more than thirty-six years he was a member of the County Board of Chosen Freeholders, and for more than half that time he was the director of the board. He was a Republican, and a Whig before the organization of the Republican party. His adherence to his political convictions was as steadfast and true as that which characterized his life in all other matters, but the men in the other parties were ever ready to attest their esteem, and whenever he was re-elected as director of the board it was by a unanimous vote. His sagacity, that made for him success in business, was manifested in his public life, and his practical business methods and his soundness of judgment saved for the people many thousands of dollars. Union county's stability and progress is largely due to Mr. Hubbard's influence upon its management for so many years of its existence. The new Court House can be regarded as a monument to the memory of Mr. Hubbard. To him particularly belongs much of the credit that Union county is so favored; and the directing of this great public work, planned and complete with such honor to the county, was the crowning achievement of Mr. Hubbard's public career. Mr. Hubbard loved his country, and when the Civil War broke out he offered his service in defence of the Union, and won distinction on the field of conflict, returning as a captain in the Thirtieth New Jersey Regiment."

The Elizabeth Evening Times makes this comment on Capt. Hubbard's death:

"The death of J. Franklin Hubbard, for many years a member and for almost a generation director of the Board of Freeholders, is a great loss to Union county. Mr. Hubbard was one of the few remaining of the officeholders of the old school, a man of the strictest probity, whose sterling qualities, as a citizen and as a public official, had endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. His was a notable, a truly creditable and, well may we say, a brilliant career. For today, when honesty in public life is so rare, it is not required of an officeholder that, in order to make a great record, his field of activity be a very broad one, but rather, that within a limited sphere he serve to the best of his ability and judgment, and faithfully do his duty to his constituency, however small that may be. These are the great men of today, the men whose memories will be cherished, the men whose example will be pointed to for emulation by the youth of this country. Mr. Hubbard, as director of the county board, had personified economy and business methods in the transaction of public affairs. He had often to contend with a contrary tendency among the members of the various bodies of which he was chairman. He realized, as he himself often expressed it, that his position was by no means an easy one, and he exerted, even in his old age, every endeavor to keep the members of the board away from the temptations with which they were continually beset. There had been opposition to Mr. Hubbard's close scrutiny, but no member dared voice it openly, for they appreciated full well that their director was in the right, and that the people of Union county were of his views in the matter. From a public standpoint, therefore, Mr. Hubbard's death produces a great void in Union county, one which it will be difficult, if not impossible, to fill. Moreover, he was personally a lovable, kindly character, whose virtues were as many as they were admirable. Union county mourns the dath of a citizen such as was Mr. Hubbard, and its residents cannot but hope that, in the future, many of its public men may seek to lead the life he has led, and do such good as he has done."

Mrs. George Galbraith and children, of West Third street, have been visiting James Comerford, of High Bridge.

WHEN MONEY IS TAINTED

Not Money But the Love of It is the Root of All Evil.

The Christian Intelligencer contributes the following article on "tainted money:"

The expression "tainted contributions," which is becoming familiar to our ears in connection with "Standard Oil" benefactions, supposes either a moral quality to reside in the contributions themselves, or a moral quality to be communicated from the giver to the gift. Either supposition is not in accordance with the facts. Money is impersonal. It cannot carry or impart any moral quality. It is simply a representative value, and morally negative and colorless. It cannot receive any taint from the hand that bestows it. A cathedral will rise as fast from the gold of a pirate, as from the gold of a saint. And in fact, many a church and convent have owed their existence to robber barons and penitent courtesans, as the last flickering effort of vicious and misspent lives to propritiate the Almighty and escape future retribution.

So far from possessing any inherent vileness, money, in its varied uses, is not only convenient, but desirable and honorable, and may be a potent factor for good. "Money is a defense" (Eccles. 7:12). "Money answereth all things" (Eccles. 10:19). We read of "Atonement money" and "Redemption money" in the ancient Hebrew ceremonial ordinances of religion.

It is not money, but "the love of money" that is denounced as "the root of all evil."

The making of money and the spending of money are two distinct operations, in no wise connected or dependent on each other. Money made honestly by a righteous father may be spent recklessly, in vile self-indulgence, by a profligate son. On the other hand, money made by fraud or trick or over reaching or oppression, may be diverted into channels of righteousness, and made to serve the interests of the Kingdom of God. The origin of a treasure-fund is one thing; its appropriation is another. The former cannot always be traced or determined; the latter is open to enquiry and investigation.

But it is, after all, "to the law and to the testimony" that we must look in ultimate appeal. What says the word of God? "He that by usury and unjust gain increaseth his substance, he shall gather it from him that will pity the poor" (Prov. 28:8).

In other words, unjust gains are often destined, in the divine economy, to carry out works of beneficence and charity. It would seem that this one passage is broad enough to cover the Rockefeller incident.

But let us look to the teaching and example of Christ.

"And He looked up and saw the rich men casting their gifts into the treasury. And He saw also a certain poor widow casting in thither two mites. And He said, all these have cast in unto the offerings of God."

And God's treasury accepted the offerings of all; of the men who "devoured widows' houses," as well as of the widow whose house had been devoured. And Christ looked on, and made no protest. The gifts were acceptable, even tho' the donor were not worthy.

But there is a more striking instance on record, where Christ allowed his feet to be annointed with "the precious ointment in the alabaster box." The woman was a sinner," and He knew it. The ointment was bought with the wages of sin, and He knew it. The holy Pharisee who entertained Him expected his guest to shrink with horror from this touch of pollution. The ointment was not tainted in Christ's eyes. The goodness of this one act was recognized and rewarded by the forgiveness of her sins. Shall we accept the suggestion and the lesson?

There is one more thought that will present itself to every candid mind. Why should John D. Rockfeller be singled out as a scapegoat for public scorn and denunciation? He is not the only "Oily Gammon" in the United States. There are quite a number of others who follow a Golden Rule of their own, that is not precisely the Golden Rule of the New Testament. Why is this man who is "not only phenomenal in making money, but also phenomenal in giving it away," to be accounted a sinner above his fellows? His munificence does not alter the character of his business methods, but it not be used as a club for smiting him down. Whether it be conscience-money, or native generosity, or a real desire to help on a good work, the splendid gifts of Rockfeller to his own church and to the cause of foreign missions, can work only good, under divine control, and should be received with gratitude.

"There is some soul of goodness in things evil,
Would men observingly distil it out."
—Henry V., 4:1.

And even "Standard Oil" profits can be made to float upward in fragrant incense from the arembics of the Baptist church and the Mission Board. In the old slavery days, the contributions of slaveholders were not only accepted, but frankly solicited by this same American Board, though most of them were anti-slavery men, and many were violent abolitionists. It was impossible then, as now, to apply moral tests and character investigations to money offerings. Nor was it necessary, any more than at the treasury of the temple at Jerusalem, which Christ Himself overlooked.

In every case that is hampered with a doubt, we may safely trust the superintendence of the Almighty to direct our gifts into right channels. For "surely the wrath of man shall be made to praise God, and the remainder of wrath will He restrain" (Ps. 76:10). M. M. H.

FIGHTING THE MOSQUITO

What New Jersey Has Done to Exterminate the Pesky Creature.

To New Jersey belongs the distinction of having conducted a campaign absolutely unique in conception, purpose and partial fulfillment. The State is trying to square itself with the world. As the proverbial home of the mosquito it has been the target for all sorts of disparaging witticisms.

The mosquito pest has been an all-powerful factor in holding back, to a great extent, many of the natural industries of the land between the Delaware and Hudson rivers. It has been a menace to the health of the inhabitants, an absolute preventative for really solid comfort in the open air and a serious setback to the value and price of real estate.

It is little wonder that when the problem assumed proportions so monstrous the State Legislature found action necessary. During the session of 1902 a law was passed providing for an investigation of the pest, and John B. Smith, Sc. D., was entrusted with the herculean task of leading an army of experts against the pesky foe.

People and press were doubtful, indeed, that the thousands of dollars worth which this propaganda would necessarily cost would ever bring results. But Dr. Smith and his assistants fought on, despite the lack of moral support given by the public, and today there is no doubt that an apparent inroad has been made on the troublesome host, although it is no less obvious that a great work still remains.

The systematic campaign conducted by the officials involved a division of the entire State into practicable sections. Over each of these sections one of Dr. Smith's assistants was assigned to collect specimens and take minute notes on such physical conditions which directly or indirectly affected the existence of propagation of mosquitoes. As a result of this investigation a mass of pertinent information was brought to the expert's laboratory in New Brunswick and the greater task of finding the method of relief was undertaken.

Dr. Smith makes no pretense at extermination. He says: "I do not believe actual extermination is possible in the case of an insect that develops so rapidly and in such a great variety of places. There will always be careless people and there will often be unusual seasons that will give mosquitoes a chance to maintain themselves, but it is quite within our power to deprive them of their larger breeding areas and to reduce them to a point where they will cease to be obnoxious. Improvement of the salt marsh conditions will prevent the migrations and will enable local communities to benefit by their enterprise in improving conditions. Were it not for the marsh mosquitoes Montclair and South Orange would not even now need mosquito netting."

With the careful survey of the State once under way, it became apparent to the authorities that the seat of action must be the marsh lands. The most important of these were the Newark meadows, where gangs of laborers were set to work draining and filling in the dead pools and bogs which constitute the breeding places for the swarms of mosquitoes. The marsh breeding species will probably prove to be the most expensive when it comes to the expenditure of great sums in fighting the insect. Dr. Smith declares, however, that even though it cost the State treasury a million dollars, the benefits to be derived in the increased value of the property, to say nothing of the increased comfort of the people, would repay the expenditure one hundred fold. It is related that one conservative man who contributed $50 to a fund for cleaning out a large breeding area, said that this outlay had increased the value of his property holdings by $10,000.

One of the results of the systematic research made throughout the State is that the experts who had the work in hand have a knowledge of practically every species of mosquito in the State. Dr. Smith believes, further, that he has determined by practical work and experiment that control of the pest is possible at a reasonable cost, and that there remains only the actual carrying out of the recommendations made.

Among those who have assisted the State entomologist are J. Turner Brakeley, of Bordentown; Edgar L. Dickinson, of Newark; Herman H. Brehme, of Newark; John A. Grossbeck, William P. Seal, of Belair; Charles W. Wagner, of Elizabeth; John Mellor, of New York, and Henry L. Viereck, of Philadelphia. Graduates and undergraduates of Rutgers College are deeply interested in Dr. Smith's work, and have given him great assistance in his laboratory.

DEPEW LOSES HIS GRAFT

Paul Morton Cuts Off His $20,000 From the Equitable.

In following out his policy of retrenchment and stopping the crevices through which policyholders' money has been sifting, Paul Morton, chairman of the Equitable Society, yesterday notified Chauncey M. Depew that on and after July 1 the annual retainer of $20,000 which he has received for several years would be discontinued.

Mr. Morton also notified David B. Hill that he retainer of $5,000 would no longer be sent to him. Mr. Morton closed up his list of those who have been receiving annual stipends from the society without, in his judgment, giving a satisfactory return therefor by writing a letter to George H. Squire that his "pension salary" of $1,000 a month would cease on July 1.

The chairman did not accompany the announcement of the discontinuance of Mr. Depew's and Mr. Hill's retainers by any further statement. Senator Depew will receive his notification by cable when he lands from the steamship on which he sailed last Saturday for Europe.

Another interesting development was the resignation of General Louis Fitzgerald as a member of the board of directors. General Fitzgerald's resignation was placed in Mr. Morton's hands yesterday morning, accompanied by a letter of explanation, which Mr. Morton did not see fit to make public. General Fitzgerald has been at his country home in Garrison, N. Y., for several weeks, suffering from heart trouble, which is said to be serious. Recent reports have made it appear that General Fitzgerald's condition was such as to preclude his taking active part in business hereafter.

General Fitzgerald's resignation is No. 22 on Mr. Morton's list. He was named in the Hendricks report as having been sent for by the Superintendent of Insurance while the oral examinations were under way, but the General did not see fit to heed the summons. In his report Mr. Hendricks says it had been his intention to question General Fitzgerald in connection with the lease by the Equitable to the Missouri Safe Deposit oCmpany. For many years the General has been a member of the board of directors and was chairman of the executive and finance committees of the society. His close personal friendship for Henry B. Hyde, founder of the society, was the reason for his appointment as one of the executors of the Hyde estate.

MISS GEARY WEDS.

Former Borough Girl Weds a Newarker.

Miss Mabel M. Garey, a former well known resident of the borough, was married at Newark Monday evening to Walter J. Leathetrow, of that city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. J. Johnston, pastor of the Franklin Street M. E. church, who was formerly pastor of Grace M. E. church, North Plainfield.

The bride is the daughter of the late Jacob C. Garey, who resided at 39 Craig place, and who was chief clerk to the general manager and vice-president of the New Jersey Central. When her parents removed to Hackettstown she attended the Centenary Collegiate Institute and was a member of the Peithasophian Society.

The groom is a son of William Leathrow, of Akron, Ohio, and is superintendent of the Rubber Balloon Company of America, with offices and factory at Columbia and Elm streets, Newark.

A most interesting feature of the wedding was the cutting of a twenty-year-old wedding cake by the bride. This cake was made for the bride's mother when she and Mr. Geary were married twenty years ago by Rev. Dr. George C. Whitney, of this city.

Newark, 285,000 Population.

The work of taking the State census of Newark is about finished. All the enumerators have completed the gathering of the statistics required, except three, and their work had so far progressed as to be practically completed. It is evident that some persons who have had high hopes of a large increase in the population of the city are going to be disappointed, and that the number of inhabitants will not be over 285,000, instead of reaching the 300,000 mark, which was confidently expected.

Real Estate Deals.

William Jeffery, the real estate broker, has sold F. A. Pope's property, at 133 East Second street, to Thomas Berkeley, of New York, also sixty-seven lots with a large residence at Berkeley Heights, owned by the Berkeley Heights Association, to A. S. Quintard, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and a forty foot lot on West Fourth street, owned by Bolton Hall, to Joseph Brandt.

H. G. Lucas and family, of New York, have taken up their residence at Berkeley Heights.

Mrs. John Stevens, of Watchung avenue, has been visiting the Misses Gallagher, of Raritan.

Hippolyte Texier, of Watchung, will leave next week for Canada, to spend his annual vacation.

SEVEN YEARS AS MINISTER

Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson's Congregation and Others Tender Him a Reception.

OTHER PASTORS SPEAK

Big Time at Mt. Olive Baptist Church—Revs. Ashley, Wallace and Miller Talk.

The colored churches of the city united with the members of the Mt. Olive Baptist church Thursday in observing the seventh anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson. The church was filled to overflowing with people and a lengthy programme held the close attention of all. Rev. Dr. H. C. Ashley, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, was master of ceremonies.

The programme was interspersed with anthems by the Baptist Young People's Union choir under the direction of Richard Randolph. In the absence of Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, who was expected to make an address, Rev. Scott Wallace, of the Calvary Baptist church, gave a short talk congratulating Dr. Jackson and his people upon the completion of the seven years' pastorate.

Chares VanHorn, of Bethel chapel, read an essay on the subject of "Dr. Jackson a Lover of Young People," after which Mrs. J. C. Anderson sang a solo and Rev. Dr. Miller, in charge of the colored mission at Grace church, spoke earnest words in congratulating Dr. Jackson an his successful pastorate.

Alfred Carey, of Calvary Baptist church, spoke on the subject of "What a Blessing to a Community is a Good Pastor." Miss Mary Randolph, a graduate of the Plainfield High School, delivered a valedictory address, "The Status of Our Race," while Mrs. P. H. Brown related incidents as to how Dr. Jackson was called to this church.

Other numbers on the programme were as follows: Recitation, Miss Emma Jackson; piano solo, Miss Alice Maynard; vocal solo, Miss Patsy Landon; address, "What Dr. Jackson Has Been to Us as a Church and People," Deacon D. W. Brown; greeting from the King's Daughters, Mrs. S. M. Fields, president; musical selections by the mandolin club; song by the choir; greetings from the Faithful Workers, Mrs. Lulu Dempsey, president; vocal solo, Miss Lulu Lewis; greetings from the Missionary Society, Miss Maggie Cobbs, Mrs. M. Cobbs, president; vocal solo, Miss Fannie Olden; musical selections, mandolin club; greetings from the Baptist Young People's Union, by Miss M. E. Sumter, subject, "Our Pastor Among the Young People."

Nathan J. Pollard, superintendent of the Sunday-school, spoke on the subject of "Dr. Jackson as a Fearless and Safe Leader," recounting some of his earnest efforts along this line. Mrs. Elizabeth Carter gave a short address on the subject of "Why We are Here Tonight," and in the absence of Rev. Dr. W. A. Credit, of Philadelphia, his place was taken by Rev. C. H. Parish, of Philadelphia, editor of the Baptist Trumphet," who brought greetings from the Philadelphia Baptists.

At this time Dr. Jackson responded to the words of congratulation, thanking one and all for their kind expression of good will. He briefly reviewed his pastorate of seven years counting it a pleasure to have been privileged to labor in this one field so long and see so many conversions. He asked the earnest support of his people for the future.

In conclusion, Dr. Ashley made a few remarks and after a song by the choir, Rev. A. Wilson, assistant pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, pronounced the benediction.

All then adjourned to the Sunday-school room where refreshments were served. Those in charge were Mrs. S. M. Fields, Mrs. M. Cobbs, Miss M. Randolph, Mrs. Lulu Dempsey, chairman.

NEGRO MAKES AMUSING PLEA.

Hen Roost Robber Willing to Plead Guilty if He Could Keep Chickens.

An amusing scene took place in the Middlesex County Court at New Brunswick Wednesday before Judge Strong, when Albert Paine, a colored man, was arraigned on the charge of stealing three chickens from Nelson Williamson, a farmer, living in North Brunswick township. Paine had been in jail four weeks and sent word to Prosecutor Berdine that he would plead guilty if he could get the chickens back. He pleaded guilty Wednesday, and after Judge Strong had imposed a fine of $5 and had allowed thiry days to settle the fine, Paine addressed the court.

"Say, Mr. Judge, you honor, how about dem chickens; don't I get 'em back? I'se willing to be punished, but I ought to have dem chickens."

Judge Strong told him that prisoners there were not treated that way, and Paine left the court much provoked. Williamson has the chickens.

William White and his sister, Miss Edna White, of the borough, are visiting relatives in Millstone.

Mrs. John P. Owens, wife of the young lawyer, is seriously ill. Her condition is causing grave anxiety to her family and friends.

RACIAL DISCRIMINATION IN IMMIGRATION—NOT RIGHT, SAYS U. S. CONSUL GRIFFIN

Room Enough in This Country For All Emigrants Who Would Make Good Citizens

REFERS TO CHINESE.

Rev. Dr. Griffen Speaks to Men's Association Entertainingly of Subject Agitating the Country at Present.

Faith in this country's ability to assimilate all the immigrants who may flock to these shores, including the Chinese, was expressed by Rev. Walter T. Griffin, United States Consul at Limoges, France, in an address on emigration before the Men's Association of Trinity Reformed church Thursday. Consul Griffien has studied the emigrant and his surroundings with especial attention to his object in leaving his country under special commissions from the government, and is peculiarly qualified to speak on the subject of his talk to the association. The speaker did not paint a flattering picture of the emigrants, but held that the country was large enough and the communities expansive enough to take in all kinds without fear of being overwhelmed.

In substance, Mr. Griffin said:

"This is one of the most important subjects that can come before us as a people. It is usually approached in a peculiar manner. You can't mention it to some people without awakening hysterics.

"Let us tonight look at the subject as one outside of politics; let us look at it as citizens with the welfare of our country at heart.

"Between 1820 and 1904 21,000,000 immigrants have come here. These figures usually evoke a wail—the laboring man, the farmer, the professional man, all see themselves crowded out. This is one view; perhaps it is a narrow one. When you look at the figures with the fact that they stretch over eighty-five years, they do not seem so large after all.

"Why do they come here, anyway? Leaving the home, life-long surroundings, and familiar faces, to enter a new and unfamiliar environment is hard. We used to say and believe that the emigrants sought the freedom of this land. I believe that ninety-nine out of one hundred, yes, 999 out of 1,000, immigrants think nothing and care less for what we call freedom. The immigration of those in search of liberty is spasmodic and irregular; a very small proportion of the immigrants think of freedom. They come, first and almost last, to better their financial condition. The greater proportion come here to gather a certain sum of money and return home.

"Immigration is like the sea, rising and falling yearly. Conditions here always affect the tide. They hear on the other side of projected public works, of boom times, just as soon as we do ourselves, and the rush of immigration keeps pace with the rise of the commercial barometer. War or some social upheaval also affect the tide Americawards.

"Where have the millions come from in eighty years? From the United Kingdom has come 7,149,300; Scandinavia, 1,670,000; Italy, 1,778,773; Germany, 5,146,518. Germany sent one-quarter of the total, and the United Kingdom, in which Ireland is figured, furnished one-third of the whole. In 1840 Ireland had 8,000,000 inhabitants, today she has only about 4,000,000.

"The emigrants from Italy are an important class, and should have more attention than any other. Italy is honeycombed with secret societies, organized and maintained for no good purpose, and among the emigrants from there are some who have been helped out of the country by the government—sent away for their country's good. The Italian immigration should be watched. The northern Italians are a good kind, but of the southerners the least said the better. The Italians, as a whole, are the most illiterate of the emigrants. Fifty-four per cent. can't read or write. The northerners furnish only thirteen per cent. of illiteracy.

"Now, is there danger of our being overwhelmed? It is true that 1,000,000 a year are coming here, but the statistics are really encouraging. We are in no danger of being swallowed up; there is plenty of room for them all.

"We have uncultivated land, we have mines of every kind untouched—we have space enough for every pair of working hands in the world. Why should any be shut out?

"I am not criticising existing laws, but I cannot see in my humble way why we should say to any one country, 'You shall stay out.' I cannot see why a man should be barred because of his color; because his eyes may be slant or his hair be worn in a certain way. I would not see a difference made between man and man. But I would see barriers put up against those who have committed crime, barriers against those who seek to escape doing their duty, to pollute, to desecrate our land and law.

"But I would have a welcome go out to every man, woman and child who comes here with a clean moral bill of health. I appeal to you to welcome these strangers, and to help them become upright, model citizens."

The address was followed by sustained applause, and a vote of thanks was extended to the speaker.

The meeting was the last of the season. The address was preceded by singing by a quartette composed of J. C. Martin, E. D. Cutting, F. J. Pope and E. E. Runyon. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge comprised W. F. Oliver, chairman; F. E. Smith, P. A. Vroom, C. E. Ball and John Hoffman.

JOURNALISTIC OPINION.

A "Full" Meaning.

The yacht officers have arranged to keep open house all day on the Fourth, and anyone who has enjoyed the hospitality of the club house this information will convey a full and joyous meaning. — Atlantic City Press.

Losing Fight.

It is useless for a Jerseyman to omit paying his gas bills. That is to say, he must either pay or go without the light. In the Court of Errors yesterday Judge Dixon filed an opinion sustaining the action of the Supreme Court giving to a gas company the right to take from the house of a customer its gas meter for the failure to pay his gas bills.—Elizabeth Journal.

Nature Abhors a Coward.

Nature abhors a coward as much as it does a vacuum and the man who fears is easily vanquished. Difficulties strike different persons in different ways, disheartening some, and stimulating others. Those who can meet trouble and overcome it are the victors in the great unceasing battle of life. The others live, die, and are forgotten.—Atlantic City Review.

Next State Senate.

Last year six of the seven outgoing Senators were Republicans. The chances for the Democrats to make gains this year are obviously hopeless. They will do surprisingly well if they shall hold their own. Their only chance of gain is in factional fights in normally Republican counties. Against this possibility the wise heads of the party are on the alert with good chance of averting trouble.—Paterson Press.

Government Ownership.

The inmates of the Rahway Reformatory are going to debate the question of governmental ownership of railroads. It might have been a good idea to have them deliberate whether their institution should be controlled by a private corporation; this merely to have afforded a topic for thought to those mistaken minds who cannot conceive how the public can be honest enough to govern itself and control its own utilities.—Elizabeth Times.

Gunning for Autos.

A constable in Union county, who fired a shot from his revolver at an automobile that he thought was going at a faster rate than the law allows, is to have a chance to defend his action in the criminal court. One may search the statutes in vain for authority to shoot automobiles or automobilists at any season, and examples should be made of the reckless individuals who resort to such dangerous methods. The attempt to enforce one law by a gross violation of another won't do. — Trenton Times.

Publishing State Laws.

It seems to use that the State should compile a condensed statement of the laws which should be published in all the prominent newspapers of the State so that the average citizen might know something about the statutes he is expected to obey. The present system is a farce as far as any real information that the average citizen is able to gain about the laws passed for his government. And even the present system is so bad that months elapse before the pamphlet laws reach even the judges and officials who are to execute them.—Paterson News.

Antidote Ready.

The retailer who complains that business is dull in summer time usually has only himself to blame—unless, indeed, he is a coal dealer or a specialist in earmuffs or some other commodity that nature rebels against when the mercury climbs upward in the tube. Summer dullness is gen*erally attributable to the absence of* a part of the population from the city during the hot months. The antidote is ready at hand. By forceful advertising the stay-at-homes may be induced to increase their purchases. New customers may be secured to take the places of the old who are temporarily absent. As the temperature rises the publicity appropriation should sympathetically follow it.—Paterson Guardian.

The Jury Commission.

The New Jersey Bar Association, at its Atlantic City meeting, failed to endorse the proposed jury commission system, because, it is said, the South Jersey lawyers are satisfied with the present method of sheriff-drawn juries. That might ex*plain the defeat in the Legislature of* the commission plan, as South Jersey votes will be needed to pass it; but it is not a good reason to give for the failure of the association to stand by its action of last year. Probably four-fifths of the lawyers of the State live and practise in the upper counties, where the evils of the existing system are notorious. Every man has the right, both in civil and criminal prosecutions, "to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury" and if this cannot be had under the present custom of selecting jurors, a change should be made at once. New Jersey is said to be one of three or four states that is without a jury commission law.—Trenton Times.

Politics in Somerset.

With characteristic progressiveness, The Gazette has already begun selecting the Democratic candidates for next fall's elections. For Senator, according to our contemporary, the race has narrowed down to a two-horse affair, the contenders being Senator Childs and former Prosecutor Dungan. In this it is more likely right than wrong, but as the Democrats have plenty of available timber, it may possibly be wrong. It admits that "Senator Childs has made a popular Senator because he is every inch a gentleman of the high type." but prophesies that he will go down to defeat because the Republicans "will be united upon a strong candidate with whom they expect to win." In addition to being a prophet our neighbor is an optimist of the first water. There is at present not even a hope that the Republicans will be united upon any kind of a candidate, weak or strong, and the best that any of the leaders, outside of the editor of The Gazette and the host of would-be candidates, expect is for the victim of their convention to run second to the Democratic nominee.—Somerville Messenger.

Peace Conference on Jersey Soil.

The selection of our national capital by Russia and Japan as the place for the plenipotentiaries to meet to arrange terms of peace is a compliment to President Roosevelt, and a tribute to the disinterestedness of our nation. Japan objected to holding the conference in any European capital, and with valid reasons. Russia was not inclined to any place in the Orient. The logical selection was, therefore, Washington, and the ready acquiescence by both powers was evidence of their confidence that their interests would not be prejudiced in this country. Washington in midsummer is an uncomfortable place to abide in, and there will be no necessity for the plenipotentiaries to remain there to negotiate. They can readily transfer themselves to one of the cool summer resorts, and the New Jersey coast presents ideal opportunities. Taking the coast from its southern extremity, Cape May, with its delicious climate and quiet exclusiveness, would be one favorable spot. Atlantic City, urban and cosmopolitan, with hotel accommodations equal to any great city, and with varied attractions, also has its claims. Asbury Park and Long Branch afford all the conveniences and have all the comforts that can be desired. It would be gratifying to State pride to have the preliminaries of peace between Russia and Japan settled on New Jersey soil. The coming conference is of worldwide interest and importance, and it will rivet the attention of mankind. The conference will be historic and take its place among the famous peace negotiations and congresses of the past. As a matter of course all the formalities will be executed in Washington. Peace, if agreed upon, will be concluded there.—Newark Advertiser.

Evening Gowns.

White net is always attractive for a young girl's evening gown. The accompanying illustration, from L'Art et la Mode, is a decollete gown of white tulle trimmed with pale pink rosebuds and with ribbon of the same delicate shade, says the New York Evening Telegram. About the neck is a ruching of Valenciennes, below which falls a plaited tulle bertha. The roses bordering the bertha may be either of chiffon or of the silk or cotton imitation roses. As trimming chiffon flowers may be bought by the yard, and these are quite inexpensive, but at the same time most effective. In the front of the bodice is a soft bow knot of satin ribbon, with long ends run through tiny rhinestone buckles. The sleeves to this gon are particularly pretty—simply a wide puff, down the centre of which are laid tiny bow knots, each one separated by a pink rosebud. The girdle is, of course, pink satin. On the skirt bordering the wide insertion of Valenciennes lace are interlaced a row of the rosebuds and a band of lace ruching. As each band is laid on in scallops together they form round loops about the skirt. Above the hem are two straight rows of lace ruching. For dancing, all young girls are having the skirts cut so as to touch the floor all around or else escaping by a half inch or more.

W. V. P. Vesey, of Park avenue, left for Atlantic Highlands, yesterday, to spend several weeks.

Ralph Young, of this city, has returned from a visit with his brother, Charles Young, of Frankfort.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

July 9: "The Indwelling Christ." Col. ii, 6-10; iii, 8-16.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

This letter of Paul to the Colossians sets forth the most definitely of any of his writings the nature of the Christ in His divine perfections. It was occasioned by the teaching among this people of a mongrel gospel by some who held to theosophy and the worship of angels and to an ascetic mode of life, denying themselves the use of many harmless and even beneficial things under the false notion that they became more holy by such work. They called their teachings "the philosophy." This was in antagonism to "the gospel" which Paul preached. So he writes this letter to the Christian church in Colosse that the people may not be deluded by these errorists.

He declares that Christ is the head of all, far above all creaturehood of whatever grade or kind. In Him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead. No other lesser one is then to be worshiped. It is this Ever Existent One who is to dwell in us. Those who held to "the philosophy" thought that the power of the great spirits could help them and even dwell in them. Against this notion Paul places the indwelling of the Spirit of the Divine Christ. This, then, is our privilege, to have the eternal Spirit of God take possession of us, to enlighten, to give hope and courage and to fix our determination and also to give us the spirit of true children so that we may look up into the face of God as into the face of our father and call Him by that endearing term.

But if we do have His spirit in us He will certainly transform us into His own likeness. We, then, must put away all anger, wrath, malice, railing, shameful speaking and all lying. We must put on, as God's chosen ones, whom He loves, a heart of compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, long suffering, forbearing and forgiving each other just as the Lord forgave us.

This sounds almost exactly like the counsel Paul gave in his letter to the Ephesian church. In fact, these two letters were written about the same time and sent to the two churches by the same messenger. That to the Colossians treats of the pre-existent Christ in His relations to us, while that to the Ephesians draws a picture of the pure and true church of Jesus Christ in its ideal character, with Him as the head of all.

This teaching gives us for all time the truth that we may have the divine power dwelling within and making us into the likeness of all the holy perfections of our God. We are to partake of His nature in all holiness and purity and love and to live visibly what He lives invisibly within us.

This teaching should have careful heed by all of us who profess to be Christians. Christ should dwell in our hearts and make us loving and kind and a perfect pattern of the Christian virtues and graces. How shall this be? By complete consent to let His power fill us and all His will be done in and through us and by appropriation to ourselves of His gracious promises of assistance.

If you have not attained this, why not get there at once, since it is the place of peace?

Trusting the Weaver.

"God moves in a mysterious way," says Cowper's immortal hymn. Sit down by an old world lacemaker a few minutes. Fifty or a hundred bobbins or spools hang around a cushion in which there is a forest of upright pins. Every bobbin hangs by a thread that runs toward and among the pins. The onlooker sees the worker throw one bobbin over another as though she were play*ing with them. But how she knows* which bobbin to pick up and where to toss it is a mystery. Out of the great complex of threads and pins comes a wonderful lace pattern, orderly, regular, beautiful. So the divine Weaver takes one and another of us, ordering us here and there, but keeping us always attached, like the lacemaker's thread, to a definite purpose. As we look back over the past we can see the wonderful pattern and perfect work of the Weaver. Just what He is working out for us and with us now we cannot discern. But the lesson of the past is that the future will be good, and we can trust the Weaver of the infinite to do all things well.—Sunday School Times.

The Gold of Truth.

To set one's mind mainly on external dress and show is not a mark of wisdom. Many persons prize the Bible for its costly and beautiful binding, paper and print, but not for its contents. It is the revelation within the book that gives it its value. Any book may have costly and beautiful material in its covers, but no other book is so full of the gold of truth as the Bible. The same is true of any publication—its value is in its matter. The cheap paper back does not alter the intrinsic value of the book. The volume of the finest materials and filled with most beautiful half tone pictures is nothing to the weary pilgrim wandering over the trackless desert of Sahara if it tell him not how to find his way. Beautiful sermons are the ones that feed hungry souls.—Christian Instructor.

A Familiar Blessing.

The swing door of prayer stands always waiting for the least touch of faith to press it back. If our Father's presence chamber were opened to us only once in a year, with how much greater reverence would we enter it, how much more store would we set on it! We should anticipate the honor and privilege of that interview for the whole year and eagerly avail ourselves for it. Alas, that familiarity with prayer does not always increase our appreciation of its magnificence!—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 9.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The indwelling Christ.—Col. ii, 6-10; iii, 8-16.

The doctrine of the indwelling Christ is clearly taught in the Scriptures. Christ Himself illustrated the intimate relation that exists between Him and His disciples in the symbol of the relation of the vine and the branches. "I am the vine; ye are the branches," and, continuing, He declares even more fully that a vital union exists between Him and those who are His—"He that abid*eth in Me and I in him, the same bring*eth forth much fruit, for without Me ye can no nothing." Paul in his prayer for the Ephesians prays that "Christ may dwell in their hearts by faith." Christ, therefore, does dwell in the hearts of believers.

Christ dwells in the hearts of all believers. By faith, by His word and by the indwelling of the Holy Spirit Christ abides with us. It is true that all Christians are not equally conscious of His presence. The union between Christ and the believer is a mystical one. No one can explain or understand it. It can only be experienced, and some dispositions are more capable of experiencing it than others. The man of practical disposition knows that Christ dwells in his heart by the power of Christ over his will and in his life, but the one who has a tendency to the mystical in his makeup may have an overwhelming consciousness of Christ's indwelling presence. Let us not feel, therefore, that Christ is not indwelling in us if we have not this deep consciousness of Christ's presence. He is with us, able and willing to abide with us, to comfort, to instruct, to encourage and to inspire us.

Christ in us should be worked out of us into our lives. Philosophy is always cropping out of the man of philosophic bent of mind. Nationality may often be told by a man's manner of walking, and men come to look their professions. What we think, what we feel, manifests itself in our lives. The man in whom Christ dwells should therefore be like Christ in his life. "As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus, so walk ye in Him, rooted and built up in Him and stablished in the faith, as ye have been taught, abound*ing therein with thanksgiving.*" Christ's presence in us can only be attested by a Christ life without us. "By their fruits ye shall know them." No amount of ecstatic talk concerning the indwelling Christ will prove anything. It is only when we give out Christ in a consistant Christian life and in a loving, self sacrificing service to others that the world is convinced that Christ dwells within us. Let us earnestly pray for each other that "Christ may dwell in our hearts by faith" and that Christ in the heart may mean Christ in the life—Christian character, kindness, love, charity, forbearing one another, forgiving one another, peace and thanksgiving.

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; John xv, 1-14; Acts ii, 1-4; Rom. xii, 10-21; I Cor. xi, 1; Eph. iv, 1-3, 17-32; v, 1, 2; Phil. ii, 1-12; I Pet. ii, 21; I John ii, 1-6.

The Baltimore "Stickers."

This shows the design of the Baltimore convention "stickers," literally millions of which are being used in connection with Christian Endeavor correspondence these days. The colors on the "stick*ers" are black, yellow and red.*

Endeavor In Wales.

Rev. Mr. E. J. Powell, writing from Wales to the Christian Endeavor Times, has this to say about the influence of the revival and of Christian Endeavor upon each other:

"The great revival has not only quickened the churches, but also the whole realm of Endeavor. The members of our societies are among the most ardent in utilising the exceptional opportunities for service which have prevailed during the past six months. I cannot conceive of anything that could possibly give such an impetus to Christian Endeavor as the revival has done. Many thousands of converts have been won for Christ and the church, and by far the greater proportion are young people. The enthusiasm which thousands of them devoted to excessive sport and pleasure has now to be turned to other channels or else a very serious reaction is bound to set in. The problem that had to be faced by the churches prior to the advent of the Christian Endeavor society is vastly greater in Wales at the present time, but now the Christian Endeavor society is regarded as the very best means of solving the difficulty."

A Bishop a Member.

The bishop of Gibraltar is probably the first bishop to become an active member of a Christian Endeavor society. He was addressing one of the meetings of the Christian Endeavor society connected with his own cathedral. The meeting was led by Archdeacon Govett, who at the close of the bishop's address, seeing that there were present a number that were not members of the society, invited all that were so inclined to become members. There was some hesitation, when the bishop rose and said, "Mr. Archdeacon, will you accept me as an active member of this society?" Of course they would.

A Poet's Definition.

Marianne Farningham, the English poet, describes Christian Endeavorers as "young people of the beautiful name."

BATHING SUITS.

Pretty Effects In These Useful Garments—Summer Fabrics.

Bathing suits are now in evidence everywhere, and some of them are really pretty, and, what is more, they are modest and even elegant in many cases. They are made with a divided skirt which is attached to the waist, and over this is worn the skirt proper, fastened with buttons under the belt and with many big safety pins, for the water is rough and jerks at a skirt to a dangerous degree unless it is fastened so firmly that it simply cannot be pulled off. Some of the skirts are trimmed around the bottom, but most of them have the garnitures on the waist. Deep sailor collars are lavishly braided in contrasting colors and are often of different material from the rest of the suit. A few have long bishop sleeves, but safety would counsel that the arms be left bare. Some of the deep collars are in shawl shape, though the square sailor seems to be preferred.

Flannel is no longer used for bathing suits. Mohair, silk warp henrietta and silk and lightweight serge are more elegant. Black or dark blue and sometimes white are the preferred colors, but I have seen some brilliant red suits with white collars and braid and also with black braid. Every one may suit herself. Sandals of canvas and stockings are needed to complete the costume. Some ladies like to wear little waterproof caps, but the majority prefer to let the hair get the benefit of the tonic sea water.

The New Waists.

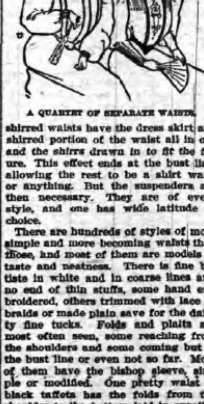
The newest thing to mention just now is the ugly, but after all effective, way in which waists are made. They are called directoire waists, though why it is impossible to say. These waists are shirred crosswise, both in the back and front, with three lines of the shirring in the middle of the back all the way down. In front it generally reaches only to the bust line, where there is some kind of vest front and lapels or even deep revers. In the illustration will be seen one of these shirred waists, the shirring being draped in front from the shoulders to the bust line, where it closes under a ruffle made by the shirring. A wide, flat collar is laid out over the shoulders, and the sleeves are certainly leg o' mutton, a shape that was not worn during the directory. Others of these shirred waists have the dress skirt and shirred portion of the waist all in one *and the shirrs drawn in to fit the fig*ure. This effect ends at the bust line, allowing the rest to be a shirt waist or anything. But the suspenders are then necessary. They are of every style, and one has wide latitude of choice.



A QUARTET OF SEPARATE WAISTS.

There are hundreds of styles of more simple and more becoming waists than those, and most of them are models of taste and neatness. There is fine batiste in white and in coarse lines and no end of thin stuffs, some hand embroidered, others trimmed with lace or braids or made plain save for the dainty fine tucks. Folds and plaits are most often seen, some reaching from the shoulders and some coming but to the bust line or even not so far. Most of them have the bishop sleeve, simple or modified. One pretty waist of black taffeta has the folds from the shoulder to the bottom laid in surplice style, with a vest of braid and lace which extends up to form the collar. High collars prevail.

Cotton Fabrics.

The dainty summer cotton fabrics for pretty and fetching frocks are beyond any that I have ever seen for artistic designs. The flowered goods are beautiful and fine. Flounces are the only really suitable trimmings for these, and to gain that fluffy lightness which belongs rightfully to summer attire there is lace of the lightest kind. Sometimes this is sewed on flat, and again it is gathered full, so that it forms a ruffle on the flounce. Many ways have been devised to add to the lightness of these cotton dresses, and one of the prettiest that I saw had three ruffles, one of which was of lace.

Fans for this season are scarcely worth speaking of, they are so tiny, but they make up in fineness what they lack in size. Lace over silk mull is the prettiest.

Black lace laid over white for fine summer gowns is very fashionable and preferred to white lace, which has about had its day. A white silk skirt with a lisse overdress supporting black chantilly motifs or set designs makes an ideally beautiful gown.

OLIVE HARPER.

Feminine Snapshots

Kitchens For Bachelors and Separate Establishments For Bachelor Maids

One phase of twentieth century life is enough to make our great-grandparents of both sexes rise up in their graves and howl. Our generation is the first to see young ladies of wealth set up homes all their own, without even a chaperon. They maintain in all respects independent establishments and lead independent lives. In New York Miss May Van Alen has her own town house in the city. So has Miss Margaret Chanler, whose beautiful home is equipped with stables, horses and carriages and all that a millionaire household considers necessary to comfort and respectability. Others of the fashionable set in the same city might also be named. Among women who earn their own living thousands of girls have pretty little establishments where they keep house happily, there being no men in the case at all. Women are becoming independent of men. On the other hand, as if to revenge themselves on the girls for discovering them to be no longer a necessity, hundreds of likely young *bachelor men have gone to housekeep*ing in city flats in the most cosy and comfortable way. They rent an apartment, furnish it handsomely and have somebody come in daily and put it in order. They sometimes take their meals at restaurants, but in many instances they hire a flat with kitchen attached, then get a cook and regular*ly keep house, just as they would if* they were married and had wives to superintend their establishments. One recommendation for this way of living is that both for bachelor maid and man it is cheaper than boarding house living and far more agreeable. A drawback to this system of home making, however, is that there is not always harmony among the partners. Still there is quite as much as there is between the ordinary husband and wife, with the added advantage that the erring bachelor partners are free to go apart if they wish.

Don't ever have any company manners. Use your very best every day at home among your own family. You need not fear they will wear out. Good manners are one of the few things that do not wear out by constant usage.

A case unique in this world's history came to light recently in Bohemia. Seventy-five years ago Franz Rossner *had a sweetheart, whom he loved de*votedly and who loved him as devotedly. They were betrothed, but something happened to postpone their marriage. Then something else happened to defer it once more. Over and over again obstacles to the wedding came up, and year after year the pair waited. Half a century the engagement lasted, then twenty-five years more. At last Rossner was 100 years old and on his deathbed. His betrothed was ninety-three. Then the wedding took place, and two days later Rossner died. Immortal Franz Rossner, who could be faithful to a marriage engagement seventy-five years!

*Not very long ago the prime minis*ter of Great Britain was hissed and jeered on the floor of the house of commons, and the session broke up in a wild uproar, amid calls for the police. Women are too excitable to be trusted with political power!

A business woman whose salary reaches far up into the thousands bases her success on the hint conveyed in the following: "Molasses goes a great deal farther than vinegar."

Long ago the ladyships who are to manage the household of the German Crown Princess Cecilia and the crown princess herself were selected. When she sets up housekeeping, poor Cecilia will be under the constant surveillance of a lot of feminine mightinesses who will not let her so much as crook her finger unless it is the traditional thing to do at that moment. It is said that this constant and terrible watching and repression was what made Princess Louise of Saxe-Coburg run away from her husband and his court. Who can blame her?

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont has undertaken, in association with several other women of wealth, a worthy enterprise. The ladies have formed an association for the construction in Brooklyn of a vast model tenement house, twenty-two stories and covering a city block. This great building will be managed by women, and no families will be admitted without children. The rooms will be large and sunny. The millennium is coming surely.

In various localities women are mov*ing earnestly and unitedly to do away* with the death penalty, if not altogether at least for their own sex. The New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs lately discussed the subject eloquently. Mrs. E. B. Carter made this notable remark: "We like to make God responsible for all our wars, executions and sins against humanity. Some one says God must be a woman—He stands so much."

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

Thursday, July 5, 1905.

Corporation Lawyer Dill addresses unsophisticated graduates on "Graft." Wise choice in speakers.

Dill talks on graft—New item. How it must make the "barons" chuckle—but Dill is out for a judgship.

"To Hell and Back" was the sermon topic of a Philadelphia preacher. Umph, most Philadelphians are content to remain away from Paterson.

Yes, fond reader, it was Edward Atkinson who declared that the cost of women's dress for a year should not exceed $65. No, he does not live in the tropics.

"The aim, if reached or not, makes great the life. Try to be Shakespeare—leave the rest to fate." In advertising that store, try to be Wanamaker—the rest is secure.

William L. Douglass, who sits in the gubernatorial chair in Massachusetts principally because he knew how to reach the people, and that is through advertising, has given some sagely advice to the boys of the Old Colony. He addressed them through public print, and, as an exchange remarks, his words will be of benefit to all boys throughout the country. Governor Douglass says:

You'll find that old ogre, called trouble, bobbing up in your pathway every now and then, and you'll never get to be on speaking terms with success.

Fortune, you know, favors the brave. Well, in the battle of life the really brave man is the one with courage enough to "stick to his last" in the face of early rebukes and temporary reverses. He's the fellow who will eventually be able to laugh at trouble and to get chummy with success.

What would you think of a shoemaker who, after making part of a shoe on one last, became dissatisfied and started another shoe on a different last, keeping up this method until he had finally spent all his money for stock and had nothing but a lot of half-finished shoes to show for it? Foolish way to do it, isn't it? But it's no more foolish than for a young man to tackle a new line of business every little while until he grows too old to learn any business thoroughly

Now I want to give you another thing to think about while you're growing up and preparing to win fame and fortune in the commercial world. It is this: Don't try to do what you like—do what you can. That's a good companion piece for "stick to your last." Don't let the attraction of something you don't know lure you away from the thing you do know. Once upon a time a young man whose father made pickles, and who had learned the pickle business from A to Z, decided that he'd like to go into the business of making molasses candy. He didn't know anything about it, but he liked molasses candy and thought it would be great fun to make it and sell it. So he proceeded to try his hand at the business. The result was disastrous. His candy wasn't good candy, because he didn't know how to make it properly, and, therefore, nobody wanted to buy. Finally he went back to the pickle business, and made a fortune, because he certainly did know how to make good pickles and everybody bought them.

From many quarters comes the cry that the average school board in its effort to promote the standard of the public school is really neglecting "The Three R's." And this claim has some basis in fact. Often it is pitiable to read an article written by a high school graduate; pitiable because the composition shows that the writer has not been schooled in the bare rudiments of spelling and sentence-construction. The graduate has been too much wrapt up in his Latin and Greek. The Three R's were hurriedly passed in the mad rush to prepare him for the college examination. In New York and other large cities a strong fight is being made against the fads in the curriculum, the World and Globe particularly devoting much attention to the discussion. On Monday, the Evening World said:

"In the present discussions of the curriculum of the public schools the future welfare of the pupils should be considered first. Almost all of the boys and many of the girls who attend the public schools must earn their own living, beginning at an early age. If they have not the necessary fundamental groundwork they are handicapped. One great reason why employers prefer, especially in clerical positions, young men and women from the country or from other cities is their superiority in writing legibly, spelling correctly and in ordinary arithmetic. They may not know much of anything about a number of subjects taught in the New York public schools, but they are more valuable, because the few, simple things they have been taught they really know. The spelling and handwriting of the average graduate of the New York public schools is a reflection upon the school system."

Dinner Party at Club.

Harry Munger entertained a number of freinds at dinned at the Country Club Thursday night. Covers were laid for twenty.

Who suggested hippodrome ball?

Denman wants a conference. He used to want the earth.

Mr. A. Stork is registered at the Adolphus Hotel, Atlantic City, according to the Evening Union of the seashore resort. If he's looking for his friend Roosevelt, he'd better move on to Asbury Park soon.

In an interview this morning with former Mayor Charles Joel Fisk, a representative of The Daily Press learned his decision not to accept a nomination for State Senator even if it is offered unanimously. This paper believes that it expresses the opinion of the people of Plainfield when it says that the refusal to become a candidate on Mr. Fisk's part is much regretted. From Union County have gone men who have been shining lights in the upper house of the State's legislature. Magie, Voorhees, Vail and Cross—a galaxy of great Jerseymen—have reflected honor on the county which sent them as its representative in the halls of legislation. Charles Joel Fisk would be a fit successor in the proud line. But he is not a candidate and will not become one. His decision is to be regretted by the people of the county in which he has been conspicuously active for good and in the city in which he has been first in all that tends to the public weal.

John Hay is dead. When the first bulletins announced the end of the great statesman the report was hardly credited. His end came suddenly and unexpectedly and with it came the close of a great life consecrated to the country's advancement among the nations of the world. America has had many able men as Secretaries of State — Webster, Evarts, Blaine, Frelinghuysen, Bayard, Gresham, Sherman and Hay—all these have added renown to America as diplomats and statesmen of the highest type. But it did not remain until John Hay's death for the country to recognize that the greatest among these was the man who took the helm at a trying period in America's history. He entered the cabinet of William McKinley in 1898 and from that day henceforth was the one man upon which the utmost reliance was placed. Success followed success in his negotiations with the premiers and crowned heads of Europe. They learned to reverence him and to fear him. Fortunately when the lamented McKinley was taken away to his reward, Hay remained at his post. No offers from gigantic trusts ever tempted him to desert his duty to his country. And he died much poorer in the world's good as a result but his memory is much richer to the present and future generation. To him more than to Roosevelt the country looked and this was particularly so with the financial interests. He was a safe man and at the same time the wisest one probably that ever stood at the right hand of a President of the United States.

AMUSEMENTS.

For nearly six years the excellent stock companies maintained by Mr. F. F. Proctor at his three New York theatres and handsome playhouse in Albany have been steadily increasing their clientele. In summer or winter alike, the productions have been scrupulously given, and the high standard of the acting has never varied. The present summer, however, promises to witness better results than heretofore. Not only are the plays selected of a better artistic grade, but the personnel of the stock company has been strengthened. With actors so well known as Katherine Grey, Helen Tracy, J. H. Gillmour, Wallace Erskine, Frank Gillmore, James E. Wilson, Beatrice Morgan, James Durkin, Grayce Scott, Grace Reals, Agnes Scott, Frank McIntyre, Robert Rogers and Louise Mackintosh in the Proctor forces, it is little wonder that the various productions are made with perfect skill. Better than all, the Proctor theatres are kept wonderfully cool during these warm days and nights.

Unparalleled success has crowned the Boer War venture and the throngs which start for Coney Island go no further than Brighton Beach nowadays. General Piet Cronje, the hero in the great South African rebellion against Great Britain, and his band of plucky fighters, reproduce the great sensation of the St. Louis Fair in all its vividness. Daily at 3 and 8 p. m.; Sundays at 3, 5, 7:30 and 9 p. m.

The Girl from Coney Island, Flossie Crane, has made an extraordinary hit at Hammerstein's Victoria Roof Garden and Oscar Hammerstein is being congratulated on all sides for his remarkable find. Flossie's voice is a marvel and is the topic of the musical world at present. Other good attractions at the Victoria Roof are the Eighteen Japanese Guards, Anna Fitzhugh, Ernest Hogan and Genaro & Bailey. Coolest place in New York to spend a pleasant evening. Matinees daily, twenty-five and fifty cents.

Lewis Squires, Director.

Lewis Squires, of this city, is named as one of the directors of the Poder Mining Company, New York, a $300,000 corporation which filed papers at Albany on Saturday.

Remembered Bank Employes.

Each employe of the City National Bank has received a gift from W. F. Arnold, cashier, as a souvenir of his recent trip abroad.

FREE SWIMMING HOLE

Board of Trade Votes $25 Toward the Fund Needed.

SEEK SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Seventy-Five Dollars Wanted, and Papers Asked to Help in Getting the Other Fifty—A Railroad Letter.

With more promptitude and enthusiasm than it usually gives to the question of a new franchise or the improvement of a whole neighborhood, the Board of Trade, Friday, endorsed President Woolston's plan to give the town boys a swimming and gave substantial encouragement to those working for it. The body voted $25 toward the expense of widening a hole in Green brook and placing bathhouse and springboard facilities for the natatory small boy.

There was some trouble in getting a quorum together, but no more than usual at a summer session. The meeting was called for the sole purpose of acting on the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to look into the swimming hole question, and as the action of the board was a foregone conclusion, very nearly all the members left it for the regulars to work out. President Woolston, Treasurer F. H. Smith, Eugene Laing and Charles W. Runyon were on hand in time, and Mr. Woolston, after a hunt through the corridors of the building and Park avenue rounded up J. S. Coward, James Pope and Charles E. Sturtevant to make the necessary quorum.

Mr. Woolston, who went on the swimming hole hunt with the committee and Street Commissioner Gavett early in the week, as reported in The Daily Press at the time, brought the matter up.

"There are three or four places that can be used as swimming holes," he said, "but the one now used, and the one we have picked out for our experiment, is on Halsey Compton's place. Fifty dollars would put it in pretty good shape, although seventy-five would be a better sum to epend on it. We can give something to it, and both papers have promised to take subscriptions to the fund needed."

"Suppose we give $25," said Mr. Pope. "What would $25 do for a starter?"

"That," said Mr. Woolston, "would enable us to put up the shed, anyway, and give the boys a place for their clothes."

"Well, Mr. President," said Mr. Runyon, "I move that the Board give $25 for the swimming hole."

The motion was passed in less than thirty seconds.

"Now I move that the papers be requesteed to ask for subscriptions to this fund. Fifty dollars more is needed, and I believe the people will be glad to contribute for such an object. I understand that both papers have promised to use their columns to secure subscriptions, but this motion will serve to show that the Board, as a body, is earnestly interested idn the matter and desires to see the subscriptions made."

It was suggested that subscriptions of $1 apiece from citizens in favor of the project be asked.

In his report on the subject President Woolston briefly summarized the understanding between Mr. Compton and the committee. The former only asks that the boys be kept from stealing his fruit, running his cattle, or breaking down his fences. An officer will be on duty at the hole to remind the boys that good behavior is expected of them. Mr. Compton's covers a year. It will be continued after that without limit if the boys prove tractable within reasonable limits.

Secretary Smith read a communication from General Manager Besler, of the Central Railroad, in reply to his letter calling the company's attention to the dangerous conditions in force at the Rock avenue crossing. The secretary's letter asked if a flagman could not be stationed there. Mr. Besler's letter politely acknowledged receipt of Mr. Smith's communication and continued, still politely, to promise that "the conditions would be investigated." The letter was received without comment.

The Board adjourned to meet the first Thursday in October, in regular session.

Divorces Bigamous Wife.

Divorce in favor of Adolph Reichert and against Mrs. Anna Reichert, of Passaic, has been recommended in Jersey City by Vice-Chancellor Stevenson. The testimony disclosed that the wife had a husband living when she married Reichert. Her explanation saw that she had learned her former husband had committed bigamy when he married her, and therefore she was free to marry Reichert. She said she had told Reichert of her previous marriage, but he denied that. The court found the evidence of the truth of the woman's story insufficient.

Miss Smalley Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Minnie Smalley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert I. Smalley, of the borough, but now of Lake Waccamaw, North Carolina, to George McWiggin, also of that place.

FARMER DROWNS HIMSELF

Joseph Happe, of Liberty Corner, Commits Suicide in Dead River.

CHILDREN FIND BODY.

Tied a Feed Bag Full of Stones Around His Neck, After Taking Cows to Pasture.

When Joseph Happe, a Liberty Corners farmer, drove his cows to pasture early Sunday morning, he took an empty feed bag with him. His family wondered what he intended to use it for. They found out at noon, when his dead body was discovered at the bottom of Dead River, a little stream nearby.

Happe did not return to the house all morning, and when he failed to put in an appearance at dinner time, the family grew uneasy. Nicholas Happe, one of the sons, and Eliza, his sister, went out in search of the missing man. They found him dead in the shallow stream, with the feed bag, full of stones, tied to his neck.

Happe is survived by a widow and ten children, all grown. He was fifty-nine years old. No reason for his suicide is apparent. He was well-to-do and his home life was pleasant. Two years ago he suffered a sunstroke, and that occurrence offers the only explanation of his act, although he gave no sign of mental weakening.

Happe was the father-in-law of former Chief Marshal Frank Winn, of the borough, now a resident of Warrenville.

Captain Hubbard.

In every respect, and in all relations, Captain Hubbard's name was a synonym for honesty, ability, trustfulness, patriotism and Christian manhood. He was a man of few words, when compared with most men, but his words were wise and weighty. Few men have ever served the public so quietly and successfully, without interruption through political influences, or from any other couse. He was a man higher than party standards and broader than ordinary creeds. All who knew him believed in him and sought his service because they felt that any interest committed to his care would be administered without taint or failure, so far as human power could do. In his public services, no one ever associated the thought of dishonesty or the possibility of "graft," or of unmanliness with Captain Hubbard.—Somerset Democrat.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leek, of East Fifth street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mabel C. Leek, to William G. Tunison, of Somerville. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride the latter part of August.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between The Board of Trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund, complainant, and James Armstrong, e. als., defendants. Fi. Fa. for sale of Mortgage Premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale at public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF JULY, 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, beginning at a point formed by the intersection of the southwest side of New Street with the southeast side of West Fourth Street, thence southeasterly along the southwesterly line of New Street, a distance of eighty-five (85) feet to other property belonging to said Frank C. Cook; thence with the line of his other land, south fifty degrees and fifty-four minutes west a distance of forty-seven and sixteen one hundredths (47.16) feet; thence north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west a distance of eighty-five (85) feet, more or less, to the southeast side line of West Fourth Street, thence with said side line of West Fourth Street northeasterly forty-nine (49) feet, more or less, to the beginning. Together with the land in front thereof to the centres of New and West Fourth Streets.

Being a portion of the same premises conveyed to the said Frank C. Cook, by deed of the executors of William Cortright deceased, dated April 12, 1904, and recorded in book 429 of deeds for Union County, pages 598, etc.

B. FRANK CORIELL, Sheriff.
Wm. M. Stillman, Sol'r.
E. D. J. & C. 5 21 C 5
Adv. fees—$9.00.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between William M. Stillman, assignee of Isaac W. Rushmore, complainant, and James Armstrong, et als., defendants. Fi. Fa. for sale of Mortgaged Premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF JULY, 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey. Beginning at a point in the southwest side line of New Street, distant in a southeasterly direction along said line, eighty-five (85) feet from the southeasterly side of West Fourth Street; thence along said side line of New Street south thirty-nine degrees and forty-five minutes east, seventy-three and ninety-five one hundredths (73.95) feet to a stake; thence south fifty-one degrees and nine minutes west forty-five and ninety-five one hundredths (45.95) feet to a stake; thence north forty degrees and forty-two minutes west seventy-three and seventy-five one hundredths (73.75) feet to a stake; thence north fifty degrees and fifty-four minutes east, forty-seven and sixteen one hundredths (47.16) feet to the beginning, together with the land in front thereof to the centre of New Street; being a portion of the same premises conveyed to the said Frank C. Cook, by deed of Simon P. Whitaker and Frank M. Bacon, executors of William Cortright, deceased, dated April 12, 1904, and recorded in book 429 of deeds for Union County, on pages 598, etc.

B. FRANK CORIELL, Sheriff.
Wm. M. Stillman, Sol'r.
E. D. J. & C. 5 21 C 5
Adv. fees—$9.00.

STONE THROWER IS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

YOUNG ILLINGWORTH LOCKED UP ON MURDER CHARGE.

Harry Illingsworth, the fourteen-year-old Raritan boy, accused of killing little Katie Jakel with a stone, which he had thrown at the child's brother, was held without bail to the Grand Jury, on a charge of murder, by Magistrate W. R. Sutphin, in Somerville, yesterday, and locked up in the county jail.

Before this action was taken a coroner's jury at an inquest held in Rraitan had rendered a verdict to the effect that Katie Jakel came to her death by a stone thrown by Harry Illingworth, wilfully and with intent to injure Jacob Jakel, but which missed him and struck Katie.

The boy became hysterical when taken to the jail. The Grand Jury will not meet until September. The boy's counsel, W. F. Vosseler, will ask the Supreme Court to fix bail and release the lad. The boy is said to be an invalid.

The testimony given before the coroner's jury, of which the Rev. Dr. Dehart, of Raritan, was foreman, was in effect that Illingworth and young Jakel had had a fight on a wagon. On the day the stone was thrown Jakel and his sister were on the porch of their home. Young Illingworth invited the Jakel boy out to fight, and when he started to go into the house, threw at him a stone, weighing four ounces. The missile struck the girl, and Illingsworth ran away.

BEQUEST TO CHURCH.

Mr. Valiant Left $1,000 to Grace M. E. Church and $50,000 to Wife.

The will of the late John Valiant was offered for probate in the Somerset County Court yesterday, the executors named being William Kemp, a former business partner; Mrs. Valiant, the widow, and J. G. Valiant, a brother.

Mr. Valiant's estate is valued at $200,000, and by the provisions of the will $20,000 is to be invested and the income to be paid to Mrs. Sarah Jane Valiant, mother of the departed. The sum of $1,000 is bequeathed to Grace M. E. church, where Mr. Valiant devoted a great deal of his time and energy in its behalf. A life insurance policy for $1,000 on the life of William Henry Valiant is given to him and $3,000 is to be held in trust for Henry Valiant; also $1,000 in trust for Joseph U. Walker, of Baltimore.

The sum of $50,000 is to be held in trust for his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Valiant, and the residue of the estate is to be divided equally among the children, one son, John Valiant, Jr., and two daughters.

Stabbing Ends Card Game.

In a dispute over a game of cards, James McCann, twenty-two years old, who boards at 334 South Park street, Elizabethport, was seriously stabbed early Friday morning in the saloon of John Connolly, at Third and Court streets. The alleged assailant is John Regan, twenty years old, son of former Fire Chief Cornelius Regan. The injured young man, who was cut in four places, was removed in an ambulance to the Alexian Hospital. His alleged assailant, who fled from the saloon after the affray, was later arrested at his home, 155 Pine street, by Police Sergeant O'Laughlin, assisted by Officers Campbell and Barry, and was locked up in the Second Precinct. He was held in bail when it was learned that his victim's injuries were not fatal.

AMICABLE SETTLEMENT IN SHAFER DAMAGE SUIT

ADJUSTMENT OF $5,000 VERDICT AGAINST A. L. CADMUS.

Through counsel representing both parties, an amicable settlement was reached today in the judgment for $5,000 secured by William B. Shafer, of West Front street, against Abram L. Cadmus, proprietor of the Commercial Mills on South Second street. Shafer was employed in the mills and was injured by the breaking of a plank bridge. He brought suit in the Union County Court and was awarded the $5,000. Cadmus appealed and the Supreme Court recently granted him a rule to show cause why a new trial should not be granted and the case was to have been heard next fall.

It was the judgment given Shafer that held up the sale of the Cadmus tract on West End avenue and which only went through last week. Shafer was represented by Craig A. Marsh and Cadmus by James Powers, of Newark.

BENDER A PROPERTY OWNER.

Purchases Brick Building on Somerset Street.

An important borough real estate deal was consummated yesterday, when John P. Emmons sold his three story brick building on Somerset street, adjoining police headquarters, to Moses Bender, of West Front street. The structure comprises Dr. Mattison's drug store and the shoe shop formerly conducted by Matthias Menzenbach. Bender is a cobbler and plied his trade for many years on West Second street in the rear of the building torn down to make way for the Trust Company's new home. By industry and scrupulous saving he had put by a snug sum and his debut as a property owner followed.

The sale was brought about through Albert Lederer, who has been connected with several recent big deals.

FRANK HEDDEN WEDS.

Miss Augusta Norman, of this City, is His Bride.

In the presence of a company of relatives and friends, Miss Augusta Norman and Frank Hedden, were married Friday night at the home of the bride in the New Madison, by Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church.

The bride has been a resident of this city for some time and has many friends. Mr. Hedden, who is associated with his father in the livery business on East Fourth street, is well known, having lived in Plainfield all his life, and he has a host of friends who wish him success and happiness. The bride received a number of costly gifts from relatives and friends. The couple will live in the New Madison.

Sell Arcanum's Bonds.

The executive committee of the Supreme Council, Royal Arcanum, on Thursday drew out $153,000 of the gilt-edged securities which constitute part of the emergency fund in the custody of State Treasurer Chapin. The money was drawn, members of the committee state, "because the mortuary funds were getting low." Under present conditions, according to the supreme auditor, a return of this withdrawal is extremely unlikely. The securities were sold to a New York banker by Supreme Treasurer E. A. Skinner. Who the banker was and how much he paid is not given out. The State treasurer still holds $1,701,000 Arcanum funds.

Of Vital Importance

in many cases; is immediate advice from a doctor. With a Telephone in your house you can secure that advice in a FEW MINUTES day or night.

New York and New Jersey Telephone Company

333 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J

Telephone 5192

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

Time Table Corrected to Nov. 27, 1904.

For New York — 2.17, 3.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.06, 7.25, 7.28, 7.48, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46, 9.34, 9.59, 10.26, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.22, 8.36, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday —2.17, 3.37, 5.05, 7.41, 8.01, 8.52, 9.48, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12 m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.45, 6.52, 8.13, 8.32, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.06, 7.25, 7.48, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.59, 9.34, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 2.31, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.53, 6.29, 6.33, 7.08, 7.22, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.48, 10.08, 11.10 a. m.; 12.58, 1.45, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.45, 6.52, 8.13, 8.32, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville—5.25, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m.; 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.22, 4.32, 5.08, 5.29, 6.04, 6.19, 6.35, 7.12, 7.32, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.22, 11.26 p. m.; 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 10.51 a. m.; 2.03, 3.40, 5.37, 6.35, 8.30, 10.15 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m.; 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29, 6.41 p. m. Sunday —5.45 a. m.; 2.03, 6.35 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.03, 6.35 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52 a. m.; 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 3.44, 4.47, 5.42, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.; 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(8.11 Lakewood only), 9.27 a. m.; 1.18, 2.49, (3.44 p. m., Lakewood only). Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 8.51, 9.44, 10.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 6.45, 7.47, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47 p. m.; 1.25, 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a m.; 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 2.44, 6.45, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45 4.55, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47, 11.25 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 5.25, 8.38, 9.54, (10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m.; 2.11, (5.48, through train), 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m.; 2.08, 5.27, 6.35 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45 p. m.; 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.
C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after June 24, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06, f 10.33, 11.43 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.40, f 7.36, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays —1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40, 7.44, f 8.37, and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 2.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m., Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 4.25, 8.26, 9.37 a. m., f 1.02, f 3.04, f 3.44, f 5.43, and f 7.38 p. m. week-days. Sundays —9.05, 10.05, a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager.
J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.
GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent,
213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.
Telephone 112-B.

Lawrence Johnson, aged 24 years, of Oxford, sustained a fracture of the leg while playing baseball Saturday afternoon. Dr. Fred Hughes was called and gave temporary treatment, after which the young man was sent to the hospital for further care and treatment.

MR. FISK DECLINES TO RUN FOR SENATOR

His Decision Not to Take Nomination Even if Offered Unamiously is Final.

GIVES HIS REASONS.

Interview Over the 'Phone With Plainfield's Choice—Political Situation Mixed As a Result—Other Candidates.

Former Mayor Charles Joel Fisk, leader in all undertakings for the welfare of the city and its institutions, is not a candidate for State Senator to succeed Judge Cross. This is certain and irrevocable. While he has recovered from the illness that nearly proved fatal two years ago, his physicians, Drs. E. W. and B. vanD. Hedges, advise and he himself knows that the ordeal of a political campaign, no matter how pleasant it may be in one way, is too much for him to risk for the sake of his health. Anyhow, his business interests are such a severe tax on his time that he could not devote attention to political affairs.

Without a decision from Mr. Fisk, the political situation in Union County would continue to be in an unsettled state and for that reason a representative of The Daily Press telephoned him Saturday for information. He was found at his summer home in Easthampton, L. I., and was asked a leading question—"Will you accept a nomination for State Senator if it comes to you unanimously.?"

"The party has not offered me the nomination," was the polite but evasive reply of the genial public-spirited citizen of Plainfield. When a hypothetical question was put to him, Mr. Fisk paused for some moments before answering and then said "my business engagements are such I cannot give time or attention to other affairs and I would be obliged to decline any nomination for the senatorial office, even if tendered me."

Not even when assured that the Republican party of Plainfield, which has been torn into factions in the past, is unanimously for him and that with him as the candidate it is felt that Plainfield's Republican majority would be about equal to the total vote cast, would Mr. Fisk say that he might change his mind. Mr. Fisk is not a candidate.

The declination of Mr. Fisk changes the political situation considerably. Both Ernest R. Ackerman and William N. Runyon, who were mentioned as possible candi*dates, favored him, but now it is felt* that they both may come out for the honor. Assemblyman-Chairman E. C. Coyne, a right hand man of Hamilton Kean, is a full fledged candidate and so is Assemblyman-Councilman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield.

Unless Plainfield can present a solid front, sending a full delegation to the county convention for one man, political wiseacres say that the nomination will go elsewhere. As it looks at present, Assemblyman-Chairman Coyne's name seems to have the right ring about it for the place.

Ingenious Jerseymen.

Patents issued to Jerseymen reported by Drake & Co., solicitors of American and foreign patents, corner Broad and Market streets: Trolley car fender (two patents), P. Best, Elizabeth; safe door lock (five patents), W. Brinton, High Bridge; easel, A. R. Cobb, Short Hills; electric hoist, P. Darlington, Glen Ridge; reverse valve, P. W. Frank, Bayonne; dogging means for safe door automatics, G. Gesswein, Plainfield; electrical instrument, J. J. Gregan, Newark; sound modifier, C. L. Hibbard, Orange; safe or vault (three patents), H. D. Hibbard, Plainfield; plate for batteries (three patents), H. C. Hubbell, Jersey City; repairing pipes (two patents), R. M. Kellogg, Metuchen; electric current collector ring, H. A. K. Knoener, East Orange; trolley wheel, F. Koenig, Newark; frame for mirrors, R. Liebmann, East Orange; water or ice cream cartridge, S. Lustig, Paterson; talking machine, G. A. Manwaring, Bayonne; button working machine, A. W. Morris, Camden; tobacco pipe, B. Shibler, Jr., Paterson; delivery mechanism (two patents), W. Scott, Plainfield; rotary door safe, S. L. Smith, Bayonne; metal edge box machine, J. S. Stokes, Moorestown; shears, J. Storsberg, Newark; electric signaling system (three patents), H. B. Taylor, East Orange; gas purifier, E. A. Uehling, Passaic; calendar stand, F. A. Weeks, Plainfield; sheet controlling means, A. W. Weseman, Plainfield; storage battery jar, T. S. Witherbee, Jersey City.

John Hiscox Sighted.

John Hiscox, manager of the Sabbath Recorder, who is enjoying his vacation in Rhode Island, witnessed the Yale-Harvard boat race last week, and was among those who "rooted" for Old Eli, notwithstanding that he is a graduate of Amherst.

PLAINFIELD HAD A CINCH

All-Americans Furnish Easy Pickings for the Slashing Daabsters.

JUICY HITS COME EASY

Crowd Grew Weary of the Slaughter and Went Away Early in the Game—Visitors Petted.

After scraping their finer feelings against some grievous bumps for two weeks, those noble heroes who battle under the Daab banner fell into a bed of roses Saturday afternoon. The All-American nine was such a mark that the cinch was cloying. What coterie of bounding athletes wouldn't be surfeited with a 16 to 4 pie on the menu?

Half the beauty and chivalry at the goreless contest succumbed to ennui before the end of the fifth stanza, and went wearily away in search of a church picnic or something else with ginger enough in it to keep them awake. Those who suffered through the whole nine innings strove to ease the pitiable state into which the All-Americans—who licensed 'em under that name anyhow?—by words of kindly comment on their shapes and general baseball form.

Those All-Americans struggled manfully against their encompassing fate. They used two pitchers and shifted the team about in an effort to do something, but it was not to be. Each flinger was worse than the other, and the rest of the team smeared themselves thick with tainted plays. Some of their playing was so rank you could almost smell it.

If they hadn't made a misplay we would have everlastingly lambasted them, for seven of the tallies were earned by industrious leather punching. It took only three innings to hammer one Groom into disorganized retreat, and Mr. Murphy, his successor, wasn't enough of an improvement to mention. He was speedier, but no more effective. All but two of the locals hit the ball safely, and Cosgrave did it three times, at one period going so far as to rip off a three-bagger. . The Daabsters scored at will, and the Lord only knows what fearful heights the score would have reached if they hadn't let up in the fifth. Every run scored for us was made in those first four raphsodies. From the fifth on Bill Beck encouraged the visitors to have a hit, but they needed more encouragement that way then any other team we have ever pitied. Their four runs were virtual gifts. They had to be helped a whole lot in picking up the present, for they were only equal to landing on the round thing five times for safety, and one rap was a suspiciously scratchy sort. To encourage the suffering guests the Daabsters did monkey shines and essayed unfamiliar berths. All of which did no good. The All-Americans should have been left in their graves in Brooklyn. It was cruelty to drag them out for an exacting game like baseball.

The most surprising thing about the game was Pete Cregan's batting. Pete cut big gaping holes in the air three times, and didn't even rap out of the diamond in his two other times. Pete's old slugging side-partner, Mike Donlin, of the New Yorks, had a slump a while ago, and maybe Pete is just trying to be in fashion. Leonard was the only other man who didn't hit.

Cohalan, the man who covered the blank space on the diamond left by the late lamented R. Oldring, now of the Boll-Weevil League, in Alabama, played fast and hit well. He may stay, if he wants, for all we care.

Reminiscent jottings:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss, cf ... | 2 | 1 | 4 | 2 | 1 |
| Cosgrave, cf, ss .. | 4 | 3 | 1 | 0 | 1 |
| Cohalan, 2b ..... | 1 | 2 | 6 | 4 | 2 |
| Connolly, rf ..... | 1 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf, 3b ... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b, lf... | 1 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b ..... | 2 | 1 | 11 | 1 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c ....... | 2 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Beck, p ......... | 3 | 2 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Totals ........ | 16 | 12 | 27 | 14 | 4 |

ALL-AMERICANS.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hendricks, 3b ... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 1 |
| Fitzhenry, 2b .... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 |
| Holland, cf, ss ... | 0 | 1 | 0 | 5 | 1 |
| Higgins, 1b ..... | 0 | 0 | 11 | 0 | 2 |
| Murphy, ss, p .... | 1 | 0 | 1 | 6 | 2 |
| Andberg, lf ...... | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Hohman, c ...... | 2 | 1 | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Shea, rf ........ | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Groom, p, cf .... | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Totals ........ | 4 | 5 | 24 | 10 | 7 |

Plainfield .1 4 4 7 0 0 0 0 x—16
All-Am. ....0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 3—4

Earned runs—Plainfield, 7; All-Americans, 1. Three base hits—Hohman, Cosgrave. Sacrifice hits—Cohalan. Stolen bases—Driscoll, Leonard. Base on balls—Off Beck, 2; off Groom, 4; off Murphy, 1. Struck out—By Beck, 1; by Groom, 5. Double plays—Leonard to Driscoll to Kiernan; Cregan to Cohalan to Driscoll. Left on bases—Plainfield, 6; All-Americans, 4. Passed balls—Hohman, 2. Hit by pitcher—Andberg and Connolly. Time of game, 1 hour and 45 minutes. Umpire—Merrity. Attendance—[illegible].

PLAINFIELD-WESTFIELD SERIES OF FIVE GAMES

AND, MAYBE, THERE WILL BE TEN CONTESTS.

The Plainfield-Westfield series of baseball games is now assured, Managers Daab and Denman fixing the dates for five contests at a confer*ence at the Hotel Kensington on Sat*urday night. There is likely to be more than five games, but at present Mr. Daab did not care to decide on more than that number. The first game is to be played at Recreation Park on Saturday, July 15, and in return for giving the opening game to Westfield Manager Denman gives Plainfield the afternoon game at Crescent Oval on Labor Day. If rain should interfere with the contest scheduled for July 15, that game will be played at Recreation Park on Saturday, July 22. These are the dates thus far arranged.

July 15, at Westfield; July 22, at Plainfield; July 29, at Westfield; August 5, at Plainfield. The fifth game scheduled *is for Labor Day af*ternoon at Crescent Oval.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, met with Managers Daab and Denman, and the conference was a harmonious one in every respect. It was agreed to use the double umpire system. Mr. Merrity will officiate for Plainfield and Mr. Henning for Westfield. This was perfectly satisfactory to both clubs.

This series will undoubtedly revive baseball interest in both towns *and result in record breaking attend*ances at the contests. Denman says that he will depend on "Red" Waller and his regular team to carry the club to victory. This will mean that "Hot Air" Mallen will figure in every game.

As far the trouble over the Plainfield-Westfield series existed, it is said that Nat Strong was responsible for the James O'Rourke letter to Manager Daab, and it is not believed that the National Commission would have taken any notice of the matter had not some such person called O'Rourke's attention to it.

CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

MR. AND MRS. AARON JIMERSON ENTERTAINED MANY FRIENDS.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Jimerson celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home in Netherwood on Saturday. A large gathering of friends and relatives attended the observance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimerson in Netherwood and have lived there since. Mrs. Jimerson was Miss Charlotte Hand, daughter of William Hand, of Netherwood.

Three children and thirteen grandchildren were present at the celebration. The children are Mrs. G. W. Morse and W. S. Jimerson and Mrs. F. F. Bulkeley, of Westfield.

The affair was informal and lasted for the better part of yesterday, as well as Saturday. Many friends from New York, Brooklyn, Westfield and Scotch Plains, besides those living here, came to congrat*ulate the aged couple and to shower* them with golden gifts. There was a great number of the latter in a variety of handsome designs.

Justices Adopt Robes.

Following an agitation which has lasted for several years, the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals finally has decided to wear robes, and will appear in them for the first time at the next term, which opens in November. The robes have been ordered. It has not been decided whether they will be worn at sessions of the Supreme Court, the justices of which comprise a part of the Court of Errors and Appeals.

Dinner Party at Country Club.

Hugh G. Baldwin, of West Seventh street, gave a dinner party to a few friends at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday. The guests were: The Misses Stimson, Browne, Mead, and Harman, and Messrs. Brooks, Stimson and Perkins. Mrs. John Ward Stimson chaperoned the party.

Jr. E. L. Lawn Social.

Rev. George Mooney and Miss Aldrich, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, are arranging for a lawn social to be held Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Junior Epworth League. The past year has been a very successful one, the membership being 149 at present.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Goodfellow, of Brooklyn, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Preston B. Goodfellow, of Netherwood avenue.

Miss Sarah Musson, of Washington, is visiting her brother, Rev. J. W. Musson, of West Front street, pastor of Faith chapel.

DIED.

McGOVERN—On Thursday, June 29, 1905, Mary McGovern, aged 69 years.

CAIN—In North Plainfield, Friday, June 30, 1905, Bryant R., son of Albion S. and Mary T. Cain, aged 1 year, 11 months and 17 days.

SELL WADSWORTH SCHOOL

Board of Education Transfers Property Which Caused a Heap of Trouble.

CITY LOST A GIFT.

Rebuke to Board of Education Caused G. H. Babcock to Change His Mind.

For the sum of $7,000 the Plainfield Board of Education Friday disposed of its property on Central avenue at Sixth street, known as the Wadsworth School, the original purchase of which, fifteen years ago, caused more discussion and dissension in the city, perhaps, than any other piece of real estate ever held by the municipality. It cost the taxpayers then about $13,000, and the former residence upon it has since been used as a kindergarten for first year pupils. The lot measures 199.09 feet on West Sixth street and 170.14 feet on Central avenue. On the side nearest West Seventh street the lot extends back 210 feet, being on a bias.

The purchaser is John B. Cottrell, of New York, who secured it simply as an investment. He will have the building, a large frame structure, now facing Central avenue, turned around to the back of the lot on Sixth street. The remainder of the property will then be divided into smaller parts and sold for building purposes.

The sale of the place will recall to Plainfielders the great hubbub that arose when it was bought by the Board of Education from Charles D. Wadsworth as the probable site for the new High School, then contemplated, but which is only now in course of erection. The deal was consummated by the members without consultation and the Common Council became incensed, declaring *its sanction should have been se*cured. It went so far as to have a bill passed by the Legislature, restricting the power of the Board of Education in buying property, and it was a long time before the matter was dropped. The school was not built, and the place has never been of any great use.

While these facts are simply reminiscences, the disposal of the property yesterday brought to light an additional circumstance that has nev*er before been made public.* The action of the Common Council in rebuking the Board of Education for the purchase and the subsequent public discussion, deprived Plainfield of a new High School building absolutely without cost that would have exceeded in architectural beauty and equipment the one for which the citizens are now paying $125,000. Such a structure was to have been given to the city by the late George H. Babcock, then president of the Board of Education, and the criticism to which the body was subjected caused him to change his plans. For many years it had been his cherished desire to erect a beautiful High School building, to be known as the Babcock Memorial, and the buying of the Wadsworth property was only the first step and the one expense that was to have been borne by the taxpayers. He had confided these details to the late Elias R. Pope and Miss Julia Bulkley, then principal of Plainfield's schools, both of whom had been advising him in the matter. Mr. Babcock was a careful business man, but extremely sensitive ,and the accentuated charge that the school board, of which he was the head, had acted unwisely cut him to the quick. Because of the few people in whom he had confided, he changed his plans, with the injunction that those who knew of them keep them secret. This they did until today, when the disposal of the property brought them to light.

Priest Faints on Altar.

While in the act of marrying a couple Thursday in St. Patricks' church, Very Rev. Dean Gessner, the aged rector, fainted on the altar. He was picked up by the bridegroom and his best man and was carried into the vestry room, where he soon revived and insisted on finishing the ceremony. Afterward he put on the rest of his vestments and celebrated a nuptial mass. Dean Gessner is about seventy-four.

Funeral of Anthony Farley.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, funeral services were held Friday afternoon over the body of Anthony Farley at his late home on Terrill road. They were in charge of Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, of which he had been a member for fifty years. Two solos, "Asleep in Jesus" and Lead, Kindly Light" were sung by Miss Etta Raybert. Interment was made in the Methodist cemetery, six grandsons acting as pall bearers.

Ball for Assembly.

George Ball, of Fanwood township, is being urged by his friends to announce himself as a candidate for assemblymanship. Mr. Ball practises law in this city and incidently whop-it-up for the G. O. P. in the township. Last year he withdrew from the race for an assembly nomination as he says for the sake of harmony and now friends believe that he should be given an unanimous nomination.

FOR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Rev. Dr. Schenck Preaches Against Corporate Greed.

TALKS ON GRAFT.

Pastor Looks to Public Opinion to Stop the Desire for Unearned Riches.

In Trinity Reformed church last Sunday Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck gave an interesting and opportune address on the subject of public utilities and the government of the people as it exists today. His text was taken from Job xxxv:9, "By reason of the multitude of oppressions they make the oppressed to cry; they cry out by reason of the arm of the mighty," and said in part:

Independence Day, which is approaching, is a fit time in which to learn a lesson in patriotism. One of the obvious truths taught is the power of public opinion. In a republic, such as ours, government is the expression of the mind and will of the people. Our laws, our institutions, our policies, are the reflex of our opinions. That which is best in *our national life and that which en*dures after the passing of the years is the product of the same power. Public opinion not only secures but safeguards our rights and privileges. By it burdens under which the people groan are lifted and oppressions are removed.

The instance of the complete rout and destruction of the race track gamblers, under the inspiring leadership of the grand old Roman, Dr. Kempshall, was cited. Referring to certain oppressions which public opinion one day will abolish, the pastor made special allusion to the exactions of public service and private corporations. These not only will have their franchises limited and will pay their fair share of taxes on assessments annually fixed, he said, but will also more and more execute their trusts in the interest of the people who they serve.

"It is not impossible that the burdens will only be finally removed by the people coming into ownership of public utilities," the pastor continued, "if grasping corporations persist in enriching themselves at the expense of the public, in jacking up rates to unreasonable and inordinate heights, in killing off competition, then they will have only themselves to thank when the people shall walk into possession of their own. Public utilities are a public trust! Who for a moment does not believe that if public interest and not private were served, water and light, for example, could not more economically de dispensed?"

In conclusion, Dr. Schenck said he looked to the power of public opinion for the suppression of "graft." This word, which is not a dictionary, but a newspaper word, is most descriptive of an evil which is burdening our entire life. Every business and every occupation is feeling its baneful influence, but some day it will disappear, when the outraged moral sense of the people shall be aroused.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL.

First M. E. Church People at Pastor's Home.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church, the last social of the season was held at the home of the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, 610 Central avenue, last night. The affair was in the nature of a lawn party, the specious grounds being brilliantly illuminated with three hundred Japanese lanterns, presenting an attractive sight. Sociability was the feature of the evening, while there was added enjoyment in a fine programme of music rendered by Morgan T. Townsend on a pianola. He gave a number of the latest selections throughout the evening to the delight of all.

Refreshments were served in and out of doors. The committee in charge comprised Miss Elsie Horne, Mrs. S. H. Tugwell and Mrs. Harry Gee, and they were assisted by the pastor and his wife as well as other members of the league in making the affair a success.

VISITORS NAMED

By Hospital Auxiliary for July and August.

Miss Elizabeth R. Cock and Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney were appointed purchasers for the months of July, August and September at the monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday. Mrs. F. H. Andrews, Mrs. Robert A. Meeker and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop were appointed visitors for July, Miss Bass for August and Mrs. M. B. Mellor and Mrs. David Moore for September.

A letter was received from William C. Kinney, of the Board of Governors, acknowledging check as receipts from the Carnival.

The best way to keep the hot July sun out of the room is to equip the windows with awnings. It wont cost much if you let Shirley & Johnson, of West Front street, do it. They make a specialty of this class of work beside handling carpets, mattings, shades and curtains.

MEN ARE BETTER GOLFERS

Women's Team Defeated at Country Club by the Score of 29 to 9.

THE DAY'S RESULTS.

[illegible] for Golf Committee and Osh-[illegible] Small Cups—Two Con-[illegible] tests at Park [illegible] Club.

Several events attracted a large field of players to the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, including the first team match between men and women members of the club. Although the women were defeated by a score of 26 to 9, the fair sex made a good fight. Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and *Miss Margaret God*dard did the scoring for their side, the former defeating Dudley H. Barrows and Miss Goddard being 7 up on Lawrence Tweedy. The match, however, was a good one, and no doubt others will be arranged during the season. The summary:

Women—Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, 2; Miss Maude Van Boskerck, 0; Miss Edith Tracy, 0; Miss Margaret Goddard, 7; Miss Martha Roberts, 0; Mrs. Walter Gaston, 0. Total, 9.

Men—*Dudley H. Barrows, 0; Ar*thur Murphy, 9; W. L. Glenney, 2; Lawrence L. Tweedy, 0; N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., 7; C. B. Morgan, 8. Total, 26.

By returning the unusually low net score of 68, H. C. Munger won first honors for the golf committee cup. Stuart H. Patterson won second honors and C. B. Morgan secured the one remaining point. The scores returned were generally low, showing a decided improvement in the play of the regulars. These scores were posted for the golf committee cup:

H. C. Munger, 76, 8—68; Stuart H. Patterson, 92, 20—72; C. B. Morgan, 80, 4—76; Arthur Murphy, 83, 7—76; A. L. Otterson, 90, 14—76; Thomas R. Van Boskerck, 86, 8—78; Laurense Van Buren, 96, 18—78; J. E. Erickson, 88, 10—78; G. M. Furman, 88, 10—78; H. D. Hibbard, 86, 6—80; Lawrence L. Tweedy, 97, 14—83; A. B. Tyler, 107, 22—85; J. P. Murray, 102, 16—86.

In the final play for the Oshkosh cup, boys' championship, between W. T. Glenney and Ogden Rogers, the former won by defeating Rogers by 1 up in 19 holes.

The event at the Park Golf Club on Saturday was the weekly competition for the president's and club trophies. . Eight contestants returned cards. Alex. Gilbert, R. D. Rice and Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll won the points for the president's cup, while for the scratch trophy Charles A. Reed, Dr. Carroll and R. D. Rice tied for first place, each returning a gross score of 101. The other points were won by Rev. C. L. Goodrich and Alex. Gilbert. The scores:

Alex. Gilbert, 106, 22—84; R. D. Rice, 101, 15—86; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 101, 14—87; Charles A. Reed, 101, 12—89; J. M. Williamson, 121, 30—91; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 104, 12—92; J. H. Howell, 107, 15—92.

Miss Colohan a Bride.

Miss Katherine Colohan, of Roselle, who has been a frequent Plainfield visitor and who has many local friends, was married in St. Joseph's church, Roselle, Thursday afternoon, to Otto Davitz, of Elizabeth. Miss Edith Robinson and Joseph Robinson, of West Third street, were members of the bridal party, the former as bridesmaid and the latter as usher.

Wanted Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided.

The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenu

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and wormanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business.

All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Jeremiah Manning, } Vice-Pres]
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines.

Write at once,

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life;

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Aves

Plainfield, N.J

GROOM ALREADY WEDDED

Dramatic Cancellation of Miss Ethel May Fenner's Nuptials.

ON THE WEDDING DAY.

Everything in Readiness for the Marriage When Bride's Brother Learns That James Francis Miller is Married Man.

Miss Ethel May Fenner, of Pluckamin, was to have been married yesterday afternoon to James Francis Miller, of New York. Yesterday morning arrangements for the wedding were in full swing at the Fenner home, when a letter arrived from James Francis Miller asking that the marriage be postponed. Soon after that John Fenner, Jr., brother of the bride-to-be, learned from the mother of the bridegroom-to-be that James Francis Miller was a married man.

Miss Fenner is well known in Dunellen and this city. John Fenner, Jr., was in business in Dunellen for several years, and is at present conducting a grocery store on Somerset street.

James Francis Miller met Miss Fenner about three years ago. He is a drummer and represented himself as a single man. About a year ago they became engaged and he gave her a handsome engagement ring. He conducted himself as a model fiancee, and none of the bride's friends or family suspected that there was anything wrong about him. He was a regular weekly visitor to the Pluckamin home.

Yesterday was fixed as the marriage day at his own suggestion, and preparations for a large wedding were made. Many invitations were sent out, numbers of them to Dunellen and this city.

There was amazement in the Fenner family when the bridegroom's letter of postponement was received. When James Francis Miller himself failed to put in an appearance, John Fenner, Jr., went to New York to look him up. He was unable to find James Francis Miller, but did locate his mother.

She was amazed to hear of the Pluckamin wedding arrangements.

"Why, my son is a married man," she said. "I have never heard the slightest hint of this Pluckamin affair."

Before going back to Plucamin, Mr. Fenner looked up some more about James Francis Miller, and discovered, it is said, that he has three children.

When Mr. Fenner got back to Pluckamin all the wedding arrangements were cancelled. The telegraph and telephone were used to reach as many of those invited as possible, but many guests inaccessible in either way arrived at the house as the wedding hour approached.

No action against James Francis Miller is likely to be taken by the Fenners. They are thankful to have discovered what they did in time to prevent a marriage.

SQUABBLE AT ELIZABETH.

Expert May be Engaged to Investigate Rates.

At a hearing before the special committee of the City Council at Elizabeth to investigate the feasibility of the plan to establish a municipal water plant there, John W. Whelan, secretary and treasurer of the Elizabethtown Water Company, controlled and operated by Senator Kean, endeavored to show that the comparative figures recently published by the committee were misleading and incorrect. The committee's figures were intended to show that the rates in Elizabeth were much higher than those in other cities of this State which conducted their own water-supply system.

The chairman of the special committee of council, Bernard J. Higgins, insisted that he had secured his figures from official reports. Mr. Whelan contended that his mistakes had followed because of his having made improper comparisons. In consequence of Wednesday night's developments the committee will probably ask the council for an appropriation wherewith to engage an expert to make a thorough investigation and prepare a report for presentation to council.

Wheel Missed; Found Again.

Aleck Kane, the contractor, left his wheel in front of the Marsh building yesterday afternoon while he went to Justice Mosher's office. The wheel was missing when he came down, and Kane reported the matter at police headquarters. A half hour later the bike was found in the West End leaning against a curb. No one, apparently, knows how it got there.

Some Old Files.

Robert W. Devine, manager of the Postal Telegraph office in Elizabeth, has been presented by the mother of the late Frank W. Blae, of New Brunswick, who was a former manager of the Elizabeth office, with complete copies of the New York Mirror and Ladies' Literary Gazette from July, 1829, to July, 1830, bound in book form, and also with copies of the New York Mirror from July, 1835, to July, 1836, likewise bound in book form, and in a first class state of preservation.

20 COUNCILS REVOLT

Hudson County Arcanumites Hold a Mass Meeting.

Twenty out of the thirty Royal Arcanum councils in Hudson county, at a mass meeting at Columbia Hall, Ocean and Cator avenues, Jersey City, Wednesday night, which meeting was attended by six hundred members of the order, unanimously adopted the following resolutions:

"Whereas, It is the sense of this meeting of the members of twenty councils of the Royal Arcanum of Hudson county, representing seven thousand members, in mass meeting assembled at Columbia Hall, in Jersey City, Tuesday, une 27, 1905, that having carefully considered the question of the change of rates and being advised that the Supreme Courts of various states have decided that no change in rates can be made, and believing that all funds can be provided by calling assessments to any amounts; be it therefore

"Resolved, First—That we demand an unconditional repeal of rates and conditions made and enacted May 8, 1905;

"Second—We demand the immediate use of drastic measures to stop deficits in certain jurisdictions;

"Third—A return to conditions enacted in May, 1898, and a call for all assessments required while certain jurisdictions are being closed."

The meeting was called for the purpose of taking some action regarding the increase in rates imposed by the Supreme Council. There was not a man present who spoke in favor of the new rates. On the contrary, they were denounced by every speaker on and off the platform.

The resolutions, however, were not passed without discussion. One Arcanumite wanted the reference to the Supreme Court stricken out, because he said it would be like flying a red flag in the face of a bull. Past Regent Gallagher, West Shore Council, stated the clause referring to the decision of Supreme Courts was purposely inserted to give the members of the Supreme Council to understand they could not violate the contract made with a member when joining the Royal Arcanum by raising the rates specified in such a contract, although the contract specifies that the Supreme Council in the Royal Arcanum constitution retains the right to raise tne rates. The amendment, however, was withdrawn, as was an amedment to eliminate from the resolution the words "Hudson County." Copies of the resolution will be printed and sent broadcast throughout the State, and each Council will be asked to adopt the same, or resolutions along the same lines and forward them to the Supreme Council.

That the Supreme Courts in several of the states had rendered such decision as above mentioned caused a wave of surprise to sweep over the assemblage, and several Arcanumites declared that it encouraged them to enter the fight with renewed vigor. But few Arcanumites knew of such a decision until their attention was called to it by Past Regent Gallagher, who also declared that unless the Royal Arcanum got rid of ten jurisdictions which are paying nothing into the Royal Arcanum fund, but are drawing vast sums out annually, the order would have to go out of existence.

There was no mincing of words on the part of the speakers. The Supreme Council's action in raising the rates was denounced, and one speaker even went so far as to say their resignations should be demanded.

J. R. DUNHAM RETURNS.

Iowa Man Attends Funeral of Captain Hubbard.

Among the attendants at the funeral of Captain J. Frank Hubbard yesterday was an old Plainfielder who came from Binghamton, N. Y., for the purpose. He is J. R. Dunham, a native of this city, whose home is now in Clinton, Iowa. A civil engineer by profession, he secured his training in the office of Andrew Onderdonk, lately deceased, and had charge of the party running the first levels for the establishment of Plainfield's grades and draughted the first city grade profiles.

Mr. Dunham is now a traveling map compiler and chief draughtsman for the Northwest Map and Atlas Company, of Philadelphia and Des Moines, Iowa. During the past fifteen years he has compiled in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and New York, and also superintended the draughting of the entire State of Ohio. He is thoroughly imbued with the progressive nature of the West and claims that in the next ten years that part of the country beyond the Mississippi will have a growth and development unequaled in the history of America. In referring to the new county Court house, in the building of which Captain Hubbard was so directly connected, Mr. Dunham said he had worked in one hundred and fifteen different ones, but that the finest of all is at Minneapolis. It covers and entire block and cost one million dollars. He has not yet seen the Union county structure, but declared he would inspect it carefully before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Rodgers, of South avenue, have returned from a two weeks' stay at Bellport, L. I.

YALE'S COMMENCEMENT

Students From New Jersey Including A. R. Fisk Received Diplomas.

Students from This State Also Acquit Themselves in Good Style in Honor Lists.

At the 204th anniversary of Yale University June 28, twenty-three New Jersey men received their diplomas, among them being A. R. Fisk, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fisk, of this city. The academic and scientific departments have ten each, while the law school graduates one New Jersey man, James Smith Martin, of Upper Montclair. In the graduate school are seventeen New Jersey men seeking higher degrees. None of these comes from further south than Somerville. Newark has three, Montclair and New Brunswick two each. Others are from various other places.

The men who graduate from the academic department, which is "old Yale," are Arthur Howe Bradford, of Montclair; Gilbert Browning, of Morristown; Charles Stone Bulkley, of Summit; Ruyon Colie, of East Orange; William Theodore Darby, of Paterson; Augustus Rickey Fisk, Plainfield; Roland Baldwin Coe, Newark; Harry Howard Loudenslager, Paulsboro; Walter Raymond McCoy, Burlington; James Bernard Reilly, Jr., Atlantic City.

The Sheffield Scientific School will send out thirteen New Jersey men—Martin Sullivan Baldwin, of Montclair, who was born in that suburb. His father is president of the Otis Elevator Company. The son, after graduation, will enter this business. Arthur Conkling Jones was born in Plainfield and prepared for Yale at Columbia Institute, New York, where of late years he has made his home. Charles Brearley Kennedy was born in Trenton and began his college course at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., transferring to Yale Scientific School. Raymond Havemeyer was born in Orange and prepared at Hotchkiss School, Conn. His father is a banker in New York, where the son now has his home. Howard Gillespie Hull is a native of Morristown and entered Yale after a course at Hill Preparatory School. Bernard Gilpin Marshall was born in Plainfield and entered Yale after preparation at Andover. His home is Duluth, where he will enter business with his father. Harold Milton Roberts was born in Montclair and prepared at Montclair High School. He proposes to become an electrical engineer. Harold Augustus Swenarton also was born in Montclair, and prepared at the Montclair High School. Douglas Satterlee Schenck was born in Jersey City and expects to become a lawyer. Albert Harold Vernam, of Morristown, was born in Elberon, and entered Yale after a preparatory course at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H. He will become a broker. Howard Frederick Weiss was born in Paterson. After study for a time at Cornell University, he entered Yale. He will take a graduate course in forestry, and expects to enter the United States Government service. Elliott Hughes Wendell was born in Newark, and prepared at the Newark High School. Harold LeRoy Whitney, who graduates from the Sheffield Scientific School, makes his home in Morristown.

Not a few honors were won by New Jersey students. Arthur Bradford, of Montclair, son of Dr. Amory H. Bradford, who is frequently college preacher at Yale, was early elected secretary of the college Y. M. C. A.

In the sophomore class, 1907, William Ernest Collins, of Livingston, has received at the close of the term the award of the George Benedict Sherman scholarship, yielding $400 a year. This scholarship is the gift of Mrs. Edward Perkins Carter, of Cleveland, O., and Henry Stoddard Sherman, of the class of 1902, as a memorial to their brother, who was a member of the class of 1907, but died in October, 1903. The recipient of this scholarship must be a member of the class of 1907. It is awarded for earnest endeavor in study, interest in the welfare of the class, and promise of a useful career after graduation. William Collins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pell T. Collins, of Livingston, and graduated from the Livingston High School. He was a member of the first graduating class of four from this recently organized High School, and the only young man of the class, and therefore the first to represent the school at any college. William Collins was also one of five, and the only one from New Jersey in the class of 1907, to be selected for excellency in elocution, and to engage in class prize competition.

Gilmore Kinney, Jr., of Hoboken, is third baseman on the champion Yale University nine. He came from Andover Academy, where he played third base for some years.

Harold LeRoy Whitney, of Morristown, is one of the university crew, on which he was stroke last year, and will take the same position this year. As was the case last year, the majority of the students, by far, will enter business. Law as a choice of profession follows, teaching and medicine follow close after, the various engineering occupations claim their quota, with the ministry little considered as an enticing calling.

BRYAN DEFENDS BOWEN

Leader Characterizes Roosevelt's Action and Morton Letter as Grave Blunders

President Roosevelt was taken to task yesterday by William J. Bryan at Des Moines, Iowa, for what the latter characterizes as the two colossal blunders of the present administration, and both committed within a week's time, namely, the letter exonerating Paul Morton and the action in the Bowen-Loomis affair.

"There is no public question in which I am more interested at this time,' said Mr. Bryan, "than the regulation of the railroads. I believe that the President has greatly embarrassed himself in his own efforts to improve the railroad situation by his attitude respecting Mr. Morton.

"The first step in the prosecution of an offender such as the Santa Fe is believed to have been is to give the officials of the company an opportunity to disprove connection with the giving of the rebates. The exemption of Mr. Morton from prosecution, because he may not have been as much implicated as others connected with the road, raises the question: When are we ever to make a beginning? If we insist on making a start with the worst offender, the court must determine the degree of a man's responsibility for the crime. Making an exception of Mr. Morton on personal grounds will inevitably embarrass the President in his further efforts."

The "glaring injustice" of deposing from office Herbert W. Bowen as former Minister to Venezuela, Mr. Bryan said, was apparent in view of the fact that the man who had committed the wrong went unpunished while Bowen was deposed on the charge that he had given to the press information concerning the acts of Loomis while the latter was Minister to Venezuela.

"The President's decision in this controversy," declared Mr. Bryan, "is a matter for keen regret. The worst that can be said against Mr. Bowen is that he was indescreet if he gave out the information as charged, while Loomis, in purchasing an interest in claims against the country to which he was accredited committed a grave offense."

CROSSED HOUSE TOPS TO AVOID RICE SHOWER

PERILOUS INCIDENT OF SAMUEL MANNING'S WEDDING.

When Samuel L. Manning, of South Plainfield, and Miss Grace Elizabeth Bird, of 65 Delevan avenue, Newark, were married at the bride's home on Wednesday night, they made up their minds that they would dodge the rice and old shoes. So when they went up stairs to dress for departure they went on to the attic and out on the roof, where Manning had previously stored a few planks.

These he laid across the ten feet of space intervening between the roof's edge and the roof of the nearest house, and across the temporary bridge he piloted his bride. The planks were then hauled over and the process repated. This brought the couple two houses away from where the wedding party was waiting with bags of rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning had no easy task in reaching the second house, for the planks had to be run from the roof of the house first reached to a third story window of the second. Persons who looked the ground over yesterday say it was a somewhat perilous undertaking. At all events, the bride and bridegroom got away unnoticed, and the wedding party waited for two solid hours before it found out that the birds had flown.—New York Sun.

HAS A NEW MOTIVE POWER.

Vineland Inventor Says Air and Water Patent Will be Used.

Morris C. Lockwood, an inventor of Vineland, has a mechanical curiosity in his workshop in the form of a hydrostatic motor, which he declares is past the experimental stage and will soon be put on the market. For twenty-seven years he has expended his money and time on this invention and says he has at last mastered a new scientific principle. This motor is designed to run the machinery of the world with air and water.

Lockwood says the model works perfectly and he is now looking for capital with which to exploit his invention commercially. The machine is of fifty horse power, and after once being charged with water will require but two quarts of the liquid to run it twenty-four hours. The inventor zealously guards his workshop and is so sure that he has solved the problem of cheap power that he has spent his all in perfecting the machine.

P. A. McVoy, of West Front street, is training a thoroughbred hunting dog for field service in the fall.

Miss Margaret Casey, of West Third street, has returned from a visit with relatives at Raritan.

LAST HONORS PAID LATE CAPT. HUBBARD

Prominent Men of City and County Attend Funeral Obsequies of Freeholder.

SERVICES AT THE HOME

Union County Officials, Municipal Officers and Delegations from Banking Concerns and Military Orders Present.

The funeral services of Captain James Franklin Hubbard were held from the late home in West Seventh street Thursday at 3 o'clock. Rev. George Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, was in charge. The various societies and organizations to which Captain Hubbard belonged attended, although they had no special part. There were also present many State, county and city officials and the court session at Elizabeth adjourned to allow those having business there to attend the funeral.

There were present representatives from the City National Bank, Dime Savings Institution, Plainfield Water Supply Company, Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.; the New York Commandery, Military Order Loyal Legion, the Union County Board of Freeholders, of which the departed was a member for thirty-seven years and director for eighteen years, while the various department of the Seventh-day Baptist church, of which Captain Hubbard was the treasurer and stanch supporter, attended.

The services were of simple character, in accordance with the known wish of the departed. There was a duet, "Rock of Ages," by E. E. Runyon and Charles L. Lewis; Scripture selection, by Rev. George B. Shaw, after which Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, and a close personal friend, made a few remarks. Charles L. Lewis sang "Crossing the Bar," and preceding a prayer by B. C. Davis, president of Alfred University, E. E. Runyon and Charles L. Lewis sang "Lead, Kindly Light."

At the grave in Hillside Cemetery, where the interment took place, Rev. George B. Shaw read the Scripture selection and Dr. A. H. Lewis read the committal and offered the closing prayer.

Those who served as pall bearers are as follows: L. Newton VanSickel, William C. Hubbard, Frank J. Hubbard, Charles H. Dunham, William H. Rogers, G. E. Stillman, David E. Titsworth and A. L. Titsworth.

TRADING STAMP BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

REDEEMABLE VALUE MUST BE STAMPED ON FACE AFTER SEPT. 1.

Governor Stokes yesterday signed the Layden trading stamp bill requiring all such stamps to have legibly stamped on their face a redeemable cash value, which sum must be paid for their redemption if demanded.

After providing that all trading stamps, coupons, or other similar devices must have a redeemable value stamped on their face, the act requires that any person who shall issue or sell such stamps or coupons to any person engaged in any trade or business shall upon presentation redeem them either in merchandise or cash, at the option of the holder, provided the stamps be presented for redemption in quantities calling for not less than five cents in each lot.

It is further provided that any merchant who shall distribute or deliver trading stamps or coupons shall, upon the refusal of the person or persons who originally issued them to redeem them, be liable, when presented in quantities of not less than five cents for their face value, and shall redeem them either in merchandise or cash, at the option of the holder. The act says any person, firm or corporation who shall violate any of its provisions shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

The law takes effect September 1. It does not apply to tickets, coupons or other vouchers placed by merchants or manufacturers in or upon packages of goods sold by them, if the tickets, coupons or vouchers are to be redeemed by them.

Disposes of His Business.

Jesse Hetfield has sold his restaurant and fruit store at Cranford Junction of the Public Service Corporation trolley lines, and with his wife is spending a week at Ocean Grove. On his return Mr. Hetfield will again open the store formerly occupied by him on Watchung avenue, in the Sebring building, and proposes to run a first class restaurant and quick lunch.

First Census Bulletin.

Census Bulletin No. 1, of the enumeration of 1905, shows the population of Fanwood borough to have grown from 399 in 1900 to 445. Roselle borough's population has risen from 1,652 in 1900 to 2,142. The increase in Fanwood borough is 46, and in Roselle borough 490.

SCOTCH PLAINS GIRL FOR JAMES LE R. POPE

MISS MAY M. MARSH BRIDE OF BOROUGHITE.

Miss May Morton Marsh, daughter of Mrs. John Marsh, Jr., and James LeRoy Pope, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Pope, of Manning avenue, North Plainfield, were married June 28, at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride in Scotch Plains. It was a quiet event, being witnessed only by the immediate families and near relatives.

While the Lohengrin wedding march was being played by Miss Florence Nicholl, a classmate of the bride at school, the bridal party proceeded from the library to the parlor, where Rev. Clarence C. Woodruff, of Roselle, a former pastor of the M. E. church, performed the ceremony.

The Misses Esther Meyers and Ruth Johnston were the ribbon bearers. They were dressed in white. The other attendants were Miss Josephine Myer Marsh, sister of the bride, as maid of honor; Miss Dorretta Louise Cook, of Scotch Plains, and Miss May Mulford, of this city, as bridesmaids. Herbert Foster Mooney was the best man. The ceremony was performed beneath a large canopy of flowers and greens. The bride was given away by her cousin, William Ferris Hurston, Jr., of Derby, Conn. The ushers were William Evans Anderson, of Plainfield, and Charles Elliot Hurston, of Brooklyn.

The bride was gowned in white crepe dechine, trimmed with old point lace, her bridal veil being caught up with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids wore gowns of pink flowered organdie, trimmed with lace.

The decorations were an attractive arrangement of white and green in the parlor, while in the dining room pink was the prevailing color. After the ceremony a reception was held.

The bride received a large collection of gifts, useful and costly, including cut glass, silverware, bric-a-brac and furniture.

The groom is an employe in the office of the Potter Printing Press Works, and both he and his wife are well known in a large circle of friends. The bride is an active worker in the M. E. church, Scotch Plains, and a favorite in the younger social set. After a wedding trip, which will include Washington, the couple will reside at Scotch Plains for the present, making their home with the bride's mother on Park avenue.

Car-Cleaning with the Air-Broom.

Hardly a room in the larger American hotels is now cleaned by means of the time honored broom and feather duster. The dust and dirt are removed by means of air with infinitely less physical exertion and with far greater rapidity. From every room pipes pass, through which the dust is sucked down into the cellar without allowing the slightest particle to escape to the atmosphere. So rapid has been the development of this sanitary system of house cleaning that even dwellings and small office buildings, although not provided with the elaborate piping system of the air hotels referred to, are cleaned by air. It is no uncommon sight in New York to see a wagon carrying a powerful vacuum pump stading in front of a residence, with lines of hose extending through the doorway into the interior. The amount of dust drawn out through the hose is enough to alarm every housewife and to confirm her dark suspicion of the hopeless inefficiency of servants. Cleaning houses in this fashion is now a thriving business. The latest application of the vacuum cleaning method is to be found in the car barns of one of the leading raiways. After a long journey a passenger coach is anything but a haven of sweetness and purity. Moreover, it must be cleaned with the utmost despatch. The "air broom" effectively and rapidly sucks out dust from cushions, seats, hangings, carpets and mattresses, without the commotion of the old method.—Booklovers' Magazine.

Deed Gives Widow As Boundary.

A deed, executed seventy-six years ago, transferring three and three-fourths acres of land in what is now the city of Elizabeth from Joseph Wilbur to David Jaeggers, was placed on recor dat Newark yesterday. The transfer of title was made for the consideration of$67.50, and the property is described as "beginning at a ditch by the crossway near the house where David Bond now lives,' and "being bounded on the east by Obadiah Meeker, north on the crosways, south by the widow of John Pierson and west by the ditch near the upland.'

$4,400,000 for Two Colleges.

President Roosevelt took a leading part in the commencement exercises at Harvard. Bishop Lawrence announced that in the last year the alumni of the university has raised an endowment fund of $2,400,000. President Hadley, of Yale, announced at the alumni dinner that Johnt D. Rockefeller had made a gift of $1,000,000 to the endowment fund, and that another $1,000,000 had been given the university within a comparatively recent time.

FIGHTING OVER A NAME

Original Rogers Concern Want Another Injunction Against Plainfielder.

ANOTHER BILL FILED

Vice Chancellor Stevens Reserves Decision—William H. Rogers is the Defendant.

Not satisfied with the concessions made by the members of the Plainfield Silver Plate Company, successor to the William H. Rogers Corporation, which was recently dissolved, the International Silver Company is now seeking through the courts to restrain William H. Rogers from using his name in his business of manufacturing silver plated ware.

On the allegation that Mr. Rogers still continues to manufacture and sell silver plated ware bearing his name in defiance to the decree of the court granted in the suit for injunction brought by the International Silver Company, counsel representing the latter company filed June 28 in th eCourt of Chancery in Newark a supplemental bill of complaint praying for an injunction restraining the defendant from using his name in any manner whatsoever in connection with the silver plating business.

Craig A. Marsh, counsel for William H. Rogers, bitterly opposed the application before Vice Chancellor Stevens, asserting that the complainant was fully protected under the terms of the decree granted in the former suit, which was affirmed by the Court of Errors. Vice Chancellor Stevens reserved decision.

For the purpose of conforming to the demands of the International Silver Company, the concern known as the William H. Rogers Corporation and the Plainfield Silver Plating Company were recently dissolved and do not now exist, and the labels and dies of the concern were all changed at considerable expense and trouble, so that there would be no infringement of the rights and patents claimed by the International Silver Company.

William H. Rogers is now engaged in the business alone on Madison avenue, and the International Silver Company wants to prevent him from using his name in his business, maintaining that this is an infringement on the original name of Rogers, used for many years by the company. Mr. Rogers will contest the case to the court of last resort, claiming that he cannot be denied the right to use his own name in his business. His counsel claims that he conformed to the provisions of the law when the corporation was dissolved and the labels and dies were changed.

Judicious Advertising.

Little corner grocery stores remain little because they do not advertise. In fact all little stores are in the same class. They are dwarfed because their owners do not attract trade. If a storekeeper made a point of advertising new goods, specialties or low prices, and used any kind of judgment in his ads, he would increase his business. Some men have tried this and have prospered, and what one man has done any other man can do better. It is not the standing ad of hackneyed form that draws trade. That serves the same purpose as a sign board. An ad that says something and not too much is the winner. A year or two ago a few banks began to advertise. It was a novelty then, but those which put out attractive ads drew business, created it, in fact, for they built up business that did not exist before they began to advertise. Lately a few progressive churches have taken to regular advertising, and they find that it pays. A church in Cleveland appointde a press agent, and he not only prepared attractive ads, but reading matter notices of meetings and services. The result was a notable increase in attendance. Now a church in Buffalo has followed this example, and the Elmira Y. M. C. A. There is no reason why churches should not advertise any more than any other organization. The only requisite for such advertising is dignity and clearness. The sensational ad would injure the cause just as it would damage a bank, but judicious advertising is good for any enterprise.—Jersey City Journal.

HIS HAY WAS BURNED.

While in the Ground, and Now Wm. Mernagh Wants Damages.

William Mernagh, of South Sterling, a milkman who has a number of customers here, has retained Codington & Swackhamer to bring a novel suit against a Summit man. The proposed defendant is the father of some boys who, while hunting over one of Mernagh's fields, set fire to the grass by dropping a lighted match.

Basing his claim on an appraisal made by Edward C. Sage and John Wendell, Mernagh will ask the court to allow him $250 for damage done to his hay crop. His case is said to be a good one, the boys, it is alleged, having acknowledged starting the fire at the time, and the father having made a tender of money in settlement of the damage done. His offer was not satisfactory, hence the suit.

DILL DISCUSSES GRAFT

Corporation Lawyer Talks on Timely Subject at Oberlin Commencement.

FORMS OF GRAFTING.

Fault Lays With the People—Character Needed in This Age—Craze for Unearned Money.

James B. Dill, New Jersey's greatest corporation lawyer, made the commencement day address at Oberlin College, Oberlin, O., June 28, his topic being "Back to the Beginning." Miss Anna Brodnax, valedictorian at the Plainfield High School commencement exercises last year, is a student at Oberlin.

Mr. Dill in his address dwelt largely on graft. Incidentally he said:

Graft is the advanced stage of the craze for unearned money. Primarily it is not so much the desire to get something for nothing, or, rather it is not only the desire to get something for nothing, but it is an attempt to get something in consideration of the grafter's parting with something that really does not belong to him. It is a wrong greater than that of the counterfeiter, who merely makes and passes counterfeit coin. The grafter is a man who robs the counterfeiter, who made the coin, and then passes the spurious coin to the public as genuine. The essential element of graft is a breach of trust. Graft is well nigh universal. We meet it in its various forms everywhere. Its most common form, however, is in the illicit use of power or authority. The legislator who is influenced by the argument which appeals to his pocket rather than to his sense of civic obligation, practices a form of graft which is dangerous to the community. The public is awakened now to the danger of this man. We know him; we understand him. Some day, and none too soon, we shall refuse to vote for him, and then he will pass away.

"Conversely, is it not true that the candidate for public office and the public official are ofttimes made the object of attack by grafters? The demands on men in public life to bear expenses—"campaign," so-called, and otherwise—to make contributions to every possible and often impossible object, come close to the line of 'graft.' Many a man in public life, otherwise honest, has been made dishonest, has been forced into graft, and by grafters, because of his inability to say 'No;' because of his lack of moral courage to refuse requests for money, legitimate perhaps, but beyond his means.

"Another graft is that of the officer in a financial institution who is influenced in the use of the funds of the institution by any consideration other than the good of the institution. Such a man is dangerous to the community—as dangerous as the political grafter—but we do not always recognize him. His position is so high and his form of graft is so insidious that its existence ofttimes is not suspected until the explosion resulting from his grafting has injured the community and made the man and his practices notorious; but too late. The director of a corporation who directs its affairs from the viewpoint of his own pocket rather than from the standpoint of the stockholers' interest, although he may not be indicted by a Grand Jury, is none the less a social highwayman.

"And this crime is common. It is an every-day occurrence. It is an ordinary form of graft. There is ground for the assertion that because the men who do these things are too high up, because they have vast capital and great influence back of them, their acts are designated 'operations' rather than 'crimes;' and as such are applauded, not punished. The dummy director of a great company who dummyizes himself for pay, whether by the year or by the job, who uses his position to control the use and disposition of other people's money for personal gain is in no position to criticise the clerk who falsifies his accounts, or the employe who embezzles. Yet we hear of instances of men who have stolen millions having sent to jail employes who had taken only hun*dreds or thousands of dollars.*

"Now whose fault is this? It is ours. It is the fault of public opinion, and public opinion is our opinion, yours and mine—yours of me, mine of you, ours of all the rest. We must learn to recognize graft and the grafters, however respectable their disguise—and to punish them, not alone by imprisonment and fine, but with all the might of the terrible scorn of society. We have to recognize that the seeds of socialism, revolution and anarchy are sown by the man of our own class and kind who pretends to be what he is not, and they are cultivated by the grafting bank officer, insurance officer, man in power in financial organizations, in short, by every grafter who in his dealings with the public departs openly or secretly from old fashioned Ten-Commandment honesty.

"I say again that the fault is not with the corporate form, the aggregation, the association, but with the individual. I repeat that the reformer who only attacks corporations inveighs against form rather than substance. He is missing, perhaps he is avoiding, the issue.

"It is easier for the preacher to discuss sin in the abstract than from the pupilt to indicate the members of his congregation who are sinners. So it is easier to condemn theories, associations, platforms and organizations than point the finger at the offending men or men and specify the wrong. But that is too easy, and it is too innocuous. Our national evils are personal evils and reform must begin with educated men and women.

"We need, we must have, character. Many men of education, of power, financial and political, seem to develop a two-faced conscience, one for business use and another for the individual life. This is fraud. I say that a man who attempts to do business upon one basis of morals and live as an individual upon another basis is a fraud.

"The man who would not cheat in a $1.50 transaction, but would cheat in a million-dollar deal, is living on a false basis. If any man attempts to pluck his heart out of his living body, hoping to replace it without meanwhile becoming a corpse, he makes a physical mistake. The man who attempts to take his conscience out of his body as he enters his banking house, or his business house, or who, when he attends directors' meetings, or a syndicate conference, attempts to leave his conscience on the doorstep, like a half burned ci*gar, while he attends to business,* will find nothing but a cold remnant when he returns—a dead conscience

"The practise of doing, or acquiescing in the doing, by men in syndicates or as members of a corporate aggregation of acts which the individual would not do in his private life, upon the theory that syndicate and corporate morality is one thing, and individual morality is another, results in the total suppression of individual honesty and morality. In short, the man who inserts the plank in his tehory of daily living or in his theological belief that his corporate acts will be judged by one standard and his individual acts by another, here or hereafter, makes a mistake."

DEEDS RECORDED.

Transfers of Plainfield Realty Filed at Elizabeth.

These transfers of Plainfield real estate have been recorded in Register Smith's office:

Mary Spangenberg et al. to Minnie M. Trout, lot 7, block 11, Map of Plainfield Real Estate Co....$3,100

Alice Ferdon et al. to Cormick Caulfield, Washington street, corner Amy L. Moore ................$1

B. Frank Coriell, sheriff, to National B. L. and Provident Association, Centre street, corner Second Baptist Church ............$3,000

Josephine Carman to A. Welles Stump, northeasterly side Lee place, corner West Sixth street ......$1

Nelson Runyon et ux. to Edward J. Brookins, northerly side Lake street, 140 feet easterly of Hillside avenue ......................$1

Clara A. Miller et al. to Ida Rosenson, northerly side Spooner avenue, corner Manning's land .......$1,550

Improved Building Lot Association of N. J. and Pa. to Alexander Frazee, northwesterly side West Third street, 250 feet northeasterly of View avenue .............$185

Same to Lloyd Hampton, northwesterly side West Third street, 387 feet northeasterly of View avenue ........................$185

Central N. J. Land Improvement Co. to Horace G. Kimble, southeasterly side North avenue, 1,100 feet southwesterly of Clinton avenue.$100

George R. Weber et ux. to Louis Schiff, northeasterly side Spooner avenue, corner Third street ....$1

Florret Wormser et ux. to Isaac Shrager, Fourth street, corner F. B. Chetwood ....................$1

Thomas Minford et ux. to George M. Holstein, Watchung avenue, 155 feet of Hillside avenue ....$30,000

New Idea for a Wedding.

At a large church wedding, held in a Pennsylvania town last week, a novel idea was introduced which will doubtless be followed by many brides all over the country.

Preceding the bride up the aisle were two little pages, each bearing in his hands a very handsome white satin pillow, the size of an ordinary sofa cushion, and with the initials stamped in gold on the top.

The boys deposited these pillows at the altar where the happy couple would pledge their vows, and then stood aside while the ceremony was performed. After the bridal procession started for the door the pages again stepped forward and bore the pillows out.

This aroused the curiosity of the guests, and upon inquiry it was found that the cushions contained the love letters which had passed between the couple during their courtship. The bridegroom's pillow contained the missives sent by the bride and the bride's from the bridegroom. That the correspondence had been voluminous was shown by the fact that nothing else was used to fill the cushions.

Here is a chance for Plainfield brides to adopt a new idea, and also a way of having old missives put in some safe receptacle and not turn up when house cleaning comes around.

New Voting Machine Shown.

A new voting machine is on exhibition in the corridor of the State House at Trenton. It is the Dial machine and is made in New York. The makers claim for it that it is absolutely impossible for persons on the outside to tell how the voter operating the machine is voting.

LITERARY.

As a race, we have been working, in the domains of law and government, for centuries, not to abolish high office, but to regulate it by proper checks and balances so that it may work for the good of the many; and, in the domain of economics, it is equally out task not to attack large fortunes in themselves, but intelligently and without hysterics to set about the creation of checks and balances by which gerat power in the form of wealth may be so controlled that it will do no injury to the many—J. Laurence Laughlin, in the July Atlantic.

The boys and girls are represented in the National's July frontispieces, the former with a laughable picture of a home-made "sailomobile," the latter with a charming photographic study of My Dear Rag Doll. New and attractive snapshot photographs of Senators, foreign ministers, British and American naval officers and society leaders, with fine portraits of Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks and Senators Lafollette and Alger, are among the illustrations of Affairs at Washington.

Collier's for July 1 compares the relative honor of the United States Senate and a State Governorship by saying: "Governor La Follette's willingness to go to Washington just after he had acquired control of Wisconsin, has caused surprise. At one time such a choice would have been unheard of. Formerly the Senate was often a step to the Governorship, never the converse, but the subsiding of State rights and the increase of central power have lessened the once proud post of Governor and given vastly greater importance to an office which used to be held mainly for the purpose of expressing in Congress the wishes of a State Legislature."

The Popular Science Monthly for July contains the following articles: "Recent Discoveries in Heredity and Their Bearing on Animal Breeding," by Professor W. E. Castle; "Present Monetary Problems," by Professor J. Lawrence Laughlin; "The Vegetable Fibers of the Philippine Islands," by H. Taylor Edwards; "The Climate of the Central American Plateau," by Gustave Michaud; "The Science Problems of the Twentieth Century," by Professor A. E. Dolbear; "Human and Other Forms of Consciousness," by Dr. Henry Rutgers Marshall; "The Preparation and Properties of Colloidal Mixtures," by Professor Arthur A. Noyes; "The University of Virginia."

That Argentina is moving ahead with proverbial leaps and bounds is proved by the fact that her foreign commerce, the best thermometer of a country's prosperity, increased $90,000,000 in 1904 over the total for 1903, which was $360,000,000. Estimating her population, as before stated, at 5,000,000 she has in the present total of $451,463,000 the remarkable average of nealy $90 per head, or a far greater average than the United States or any of the principal European countries. If this lusty young giant of South America keeps progressing at this rate, it will be difficult to estimate her trade and wealth when she has a population of 25,000,000. Unfortunately for the United States, our trade exchange with Argentina ranks fourth among foreign countries, or after Great Britain, Germany, and France.—From "Argentina: The Wonderland of South America," by John Barrett, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for July.

The Greeks never had the idea that a work of art could be created by rule. They were realists to an eminent degree, and believed only what their experience taught them. (By the way, our schools exist solely upon the experiences they have not gone through—the experiences of others.) For them, an edifice had to please the eye and satisfy their instinctive and imperious desire to be logical, and logic demands that the forms shall be appropriate to the functions; that, just as legs are intended for walking, so supports ought to have something to support. —Jean Schoepfer, in the Architectural Record Magazine.

The Forum for July-September opens with an article on "American Politics" by Henry Litchfield West, in which the question of municipal *ownership, as well as other impor*tant topics of the day, are broadly discussed. "Foreign Affairs," and especially the diplomatic features of the war in the Far East, are comprehensively treated by A. Maurice Low. In his article on "Finance" Mr. Alexander D. Noyes reviews the principal developments in that department during the past three months. A broad survey of the great architectural activity in the United States is afforded by Prof. A. D. F. Hamlin's paper on "Archtecture." Important features of recent educational activity are discussed by Ossian H. Lang, in the paper entitled "The Educational Outlook," while "Applied Science," in all its latest developments, is ably treated by H. H. Suplee. An interesting paper by Herbert W. Horwill on "Recent Fiction," which concludes this series of "Reviews," is followed by three special articles entitled "Women in Turkey," by Mary Mills Patrick; "The British Invasion of Tibet," by Mohammad Barakatullah; and "The Rupture Between Norway and Sweden," by Julius Moritzen.

Public Library Suggestions for Summer Reading.

The indespensable qualifications for a summer book for the average reader are that it shall be light as to matter and light as to weight, for one must not weight a trunk too heavily with boks, nor can a quarto be comfortably read in a hammock. There is a third qualification for those who during the year are too busy to read much and who do not want to feel that their summer reading is merely to pass the time: that the book shall be worth reading.

I now offer the following, all of which fulfil the above conditions, to teachers especially, as suggestions as to what books to read in the summer. To the more systematic reader, the Library will be glad to give in*formation* as to the best books in a given line.

Evelyn's Diary and correspondence. "Covers the period, 1641-1705 and forms a good complement to Pepy's. The author was a devoted Tory.'

Critical and historical essays of Thomas Babington Macaulay. Of these, I would suggest the following: Mme. d'Arblay, Earl of Chatham, Warren Hastings, Lord Clive, Addison.

Poe's Tales. The Library has all these in a neat little edition. Some of the most famous are, "The fall of the House of Usher," "Hop-frog," and "The murders in the Rue Morgue," the last being one of the best detective stories of literature.

Sir Roger de Coverly papers by Addison. "He is humane. Man is the one interesting thing to him; he is never weary of tracking out human character into its shyest recesses, of studying human conduct, of watching *the play of human thought and feel*ing, of contrasting man's infinite capacities of greatness with his infinite capacity for littleness." John R. Green.

Island fisherman by Pierre Loti. A very charming little story, both the French original and the English translation of which are in the Library.

The simple life by Charles Wagner. The little book by the famous Protestant pastor, which has been so widely read. Other of his books are "Youth," "The better way," etc.; the former of which the Library also owns in French for those who prefer to read it in the original.

Bab ballads, much sound and little sense, by W. S. Gilbert. Illustrated by the author. Of the Ballads, the author says, "I do not know that I have anything very definite to say about them, except that they are not as a rule founded on fact," which is as delightful as anything in the Ballads themselves.

"In the dozy hours." This is by that charming essayist, Agnes Repplier; one would find any other of her books equally interesting, but this contains the essay: "On behalf of parents," which is sure to interest teachers especially.

Abbe Daniel by Andre Theuriet. A charming little idyl of French country life, pure in tone and of admirable literary quality.

"The life of Samuel Johnson." Its size has heretofore deterred many from reading this much recommended book. The Library now has it in six dainty little volumes, which are light and easy to hold, and the type is good.

"Some fruits of solitude." Of this book by Willian Penn, so popular in the eighteenth century, Robert Louis Stevenson says, "Even the copy was dear to me....carried in my pocket all about San Francisco streets, read in street cars and ferry boats, when I was sick unto death, and found in all times and places a sweet and peaceful companion.....For while, just now, we are so busy and intelligent, there is not the man living—nor re*cently dead*—that could put with so lovely a spirit so much honest, kind wisdom in words."

Essays of Douglas Jerrold, new edition by his grandson. A charming edition, with Brock's illustrations, of the essays of the author of the popular "Mrs. Claudle' Curtain Lectures." He himself says of his essays, "It will be our chief object to make every essay, however brief and however light and familiar in its treatment, breathe with a purpose." "That this conviction," says the editor, "was at the back of the greater part of Douglas Jerrold's writings no student of his works can fail to recognize."

"Diary of Samuel Pepys." The Braybrooke edition in one handy little volume, with clean, good type, the thinness of the paper which yet does not show through, makes possible its compression in one volume. "A miracle among human books," says Stevenson. "He was not unconscious of his errors, far from it; he was often startled into shame, often reformed, often made and broke vows of change. But whether he did ill or well, he was still his own unequalled self; still that entrancing ego of whom alone he cared to write."

Tabb, John. Poems and Child life. "Whatever his matter, Father Tabb's workmanship is always extremely finished; his stanzas are cut and polished like cameos or gems." Athenaeum, September, 1903.

If you are leaving town for a few weeks in the summer, be sure and ask about the Library's special summer arrangement for teachers.

Handball Tournament.

A handball tournament on the new court in the athletic field back of the Y. M. C. A. is being talked over by the association members who follow the game.

TRUELL INN'S ADDITION

Architect's Plans For Four Story Structure on Eighth Street.

42 MORE ROOMS.

Mrs. J. R. Truell Will Award Contract for a Big Addition to Her Park Avenue Hostelry.

Architect E. V. French has completed plans for the proposed addition and improvements to be made at Truell Inn, Park avenue, of which Mrs. J. R. Truell is proprietress. Mrs. Truell has decided to build a four story addition on West Eighth street, and the two buildings will be connected by spacious hallways. She does not propose to make any special improvements in Truell Inn, other than to convert the present large dining room into a private one for special parties or families.

The new addition will be of cement or solid concrete and will contain forty-two rooms, including a new dining room and new kitchen. On the first floor there will be the large dining room and three bedrooms, while there will be thirteen bed-rooms on each of the second, third and fourth floors, with all the modern improvements.

The exact arrangement has not been definitely decided but there will probably be separate bath-rooms for every two or three rooms and in some cases individual suits will have a separate bath. The entire structure will be equipped throughout with every known improvement and convenience. The kitchen will be located in the basement and will be modern in every respect.

At present Mrs. Truell is securing estimates for the work and she hopes to be able to award the several contracts within a short time. Since taking hold of Truell Court several years ago, Mrs. Truell has had remarkable success and she was obliged to seek additional quarters to accommodate her patrons. She did this by taking what is now known as Truell Inn and the accommodations being limited there, she has decided to build the proposed addition.

TITLED WOMAN GETS DIVORCE.

Lady Grey-Egerton Legally Separated—Formerly Miss Mae Cuyler.

Lady Grey-Egerton, of London, England, has secured a divorce through the London courts from her husband, Sir Philip Grey-Egerton, on the ground of desertion. She was formerly Miss Mae Cuyler, daughter of the late Major J. Wayne Cuyler, U. S. A., being born and reared in Morristown.

She married Sir Philip in 1893, and her American friends who visited her from time to time believed her most happily wedded until about a year ago, when Sir Philip went to India, and Lady Grey-Egerton practically withdrew from society, devoting herself to her family. As Sir Philip continued to absent himself, the American girl determined not to have her position misunderstood and brought a suit in the divorce court for a "restitution of her conjugal rights."

A decree was issued directing Sir Philip to return and live with his wife or else show in a suit brought by him that he was justified in abandoning her. He took no notice of the mandate of the court, and Lady Grey-Egerton then instituted a suit for absolute divorce on the ground of desertion.

Transfers of Real Estate.

The following transfers of real estate in the borough have been recorded in the Somerset county clerk's office:

Samuel M. Titus et ux. to Louis A. Moraller ...............$2,800

Diocese of Trenton to St. Gabriel's Academy ..............$1

*Fidelity Trust Co. to John D. Run*yon .........................$1

J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Co. to Ida J. Heideloff ..................$1

Thomas H. Taylor et ux. to Edward C. Martin ..............$700

Thomas H. Taylor et ux. to Ellis M. Potter ..................$575

Mary A. Gregory to Wm. M. Culbertson .......................$1

Edward Stine et ux to Ellen S. Bodine .......................$1

Back to Dunellen.

After four years' residence in Concordia, Kansas, Mrs. Catherine Cain, 91 years old, has again taken up her residence in Dunellen, making her home with her brother, C. W. Blaine Mrs. Cain was accompanied on her trip East by her half-sister, Mrs. John T. Davids, who is now visiting at the home of A. V. Langer, of Watchung avenue. Mrs. Cain is an exceedingly bright woman for her age.

Acquires the Demler Property.

H. C. Meyers, the Scotch Plains groceryman, has purchased the well known Demler property at Watchung. He recently bought from Mrs. George Williams the grocery business located in the store building, and it is now being conducted by his son. The property has been in the Demler family for a great many years and has probably the best location in the village.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Fifteen Interesting Biographs for Young People.

Bolton, Mrs. S. K.—Famous types of womanhood. "Each portrait presents a distinct phase of womanly influence; each has its lesson of faith, endurance and love for others." Literary world, Oct., 1893.

Liefde, Jacob de.—Great Dutch admirals. "Account of the doings of some of the brave men who fought at sea for the freedom of the Netherlands in the 17th century. *Full of adventure interest*ing to boys."

Plutarch.—Boys' and girls' Plutarch. "Retells in simple and condensed form the most interesting portions of Plutarch's Lives, following Clough's translation. Well illustrated, attractively printed and bound. The best edition for boys and girls."

Waters, Mrs. C. E. C.—Stories of art and artists. "Entertaining short stories that will remain in the memory and interest children in the works of art. Attractively illustrated."

Lossing, B. J.—Two spies. "Brief account of two notable spies of contrasting characters in our war for independence. Contains the 'Monody on Major Andre by Miss Seward and some letters to him. Spirited and full of interest."

Abbott, J. S. C.—"Picturesque and entertaining narrative of a kind of life now unknown. The excit*ing adventures are vividly* related and the interest is sustained throughout."

Seelye, Mrs. E. E.—Story of Columbus. "Perhaps the best brief popular biography, dwelling with considerable detail on his voyages and discoveries and giving the results of scholarly researches. Style clear, smooth and direct."

Besant, Sir Walter.—Captain Cook. "Vivid, picturesque and unaffected, specially interesting to older boys. Based on good authorities."

Custer, Mrs. E. B.—Boots and saddles. "Delightful picture of the heroe's personality by his wife, with vivid descriptions of garrison and camp life."

Lonsdale, Margaret.—Sister Dora. "Record of a life devoted to the *sick poor. Sister Dora was a mem*ber of the Good Samaratan."

Franklin, Benjamin. — Autobiography. "A simple account of Franklin's life, delightful to read and one of the best examples of American literature. Franklin brought the story of his fiftieth year and the remainder is told chiefly through his letters."

Seawell, N. E.—Paul Jones. "Story of biography of the ranking officer of the continental mariners, full of his adventures in British waters during the revolution. Based on good authorities and in the fictitious parts consistent with his recorded life and deeds."

Brooks, E. S.—True story of Abraham Lincoln. "Entertaining and simple narrative for younger children. Many illustrations of vary*ing merit.*"

Seawell, N. E.—Midshipman Paulding. "Story of the son of the John Paulding, famous for his capture of Major Andre; vivacious and true to fact."

Bourne, H. R. F.—Sir Philip Sidney. "Attractive and instructive, facts well grouped and told in the simplest language. Trustworthy as history, picturesque and dramatic as a story."

Brooks, E. S.—True story of George for children, with emphasis on Washington. "Entertainingly told the details interesting to them. Fully illustrated."

The above list was taken from the Bibliographical Bulletin of the New York State Library.

NEGROES ARE BARRED.

Bath-house Proprietor Refuses Bathing Suit to Colored Man.

The refusal on the part of a downtown bath-house propritor at Atlan*tic City to let a suit to* a wealthy New York negro has stirred up considerable excitement among the negroes there. A threat has been made that since the bath-house keepers on the lower boardwalk practically have agreed not to give bathing suits to negroes the entire beach will be used by the race for bathing purposes. Heretofore the negroes have been supplied with suits by a negro bath-house keep in Texas avenue. This year the place is closed, and as there is no other negro bathing house here the negro must provide himself with his own suit and walk to the beach from his home or boarding-place.

Free Band Concerts!

By signing the bill authorizing second class cities to make appropriations for music in the parks the Governor makes it possible to have open air concerts in Paterson, Camden, Trenton, Hoboken, Elizabeth, Bayonne, Passaic, Orange, East Orange, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Plainfield and Bridgeton. Wonder how many of these places will provide music in their parks?—Jersey City Journal.

Mr. Pope's New Mansion.

Workmen have broken ground for the erection of F. A. Pope's new residence at Park avenue and East Fifth street. Architecturally it will be one of the handsomest buildings in that section.

METHODISTS' CONVENTION

Expected That 20,000 Delegates Will Attend the Epworth League Meeting.

Among Methodists a wide interest is shown in the approaching seventh international convention of the Epworth League to be held in Denver, July 6 to 9. New Jersey will furnish a number of the speakers, including Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead, pastor of the Centenary church, Newark; Rev. W. B. Fleming, of Maplewood; Rev. Charles S. Kemble, of Elizabeth; Rev. Dr. John Hanley, of Long Branch, and Rev. Dr. J. W. Marshall, of Ocean Grove. Two former Jerseymen, who will take a conspicuous part, are Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, to whose former pastorate in Newark Dr. Mead succeeded, and Rev. Dr. Stephen J. Herben, editor of The Epworth Herald, who recently removed from Maplewood to Chicago. Bishop Joseph F. Berry, who presided at the April session of the Newark Conference, is the league's president.

Mr. Kremble heads the excursion committee of the second general conference district, Epworth League, and serving with him are Dr. Mead and Mr. Fleming. Other members are Rev. George Aadms, of Bay Ridge, Brooklyn; Rev. J. A. Hensey, of Binghamton, N. Y., until recently of the Newark Conference, and W. O. Gantz, of New York. They have charge of the arrangements for the transportation of the Epworthians from this section to Denver, and have negotiated with the Lehigh Valley Railroad to run a special train, and two if necessary. The train will leave Newark at 9:57 o'clock, Monday morning, July 3. The only stop-off of any length will be made at Chicago, where a tally-ho ride will be taken around the city. The delegates are scheduled to arrive in Denver early Wednesday night, July 5. The Temple Emanuel has been assigned to the New Jersey contingent for use as a State headquarters, and the visitors from Newark will be welcomed to Denver by former Jersey people living in that city.

Apparanetly no efforts have been spared by the Denver Epworthians in providing for their entertainment of the great throng. They and the different State committees have secured from many of the railroads special rates, and the officials will so arrange the running of trains that the delegates will not have to travel on Sunday. For several months the Denver committee has been holding meetings, and recently announced that, although it was expected there will be 20,000 delegates, accommodations can be furnished for twice the number, is necessary. Besides the "city fathers" and the commercial organizations of Denver, the State officials have assisted the committee in every way the could. At a recent meeting of the Colorado Legislature a resolution was passed by which that body declared to officially welcome the delegates.

Churches of all denominations in the city have been put at the disposal of the leaguers, but the meet*ings proper will be held in Coliseum* Hall, the Central Presbyterian and the Trinity Methodist churches. Dr. Herben and other members of the general committee have recently been to Denver to inspect the places of meeting to se ehow the local plans were progr ssing. He and his associates are having a large silk banner made, to be awarded to the State having the largest delegation. Colorado, Wyoming and Nevada will not be counted in the contest.

William J. Bryan has accepted an invitation to make an address, and there are a number of bishops on the programme also. Most of the sessions will be presided over by a biship. Others who are scheduled to be there aside from Bishops Spellmeyer and Perry, are Bishops Isaac W. Joyce, Eearl Cranston and Henry W. Warren. The address of welcome on behalf of the city and the State will be made by Governor J. F. McDon-

A convention badge of artistic design has been prepared. The metal part is made of copper, gold and silver mined in Colorado. The Italian band, "Banda Rosso," has been engaged to give two concerts every day inthe city park during the convention, and a chorus of 300 voices will render the oratorio "Elijah" Wednesday night, July 5, and the follow*ing Monday night. The general con*vention headquarters will be in the East Denver High School, and Dr. G. M. Edwards, chairman of the committee on medical relief, will have a central hospital station arranged. This will be equipped with drugs and appliances, and twenty-five skilled physicians and trained nurses will be in attendance. There will also be ambulances on hand. Side trips have been arranged for those who do not care to attend all the conferences. Some of these excursions will be to Cripple Creek, the Continental Divide, over "the Loop," Piks' Peak, the Switzerland Trail, Glenwood Springs and other points in the Rocky mountains.

The total membership of the Epworth League in this country is about 1,750,000.

Miss Edith Lacey Engaged.

Mrs. Ellen Lacey, of East Seventh street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Edith J. Lacey, to Charles Marshall Suhr, East Fourth street. Mr. Suhr is organist of St. Stephen's church.

GILBERT FOR SENATOR

Former Mayor Being Urged to Allow His Candidacy Being Announced.

FOR HARMONY'S SAKE

Something About the Distinguished Man Who May be the Successor of Judge Cross in the Senate.

If he can be prevailed upon to become Plainfield's choice, it is quite probable that former Mayor Alexander Gilbert will be the next Senator from Union county. Prominent men, not mixed up in factional politics, have been urging the distinguished man, who has been an honor to this city as an official and as a private citizen, to allow his name to be used in this connection. It is said that he is giving the matter consideration, but is not willing, as yet, to give his consent to the boom.

Plainfield can have the nomination, according to Hamilton Kean, the former county chairman, and right hand man of his brother, U. S. Senator John Kean, and other leaders, if it will come to the county convention with a solid delegation. It is known that there would be factional opposition to both Ernest R. Ackerman and William N. Runyon, and this fact has led prominent Republicans who do not wish to see the party divided against itself to pick out the best man that can be named, the only condition being that he would be agreeable to all factions. Former Mayor Gilbert is such a man, and he will be urged to be the county convention with a solid delegation. It is known that there would be factional opposition to both Ernest R. Ackerman and William N. Runyon, and this fact has led prominent Republicans who do not wish to see the party divided against itself to pick out the best man that can be named, the only condition being that he would be agreeable to all factions. Former Mayor Gilbert is such a man, and he will be urged to allow the boom to be started.

Mr. Gilbert is a native of Elizabeth. His father was an iron founder and inventor. For a time the father resided at New Haven, Conn., and there the son had the advantage of a good preparatory school education, intending to enter Yale. Two years later the family removed to Brooklyn, N. Y., where the son continued his education. His first business experience was with the firm of Tuttle & Bailey, where he remained three years. He then entered the hardware house of W. W. Seymore & Co., New York, as cashier. In 1859 he entered the Market Bank, of New York, as second assistant receiving teller. Four years later, when but twenty-four years of age, he became the cashier, being the youngest holding that responsible position in the city. In 1890 he was appointed cashier and vice-president. In 1887 he was offered the presidency of the Fulton Bank, but declined, and since that time the two banks consolidated. He is now president of the Market and Fulton Bank, and has declined numerous offers to become the head of other banking concerns.

Mr. Gilbert became a resident of Plainfield in 1866. He was elected to the Common Council in 1870 and served for a number of years in that capacity. He was also one of the commissioners for the revision of the city's charter. A good measure of praise is due him for the part he took in the fight to have the railroad tracks elevated through the city. In 1890 he was elected Mayor, which position he held until 1896, in the last two campaigns having no opponent. He declined further honors in that capacity on account of the pressure of business. In politics he has always been a sterling Republican. In 1888 he was a delegate to the National Convention and was honored by being named as one of the committee to notify Benjamin Harrison of his nomination to the Presidency.

Mr. Gilbert was one of the founders of the local Y. M. C. A. and its first president. He has been a trustee of the First Baptist church for twenty years. He is a member of the Park Club, the Park Golf Club, the Plainfield Country Club, the Fulton Club, of New York, and many other social and fraternal organizations.

NEW TRANSFERS.

P. S. C. Puts Slips and Rules to Stop Trouble In the Service.

To end the disputes between passengers and conductors over transfers, a new transfer slip has been put into service by the P. S. C. Under the rules governing the new transfers conductors are forbidden even to listen to explanations from passengers with wrong or improperly punched transfers. The passenger must give the proper transfer or pay his fare. He is to contest in his explanation in respect of a wrong transfer he may file a kick at the nearest office of the company.

The new transfers are of two kinds. Those for service after 1 p. m. have a coupon attached, which must be left on by the passenger before tendering the transfer to the conductor. The a. m. transfer has no coupon.

Charter Extended.

The National State Bank, one of Elizabeth's solid institutions, has just had its charter extended for another twenty years by the comptroller nouncement is published on another of the treasury. The bank was first organized in 1812, and it will therefore soon be celebrating its centennial.

C. E. BROOKS RESIGNS AS HOSPITAL SECRETARY

REPORT OF MONTH'S WORK AT MUHLENBERG.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at its regular meeting on Monday night, adopted resolutions in regard to the death of Captain James Franklin Hubbard, one of the oldest members of that board. Charles E. Brooks, as secretary, resigned his position on account of the pressure of other duties, and the resignation was accepted with great regret, Mr. Brooks having filled the office for many years with remarkable faithfulness and efficiency. The other business was of a routine character.

The report of the medical staff of patients treated during June, showed that at last report there were thirty-seven patients remaining in the hospital. There were thirty-seven patients admitted, making a total of eighty-nine treated. There were discharged cured forty-five patients; improved, 13; unimproved, 2; died, 4; remaining, 25. There were forty-eight operations. There were fifty patients in the dispensary, 151 visits of patients and fourteen operations.

DON'T WORRY.

Words of Wisdom for Those Who Look on the Dark Side of Life.

Don't fuss.
It's just so much time wasted.
If things go wrong, try to find a remedy, but don't wear yourself out, soul and body, by worrying yourself and every one else.
Did you ever hear the rhyme about the "worry over?" It runs:
The worry cow would have lived till now,
If she had not lost her breath:
But she feared her hay would not last all day,
So she worried herself to death.
There are hundreds of us behaving in exactly the same way as that foolish cow.
We are worrying over what we have done, what we have not done, and what we think we will do.
Now, the one thing we might worry over with some reason is the thing we are doing at present.
But we are so occupied with what is past and can't be helped, and what is to come and cannot be foreseen, that we neglect the golden present, that is ours to make or mar.
Worying produces a state of mind that unfits one for clear judgment.
Don't worry over tomorrow; you take care of today and tomorrow will take care of itself.
No person is more depressing than the one who is always fussing and fretting and can't enjoy life for fear something will go wrong.
Try to make the most of every joy or pleasure that comes your way.
See the bright side of things rather than the dark.
Oh, the comfort of meeting a person whose brow is not snarled up by lines of fuss and worry!
Serenity is a beautiful thing. Of course, it can only come to those whose minds are at peace, and peace cannot come to all of us. But undoubtedly we can do much toward achieving it by controlling our inclination to fret.
The fretful face can never be beautiful, no matter how perfect its coloring and features may be.
But there are some faces plain of feature whose serenity of expression sheds a positive benediction abroad.
Sometimes when one is walking on a crowded thoroughfare, watch the expression of the faces you pass.
Nine out of ten will wear a worried look.
Relaxation seems unknown to the average American.
Men, women and even children are continually strung to the highest pitch. They begin to worry before they out of bed, and they don't stop until sleep closes their eyes at night.
Don't spoil today by yesterday and tomorrow; make the very most of what you have, and above all things don't look and talk as if there were nothing good or bright or beautiful on earth.
Your troubles are not any worse than other people's.
But if you fret and worry over every trifle you will accumulate enough imaginary troubles to spoil your life.—Exchange.

TWO WIVES?

Contest Over the Estate of a Millstone Man.

The contest in the estate of the late Stephen Whitmore, of Millstone, who left some valuable real estate and valuable personal property, in the Somerset County Orphans' Court, is over the letter of administration. Abram Q. Whitmore has asked for as has Bona Whitmore.

He is a brother of the deceased, and she claims to be his widow. It is alleged, however, that Whitmore's wife is living at Middletown, N. Y. Bona Whitmore, however, has a marriage certificate, which seems to be in due form, and promises to make things warm for anyone who disputes her right. The hearing will be before Judge Schenck the last Friday in August.

Some Excursions.

The annual excursions of the Sunday-schools of the Crescent Avenue church, Bethel chapel, Grace, Holy Cross, St. Stephen's and Heavenly Rest churches to Asbury Park will take place on Thursday, July 13.

WOOD MAY LESSEN THIRTY YEARS TERM

MURDERER CAN CHOP OFF LENGTH OF SENTENCE BY WORK.

George H. Wood, the murderer of Grocer Williams who was sentenced to thirty years in prison for the crime, is to be given a chance by the State to lessen the term in addition to the time taken off for good behavior. According to the rules of the Trenton penitentiary, a prisoner who is a skilled mechanic and can give the authorities the benefit of his knowledge is allowed a shortening of sentence. Wood is an expert iron erector and when the new wing to the prison is started he will be set to work upon it. For every day that he spends in labor this way, his term will be lessened that much.

Since his entrance to the prison, Wood has been given no set occupation but has been allowed to do odd jobs about the corridor. He conducts himself like an "old timer" and not once has he been rebuked for any infraction of the rules. To the few friends that have been allowed to see him he has confided the fact that he some day hopes to have the truth of his wonderful "little black man" story proven and to secure his freedom.

New Jersey's Advantages.

Reports in New York newspapers of the offensive and nauseating atmosphere that has existed in the subway from the beginning of the hot weather gives the New Jersey commuter a chance to have a laugh on his Harlem brethren. As one of our contemporaries puts it, "The first sultry day that dawned on New York city after the subway was opened convinced thousands of Gothamites that their underground thoroughfare was anything but the unalloyed blessing they hoped and expected it would be. Down beneath the sidewalks, the cellars, the streets, the gutters, and the sewers it was stifling hot. The atmosphere was not merely bad, it was intolerable. The heat was suffocating, the offensiveness was nauseating and the moisture was parboiling. This is what it now is every warm, humid day that comes. What it will be in the heat of July and August can well be imagined.

In one New York paper this morning the statement is made that "down in the subway the air was just a shade less than stifling when the official mercury marked the hottest June 18 day on record. People who pushed their way into the cabins to the subway stations got a whiff from the lower regions and made for the open elevated structure, but it was 10 degrees worse underground."

The explanation given for the miserable air in the subway is that during the cold weather the temperature in the subway is higher than it is outside. As a result the warmer, lighter air arises through every opening, the cold air fills to take its place and thus a kind of circulation is established which changes the subway air and keeps it more or less pure. But in hot weather the subway air stays in the underground tunnel until it is thick with anything that vitiated air can hold in suspension. And this is the hot, moist, unclean stuff that the subway passengers have to breathe on sultry days, churned up for them by the moving trains.

The way to avoid this parboiling experience is to live in New Jersey. Instead of suffering all stifling office down into a nauseating underground passage way, it is far better to go down to a ferry, get a breath of air from off the river and then, after a ride of half or three-quarters of an hour in a cool, well-ventilated railroad train, get off within sight of a house set in a green lawn, surrounded by roses and foliage, backed by a garden full of all sorts of fresh vegetables and the whole open to the bright, healthful, pure air. The soft zephyrs and the singing of the birds.

Harlem real estate may be booming but when the people of New York awake to the advantages of New Jersey, property over here will sizzle.—Hackensack Record.

SOMERVILLE WANTS GAMES.

Seek a Series of Three With Plainfield.

The management of the Somerville Baseball Association will arrange to meet Manager Daab, of the Plainfield team, on Monday night after the local game, for the purpose of arranging a series. The Somervillians want one game at the county seat and in return will play two games in Plainfield. They are just as enthusiastic as ever and feel sure that they can defeat Plainfield. They have signed three infield players from the Hudsons of the Hudson River League.

The new field at Somerville has been put in excellent condition at a cost of $750, and tomorrow the season will open, with a game in the morning with the Bayonne A. C., and Clark's O. N. T. in the afternoon. The president of the Board of Commissioners will officially open the season by tossing out a new ball from his box in the grandstand. In the morning previous to the game, a brass band will march to the field, followed by the club members and the two teams. Galbraith, the star pitcher of the Gettysburg College team, has been signed for the season, and it is understood that the Varsity pitcher for Lafayette College has also been secured.

Gooseberry Receipts.

The following receipts for gooseberries are taken from the New York Evening Telegram:

Spiced Gooseberries.

Top and tail eight pounds nearly ripe gooseberries, and put into a procelain kettle with four pounds of sugar, one pint good cider vinegar, a tablespoonful each pure cinnamon and cloves powdered and tied in little bags. Boil down until quite thick, then can.

Gooseberry Jam.

Top and tail the berries and put them into a preserving kettle with a little water to prevent sticking. Boil an hour, then add sugar which you have allowed in the proportion of proportion of pound for pound. Cook gently, stirring often, until thick. Put into glasses or jars, and when cold cover with paraffine.

Preserved Gooseberries.

These may be preserved in cold water like rhubarb. Select the best of fruit, and having trimmed off the top and stem, pack into glass cans, nearly to the brim. Fill to overflowing with cold water, cover and leave over night. In the morning remove the tops, pour in more water until it runs over the sides, then screw as tight as possible. The berries will have taken up some of the first water over night. Keep the jars in a cool, dark place. These will be almost like the fresh fruit for use in the winter for pies and puddings.

English Gooseberry Tart.

Having prepared the ripe berries, put them into a pie dish, filling them high in the centre. Sprinkle liberally with sugar and add a tablespoonful of water. Line the edge of a dish with pastry, cover and bake in a medium hot oven. Before sending to the table dust with powdered sugar and serve with cream or custard.

Gooseberry Turnovers.

Having made a good light pie crust roll out, leaving it about quarter of an inch in thickness. Cut in circles with a pint basin, lay a few stewed and sweetened gooseberries on one-half of each round, turn the other half over the fruit, pinch the edges together and bake in buttered tins in a hot oven. Sift powdered sugar over them before serving.

Gooseberry Trifle.

Cook one quart of green gooseberries in a double boiler until soft enough to rub through a colander. Sweeten to taste, pour in a glass dish, cover with a boiled custard made of one pint of milk, three eggs and one-half cup of sugar, and heap whipped cream onto.

Gooseberry Fool.

Prepare a quart of ripe gooseberries and stew tender with just enough water to prevent their burning. Rub through a colander, add a half cup granulated sugar, the yolks of four eggs and the whites of two that have been beaten, and a tablespoonful of butter. Put this mixture in a double boiler and stir continually for five minutes until it cooks and thickens. Take from the fire and continue stirring until cold. Pour into glass cups, set on the ice to chill, and when ready to serve put a spoonful of whipped and sweetened cream on top.

Gooseberry Pudding.

Make a batter of one pint of milk, a heaping cup of flour, sifted, with a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder, four eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, a half cup of fine dried bread crumbs and one quart of green gooseberries that have been topped and tailed. Pour in a well buttered mould and steam in boiling water two hours. Serve with hard sauce seasoned with nutmeg or vanilla.

Gooseberry Compote.

Put one cup of currant juice in a porcelain kettle with one and a half of sugar and stir until dissolved. Add two pounds ripe gooseberries, simmer gently half an hour, then take from the fire and leave for several hours. When ready to return to the compote put over the fire and cook until the berries are clear. Take out with a skimmer, put in a glass dish, boil the syrup until quite thick, take from the fire, add a half cup white wine and pour over the berries.

F. W. FROST'S TRIP.

Plainfielder Starts on a Tour Around the World.

Francis W. Frost, of 745 Watchung avenue, secretary of the Courier-News Publishing Company, and assistant treasurer of the Engineering News Publishing Company, started yesterday for an around-the-world trip, to be completed in about four months. He will poin the party of Secretary Taft at San Francisco on Friday, sailing on the "Manchuria" with the party on Saturday, as representative of the two newspapers with which he is associated.

On the return of the party from Manila, Mr. Frost will leave it at Hong Kong, China, and return homeward by Ceylon, India, Egypt and Europe, in addition to the Secretary of War and Col. C. R. Edwards, Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, and who has the direct charge of the party to the Philippines, there are seven United States Senators, twenty-six Representatives and twenty-one other gentlemen; also a number of ladies, including Miss Alice Roosevelt and the wives of members of the party; there are also several distinguished members of the medical profession, besides newspaper men.

Dunellen Won.

Dunellen defeated Clinton Avenue in a closely contested game Saturday afternoon, 2 to 0.

TRANSFER ORPHAN HOME

Asylum at Newark to be Abandoned for Mountainside Resort.

DR. COLE'S GIFT.

Place to be Fitted Up—Plan to Make it the Permanent Home.

It is probable that the new summer home for the little inmates of the Newark City Orphan Asylum, at Mountainside, which, with twenty acres of land, has been given to the institution outright by Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, as a memorial to his mother and her sister, will in a few years be converted into a permanent home, and the present city building in Newark disposed of. As yet, the proposition is only being discussed, and many of the managers hold to the belief that it would be most unwise ever to give up the present quarters, as the site has been used for an asylum for fifty-six years. Still others are of the belief that the wiser course would be to give the little children the benefits of the country, and the new Newark Orphan Asylum might better be transferred entirely to Mountainside, just as the New York Asylum has been transferred to Hastings.

The home, as it is as present, is far from being large enough to accommodate the 196 or more inmates. Plans have been made for the erection of two wings, both of which will be larger than the present house. It is expected that the contracts for the erection of these wings will be signed within the next few days, and that within a fortnight the actual work of putting them up will be begun.

The children, who, as announced, were brought to the home Thursday, are having the time of their lives. The farm has special attractions for children, including cherry trees, apple trees and other fruit trees, grape arbors, barns and henhouses, and best of all, a little brook which is quite too shallow to be a danger and quite deep enough for the tots to have a splendid time. The children had not been in their new quarters half an hour Thursday before their shoes and stockings were off and they were gloried in the delights of "paddling."

When it was found that the new additions could not be put up in time to accommodate the children this summer, Dr. Coles purchased the old Mills church, which stands close by the house, and the little schoolhouse there, where Martha Lamb, sister of the historian, once taught school, and gave the use of these buildings. The former was converted into a dormitory and the pews being removed, and fifty of the white enamel beds, 125 of which Dr. Coles presented to the institution, set up. Here the older boys are housed, the "baby boys," of whom there are ten, being kept in the main house. The schoolhouse has been transformed into a hospital, refinished inside with white pine, and here the children will be taken in case of sickness, there being a trained nurse at the home.

The new home will be known as the Mountainside Memorial Home, instead of the Coles Memorial Home, as was first intended. The additions are to be made on both sides at the rear, and will enlarge the institution so that it will be almost four times its present size. The plans, which are being prepared by W. Frank Bower, architect, call for a thoroughly modern building. The present structure is three stories high, but additions will be two stories. The front of the old building will be altered to conform to the design of the finished structure. Large columns will grace the front of the structure and will support an observation room on the second floor. Two white marble lions will be placed on suitable pedestals at either side of the main entrance. There are to be two dormitories, with accommodations for about 125 children each. Commodious dining, reception and game rooms are to be installed. There will also be a nursery and kindergarten and a large schoolroom.

Each of the extensions to be built are to be forty feet wide and about seventy feet long.

In one of the new wings is to be located the children's dining-room, which will be finished in white enamel. In this room will be erected a memorial window for Mrs. Abraham Coles, the mother of the donor of the home.

Beside the splendid gift of the property and the proposed new additions, Dr. Coles has furnished the home throughout. He gave the new bedsteads, feather pillows, tables, chairs, cutlery and dishes.

The road which goes by the house is much used by automobiles. Near the approach to the property, either way, Dr. Coles had suspended red flags, with a large warning: "Look out for the children." To further protect them he has had built beneath the bridge, which at this point carries the road over the brook, a low platform, beneath the bridge, which the children call their "subway," and which makes it possible for them to cross the brook without going over the road.

There are a large number of farm buildings on the place, including the barn, hen-houses and the workshop. It is probable that in the future there will be another workshop erected where the boys of the institution may study manual training and other industrial branches. The farm is quite extensive. A farmer was secured to work the twenty acres early in the spring, and the asylum has been using the fresh radishes and lettuce from their own grounds. There will be plenty of other vegetables, especially potatoes and corn. The older boys will have a share in this garden work, now that they are on the premises.

The local baker who has supplied the institution with bread for several years will continue to do so. One hundred loaves a day are consumed, and fifty quarts of milk are used; to be supplide by a farmer in the vicinity.

Some of the boys had never climbed a tree until they got to the farm Thursday. There happen to be a large number of cherry trees on the place, with the fruit just about ripe, and no doubt by this time all the lads are expert tree climbers.

One of the boys discovered the spring not far from the house. The water was cold and clear, and the boy, never having seen a spring before, went running back to the house with an old tomato can he had discovered filled to the brim with the water, saying: "There's a hole in the ground over here with ice water in it."

Where They Lost Their Bank.

In dawdling.
In indecision.
At the race track.
In poor judgment.
In working and fretting.
In magnifying difficulties.
In a bad business location.
In trusting unworthy people.
In trying to get rich quickly.
In letting their ambition cool.
In oversanguine expectations.
"At the end of a fishing rod."
In not daring to take chances.
At cheap, cheap, demoralizing shows.
In not mastering their moods.
In getting into the wrong place.
In not making business a pleasure.
In not quite knowing their business.
In waiting for something to turn up.
It went down in drink and up in smoke.
In trying to take short cuts to success.
In working only when they felt like it.
In not working to a plan or programme.
In neglecting their personal appearance.
In looking on the dark side of everything.
In over-confidence born in a first easy victory.
In choosing a silly extravagant girl for a wife.
In not being ready for the opportunity when it came.
In sampling every kind of investmen scheme that came along.
In dreaming of great things instead of doing the little ones at hand.
In being so disagreeable and selfish that they could not make friends.

It was burned up by a hot temper, which drove their employes and customers away.

It waiting for somebody to help them or give them a boost, or for some rich uncle to die.

In refusing to take the positions they could get because they did not know whether they would like the work or not.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

Trampled by an Unruly Cow.

Former Postmaster John B. R. Clark, of Califon, narrowly escaped being killed near Califon Thursday by a newly purchased cow he was driving along the road. The animal bolted, started to return home, and knocking Mr. Clark down, trampled upon him. Mr. Clark's chest was painfully bruised. Mr. Clark is a brother of former Congressman Alvah A. Clark, of Somerville, and George Clark, of Lebanon.

Miss Fenner Will Wed.

Miss Ethel May Fenner, of Pluckamin, and James Francis Miller, who halted his marriage to her almost at the altar on Wednesday, have been reunited. The man's first wife, Eveleen Dunmore, the actress, has brought suit for divorce and will offer no objection to the union of the pair. Miller claims he is already divorced, but the Dunmore woman's suit will be tried this fall. Miss Fenner clings to Miller with perfect devotion.

Morristown Organist Honored.

In recognition of its work in behalf of English cathedral music, J. Sebastian Matthews, of Morristown, has just been elected an honorary member of the British Guild of Organists. The honor is seldom conferred on any one, and only three times before has the honorary membership been given to an organist living in America. Only two of the other honorary memebrs are alive. They are Samuel Warren, of New York, and Arthur Foote, of Boston.

Bayonne's Population 40,000.

Official State census returns of Bayonne are belated and may not be known even to Supervisor Alfred Dayis until early next week. A semi-official estimate is 40,000 for the entire city.

THIS TOY CANNON BURST

Sudden End to Celebration by Fourth Street Italians.

PETER BENFORD HURT

Knocked Down by Chunk of Iron Over 100 Yards Away—Four Celebrators Arrested.

Some Italians in the East Fourth street colony decided to spend Sunday in joining the annual prelude to the great Fourth of July bust-up. They fixed an old cylindrical casting up as a cannon and bought a can of powder. They had a lot of fun for about an hour. Then the casting burst.

This was about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, in front of 328 East Fourth street. Peter Benford, a young man with a wooden leg, was walking along the railroad track over 100 yards away when the explosion occurred. A chunk of the casting buried itself above the knee of his good leg, toppling him over as if he had been caught by a charge of shrapnel. Chunks of the casting flew all over the neighborhood, pieces going as far as three hundred feet away. Florence Madden, a twelve-year-old girl, of 228 East Fourth street, was walking along Cottage place, and a heavy piece of iron, missed from the shell. Strangely enough, none of the Italians in the center of the excitement was hurt.

Bicycle Policeman Higgins heard the explosion from a block or two away and pedalled to the scene at top speed. He got there while the Italians wer estill in the first fervor of their excitement, and he had but little trouble in sleuthing out the celebrators. He arrested Francesco Cerbo, Luigi Daviero, Carmino Permsi and Guiseppe Jinaro.

In the meanwhile Dr. Browning had been summoned to help Benford. The latter's wound was found to be severe but not dangerous. He is confined to his bed at his home, 401 Cottage place.

The Italian prisoners were held in $100 bail this morning for a hearing on Saturday morning, before Judge Runyon.

DENCKLAU TOO HASTY; COMPANY MUST SUFFER

CONDUCTOR TOOK UP COMMUTER'S TICKET AND SUIT MAY FOLLOW.

In an effort to discover those who are using commutation tickets which do not belong to them, Brakeman Ferdinand Dencklau, of this city, a member of the crew of Morris Rarick's train, which leaves this city going east at 1:18 o'clock in the afternoon, picked up such a ticket from Plainfield on this city, Saturday afternoon, and as a result a suit will be started on Wednesday by Mr. White's lawyer, W. G. DeMeza, Esq., for damages.

Mr. White, who is employed as bartender in a saloon adjoining the Lyceum Theatre, Elizabeth, purchased a commutation ticket at 11 o'clock from Agent Edward Tomlinson, at the Plainfield station. He boarded the 1:18 o'clock train in the afternoon to go to New York. Brakeman Dencklau went through the train, took the ticket from White, punched it, and returned it to him.

After the train left Elizabeth, Dencklau approached White, asked for his ticket, which he displayed, whereupon Dencklau is alleged to have said, "This is not your ticket. Your name is not White."

Mr. White replied: "My name is White," and Dencklau, it is alleged, retorted by saying, "You're a liar. Your name is Byron," and he put the ticket in his pocket.

Just before the train reached Jersey City, Dencklau, it is said, approached White and said, "Is your name White?" and the latter replied in the affirmative, adding that it was his ticket that he had taken up and put in his pocket. Dencklau then offered White the ticket, and he refused to accept it, saying that he would consult his lawyer. Dencklau then, it is said, grabbed White by the shoulder and thrust the ticket into the top pocket of his coat.

Upon his return home Mr. White consulted Mr. DeMeza and the suit for damages will be started on Wednesday.

The Three R's in Jersey.

The New York Evening World laments the deficiency of the average graduate of the New York Public Schools, saying that employers prefer, especially in clerical positions, young men and women from the country or from other cities, because of their superiority in writing legibly, spelling correctly and in ordinary arithmetic. This is a serious reflection upon New York schools. It is impossible to rate too highly the fundamental basis of all education—the three R's—without which the coveted positions in New York cannot be obtained or held. We may well understand that New Jersey schools are different, for here this foundation has ever been highly esteemed.—Somerset Democrat.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1905. NO. 27

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison.

"TEDDY" COYNE IS DEAD

Heart Trouble and Rheumatism Carries off Popular Assemblyman.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN.

After Being Defeated Through Party Rebellion He Was Elected to Legislature Last Fall by Big Majority.

Assemblyman Edward S. Coyne died at his home in Elizabeth at 7 yesterday morning. Heart trouble superinduced by inflammatory rheumatism, was the cause of death. For several days his condition was critical and his death was expected momentarily.

During the past two years he was ill a great deal of the time, and two days before he was nominated for the Assembly last year he was taken ill with appendicitis and underwent an operation at the Elizabeth General

Edward S. Coyne.

Hospital. At that time it was scarcely thought that he would recover. He was elected by a large majority and was able to cast his ballot at that time.

His work in the Assembly was creditable, he having been instrumental in the passage of a number of excellent measures. He was generally popular and highly esteemed by everyone who knew him. He had the reputation of being generous to a fault and was always willing and ready to do a favor for his friends.

Last December he was taken ill with diphtheria while making a trip from New York to his home in Elizabeth, and was detained at home for nearly two months before he recovered. He was able to be about but a few months when he suffered an attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

Mr. Coyne was born at Mariners Harbor, N. Y., October 11, 1862, and was manager of the Manhattan Stove Works, New York city. He moved to Elizabeth when one year old, where he has since resided. He was graduated from the Morrell Street Public School at the age of fifteen, at which time he entered the employ of Eugene Munnell & Co., stove manufacturers, of New York city, serving them in the capacity of boy, clerk, bookkeeper and traveling salesman. He has had the honor to represent his company for a number of years in the National Association of Stove Manufacturers, where his personality was well known and appreciated.

Outside of his business Mr. Coyne had taken an active interest in politics and athletics. He represented the Tenth Ward of Elizabeth in the Board of Aldermen of that city for a period of four years, in which position he was acknowledged the minority leader. He was elected to the Assembly for the session of 1903, and served on Committees of Education, Home for Boys, Home for Girls, Soldiers' Home, Federal Relations, and Elections. Mr. Coyne was a candidate for re-election for the session of 1904, but was defeated by a vote of 345, together with the balance of the county ticket, owing to Republican treachery in this city.

Mr. Coyne successfully managed the baseball and football departments of the Elizabeth Athletic Club for many years. He was a member of the Central Baptist church, and a number of associations, including the McKinley Republican Club, Washington Lodge, No. 23, F. & A. M., Jersey City Lodge of Perfection, Salaam Temple, Mystic Shrine, A. A. O. N., Elizabeth Lodge, No. 289, B. P. O. Elks, Elizabeth Council, No. 170, Royal Arcanum, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, of Elizabeth, Elizabeth Mannerchor, Elizabeth Athletic Club, Mattano Club, and Elizabeth Board of Trade.

He was elected to the Assembly for 1905 by a plurality of 4,887 over Hagne, the highest candidate on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Coyne's father was one of the founders of the Republican party and always took an active part in politics, like his son. Mr. Coyne is survived by a father and mother and four brothers. As yet arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but it is believed they will be public.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS HOLD ROUTINE SESSION

ONLY ONE BID MADE FOR SOMERVILLE BRIDGE.

Very little was doing at the regular meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders in the Court House at Somerville yesterday afternoon. A petition, signed by about 100 taxpayers, for the improvement of the Washington Valley road, from Martinsville to Pluckamin, under the State Aid Road Act, was filed. The county is at present improving all the roads it can and cannot take up new ones because of a lack of ready money. It is probable that this road will be given a showing in the near future, when some of those no win course of construction are completed.

There was only one bid received on the Bridge street bridge in Somerville and it was decided to keep the competition open until next Tuesday afternoon in the Court House.

The County Collector was authorized to borrow $20,000 in anticipation of taxes.

The board will meet at the rubber factory at Rocky Hill next Monday afternoon.

ELKS' MEMBERSHIP ON THE INCREASE

FIFTY-THREE NEW LODGES ADDED—MEMBERSHIP IS NOW 200.040.

Buffalo, July 12.—The Elks attending the annual reunion of their order today began to combine business with pleasure. The opening session of the Grand Lodge at the Teck Theatre and the preliminary contests of bands for rich prizes at the Front were the features of the day's programme.

Following the open meeting the Grand Lodge went into executive session to receive the reports of officers and elect new officers for the ensuing year.

It was estimated that 1,800 representatives were present, only about 200 of the smaller Southern and Western lodges being unrepresented.

The report of Grand Secretary Fred E. Robinson contained the following:

"The success of the past year has exceeded all expectations and has been most gratifying. Fifty-three new lodges have been added to the long list and the lodges already in existence have been materially strengthened by large accessions in membership. We have made an increase of 22,888 in membership, giving us today 988 lodges and a total membership of 200,040.

"The cash on hand May 21 was $116,902; the total assets $189,273; the liabilities only $4,656. The total suprius was $184,617, against $169,192 in 1904."

COMPANY K WILL NOT GO TO CAMP THIS YEAR

STATE SENDS GUARDSMEN TO SEA GIRT BI-YEARLY—POLICY CRITICIZED

Company K will not go to camp this year. The State only sends the militiamen into camp every two years. The First, Fourth and Fifth Regiments go down this year. The State's refusal to allow the guard to go into camp every year is one of the things of which the guardsmen complain.

"The State is too stingy to send us to camp every year," said a Company K man last night. "The stingy policy marks the State's whole attitude toward and treatment of the guard, and in that lies the explanation of the weakness of the New Jersey soldiery. Take the suits they are issuing now, for example. A lot of the old men won't wear them they are so rank."

The guardsman seemed to be very bitter and thoroughly disgusted. But he talked only in a strain with which the reporter who heard him had become familiar in his rounds among the other militiamen.

West End Team's Changes.

The West End Baseball Association, of Somerville, at a meeting held last evening released Bachman, the first baseman, who made such a poor showing in Saturday afternoon's contest with the Star A. C., of Newark, and was largely responsible for the loss of the game, and Daly, the left fielder and erstwhile shortstop. George Allen, of Plainfield, who has been catching at Raritan, was signed to play first base, and Weatherwax, of Plainfield, will be in left garden. The Central R. R. team will play at Somerville on Saturday.

SPEAK-EASY MEN FINED

Three Plainfielders Punished by the Union County Court.

GET LIGHT SENTENCES.

More Cases to be Disposed of on June 19—Galbraith to Pay $200 and Costs.

Nearly all of the remainder of the Plainfield cases were disposed of by Judge Wyl and the Union County Court this morning, including the balance of the "speak-easy" cases. Peter Traynor, of North Plainfield, who pleaded guilty to illegal liquor selling, was fined $50 and costs and Thomas Brown and Dominick Parrett, who also pleaded guilty to the same charge, received like sentences.

Daniel Galbraith, of West Fourth street, who conducts a road-house at Fanwood, and who was found guilty of keeping a disorderly house and allowing gambling at the place, was fined $200 and costs. It will be remembered that the jury recommended clemency in his case. Galbraith formerly conducted a saloon on West Third street.

Eugene Britton, who was indicted on a charge of assault and battery on Fred Sheppard, and pleaded guilty, and Lewis Milligan, indicted on a charge of robbery, and who entered a plea of non vult, will be sentenced on Wednesday, July 19.

James Jefferson, colored, of Elizabeth, indicted on a charge of stealing a horse and wagon about the Christmas holiday times, was released on a suspension of sentence through intercession in his behalf. In the case of Charles H. Thompson and Fanny Sapp, of Elizabeth, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of adultery, and William Baddinsky, of Springfield, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of assault and battery on his nephew, Adolph J. H. Miller, will be sentenced Wednesday, July 19.

K. G. E. INSTALLATION.

Ceremony for Freedom Castle's New Officers.

District Grand Chief R. V. Kenney and staff, comprising William S. Day, Horace J. Martin, A. G. Niles and R. V. Carver, installed these officers at a regular meeting of Freedom Castle, No. 42, K. G. E., last night.

Past chief, A. H. Lewis; noble chief, John G. Bicknell; vice noble chief, P. C. Banghart; str. herald, Harvey L. Schmeyer; venerable hermit, Caspar Waglow; high priest, W. L. Gambol; first guardsman, William Ayers; second guardsman, Clark H. Lowry; worthy bard, Charles M. Dolliver; worthy chamberlain, David Bush; ensign, Robert Gottschalk; esquire, George H. Kenyon; trustee, eighteen months, R. V. Carven.

This good and welfare committee was appointed for the ensuing six months: Caspar Waglow, chairman; P. C. Banghart, Whitney Frazee, R. V. Carver and Joseph Randall. After the installation there were speeches by the newly elected officers.

The Bow-Wows' Enemy Busy.

Pierre Moore, who was appointed dog catcher at the last meeting of the Common Council, is now busily engaged in looking for stray canines who do not wear a muzzle. Thus far he has captured five such dogs, and they are detained at the pound, where the owners can have them by paying the usual fee. Persons who lose valuable dogs should first inquire at the pound, which is located at the sewage farm, and which is in charge of Charles Peterson. Within a few days Mr. Moore will have the regulation badge prescribed by law, thus displaying his authority.

Florence V. Van Nest Dead.

Florence V. Van Nest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Van Nest, of Watchung avenue, died yesterday, aged five and a half years. The funeral will be held from the parents' residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Councilman Arnold Acting Mayor.

During the absence of Mayor N. B. Smalley at the Elks' convention in Buffalo Councilman James K. Arnold is acting chief magistrate of the borough. Already he has had several important matters to take care of.

In Adirondack Camp.

Miss Carola Hart, of West Seventh street, is spending the summer in camp in the Adirondacks with her grandmother and a large party of friends. They are located in a spacious bungalow.

G. O. P. Meeting.

The Union County Republican Committee met at Elizabeth last night. Nothing but routine business was considered.

A DYSENTERY EPIDEMIC

All the Physicians Are Kept Working Overtime. Now.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE.

Be Careful What You Eat—Don't Drink Too Much in This Weather—Some Severe Cases Reported.

An epidemic of dysentery in various forms is giving the local physicians an unusual amount of work these days and in some instances the cases are quite serious, especially in North Plainfield, where three deaths resulted from this trouble last week. The cause of teh trouble is a mystery in a majority of cases, although the physicians are sure that it is due to a germ that enters the stomach. They say that certain kinds of water as well as what one eats is apt to cause a fermentation and result in bowel trouble.

One physician today reported that he has eighteen cases under treatment, another has fourteen and still another has thirteen cases, while it is safe to say that nearly every physician in the city and borough has patients suffering with the trouble.

A physician, in speaking of the matter today, said that he would advise people to be extremely careful as to what they eat and drink just now. He said that this is just the kind of weather for bowel trouble, and in the eating of fruits, vegetables and other things one cannot be too careful, and as to drinks especially, one should be cautious.

PHILA. TO NEW YORK IN NINETY MINUTES

AND THE TRAIN WILL PASS THROUGH PLAINFIELD.

From Philadelphia to New York in ninety minutes!

This is the marvel in rapid transit which the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company proposes to make an every-day fact. The present schedule for express trains on both the Reading and the Pennsylvania is two hours; and, considering the delays at the north side of New York, even this schedule was regarded by railroad men as one of the significant feats of modern railroading.

And now the Reading officers announce that they will effect an hour—25 per cent.—from this fast schedule.

Charles Dickens, in his American notes, speaks with some gratification of making the trip form New York to Philadelphia in six hours. These new flyers will make identically the same trip in one-fourth the time.

Sanitary School of Instruction.

The State Board of Health has chosen Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, of Plainfield; Professor B. H. Loomis, of Princeton University; Francis H. McGee, of Attorney General McCarter's office; R. B. Fitz-Randolph, State director of the laboratory of hygiene, and Dr. J. L. Leal, of Paterson, to consider the proposition of establishing a school of instruction for the sanitary officers of the State.

Clerical Meeting.

The Plainfield Clericus met as the guests of Rev. Arthur S. Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church, yesterday. The session was held at the rector's home in East Sixth street, and after the usual business meeting a collation was served. The topic of discussion was "How Far the Clergy Are Bound in Their Ministrations to Loyalty to the Prayer Book?"

In Justice Hand's Court.

In Justice Hand's court judgment has been secured by Charles W. Tallman against Charles E. Utter, and execution is to be issued. In the same court judgment has been secured by Isidor Schorr and Louis Larder against H. Feinberg.

Funeral of Lightning's Victim.

The funeral of Peter Chechvey, who was killed by lightning at Alonda, Saturday afternoon, was held from his late home at South Plainfield this afternoon. The interment is to be made in the family plot at Perth Amboy.

Rev. Mr. Stevenson in Canada.

Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, rector of Grace church, is spending his vacation at St. Catherines, Canada, and during his absence Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector emeritus, is in charge of the parish work.

Rector to Go Abroad.

Rev. Arthur S. Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church, has arranged to take a trip abroad in August. He will go for the sea voyage, hoping it will benefit his health.

A PARK AT NETHERWOOD

Plainfield Water Company Plans One at its Own Expense.

NOW BUYING PROPERTY.

Half the Needed Plot Already Secured and Progress to Be Taken to Secure Remainder.

At an original expense of fully $25,000 the Plainfield Water Supply Company has undertaken to purchase the entire plot of ground in the Netherwood section bounded by Frederick street, North avenue, Terrill road and Columbia avenue for the purpose of making it a public park. The work of buying the land, which is in a great many parcels, has been going on quietly for the past five months, and at the present time about one-half of that needed has been secured.

Options have been taken on others, and where owners hold their ground at an exorbitant figure condemnation proceedings will be started, the company's charter giving it this prerogative. It is hoped to have the whole section before the coming winter, and if so, the work of improvement will be started next spring.

The property within the streets named is 2,000 feet long and about 300 feet wide. It is encumbered by the names, four of which have been bought in. At the upper end near Terrill road there are two stagnant ponds that have long been an eyesore to the company officials and nearby residents.

One of the first moves of the new owners will be to fill these in and then the whole plot will be graded, laid out with walks, trees and shrubbery and thrown open to the public. It is within easy reach of the trolley and will make a beautiful breathing spot.

The company already owns 2,200 feet of ground on the south side of North avenue adjoining the railroad, and has just bought a large plot on the north side of Columbia avenue, 1,010 feet long by 150 feet wide. This will give it a total width from the railroad of 700 feet, all of which will be laid out uniformly by an expert landscape architect. The property for the most part has been owned by Italians, who have had a tendency to erect small shacks and buildings that look far from well and which have a tendency to depreciate land values.

The proximity to the pumping station had much to do with the plans to effect the change.

MEHAREY INVESTIGATES LETTER BOX BREAKING

INSPECTOR MAY CAUSE AN ARREST IN BOROUGH.

Post Office Inspector Meharey was in the city yesterday to investigate the circumstances surrounding the smashing of a rural free delivery box at the upper end of Somerset street on June 28. There were no thrilling incidents connected with the breaking of the box, not even a letter being missing, but the post office is very strict in its supervision of the boxes, and every such occurrence is as rigidly investigated as if much damage and great loss were involved.

The box in question, it is now believed, was broken by some drunken man or mischievous boy. There was no mail in it at the time. The department puts the R. F. D. boxes under the same protection as that accorded the street boxes in cities, and persons convicted of breaking them are liable to not less than a year's imprisonment and may be fined heavily in addition.

Inspector Meharey worked out a somewhat similar case in New Brunswick the day before yesterday. Some youths threw a lighted firecracker in a letterbox there on the Fourth of July, and the explosion set fire to the mail in the box. Someone who saw the smoke pouring out of the slot saved the mail from destruction by smashing the box. Meharey was put on the case the next day and Monday afternoon he placed the three young men who threw the cracker in the box under arrest.

An arrest in the North Plainfield case is not improbable, although it may not be made at once.

—Delicious peaches from Georgia and the famous Rocky Ford melons are features of Neuman Brothers' fruit display. Better order some for dinner.

—The Plainfield Water Supply Company is installing a fire hydrant on Park avenue, next to Miss Lincoln's flower store. This was petitioned for by the property-owners on the avenue.

FAMOUS SOLOIST FOR FRIDAY'S BAND CONCERT

LEADER LAVERE SECURES JOHN S. LEICK, THE GREAT CORNETTIST.

As an especial attraction for Friday night's band concert, Leader Ben LaVere has secured after considerable effort, John S. Leick, of Newark, one of the world's leading cornetists. He was formerly soloist with the Kilties and for the past three years has been with Innis' band, which played the entire season at the St. Louis Exposition. It closed a tour of the Pacific coast a short time ago and Mr. Leick returned home for a rest but consented to come to Plainfield tarough friendship for Mr. LaVere.

His solo Friday night, will be the "Whirlwind" concert polka, composed by the late Jules Levy, the great cornet virtuoso. It is one of the most difficult solos ever written. It has a cadenza which requires great strength of lips to perform and the polka is of a very brilliant nature. By many of his admirers, Leick is said to be able to equal Levy's rendition of it. He used this solo recently when playing before King Edward VII and Queen Alexandria.

FIREMEN TO MEET ON THE DIAMOND

PLAINFIELD AND BROOKLYN LADDIES TO CROSS BATS.

To swell the pension fund of the local fire department, Chief Doane's laddies will play a baseball game with a team of Brooklyn firefighters on the Oval July 19. Tickets of admisson will be sold, and the receipts will all go into the pension fund.

Chief Doane himself is managing the team and the enterprise. The pension fund has hitherto been strengthened only by voluntary contributions from householders or owners who have felt moved by gratitude to the department to send something as a mark of appreciation, and the Chief and his men want to give it a healthy boost. It is believed that the ball game will be a most popular and successful means of accomplishing the end.

The game will be a good one. The locals have some handy and active ball tossers in their ranks, and they have had three seasons of play behind them for the nucleus of fast team work. The nine that will come from Brooklyn will be a crack combination from the word go until jumping off time. It will be an All-Brooklyn nine, with the best ball players in the whole Brooklyn department in the lineup.

The Chief was not ready to give out his lineup yesterday, but promised to make it public in a day or two.

This is the second time only since the fire department has been reorganized that the men have set out to sell tickets for their own benefit, and they are entitled to a lot of consideration in their effort to make money out of the venture. The firemen's pension fund is deserving of all the support the public can give it. It is at least deserving of as much consideration as the many private and semi-private funds and treasuries to which the people of this city so readily give support, if not, only Chief Doane, but all the city officials, hope that the tickets will sell so rapidly that two or three issues will have to be struck off.

Preparing Park Property.

During the past two weeks surveyors have been engaged in completing their work on the property in the west end of the borough, recently acquired by a syndicate, and which it is proposed to improve with a handsome boulevard and a lake. It is said that among the improvements to be made will be a road running north and south to be used exclusively by automobiles. This will be laid out, it is said, alongside the proposed lake, and will be a short cut between a certain section of the borough and Plainfield.

A Good Time Assured.

If you go with the First Baptist church and Sunday school on its annual excursion to Asbury Park, July 20, you will surely have a good time. The train will leave Plainfield at 8 o'clock in the morning, returning leave the Park at 6:30. Reserve this date for your outing.

To Shoot Saturday.

Those members of Company K who didn't go down to the Sea Girt ranges on July 6, the date set for the company shoot, will shoot there Saturday. The members who didn't complete their scores on the sixth will go down also to finish up.

Salt Water Day.

Salt water day at Boynton Beach will be held on Friday, July 14.

LINCOLN GITS ORGANIZE

Form Improvement Association for Incorporation of Borough.

TO LEAVE TOWNSHIP.

D. J. Perkins and S. D. Drake Make Speeches — A Committee Appointed.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the public school at Lincoln last night for the purpose of taking steps to adopt a borough form of government. S. D. Drake called the meeting to order and made a speech than won every one over to the idea of changing the form of government of that place.

D. J. Perkins was afterward elected president of what is known as the Borough Improvement Association, and M. S. Burnstein was chosen secretary. After the organization speeches were made by J. T. Vreeland, of East Bound Brook; M. F. Wirtz and Edgar Grauert, of Beechwood Heights, and Michael Gallagher, of Dewey Park, representing the four districts of the town.

Mr. Perkins said that he regretted the proposed secession of Lincoln from the township, holding that the fact that the people of New Market want a new $20,000 school house was largely responsible for the movement. He said the people of Lincoln have ample school accommodations and do not want to pay for others in other parts of Piscataway township.

Mr. Drake said that Lincoln is peculiarly situated, having every improvement, including gas, water, electric light, trolley cars, macadamized roads, a fire department, etc. Showing the importance of the town, he stated that every month the sum of $3,000 is paid to the New Jersey Central for freight hauling, and there is now $350,000 worth of assessable property in the town of one thousand population and that the place has every advantage of a city.

Dr. Pierce was represented at the meeting through a letter, in which he said that he favored the borough form of government, whereby the macadamized streets built by him at his own expense would be cared for, and he said that he would be willing to pay his share of the taxes.

The present tax rate at Lincoln is $1.41, exclusive of electric lights, and it is believed that with the proposed change the tax will be at least 5 per cent. less.

Much praise was given S. D. Drake, who is the pioneer citizen of Lincoln, for his work in locating the town of Lincoln and helping to make it a thriving center. The citizens at the meeting openly stated that they believed he had done his share of the work and they were now willing to do their part in running the place.

A committee, comprised of D. F. Wirtz, J. T. Vreeland, J. V. N. Polhemus and Michael Gallagher, was appointed to obtain facts and figures toward the establishment of a borough and report at a meeting to be held in two weeks. Later it was understood that the residents of that territory on the south side of the railroad east of Bound Brook are anxious to get into the proposed borough.

The borough is now assured, and at the meeting of the Legislature next winter efforts will be made to have that body establish that form of government for the town.

SIMPLIFIES THE WORK.

Reason for Official Changes in Public Service Corporation.

The recent changes made by the Public Service Corporation in this city, Bound Brook and Somerville means a simplification of business matters. Ralph F. Bache, who is now in charge of the electrical department here, has been given control of that department for the three towns, and S. K. Campbell, of this city, has been put in charge of the distribution of gas for the same territory, while William R. Cannebrook, the local agent for the company, will have charge of the commercial end of the business for the three places.

Heretofore each one of these officials has been obliged to report to one or two officials, and it has sometimes been confusing. With the changes noted, they will be held responsible and each department will have its regular quota of assistants, making the work easier for the heads as well as those under them.

Clerks Arranging Outing.

The clerks in the local stores who at one time comprised the Plainfield Retail Clerks' Association are arranging for a trolley trip to Boynton Beach some night next week.

—Don't forget the annual excursion of Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., to Asbury Park, on Saturday, July 22. The train leaves the shore at 8:30 at night.

IMPRESSIONS OF LIFE AT THE NATION'S CAPITOL

By Ira W. Wood, Representative of the Fourth New Jersey District.

The impressions of a new member of Congress with an experience of only a few months, and that at a short session of Congress, doubtless possess no real value, but looked upon as the thoughts that come, perhaps, to the ordinary member when he finds himself for the first time a part of the lower branch of the National Legislature, they may have an interest peculiarly their own.

There are some matters of which it is not necessary to speak at length. They are within the easy and familiar knowledge of intelligent citizens everywhere. And yet the impressions even as to these matters come with added force to the new member as he begins to consider the character of the legislation with which he has to deal. We all know, for instance, that Congress has a restricted sphere of action. It has to do only with those matters that have been delegated to it by the states in that marvelous instrument, that has been characterized by the grand old man of English history, "as the most wonderful document ever struck off at a given time from the brain and purpose of man." There is a great variety of subjects that the states have reserved to themselves, and in which the states themselves are absolute, supreme, sovereign. Congress is a body of limited powers. It has express powers, and those that are implied as being necessary to carry into execution those directly conferred. Of course, we are all familiar with the fact that the difference in the interpretation of these implied powers has been the fundamental line of distinction between the two great historic parties. The one has been the exponent of the strict constructionist. It has emphasized the state; it has minimized the nation. The other has been the champion of those broad and liberal and comprehensive views of our national powers that have finally been adopted as the fixed policy of the American nation, and that have been so marvelously successful in working out the magnificent achievements of the last half century.

Ira W. Wood.

Each member of the house represents the same numerical proportion of the population of the United States, approximately one hundred and ninety-nine thousand. But the districts themselves present a great diversity. One member, for instance, represents a great agricultural section, with no town, perhaps, within its entire borders of a greater population than two or three thousand people. Another comes from the crowded population of a great city, and speaks for the great manufacturing and commercial and financial interests there centred. Some members are from the great cotton belt of the south; others from the wheat areas of the great northwest. There are members from the old settled communities of New England whose traditions go far back to Colonial days, to the times of the Puritans; and there are others who represent districts far out on the frontier, that have been carved out of the young and vigorous and robust commonwealths that have sprung up beyond the Rocky Mountains. There are representatives from districts that border on the Atlantic sea coast; and there are others who come from districts all of whose interests look out towards, and centre in, the Pacific ocean, an ocean that seems destined to become th etheatre of great national and international events in the century upon which we have just entered. There are districts on the great inland seas, with their enormous tonnage; and others that fringe the Gulf of Mexico. These districts, in their geographic areas, present a diversity even more striking. The Sixteenth district of Texas is composed of fifty-five counties, several of which are larger that the whole area of the State of New Jersey, with its total delegation of ten in the lower branch of Congress. New Jersey has seven thousand five hundred and twenty-five square miles, but this district with its more than ninety-five thousand square miles, is twelve times, and more, the size of the whole commonwealth of New Jersey. And Manhattan Island, from the Battery to the Bronx, with perhaps twenty-one square miles all told, has its ten representatives in the great national body.

The legislation that is enacted is of course the resultant of the action and inter-action of these vastly diversified interests. And it sometimes seems almost strange that any common ground can be found on which the representatives of these often inconsistent interests can act in concert.

In the Senate there is another srtiking basis of representation. The two members from Nevada, with its total population of less than forty-three thousand, and a voting population of a little more than seventeen thousand—less than one-half the number of votes cast in the Fourth district of New Jersey last November—have the same numerical voting power with the empire state of New York, with its nearly eight millions population, and its more than two millions of voters. There the sovereignty of the states is represented. It is another instance of that marvelous system of checks and balances devised by the founders of the republic, and that has been so signally effective during the last one hundred and eighteen years in working out the problem of self-government in this only successful example of self-government known to history.

One of the first impressions that comes to the new member is that of the massive proportions of the chamber itself in which the proceedings are held, with its outlying galleries on the four sides. The most conspicuous of these galleries is—that directly above the marble desk of the speaker, above the silken flag, above the two great pictures with portraits of heroic size, of the first President of the Republic, and that great foreign character who freely offered his fortune and his military services in behalf of the struggling colonies, and whose memory as long as gratitude lasts will be forever cherished by the American people as a friend indeed in the hour of the country's need. This gallery has been assigned to the press, in just recognition of the mighty influence that the press today wields and has always wielded in moulding and shaping and directing public opinion.

The vastness of the appropriations seems at first almost bewildering. Where the State deals with thousands, Congress has to do with millions. The naval appropriation bill passed at the last Congress carried more than a hundred millions; the post office appropriation bill called for something like seventy millions; the legislative, executive and judicial bill represented thirty millions, and the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill aggregated in the neighborhood of thirty millions. A billion dollar Congress a few years ago threatened to become a great party issue. It met with the retort of that great modern American character, Thomas B. Reed, that it was a billion dollar Congress, but it was a billion dollar country back of it. And that billion dollar mark has been surpassed by vast sums by every subsequent Congress that has assembled; from that time to this with scarcely a word of protest from the American people, who begin to realize the vastness of the great country in which we live, the enormous interests and the magnificent resources that are represented by the Stars and Stripes.

The new member is forcibly impressed with the size of the membership body to which he belongs, with its three hundred and eigthy-six members, with its delegates from Porto Rico and Hawaii, and with delegates, possibly, to come in the near future from the ten thousand islands in the midst of the sea, whose destinies in some mysterious manner have become associated with the career of the American nation.

Another matte rthat forcibly impresses the new member is the vast difference in the influence exerted by State delegations in initiating, shaping and directing national legislation—an influence entirely out of proportion to the constituencies they represent, or even the State from which they come. These members, by long experience, have become familiar with the complicated rules of the house, they have become conversant with the workings of the National Government, and their names have become household words throughout the land. oseph G. Cannon, "Uncle Joe," has served thirty years; General Bingham, the father of the House, commenced his service way back in 1879; Sereno Payne, the chairman of the committee on ways and means, has seen service in ten Congresses; Robert R. Hitt, the distinguished chairman of the foreign relations committee, has served twenty-four years; John Dalzell, eighteen years, and General Grosvenor, the stalwart champion of Republicanism, twenty years. The delegations whose members are constantly changing, exercise an influence that is scarcely appreciable in the trend of national legislation.

The House of Representatives is a one-man power. Its presiding officer, elected by the members, has the appointment of all committees. No bill can be passed—no, nor even considered—without his consent. He wields an influence that is only second to that of the President of the United States. This striking result has been brought about largely through the development of the rules of the House under those great masters of parliamentary law, James G. Blaine and Thomas B. Reed. Their rulings, at the time, met with hostile, even vituperative criticism; they were condemned, only to be adopted in their entirety by the opposition as soon as it found itself in power.

The right of recognition rests entirely with the speaker. Members may be calling "Mr. Speaker" from all parts of the House, but if their names do not happen to be on the little list at the side of the speaker's desk, it is all invain. Recognition depends not upon strength of lung, nor an advantageous position within the range of the speaker's vision. The member to be recognized finally, perhaps, has not yet emerged from the cloak room.

Another influence in bringing about the lodgment of this vast power in the hands of the presiding officer, has been the creation, within the last quarter of a century, of the committee on rules, of which the speaker himself is the dominating member; the other members being the chairman of the committee on ways and means, and John Dalzell, of Pennsylvania. The scope of this committee has been construed to extend, not only to the formulation of general rules for the proceedings of the house, but to the direction of specific action in specific cases. Any bill by this committee therefore can be taken from any calndar and brought to the consideration of the house.

It is a strange sight that sometimes greets the casual visitor in the gallery. He sees below him a member addressing a little coterie of perhaps half a dozen or a dozen members; the desks are for the most part vacant; members are flitting back and forth from the cloakrooms; the speaker himself is apparently listless and indifferent, but every word spoken is reproduced in the Congressional Record, whose millions of copies are spread broadcast over the land, and become an animated, and sometimes even heated subject of controversy in every cross roads in every district of this great land.

The deliberate character of the House has largely become a thing of the past. No longer is it so often, as in times past, the theatre of great national debates. The forum of discussion has been removed to the rooms of the great committees. There the hearings are held, and there the mighty contests of gigantic interests are fought out. The work of the House is ofttimes little more than a registration of the reports of these great committees. Each committee, as to the matters that come within its jurisdiction, is a little legislature within itself.

Each house is jealous of its prerogatives. The House of Representatives has the exclusive right, under the constitution, to originate matters of revenue. Whenever this right is infringed, business, as happened at the last session of Congress, comes to an absolute standstill, until the Senate recedes, as it has done several times before, unqualifiedly from its position. The Senate is likewise jealous of any infringement of its prerogative as a branch of the treaty-making power on the part of the executive.

The House is not only a more populous, but a more popular body than the Senate. It is more in touch with the people. It is more sensitive to public opinion. Its members must give an account every two years of their stewardship. The Senate is a continuous body; its members hold under a six years' tenure. Many matters that seem at the moment to be of surpassing interest, in the perspective of time lose much of their relative importance. And this ac*counts largely for the difference in* the character of the proceedings and the characteristics of the bodies themselves.

Of course, there must be some selection in the bills to be passed. There were twenty thousand and seventy-four bills and resolutions introduced in the Fifty-eighth Congress. Not more than two or three thousand of them passed. The great appropriation bills, of course, must have the right of way. Without them the business of the country would come to a standstill. These appropriation bills cannot be hampered in their passage through the House by way of rider or amendment. Any matter involving new legislation is subject to a point of order. And yet there are hundreds of new items in every one of these bills. They are matters of such manifest importance and merit that no one, on his responsibility as a member, dares to make objection.

These are only a few of the more salient impressions that come to the new member. Even a short experience in the House can hardly fail to have a broadening effect on the new member. He realizes as never before the greatness of the republic, with its forty-five States and five territories and the momentous Colonial interests, with their new and untried problems, that have come to us with the opening years of the twentieth century. He cannot but be impressed with the world-wide influence of the legislation of a Congress, whose commerce is fast encircling the globe, whose diplomatic relations as a great and potent world-power reach all parts of the world and whose influence not only as a peace maker but as a great civilizing force are today recognized the world over.—Trenton State Gazette.

---

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz, of Somerset street, left today for Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hastings, of West Seventh street, are spending the summer at Deal Beach.

Miss Ella Serrell, a pupil nurse at Muhlenberg Hospital, commences a two weeks' vacation this week.

---

A Famous Mountain Resort.

Mauch Chunk, within easy excursion dirtance of New York, is one of the most strikingly picturesque resorts in the country. Lying among the hills twelve miles within the Lehigh Gap, it appears to be so completely walled in, that it is only when the traveler has attained one of the commanding summits, and descried the wonderful horseshoe bend of the narrow valley, that he can conceive how such a cul de sac can be approached from any direction by a railroad. The houses rise above each other as they back up against the rising hillside. On the opposite side of the river the precipitous bluffs of Bear Mountain, from the Indian of which the town derives its nome, form the front of the horseshoe round which the current sweeps.

Trout fishing may be indulged in at the preserve of the Penn Forest Brook Trout Company which comprises about sixty-five ponds and dams and is fed by four mountain streams. Nearer at hand, however, are the great scenic attractions of the resort. A trolley line attains the "Flag Staff" on the mountain at the southern end of the city, and westward lies the old Switch-back or Gravity Railroad which historically and physically is of the most unique interest.

On Mount Pisgah, behind the site of the town, coal was discovered by a hunter in 1791. The earliest anthracite mines of the country were opened in this vicinity, and the Gravity Railroad was construcetd to bring the output down the river. The length of the line was nine miles, and it was constructed at an even grade for the whole distance. Mules were used for years to haul the empty cars back to the mines. These sagacious beasts were wont to toil patiently up the long road, but they refused flatly to be driven down having once become accustomed to the exhilaration of coasting with the coal and enjoying the beauties of the natural scenery. In 1844 a return track was laid. Machinery was installed to draw the cars up Mount Pisgah and Sharp Mountain, but the cars ran the remainder of the way by their own gravity. Of late years the railroad has been used exclusively for recreation.

As we ascend Mount Pisgah the earth seems to sink away from us, and the vast amphitheatre of the hills *falls into perspective. It is a thrill*ing sight. The summit reached, we slowly cross a trestle over a wild ravine. To the north lies Broad Mountain, and we catch a glimpse of Glen Onoko through a distant ravine. Behind us the Lehigh Gap is outlined in blue. The river winds below like a silver serpent, banded by a bridge where it is crossed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The towns cuddled in the valley sides look like toy houses from a Noah's Ark. Now we gather speed as we roll along; on the right rises a ridge buried in forest, and below, on the other hand, we pass the old tunnel and hamlet of Hackelbernie. From Bloomingdale Valley the second ascent is made, this time to a slightly higher attitude, and again we scan a wide panorama bounded by mountain ranges. From here we scarcely travel a mile before we come to the turning point, the quaint old mining village of Summit Hill. Here there is much of interest to be seen. The mines may be visited, and the burning mine,a vein which has been smouldering since 1832 and is now on fire at a great depth, should be seen. The return ride over the nine miles of continuous descending grade is perhaps the pleasantest part of the trip. Starting gradually as before, great speed is soon attained, and we whistle through the greenwood on the wings of the wind. Under the shadow of great crags, through forests of rhododendron and laurel, by purling mountain streams, and out again across open pasture land the car leaps like a thing alive. Finally we descry the roofs and spires of Mauch Chunk, and all too quickly the ride comes to an end. Whoever is thrilled by the scenic railways indoors at Coney Island, should try this indescribable coast of eighteen miles around the everlasting hills.

The New Jersey Central runs fortnightly excursions to Mauch Chunk at popular prices, and if you are intrested send for circulars to C. M. Burt, General Passenger Agent, New York City.

---

DOCTORS' DINNER.

Quarterly Gathering of Plainfield Physicians.

Marked by the quiet of mid-summer city affairs, the quartely dinner of the Physician's Association was held at the Iroquois last night. Nine doctors were present.

The menu was a highly attractive one, and rose entirely superior to the weather and flagged appetites. It was as follows:

Litle Necks

Consomme Royal

Olives Salted Almonds Radishes

Boiled Kennebec Salmon—

Sauce Hollandaise

Potatoes Duchesse

Tenderloin of Beef, a la Marseilles

Peas Cauliflower Potatoes

Roast Turkey—Currant Jelly

Lettuce and Tomato Salad

Ice Cream Assorted Cake

Crackers Cheese

Coffee

The paper was read by Dr. Gemwein. His subject was "The Diagnosis of Hysteria."

BOW-WOW MEN'S ORDEAL

Solemn Ceremony at Police Headquarters Interrupted by a Drunk.

SPEECHES ARE MADE

Both Moore and Peterson Consent to Interview on Their Plans After Taking Formal Oaths.

Amid the solemn hush of trolley bells and the whoops of a drunk in Cell No 4, Dog-Catcher Pierre Moore and Poundmaster Charles Peterson took the oaths of office at the station house last night. Mayor Buckle administered it.

Moore made an attempt to appear at ease, but it was plain that the strain of the ordeal was telling on him. Peterson was palpably nervous. Poth looked undisguisedly relieved when the formalities ended. They responded to the mayor's congratulations with brief but appropriate remarks. The speeches were punctuated by cheers from the drunk.

Moore will not begin his hunt until he gets the badge prescribed by the ordinance creating his office. This will probably be pinned upon his galluses next Tuesday. In the meantime he is practicting strangle and jiu-jitsu holds on a little dog procured for the purpose. He intends to study lasso-throwing later on, and will vary the ordinary hand captures of his profession with lariat yanks from the seat of his well-trained high cushion-tire wheel, going at full speed. He says a few things like that are needed to make dog-catching popular and picturesque.

Poundmaster Peterson will get busy just as soon as Sleuth Moore gives him something to do. He announced after the oath of office was administered that he would use cyanide of mercury to do away with unclaimed dogs. The ordinance says the canines must be destroyed "in as humane a manner as possible." Peterson consulted Chemist Frank Rowley in regard to the poisoning method and the latte r assured him that the cyanide was as quick and painless as any agent known. A bit of meat with a drop or two of cyanide of mercury on it is readily taken by a dog, and as soon as the stuff touches its tongue the bow-wow goes off into a dreamless sleep from which it never wriggles.

The bodies will be buried in quicklime.

FREEHOLDERS TRANSACT ROUTINE BUSINESS

STREET COMMISSIONERS ASKS FOR LARGER INLETS FOR BRIDGE.

The Union County Board of Freeholders, at its meeting in Elizabeth yesterday, received a communication from Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, asking the board to install larger inlets at the bridge over Cedar brook at Richmond and East Seventh streets, the ones now in use not being large enough to carry off the surface water satisfactorily. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

There was also a report on the proposed new $9,000 bridge at Springfield, and the members decided to visit that place on Wednesday, July 12, to take action. A minority report was received from Freeholder Woodruff, in which he stated that the present bridge could be repaired at an expense of $2,060.

---

Jr. O. U. A. M. Outing.

Don't fail to go on the first annual excursion of Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., to Asbury Park, on Saturday, July 22. This is the first time that the two councils have joined in such an outing and a good day's pleasure is promised all. The train will leave Plainfield at 8 o'clock in the morning and returning will leave the Park at 9:30 at night, giving a long day at the shore. W.W J. Hartpence is chairman of the committee and Walter C. Walker secretary.

---

Van Orden Case Appealed.

The non-support case of Harriet Van Orden, of the borough, against her husband, Daniel B. Van Orden, has been appealed by the latter from Justice Smalley's court. It is contended that the justice's decision was not according to the evidence. F. J. Blatz is the appellant's lawyer and F. J. Huff represents the appellee.

---

Secures Crescent Market.

Charles Stranzenbach, who was connected with the Plainfield Beef *Company for many years, has secur*ed control of the Crescent market, on Watchung avenue, formerly conducted by Jeppe Sorensen. He has already commenced improvements that will make it one of the best meat emporiums in the city.

---

Warning to Borough Delinquents.

Collector George F. Brown, of the borough, has announced that all delinquent taxes are to be advertised unless paid within the next few weeks. The advertising is to be followed by the usual sale.

TO RENOMINATE CHILDS

Somerset Democrats to Return Restaurant Man to the Senate.

REPUBLICAN WHISPERS

Frelinghuysen May Be Entered Against Childs, Who Defeated Him Three Years Ago.

The Democrats of Somerset county have definitely decided to renominate Samuel S. Childs for Senator at their next September county convention. Mr. Childs has served one term in the Senate, and, while he has not been an aggressive member of the Legislature, he has won the esteem of both Republicans and Democrats by his quiet, unobtrusive demeanor and his businesslike way of doing things.

The Somerset Republicans have not decided upon a candidate for Senator, but it is understood that Joseph H. Frelinghuysen, who was recently appointed as a colonel on the staff of Governor Stokes, is a candidate for the nomination. Mr. Frelinghuysen was defeated by Mr. Childs three years ago. There is some friction among the Republicans of Somerest county. It was caused by the contest between friends of Mr. Frelinghuysen and his opponents in the selection of the prosecuting attorney for the county. Mr. Frelinghuysen's candidate was appointed by Governor Stokes, and the applicant who was endorsed by ex-Senator Lewis A. Thompson and several other leading Republicans of the county was unsuccessful.

In this connection it can be truthfully stated that if Senator Childs receives a renomination that his running mate for Member of Assembly will be none other than Stewart Kenney, a prominent Somerville merchant.

HOBOKEN CLUB IS NOW "INDEPENDENT"

NATIONAL COMMISSION RETURNS $500 CHECK TO MANAGER DAAB.

It was officially announced at Cincinati yesterday by Chairman Herrmann, of the National Commission, *that the Hoboken Club had with*drawn from the National Commission, and that he had ordered the return of the $500 check, as a pledge of good faith, to Manager Daab. It was announced that it was supposed that the club found it impossible to obtain a sufficient number of dates with clubs that did not harbor ineligible players and so decided to quit the agreement. It was further stated that under these conditions it will not be long before the Hoboken Club is placed on the ineligible list.

It is not true that the club found it difficult to secure dates with agreement clubs, the real reason for the action being that the National Commission did not give Manager Daab the ful protection as promised. It allowed National and American League players to engage in contests with and against outlaws. It permitted the New York Giants to cancel its game with Hoboken, because it had an opportunity to play the Brooklyn Nationals, and it also permitted "Rube" Oldring to "jump" the club and go to Alabama, with a National agreement club, without taking any action. Manager Daab decided not to be used for a good thing any longer and took steps to be released from the National agreement.

---

FOR PARDONS COURT.

Applications of Garrabrant and MacQueen Will Come Up.

The committie of the Court of Pardons appointed for the purpose will begin Monday, at Trenton, the examination of the applications made by the inmates of the State prison for pardon. The committee is composed of Judges Vroom, Bogert, Vredenburgh, Green and Gray.

Special interest attaches to the meeting of the court this term, because Libbie Garrabrant will again try for a pardon. At the last term, with a vacancy in the court, she came within one vote of securing her liberty. Her friends believed if a full court had been sitting the pardon would have been granted.

The appointment of James B. Dill fills the vacancy and those who are working for Miss Garrabrant will put forth strenuous efforts to secure the coveted liberty for the famous prisoner.

Through the efforts of the Rev. Alfred W. Wishart, the application of William MacQueen for a pardon will also come before the court. MacQueen is serving five years for alleged rioting and malicious mischief in Paterson. Mr. Wishart has interview several members of the court in an endeavor to bring about a sentiment in favor of MacQueen's release.

---

Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Pierrepont Foster, of New Haven.

W. R. Davies has registered this week from the Seaside in Ocean Grove from Westfield.

BLOCK STREET WIDENING

Property Owners Object to Any Extension of Somerset Street.

PETITIONS CIRCULATED

That Dam Question Comes Up Again, but Nothing is Done —Resolutions of Respect.

Much to the surprise of Mayor Smalley and several of the members, property owners on Somerset street presented a petitioned to the borough Council, last night, asking that no action be taken to widen that thoroughfare above Jackson avenue. It was signed by Andrew Lutkins, George Steiner and twenty-nine others, the total representing 4,360 feet of frontage. No action in regard to the improvement was taken and none was intended until a petition was presented asking that the widening be done. It is understood the petition to this effect is now being circulated, but the opposition displayed gives the matter a new aspect.

Following Chairman Arnold's report of street work, a discussion about the condition of upper Somerset street took place and the old subject of the Cooley dam causing water from Stony brook to flow out and destroy the macadam, was brought up. It developed that nothing has been done toward taking down the obstruction although the Council many months ago had been informed it would. Mr. Lee made some pointed remarks in which he inferred that the condition of the street is a disgrace and that a "certain man" had quoted a State law to him under which an official fixing a road and not doing it properly could be made amenable to the law. This reflected upon Chairman Arnold, who has the work in charge, but his explanation of affairs showed that he has done everything that could possibly be done and that the street will never amount to much until the dam is removed. The "certain man's" quotation of law was also set at naught by Borough Counsel Reed, who stated that the act in question applied only to State roads.

Mr. Reed was instructed by Mayor Smalley to draw up the proper form for the establishment of a building line on Vine and other streets and on motion of Mr. Arnold it was moved that the Council install a storm sewer in West End avenue at a cost not to exceed $2,350, provided the property owners grade it 100 feet and macadamize it thirty-three feet. The policemen and firemen were granted a week's vacation with pay and the following appointments were made: Street commissioner for thirty days, William B. Emmons; call men in fire department, Ferdinand Rockfellow, Patrick McDonough and John Doud. The resignations of George Gaddis and James Frazer, call men, were received and accepted. On motion of Mr. Arnold, resolutions paying tribute to the memory of John Valiant, were passed.

H. DE MOTT'S THREAT TO BOROUGH COUNCIL

WOULD REMOVE UNLESS PETITION IS GRANTED—IT IS REFUSED.

A petition was received from Henry DeMott at the North Plainfield Council meeting last night asking permission to erect a frame barn 25 by 40 feet in the rear of 56 Somerset street. With its presentation Clerk Rowley informed the board that in the event of its refusal Mr. DeMott had made the open declaration that he would remove from the borough. The threat did not seem to disturb the members as they voted against giving the desired privilege on the ground that it would be to near surrounding structures and also that the roof covering it was said would be used was not fire-proof.

A sample was submitted to the Council and though it was asserted in the petition that is was asbestos, it burned readily when a match was applied to it.

---

NO SUMMER SUSPENSION.

Hope Chapel Boys' Club Votes Against Cessation of Meetings.

There will be no summer let-up in the Boys' Club of Hope chapel. The question of suspending meetings during the hot spell was put to the members at the regular monthly meeting last night, and the vote was unanimously against it.

A new member was elected. The total membership is now thirty-five.

Arrangements were made for an entertainment and "ladies' night" on September 28. The affair will follow the regular election.

Plans for a quoits tournament are under way. The club meets every Friday night.

---

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk are at Southampton, L. I., for the summer.

Mrs. Alfred Schomp, of Lafayette place, has recovered from a recent illness.

PULPIT TALKS FOR SHUT-IN PLAINFIELDERS

NO. 4—By the Rev. Lawrence Riggs Howard, Pastor of Hope Memorial Chapel.

He restoreth my soul.—Psalm xxiii:3.

Probably there is no song or poem in all the literature of the world which has brought peace and comfort to so many hearts as has the twenty-third Psalm. Its sweet and simple phrases are among the first the children learn, the little lambs of the flock who early come to know and love the tender shepherd's name. Men and women, too, who have reached the prime of life are thrilled beyond their comprehension as they lend their firmer voices to the recitation of those well known words. They feel a cooling and restful touch upon their fevered brows, and all the heat and burden of the day is forgotten in the pleasing consciousness of green pastures and still waters. In quietness and in confidence they find their strength, in accordance with the word of the Lord. And then the old folk, how they cling to the sweet assurance of that psalm. The dark shadowed vale loses its terrors and the rod and staff of Jehovah become their comfort and their stay.

Rev. L. R. Howard.

It would be a rare pleasure to trace in full, if such a thing were possible, the life history of that psalm. What richness of feeling would be revealed as we began with a glimpse into the heart of him who sang it first on the far Judean hills. How our hearts would thrill again in company with those of Jehovah's servants long ago who heard for the first time those tender words as sung by him who has so well been called the Sweet Singer of Israel. Then as years passed by and the chosen race cried out of exile to their God, what joy to see the weeping children cheered and comforted with the assurance of His constant care in their behalf, preparing His table before them in the presence of their enemies.

But time would fail me to suggest more than the most meager outlines of that wonderful story. It would need to take us through the most eventful years of Israel's history, and then, with the coming of the new evangel, round the earth. We might listen to the chantings of saints and martyrs of the early church bravely singing in the face of death. We might join in the songs of Waldensians as they worshipped in their hiding places through the forests of southern France, or of Covenanters on Scotland's hills. Our hearts would throb again on bleak New England's shores, or in the homes of exiled Huguenots, toward the south, hearing the words of Israel's Shepherd King cheering and comforting the brave hearts of those who truly seemed to have no other king than Jehovah and no other guide on the rough paths of life.

Then, as if such past history were not enough, every heart which has ever known the beauty and the helpfulness of those living words as the nt expression of its own faith, would have another story to add. A story, this, of the inner life with toils and pains and perils, to the world unknown, all lightened and soothed and turned aside by the sweet influence of that psalm.

I seem to hear, even now, the rich voice of the singer who sang so long ago, and the trembling strains of the harp sink almost to silence, as solemnly, yet tenderly, he begins, "Jehovah!" Oh, the reverence and the devotion that swell in the loved tones of that sacred name—"Jehovah is my shepherd." Back into his younger years, out upon Bethlehem's hills, I follow the memory of the shepherd poet. I see him gently leading the mothers of the flock, and carrying the little lambs warm in his arms. I see him finding their pastures and guarding them from harm, fighting the bear and the lion, and singing his songs in the starlight as he watches them through the night.

Jehovah is my shepherd;
I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures;
He leadeth me beside the still waters.

All that the singing shepherd ever had been or longed to be to the helpless creatures in his care; all of strength and of tenderness, all of wise guardianship and unaffected love, all that was Jehovah to him. No wonder his voice, though strong and clear, vibrates with rich and tender emotion as scene by scene he pictures Jehovah's care for himself in terms of the shepherd life.

Sunddenly, however, the theme soars to a higher and diviner level. The wonder of Jehovah's love carries the singer beyond all that even so rich a figure can suggest, and the beautiful voice rings out exultantly in the glorious cry,

He restoreth my soul!

It is probable that now the memory of that pleasant shepherd life is for the moment replaced by the thought of a troubled and uncertain present, Loneliness and despair have pressed him hard. The hatred of friends once dear has eaten like poison into his soul; or perhaps the greater bitterness of conscious sin has all but overwhelmed him in remorse. Oh, the misery of such life in death! but no! it is not so, the faith of childhood years is with him still. The fainting spirit is revived, and he sings with exultant gladness to the shepherd of his soul. As green pastures and quiet waters revive the wearied lambs of the flock, so doth Jehovah restore life to the soul. As the shepherd chooses safe paths for the sheep to follow, so the Lord guideth his own in paths of righteousness, for his name's sake.

It is a wonderfully beautiful thought, is it not? And how true to human experience! With all the power of the human mind and will, and with all our capacity of feeling, we are nevertheless but as helpless sheep in the wilderness of this life. Beaten by the storms of a seeming*ly harsh fate, driven to and fro by* beasts of sin and selfish passion, what hope remains for struggling humanity? Even when outward conditions seem pleasant at first the soul that is without guidance and inspiration soon finds itself lost in a hopeless maze. Distressed and scattered, as sheep having no shepherd, is the appearance of the multitudes to one who appreciates their need.

I suppose everyone has felt at some time the soul weariness which follows presently upon such a state, and that I believe is why the shepherd pasim is of such universal power. There is no device of man which will satisfy the need. There is no human arrangement which can provide restoration to the soul. There is no material wealth so great as to purchase one moment of that inner peace and rest which is our heart's desire. No, a man can not restore his own soul. In vain he seeks by outward expedients to regain that freshness and vigor of faith, and hope, and love, that honest simplicity of affection, that pure strength of character which once seemed to be his, but which have vanished with increasing years as vanishes the morning mist before the sun. Ex*hausted at last he must learn, if he* will live, that God alone restoreth the soul.

"Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard? the everlasting God, Jehovah, the Creator of the ends of the earth, faineth not neither is weary; there is no searching of his understanding. He giveth power to the faint: and to him that hath no might He increaseth strength." The soul of man is of God and retains its native force and vigor only as the *life of God continues to be its con*stant inspiration. This is the truth which underlies the shepherd psalm and all the devotional literature of the world. This it is which is the ever new gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

PERSONAL.

Linden West, of this city, is ill at his father's home in Cherryville.

Miss VanFleet, of East Third street, has been visiting friends at Somerville.

Miss Margaret Whelan, of High Bridge, has returned home after a visit here with friends.

Mrs. Arthur S. Mosher and children, of West Fifth street, are visiting Mrs. Mosher's mother at Centreville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dixon, of West Fifth street, have left town for a month's vacation for the benefit of Mr. Dixon's health.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Adma L. Seals, of West Fourth street, are visiting their grandparents at High Bridge.

Mrs. Charles McCarthy, of Manson place, is entertaining her cousins, the Misses Helen, Sarah and Elizabeth Greeley, of Troy, N. Y.

Frank Davis, of Annandale, who had his hand amputated at the hospital Fourth of July night, is steadily *improving and will probably re*turn home soon.

Harry DeMeza, of West Second street, who fractured his collar bone recently, has recovered sufficiently to be able to resume his position at J. R. Blair's store in Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of Myrtle avenue, will leave Monday on their annual vacation. They will first go to Martha's Vineyard for a stay, and then will spend the remainder of the time in Maine.

CONGREGATION HONORS SYNAGOGUE BUILDER

DINNER TENDERED TO SAMUEL DREIER AT TEMPLE HE MADE POSSSIBLE.

The congregation of the Temple Children of Israel tendered a dinner to Samuel Dreier, of West Front street, last night, to mark the eve of his two months' trip through the West. The affair was held in the social hall of the synagogue, on New street. Sixty members of the synagogue attended it.

Mr. Dreier is the man to whom most of the credit for the building of the temple is due, and the congregation regards him in the light of a father of the organization. Speeches of well wishing were made by M. Abrams, Jacob Fass, Harry Dreier and David Dreier, to which the venerable guest of honor responded.

An immense basket of flowers was presented to Mr. Dreier with the best wishes of the congregation.

To Clean Shirt Waists.

The first thing to remember about lingerie waists and tub hats is that if they are to outlast more than one season they should be laundred before thye get soiled. It is no economy to get just one more wear out of a slightly dirty blouse, for grease cannot be washed out of it without radical and severe treatment warranted to destroy very delicate material.

A great many women undertake to launder their own lingerie waists, preferring to do this rather than intrust them to the ravaging process of the general wash—and fluffy hats of the muslin, embroidery or linen varieties are easily washed by the owner herself after having been ripped apart by the same hands.

When the lingerie waist assumes that grayish, yellow tinge that seems never to want to disapper, soaking it over night in buttermilk before washing will bleach it, and if one night has not improved it twenty-four hours surely will, says the New York World.

Very delicate material should never be rubbed in the washing. The best way to avoid separating the threads of delicate fabrics is to have already made a jarful of liquid or soft soap to be used for washing these materials only. Scraps of white soap cut up and dissolved in hot water make the best kind of suds. By adding a teaspoonful of alcohol to each quart of soapsuds the cleansing process will be materially lightened. The water should be tepid and the material should never be rubbed or wrung out, merely squeezed and gently shaken in the water.

Many people use bran, which is an excellent substitute for soap when washing delicate muslins. Boil wheat bran in about a quart of soft water (rain water if possible), for half an hour. When cool strain off and use in place of suds.

For delicate waists and frocks a thick corn meal mush well salted will take out the dirt without fading the material. The mush is used as if it were soap and the material will not require starching. It should, however, be rinsed in two waters at least.

For those who prefer the laces over their summer frocks starched stiffly the dry starch should be mixed with cold water until it is of the con*sistency of milk, then boiled until it* it perfectly transparent. Frills and edges should be squeezed through the starch and then rolled in a towel and clapped until they are fairly dry. Now pull each bit of lace out exactly as it is to look when dry, pin on the ironing board or on a pillow. When dry press between tissue paper with a hot iron. Where a cream-colored lace has faded to white a few teaspoonsful of coffee added to the starch will give it back the yellow*ish look. Experiment with a rag* until you get the right shade. Grease spots that won't vanish with ordinary measures can be removed from cotton or linen by rubbing with ninety-five per cent. alcohol, then sponged off with weak alcohol and a small quantity of ammonia added to it. A little javelle-water is used to remove peach stains which won't come out by boiling. This is the way to prepare it:

Into a large saucepan, porcelain-lined if possible, put four pounds of bicarbonate of soda and four quarts of hot water. Stir frequently with a wooden stick until the soda is all dissolved; then add one pound of chloride of lime and stir occasionally until nearly all the solids are dissolved. Let the liquid cool in a kettle, then strain the clear part through a cheese cloth into wide-mouthed bottles. Put the stoppers in and set away for use. The part that is not clear may be set away for cleaning white floors.

In making this preparation be careful not to spatter it on your clothing or on the paint. Use one-half teaspoonful to every quart of water.

The amateur laundress seldom appreciates the necessity of having a sleeve board, but she will certainly be repaid by purchasing one at the beginning of the season. A small traveling flatiron is a most usual adjunct, but may be replaced at a crisis by a hot water bottle.

Miss Justina Smith has given up her position at I. H. Boehm's for two months and she will go to New York State for her health.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

July 16: "The Message of the Flowers"—Matt. vi. 28-34. Jas. i, 9-11.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

The message which the flowers speak most plainly to many is one of beauty and the delight in fragrance. This is prominent at the present time, when we use such quantities of them in decorations for weddings, receptions and as tributes of affection at funerals.

Nor is this message one to be lightly prized. To many a heart oppressed with burdens almost unbearable what relief is afforded by the timely gift of a spray of roses or a fragrant bunch of carnations from the greenhouse or a handful of blossoms from the humble home garden of some flower loving friend!

One of the sweetest Christian ministries is that which distributes through our cities during the hot weather flowers sent in from the country for hospitals and cheerless tenement homes. More of our leagues might well assist in this most beneficent of charities. It is a blessing to those who receive the fragrant blossoms and even a greater benefit to those who carry them to the helpless and well nigh hopeless ones.

There are many village communities where this work should have attention. Let our country leagues search out the sick and poor and aged of their own communities and during the summer at least carry into these homes flowers from field and garden to give cheer and Christian remembrances. It is well if the chapter should furnish the flowers for the pulpit Sunday mornings and then distribute them among the families where there are sick and bereaved ones.

But the message of most importance is an altogether different one from this. Jesus used the flowers to show that God had oversight and loving care to provide for His own. If His care clothed the wilderness flowers with beauty when no eye would look upon them and their fragrance be flung on the desert air, does it not speak of a heart so true to us that we need have no anxiety regarding His provisions for us? As flowers just grow and develop their God given nature and in so doing display beauty most marvelous so should we without deeply anxious thought do the duty that lies at hand and trust in the guidance of God our Father.

Our beauty is not to be that of outward adornment of dress, but with all modesty live the simple life and have the beauty of the meek and quiet spirit.

Keep your eyes open for a month and note those whom you meet. Contrast the appearance in face, manners and speech of those who are devoting their energies to fashion, style and social demands with the bearing of those who, while giving all needed attention to proper dress and bodily appearance, are giving their real care to the earnest work of the inner living and life of loving helpfulness. Which do you like best? Which kind would you rather be yourself? True culture is a matter of heart and not merely one of bending back and posture of hands and feet.

Real beauty is not external in face or form, but an inner grace that transfigures and glorifies even an ungainly figure by power of love.

Heaven.

Is not heaven rest? says some weary one. Yes; the rest of joyous, unimpeded service, the rest of those who serve Him day and night, the rest of those who run and are not weary, who walk and are not faint. The soul which has been crowded out of her proper place by ruthless circumstances or angry competition will breathe freely in that ampler air. There will be no jostling on the streets of the city of God. In company with the great multitude which has tasted the sorrow of defeat we shall walk about the fields of light. What here we have yearned for there we shall enjoy. What here we have dreamed there we shall dare and do in endless unconstrained service, advancing from knowledge to knowledge and from glory to glory.—Professor John Edgar McFayden.

Your Reward.

Your work will bring you love. You may meet with much ingratitude. Some to whom you look for sympathy may pierce your hand like a broken staff. Your heart may be wounded by the serpent's tooth of unthankfulness, yet if you truly labor with the devoutness of an apostle and the heroism of a martyr you will come into a large estate of love, and your name will be fragrant throughout the eternal summer of the heavens.—Joseph Parker.

The Song of a Grateful Heart.

I thank Thee, Father, for the love
With which my days are crowned;
I thank Thee for the care with which
Thou dost my life surround.
I thank Thee for the faculties
With which I am endowed
And for the peace within my heart,
Which sings its thanks aloud.

I thank Thee that each morn I wake
From pain and sickness free;
I thank Thee for the privilege
Of faith and trust in Thee.
I thank Thee for the knowledge that Thy presence is so near
And that I know, despite my faults,
My Saviour holds me dear.

I thank Thee for the privilege
Of comforting the sad
And sharing with the needy ones
Thy gifts which made me glad.
I thank Thee for the memory
Of dear ones gone before,
Singing Thy praise with Thy redeemed—
Safe, safe forevermore!

Dear Lord, Thou know'st I cannot count
Thy mercies, though I would,
They are so many and so free,
So wondrous and so good!
But Thine all searching eye doth read
My gratitude for all,
And may my trust be stayed on Thee
Whatever may befall.
—Mar— D. Brine in Christian Endeavor World.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 16.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The message of the flowers.—Matt. vi, 28-34; Jas. i, 9-11.

The universe speaks of God. "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork." But not only in its greater parts does the universe speak of God and teach us useful lessons concerning Him, but in all its parts this is also true. The dewdrop as well as the star tells us that God is and speaks of his power and His goodness.

Religious teachers have always taken advantage of the fact that nature is simply unwritten theology. From earliest times truth concerning God has been illustrated by the beautiful things in the world about us. In almost every natural phenomenon lessons have been learned of God, and in all nature messages have been received from God. This being true, it is assured that men would have seen messages in the flowers. If, as the poet says, there are "sermons in stones," much more can we expect to find messages in the flowers, nature's most beautiful adornment. The flowers have a language. They convey messages from man to man, and much more do they speak and teach of Him who made them and decked them in all their beauty and gave to them their sweet fragrance.

1. The flowers teach a lesson on faith. "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow." How do they grow? No one knows or can explain the mystery of their growth. We know that they grow, but no one can explain their growth. In the realm of religion as in the realm of nature there are many things that we cannot explain or understand, but we can believe in them. "We walk by faith and not by sight." Religion is of faith, nor is it unreasonable to believe what we cannot fully comprehend. We know that the muscles of the arm are under the control of the will, but how the mind acts upon the body in using the muscles of the arm no man knows. The fact is evident; the philosophy is unfathomable. By religious experience we know many things that we cannot explain, but we can believe them and wait for God to make them plain to us.

2. The flowers teach a lesson on divine Providence. The lilies grow without toiling or spinning because God cares for them, and if He care for the lily, which today is and tomorrow is cast into the oven, shall He not much more care for His own children? If God takes care of the flowers we can rest assured that He will care for us. "Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or What shall we drink? or Wherewithal shall we be clothed? * * * for your Heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things." And, knowing our needs, He will supply them.

3. The flowers teach a lesson on the transitoriness of human life. "As the flower of the field be [man] shall pass away." The flower soon fades and dies. Human life at its best is brief. Let us therefore make the best of it. May the Lord "so teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xiv, 2; Ps. xlvi, 1-11; S. of Sol. ii, 1, 2, 10-17; I John iii, 15-17; Isa. xl, 1-8; Nah. i, 1-5; Rom. viii, 28; I Cor. vii, 31; I Pet. i, 24, 25.

Origin of the Welsh Revival.

The following paragraph from an article in the Outlook credits Christian Endeavor with the origin of the Welsh revival. It gives some facts of great interest:

"The impulse toward God which was moving the subconsciousness of the whole Welsh nation had shown itself very strongly in a certain church in Cardiganshire in the spring of 1904. The minister had been praying in a special manner for a revival both in his own heart and among the young of his church. At a Christian Endeavor meeting a young girl who had been passing through a period of struggle and doubt made public and joyful announcement of her love for Jesus. It was then that the revival, as such, began. A party of these Endeavorers, fired with zeal and joy in their newly gained power, went from place to place speaking to their fellows. They came to the village in which Evan Roberts was staying, and it was at one of their meetings that he had the vision to go to his own village."

From the Loyalty Islands.

An interesting letter from New Caledonia, L. I., says that out of a total population of 6,002 there are now 1,988 Endeavorers, 451 of whom are Juniors, an increase of 495 in the past year. They have raised nearly $8,000 for missions. For several years they have tried to start a mission in the northern island, but were not permitted. This year they have got a *good foothold and now have 2,694 ad*herents, with a membership of 543.

In Foreign Key.

The Bombay Christian Endeavor society, organized Jan. 1, 1885, is the first in all India. It is, after all these years, a growing power. Last year its members preached to about 18,000 people at fairs, distributed about 15,100 tracts, conducted fourteen Sunday schools regularly and visited the hospitals every Sunday. They use a megaphone preaching in the noisy streets.

When Rev. Horace Dutton went to Italy in 1902 he found only one Christian Endeavor society in all Italy, that in the Baptist church at Piazza, in Lucina, Rome. Now Italy has seven.

Rev. William Carey, great-grandson of the famous pioneer missionary, said recently, "I have no hesitation in saying that Christian Endeavor is the highest and best thing that God has sent to us in India, and it has speedily become an influence for good."

FORMER PLAINFIELD PASTOR DECLINES TO GIVE UP $3,500 FOR $14,000 INCOME

Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, former pastor of Trinity Reformed church, this city, and now president of Union College, at Schenectady, N. Y., has refused an offer to become pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Buffalo, N. Y., at a salary of $14,000 a year. His present salary is $3,500.

When Trinity Reformed church celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary recently, Dr. Raymond was one of the principal speakers. He is fifty-one years of age. His first charge was at Paterson, from which city he came to Plainfield in 1881. In 1887 he was called to the Fourth Reformed church, Albany, N. Y. The trustees of Union College elected him president of that institution in 1904.

RESTAURANT MAN WOULD NOT TRUST GOV. STOKES FOR HIS DOLLAR DINNER

Governor Stokes and Dr. H. G. Norton had an embarrassing experience Thursday night in a restaurant at Trenton.

The Governor and Dr. Norton had a sandwich or two, and their bill was about a dollar. The man in charge was new, and did not know either of them.

The Governor went to the desk to settle and discovered that he had not a cent in his pocket. Dr. Norton hastily made an investigation of his pockets with a like result. The man behind the desk frowned ominously

"I am Governor Stokes," explained the Governor, "and I will settle this when I come in again."

"Well, I'm President Roosevelt, and you pay me now," replied the man frostily.

The Governor and Dr. Norton attempted further explanations, but the ban in charge didn't melt. On the contrary, he was rapidly losing his temper, when one of the old waiters who knew the Governor came in the identified him.

Then the new manager apologized and everybody laughed.

CO. K. MEN QUALIFY AT SEA GIRT RANGE

LOCALILIST OF SHARPSHOOTERS AND MARKESMEN.

Thirty-three members of Co. K went to Sea Girt this week and twenty-five qualified on the State range, all making good scores. There are fifty-seven members of the company and the remainder will have an opportunity on several open dates to visit the range and qualify. At the present rate it is believed that a large percentage of the members will pass with good scores. Charles Peterson and Percy Vail remained over at Asbury Park yesterday for the purpose of seeing President Roosevelt.

Those who qualified:

Sharpshooters — Captain W. B. Martin, Sergeant A. I. Littell, Corporals Bilyeu and Phillips; marksmen—Lieut John Lewis, Sergeants Charles Peterson, Oliver R. Pearson, Corporals Tranchard, Conklin, Weaver, James Niles; Privates DeCamp, Post, Frazee, Lambert, Vail, Archie Niles, Slingland, Scribner, Wilson, Manning, Pearsall and Winters.

CHEMICAL MACHINE FOR BOROUGH FIREMEN

COUNCIL ORDERS ONE BUILT AT NET COST OF $1870.

Through a resolution introduced by Chairman Lee, of the fire, water and lamps committee, the borough Council, last night, decided to install a combination chemical and hose wagon at fire headquarters in place of the old style hose wagon now in use. It will be built by the American La-France Company at a net cost of $1,870. The original bid, the lowest of three submitted, was $2,270, but the concern offered to allow $400 in trade for the rubber tired hose wagon purchased from the West End company when it disbanded. It cost the borough $350 but has never been used. The resolution was carried with only Mr. Humble voting against it.

The new machine will be almost an exact counterpart of the one at the West End house in the city and will be installed as soon as it can be built. It will carry a large supply of ordinary hose and will be equipped with improved chemical tanks of large capacity. Once it is placed in service, the department's efficiency will be greatly increased.

The Council also voted to purchase 500 feet of new hose, the first that has been bought since 1897.

BAIL FOR SCADUTO.

Prosecutor Agrees to Bond for Italian Murdered—Indictment in Fall.

Luigi Scaduto, the murderer of Lorenzo Fauci, his fellow fish-peddler, is to be released under bonds. J. P. Owens, his lawyer, announced this morning that he had reached an agreement as to bail with Prosecutor English.

The bonds will necessarily be high, perhaps as high as $10,000, but the lawyer expects to be able to furnish them. If bail is granted and secured, examination before a justice will be waived by the defense. Scaduto will not be indicted before October, according to Mr. Owens.

Purchased a Thoroughbred Steed.

H. C. Compton, of West Front street, has sold his horse which he owned for a number of years and purchased a thoroughbred animal from a farmer at Cherryville, Hunterdon county. The horse is a beauty, full of action and can reel off a mile in quick time.

SOME IMPROVEMENTS FOR PARK AVENUE

CHANGES TO BE MADE BETWEEN SECOND STREET AND RAILROAD.

Plans are being perfected to make some changes in the property on Park avenue recently acquired by John G MacLaughlin and Charles W. McCutchen. It is said that Mr. MacLaughlin proposes to move the building now occupied by M. C. Dobbins, Clifton & Campbell and A. E. Hoagland, to a point about where the office of Boice, Runyon & Co. stands. That office building is to be moved nearer the railroad, about where the old office stood, and the other building will be shifted to the extreme end of the property owned by Mr. MacLaughlin.

It is then proposed to move some of Mr. McCutchen's buildings to the site to be vacated, thus giving him an opportunity to start the work of erecting new buildings as originally planned. By this change tenants will not have to move for some time, at least, and the improvements can be made without disturbing them to any extent.

Mr. McCutchen has not yet perfected his plans for new buildings, but it is expected that operations will begin within a short time. It is expected that the ground floors will be used for stores and the upper ones for offices and flats. The new buildings will be modern in every particular and will harmonize with the new trust company building.

The new buildings will have to be moved back to allow for the proposed widening of Park avenue, the work on which will be started soon.

FORMFR PLAINFIEDER RETURNS

Charles Bullman Now in the City After Many Years' Absence.

Charles Bullman, a former well known Plainfielder who graduated from the Plainfield High School in 1879, has returned to the city after many years in the western part of the country and South America. He came direct from Mojave, Cal., where he has been in the employ of a large mining company as expert. He is now at the home of his mother, Mrs. VanName, of Third place, and will remain in Plainfield indefinitely.

Mr. Bullman completed the course in the School of Mines, Columbia College, after leaving the local schools and then went West. He met with many interesting experiences and probably has an extensive knowledge of the territory through which the Panama Canal is to be built as any man in the East. A great deal of his time was spent in that section as expert in the interest of mining concerns. He was also in Venezuela and other South American countries.

Leg-Pulling Job.

Ex-Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of Plainfield, positively declines to be a candidate for State Senator in Union county this fall. The honor was his for the asking. He lives in a section where such honors cost a fortune very often and bring no adequate return. The man who values his time and money can dispense with such luxuries.—Atlantic City Evening Union.

Wedded a Year, Divorce.

F. Thomas, a business man of Somerville, has brought action in the Chancery Court of New Jersey at Trenton for an absolute divorce from his wife, Mrs. Sadie Blackfaan Carpenter Thomas, on the ground of desertion. The couple were married four years ago and separated after living together less than one year.

Miss Carrie Heyl is entertaining Miss Julia Fern, of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McCutchen, of the borough, will soon leave for their summer home in the Adirondacks.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

Thursday, July 13, 1905.

"Advertising is to business what steam is to an engine."—Atlantic City Evening Union.

Not content with the normal hot wave, the Kansas people have imported Jerome and Lawson.

That Trenton restaurant man who wouldn't trust the Governor must have come from Pennsylvania.

It's awfully mean of Lieut. Peary to start talking about his trip to the North Pole while the thermometer keeps hovering in the nineties.

If the ice from Watchung Lake is as good as the Board of Health's analysis shows, it ought to be exhibited at the next World's fair.

New Brunswick is disappointed over the census returns. Mystery is that the Middlesex town is able to hold on to do many people. Why is it?

According to the census returns, Plainfield has nearly doubled its population in the last twenty-five years. In 1880 there were 11,300 people in the town, and now there are 18,478.

When Rockefeller and Carnegie unload their money for the uplifting of mankind, and when Root and Dill give up almost half-million incomes to become public servants, we are almost persuaded to drop our cynicism.

S. S. Childs, the Bernardsville millionaire, is being "advertised by his loving friends" for a senatorial renomination. It's safe to say that the "statesman's" money bags will stand the test to which they were put three years ago."

Just at the beginning of his talking tour against the trusts, Thomas W. Lawson's voice gave out. The news gave small satisfaction at No. 26 Broadway, however, as the Boston man has shown no symptoms of writer's cramp.

Plainfield's population, according to official returns, is 18,487. North Plainfield is not reported as yet, but is likely to be more than 6,000. United they are a community of approximately 25,000. A finer body of people cannot be found in the State.

Freeholder, who gives his burning thoughts on Jersey politics, through the New York Press, each morning, says that "it would savor of ingratitude for the Democrats of Somerset to even suggest the nomination of any other man than Samuel S. Swackhamer for senator, if Senator Childs refuses another term." Well, what's the matter with nominating Swackhamer instead of Childs?

It is suggested that the Common Council complete the sum necessary for the establishment of a public swimming pool as arranged by the Board of Trade. This is something clearly for the public good and the expense should be borne by the municipality. The Board of Trade has given twenty-five dollars towards the fund. Let the city fathers do the rest!

Benjamin King's selection as director of the Board of Freeholders will no doubt meet with general approval. The Clark township man has made a good record for himself as a public servant, not only while serving as a freeholder, but in other capacities. For fifteen years he has been a member of the school board and for a lesser period a member of the committee of his own township and has been conspicuously active in both positions.

Imported cheese has grown so rapidly in favor in the United States during the past ten years that is has been found profitable to manufacture in this country imitations of several varieties that formerly could be obtained only from the other side of the Atlantic. As the American brands of "foreign" cheese are almost invariably as good as the original, an advertising expert suggests that they ought to be exploited for what they are and sold on their merits. In his opinion there is a fortune awaiting the cheese maker who shall first seize upon this opportunity and inaugurate an extensive advertising campaign in behalf of domestic fancy cheeses. There are thousands of new industries that might be put on a firmer footing with the help of publicity.

FIRST PEACHES.

Burlington Man Claims This Season's Honors.

The festive Jersey peach made its season's debut at Burlington yesterday, when six baskets of the fruit were brought to market by W. V. Livesey, a farmer living near that place, on the Bordentown road. The peaches were of one of the early varieties and were well developed for this time of the year. Hucksters bought the six baskets on sight, paying good prices for the fruit.

The peach crop in this section promises to be up to the average this year, although in some localities the trees are suffering considerably from the scale and blight.

AMUSEMENTS.

The largest audience on Fourth of July at any place of amusement at a single time was at Pain's "Port Arthur," in the fireworks amphitheatre at Manhattan Beach. Over twelve thousand highly interested, enthusiastic people watched the reproduction of the thrilling incident of the Russo-Japanese war as each stage developed. Marvelous as was the production, it was not more marvelous than the audience itself. No one who had the good fortune to gain admission to the amphitheatre can forget the great sea of happy faces, which could be plainly distinguished in the strong lights as the fireworks broke in the air. So great was the success of the display in honor of the nation's birth that the most important parts of it will be given on Thursday and Saturday. A new kind of shells, tried for the first time, elicited immense applause and will be looked for at future displays with great pleasure. Now that the schools are closed and the parents have an opportunity to take the children down to the fireworks amphitheatre, they can also take advantage of a pleasant stroll along the boardwalk which connects Manhattan Beach with the rest of the island.

The popularity of Sam Bernard and "The Rollicking Girl" at the Herald Square Theatre continues to be overwhelming. It is the only big attraction under a roof that has defied the weather, and in its nine weeks' run it has broken all records for a summer attraction. Sam Bernard's wonderful powers as a laugh maker and the excellent opportunities the role of Schmaltz gives him; Hattie Williams' charming comedy work and captivating singing; the amusing achievements of Joe Coyne and Aimee Angeles, and the delightful dancing of an army of pretty girls, to say nothing of the sentimental swing song and a score of popular song hits, have all conspired to recommend "The Rollicking Girl" in the strongest way to public favor and have it heat proof and weather proof. Nothing can stop success.

The Warren concerts are on at the St. Nicholas Garden, 66th street and Columbus avenue. They begin at 8:30 every night. Coolest place in town and a good clean entertainment of the higher class. Popular prices.

The sensational comic hit is to be found at the Hudson. It's The Heir to The Hoorah. The Hoorah is a mine and the show is one also—but the former's filled with gold and the latter with rich entertainment. The man that wrote the play is dead, but his show will live on forever for it's got the elixor of life in it. If you're looking for one best night trace your steps around to 44th street, near Broadway. Evenings at 8:30. Matinees Saturday at 2:15.

There's no show in New York that compares with Fantana, which is making a record-breaking run at the Lyric. Jefferson DeAngelis makes the laughs so thick that you can't count them and he has with him Katie Barry, a whole performance in herself. The Shuberts have had to continue the run indefinitely notwithstanding the inappropriate season. But it is as cool at the Lyric as on a roof garden these days and nights and besides you can get the laughing hysterics there. The 203rd performance will take place tonight. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

The changes recently made at the Eden Musee make it one of the most interesting summer amusement places in New York city. The interior is kept delightfully cool by artificial means, and the Winter Garden has been rearranged and decorated with palms and ferns, so that it has all the charm of a Roof Garden. Nearly all the wax figures and groups have been given summer costumes, neatly pressed, so that there is dignity, style and comfort on every hand. The Czar of Russia and Mikado of Japan have been given the most prominent places in the group of "Rulers of the World," and are apparently discussing terms of peace. Several new mechanical wax figures have been added, and nearly every day sees some accession to the group of "People Talked About." Among the new moving pictures are scenes in foreign countries, incidents of travel, comic subjects and mysterious pictures. The afternoon and evening concerts by the Leipsiger Orchestra have a charm and dash that pleases lovers of music. The programmes are varied and interesting.

Hir Friends Don't Know Him.

Charles Schermerhorn, the genial manager of the Western Union telegraph office at the North Avenue station, has changed his facial appearance to such an extent by the removal of his upper lip adornment, that many of his friends failed to recognize him this morning. Mr. Schermerhorn says that it is the first time in twenty-five years that he has seen his upper lip and he likes the change so well that he has decided not to allow the lip to be hiden from view in the future.

To Battle for Keg.

A nine of married boroughites will oppose a combination of single North Plainfielders on a diamond over the mountain next Sunday afternoon. The losing combination will pay for a keg of Wurzburger. Both aggregations will drink what runs out of the keg.

ROYAL ARCANUM MAY REVISE NEW RATES

ASSURANCES THAT THE SUPREME COUNCIL WILL BE RECONVENED.

Members of Plainfield and Greenbrook Councils, Royal Arcanum, are much interested in the reports received from all over the country by the committe of nine which was appointed by the convention of Long Island councils of the Royal Arcanum to work for the reconvening of the Supreme council to reconsider the new insurance rates, which are to go into effect October 1 next, insure that the Supreme body will be reconvened.

Michigan, Illinois, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania have declared against the new rates and will, it is asserted instruct their representatives to the Supreme Council to act with the New York representatives.

Ten representatives of the fifteen accredited from the State of New York, to the Supreme Council have pledged themselves to vote for the reconvening of that body. There are seventy-six representatives to the Supreme Council at the present time, each State having a representation in accordance with its membership in the order. Section 5 of Chapter 3 of the Supreme Council constitution, says that before a special session of the Supreme Council shall be called a majority of the representatives must sign a request for its assembly.

The committee of nine has been working indefatigably to compel the reconvening of the Supreme Council, and at a meeting of the committee Wednesday night, Chairman William McCabe announced that he had secured the pledges af ten representatives of New York State to sign the reconvention request. Mr. McCabe also said that he expected shortly to secure the pledges of the remaining five representatives.

The committee of nine voted unanimously to request all the representatives to the Supreme Council, irrespective of States, to join in the demand for the reconvening of the Supreme Council.

TOWNSHIP PEOPLE AFTER FISK AND FROTHINGHAM

POMPTON RESIDENTS ANGERED AT THEIR CLOSING OLD ROAD.

The Pompton township committee of Passaic county is seeking, through the aid of the courts, to secure an injunction against Pliny Fisk, formerly of this city, and Howard P. Frothingham, a New York broker, restraining them from closing what is known as the old Cannon Ball road, near the former's summer home in Pompton. After Mr. Fisk and Mr. Frothingham secured from the Metropolitan Museum of Art a part of the estate of the late Jacob S. Rogers, of locomotive fame, they commenced to make improvements about the place.

Included in the estate is Rotten Pond, one of the best fishing waters in northern New Jersey. The people of the town say they were put to great inconvenience when the new owners closed old Cannon Ball road, and they contend that the thoroughfare is a public highway. It is understood that it is the intention to close the road only for a short time while the new owners build a macadamized road to give them a better approach for automobiles to their property. The road got its name because it was used during the Revolution for transporting cannon balls from that section, where they were made, to New York, where they were used by the British troops.

COLLECTOR A SUICIDE.

Prominent Warren County Politician Hangs Himself.

County Collector E. J. Mackey, well known in this city and one of Warren county's leading citizens, committeed suicide at his home Sunday night by hanging.

The family can give no reason for the rash act, but noticed a change bordering on despondency in Mr. Mackey's condition since the death of Mrs. Mackey a few months ago. A little granddaughter, who was a member of the family for several years, left a few days ago to live with her mother, and her leaving appeared to increase Mr. Mackey's depressed state of mind.

County Collector Mackey was prominent in Democratic politics for many years and soon after retiring from the office of sheriff was elected county collector, which office he still held at the time of his death. Justice William Mackey, a brother of the suicide, died suddenly in his office at Belvidere a few months ago, which also had a depressing effect on his brother's mind. Mackey was sixty-two years old and is survived by seven children.

A High Type of Citizenship.

The suggestion that former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of Plainfield, be named as the Republican candidate for State Senator to succeed Judge Joseph Cross, meets with general approval of voters in the county, who recognize in him a high type of citizenship.—Elizabeth Journal.

FRESH AIR HOME SERVICES

First Sunday Afternoon Meeting of the Season is Held.

MANY VISITORS THERE.

Rev. Dr. Henry, Rev. E. M. Rodman, J. F. Parker and David Torrey Participate.

The first gospel service of the season was held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home Sunday afternoon in charge of the president, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman. There were one hundred visitors and the reunion of the friends of the home was a happy one. The mothers and children are very comfortably situated and all seem to be having the time of their lives in the country.

After opening remarks by Rev. Mr. Rodman, there was a prayer and Scripture reading by Rev. John R. Henry, pastor of the Seventh Street M. E. church, New York, located near Miss Curry's winter work at the Little Missionary's Day Nursery. J. F. Parker, of this city, then made a few remarks from the text, "Whoso cometh unto me shall never hunger, and whoso believeth in me shall never thirst." The topic was "Bread and Water," and the application was made to Christians.

David M. Torrey also spoke, telling of the progress of the fresh air work since it was started in Westfiel dten years ago, and he gave a hearty welcome to the friends of the work.

During the service Miss Etta Raybert sang "Will There Be any Stars in My Crown?" and "Nearer, Still Nearer," while all the children sang "We Are Growing."

George A. Chapman, C. W. McCutchen and David Hand, members of the association, were unable to be present, as planned, and a letter was received from A. S. Morgan, of New York, founder of the Home, expressing his regreats that he could not be present.

JERSEY CENTRAL A REAL ESTATE PROMOTER

W. 6. BESSLER ONE OF THE INCORPORATORS OF TWO CONCERNS.

W. G. Besler, of North Plainfield, vice-president and general manager of the New Jersey Central, is named as an incorporator in the Communipaw Central Land Company and the Elizabeth Improvement Company, the articles of incorporation being filed yesterday at Jersey City.

The capitalization of each company is $125,000, and the companies were formed to improve land at Communipaw and Elizabeth along the line of the New Jersey Central. The other incorporators are W. H. Douty, Asbury Park, and Robert W. De Forest, New York.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Miss Helen Wagner Becomes Bride of William Kennett, of Philadelphia.

Miss Helen Frances Wagner, daughter of Jacob Wagner, of East Fifth street, and William Kennett, of Philadelphia, formerly of this city, were quietly married by Rev. A. C. McCrea at his home Saturday evening. The ceremony was witnessed only by Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Brewster, of Woodbridge, the latter being a sister of the bride. Following a wedding trip, the young couple will make their home in Philadelphia, where the groom is employed by the H. B. Underwood Company.

The groom is the son of Stephen Kenentt, of West Fourth street, and was formerly one of the leading members of the O. B. Joyful and Criterion Clubs. He is a machinist by trade and went to the Quaker City about a year ago. His bride has a host of acquaintances in the city and is an extremely popular young woman.

BENFORD NOT SATISFIED.

Wants Compensation for Injuries Caused by Bursting Cannon.

Peter Benford, who was injured by the bursting of a badly cast cannon fired early last week by Fourth street Italians, will not accept the settlement offered by the four men arrested as responsible for the accident. They were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court Saturday, and were allowed to go under suspended sentence upon their promise to settle with Benford.

They offered the latter $25. This, he says, will just pay his doctor's bill, and he wants compensation for loss of time and the pain suffered. He has placed the case in William G. DeMeza's hands, and suit is to be brought for damages unless the Italians settle no a satisfactory basis.

Took Annapolis Examinations.

Arthur S. Whitney, of West Fourth street, has returned from Annapolis, where he took the U. S. Naval Academy examinations as first alternate for appointment. He passed them successfully, as did the three others from this Congressional district.

LINES GROO RETIRES FROM BALL MANAGEMENT

PHILIP DAAB NOW HAS FULL CONTROL OF THE PLAINFIELD ASSOCIATION.

Philip Daab is now the sole owner of the franchise of the Plainfield Baseball Association, having acquired it on Saturday by purchasing all of the rights and interests of Lines Groo, who has been associated with him from the commencement of the season. Mr. Groo and Mr. Daab were brought together by a mutual friend, and they became partners in the baseball business here under the name of the Plainfield Baseball Association. During the past few week the matter of making a change in the management of the business has been underway, and was consummated Saturday afternoon, Mr. Daab taking the business. He will continue the same throughout the season.

Mr. Daab is a thorough baseball man, understanding the game from beginning to end, and there has probably been no more successful manager. He holds the highest esteem of not only his players but the public, while he places every confidence in his men and is sure of receiving loyal support.

Mr. Groo's idea were not altogether in harmony with those of his partner, and realizing that, it was thought best to separate. Mr. Groo will have nothing to do with the team or its management for the rest of the season and his position as secretary and treasurer will be taken care of by Mr. Daab. There is every indication that M. Daab will have the full support of the baseball public and the season will be a successful one, notwithstanding the exceptionally bad weather during the early part of the summer. He assures everyone that he will continue to put up the same first class article of baseball as in the past.

The Summer Boarder.

"The Summer Boarder" is a booklet of a hundred pages, issued by the New York Central, giving a list of the hotels and boarding houses, with just the information that the average resort visitor desires. A copy will be sent free, post paid, to any address, on receipt of a two cent stamp, by George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

TROLLEY PASSENGER KILLED IN HIS SEAT

STRUCK BY HAND RAILS OF ANOTHER IN CHARGE OF PLAINFIELDER.

A Dunellen-bound trolley car, in charge of Motorman James Block, of this city, struck an unknown man who was leaning out of another car going in the opposite direction on Broad street, Newark, Saturday night, inflicting injuries from which he died soon after. There was nothing to identify him except a key ring, on which it was sat forth that a dollar reward would be paid for its return to the New Jersey Registration Company, and a trademark on the inside of his coat. The police took the body in charge and after an investigation exonerated Block from all blame.

The victim sat on the rear sat of the Newark-bound car, close to the guard rail. As it swung into Broad street from Clinton avenue and approached Block's car the man suddenly fell or leaned well out from his seat, his head coming in line with the hand rails on the other car. The latter was going at a rapid rate of speed and five of the hand rails struck the man with great force. He was hurled backward to the center of his seat, his scalp badly torn and his skul crushed in. An ambulance was called, but he died as he was being hurried to St. Barnabas Hospital.

Block was formerly a borough marshal, and though a strong man, was completely unnerved by the accident.

Chance for Local Bidders.

Bids have been invited by the board of managers of the State Hospital at Trenton, for the construction of an annex to the hospital. This is a big job, and will probably involve the expenditure of $50,000. Bids will be opened Thursday, July 20. Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the commissioner of charities and correction, at the Capitol, Trenton. Trenton bidders are requested to put up $10,000 as a guarantee that they will accept the contract if it is awarded to them, and give a bond of $50,000 to guarantee satisfactory performance of contract.

Edward Mosher, Jr., of Elmwood place, is convalescing from a severe attack of typhoid fever.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Special Farmers Telephone Service.

The convenience of the city added to the delights of the country. The farmer and the market in touch. Information from nearest railway station available. Doctor always within speedy call. Hundreds of other advantages with FARMERS' TELEPHONE SERVICE.

New York and New Jersey Telephone Company

333 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J

Telephone 5192

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

Time Table Corrected to Nov. 27, 1904.

For New York — 2.17, 3.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.48, 7.56, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46, 9.34, 9.59, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday —2.17, 3.37, 5.05, 7.41, 8.01, 8.52, 9.49, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12 m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.45, 6.52, 8.12, 8.22, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.38, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.48, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.59, 9.34, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 2.31, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.53, 6.22, 6.33, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.49, 10.08, 11.10 a. m.; 12.58, 1.46, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.45, 6.52, 8.12, 8.22, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville—5.25, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m.; 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.32, 5.03, 5.29, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.32, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.23, 11.26 p. m.; 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 10.51 a. m.; 2.03, 3.40, 5.37, 6.35, 8.30, 10.15 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m.; 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29, 6.41 p. m. Sunday —5.45 a. m.; 2.03, 6.35 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.03, 6.35 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52 a. m.; 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m.; 1.18, 3.44, 4.47, 5.42, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.; 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(8.11 Lakewood only), 9.27 a. m.; 1.18, 2.49, (3.44 p. m., Lakewood only). Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 8.51, 9.44, 10.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 6.45, 7.47, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 4.55, 6.46*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47 p. m.; 1.25, 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m.; 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44, 6.45, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45 4.55, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47, 11.25 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 5.25, 8.38, 9.54, (10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m.; 2.11, (5.48, through train), 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m.; 2.08, 5.37, 6.35 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 5.25, 9.54 a. m.; 2.11, 8.21 p. m.; 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m.; 2.03 p. m.; 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—10.51 a. m.; 2.45, 6.45 p. m.; 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. — C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after July 9, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

f 10.06, 11.43 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7.[illegible], f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 3.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m., Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 4.25, 8.26, 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, f 3.04, f 3.44, f 5.43, and f 7.28 p. m. week-days. Sundays —9.05, 10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. — J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.

GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.27 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

8.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 212 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

Miss Roberta Templin, of North avenue, is the guest of Harrisburg relatives.

VanWyck Brooks, of Harvard, is spending the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brooks, of West Seventh street.

RAHWAY PROVES A CINCH

Daabsters Swat the Ball Hard in the Seventh and Win Easily.

THE SCORE IS 12 TO 2.

Cosgrave and Merity Have a Gab Feast—Other Incidents of the Sweet Song.

Gathering tallies in bunches, the nine bounding playmates who gambol together for the glory of our fair city tore huge holes in the self-esteem of Manager Potter's Rahway championship hunters. The hole sized like this: 12 to 2. The catastrophe involved the disillusionment of J. Groom, of Concord.

Last Saturday, pitching for the All-Americans, Groom was bumped twelve times by the busy Daabsters. When he heard we were going to engage in deadly combat with the Rahwegian host, he asked Manager Potter for the chance to put us on the grill. He said the hitting was all luck last Saturday; the best man we had couldn't hit him on an ordinary day with the side of a barn in his claws. In an evil moment Manager Potter listened to the siren song and hired the singist. In the seventh inning, after allowing Mr. Groom to think that he might perhaps pull off his act of vengeance, the playful Daabsters fell on him in a body and knocked the duff out of him. They welted five hits into the greensward, including a two and a three sacker, and tallied six times, after which Mr. Groom carefully packed himself in absorbent cotton and retired to the shelf. He was succeeded by Wolf, who came in from center field to do the hold down act. The less said of the unfortunate Mr. Wolf the better. He was all right in center, but as a hold-downist he was of the double nit brand. This brand is warranted to fail at all junctures.

Bill Beck pitched a goodly game for seven innings, at which juncture he wrenched himself from the center of the stage with a terrific swat at nothing at all. Bill made an awful swing at an out that wasn't where he thought it would be, and took a serpentine twist in nine different directions. A sassy tendon in his hip went on strike and put Bill on the sick list. He came in with all the symptoms of spring halt in plain evidence, and despite his heroic willingness to continue in the fray, Manager Daab sent him to the rear and put Willie Deegan forninst the pan. Bill was belted for ten good ones in his sessions, but he kept them strewn in sparse array. The Rahwegians scored both their marks while Bill was on duty, but neither of them was earned. Deegan did little more than warm up, but the ginger was out of the hated rivals and the best they could do was to peel off two drifted singles.

With the exception of Cohalan the locals played a faultless and a snappy game. The second baseman made two shocking errors, each of which helped along a run. He kind of squared things with two healthy welts and a red hot stop that developed into a double play. We forgive you, Tim.

Wally Cosgrave, who used to go to Princeton, and reads up the rules like he once studied mathematics, astounded the populace with a vivacious howl in the eighth. A foul off Pete Cregan's bat floated around Jack Merity's solonesque form and Wally came hot-footing in from the coaching line to yell for a base for Pete. Wally solmenly averred, and said the book backed him up, that a ball that hit the umpire entitles the batter to a bag. Jack and Wally grew quite animated, and there's no telling what would have happened if the pacific Pete hadn't thrust his form in the middle of the gasfest. This incident illustrates the value of having a collegian around in a dull game.

When seen in reference to the matter, the scorer gave out the following signed statement:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss | 2 | 0 | 4 | 5 | 0 |
| Cosgrave, cf | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Cohalan, 2b | 2 | 2 | 3 | 2 | 2 |
| Connolly, rf | 1 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 1 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 1 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 2 | 1 | 7 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c | 1 | 2 | 7 | 1 | 0 |
| Beck, p | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Deegan, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| Totals | 12 | 12 | 27 | 13 | 2 |

RAHWAY.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Arnheiter, rf | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 |
| Wolf, cf, p | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| L. Potter, 2b | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Cowan, 1b | 1 | 2 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Neebie, lf | 0 | 2 | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Crosby, ss | 0 | 1 | 1 | 5 | 3 |
| Groom, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Nafie, cf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Reilly, 3b | 0 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 |
| R. Potter, c | 1 | 2 | 5 | 0 | 1 |
| Totals | 2 | 12 | 24 | 9 | 6 |

Plainfield ..0 3 0 0 0 0 6 3 x—12
Rahway ..0 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0— 2

Earned runs—Plainfield, 2. Three base hit—Connolly. Two base hits—Arnheiter, Cohalan. First base on balls—Off Deegan, 1; off Groom, 3; off Wolf, 2. Struck out—By Deegan, 2; by Groom, 3. Left on bases—Plainfield, 7; Rahway, 7. Double play—Cohalan to Kiernan to Driscoll. Stolen bases—Kiernan, Connolly, Leonard. Wild pitches—Wolf. Passed balls—R. Potter, 2. First base on errors—Plainfield, 2; Rahway, 2. Hit by pitcher—Kiernan. Time of game—1 hour and 45 minutes. Umpire—Merity. Attendance—900.

ROSELLE, 2; DUNELLEN, 1.

The baseball game between Roselle ad the Dunellen A. C. at Roselle Saturday afternoon turned out to be a pitchers' battle, De Veaux, of Roselle, having the best of the fight, and receiving good support. The only run scored by the visitors was an earned run. Cowan's catching and throwing to bases was especially good, and Pierce played a steady game, accepting three hard chances. The game was attended by a large crowd, including many from Dunellen. The score:

ROSELLE.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Waite, 2b | 0 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 1 |
| Cowan, c | 0 | 1 | 11 | 4 | 0 |
| Higgins, 1b | 1 | 0 | 6 | 1 | 2 |
| Pierce, 3b | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 |
| Callahan, ss | 1 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| Steinmetz, cf | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Hibbard, lf | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Kipling, rf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| De Veaux, p | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals | 2 | 4 | 27 | 10 | 4 |

DUNELLEN.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Watson, 2b | 0 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Craig, ss | 0 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Giles, 1b | 0 | 0 | 12 | 1 | 4 |
| Matthews, lf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Conway, 3b | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 |
| Fletcher, rf | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Smith, p | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| Overton, c | 0 | 0 | 7 | 2 | 1 |
| Jackson, cf | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals | 1 | 6 | 24 | 11 | 6 |

Dunellen ...0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—1
Roselle ....1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 x—2

Earned runs—Dunellen, 1. Left on bases—Dunellen, 7; Roselle, 8. Struck out—By De Veaux, 11; by Smith, 6. First base on balls—Off Smith, 3. Sacrifice hits—Higgins, Hibbard. Stolen bases—Cowan, 2; Callahan, Steinmetz. Double plays—Smith to Watson. Hit by pitcher—Callahan, Fletcher. Time—1 hour and 30 minutes. Umpire—Frank Watson.

WESTFIELD, 1; TRENTON, 0.

Westfield beat the local Y. M. C. A. at Trenton Saturday by the score of 1 to 0. With Waller and Egner in the pitcher's box, the game was a pitchers' battle from the start, with Waller having the better of it. He held the locals down to five lone hits, two of which were very scratchy. Only one man was sent to first on balls. This single pass, however, proved disastrous for the locals, since it allowed Rochford to score the only run of the game, in the ninth inning. In the winning inning, after Rochford had walked, Smithson sacrificed, Rochford advancing to second. Then Bertwhistle was retired in the same manner, leaving Rochford on third. On Mallen's two bagger Rochford trotted home. The score:

| | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Westfield | .0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 | 1 | 7 | 2 |
| Y. M. C. A. | .0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 | 0 | 5 | 0 |

Batteries—Waller and Cotter; Egner and McCune.

STAR A. C., 5; WEST END A. C., 4.

The Star A. C., of Newark, beat the West Ends at Somerville Saturday in an eleven inning game by a score of 5 to 4. It was a close and exciting game from beginning to end. Pender struck out five men and Galbraith six. Britt, Martin, Kelly and Russell all played fast ball for Somerville. The score:

| | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| S. A. C. | .1 0 0 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 1 | 5 | 9 | 7 |
| W. E. | ..0 0 1 0 2 0 0 1 0 0 0 | 4 | 8 | 7 |

Batteries—Galbraith and Russell; Pender and Smith.

E. M. VAIL'S NEW JOB.

Successful Engineer Engaged by N. Y. C. and H. R. R. R.

Ephraim M. Vail, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Vail, of Orchard place, and a former resident of this city, has returned and will live at 303 East Sixth street. For two and a half years Mr. Vail has been assistant engineer for the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad, stationed at Gulfport, Miss.

Mr. Vail began to work for F. A. Dunham, where he acquired valuable experience. Afterward he secured a lucrative position in the engineering department of the New Jersey Central. He resigned this position two and a half years ago to accept one as assistant engineer for the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad.

He has secured another advancement by obtaining a position on the terminal of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad in New York.

Charles Blatz's Return.

Charles Blatz, of Denver, and his daughter, Miss Theresa, are visiting the former's brother, of Somerset street. This is the first time that Charles Blatz, who is a former Plainfielders, has been here in twenty-eight years. The brothers met two years ago for the first time in twenty-five years, when J. A. Blatz went West on a pleasure trip.

Miss Derby to Wed.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Ethel May Derby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Derby, of Perth Amboy, formerly of this city, and Alvah B. Davis, of East Fifth street. The wedding will take place on Saturday, July 22, at the home of the bride.

LOCAL GOLFERS BUSY

Championship Play Continued on Country Club Links.

DUDLEY BARROWS WINS

Some Excellent Cards Returned in the Usual Comptitions on the Park Club Links.

There was continuation of play for the club championship at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, when in the semi-finals one match was played, Dudley H. Barrows defeating C. Wesley Abbott by 2 up and 1 to play. The other match, between W. L. Glenney and Morris JJ. Dumont, will be played this week, after which the winner will play Barrows in the finals.

In the semi-final play for the consolation cup, C. B. Morgan beat H. R. Stockton by 3 up and 2 to play, and H. C. Munger beat Edgar I. Serrell by 1 up. In the semi-final play for the third eight cup, Charles A. Stover beat T. R. Van Boskerck by 2 up, and E. E. Iremonger beat W. B. Tyler by 2 up. The finals will be played on Saturday.

W. D. Riggs, a newcomer, won the first honors for the golf committee cup, returning a card with a net score of 75. His handicap was generous, a 22, and the handicap committee will be after him before next Saturday. The second and third honors were divided between Roger F. Murray and E. B. Shoemaker, both returning a net score of 77. They will receive a point and a half each. The scores:

W. D. Riggs, 97, 22—75; Roger F. Murray, 82, 5—77; E. B. Shoemaker, 79, 2—77; C. B. Morgan, 81, 3—78; Arthur Murphy, 83, 4—79; H. C. Munger, 84, 4—80; Robert Abbott, 78, plus 2—80; Charles A. Stover, 91, 10—81; H. D. Hibbard, 89, 6—83; Stuart H. Patterson, 101, 17—84; Dr. G. W. Endicott, 99, 10—89.

Some excellent cards were returned for the president's and Park Golf Club trophies at the Park Golf Club on Saturday. There was a large field, but only nine cards were posted. John L. Watson won first three points for the president's cup; Raymond B. Carroll finished second, receiving two points, and Charles W. McCutchen posted third low score, receiving one point. For the scratch cup, Rev. C. L. Goodrich won first honors, Raymond B. Carroll, second, and L. R. Thurlow and Charles W. McCutchen were tie for third place, with a gross score of 105, and each receiving a half point. The scores:

John L. Watson, 106, 22—84; Raymond B. Carroll, 100, 13—87; Charles W. McCutchen, 105, 17—88; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 98, 8—90; George T. Rogers, 107, 17—90; Alex. Gilbert, 107, 17—90; L. R. Thurlow, 105, 13—92; Samuel Townsend, 109, 17—92; J. H. Howell, 109, 15—94.

PUSHING STREET WORK.

Commissioner Gavett's Men Busy in Various Parts of the City.

Street Commissioner Gavett is steadily pushing the street repair work in various parts of the city. Just now the street gang is engaged in repairing East Fifth street, between Watchung avenue and Richmond street. The Public Service Corporation has been installing a new switch on this street, to take the place of the old one which has been doing duty there for several years. The trolley company is bearing its share of the expense for the repair of the street.

The company has also been making repairs to its tracks on Monroe avenue, between Fourth and Seventh streets, and Contractor C. M. Meeker has just finished his work of macadamizing the avenue. This thoroughfare has been in need of repairs for a long time, and when the work is completed it will be one of the best in the city. Mr. Gavett is also preparing to start other repairs as needed about the city.

For expert electrical work, consult Allen B. Laing, of North avenue. He is thoroughly competent and employs only experienced men. He makes a specialty of connecting electrical fans.

MARRIED.

MIX—TRACY—On Thursday, July 6, 1905, at the residence of the bride's parents, Plainfield, N. J., by the Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., of New York, assisted by the Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, D. D., of Plainfield, Margaret Louisa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, to Charles Melvin Mix, M. D., of Muncie, Ind.

DIED.

CORNELL—On Tuesday, July 4, 1905, Emily, widow of William Cornell, aged 95 years.

McCOMBE—At the residence of his parents, 42 Mariners avenue, Plainfield, N. J., July 7, 1905, Stanley, infant son of William and Mary C. McCombe, aged 1 year, 9 months and 18 days.

MUNDY—In North Plainfield, Saturday, July 8, 1905, Ottis, son of Edward and Catherine Mundy, aged 2 years and 7 months.

PISCATAWAY DISSENSION

Big Township Rent and Torn Over Problem of Education.

TAXES WORRY FARMERS

More School Houses Are Needed—Public Meetings Are Now Being Held Monthly.

Piscataway township, in Middlesex county, erstwhile a typical peaceful community of farmers and small country villages, is now rent and torn by internal dissensions, of a municipal and financial nature. Money, described by writers as the root of all evil, in the guise of increase of taxes, is at the bottom of the trouble, although business rivalry has not a small share in the matter. Piscataway township covers an area of 27,994 acres, and comprises the southwesterly corner of Middlesex county, being bounded on the south by Raritan River from Landing to Bound Brook, thence on the northwest by the Bound brook and its tributary, Green brook, to the Plainfield city line, which said line forms the great portion of the eastern boundary. An imaginary line running a short distance westerly and nearly parallel with the Pennsylvania Railroad constitutes the balance of the easterly boundary.

The New Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley railroads traverse the westerly portion, and along the lines of these roads are now the settled communities known as South Plainfield, New Market, Dunellen, Lincoln and East Bound Brook. The total population of the township is about four thousand six hundred, of which Dunellen, which at present is the only incorporated borough in the township, contains about one-third. The balance of the township has, up to the present, constituted one taxation district, and matters political have been fairly harmonious. New brick schools have been erected in South Plainfield at a cost of about $6,000, and at East Bound Brook, costing nearly $8,000. New Market contained an old frame school until last year, when it was destroyed by fire. Some half a dozen small schools dot the balance of the township. When the schools at South Plainfield and East Bound Brook were built, several of the contiguous small schools were closed and the scholars living at a distance were transported by stages and trolleys at the township's expense.

The matter of the rebuilding of the New Market school is the principal matter that has culminated in internal sizzling and boiling that is dominating the entire township, with the exception of Dunellen, which, of course, is not interested financially in the matter.

South Plainfield and East Bound Brook voters, having good schools of thire own, were willing that New Market should also have a new building commnsurate with (what was believed in the two sections named) its importance. The farmer voters of the outlying sections were also willing to vote a fair sum toward a new school. The Board of Education has been working on the matter ever since the old school was destroyed, and have evidently done all that is in their power to expedite matters. The judgmet of this board is that a six room school, costing from $12,000 to $14,000, would be ample for all needs, not only present, but a good way into the future, but the New Market people are by no means satisfied with this appropriation. They ask for a school to cost not less than $20,000. As the cost of this building would have be to assessed on the whole township, excepting Dunellen, the taxpayers outside complain that they can not afford so large an additional burden to the present taxes, which approximate $15 on $1,000 at present. Several meetings have been held, and at the last one the New Market voters rallied in force, and secured a majority vote in favor of a $20,000 appropriation, but, upon investigation, it has been found that the proceedings taken in connection with the meeting were irregular to such a degree as to invalidate the legitimacy of the proceedings, and a new meeting will have to be called. The board of trustees again have been active in meeting the wishes and desires of the people, but have been hampered by the delay in getting an official opinion from the State authorities, without which they can make no move.

As soon, however, as the vote was announced on the $20,000 appropriation the South Plainfield contingent began making preparations for forming themselves into a borough government of their own and managing their own affairs. The Lincoln and East Bound Brook people are also agitating the same question, each community favoring a borough government for their particular section. The culmination of these various schemes would, of course, leave New Market and the rural portion of the township to shoulder the burden of the cost of the proposed school and has set the enthusiastic New Marketites to thinking, and when the next public meeting is held it is in every way likely that their demands will be so moderated that the would-be secessionists will be satisfied; at any rate, it looks more than possible that the gathering at the next meeting will be the largest of any public assemblage ever held in the neighborhood, and it will be difficult to find a building large enough in which to hold it.—Newark Call.

SUMMER RECESS OF STATE'S HIGHEST COURT

ROOM WILL BE REFURNISHED TO HARMONIZE WITH GOWN OF JUDGES.

Following another conference Saturday at Trenton the Court of Errors and Appeals announced three decisions and at the conclusion of the day's business adjourned until September 15. This does not mean a total cessation of court business, as the justices have many cases to examine during the summer; but no formal sittings will take place and no decisions will be handed down. Saturday's decisions were:

Matthew Boland against John Kaveny, both of Newark, appeal of Kaveny dismissed. Boland brought action against Kaveny in the First District Court of Newark and won his case. Kaveny appealed to the Supreme Court and made application for a rule to direct the judge in the court below to certify the stenographic notes of that trial as the state of the case for use on the appeal. The Supreme Court denied the motion. Kaveny then appealed to the court of last resort and the application was again denied.

Spalding against Lamar, affirmed. This was a Monmouth county case, involving the foreclosure of a mortgage.

During the summer the Errors Court room will be renovated and refurnished. Having decided to wear black silk gowns during the sittings of the court, the justices want the court room refitted to correspond. At present the decorations of the room are white and gold, and the furniture is oak. The new decorations will be black walnut. The contract will be awarded by the State House Commission Tuesday.

ELECTRIC LIGHT POLE, ROTTEN, TUMBLES DOWN

POLICE GUARD PEOPLE FROM DEADLY TRAILING LIVE WIRES.

An electric light pole in front of 531 West Seventh street fell over at 9 o'clock Saturday night. It dropped squarely across the road, carrying a string of deadly live wires with it.

A resident of the block telephoned to the police and Chief Kiely hurried two men to the scene. They kept pedestrians and horses away from the wires. The P. S. C. took charge of the wires an hour later.

The police say the pole dropped from sheer rottenness. It snapped off at a point a few inches below the sidewalk level, and the break is said to be at a point where the wood was punky and crumbling all the way through.

FRED HUFF WEDS.

Married Very Quietly in Trenton to Miss H. M. Kreitling.

Miss Henriette M. Kreitling, daughter of P. J. Kreitling, of West Front street, and Frederick Perrin J. Huff, the lawyer, were quietly married Sunday afternoon. The ceremony was performed in Trenton, in the presence of only a few relatives. The latter did not include the parents of either the bride or the groom, and they knew nothing of the marriage until they received telegrams from Mr. and Mrs. F. P. J. Huff. They were not surprised, however, for they had known Mr. Huff and Miss Kreitling intended to wed soon, but the date and the place had been kept a strict secret.

When they got back from Trenton last night, Mr. and Mrs. Huff went directly to the homes of their parents, where they were heartily welcomed. They will reside with the bride's parents until fall, when they will go to housekeeping.

The bridegroom has been a practicing lawyer in this city for the past year, and up to last April was judge of the small cause court, serving in that capacity for five years. He resigned the office at the completion of his first term in order to give his entire attention to the practice of law. Before going into practice for himself, Mr. Huff was for five years an assistant to Lawyer William Newcorn, with offices at 189-191 Market street, Newark. He was admitted to the bar in 1894, after passing the college and bar examinations. He is a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus, Saenger and Turn Verein, Watchung Shooting Club, Improved Order of Red Men, Woodmen of the World, Knights of Maccabbes, and The Mystic Circle.

Kipling's New Story.

Rudyard Kipling has not been of late a frequent contributor to magazines. The August Century will contain a story by him, a tale of Americans in England called "'An Habitation Enforced.'" The story is said to be an unusually long one for Mr. Kipling, so long that The Century editors were minded at first to print it in two numbers, but it was decided to let it appear in the Midsummer Holiday issue.

WARNER NOT PLAYING

Sam Crane Comments on the Plans of the Former Giant Catcher.

CAN'T STAND THE WEST

Story Scouted That He Would Go To Hoboken If He Wanted An Independent Berth.

In view of the general rumor that Jack Warner, the ex-Giant, who has just broken away from the St. Louis Nationals, is to go behind the pan for Westfield, some paragraphs by Sam Crane in the New York Evening Journal last night on the veteran backstop have more than passing interest to the local fans. Says Crane:

"While Jack has no desire to jump his contract and thus put himself under the ban as an outlaw, he does not want to play in St. Louis, or, in fact, in the West. He says that he cannot stand the St. Louis climate, and that it would seriously endanger his health if he was obliged to. Jack does not even want to go to Cincinnati, the climate there not agreeing with him. He hopes to figure in some deal whereby he will be exchanged to some Eastern club, and prefers Philadelphia. He would not object to casting his fortunes with the New York Americans, but to join any American League club every National League club would have to waive claim to his services, and that does not look probable, although it might be accomplished. In the meantime Warner will remain at his pleasant little home in the Bronx, recuperating from his disappointing St. Louis experience and awaiting developments."

This reads as if Warner had been talking to Crane, and what the latter says is inspired. It does not appear, reading in that light, that Warner is considering any offer to play independent ball. For his part, Manager Denman says no sensible manager of an independent club wants Jack, because he is an inveterate trouble maker and busts the peace of any club he signs with.

But the fan may well wonder what this, which winds Crane's comment up, means:

"But if Jack wants to do the "kangaroo" stunt he would only be obliged to jump across the river to Hoboken, as Daab's club of that Jersey burg has broken away from the national agreement, and while that in itself is not outlawry, still it is next door to it. But as Mr. Daab has not yet stolen any players from "organized baseball" there is no need of hoisting the piratical red flag over there just yet, but still Hoboken will doubtless be considered another outlaw haven by disgruntled players in their futile endeavors to hold up the poor, downtrodden magnates."

Nobody knows of any reason why Daab should want to replace Jack O'Neil with Jack Warner, unless O'Neil wants to go. Warner is no better than O'Neil, no matter how good he may be; it is open to question if he even has as much all-round speed as the semi-professional. It is to be doubted that Warner "would only be obliged to jump across the river" if he went hunting an independent berth.

New Two-Family House.

Michael J. Watson has given out the contract for the erection of a two-story double house on South Second street. John A. McNally is the contractor.

Wanted Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided.

The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card, Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies 141-145 North avenu

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and womanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business. at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Jeremiah Manning, Vice-Pres.
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Aves

Plainfield, N.J.

KING CHOSEN DIRECTOR

Clark Township Member New Head of Board of Freeholders.

AN UNANIMOUS CHOICE

Successor of the Late Captain J. F. Hubbard is an Englishman—Holds Oother Public Positions.

Benjamin King, representative of Clark township in the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, was elected director of that body, to succeed the late Capt. J. Frank Hubbard, of this city, at a meeting of the freeholders at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon. As told in The Daily Press the day after Mr. Hubbard's death, Mr. King was considered the man for the directorship.

Mr. King has been a member of the Board of Freeholders continuously since 1892, and of late years has been the Republican leader on the floor. At the meeting of the board since Mr. Hubbard's death he was chosen director pro tem.

Mr. King has been prominent in Republican politics in Clark township, where he has lived for twenty-eight years. He is superintendent of the mills of the American Felt Company there.

He has been a member of the Board of Education of Clark township for the past fifteen years and a member of the township committee, in which he is serving a third term. He was twice the township collector.

Mr. King was born in England in 1856, but came to the United States when he was fifteen years old, to visit an uncle who resided in Brooklyn. He came to this country merely on a visit, but he liked the place so well that he decided to make his future home here. He lived in Brooklyn about six years before going to Clark township. In the latter place his first vote was cast.

Since his entry into the Board of Freeholders Mr. King has enjoyed the fullest confidence of the men in both parties. He is well known in Elizabeth and throughout the county.

Freeholder King, besides being chairman of the auditing committee, is also chairman of the County Roads and Stationery committees and a member of the committee to settle with the county collector. He for many years has been superintendent of the Essex Felting Mills, better known as Bloodgood's mills, in Clark township, where his popularity with the employes, who constitute the principal part of the voting population of Clark, has enabled him to be steadily re-elected to represent the township on the freeholder board.

MINUS RIGHT HAND; 4TH OF JULY VICTIM

CHARLES C. HARRIS BADLY HURT BY GIANT CRACKER.

Discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital only a few weeks ago, after undergoing treatment for an injury to his eye, Charles C. Harris, of Roselle, widely known to Plainfielders, was the victim of a Fourth of July accident that cost him his right hand. He is now in the General Hospital at Elizabeth, badly torn and badly burned from the explosion of a giant cannon cracker that exploded while he was holding it.

Harris had lighted the cracker and threw it into the road, but the fuse burned down without causing an explosion. He made an improvised fuse of paper, but this also failed, and in disgust he picked up the cracker, with the intention of throwing it in a waste box. As he did the thing went off, tearing away his thumb and lacerating his hand so badly that immediate amputation was necessary.

TO ISSUE MAGAZINE.

N. J. Historical Society Will Publish Periodical About October 1.

Announcement is made by the board of trustees of the New Jersey Historical Society that the publication which the trustees have for some time been making arrangements to issue will make its appearance about October 1. It will probably be called The New Jersey Historical Magazine.

The plan is to issue the publication periodically and to send a copy of it to every member of the organization. The purpose is to increase the interest of the members of the society by keeping them in close touch with its work, and also to give to the public copies of old papers and historical matter which otherwise would not be known, except to the students of State history who go to the society's headquarters to consult the old documents there. The committee on publication is composed of Wallace M. Scudder, cahirman; William Nelson, Rev. Franklin B. Dwight, Rev. Joseph F. Folsom and Professor Frank G. Gilman.

Miss Titus, of Madison avenue, has gone away for the summer.

Miss May E. Howlett, of Elmwood place, is visiting relatives in Brooklyn.

SANITARY INSPECTION

413 Houses Examined During June by the Board of Health.

RESULTS ARE OBTAINED.

Inspector Robert W. Meeker Reports That 40 Per Cent. of the Houses Have Privy Vaults.

Under the direction of the Board of Health the house-to-house inspection continues, and according to the report on this matter at the meeting of the board yesterday, very good results were accomplished in June. This shows that nearly forty per cent. of the houses have privy vaults and twenty-five per cent. cesspools. Sixteen defective plumbing systems were found, and other nuisances all of which show the great necessity of this work. In all 413 houses were inspected in June and the following results were obtained by Inspector R. W. Meeker.

Total number of houses inspected, 413; privy vaults found, 152; cesspools found, 96; privy vaults which required cleaning, 67; cesspools which required cleaning, 17; abandoned privy vaults not properly filled, 33; abandoned cesspools not properly filled, 15; abandoned wells not properly filled, 8; driven wells found, 74; dug wells found, 23; defective plumbing systems found, 16; unsanitary cellars found, 12; chicken yards found, 47; privy vaults found too near well, 40; cesspools found too near well, 51; houses apparently overcrowded, 2; accumulations of garbage, 17; accumulations of ashes, 12; accumulations of ashes mixed with garbage, 10; accumulations of manure, 14; accumulations of manure mixed with garbage, 8; rain barrels in yards, 4.

PROPERTY TRANSFERS.

Numerous Changes of Local Real Estate Recorded at Elizabeth.

The following deeds have been filed at the office of the county clerk at Elizabeth:

Catherine H. Manning to Katharine C. Manning, southwesterly side Central avenue, 19 feet southeasterly of Dewey's land, Plainfield ........$1

Same to same, northeasterly side Richmond street, 66 feet northwesterly of East Third street, Plainfield ........................$1

Same to James C. Manning, Clinton avenue, corner Dunellen avenue, Plainfield ........................$1

Same to Clara M. Rocap, southeasterly side Dunellen avenue, 105 feet northeasterly of Albert street, Plainfield ........................$1

Same to James C. Manning, southwesterly side Park avenue, 529 feet southeasterly of Daniel Martine, Plainfield ........................$1

Clara M. Rocap et al. to Catherine H. Manning, southwesterly side Central avenue, 19 feet southeasterly of Dewey's land, Plainfield ........$1

Catherine H. Manning to Margaret M. Ransom, lot 15, block A, "Map of Spooner property," Plainfield ....$1

Improved Building Lot Association of N. J. and Pa. to Emma Stahl, lots 16, 17, 18, block A, "Map of Rockview Heights," Plainfield .....$369

George M. Holstein et ux. to Geo. T. Rogers, northeasterly side Watchung avenue, 730 feet easterly of Hillside avenue, Plainfield ..$10,000

Alfonso Colucci et ux. to Plainfield Water Supply Company, lots 92-93, "Map of Taylor & McDonald," Plainfield ........................$310

E. Frank Vail et ux. to Annie L. Van Brakle, westerly side Richmond street, 300 feet southerly of Putnam avenue, Plainfield ..............$1

Middlesex County Bank Assets.

Vice Chancellor Pitney gave a decision Monday at Jersey City in relation to the mortgages worth $49,000 found among the effects of the Middlesex County Bank at Perth Amboy, which was wrecked in 1899 by George N. Valentine, its cashier. Mr. Pitney said the mortgages must be collected by the receiver and the funds used as an asset of the bank to pay the creditors. The lawyers said that no further action could be taken until a new receiver could be appointed, as Edward S. Campbell, of Newark, who had been receiver, died at Lake George on Sunday.

To Change Street's Name.

Residents of Lane avenue have petitioned the Common Council to have the name of that thoroughfare changed to Laing avenue, in honor of Captain Laing, a Revolutionary officer. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Justice Hand's Court.

Judgment by default was obtained by Isaac Srager in his landlord and tenant suit against Leslie M. Cobbs, colored, before Justice Hand. Possession has been surrendered. The premises are at 214 East Fourth street.

Writ of Ejectment.

A writ of ejectment has been issued by Justice Hand against C. Jenkins, of 521 West Fourth street, for S. Drayer. Jenkins is allege1 to be a nuisance.

Rural Route Carrier.

Leon C. Abbot has secured the appointment to carry the mail on the rural free delivery route No. 1, from Martinsville postoffice. He will commence work August 1.

THE HEAVENS FOR JULY

With the passing of June the zodiacal constellation Cancer sinks below the western horizon and Sagittarius is added in the east. The constellations for July, therefore, across which the planets move in their annual orbits, are Leo, Virgo, Libra, Ccorpius and Sagittarius. The yearly movement of the sun through these same star-groups is, of course, only apparent, being due to our own annual circuit.

The stars within this belt, known as the zodiac, were divided into the twelve groups, as at present, long before the period of written history. This division was doubtless suggested by the twelve circuits of the moon around the earth during the period of the rotation of the seasons.

Virgo covers a large space with the brilliant first magnitude star Spica near the centre. Libra, the balance, which now, in the early hours of the evening, is on the meridian or nearly overhead, is indicated by two stars of the second magnitude that in their relationship resemble the Twins.

Scorpius is a constellation of unusual interest. Its first magnitude star, Anqtares, with its red coloring, marks the location of the heart of the great serpent. It is located between two stars of the third magnitude. Above it are four bright stars arranged in a semi-circle as a diadem. The coils of the body may be traced by other stars of less brilliancy, and near the southern horizon are five conspicuous stars, closely grouped, that indicate the position of the end of the tail. Sagittarius, the Archer, has six stars of the second and third magnitude, making it an interesting group. The arrow, indicated by three stars, is directed toward the tail of the Scorpion.

The conspicuous constellations north of the zodiac are Bootes, with Arcturus as its brightest jewel; Corona Borealis, with its seven stars arranged in a graceful curve, and Lyra, the lyre, with the first magnitude star Vega. That immense space between Corona and Lyra is filled with a large number of second and third magnitude stars that outline the great constellation Hercules. Arcturus, Vega and our pole star form a great equilateral triangle in the heavens. All have doubtless noticed that the stem of the spinning top has a slow circular motion of its own in addition to that given it by the rotation of the toy. Our earth, spinning upon its axis, behaves in the same manner. The pole is the centre of that daily motion, but like the toy it makes its own great circular sweep of the heavens. The time required to complete this circuit is about 25,000 years. At the expiration of half of that period, or 12,000 years, the bright star Vega will be the pole star of the earth.

Turning out face nothward we find the Great Dipper to the left of Polaris, with the handle pointing directly upward. Cassiopeia, on the opposite side of the pole, has not been visible during the early hours of the evening for several months. It may now be seen just rising above the horizon on the right of Polaris. The bright star Copella in Auriga is below Polaris, but too near the horizon to be seen.

The month of Marcn, 1904, began and ended with a full moon. This phenomenon has not been repeated since. During the present month, however, the conditions are similar; July begins and ends with a new moon, the full occurring on the sixteenth. This satellite of ours will reach its first quarter on the ninth, and on the eleventh it will enter the constellation Libra and extend its greeting to our planet Mars, passing six and one-half degrees above it. On the nineteenth, at about 10 o'clock in the evening, it may be seen in close proximity with Saturn near the eastern horizon, being then below that planet only one and a half degrees. On the twenty-sixth, in its journey eastward it will reach the present position of Jupiter. This will occur shortly after midnight. At their nearest approach they will be four and a half degrees apart.

The only planet now seen during the evening hours is Mars. There is nothing to be seen in the heavens more interesting than the movements of those close relatives of ours. The movements of all the members of our solar system, as we well known, is eastward, but apparently these motions appear at times to change, some of the planets moving eastward and others westward at the same time. This deception is easily explained, but however well we may understand it, we can never observe these reversed movements in the sky without astonishment. At the beginning of the present year Mars was moving eastward in his course. This continued until April 2, when he changed, and from night to night we saw this god of war moving westward among the stars. On the twentieth of last month the normal motion eastward was resumed, and that will continue during the balance of the year.

Venus is now a morning star. It appears in the east at about 2 o'clock in the morning, being nearly three hours in advance of the sun in its rising. It will reach its greatest distance from the sun on the sixth.

Saturn, at the beginning of the month, will rise at 10 o'clock, and at the close of the month it will make its appearance above the eastern horizon at 8 o'clock in the evening. It therefore will soon add its splendors to those of Mars in the star-lit sky. Jupiter is still a morning star, and its change to an evening star will not occur till near the end of November.

Our earth reaches its aphelion, or greatest distance from the sun, on the third of the present month, being then about 3,000,000 miles further away from our source of heat than it is during the month of January. Difference of temperature, as we know, is due largely to the change in the inclination of the axis of the motion with respect to the sun; but doubtless this change in distance has a modifying influence, making both the clod of winter and the warmth of the summer less severe than they would be otherwise.

It is somewhat selfish, however, for us to take comfort in this supposition, for the reverse, in like manner, must result in the Southern hemisphere. The records seem to show that the winters south of the equator are colder than ours and the summers warmer.

ELLIS A. APGAR.

SOME NEW LAWS GO INTO EFFECT

NUMBER OF MINOR MEASURES WENT INTO EFFECT TUESDAY.

A number of laws passed by the last Legislature and signed by the Governor became operative Tuesday. When the time is not designated in the law, when it shall take effect, it is provided that the act shall become operative on July 4.

Among those going into effect Tuesday were:

An act appropriating $500 towards the erection of a monument to commemorate the battle of Monocacy, Maryland.

An act to authorize religious corporations to convey lands acquired for burial or cemetery purposes to municipal corporations where they are situated for the use and purposes of public parks.

Companion act authorizing a transfer of cemeteries to city of Paterson.

Supplement to an act regulating the age, employment, safety, health and work hours of persons, employes and operatives in factories, workshops, mills and all places where the manufacture of any goods is carried on.

Hotel act, charging persons with misdemeanor who defraud landlords of hotels, inns, taverns or restaurants by not paying for their lodging or board.

An act concerning free public libraries.

A supplement to an act providing for the issuance of confimatory licenses in certain cases to attorneys at law, solicitors in chancery and counselors at law.

An act concerning highways and townships.

A supplement to an act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments or water rents in towns and other municipalities.

A supplement to act concerning townships.

Register of deeds act.

An act concerning the issuance of bonds to extend water works.

Summer Outing Books in the Public Library.

Aldrich, T. B.—Old town by the sea.

Bacon, E. M.—Walks and rides about Boston.

Bolles, Frank—Land of the lingering snow.

Brownell, W. C.—Newport.

Drake, S. A.—Nooks and corners of the New England coast.

Drake, S. A.—Old landmarks of Boston.

Drake, S. A.—Pine tree coast.

Fellows, H. P.—Boating trips on New England rivers.

Grant, Robert—North shore of Massachusetts.

Hoff, J. W.—Two hundred miles on the Delaware.

Hubbard, L. L.—Woods and lakes of Maine.

Johnson, Clifton—New England and its neighbors.

Johnson, Clifton—New England country.

Murray, W. H. H.—Lake Champlain.

Porter, E. G.—Rambles in old Boston.

Powell, L. P., ed.—Historic towns of the middle states.

Powell, L. P., ed.—Historic towns of New England.

Prime, W. C.—Along New England roads.

Silsbee, M. C. D.—Half century in Salem.

Sweetser, M. F., ed.—New England, a handbook for travelers.

Thaxter, Celia—Among the Isles of Shoals.

Thoreau, H. D.—Cape Cod.

Thoreau, H. D.—Maine woods.

Thoreau, H. D.—Week on the Concord and Merrimack rivers.

Torrey, Bradford—Footing it in Franconia.

Trumbull, A. E.—Cape Cod week.

Note.—If you are going away for a few weeks in the summer, be sure and ask about the Library's Summer Extension privilege.

No Haste to Fill Vacancy.

It will probably be a month at least before an election is held at the City National Bank to fill the vacancy in the directorate caused by the death of Captain James Franklin Hubbard. The Dime Savings Institution and the Plainfield Water Supply Company will be in no hurry to fill vacancies caused by the same reason.

COMMISSIONERS' HEARING

Affected Property Owners Meet Special Sewer Committee.

LITTLE ACCOMPLISHED.

A Few Citizens Heard — No More Public Meetings—Streets Through Which Sewers Are to be Laid.

Robert A. Meeker, John W. Murray, Jr., and S. P. T. Wilbur, appointed by Mayor Buckle and confirmed by the Common Council, as commissioners of assessments, held their first meeting, in the Common Council rooms, yesterday to confer with property owners affected by the proposed construction of sewers and drains, including house connections, in the following named streets:

North Avenue from Richmond Street to Leland Avenue.
Leland Avenue from North Avenue to South Avenue.
South Avenue from Leland Avenue to a point 1400 feet East of the centre of Leland Avenue, and South Avenue from Richmond Street to Central Street.
Albert Street.
Compton Avenue.
Mariners Place.
Pond Place.
Stebbins Place.
Muhlenberg Place.
John Street.
Prescott Place, between South Second Street and West Fourth Street.
Dunellen Avenue, between Clinton and Compton Avenues.
Essex Street, between Spooner Avenue and John Street.
West Fifth Street, between Grant Avenue and Prescott Place.
West Fourth Street, between Plainfield Avenue and Prescott Place.
Lee Place, between South Second Street and West Sixth Street.
North Avenue, from Leland Avenue, 2000 feet East.
South Second Street, between Plainfield Avenue and a point 250 feet West of Morris Street.
West Sixth Street, from Grant Avenue 1,000 feet West.
South Avenue, between Central Street and Woodland Avenue.
Spooner Avenue, between South Second Street and West Seventh Street.
West Third Street, between Grant Avenue and Pond Place.
Leland Avenue, from South Avenue to a point 1,500 feet South of East Seventh Street.
South Avenue, between Leland Avenue and Belvidere Avenue.
Denmark Road.
Berkeley Avenue, between Denmark Road and Ravine Road.
Hillside Avenue, between Prospect Avenue and Evergreen Avenue.
Evergreen Avenue, from Hillside Avenue, 600 feet East.
Webster Place, between Putnam Avenue and Berckman Street.
Arlington Avenue, between West Ninth Street and Union Street.
Union Street, from Arlington Avenue 500 feet South.
Grant Avenue, between West Eighth Street and Sherman Avenue.
East Seventh Street, between Richmond Street and Woodland Avenue.

There were many property owners present to talk with the commissioners, but it will be necessary for them to meet again to complete their work. It is their purpose to make a just and equitable assessment of benefits and damages on the affected property owners, but their findings will not be known until reported to the Common Council when the work is completed.

For a City Beautiful.

The Mayor of Denver, Col., has issued the following notice in that city:

If your store front, residence or fence is dull or dingy order it painted.

If your awning is old, torn or faded get a new one.

If your sidewalk, fence or gate needs repairing fix it.

Destroy the young weeds that are starting on your property and on your neighbor's property.

If your advertising sign is old or faded take it down or paint it.

Resolve never to throw paper in the streets.

Take all dandelions out of your lawn—they spoil its beauty.

Burn all the rubbish possible—allow no one to throw it on streets, alleys or vacant lots.

Promise not to spit on the sidewalk.

Organize a block improvement society and allow no weeds to grow on sidewalk, area or vacant property in your block.

Ask your milkman, groceryman and expressman to have their wagons painted.

Irrespective of the size of your houses, make your lawn the finest.

Illuminate the front of your store in the business section.

Every effort put forth or dollar spent to improve our city's appearance will be returned two-fold.

BASEBALL UNION NEXT.

An effort is being made by the American Federation of Labor to form an international union of professional baseball players, General Organizer Robinson, of New York, having charge of the move. He says letters have been sent to members of the American Baseball League with application blanks and instructions as to how to become affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. It is proposed, the letters say, to form an organization to be known as the International Association of Professional Baseball players of the United States and Canada, with locals in different cities. The American Federation of Labor, it is stated, will pay all the expenses necessary in organizing the proposed body. Mr. Robinson said:

"I have good hopes of a successful union. Preliminary steps in the work of organization have been started. It is too soon to make predictions, but I have reason to believe the proposed international organization will soon be in existence."

NO ARTIFICIAL ICE SOLD

Entire Output of Natural Ice Controlled by Three Dealers.

SAYS HEALTH BOARD.

Supply Comes From Watchung Lake—An Analysis Made by Health Officer Thurlow.

The annual inspection of the ice supply of Plainfield was made during June by the Board of Health, and a report presented at the meeting yesterday. During the year many changes have been made in the ice business here. Hygeia or artificial ice is no longer made or sold, and Plainfield's supply during the present year will come exclusively from Watchung Lake, being sold by the Natural Ice Company, F. T. Ostrom and John Morton, the whole output being controlled by these dealers.

The watershed of Watchung Lake was inspected in June and found to be in good condition. It is slightly populated, with no direct source of pollution to the brooks which supply the lake. An analysis of a sample of ice taken from this lake and found on one of the wagons on July 1 shows the following:

The ice was about fourteen inches thick, two inches being snow ice and the remainder clear and of very good quality. This is the analysis:

| | |
|---|---|
| Color | None |
| Odor— | |
| Hot | None |
| Cold | None |
| Taste | None |
| Turbidity | None |
| Sediment | None |
| Ammonia— | |
| Free | .0062 |
| Albuminoid | .0054 |
| Nitrates | .0000 |
| Nitrites | .0000 |
| Chlorine | .1227 |
| Oxygen consumed | .1504 |
| Hardness | 1.43 |

PLAINFIELD'S HEALTH DURING LAST MONTH

ONLY SIXTEEN CASES OF COMMUNICABLE DISEASES REPORTED.

There was a slight decrease in the number of communicable diseases during June as shown by the reports presented at the monthly meeting of the Board of Health, yesterday afternoon, and the sanitary condition of the city is good. There were sixteen cases in all and two deaths from tuberculosis. The table is as follows:

Scarlet fever, three cases; diphtheria, three cases; cerebro-spinal meningitis, one case; typhoid fever, three cases; tuberculosis, three cases, two deaths; measles, two cases. There is now one case under quarantine.

The following permits to sell milk were granted: John I. Brokaw, C. O. Smith and Fred H. Firstbrook. F. T. Ostrom and the Natural Ice Company were granted permits to sell ice and J. A. Scott a permit to collect garbag.e

During June there were reported twenty marriages, twenty-eight births, three still births and twenty-four deaths.

MAKING CONCRETE BLOCKS.

Local Firm Now Turning Out the New Building Material.

The Plainfield Concrete Stone Company, a new concern, recently organized for the purpose of manufacturing concrete blocks similar to those used in the construction of the VanZandt & Voorhees building on Park avenue, began the manufacture of the blocks on Monday. The plant is located at the Loizeaux lumber yards in the east end of the city, and at present about a dozen men are employed in the work. It is expected that within a short time the force will be doubled.

The process is a patent one and is considered to be the equal of any concrete block manufactured. During the past few years there has been a great demand for these blocks in construction and the Plainfield company bids fair to become a thriving industry.

NEW BRUNSWICK CENSUS.

Population Numbers 22,600, an Increase of 2,600 in Five Years.

The census of New Brunswick has been completed, and the number of inhabitants is given at about 22,600, an increase of about 2,600 over the total of 1906, when the official figures were 20,006. Supervisor William Schlesinger has sent in the returns to the State authorities, but no official announcement has been made.

Judge Woodbridge Strong and Prosecutor George Berdine will get a higher salary as the result of the increase in population in Middlesex county. The judge now receives $3,500 and the prosecutor $3,000.

Among the late arrivals at the Fifth Avenue House are Mrs. E. W. Erickson, Mrs. J. E. Erickson and W. Haywood Erickson.

ITALIANS TO CELEBRATE

Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel This Month.

JULY 18, 19 AND 20.

Parades and Concerts Daily—Special Chapel for Mass—An Annual Custom.

With an observance even more elaborate than those which made the feast days of last year and the year before unusual local events, the Plainfield Italians will mark the approaching recurrence of the Feast of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel. The leading Italians of the city and Scotch Plains met on Sunday and decided on the celebration.

It will be held at Concert Park, as last year, on July 18, 19 and 20. The committee in charge of the celebration consists of Salvi Velardi, chairman; Leonardo Velardi, Fransco Peppe, Giulrao Maracascino, Giuseppe Russe, Rocco Falconet and Antonio Spezcissese.

A prominent feature of the celebration will be the music, as usual. A larger band than the thirty-five-man organization of last year will play. Parades will be held each day and concerts each night. Fireworks will climax the celebration on the third night; the display to be one of unusual brilliance.

A little chapel will be erected somewhere in the open and on the feast day proper mass will be celebrated in it by Italian priests.

Concert Park will be gaily illuminated with colored lights, and strings of varied colored festal lanterns will swing over the roadway along Watchung avenue. Other strings will be strung along Front street. Some device will be worked out in lights on Watchung avenue.

NEWARK MAY PLAY DAAB'S AGGREGATION

GAMES TO BE ARRANGED FOR A MONDAY AFTERNOON.

There is a possibility that the Newark Eastern League team may play the locals some time during July or August, provided there are assurances of a large enough crowd to make the venture a paying one. Manager Daab has had an opportunity to schedule the Newarks for a game here on a Monday during this month or next and if he is assured that the attraction would draw well enough he is willing to give fans in Plainfield and vicinity the opportunity of seeing the Sailors oppose his fast aggregation.

That the Newark team would be a good drawing card there seems to be no doubt, and the fact that they are now playing fast ball would surely make the contest one of great interest here. It would undoubtedly attract people from many of the nearby towns, who do not have an opportunity to see such games.

Plainfield defeated the Jersey City team of the Eastern League at the outset of the season

It has been suggested that the game be called at 4 or 4:30 o'clock, which could be done at this time of the year, and this would give many commuters a chance to attend, as well as the clerks in the local stores, who cannot see the games on Saturday. Manager Daab feels sure that his team can defeat the Newarks and would like to schedule the game, provided he is sure that such an attraction would be well supported.

SAVED THEIR LOTS.

Tangle in Lincoln Mortgage Threatened Titles of Plainfielders.

When the foreclosure sale of Lincoln was held last week, lots held in the names of Mrs. Bernard Clark, A. B. Lusardi and the heirs of G. W. Eddy, all of this city, which were technically covered by the mortgage, were made over free and clear to them. The action was the adjustment of a tangle that nearly resulted in the loss of the lots to Mrs. Clark et al.

They purchased the lots under the impression that they were unencumbered. Warranty deeds were given them, but no release from the blanket mortgage held by Barker G. Hamill, of Trenton. When the impending sale was brought to their attention they retained Fred J. Huff to protect their interests. The latter succeeded in straightening the tangle out, and by agreement in the course of the litigation over the question of Lincoln's ownership Mr. Huff's clients were given a clear title.

Ralph DiArmient in Italy.

Word has been received by local friends of the safe arrival at Italy of Ralph DiArmient, of Park avenue, who sailed last month to visit his old home in Naples. He will spend two months in renewing acquaintances and will return to Plainfild in the fall.

Sunday-school Excursions.

The First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school excursions to Asbury Park will take place on Thursday, July 27.

MILLIONAIRE MINER WEDS SCHOOL TEACHER QUIETLY AT HER SISTER'S HOME IN BOROUGH

MISS ROSS, KINDERGARTEN PRINCIPAL, BECOMES THE WIFE OF FRANK PARDIE, MAN OF IMMENSE WEALTH.

Miss Alice Ross, formerly of Westfield, and Frank Pardee, of Hazleton, Pa., were married Wednesday night at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, of Willow avenue, North Plainfield, by Rev. Albert Carlton Monk, of the Episcopal church, Tuxedo, N. Y.

The wedding was a very quiet one, only the near relatives and a few immediate friends being present. An informal reception followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Pardee left on a wedding trip. They will reside at Hazleton.

The bride was formerly principal of the kindergarten in the public school at Hazleton and during the past winter and spring traveled abroad. The groom is the managing partner of Pardee & Co., the well known mining firm of Pennsylvania, and one of the biggest in the country, and he is one of the most wealthy and influential citizens of Hazleton. He is several years the senior if his bride.

MANAGER C. H. DENMAN MAKES COMPARISONS BETWEEN THE PLAINFIELD AND WESTFIELD TEAMS

BECK, DRISCOLL AND COHALAN AND COTTER AND MALLEN ARE WEAK, HE DECLARES.

Manager C. H. Denman, of Westfield, was in town last night, and preparatory to the clash between Plainfield and Westfield had a few interesting comparisons to make relative to the teams, when asked how he thought the players would measure up in the first game.

Mr. Denman said that in his opinion there are three weak players on the local team—Beck, Driscoll and Cohalan. He would not put Beck in Waller's class, claiming that there is hardly any comparison, yet he believed that the former would do as well as some leaguers. As for Driscoll, he was very pronounced in his opinion in comparing him with "Mike" Rochfort. He said that Driscoll has neither the batting strength or fielding ability or ginger of the Westfield man. In speaking of Cohalan he thought he was an unknown quantity and that having a lame arm he is necessarily handicapped. Otherwise he thought the local team was full strength and able to cope with Westfield. He paid "Jack" O'Neill a handsome compliment by saying that he did not think he had a superior outside of the big leagues, and that he had Cotter "beat a mile."

He said that Cregan was in a class by himself and that Westfield had no fielder to compare with him. He thought the same about Cosgrave.

After criticising the locals, he was asked for an opinion about his own team. He admitted that he had two weak men—Cotter and Mallen, but outside of these two players he considered his team fit for any battle on the diamond.

MISS MARGUERITE LOUISE TRACY, THE BRIDE OF CHARLES MELVIN MIX, OF MUNCIE, IND.

REV. DRS. WM. R. RICHARDS AND J. S. ZELIE OFFICIATED AT THE NUPTIAL CEREMONY.

Miss Marguerite Louise Tracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, and Dr. Charles Melvin Mix, of Muncie, Indiana, were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in West Eighth street, in the presence of guests from New York, Philadelphia, Washington, California and nearby places. The home was attractively decorated with the season's flowers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, formerly of this city, but now of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, assisted by Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her attendants were her sister, Miss Emily Tracy, as the maid of honor; Miss Edith H. Tracy and Miss Martha Tracy, also sisters, as bridesmaids. The best man was Dr. Lawrence Lee, of New York, and Frank Stimson and Charles C. Perkins, of this city, were ushers.

The bride's gown was white crepe de chine over white, trimmed with lace. She wore a bridal veil fastened at the coiffure with a spray of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore gowns of white mousseline and carried blue lockspur.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Charles L. Lewis on the piano, assisted by Miss Lamson and Miss Anderson on the violin.

A reception followed the ceremony, there being nearly two hundred guests. The bride was the recipient of a large number of costly gifts. Dr. Mix was formerly house physician at the New York Hospital and a little over a year ago was a resident of this city, living in West Seventh street for nearly two years. It was while in this city that he met Miss Tracy. About a year ago he went to Muncie, Ind., and he has built up a lucrative practice there. After a wedding trip he and his bride will go to Muncie, where the groom has prepared a home for their occupancy. The bride is well known here in a large circle of acquaintances and has been quite prominent in social affairs, also at the Plainfield Country Club.

THIS OLD COLORED VETERAN IS THE FATHER OF JUST TWENTY-EIGHT CHILDREN

AND THERE WERE SEVERAL SETS OF TWINS, AMONG THE OFFSPRING

James C. Furman, the colored veteran, residing at Washington, N. J., has been the father of twenty-eight children. Mr. Furman has been twice married and draws a pension from the Government. He was born at Stewartville, February 5, 1841, and left home at the age of twenty-one to enlist at Reading, Pa., in the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts Colored Infantry. On April 1, 1862, he was sworn into service and was in a number of engagements before he was mustered out, August 30, 1865. His regiment was in nine bloody battles, and at the second attack on Fort Wagner, July 9, 1864, the gallant Colonel Shaw, of the brave regiment of soldiers, lost his life, and some 300 others were killed or badly wounded. Furman was married to Miss Anna James, of Bloomsbury, October 3, 1860. The ceremony was performed at Asbury. Mrs. Furman died in 1876, after giving birth to her sixteenth child. In 1888 the widower married Miss Minnie Hunt, of Bloomfield. The second union has been blessed by twelve children, the youngest, Craig, being four years old. Of the twenty-eight children, only eight are living. They are: Samuel, of Newark; Lizzie, of New York; William, Rodney, Spruce, Earl, Marina and Craig, all of Washington. Most of the children died in infancy, and besides the twenty-eight, there were six who were dead at birth. There were several sets of twins. Furman is a great hunter and fisherman and his services as a guide are in demand during the seasons. He knows all the best places for fish or game within twenty-five miles of Washington. Last November he shot seventeen rabbits the first day of the open season, and had the record for this vicinity, although he is sixty-four years old. The Furman home is a neat two story house, and the owner takes great pride in making improvements to his home. He has one of the finest gardens in Washington, having beaten his neighbors in early vegetables this year. His brother Abram, of Stewartsville, is also a great trapper and hunter, and is also a musician of some note, his specialty being the violin. A sister, Mrs. Anna Burr, of Low's Hollow, is seventy-six years old. In appearance Furman is the picture of health, although troubled with asthma.

LITERARY.

House decoration and the arrangement of the home will be exclusively treated by the forthcoming Interior Decoration to be issued by Clifford & Lawton, 19 Union Square, New York. The periodical will be profusely illustrated in fine half-tones and penwork. Its contents will give the best, most interesting and most beautiful examples of house decoration for the modern den, the Girl graduate's room, the College room, the Ceremonial parlor, the Mission room, the Smoker's room and innumerable other subjects, including studies in color schemes, room proportions, wall treatments, furniture and draperies. The first number will be out next month and sold at ten cents or $1.09 a year.

The July number of Recreation will delight the sportsman's heart. It contains some of the most interesting hunting and fishing stories imaginable, and the departments are brimful of splendid hints for the man who goes to the woods and waters for pleasures, sport and health. The leading story is entitled "Buffalo Hunting Thirty-five years Ago," written by Capt. James W. Dixon, an old army officer, who watched the gradual annihilation of the bison on the Western frontier when the white men and Indians thought the supply inexhaustible. The story is quaintly reminiscent and well illustrated. Carl E. Ackerman has a splendid illustrated paper on the turkey buzzard, in which this strange bird is described in its native wilds and mountain fastnesses.

Although much of the space in the July number of the Sunset Magazine is devoted to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition at Portland, Oregon, there are other articles which will attract attention. Charles Wesley Reed's description of California's Sierra snow land in midsummer will surprise some people who might outhewise go to Europe to see the similar scenery in miniature. Then there is an article on the Summer Session of the University of California, by May L. Cheney, which shows the special educational advantages on the Pacific Coast. Some of the world's best scholars and educators will give courses in Berkeley this summer. If Gradgrind facts do not interest, the fiction will. The second chapter of a serial story by Flora Haines appears in this number, and the "Little Stories of the West" are full of western spirit. A. J. Waterhouse is the author of some funny verse. Taken all in all, this is one of the best numbers of this enterprising wide-awake magazine.

DRUG STORE CHANGES.

Improvements to be Made at L. W. Randolph's

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, has just signed the contract for extensive improvements to be made at his pharmacy, which, when completed, will make it one of the finest in the State, if not the country. The improvements call for an almost complete change of the front part of the pharmacy and will give the much needed additional floor space for customers at the soda fountain, as well as those wishing to purchase drugs and medicines.

On the right as one enters the store there is to be placed a handsome mahogany cabinet case eleven feet high, in the front of which will be a large oval glass. This will be used for the display of the large six cut glass bottles, and will also contain a perfumery department and one for Huyler's confections. This cabinet will occupy the space between the fountain and window and a large bevel mirror will fill the other part between the cabinet and window. The cabinet will be illuminated at night by numerous electric lights.

On the opposite side of the store will be placed a pier mirror to reflect the beauties of the other side. This will be eleven feet high and seven feet wide and from the point of the mirror there will be a thirty foot silent show case of mahogany resting on a base of pink Tennessee marble. This elaborate change of floor space will greatly add to the convenience of customers. The cashier's desk will be at the corner of the show case, opposite the fountain, and will be in keeping with the other handsome woodwork and will have a glass front and sides. A parquet floor will be used in the show cases and they will be equipped with all modern appliances. The work of improvements will be completed during the month of September, according to contract.

New-Tangled Revolver.

Officer Overbaugh has ordered one of the newly patented automatic Colt magazine pistols for use in his police work. The pistol shoots seven shots in less than four seconds, the mechanism operating under the recoil after the first discharge. It will be the first one in use in this city, so far as is known.

Mr. Meeker's New Home.

State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker has purchased Mrs. Cobb's handsome residential property at Belvidere avenue and East Seventh street, comprising a large house and spacious grounds and will probably take up his residence there, leasing his present home on West Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Mall, of East Front street, sailed on the Red Star steamer Finland, for Europe. They will be away all summer.

JOURNALISTIC OPINION

New Jersey's Trust Companies.

The organization of a new trust company in Newark to cater especially to the east side marks another step in the development of the city as a financial centre. The first company to be established in Newark was the Fidelity, incorporated February 14, 1887. The City Trust Company followed with an incorporation April 27, 1901. In the same year, on July 19, the Federal was incorporated, and on April 4 of the following year the West Side Trust Company came into corporate existence. At the date of the last annual report, February 15 last, of the State Banking Commission there were 59 trust companies incorporated and doing business in New Jersey, with $103,347,982 of deposits and $152,483,540 of resources. The total capital stock was $12,277,500 and the total surplus $21,452,550. Four new trust companies were organized last year. This banking interest has practically been created since 1888. As early as 1868 the Security Company, of Camden, was incorporated, but it did not begin business until 1892. The Mechanics, of Bayonne, incorporated in 1872, began business in 1886. The New Jersey Title Guarantee and Trust Company, of Jersey City, was organized in 1868, and began business twenty years later. The Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company was incorporated in 1873 and began business that year. With this exception all the trust companies began operations late in the eighties. In 1889 there were eleven trust companies, with an aggregate capital of $861,250, deposits $3,513,220, surplus and profits of $266,551. Ten years later the number of companies had increased to 25, the capitalization to $3,657,000, the surpius to $2,652,418, and the deposits to $23,856,403. Since 1899 the growth of the trust companies has been phenomenal. The number of companies has been doubled, the capital has been quadrupled, the suplus increased 600 per cent. and the deposits more than trebled. To a large extent, the trust company has taken the place of the State bank. In 1892 there were twenty-two State banks. At the close of last year the number was seventeen, and the total capitalization had been reduced from $1,780,460 in 1892 to $1,443,750 in 1904. To a less extent the trust companies have affected the business of the savings banks, although the deposits of these institutions increased from $33,807,634 in 1892 to $79,847,256 last year.—Newark Advertiser.

Removal of Signs.

Give credit to the author of the law which is to remove the signs from the sidewalks. The effect is going to be immediate and permanent in helping to beautify the city. The building inspector's department says that a few weeks after the signs are removed there will be no business man who will ask for their return. That is true. The signs are new being taken down and the result is admired. They are objectionable in any way they are considered. Signs of moderate size are permitted, and small signs are all that are required by any merchant.—Atlantic City Sunday Gazette.

The Debt of New Jersey.

A few days ago the New York Tribune had a scare headed article on the increase of New Jersey's local indebtedness, in which it was shown that funded and floating debt of the municipalities of the State, its counties, cities and towns, was $104,464,086, and it was alleged that the burden of local indebtedness is so large and is increasing at such a rate as to excite and alarm all thoughtful taxpayers. Why such an attack should be made on the State does not appear, for there is nothing alarming about a debt of $100,000,000 on a property valuation of $1,200,000,000. The funded debt amounts to $89,531,717, and against this there is a substantial sinking fund accumulation. The floating debt is mainly loans made in anticipation of taxes, and a large part of it is debt due to the law that allows the property owners to pay assessments for street and sewer improvements on the installment plan. They pay this off at the rate of 20 per cent. per annum. The funded debt represents the unpaid part of the cost of public buildings, schools, fire engine houses, bridges, roads and water works. The total value of this property in the State far exceeds the total debt. More than half of the funded debt is owed by Hudson and Essex and their municipalities. This is also true of the floating debt. The two strong counties have $59,298,255 of the funded and $5,972,032 of the floating debt. These counties are well able to take care of their debts, and no doubt the others are also. Passaic, Mercer, Camden and Atlantic have been making many improvemetns, and these are profitable. They attract capital and population. The more capital and population the less of a burden the debt is, and the whole debt is small when compared with the assets.—Jersey City Journal.

Sound Doctrine.

At an Ocean Grove meeting on Thursday, the Rev. C. H. Yatman told his congregation that "If a woman comes and attends meetings, going gadding about after religion, and leaves her home dirty, her children uncared for, and her husband without proper meals, she should remember that it is more decent to care for him than to pray at meeting for him." That is sound doctrine, to which all men will subscribe.—Trenton Times.

Food for Thought.

With a lull in politics during the hot spell we can now look for Beef Trust indictments and other things that will furnish food for thought.—Paterson Guardian.

Wants More Concessions.

Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City, has vetoed the street and water board's resolution giving the Erie the right to construct an open cut through the hill. The Mayor argues that the railroad company has not made sufficient concessions in return for the vacation of certain streets and portions of streets.—Paterson Press.

Misleading Figures.

Municipal ownership of a public water supply may be all right, but if the City of Elizabeth should secure a municipal water supply, it will be sadly disappointed if it bases its hopes of profit upon the report concerning the great profits made by East Orange since it owned its water system. According to this report, East Orange issued $600,000 worth of bonds, where as $850,000 were issued, and a profit of over $100,000 was made out of an unexpended balance from a sale of bonds! East Orange's profit on its investment thus far is not very large, but it has great expectations as to the future.—Orange Journal.

Dill's Change of Front.

"Don't chase the easy dollar," James B. Dill told the members of the graduating class of Oberlin College, in his commencement address on Wednesday. The popular notion is that Mr. Dill has been for a number of years chasing "the easy dollar," and that his pursuit was not entirely unsuccessful. The reflections on "dummy directors," also have an odd sound when coming from one who has so successfully worked the "dummy" in organizing great corporations. It is another case of "Don't do as I do, but do as I say."—Trenton Times.

Judges Dropped Their Gowns.

It became plainly evident after the close of the Revolution that the members of the bar did not care to retain their gowns. In 1791, on petition of leading counsellors, the rule requiring their use was rescinded. About the same time the judges of the Supreme Court laid aside their gowns, and, while records are not extant, it is safe to say that by 1800 both bench and bar appeared at the trial of cases in costume conforming to the uncertain canons of that much abused term "Jeffersonian simplicity."—Trenton True American.

$250,000 WING PLANS FOR STATE HOSPITAL

BOARD OF MANAGERS WILL RECEIVE BIDS JULY 20.

The board of managers of the New Jersey State Hospital at Trenton met at the hospital this week and decided to advertise for bids for the construction of the new $250,000 addition to the institution. The advertisements will be placed today and bids must be in the hands of the board on or before July 20. The plans are on file in the office of the Commisisoner of Charities and Corrections at the State House.

The addition will consist of two new wings constructed at right angles to and adjoining the present annex, one at each end. The north wing will be for men and the south for women. Each will be built of stone, 250x65 feet, and three stories in heigth. Each wing will have accommodations for 200 patients.

There will be an ornate entrance in the centre of the front facade. The floors will be identical and each will contain two complete wards, with nurses' quarters, toilet rooms and other necessary rooms. Each floor will have a large dining room. A complete system of water works for fire protection will be provided in each wing. A steam heating plant will be installed.

To provide the additional heat, the boiler capacity of the institution will be largely increased. This will be accomplished by tearing out the old boilers and installing four new ones. They will be of the return tubular type, 14 feet long.

Red to Predominate.

Managers Counihan and Gelatt, of the Plainfield theatre, have placed their orders for the seats and furnishings in the orchestra of the new playhouse with the Grand Rapids Furniture Company. The color scheme is to be a bright red similar to the effect in the New York Hippodrome.

Fourth's Victims.

According to dispatches received by the Chicago Record-Herald from 150 of the principal cities of the United States, thirty-six people were killed and 1,677 injured by explosions of firecrackers, firearms, gunpowder and toy pistols on the Fourth of July.

Course for "Auto" Race.

Robert Lee Morrell, chairman of the racing board of the American Automobile Association, filed with Halstead Scudder, counsel for the Board of Supervisors of Nassau county, yesterday, an application for the use of certain roads in the county to hold an elimination trial for the William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., cup, on September 23.

TOPICAL SONG SCORED AT MONTROSS MINSTRELS

CONTAINED NUMEROUS LOCAL HITS THAT CAUGHT THE CROWD.

The topical song written by Judge Runyon and sung at the Montross minstrel benefit by Thomas Muir, last night, was a feature of the show. The verses were as follows:

The Board of Police is a funny crew;
I'm sure everyone will agree.
And queer are the things that those good people do;
I'm sure everyone will agree.
Just think of the way that they treated Friend Pete,
Although he was good and was never off beat,
They sacked him because he bought peanuts to eat,
I'm sure everyone will agree.

Chorus.

O the queer things we hear and the queer things we see
Are enough to give spasms to you and to me.
If we were the bosses how happy we'd be,
I'm sure everyone will agree.

The rooters of Westfield are proud of their nine,
I'm sure everyone will agree,
And they think that this world has no other so fine,
I'm sure everyone will agee.
But soon Denman's pets will resemble old buds;
For Daab and his laddies are here with the goods,
And Mallen and Waller will pike to the woods,
I'm sure everyone will agree.

Though fights may arise in each party and creed,
I'm sure everyone will agree.
The cause of this evening is bound to succeed;
I'm sure everyone will agree
For when a good fellow has carried his cross
And smiled at the world in the face of each loss,
He's all to the mustard—that's Jimmie Montross;
I'm sure everyone will agree.

As we travel around this terrestrial sphere,
I'm sure everyone will agree
We see every day many things new and queer,
I'm sure everyone will agree.
But here let me tell you deny it who can
The greatest invention since science began,
Is good Mr. Swackhamer's little blackman,
I'm sure everyone will agree.

The Council of Plainfield is honest and straight,
I'm sure everyone will agree;
And their hot air is fine when it comes to debate,
I'm sure everyone will agree.
A session with them is as good as a school,
But instead of discussing some new fangled rule
Why on earth don't they build us a big swimming pool.
I'm sure everyone will agree.

An extra verse was given by the singer to the great surprise of Judge Runyon as follows:

Now here's to Judge Runyon, kind-hearted and true,
I'm sure everyone will agree;
A good friend to me and a good friend to you;
I'm sure everyone will agree;
Now, he's just the man that we've been looking for—
In all Union County there isn't one more—
And we want him to be our next Senator.
I'm sure everyone will agree.

G. O. P. MAKES READY FOR ANNUAL OUTING

KEAN, DRYDEN AND OTHER "BIG GUNS" TO BE THERE.

Arrangements for the outing to be held by the Republican county organization were completed by the outing committee at a meeting in Elizabeth yesterday. William Newcorn, of the Fourth Ward, was present. The outing will take place Saturday, July 29.

The secretary was instructed to send invitations to Governor Stokes, Senators Kean and Dryden, Congressman Fowler, the three Assemblymen, Major Carl Lentz, of Essex; Col. Dickenson, of Hudson; State Treasurer Frank O. Briggs, and State Comptroller J. Willard Morgan. Senator Kean and Congressman Fowler will, of course, be there; they would come without invitations in the natural course of events, but the others invited are expected with such a degree of certainty. It is probable, however, that Major Lentz, the Governor and State Treasurer Briggs will attend. There will be slate making enough to furnish interest for them.

Dater's Band, of Elizabeth, has been engaged to furnish the music for the trip. It is hoped that Dater will not have a monopoly of the harmony. The lunch contract for the trip to the grove was let. The dinner at the grove was arranged for several weeks ago.

HECKMAN HEIRS WIN.

Administrator's Commissions Clipped by Decision of Court.

In the Orphans' Court of Monmouth county, Judge Foster presiding, yesterday, a decision favorable to the heirs of Sylvanus Heckman, in their action against Julius Deedmyer, a former Plainfielder, administrator of the estate, was handed down. Deedmyer's right to the full amount of commissions claimed was disputed. It appears that eighteen years ago Deedmyer gave Heckman a note for $900, which was never paid. It was claimed by the heirs that this note should figure as an asset of the estate, and offset that much in commissions. Deedmyer claimed the note to be a matter separate and aside from the estate, but the court ruled for the heirs.

Now a Third Warder.

Andrew McCardell, formerly a resident of West Front street, in the Fourth ward, but recently living at the Hotel Iroquois, has moved at 636 West Seventh street, in the Third ward.

MINSTREL SHOW A HIT

Tom Muir's Rendition of Judge Runyon's Topical Song Brings Storm of Applause.

A GREAT AFTER-PIECE.

Fred VanEps Enthusiastically Encored—Johnny Nestor a Feature of the Show.

The Montross minstrel benefit given in Saengerbund hall, last night, was a complete success, both artistically and financially. It was witnessed by a crowd of 800 people which showered generous applause upon the young artists.

In the usual first part, Aleck Muir acted as interlocutor and Joseph C. Martin, John H. Cose, Thomas M. Muir, George B. Cose, Harry Blimm and Bert Firstbrook were the end men. In addition to springing a bunch of joks each one gave a solo. Other vocal numbers were given by Elmer Cutting, Jack Todd, Leonce Texier and Harry Roberts, the last named making a big hit with "Pal of Mine," one of the prettiest sentimental ballads of the season.

Tony Lusardi and Ira Bowers, the favorite buck and wing dancers, sang "Dan, Dan, Danuel," in connection with their terpischorean effort, in a manner that made their number one of the best on the programme.

A topical song, written by Judge Runyon, and sung by Thomas Muir, "brought down the house" through its timely local hits. It will be found entire in another column.

The chorus was composed of Edward Canning, Harry Holmes, William Firstbrook, William Baker, George Keen, Harry Keen, Edmond Texier, George Pope, Ben Evans, Charles Vincent, William Meyer, Joseph Baker, William Porter, John Duckworth, John Fritts, Herbert Fluck, Wallace Morton, Harry Hoffman, William Hoffman, Hugh Gray, Edwin Howes, Bert Glaentzer, Hugh Sweeney, Harry Hook, George Wilson and Sydney Gilbert.

In the olio, Johnny Nestor, of Haviland's New York house, gave illustrated songs, accompanied on the piano by Bert Fitzgibbon, of New York, composer of "Don't Be So Mean," and one of the best rag-time player. in the country. Fred VanEps rendered several banjo solos that proved his mastery of the instrument and the audience gave him a round of applause that was almost an ovation. Charles F. Meyer, Sr., and Bertram Hanson also "made good" with their clever acrobatic sketch, the former at one time having been in the professional ranks.

The show closed with an afterpiece entitled "Razor Jim," arranged by Harry Roberts and in which he took the leading part, that of a theatrical manager about to take a show on the road. Thomas Muir played the part of "Razor Jim," his property man, George B. Cose made a hit as "Edwin Booth," an exponent of tragedy, and Elmer D. Cutting lost his identity in a most wonderful make-up as "Madame Addie Patty," a prima donna troubled with a French accent. The sketch kept the crowd laughing continuously through its numerous funny situations that were well acted.

The show was arranged by City Judge William M. Runyon, who acted as musical director, Thomas M. Muir and George E. Firstbrook. William Schorb was the efficient stage manager and calcium light operator and Alfred B. Marsh and Joseph Sweeney were the property men. Although not known definitely, the proceeds for "Smiling Jimmie" will easily reach $150 and he was so informed at Muhlenberg Hospital today. He was sitting up when the news was conveyed to him and his complete recovery is sure to be hastened by it.

The young men who assisted in the business end and as ushers were Philip Jahn, Leo Moore, James Penney, George Gray and George Ballentyne.

OUTING FOR LITTLE CRIPPLES.

Taken to Children's Country Home Conducted at Mountainside.

About fifteen little patients, who have been treated at the Home for Crippled Children in Newark, have been taken down to the Children's Country Home, at Mountainside. Some of them will be there all July and August, while the others will come back in a fortnight and other little sufferers will take their places.

Among those interested in the home's maintenance is Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, who this year has had large improvements made in the interior of the home and presented to it a conveyance for the transportation of the children to and from the railroad station.

The institution accommodates about twenty-five children, but in addition to the little Newark guests there are a number from New York who are sent for two weeks' outings throughout the summer. Dr. Coles arranged a treat for the local children Independence Day, when he made plans by which the parents and brothers and sisters of the crippled children visited them at the country home. He provided transportation and a treat of ice cream, cake and fruit for them.

A CONVENTION ROMANCE

Young People Who Met at N. B. Y. P. U. Gathering Wedded in Borough.

BOTH WERE DELEGATES

Miss Ida Church, of Somerset Street, the Bride, and William D. Johnson, of Scotch Plains, the Groom.

A romance which had its beginning three years ago at the annual convention of the National Baptist Young People's Union at Providence, R. I., resulted Monday in the marriage of Miss Ida Louise Church, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Church, of 243 Somerset street, and Edward William Dodd Johnston, of Scotch Plains, which was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the members of the immediate families of the contracting parties. Rev. G. M. Shott, formerly of Scotch Plains, but now of Yonkers, N. Y., officiated.

The bride attended the Baptist convention as a delegate from her society at Hackensack, while Mr. Johnston was a delegate from the Scotch Plains Baptist church, accompanied by Rev. Mr. Shott. The two delegates formed an acquaintance at the convention which soon ripened into love and had its consummation in the wedding last night.

Miss Church has been a well known and popular public school teacher in Bergen county for a number of years, and also an active worker in the church and Sunday school of the First Baptist church of Hackensack, her native city. Mr. Johnston is the president of the Young People's Union of the Scotch Plains Baptist church and is popular in that community.

That these young people have a host of friends was attested by numerous valuable and beautiful presents, among which was a beautiful token from the Young People's Union of the Scotch Plains church, and very choice unified gifts from the church choir, officers and teachers of the First Baptist Sunday School of Hackensack, and from the Board of Trustees, teachers and scholars of the public school at Palisades Park, where the bride has been a teacher for the last few years.

After a light wedding supper, accompanied by the hearty congratulations of their assembled friends, a liberal shower of rice and old shoes, bride and groom took their departure in a carriage hastily decorated by the assembled company, for a brief honeymoon trip. They will reside with the parents of the bride for the summer and in the fall set up for themselves in a new home of their own now in course of construction at Scotch Plains.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Some Good Essays in the Public Library.

Addison, J.—Sir Roger de Coverley.

Arnold, M.—Culture and anarchy; and Friendship's garland.

Boynton, H. W.—Journalism and literature.

Carlyle, T.—Heroes and hero worship.

Crothers, S. M.—Gentle reader.

Dawson, C.—Shakespeare and other lectures.

Dowden, E.—Studies in literature.

Dowden, E.—Puritan and Anglican.

Eliot, C. W.—American contributions to civilization.

Emerson, R. W.—Conduct of life.

Emerson, R. W.—Society and solitude.

Hamerton, P. G.—Human intercourse.

Hamerton, P. G.—Intellectual life.

Howe, Mrs. J. W.—Is polite society polite? and other essays.

Howells, W. D.—Literature and life.

Hutton, R. H.—Contemporary thought and thinkers.

Hutton, R. H.—Modern guides to English thought.

Irving, W.—Sketch book.

James, H., Jr.—Essays in London and elsewhere.

Jerrold, D.—Essays.

Lamb, C.—Essays of Elia.

Lowell, J. R.—My study windows.

Lubbock, Sir J.—Pleasure of life.

Macaulay, T. B.—Essays.

Martin, E. S.—Lucid intervals.

Mosher, W. H.—Imaginary portraits.

Repplier, Agnes—Books and men.

Repplier, Agnes—Compromises.

Repplier, Agnes—Points of view.

Ruskin, J.—Sesame and lilies.

Scudder, V. D.—Social ideals in English letters.

Stephen, L.—Studies of a biographer.

Stevenson, R. L.—Familiar studies of men and books.

Stevenson, R. L.—Virginibus puerisque and other papers.

Thoreau, H. D.—Walden.

Torrey, B.—Clerk of the woods.

Torrey, B.—Foot-path way.

Warner, C. D.—Back-log studies.

Whipple, E. P.—Character and characteristics of men.

Wilson, W.—Mere literature.

LOCAL FANS ANXIOUS FOR SATURDAY'S GAME

CONFIDENT PLAINFIELD WILL WIN THE WESTFIELD SERIES.

Interest is increasing at a rapid pace in the first of the Plainfield-Westfield series to be played at Recreation Park on Saturday. The locals will be accompanied by a large and loyal band of rooters, who will do their utmost to help the Daabsters win the first contest. Manager Daab feels confident that his team is in good condition to do the trick. He has found a new second baseman, one who will be equally as fast as the other infielders, and with this player, whose name cannot be mentioned just now, it will be hard to improve the team. Turner will probably occupy center garden in Cosgrave's place, and he can be depended upon to do his share toward a victory. Although Mr. Daab has not definitely announced who will stand on the firing line, the fans can rest assured that the artist will be a good one. If it is Billy Beck, it will be because Mr. Daab has every confidence in his ability to score a victory.

Manager Deaman, when seen last night, said that so far as he was able to state at present, he thought his lineup would be the same as used at Trenton on Saturday, when the team defeated the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 1 to 0. He also states that he fully believes that his aggregation would be the best local team that Keller informed him this week that he intended to pitch his arm off to win, and that means business, for there are times when "Red" is far from working so hard. As a rule he does not have to go that far, but it is well to say that he will be obliged to do so on Saturday. Every member of the Westfield team is "on his job" and each one has received instructions from Manager Deaman that there is to be no kicking from them, that Captain Mallen will do the talking for the team and they are to keep quiet.

The Plainfield fans go into the series with more confidence than ever, for they have every reason to believe that the local team is the strongest independent team in this part of the country, and with a record of fifteen victories out of seventeen games, the boys ought to maintain their winning streak. From Captain Mallen down there is a great desire to win, and if the best effort counts, Plainfield should score her first victory.

COLLEGE FAVORITES ON THE DIAMOND

PREJUDICE GIVES WAY TO APPRECIATION OF GOOD WORK.

It is not so long ago that college graduates were not welcomed very heartily when they managed to break into a major league, and then they had to be unusually brilliant performers to get even so much as a look in. There was a feeling of prejudice against them which some managers have failed to conquer even today.

But this general feeling has changed, owing to the large number of college men who have broken into the big league ranks within the past two or three years, and who have made good. Some of the most famous men in the National and American Leagues today are college graduates, and the fact that they have good educations does not seem to be known to be a proof of inability to perform well on the diamond.

A fan thinks a winning team could be picked from college players now in the game. He picks Stahl, University of Illinois, now with Washington, and Homer Hildebrand, the Pirates' Princetonian, as catchers; Mike Lynch, a Brown man, with the Pirates; Christy Mathewson, the Illinois man on Seele's team; "Dr." White, the White Sox Georgetown boy, and Bender, the Athletics' Carlisle Indian, as the pitchers available.

He would place Phil Lewis, the Cornell lad who belongs to Brooklyn, at short; Fred Tenney, the Boston manager who is a Harvard man, at Brown, would play first; Charlie Hickman, the Detroit man, who comes from the University of West Virginia, could also play first base.

Abbaticchio, of Boston, who came from St. Vincent's, could play third. He would have his outfield composed of Clarence Beaumont, the Pirate with a Beloit diploma; Dave Fultz, the New York American, who came from Brown, and Cy Thomas, the Phillies' star, from the University of Pennsylvania.

Brown has given three good players to the majors, and the University of Illinois has gone it one better.

Miss Pangborn Wedded.

Miss Lydia A. Pangborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pangborn, of Chatham street, and Harry W. Weber, of New York, were quietly married in Newark on Sunday by Rev. J. Mead. Miss Clara May Sutter attended Miss Pangborn as bridesmaid, and Lorenzo Dodd was the best man. Following the ceremony dinner was served. The couple returned here in the afternoon and later started on a short wedding trip.

THE EDUCATION OF A BUSINESS MAN

JOHN BRISBEN WALKER, COSMOPOLITAN EDITOR TALKS ON SUBJECT.

At Asbury Park one day last week, John Brisben Walker, editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, delivered the following able address on "The Essentials of a Proper Education for the Average Business Man."

Mr. Walker said in part:

"While our great schools are organized in the most complete way for instruction and administration, I have found, by personal examination covering nearly a dozen of our leading universities that there exists no board of commission of disinterested men whose duty it is to determine what education should be given.

"It therefore becomes essential to arrange with the utmost precision the order for the period of time available. But before this can be done so that the result will be without waste, the student must determine: 'What do I hope to obtain by education.'

"The answer to this must embrace certain is he is achieve happiness, the dents. Every man seeks:

"First, happiness—not enjoyment merely, not pleasure, but that deeper feeling of satisfaction that comes only upon right living—a condition of the soul which is given out as well as those round us.

"Secondly, the tools with which to accomplish business results.

"It goes without saying that the nearer you come to Truth—that is, to a clear understanding of the conditions which surround us—the more certain is he to achieve happiness, the more certain to accomplish results.

"If the youth starts out in a fog of deception, his every effort must be hampered. If he comprehends but dimly the causes at work about him, he is likely to deceive himself and to deceive others.

"Therefore, in the acquisition of knowledge, comes first and fundamentally some comprehension of the Univers... As a preliminary and an accompaniment to business training there should be brief studies of the known facts, first concerning the universe itself, and secondly, of our own globe. If one starts in ignorance of things which concern all life, there will be endless groping in the dark. Having some knowledge of the world in which he exists—Astronomy—Geology—he must next know something of the things round about him—Botany and Chemistry. Then comes the even more necessary knowledge concerning his own body—Physiology; health stands first and foremost in human acquisition, and without this will profit him little without knowledge. Lastly some understanding of his own mind—Psychology.

"Knowledge of one's own language is an important factor in business success. The study of grammar and rhetoric, and the acquaintance of best literature, is essential to that choice of words which brings conviction to the hearer—to that concise style so necessary in modern correspondence—to that clear and exact statement so essential to contracts, either oral or written. But beyond his own tongues, no one should waste upon languages, ancient or modern, the precious minutes of the all too short a time which he can give to education. The man seeking a business education is a runner in a race. He has but so many seconds to win his goal; and he must keep constantly in mind the course he has set himself to pursue. If he deviates, the loses.

"One other teaching must run throughout the business course. That institution fails which does not provide for constant lectures upon 'Integrity, the First Requisite to a Successful Business Career.' Every part of business ethics should be discussed; difficult situations should be presented and the temptations of business life shown up. Because those things are our schools and colleges, thousands of youths annually wreck themselves upon the sophistries of the business world. Upon every business field lie these wrecks of men, who would very likely have seen the way to honorable fortune had they been instructed in advance concerning the temptations they were to encounter. A love of Truth and the possession of a personal integrity above temptation constitutes the highest capital of the youth who would seek business success."

LITERARY.

Too little has been written about the personal aspect of him who was first in peace, first in war, and first in the hearts of his fellow citizens. Many interesting bits of information are added in the Journal of B. H. Latrobe, extracts from which will appear in the July number of D. Appleton's Booklovers Magazine. Mr. Latrobe was a personal friend of Washington, and the architect of the Capitol. He was a soldier, civil engineer, philosopher, artist, humorist, poet, and naturalist, and an all-round remarkable character. The papers range from the years 1796 to 1820 and are not only of historical value, but lively and refreshing reading. A man as proficient in the arts of peace as in the arts of war, in the graces of mind and intellect as in the graces of architecture, could not fail to be interesting.

CAPT. HUBBARD'S WILL

Offered for Probate at Surrogate's Office This Morning.

EXECUTORS NAMED.

Bequeaths $1,500 to Seventh-day Baptist Church and $1,000 Each to Two Granddaughters.

The will of the late Captain James Franklin Hubbard was offered for probate in the office of Surrogate Parrott, Elizabeth, Tuesday morning. Isaac N. VanSickel, a son-in-law, and James C. Pope, of this city, are named as the executors.

According to the provisions of the will, Joseph A. Hubbard, a brother of the departed, receives the sum of $3,000, and a sister, Mrs. Mary A. Pratt, is given a home and lot at her home in Scott, New York.

To his granddaughters, the Misses VanSickel, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac N. VanSickel, of Madison avenue, he bequeaths $1,000 each, and the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which Captain Hubbard was a member, receives $1,500.

The residue of the estate is bequeathed to the widow and daughter, Mrs. Isaac N. VanSickel. Although the value of the estate is not known, it is believed to be considerable, both in cash and property-holdings, and as stated the bulk of this is left to the widow and daughter.

FEWER FOREST FIRES LAST YEAR IN JERSEY

GOVERNOR STOKES AT HEAD OF NEW COMMISSION.

From advance sheets of the forthcoming annual report of the State Geological Survey, it is shown that the forest fires were not as heavy in 1904 as during preceding years. Still the need of the new Forestry Commission is apparent, when it is noted that for 1904, 41,530 acres were burned over, at a loss to the people of $193,415. The loss for the preceding year was 85,046 acres burned over, at a loss of $305,744.

Last year the largest acreage burned was 11,600 in Ocean county; Atlantic came next, with 6,245 acres burned; then Burlington, with 5,810; Sussex, 4,300; Morris, 3,250; Cape May, 2,450; Passaic, 1,700; Cumberland, 1,525, and so on, down to Union county, where but ten acres were burned over. The money losses were: Ocean, $43,234.50; Burlington, $34,045; Atlantic, $26,020; Sussex, $17,525; Morris, $15,957; Passaic, $13,100, down to Union, with $21.

In addition to the direct loss of timber there is the indirect loss due to partial fires, destruction of seed by rodents, the destruction of game, insect eating birds, etc. The causes of the fires were: Railroad locomotives, 25; farmers burning brush, clearing lands, burning safety strips around cranberry bogs, etc., 13; unknown, 11; hunters, 6; incendiary, 6; boys playing with matches, 5; smokers, 5; tramps, 5; charcoal burners, 2, and one each for feebleminded person, policeman and accident.

"It is evident," says the report, "that increasing efforts should be made to prevent the starting of fires, both by strict enforcement of the law, which provides for the punishment of the guilty, and by the creation of a better public sentiment, which will sternly rebuke a man who by his heedlessness or carelessness permits a fire to start. More care should be exercised on the part of the farmers in burning brush.

In less than half the fires of the year was there a determined effort made to stop them. In some instances railroad section men were on the ground, and they extinguished them, led by their foremen. In one instance the work of these men stopped a fire after burning over twenty-five acres, when, without their efforts, many hundred other acres would have been burned over. The survey has repeatedly pointed out that by the expenditure of a comparatively small sum the State could establish an efficient forest fire service, as has been done in many other states.

Governor Stokes is the head of the new State Forestry Commission, and he is an enthusiastic forestry man. Saving the trees has always been a hobby of his.

Deamans Little Gem.

Charlie Deaman, sometimes known as manager of the Westfield Baseball Club, contributes this gem to the interest of the approaching conflict between Plainfield and Westfield:

"One of the Best Pitchers on Earth—Mr. John J. Walker, otherwise known as "Red," assisted by Messrs. Cotter, Smithson, Roehford, Kellogg, Barry, Bertwhistle, McGoey and Mallen, will present the nine inning drama, 'Get the First,' at Recreation Park, Westfield, Saturday afternoon, July 15. Doors open at 2, curtain at 4, drinks at 6:15."

PREPARING FOR THE ANNUAL BABY PARADE

ASBURY PARK'S ANNUAL EVENT TO BE BETTER THAN EVER.

The Asbury Park carnival commission is rapidly outlining the great mid-summer baby parade and carnival, which, if the plans are fully carried out, will surpass in its chaste and artistic completion every previous similar fete in the history of the city.

In view of the gradual evolution of the baby parade carnival, dating from a crude parade of the tots on the boardwalk until a bright idea developed the greater and more entrancing features of the coronation ball, the queen's reception, the masque fete and finally the Deal lake carnival, it is not unreasonable to expect that the carnival commission of 1905 will devise fresh attractions.

The coronation ball is fixed for August 28. This event will be held in the beach auditorium and while many of the striking features of last year will be retained it is proposed to strengthen the queen's entertainment and to give to the affair a more entrancing scenic effect than was ever before attempted.

The queen's reception, which will take place August 29, will be a brilliant social function, possessing all the elements of legal formality and courtly etiquet. No expense will be spared in the decorations, which will consist of natural flowers, bunting and artistic hangings.

To give added eclat to the queen's reception distinguished statesmen civilians and military officials will be invited to attend. Special invitations will be sent to Governor Stokes, United States Senators Dryden and Kean, Senator O. H. Brown, the county assemblymen and other official dignitaries.

The queen's pageant and baby parade, on August 31, is the climax of the carnival. Queen Titanti, seated in her royal pavilion, and surrounded by the members of her court, will view with sympathetic eye the march of the tots on Ocean avenue, which will be profusely decorated.

Very many handsome prizes have been received by the committee. Among these are a silver loving cup from the Borden Condensed Milk Company, which will probably be one of the handsomest received; a loving cup from Dr. Munyon; two sterling silver mounted gold pens from L. E. Waterman company, of New York; John Olsen presented boys' fire rig, hat, belt and shirt, which will be offered as a prize in the novelty division; a loving cup from the Omo Dress Shield company, of Connecticut; a loving cup from Jeweler A. W. Cornelius; a loving cup from Mennen's Talcum Powder company; a cup from Eskay Food company, to be used as a special prize; loving cup from the Adelphi Silver company, of New York, and a loving cup from the New York Tribune, to be used as a prize in the novelty division.

The third event of the carnival week is the firemen's festival. The review is fixed for August 30. Hiram Walton and George E. Hullck have been authorized to extend invitations to the chiefs, assistant chiefs and firemen of the various fire companies in Asbury Park and adjacent cities and towns to attend a meeting at which plans for a firemen's parade will be formulated.

To wind up the gala week the Deal lake carnival will be repeated. This brilliant nocturnal display will take place on September 1. Commodore J. Wesley Coleman has been appointed chairman of the Deal lake carnival committee. He will select his aides from Allenhurst, Deal, Loch Arbour and Asbury Park.

LOCAL ELECTRIC PLANT NOT TO BE MOVED NOW

LARGE INCREASE IN BUSINESS KEEPS IT HERE.

It has been generally understood that it would only be a matter of a short time when the city and borough would receive its electric power from the large plant of the Public Service Corporation at Metuchen, and the electric plant here would be transferred there.

It is learned on good authority that such a change will probably not be made in several years, owing to the large increase in business here. It was thought that the Metuchen plant would be able to take care of this section, but as large as it is and as fully equipped, it will be impossible for it to do so now, and it will likely be some years before this can be done. The Metuchen plant is constantly being improved and added to, so that the large business can be cared for properly.

Outing Tickets Selling.

Tickets for the Republican County Committee's outing, July 29, are selling rapidly in this city, according to Chairman William Newcorn, of the committee in charge. All the members of the county committee have the tickets for sale, and if they run shy Mr. Newcorn has supply enough to replenish their stock.

PLAINFIELD PASTORS NOW ENJOYING VACATIONS

PULPITS TO BE IN CHARGE OF SUPPLIES DURING THEIR ABSENCE.

Within a short time all of the Plainfield pastors will be on their annual vacations and the various pulpits will be occupied with supplies during the month or six weeks that the pastors are away.

Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will leave on Friday, July 28, for Jeffersonville, Montgomery county, Pa., where he will remain until September 1. During his absence the supplies at his church will be as follows:

July 30, Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-day Baptist church; August 6, Rev. D. Stelle, of Philadelphia; August 13, Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains; August 20, Rev. George H. Wald, of Vassar, Mich.; August 27, Rev. J. R. Ellis, of Cohoes, N. Y.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, will be absent from the city on July 30, August 6, 13, 20, 27 and September 3. The list of supplies has not yet been completed. It will be announced within a short time.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will spend his vacation in Maine. The supplies have not yet been announced.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, is enjoying his vacation at Northfield, Mass.

Rev. Dr. Hageman, of Faith chapel, will go to Martha's Vineyard, where he will take a course of study in oratory. From there he and Mrs. Musson will spend the remainder of their vacation in Maine and at Washington, Mr. Musson's former home.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will take his vacation in August, and will spend the time abroad. His supplies will be completed within a week or so.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, will be away during August, and he will spend his vacation in the New England states.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, of the Unitarian church, has gone to his summer home in New Hampshire, and during his absence his church will be closed, reopening in September.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, will be away during August. There will be no evening preaching services during the month, the Epworth League taking charge of those meetings.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, will be away the entire month of August, although his plans as to where he will spend his vacation have not been decided upon. The supplies secured are as follows:

August 6, Rev. Thomas W. Jones, of Bedminster, N. J.; August 13, Rev. William T. Pannell, Flanders, Morris county, N. J.; August 20, Rev. Peter K. Hegeman, of Central Bridge, N. Y. On August 27 the church will be closed for the usual cleaning.

The Summer Refuge.

Scarcely are the gang-planks pulled asnore, when, with a start, the boat has left the wharf and is footing it rapidly down stream. Then you remember that the Sandy Hook line is the fastest out of New York, or any other harbor for the matter of that. There is yet something in store to thrill the man who has not seen the "sky-scrapers," standing together like a band of giants at a hunting, as they transcend the purple vapors of evening, and catch on their higher portions the rosy light from the setting sun. Then, as with steadily than the Ancient Mariner, we drop "below the kirk, below the hill, below the light-house top," we have passed the Statue of Liberty, the Narrows themselves, and perceive the wooded shore of Staten Island running off mistily towards New Jersey. On the other side the lights of Coney Island sink in distance, and presently we are inside the long bar of Sandy Hook. What in the world could be more refreshing than this splendid sail at the beginning and end of a summer day.

From Atlantic Highlands the innumerable attractions of the coast from Highland Beach to Point Pleasant are in view, and such surroundings may be found to suit every taste. The express train service embraces Navesink, Normandie, Seabright, Monmouth Beach, West End, Long Branch, Elberon, Deal, Allenhurst, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, Avon, Belmar, Spring Lake, Manasquan, Point Pleasant, Red Bank, Matawan, Freehold, and other resorts boasting well kept hotels. The coast is justly famous for its facilities for yachting, driving, automobiling and both salt and fresh water bathing. Besides the Sandy Hook route the New Jersey Central has an all rail route with stations at the foot of West 23d street, N. R., and at the foot of Liberty street, N. R. All trains are equipped with the latest designed Pullman Parlor cars and coaches Upon application to C. M. Burt, General Passenger Agent, Central Railroad of New Jersey, New York city, a hotel issue and sea shore time table will be sent you; they are free for the asking.

Cost of Tunnel.

The cost of building the tunnel under the Netherwood station, work on which began two weeks ago, will be approximately $6,800. W. J. McCloud & Co. are the contractors.

FOR BETTER POLITICS

Young Republicans Decide to Form a Club to Further Interests of the Party.

MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT

Judge Runyon to Be Asked to Allow Organization to Be Named for Him.

Prompted by a desire to further the interests of the party, a number of young Republicans have met within the last few days to discuss the advisability of organizing for that purpose. As a result of these meetings it has been decided to take the first steps toward organization on Friday night. Accordingly, a public meeting will be held at I. C. T. club rooms, in the Taylor building, at 8 o'clock sharp.

The promoters suggest as the title of the organization "The William N. Runyon Republican Club of Plainfield." Mr. Runyon is in Buffalo at present and on his return will be asked to allow the club to be named for him. The only conditions of membership are that the applicants pledge themselves to work solely for the nomination of clean Republicans and to assist at the polls and on election day in whatever way possible without compensation, and furthermore to discourage and prevent the unlawful use of money in politics. The intention of the promoters is that factionalism shall find no place in the organization and that the efforts of the members be lent to upholding the hands of all officials who recognize but one master, and that is the taxpayers.

NEW PREMIUM LIST FOR INTER-STATE FAIR

CATALOGUE FOR 1905 SHOWS MANY IMPROVEMENTS.

The Interstate Fair premium list for the fair, September 25 to 29, is out and can be procured at the office of the secretary, in Trenton. The officers of the association are practically the same as last year, with the exception of the department devoted to the merchants' and trades' display.

The cover page of the catalogue is both neat and attractive. The central figure is a view down the pike in the rear of the grand stand, enclosed in a horseshoe. At the top is a horse's head and to the left a lady in riding costume. The cover is on a high class paper, especially adapted for the purpose.

In nearly every department additional prizes are offered this season, and a greater number of diplomas will be given than ever before. Department D, devoted to sheep and swine, has a new classification, and all departments have been revised and made more up to date. Department B has been combined with the horse show section of last year and the revision of the lists in this department promises a better variety of horses. A feature of this department the present year will be additional calssification for local horses.

The management of the association is endeavoring to make this, the eighteenth annual exhibit, surpass its predecessors, and with this aim in view every department is being strengthened. A list of the various departments and those in charge follows:

Department A, horses for speed, William E. Ford ,superintendent; department B, horses for show and general purposes, Frank Stout, superintendent; department C, cattle, Thomas B. De Cou, superintendent; department D, sheep and swine, Samuel T. Atchley, superintendent; department E, poultry, pigeons and pets, Samuel T. Atchley, superintendent; department F, merchants' and trades' display, C. Edward Murray, superintendent; department G, art and ladies' fancy work, J. T. Van Cleef, superintendent; department H, home and dairy products, J. T. Van Cleef, superintendent; department I, agricultural and horticultural products, Joseph S. Mount, superintendent; department J, farm machinery and implements, H. J. Irick, superintendent; department K, carriages and vehicles, H. J. Irick, superintendent.

SUCCEEDS MR. HUBBARD.

William J. Whalen Elected to Vacancy in Water Board.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, in Elizabeth, this morning, the vacancy in the directorate caused by the recent death of Captain James Franklin Hubbard was filled by the election of William J. Whalen, of Elizabeth, and he was also chosen secretary and treasurer of the company to succeed Captain Hubbard.

Mr. Whalen has been associated with the Plainfield Water Supply Company for several years, succeeding Theodore F. French, and his promotion is a recognition of his faithful and efficient services for the company.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1905. NO. 28.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

SMITH TO BE CHAIRMAN

Plainfielder Decided Upon to Head the Republican County Committee.

KEAN FAVORS HIM.

Choice of Leaders is Register of Deeds and Was Formerly Tax Collector in this City — Personally Popular.

It has been practically decided by the Union County Republican political leaders that Frank H. Smith, of this city, register of deeds for the county, will be elected chairman of the Union County Republican executive committee to succeed Assemblyman Edward S. Coyne, who died last week.

Senator Kean, it is understood, favors Register Smith, who is now vice chairman of the committee, and this is regarded as an intimation for the smaller fry politicians to fall into line for Smith. The latter told a Newark News reporter yesterday that Senator Kean wanted him to take the job and if there are no objections he is ready to assume to the county leadership.

FRANK H. SMITH.

Smith's knowledge of county affairs is considered his strong point in this matter. He has been a member of the county executive committee of the Republican party for a number of years and has mingled with the big and little fry in all sections. His services as vice chairman have attracted the favorable comment of the politicians and there seems to be no opposition to him for the place.

Previous to becoming register of deeds, to which office he was chosen as the first appointee when the bill creating the office was made a law, Mr. Smith was tax collector in this city. Both offices have been lucrative ones and the holder has enjoyed the friendship of a host of politicians and people generally.

$8,000 FOR VAULTS.

Trust Company to Install Herring-Hall-Marvin Vaults.

The contract for the vaults to be used in the Plainfield Trust Company building has been awarded to the Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Company, of New York, and the papers were filed today in the office of County Clerk Howard, at Elizabeth. The contract price is about $8,000.

The vaults are to be of the latest and most approved pattern, and aside from the space reserved for the regular banking business there will be provision made for safe deposit boxes. This has become quite a feature of this popular institution and it will be the aim of the company to encourage this business. The vaults will be provided with the time-lock appliances and will be equipped with all the latest improvements.

Built His Own Boat.

A fine new sail boat, the handiwork of Irving Martin, of Compton avenue, is completed and was launched yesterday on Spring Lake, South Plainfield, by the owner. The boat is of good size and behaved perfectly in the water.

—Recipe for combatting the heat: Drink iced tea or iced coffee made from Neuman Brothers' Formosa Oolong or Mocha and Java brands. They cool the entire system.

CENSUS COST CO. $4,000

Plenty of Funds With Which to Pay Supervisors and Enumerators.

NO BOND ISSUE.

Men Engaged in the Work Will Get Their Money When They Present Their Bills—In Other Counties.

The cost of the census to Union county has been set at close to $4,000, but is not expected to go beyond that amount. In Hudson county the cost is about $7,500. There the Board of Freeholders is considering the issuance of bonds to pay the enumerators for their services, as there was no provision made for that purpose in the last budget. If bonds are not issued the enumerators may have to wait till next December for their pay, when the new budget is made out.

No temporary loan bond issue will have to be contemplated by the Union County Board of Freeholders to pay the enumerators.

An official of the Union county board said today: "We don't need any bond issue. We have money enough left over from various accounts to pay the enumerators, and they will get their money when they present their bills. Besides, a bond issue would be a useless waste, for it would cost about $300 to get it out."

Secretary of State Dickinson, who is at the head of the census taken recently, is disappointed over the results of the enumeration throughout the State. In conversation with a newspaper man he said that an increase of not quite 14 per cent. had been attained. This is less than half that of the previous decade, when a 30 per cent. increase was recorded. The increase counted on at the last census was 15 per cent.

Trouble is brewing in various sections of the State because of the fact that some cities think that justice has not been done to their population. This is especially true in Camden, where the population is set at about 1,200 less than that of Trenton. Camden has always had a bigger population than Trenton. The Camdenites are now asking that another census be taken in their city. They urge that there has been a better showing than indicated.

Secretary Dickinson intimated that the census showed either a poor increase throughout the State, or else the enumerators had done their work poorly.

Escapes the Reform School.

Charles Matthews, colored, long since branded as an incorrigible by relatives and the police, escaped the Reform School today by promising Judge Runyon to go to Bridgeport, Conn., and work with his father. He was arrested by Patrolman McKeon last night, who found him loitering about Liberty street, an old habit. Matthews has frequently been in the city court and has made many promises to behave himself, but failed to keep them.

And the Equines Sigh.

Former City Judge W. A. Coddington is the latest to join the automobile forces. He has purchased a Searchmont touring car, No. 11921.

FIGHTING OVER A NAME

Original Silverware Concern Seeks to Restrain Plainfield Company.

"ROGERS" AN ASSET.

Supplemental Proceedings Against William H. Rogers—Injunction Granted Recently.

Papers were filed in the Court of Chancery at Trenton yesterday in a suit to restrain William H. Rogers, of this city, from using the name Rogers on silverware. The action is supplemental to the original cause begun by the International Silver Company, of Hartford, Conn., against the William H. Rogers Manufacturing Company in 1901, which resulted in a permanent injunction granted by Vice Chancellor Stevens and affirmed by the Court of Errors and Appeals.

In the original cause the decree was directed against the use of the name "Rogers" as part of the defendant's corporate title, or as its trademark on silver plated ware.

The International Silver Company proved that it was the successor of the William Rogers Manufacturing Company of Hartford, and that it had used the name "Rogers" on its silver plated ware as a trademark for many years; that it had spent large sums of money in advertising the "Rogers" goods, and that it had established a reputation for the "Rogers" silver plate, which was recognized as a standard. It was further brought out that the Plainfield corporation had from very small beginnings acquired an enormous business, mainly, it was claimed, by the use of its trademark and corporate title. The complainant charged that the trade thus secured had been fraudulently obtained, and in the court's decree this charge was confirmed.

The present supplemental bill is directed against William H. Rogers as an individual and prays that he be enjoined permanently from the use of his own name on silver plated ware or from doing business under that name in that branch of industry. The affidavits accompanying the bill are signed by George H. Wilcox, vice-president of the complainant corporation, and others, who have recently bought the defendant's goods on sale at different places. All *these puchases are designated as ex*hibits to be used at the hearing next September. Edward A. & William P. Day, counsel for the complainant, asks that so much of the bill of complaint filed in the original cause may be used in the present suit as the court finds convenient and permissible. The allegations contained in the bill are in many respects identical with those in the original bill.

Application for a rule to show cause was made at Vice Chancellor Stevens' home, in Morristown, but because of the vacation period the court made the return day September 12.

COLORED GIRL BABY LEFT IN VACANT LOT

POLICE HAVE CLUE THAT MAY LEAD TO IDENTITY OF THE MOTHER.

The local police are making an effort to find the mother of a six-months-old colored girl baby abandoned last night in the vacant lot at East Sixth and Richmond streets, backs of the Dunlap row. It was found at 10:30 by Charles Sauerackér after it had been there fully an hour as its cries had been heard that long by people in the vicinity but who thought it was in one of the Dunlap apartments. Chief Kiely was notified and the infant was taken to headquarters. It was afterward placed in charge of Overseer Aleck Ayers, who found a home for it with a colored family on West Third street.

The abandonment of the child had evidently been carefully planned as it was neatly dressed and extra clothing of good material had been placed beside it. The police have a clue that may lead to the arrest of the mother.

Made a Lawn his Bedroom.

Overcome by the heat—not from the sun, but from fiery liquids—Joseph Donnolly picked out a nice cool spot on a West Seventh street lawn last night and proceeded to make it his boudoir. He removed a good part of his clothing and his snores were mingling with the buzz of insects when somebody called the police. In the city court this morning Donnolly paid $3 in preference to going to Elizabeth for ten days.

—The Somerset county freeholders are having extensive repairs made to the bridge at Codington avenue and Somerset street.

ICE MAY GO UP TO 50 CENTS A 100

LOCAL DEALERS MAY TAKE CONCERTED ACTION.

It was reported today that the local ice dealers are planning to hold a meeting on August 1 for the purpose of considering the advisability of raising the retail price of ice from forty to fifty cents a hundred. When President McDonough, of the Plainfield Natural Ice Company, was questioned concerning the report he denied it on behalf of his concern, although he said that the other two dealers in town might be considering such a move.

It has been supposed that the three local dealers are in a combination owing to the fact that they all get their ice supply from the same source, Watchung Lake. This is also denied by President McDonough, who says that the Plainfield Natural Ice Company controls the ice output from Watchung Lake and that the other two dealers, F. T. Ostrom and John Morton, purchase ice from his company because they can get it at a more advantageous price than elsewhere.

Andrew Wilson, of the same company, informed Mr. McDonough a few days ago that if the present high temperature continued there would not be enough ice in the houses at Watchung to last a month, but it is not expected that the present heat wave will remain for any length of time.

Mr. McDonough, in explaining why the retail price was thirty cents a hundred last year, said that the crop during the preceding winter was a very large one and the summer being cool the dealers fixed the price at thirty cents to get rid of it. He claims that no ice dealer will get rich selling frozen water at forty cents a hundred. He says that he has known dealers to get as high as sixty and seventy cents a hundred, and yet they were unable to make much profit. Furthermore, he states that each one of the three local dealers are privileged to charge what they please for ice, and it is just a coincidence that they are now asking forty cents.

Mr. McDonough says that for the last two years he has not harvested any ice from the lake at South Plainfield, that he lost the rights to this pond when H. G. Runkle acquired them by lease, after the failure of the Plainfield Hygeia Ice Company. Mr. McDonough afterwards abandoned his ice houses at that place.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS OFF TOMORROW FOR CAMP

TWENTY-FIVE TO SPEND TWO WEEKS IN CONN.

A party of twenty-five or more boys from the junior department of the local Y. M. C. A. will take the 7:55 train for New York tomorrow morning, en route for a two weeks' outing at Tuxis Island, Connecticut. In charge of the party will be Boys' Secretary Kenneth Robbie, L. T. Lindholm and E. K. Allen, a classmate of Mr. Robbie's.

A special car will be attached to the 7:55 train. The party will leave the Grand Central depot, New York, at 10:02 on the New York, New Haven and Hartford road for Madison, Conn. Tuxis Island, controlled by the New Haven Y. M. C. A., and which lays off shore from the town of Madison, has been secured for the party's exclusive use for the next two weeks. The surroundings are ideal for a camping place, Madison being a strictly temperance town and one of the most popular places of summer residence along the Sound, many New York people owning cottages there.

It is Mr. Robbie's intention to give the boys an opportunity of going through Yale University as sightseers while in New Haven and by the courtesy of the gymnasium authorities there, those of the party who wish, will be allowed the use of the magnificent swimming-pool.

Those who will go in the party are W. Woodruff, A. Woodruff, S. H. Karr, L. Edgar, George M. Rittenhouse, R. P. Morris, Rowland P. Stover, W. B. Caldwell, S. F. Freeman, T. S. Sperry, Edgar Freeman, Clarence Steiner, R. H. Bellows, W. P. Kennedy, Julius J. Linke, W. B. McDougal, Arthur Perrin, N. Neilson, Milton St. John, L. Leland, S. Mackey, L. Manning and Jerry Manning.

C. H. Perrine Buried.

The funeral of Clifford H. Perrine, who died Monday, took place this afternoon from the home of his parents on Harmony street. Rev. Mr. Schneegas, pastor of the German Reformed church, officiated. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

REPUBLICAN CONFERENCE

Leaders in the Four Wards Meet to Discuss the Senatorial Situation.

RUNYON THE FAVORITE

Impression Seems to Be There Will Be no Organized Opposition—Who Were at the Conference.

That Judge William N. Runyon will have little or no opposition in obtaining a solid delegation from Plainfield favorable to his candidacy for State Senator, it is said, was shown at a meeting of active workers of the Republican party last night. The conference was held in the city clerk's office and was attended by representatives of all the wards without regard to faction. It is reported that the subject was clearly threshed out and the position of the local administration forces unequivocally stated.

Among those participating in the caucus were these: First Ward—Mayor James F. Buckle, Councilmen William L. Glosk and R. I. Tolles and Horace G. Adams. Second Ward—William N. Runyon and Henry L. Hall. Third Ward—Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, former Assemblyman Roger Murray, D. E. Titsworth and John W. Murray, Jr. Fourth Ward—Former Assemblyman William Newcorn and Register of Deeds Frank H. Smith.

D. E. Titsworth suggested that in the interests of harmony that both Judge Runyon and Ernest R. Ackerman, who has also been prominently mentioned for the nomination, withdraw from the race. In reply to this suggestion, Mr. Hall, who is president of the Plainfield Republican Club, an organization pledged to Runyon, stated that this was impossible, for the judge could not comply without incurring the displeasure of every man in the club and those friendly to it.

Mayor Fisk, it is said, suggested that the candidates fight it out for delegates, and the one obtaining the most be given a solid delegation. It is reported that while Mr. Fisk is not taking sides in the contest, but merely desires the avoidance of a fight, he is more or less attached to Judge Runyon and would not dislike seeing him nominated.

*Mayor Buckle put himself on rec*ord for Runyon, and so did City Clerk MacMurray, who repeated that he is for the judge "first, last and all the time." How former Assemblyman Roger Murray feels in the matter is not exactly known, but he is a strong supporter of Mr. Ackerman.

It was said on good authority today that Mr. Ackerman would not make any contest for the position.

Each State Senator who is elected next November will have a vote for the successor to United States Senator John F. Dryden, who will be balloted for in 1907, and this lends additional interest and importance to the election. Eight counties will choose Senators this year, as follows: Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Monmouth, Salem, Somerset, Union and Warren.

MR. AND MRS. BEECHING LOSE A SECOND CHILD

LITTLE DAUGHTER DIES FROM DYSENTERY AS DID HER BROTHER.

For the second time within a week and from the same cause, Mr. and Mrs. Beeching, of Grandview avenue, lost a child by death last night. Their little daughter Myrtle, aged three years, succumbed to the dread dysentery, as did her seven-year-old brother Nelson last Friday. The boy was buried Monday afternoon, while the little sister was stricken just before the interment.

Another sad incident in connection with the deaths is the fact that Myrtle recently sustained a broken leg by falling from the porch at her home. It was set by Dr. Cooley, and she was getting along very nicely when the fatal illness began.

Death of an Infant.

Lizzie, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac White, of South Second street, died early yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be private and will take place tomorrow afternoon from the home of the parents. Interment will be made in the M. E. cemetery.

Rev. Dr. Buchanan Seriously Ill.

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street, has been called to Pemberton, N. J., by the severe illness of his father, Rev. Dr. Buchanan.

Women on Outing.

The women's bowling section of the Gesang and Turn Verein left this morning to enjoy the cool sea breezes at Rockaway Beach.

PLAINFIELD SIZZLING

No Let Up in the Hot Spell and No Immediate Relief Promised.

SOME PROSTRATIONS.

Thermometer Started to Climb at 8 o'Clock This Morning, and This Afternoon It Is Near the 100 Mark.

"Weather Prophet" John Nagle furnishes the following official temperature of the weather today:

| | Deg. |
|---|---|
| At 8 a. m. | 84 |
| At 9 a. m. | 87 |
| At 10 a. m. | 90 |
| At 11 a. m. | 93 |
| At 12 noon | 95 |
| At 1 p. m. | 97 |
| At 2 p. m. | 98 |

The official weather predictions are: Fair and continued warm tonight; Thursday, scattered showers and thunder storms and not quite so warm in the afternoon or by night.

With the mercury striving to beat the highest record for any July day since 1901, when, on the 2d, the thermometer showed 99 degrees, the people of Plainfield are beginning to show the effects of the continued hot wave which is sweeping the country. The official figures show a slight difference from those on the street, for in some cases yesterday afternoon temperatures of over 96 were recorded, but these were chiefly where the sun's rays had some effect on the thermometers.

Late in the afternoon it grew cloudy and it looked as though Plainfield would be blessed with a shower. It was otherwise ordered, however, and the water fell in New York and other points, but not enough to bring much relief.

After the shower passed around the people began to adjust themselves for another sleepless night. There was practically no rest, and with the morning most folks arose feeling more tired than when they went to bed. The relief promised yesterday for today did not arrive this morning, and humanity prepared to stand the worst as best they could. They could get little comfort in the weather predictions in the morning papers, which stated that it would continue to be fair today and tomorrow with continued high temperature.

The soda water fountains in the city have been doing a land-office business during the past few days, and one thing is noticeable, that patrons are very careful as to what they drink, preferring the more simple concoctions to the real sweet and non-satisfying drinks.

Muhlenberg Hospital has been particularly fortunate in not having any cases of heat prostration. In nearly every city in the East these institutions have been very busy with such cases. Some of the local physicians have been more or less busy with slight cases. Dr. A. H. Dundon treated a young man in the borough this morning. He walked into the doctor's office, showing all the signs of being prostrated with the heat, but he responded to the treatment given and was able to go home soon after.

A report that there are twenty-five cases of dysentery in Fairview avenue was denied by a physician this morning. He said that he is employ*ed by several families on that street,* and would surely know if there were so many cases.

Bertram S. Rockwell, of East Front street, was overcome with the heat yesterday, but is much improved today.

An unknown man fell, overcome by the heat, at Front street and Park avenue. He was revived in a nearby store.

William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, the contractor, was overcome with the heat Monday afternoon while at work at the new theatre building in West Second street. He was obliged to go home for treatment. Although he suffered considerable all of Monday night, he recovered sufficiently to return to work yesterday morning.

Two deaths as the result of the heat were reported in Elizabeth, last night, where the temperature reached 102 degrees and is continuing at those figures today. John Colland, aged 70 years, of Marshall street, was found dead in bed, having been overcome with the heat, and August Halforn, aged 30 years, a Swede, was found dead in his room at a hotel in Second street, Elizabeth, having succumbed to the intense heat.

At 1 o'clock the thermometer at Armstrong's drug store indicated 99 degrees.

David R. Weaver, of Manning avenue, is still unable to be at his place of business on account of illness.

TO ELECT A FREEHOLDER

Special Meeting of Common Council Called For Tomorrow Night.

IT IS IRREGULAR

Technicality May Cause Postponement Until Monday Night—Four Men Mentioned for Job.

As stated in The Daily Press, the Common Council is compelled by the city charter to elect a successor to the late Captain Hubbard on the Board of Freeholders before next Wednesday and with that in view a special session has been called for tomorrow night. It will not take place in all probability for it is reliably reported that the call is not made out properly. A technicality will be the means of postponing the election, it is said, until Monday night.

COUNCILMAN R. I. TOLLES.

The call set the time of meeting as 8:15, but according to the rules of the Common Council 8 o'clock is the only hour at which a session can be convened. The members will assemble, however, but owing to the fact that some question might arise as to the legality of the election no freeholder will be chosen at that time.

There are four men prominently mentioned for the berth. One of these is Ralph I. Tolles, a member of the Common Council and its former president. Another is Samuel P. T. Wilbur, a former councilman and now a member of the sewer commission. F. A. Pope, whose father was "it" in Plainfield politics in days of yore but who himself has never been active politically, is also mentioned, as is J. F. MacDonald.

It is said that a majority of the councilmen favor Mr. Tolles for the place, but this cannot be confirmed and they will not commit themselves at this time.

WATER NOT CAUSE OF DYSENTERY CASES

DR. DUNDON MAKES ANALYSIS FOR HEALTH BOARD.

Because of the numerous deaths in North Plainfield from dysentery and various forms of summer complaint, the Board of Health decided to investigate the sources of water supply, where pumps were used, as well as the supply from the Plainfield Water Supply Company. In consequence, Dr. Dundon, secretary of the Board, obtained samples of both kinds of water, especially in the sections of the borough where deaths had occurred, and he made an analysis.

As a result, the water was found to be all right and nothing suggested that it was responsible for the cases of illness reported in the borough. It is the opinion of the health authorities that the illness, which is chiefly among the children, has been and is due to what they eat. "It has been learned that there are a number of cases where children have been allowed to eat all sorts of things, any one of which would cause bowel trouble. And this together with atmospheric conditions, due to the extreme heat, has caused what some physicians term membraneous colitis, which begins with a fermentation in the stomach. If permitted to go on without prompt treatment, it is very apt to result fatally.

The Board of Health feels assured that the illness cannot be traced to the drinking water, as tests show it to be pure and perfectly safe.

Dysentery Cases.

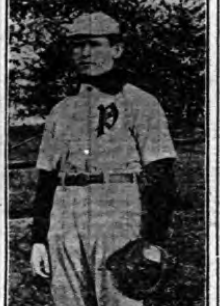
Dr. D. C. Adams has twenty-five cases of dysentery in the city and borough and two in Dunellen. This morning he had four slight cases of heat prostration. Dr. T. S. Davis reports having several cases of dysentery among elderly persons.

PLAINFIELD BASEBALL ASSOCIATION'S CRACK AGGREGATION

"Mike" Leonard, 3b.

Manager Daab.

"Happy" Kiernan, ss.



"Dave" Driscoll, 1b.

"Willie" Deegan, p.

"Bill" Beck, p.

"Pete" Cregan, lf.

"Wally" Cosgrave, cf.

"Dan" Connolly, rf.

With a record of fourteen victories out of sixteen games played, this season, the Plainfield fans are greatly pleased and they believe that a majority of the contests played will be counted as victories for the locals. Under the able management of Philip Daab, and the direction of "Dave" Driscoll, the captain, the team is putting up a first-class exhibition of the National game and every member takes more than usual pride in giving the local baseball public baseball equal to that seen in the minor leagues and some major league clubs.

While other influences were responsible for the Hoboken Club playing here this season, Captain Driscoll had much to do with the plan and he is of course anxious to see a successful season and is now especially desirous of defeating Westfield in the coming series.

Driscoll has been playing a great game during the past few years, making his debut with the Equitables. The rest of the infield is composed of "Mike" Leonard, formerly of Orange A. C., who has one of the best records as a third baseman. Another one of the original team is "Happy" Kiernan, who covers shortstop. He is rated as a top-notcher and as having few equals in his position. He has played with Hoboken for several seasons, as has also "Pete" Cregan, one of the most popular members of the team.

Cosgrave is a new man this season, having come right from Princeton, where he made an enviable record for four years. As a fielder, hitter and coacher he is always in the game. Connolly, who covers right field, is doing fine work, and has yet to make his first error.

The pitching department is well taken care of by "Willie" Deegan and "Billy" Beck, and they are both doing their share in winning games, while Jack O'Neil behind the rubber is playing first-class ball.

Thus it will be seen that the team is not changed very much from the original Hobokens. "Rube" Oldring, who started the season and played a dozen games, left to take a position on a southern team, while Lamar went to Dover and Linderman to Summit. The players who have taken their places are considered just as strong and their record will be equally as good at the end of the season.

Caddie Master Poisoned.

While engaged in playing in the professional golf tournament at Van-Cortlandt Park, New York, on Thursday, Marty O'Loughlin became poisoned in the face, and when he was ready to start in the final play, yesterday morning, his face was swollen to such proportions that a New York physician advised him to return home. Marty wanted to finish his play, however, and the physician gave him temporary treatment, making it possible for him to continue. The trouble undoubtedly had an affect on his playing.

Glorious Fourth Aftermath.

Leighton Calkins, of Central avenue, has returned from Gloucester, Mass., where his family is spending the summer. On Fourth of July Mr. Calkins was celebrating the day shooting off firecrackers, when one of the giant variety went off in his hand, burning the palm and fingers severely. The hand is now healing nicely and no serious consequences are anticipated.

To Paddle His Own Canoe.

Irving Martin, of Compton avenue, has about completed the building of a good sized sail boat, which he intends using this summer while away on his vacation. He is now rigging the boat with a sail and as soon as this is finished the boat will be ready for its trial trip.

Jersey Cadets Assigned.

The War Department has issued an order assigning the members of the graduating class from the military academy at West Point to corps and regiments. The New Jersey cadets are assigned as follows: Charles E. Bamford, Belmar, Monmouth county, to be second lieutenant in Cavalry arm; Nathan Horrowitz, 125 Wayne street, Jersey City, additional second lieutenant in Eighty-sixth Company, Coast Artillery; Louis Paget Schoonmaker, 195 Van Houten street, Paterson, second lieutenant, Tenth Cavalry.

Reading and N. J. Terminal.

The New Jersey Terminal Railroad, an industrial road running from a point near Rahway to the sound shore, touching several industries at Carteret, and formerly controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad, is said to have been leased by the Reading system. General Manager Bealer, General Superintendent Huntington and other Reading system officials, made a tour of inspection of the road yesterday. When asked about the matter today the railroad people would neither deny nor affirm the rumor.

Mrs. Fred Pearce and children, of Essex street, left today for Asbury Park to spend a week.

Charles A. Reed and family, of Myrtle avenue, left yesterday in their automobile for Belmar, where they will spend the week.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the July meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Water Supply Company the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. J. Frank Hubbard we have lost a member of our board who was with us during all the active career of the company and whose good judgment we often sought and always respected.

We highly appreciated his services, not only in discussions at our meetings, but in his position as secretary and treasurer, offices which he filled with the same attention and fidelity that was shown both in his private business and in public office. His sterling character, and the unequalled public confidence which he enjoyed were helpful to us in many ways and to a degree that cannot well be estimated. But more than all, we deplore the loss of a just and kindly gentleman, whose friendship we valued as we shall cherish his memory.

Another Suit Against Trolley Co.

Lawyer William G. DeMeza has brought two suits against the North Jersey Street Railway Company, one on behalf of Mrs. Betsy Ross, colored, for $5,000 damages for injuries received in falling from a trolley car three weeks ago tomorrow, and the other for $1,000 damages brought by the woman's husband for the loss of her services. The case will be tried during the fall term of court.

TWELVE NEW DIRECTORS

Mr. Herrick and Dr. Butler Elected—Jerome May Subpoena Hendricks

Twelve new Equitable directors, including D. Cady Herrick, Nicholas Murray Butler, Charles E. Littlefield, of Maine; Nevada N. Stranahan, James McMahon and Louis Stern, were elected at a meeting of the directorate yesterday, in New York. The resignations were accepted of P. G. Bourne, General Louis Fitzgerald, ex-president of the Mercantile Trust Company, and Horace C. Deming, who is now president of that institution. Mr. Bourne, who was only elected at the last meeting, gave "press of personal business" as the reason for his resignation.

In certain contingencies it is expected that District Attorney Jerome will have a subpoena duces tecum served on Superintendent Hendricks to compel that official to produce an official copy of the testimony recently taken before Mr. Hendricks in his Equitable inquiry.

All the directors chosen yesterday had been recommended by the board of trustees after full consideration, it was said, with policyholders.

The names of those elected and their terms of office follow:

To fill vacancies in terms expiring December 31, 1905:

Wallace L. Pierce, of Boston.

Daniel A. Tomkins, of Charlotte, N. C.

Thomas Spratt, of Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Louis Stern.

Frank S. Witherbee, of Port Henry, N. Y.

James McMahon.

To fill vacancies in terms expiring December 31, 1906:

Willis P. McCook, Pittsburg.

Charles E. Littlefield, of Maine.

To fill vacancies expiring December 31, 1907:

Nevada N. Stranahan.

D. Cady Herrick.

To fill vacancies in terms expiring on December 31, 1908:

Nicholas Murray Butler.

Charles Zehnder, of Philadelphia.

Some twenty directors were at the meeting. Virtually no business was transacted beyond the election of the twelve directors and the acceptance of three resignations. It was specifically denied that any action had been taken looking to a reorganization of the executive committee. No announcement was made of any appointments to fill the vacancies caused by the acceptance of the resignations of President Alexander, First Vice-President Hyde, Fourth Vice-President McIntyre and other officers.

Excluding the names of those twelve elected yesterday, the board of directors as it now stands is composed of Paul Morton, J. W. Alexander, Chauncey M. Depew, Thomas D. Jordan, V. P. Snyder, Alvin W. Krech, William Alexander, John J. McCook, James B. Forgan, C. Ledyard Blair, M. E. Ingalls, James H. Hyde, Sir William C. Van Horne, Gage E. Tarbell, C. B. Alexander, T. DeWitt Cuyler, J. F. de Navarro, Bradish Johnson, Levi P. Morton, H. R. Winthrop, George J. Gould, George T. Wilson, Thomas T. Eckert, William H. McIntyre, H. M. Alexander, Samuel M. Inman, H. C. Haarstick, David H. Moffat, E. B. Thomas, William Rockefeller, Ferdinand W. Roebling, E. W. Bloomingdale, J. G. Schmidlapper, E. W. Robertson, J. J. Albright and James Bryan.

PERSONAL.

Miss Gretta Craft, of Whitehouse, is visiting relatives in town for a few days.

Mrs. Elijah Dufford, of West Front street, is visiting her mother at High Bridge.

Mrs. Ann Lance, of Junction, has been visiting relatives here during the past week.

Mrs. Katharine Alpaugh, of Cokesbury, has returned home after a visit with relatives here.

Mrs. Lewis R. Ross and children, of East Seventh street, are spending the summer at Annandale.

Miss Mamie Degnan, of Raritan, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Flynn, of West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Hacquer, of West Fifth street, leave today for Atlantic City, to spend a week.

Hhe Misses Birmingham, of West Fourth street, have been visiting Miss Ethel Chamberlain, of Raritan.

The Misses Beekman, of Clinton avenue, are entertaining Miss Haven, of New York, a former resident of this city.

William Stimpson, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, has been visiting his grandfather on West Fifth street.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of Myrtle avenue; Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson, of West Front street, are at Cottage City, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, of Myrtle avenue, left yesterday in their automobile for Belmar, where they will remain for a week.

Mrs. W. C. O'Donnell and son Monroe, of Jersey City, are spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Blowers, of Franklin place.

Miss Lillian A. Force, of Dover street, returned home yesterday after a very pleasant visit at "Grandinmere," the home of her friend, Miss Todd, Hamden, Hunterdon county.

RACE RIOT IN NEW YORK

Commissioner McAdoo Fills the Streets With Police.

A riot between whites and negroes which started near Amsterdam avenue and Sixty-second street, New York, last night, spread for several blocks in every direction. Many heads were battered and broken on either side, and for more than an hour the streets were thronged with angry men and women, armed with clubs and stones, who defied the police and refused to retire to their homes.

The whites outnumbered the negroes, who retreated to the housetops, where they continued the fight with bricks from the chimneys and whatever missiles they could lay their hands on. More than 100 pistol shots were exchanged and it is believed that several persons badly wounded were hidden away in their homes. James B. Smith, a negro, who attempted to shoot Roundsman Patrick Walsh and then beat his head to a jelly with the butt of his revolver, had serious wounds dressed in Roosevelt Hospital before he was locked up. Walsh returned to duty with his head in bandages.

The reserves from five station houses, about two hundred men, were sent to the scene of the trouble and restored order. Fifteen prisoners were locked up in the West Sixty-eighth street station on charges of rioting, assault and carrying concealed weapons.

Commissioner McAdoo went to the West Sixty-eighth street station about midnight and assumed personal command, with Inspector William McLaughlin, who had taken an active part in the quelling of the riot, as his chief aide. The Commissioner sent for reserves from eighteen precincts, who remained on duty in the disturbed section all night.

FINE FITTINGS FOR TRENTON ARMORY

BIDS WILL BE OPENED JULY 22 FOR HANDSOME FURNITURE.

Although no official orders have been issued, it was stated on good authority yesterday that the Second battalion of the Second Regiment at Trenton will begin drilling in the new armory the first week in October. The building is almost completed and will be in full readiness when the drilling season opens. Adjutant General Breintnall has advertised for bids to furnish the new armory and they will be opened July 22.

The armory will be one of the best furnished in the country. For privates there will be 312 lockers, all of good size. In these the men will keep their clothing and equipment. They will be situated in the basement. For the commissioned officers twelve lockers will be built. These will be spacious, so that several officers of the same company can use each one.

On the drill floor there will be eight gun cases, two cases for each company. Each case will be sufficient to hol delkhty of the Krag-Jorgensen rifles. At one end of the drill hall there will be a large platform to be used for an orchestra when entertainments are held, and there will also be eight benches in the hall. The entire building will be equipped with gas and electric fixtures and will contain a static gas lighting apparatus.

The officers claim that when the drill season opens the local battalion will have the full number of ablebodied men as required by regulations. Owing to the increased esprite du corps which the prospective entry into the handsome armory has created in the batallion, the officers will have a splendid opportunity to choose men who will be a credit to the National Guard and who will be enthusiastic about their respective companies and the guard in general. Many young men have already expressed their desire to enlist.

It was announced yesterday that hereafter each recruit will be given a rigid physical examination by the battalion surgeon. Shortly before the close of the last drill season, the new members were examined by a surgeon, but the requirements were not up to the army regulations. The new physical examination will prevent any person from entering the guard who is not physically sound in every way. The regular army height and weight will prevail.

Growth of Libraries.

The story of the growth of the habit of using print seems to have passed beyond the possibilities of adequate statement. One can, to be sure, give a few facts and figures in regard to this. There were, for example, in the United States, 3,033 libraries of all kinds twenty-five or thirty years ago, and in them were 11,487,778 volumes. In one generation they have increased, according to the last figures in the report of the Commissioner of Education, to 6,869 libraries, with 54,419,002 volumes. The increase in the number of periodicals published in the United States—daily, weekly and monthly—in the same time is astonishing, and still more astonishing is the recorded increase in the number of copies annually issued of all these journals.

PULPIT TALKS FOR SHUT-IN PLAINFIELDERS

NO. 5—By the Rev. Arthur S. Peck, Pastor of St. Stephen's Church, Netherwood.

o.....o

: In the name of the Father, : and of the Son, and of the Holy : Ghost, Amen.

: For ye were as sheep going : astray, but are now returned : unto the Shepherd and Bishop of : your souls.—I S. Peter 2:25.

o.....o

Recently it is that I read of a lost sheep in Scotland, first leaping the fence, then seeking pasture on a lower level of the steep mountain side, going on still lower until there was no possibility of return. Then an eagle swooping over it, terrified it, until at last it leaped the precipice and perished.

Alas for the souls of whom this is a picture. They break away from the restraints of a Christian home and Christian privileges. Step by step they descend to greater depths. At length, with hardened heart and seared conscience, nothing is too bad for them. Possibly death comes as the manifest fruit of their folly; eyes blinded to the peril which lies before them, it is only before the bar of a Holy God that they will be able to discover the terrible mistake they have made.

But to those here, the door yet stands wide open. You may have departed from the living God, and be tarrying in "the far country;" you may yet be a stranger to God, to holiness, to true peace, but you may return. The last fatal step has not been taken; Jesus is still a Saviour to you, and is able to save, even to the uttermost. His voice is still calling you; He waits to be gracious. None would be more welcome than you, if in this day of your grace you would return to His fold—for "Ye were as sheep going astray, but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls."

Rev. A. S. Peck.

Every true conversion is the work of the Good Shepherd. Remember the words of Christ, "What man of you having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost until he find it? And when he hath found it, layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing."

Here then is the foundation of true repentance and conversion. The Good Shepherd comes to seek and to save the lost. He comes down from Heaven to reveal a Father's love; He comes to give His life for the sheep, that by His most precious blood, sins may be forgiven, and men reconciled to God. He sends forth his priests to call sinners unto Himself; He sends His word to awaken and to teach His people; He sands His Holy Spirit to humble them, to draw them, to lead them to His footstool in penitence and faith. It is thus the Good Shepherd Himself finds the wanderer and brings him back to the fold. If it was not for the grace and mercy of the Good Shepherd, no man would have the courage and heart and power to return unto God.

But it is true that man has his part to perform. The divine grace of God touches the heart of man, but it is the man himself who must confess his sins and iniquities and his shortcomings. He must earnestly and truly seek help at the Altar of the living God, and trust the gracious promises of Jesus.

And so, my brothers in Christ Jesus, let this suggest an inquiry of greatest moment. Have you thus returned unto the Great Shepherd and Bishop of your soul? You have wandered, but have you come back to Him, and yielded yourself unreservedly to His most holy keeping?

Mark the "now!" Ye are now returned unto your Shepherd. True conversion is a present experience. It is not a hope or purpose for the future. It brings present consciousness of a new position, a new joy, a new life. Having found Christ a Redeemer, a Shepherd, a friend, you are willing to count all else vanity.

Is Christ indeed my shepherd?

Then whatever may happen to me, I may go on my way rejoicing. I may ever sing a song of joyful hope and confidence, for "Christ is my shepherd, I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside still waters. Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil. Thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me."

Is Christ my shepherd?

Then He will always be near to me. It is the duty of a shepherd to be in the midst of his flock whensoever they need him. And Christ, He is always near by those who trust and love Him. He is near to mark their trials, to hear their prayers, and to help in times of danger.

Is Christ my shepherd?

Then He will supply all my need. No good thing does He withhold from those who walk with Him. He gives daily strength for daily needs.

Is Christ my shepherd?

Then He will teach and guide me. He will direct my paths. He will counsel me by His most holy presence.

Is Christ my shepherd?

Then He will bring me to His fold above. The flock He has tended here shall see His holy face, and adore Him with songs and praises ever more. "The Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall be their Shepherd, and shall guide them to the living fountains of water; and God shall wipe away every tear from their eyes."

But not only must those in the fold of Christ remember their privileges; they must remember their responsibilities likewise. It is to follow their Shepherd in all holiness of life. Day by day the Christian is to place his foot in the prints which the Master has left behind.

Christian—follow Christ to the Mount of Prayer!

In the early dawn, in the cool of the eve, often through the livelong night, our most Holy Redeemer resorted to the quiet garden of Gethsemane, or to the lonely mountaintop, where He could hold communion with His Father. So you, too, must cultivate the spirit of constant fellowship with God. For the watchword is—"Pray without ceasing." Come, and before the sacred tabernacle of your Lord, tell Him of your besetting sins; your temptations, your hopes, your fears and your joys. Seek daily pardon; daily grace; daily strength.

Follow Christ to the Courts of the Temple.

Christ loved the House of Prayer, and so must we. He often was found in the Synagogue of Nazareth, and at the Temple in Jerusalem; and so in like manner we must value the services of the Holy Church, to receive the gifts of life.

Follow Christ in the vale of Humility.

Here our Master was ever wont to walk when on earth. "Learn of Me," He said, "for I am meek and lowly in heart." He stooped to welcome and to bless the little children; He sat at meat with publicans and sinners; and He washed the feet of the disciples. So, let us lay aside the garment of pride and be girt about with humility.

Follow Christ on the Highway of Holiness.

"He did no sin, neither was guile found in His mouth." "He was holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners." He was the "Lamb without spot." You, too, must tread this path. You must abhor the least shadow of evil. You must walk in the guidance of God's most holy light.

Follow Christ into the streets of the city and into the abodes of sorrow and want.

Christ went about ever doing good. He fed the hungry, comforted mourners, dried widows' tears, and no trouble was ever brought to Christ in vain.

Strive to copy Christ in all things. Do what you can.

And, lastly, follow Christ to Calvary.

He has said, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me." You must be ready to suffer with Christ if you would reign with Him. You must readily be willing to bear the ills which He has appointed as your daily lot. You must not shrink from the reproach or even persecution which true godliness often meets with. So, go forward, Christian brother, prepared to face even death if necessary for the sake of Christ. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

Thus following Christ, you will prove that you do truly belong to Him, and He will meet you hereafter with those gracious words, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, and inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

Funeral of Thomas C. Karney.

Funeral services over the body of Thomas Clarkson Karney, who died Thursday afternoon, will be held from his late home on Elmwood place tomorrow afternoon at 1:30. Rev. H. C. Ashley will officiate and the interment will be made at Atlantic Highlands.

Mrs. George Cole and daughters, Edna and Adelaide, of West Second street, returned today after a visit with Brooklyn relatives.

BAND CONCERT FUNDS

Treasurer Van Arsdale Makes Report of Receipts and Expenditures to Date.

CASH ON HAND $188.32.

More Contributions Needed if the Series is to be Extended Through the Summer.

Treasurer Morris C. VanArsdale, who has had charge of the band concert funds, today issued a statement of all receipts and expenditures since the season began. It shows a balance on hand at the present time of $188.32, which with the contemplated receipts from the stand admissions, will be sufficient to continue the series for at least one month longer. The responses to appeals for contributions and the revenue from other sources has been greater this year than ever before and as a result the concerts have been better and more numerous.

According to the repor,t the total receipts for the season were $1,353.-92 divided as follows: From the band concert fair, $827.40; subscriptions to date, $164; privileges, $15; interest on deposit, $72; from admittances to stand at six concerts, $346,-80; total, $1,352.92. The disbursements were: Expenses of band concert fair, $577.45; cost of six concerts, $455; sundries, $6.75; Ambrose Smalley, for building grandstand, $100; F. M. Slater, Jr., electrical work, $26.40; total, $1,165.-60. There is still an unpaid bill of $76, due Ambrose Smalley on the grandstand contract.

The concerts have given so much enjoyment to so many people that it is the earnest wish of the promotors that further contributions be made in order to continue them all summer. They are in reality the only divertisement for Plainfielders who are unable to leave the city and they are becoming more and more popular as the increasing crowds attest. Each concert costs approximately $75 and this is an extremely low figure when the ability of the artists appearing are considered. John S. Leick, the cornettist who appeared last night, has travelled for three seasons with the Kilties band at a salary of $150 a week, but was secured by Bandmaster LaVere to come to Plainfield through friendship. The vocal soloists are also secured by Mr. LaVere for bare expenses and everyone on the programmes so far has been a singer of the first rank.

MORE GOOD BOOKINGS FOR LOCAL THEATRE

MANAGER GELATT SECURES "THE MAYOR OF TOKIO."

Bookings for the new Plainfield Theatre still continue and hardly a day passes but what Manager Gelatt adds some strong attraction to his list. The latest secured are "Marching Through Georgia," which comes September 16, and "The Mayor of Tokio," the musical comedy in which Richard Carle, last season with "The Tenderfoot," is starring. It will appear at the playhouse on October 27. May Irwin, in "Mrs. Black is Back," has also been booked.

The theatre is to be equipped with an asbestos fire curtain secured from the Keasbey & Mattison Company, of Ambler, Pa., which has supplied all of those in use in the Philadelphia houses. One of them was recently submitted to a severe test at the Garrick Theatre and showed not the slightest defect. A blazing torch was held up against the curtain for five minutes, but it only served to smoke the surface. The curtain that will go into the local theatre will be subjected to the same test before it is put up.

PLUM FOR BARBER.

One to be Named Inspector of Shops In the Vicinity.

Many barbers in this vicinity are trying to secure one of the berths of barber shop inspectors under the State law passed at the recent session of the Legislature. There are eight of these inspectors to be appointed by Governor Stokes for a three-year term under the law, with a salary of $5 a day. The work will be no sinecure, from all accounts, as in the small towns of the State particularly, there are numerous shops often run very much hit or miss by foreign proprietors, who are not well versed in the sanitary code. The work cut out for the inspector in this district would extend from Elizabeth to Trenton and the points between and would keep a man hustling all the time.

The Jersey law is said to compare in most particulars with that of other states that have recnetly adopted this kind of legislation and although it took the barbers of the State three session to get it through the Senate, it finally struck bottom when the clause compelling the closing of shops on Sunday was stricken out.

Arthur Jeffery, of the City National Bank, begins has vacation today. He expects to spend part of his time at Lake Hopatcong.

FOURTH NEW JERSEY CENSUS BULLETIN ISSUED

RETURNS SHOW DECREASE IN SEVERAL TOWNS.

The official report from the census bureau shows returns from thirty-nine municipalities in this State, and an increase of 13,368 in the population. The fourth census bulletin was issued yesterday. This gives the returns from Union township, the census there being 2,614 this year as against 4,315 in 1900.

The report also shows the population in part of Somerset county. The returns thus far reported show the population in Hillsboro township to be 2,247 as against 2,439 in 1900; that of Bedminster township 2,246, as against 1,925 in 1900, and that of Millstone borough 156, as against 200 in 1900. It will be noticed that there is a falling off in the population of Millstone borough of forty-four. In Union township there is a decrease of 1,701.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Indecent Bathing Suits.

Mayor Stoy, of Atlantic City, has renewed his crusade against the indecent bathing suits worn by some young men. He is altogether right. There are bathing suits decent in appearance, and simple without suggestiveness. There are others, so thin and clinging that the bather might almost as well be naked. The young men who affect this kind of bathing suit are fully aware of the objections to their insufficient clothing, but they seem to delight in being different from decorous folks. They will lie at full length on the sand, discernible beyond all proper limitations, and even have the audacity to betake themselves to the presence of ladies. Mayor Stoy's example needs to be followed in nearly all bathing resorts.—Newark News.

Law on Illegal Liquor Selling.

A good many persons imagine that the law requiring saloonkeepers to close their places of business on Sunday is a relic of the old blue laws, but is not the fact. The Sunday closing law was enacted in 1889. It was drawn by Senator George T. Werts, of Morris, subsequently Governor. It was passed by a Democratic Legislature. This law, to be found on page 82 of the laws of 1889, provides in addition to the other penalties provided by law that any licensed liquor dealer who sells or offers for sale or even who gives away beer or liquor in his saloon on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, shall forfeit his license besides paying the costs of court for his conviction. It is the law of 1889 that the police are called upon to enforce, and not the laws of 1847, '48 or '49, or the vice and immortality act of 1846, under which conviction can be secured. It is a new law supposed to be made to conform to existing conditions.—Jersey City Journal.

FREEHOLDER'S STATEMENT.

Almost a Duplicate of $250,000 Bridge Built for $28,000.

Charles A. Bloomfield told the Board of Freeholders at New Brunswick, Thursday, that a bridge almost like the Amboy bridge had been built in Maine at a cost of $28,000. It was three-quarters the length of the Amboy bridge and of the same construction and lateral size. Mr. Bloomfield caused a sensation by his statement, in view of the fact that the Amboy bridge has already cost the county of Middlesex $175,000, and the freeholders are planning to spend an additional $75,000. Mr. Bloomfield spoke on behalf of the manufacturers of Perth Amboy, who object to the plans for the new iron piers to replace the wooden spans.

The Board of Freeholders decided to receive bids for the new iron spans on July 26, although some of the members of the board objected, on the ground that the part of the bridge built by Sanford & Harris had not yet been accepted by the county.

The Board of Freeholders Thursday rejected the bid of the West Virginia Bridge Company of $8,320, for building the new highway bridge at Milltown, and awarded the contract to Dean, Schwiers & Sutton, on plans submitted by them. Their bid was $8,932. The freeholders took this action on the recommendation of Engineer Leahy, of the Public Service Corporation, which will bear part of the expense of construction. The West Virginia Bridge Company bid on plans prepared by the county engineer. It was stated that the Dean, Schwiers & Sutton plans produced a stronger structure, and one better adapted for trolley car service.

Jersey Naval Militia Cruise.

The U. S. Navy Department is arranging to give the naval militia forces of some of the states along the Atlantic coast cruises on a squadron of warships. The present programme contemplates that the naval militia of Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania be taken out on August 5.

Roland Rockfellow, of Fairview avenue, left Cardinal, Va., today, weher he has been spending the last two weeks, for his home here.

Fred Bock, of Miller's pharmacy, returned today from a week's vacation at Mt. Pocono and the Thousand Islands.

AMERICA'S SMART SET GAVE UP $500 BILLS

ASTOR, ARMOUR, MRS. HOWARD GOULD AND OTHERS ARE BLED.

In New York yesterday William L. Daniels, under subpoena, supplied Assistant District Attorney Paul Krotel, in charge of the prosecution of Charles H. Ahle, with all the books of the Society Editors' Association. One books contains the names of the subscribers for "America's Smart Set," the publication offered to Edwin Post.

When Post refused to subscribe $500 he says he was told by Ahle that Town Topics would print an article about an alleged escapade of his.

In addition to the list heretofore printed of Astors, Vanderbilts and others who subscribed for "America's Smart Set," the books show these names and amounts:

| | |
|---|---|
| J. B. Haggin | $500 |
| J. J. Astor (July 30, 1904) | 500 |
| J. J. Astor (Nov. 30, 1904) | 500 |
| W. B. Leeds | 500 |
| Mrs. R. G. Dun | 500 |
| W. F. Havemeyer | 250 |
| Mrs. J. L. Riker | 500 |
| Stanford White | 100 |
| James Gayley | 500 |
| Thomas Walsh (Washington) | 500 |
| Harold McCormick (Chicago) | 500 |
| Ogden Armour | 500 |
| Mrs. E. G. Hubbard | 500 |
| L. M. Waterbury | 500 |
| James Hebard Moore (paid direct to M. E. W. and used by him) | 500 |
| Mrs. Harry S. Black | 500 |
| Theodore P. Shonts | 500 |
| Frank Tilford | 250 |
| F. Zeigfeld | 100 |
| Mrs. Howard Gould | 1,000 |
| Clarence Mackay | 1,000 |
| Edith F. Hannan | 500 |
| James J. Coogan | 100 |
| Ex-Judge E. H. Gary | 250 |
| Isaac Guggenheimer | 250 |

The books of the Society Editors' Association also showed that between July 30, 1904, and July 3, 1905, for "America's Smart Set" there had been received $26,700. Then there are the following items showing how some of this money was expended:

| | |
|---|---|
| To Moses Ellis Wooster, manager of the Society Editors' Association | $13,721 00 |
| To Charles S. Wayne | 2,400 00 |
| To W. L. Daniels | 1,300 00 |
| To expenses for boxes | 74 20 |
| To photographs, drawings and designs | 263 52 |
| To Gilles Press | 263 50 |
| Commisisons to Ahle, L. M. Morris, R. R. Rowe and others | 6,000 00 |
| Rent, furniture, telephone, etc | 2,100 00 |
| Stenographers and help | 533 64 |

Daniels said last night that he severed his connection with the Society Editors' Association yesterday. He gave no reasons. Mr. Krotel had questioned him about "Fads and Fancies." He said he had not the books in his possession nor those of Town Topics. The proper person to ask about these was Justice Deuel, of the Special Sessions Court. Daniels was told he must take the books before the Grand Jury on Monday. He said he would.

Jersey Land, My Jersey Land.

Principal James M. Green, of the State Normal School, took to Asbury Park on Friday a package which, when opened, proved to be sheets bearing an "Ode to New Jersey," to be sung to the air of "Maryland, My Maryland." When asked who the author was, he declined to answer, except that the writer was anonymous. The ode is as follows:

The rolling wave is on thy shore,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!
Aloft thine azured mountains soar,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!
Hill-top and vale, low-lying plain,
Pine groves and streams with murmuring strain—
These ne'er will let thy beauty wane,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!

On Fame's bright roll thy name is found,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!
Thy every rood is hallowed land!
Jersey land, my Jersey land!
At Trenton and on Princeton's field,
On Monmouth's plain, with valor steeled,
Thy sons their lives for freedom sealed,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!

Though thou wast panoplied in steel,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!
Hast smitten foe, hast seen him reel,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!
Thy martial note long since did cease;
Thou bearest now the branch of peace;
God grant of love a long increase,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!

Minerva holds thee near her heart,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!
The Sacred Nine here gifts impart,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!
From roadside shrine to college dome,
Fair wisdom's sons, wher'er they roam,
Thy altar fires bid welcome home,
Jersey land, my Jersey land!

Mrs. Charles Greer and her mother, Mrs. Van Horn, of Putnam avenue, are at Long Branch.

Miss Emily Winant, of Carlton avenue, has returned from Brooklyn, where she has been spending the past week.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

July 23: "Preparing For Our Heavenly Home"—Phil. iii, 20, 21; Heb. xi, 8-10; 13-16.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

Amid the vast uncertainties of this life some things are sure. What homes we may have and where they will be for the years just ahead we can hardly hazard a guess. Circumstances change so rapidly and possibilities open and close so mysteriously that no one can tell what will be. But beyond these horizons which shut in this present time the great mountains lift their heads, and in days when the sky is clear of clouds we may discern the distant home land better than many things nearer at hand.

What business prosperity or disaster may be ours in the months to come, what health or sickness, what family cares, perplexity and bereavement or joys and helpfulness of love, who can forecast? With all our exertion and prudence we cannot insure success to our plans, and defeat and bitter disappointment may have to be borne when we have labored so hard for the pleasant and rich prizes. When we speak of the need of faith what a vast power of faith it needs to keep us from utter discouragement in our daily struggle for existence! However worthy one may be and however bravely he may strive here, he can never be certain that the place he seeks may not be given to one less worthy and less able to fill it. Availability is often more successful than ability in getting place and wielding power.

But when we consider our new home, the heavenly one, we come to sureties. Our faith finds firm foundations on which to build our lives. We discover the eternal truth of things and arrive at certainty as fixed as laws of gravitation.

Our first need in preparation for our future home is to get rid of the dread of changing from earthly to heavenly conditions. We must recognize the place this life holds as leading into the future and that we shall be ourselves whatever the change in place. Our best preparation—indeed, the only possible one for us in reality—is to live the highest possible life, here and now, everywhere and at all times. We must get the ideal of what we would be. Place it as high as possible and make it such in nature that it shall ever recede and lift higher as we advance toward it, ever approaching but never fully attaining its fullness.

Then by patient plodding we are to shape our inner selves into the form of our purest vision of selfhood.

This is possible as we come to know the Christ as pictured in the Bible and as found in daily companionship in daily life, as we strive to conform our tastes and actions to His model.

The rush of our social and business life has well nigh banished the old time habit of religious meditation. We are in danger of substituting talk for thought and meetings for devotion and organization for human friendship, and in it all lose the companionship and inner consciousness of the Divine Helper ever present. But in the midst of all our obligations and pressure of the times we may—nay, we must—if we are to succeed and reach our home, we must live at all times the eternal life. It must be in us, increasing in power and clearness, and all our works of whatever kind must be simply its outworking.

Set the task clearly before you as a copy at the top of the writing book, and then practice persistently until you can write the lines of life as beautifully and straight as that you emulate. Such preparation will fit us for our work in the heavenly home, and whether the summons comes early or late it will not find us unfitted.

In Christ's School.

History tells of a young paint grinder in the studio of Italy's greatest master who developed striking evidences of artistic skill. When an enemy of the great teacher came to the boy and urged him to found a school of his own, saying that wealth and honors and invitations to kings' palaces might be his, the youth answered in effect, "I am not ambitious to found a school or dwell in a palace, but I am ambitious to catch Raphael's spirit and reproduce in myself his ideals."

Now, that simple thought condenses in a word the essence of the Christian life. It is an ambition to rise to the level of Christ's thoughts, to feel His throb of sympathy toward the poor and weak, to abhor evil as He abhorred it, to hunger for righteousness as He hungered for it and to walk with our Father as Christ walked with Him. He is a Christian who is loyal to Christ in thoughts, sympathies, friendships, purposes and ideals.—Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis.

Sentence Sermons.

Thinking is the least exerted privilege of cultivated humanity.—Evens.

Many people expect heaven to honor their drafts when they have no deposits there.—Henry F. Cope.

There are seasons when to be still demands immensely higher strength than to act.—Channing.

Emotion is power when it is caught in the cylinder and does not escape in the whistle.—Rev. William Rader.

Truth is precious; too precious for rash distribution. There are a number of things that look just like it and are much less expensive.

The life of every man is a diary in which he means to write one story and writes another, and his humblest hour is when he compares the volume as it is with what he vowed to make it.—J. M. Barrie.

Every individual will be the happier the more clearly he understands that his vocation consists not in exacting service from others, but in ministering to others, in giving his life the ransom of many.—Tolstoi.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 23.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Preparing for our heavenly home.—Phil. iii, 20, 21; Heb. xi, 8-10, 13-16.

Christ came to bring "life and immortality to light through the gospel." He came to declare and to demonstrate by His own resurrection the absolute assurance of the future life. He became the first fruits of them that slept and thereby demonstrated that all should rise again. This is one of the most important truths revealed in God's word. Life means infinitely more since we know that death does not end all. Men had dreamed of immortality, and had hoped and longed for it, but no one was able to prove it until Christ came. He not only proved it by His testimony, as one coming from the other world, but actually demonstrated it by rising from the dead. There need be no doubt now about the future life.

The future life of the Christian has been set forth under many different figures and symbols. To describe it literally is, very naturally, impossible. It will be a life vastly different from the one in which we now live, and hence it could only be typified to us. Some facts concerning it have been revealed. There will be no sin in heaven, no death, no separation and no sorrow. A world without sin, death, sorrow and separation is almost inconceivable to us. These have been the features of this life that have been most deeply impressed upon us; hence to give us any conception of heaven, it was necessary to use types and symbols. It is called a city—"the Holy City, New Jerusalem;" it is also called a land—"the land of Canaan, flowing with milk and honey;" it has also been likened to a temple.

Perhaps of all the symbols by which heaven is represented the sweetest and best loved is that of "home"—our "heavenly home." Christ Himself thus speaks of it: "In My Father's house are many mansions." When the closing hours of life come and we are drawing near to the end of life the idea of heaven that attracts us most is not that of the splendid city or of a country, however blessed, but that of home. Then more than any other time we feel that we are absent from our real home, and, being tired and wearied, we want to go home. How often at such times we hear the words from saints about to depart: "I want to go home." "I am only waiting to go home!" Let us keep this idea of heaven before us. It is to be our eternal home. The remembrance of this fact will strengthen and cheer us amid life's active duties and greatly comfort us in the declining days of life.

Heaven being our eternal home, we should in this life prepare for it. If we were going to change our place of residence we would prepare more or less for the new home. The people in no two places live exactly alike. Houses, furniture, customs, are all different, and every one in moving takes these things into consideration. So as we look forward to a new life under vastly different circumstances we should prepare for it. In heaven we are to live in closest fellowship with God and with Christ. We should therefore commune with them much in this life. In heaven there is to be no sin; hence we should by the grace of God try to overcome sin here. In heaven we are to live in peace and harmony with all about us. Let us therefore try to know each other better on earth and live more peaceably together here. "Our citizenship is in heaven." Let us therefore strive to live here as citizens of the heavenly country.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 20-22; Ps. viii, 1-8; Eccl. xii, 1-5; Luke xxiii, 42, 43; John xiv, 1-3; II Cor. v, 1; Matt. vi, 19-21; Eph. iii, 14-21; I Pet. i, 3-5; Rev. xxi, 1-4.

Dr. Clark on Consecration.

If you owe anything to Christian Endeavor, fellow Endeavorer, the best way to begin to discharge your debt is to consecrate your life to the work of God through Christian Endeavor.

In the early days of the society far oftener than now we used to hear some such phrase as this at the roll call meeting: "I wish to renew my consecration to the service of God." The phrase became stereotyped, and we largely dropped it. Let us take it up again and put new life and meaning into it. Will you not say with me tonight as your name is called:

"I will consecrate myself to greater faithfulness to my covenant pledge."

"I will consecrate myself to more self sacrificing work on my committee."

"I will consecrate myself to an effort to lead some one else to Christ and into His church this winter."—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

The Two Pits.

[A message to the Christian Endeavorers of Louisiana published in their state paper.]

A toiler bent a patient back
Above a yawning pit,
And time and strength and love and wealth
He shoveled into it.
And still, though many years he toiled
And bitterly he cursed,
The pit remained a hollow hole,
As empty as at first.

A second workman bent his back
Above a second pit,
And time and strength and love and wealth
He shoveled into it.
And, lo, before his sun was set
The pit was brimming o'er
With ruddy gold and jewels rare,
A vast, exhaustless store!

Oh, toiler in the field of life,
'Tis not the work you do,
But where you do it and for what
Means bane or bliss for you!
Alike into a yawning pit
May go your strength, your pelf,
But one pit is the church of God,
The other is—yourself.
—Amos R. Wells.

SCIENCE IN BASEBALL HAS CHANGED THE GAME

WHAT SCIENTIFIC METHODS HAVE DONE FOR THE SPIT-BALL ARTIST.

Scientific baseball has so radically changed the character of the game that in a decade the duties of the men playing the various positions have undergone a complete transformation. Outfielders are no longer supposed to dash in on low line balls and, diving headlong, scoop them out of the dust.

The cold blooded scientific method says: "Play it safe, and hold the hit to a single. Take it on an easy bound, so that it can't pass you and go for three bases."

The first baseman has been converted from a lumbering slugger of the cow puncher sort, whose sole fielding function was to stand anchored to the bag and never move for a ball, into the mitted marvel of the Middleton type, covering all kinds of ground, dashing in for bunts and shifting all over the infield, to care for the various types of hitters.

The new game has pulled the second baseman far over toward first base and out into right field. It has made the catcher the pivot of the team work, decreased long hits and made the ability to tap little ones to the infield far more essential than the power of lacing the sphere against the fence.

In fact, modern baseball has given more work to everybody but the pitcher; and this is said with a full knowledge of the fact that now he has to field many bunts.

The tendency of specialization has operated in the National game just as in all fields of endeavor requiring trained ability. The baseball strategist looks on his twirler as holding the success of the team in his hands, so he keeps the slabmen wrapped up in cotton.

The pitcher of today is asked to fool the opposing batsman, and field bunts. That's all. No one expects him to hit, run or catch flies.

When a ball goes up above the infield now the pitcher stands helplessly in the box, while the catcher, the three basemen and the shortstop come rushing toward him. The number of men after the ball laways creates some confusion. It may be a fly so easy that any kid on the lot could pull it down one-handed; but they all look at each other panic-stricken, till finally at the critical moment some one jumps out from the bench, usually the one who is farthest away, and, by an almost impossible effort, gets the ball that would have been a joke for the pitcher.

The theory that rules out the pitcher is that he may injure a finger in letting down a high one. But in practice the same pitchers will handle the hardest kind of long hits, and in games will go after lightning grounders and liners from the bats of the Lajoies and Wagners.

Some times it is undoubtedly good judgment to let the catcher take the high flies that he can reach, for he not only profits by having on the big mit, but he has the sun at his back. This, however, applies to the backstop alone. The pitcher is on an equality with the other infielders so far as exposure to the sun's discomforting rays goes.

Fifteen years ago the pitcher used to catch everything that came near him, and the twirlers of those days wore no gloves, but faced the cannonading with uncovered hands.

An old timer, standing in the box, would have been insulte at the thought that a player had to run in from second base, a distance that most persons forget is as far as from the left fielders' positions to shortstop, in order to get a pop fly.

So, too, the twirler has been eliminated as a batting and base-running factor.

Nobody expects him to run. The most that is looked for is that he strike out quickly of lay down a sacrifice. When he gets on the bases, unless the game is in a critical stage, he is cautioned to take it easy, lest he spend his strength and be in no condition to pitch the next inning.

How different from the days of old!

Then the pitcher was frequently such a good hitter that they batted him third or fourth. Sometimes he was the best batter on the nine.

Take the local teams today, and it will be found that they have just one good hitting pitcher. Compare this with what used to be.

Then is was no uncommon thing for a pitcher's hitting ability to lead him to take some other position after his days of box usefulness were over. Now about the only job a twirler with a gone arm could fill would be that of ground keeper, bat carrier or sandwich salesman.

Meanwhile, to future spare the pitcher, it might be a good idea to provide him with blinders, so that he could see no ball that went over his head, and a comfortable chair on which he could sit as he struck out.

These precautions, re-enforced by a rule prohibiting him from running to first base in less than half a minute's time, might avail to ward off the danger of incipient collapse.

Miss Mary Griscolm spent the last week at Atlantic City.

Miss Marion Porter, of New York city, spent Sunday with her parents on West Third street.

Miss Lillian Kiersting, of Morristown, who has been visiting relatives here, returned today.

SANITARY INSPECTION

House-to-House Examination in the West Now.

WHAT'S LOOKED INTO.

Many Questions Asked by Health Department Officer—Work Being Thoroughly Done.

Robert W. Meeker, who is conducting a house-to-house inspection in the city under the direction of the Board of Health, is now working in the West End, where he will be engaged for some time. It is his business to ascertain everything pertaining to the sanitary condition about a property and his questions are so much in detail that many families have been perplexed to know just why the inspection is intended to include so much.

The inspector ascertains the kind of heat used in the house, the style of cold-air box used in connection with the heat, whether there is a cesspool used or sewer connection, examines the plumbing, inquires about the number of rooms in a house, how many people are in the family, number of children, their ages and many other questions are asked, all of which are tabulated and form part of the records kept by the Board of Health.

It is the desire of the Board of Health to have cesspool and outhouses abolished as fast as possible and during the past few months, since the house-to-house inspection has been pushed so rapidly, many property-owners have had their cesspools and outhouses removed and connection made to the city sanitary sewer.

When the proposed sewer improvements are completed at the city sewage farm, it will be possible to take care of a great many more properties. The improvements call for a duplicate of the present plant, that is there will be eight additional contact beds, together with another septic tank and other improvements thought to be necessary to operate the system satisfactorily. There have been improvements made at the farm which has practically eliminated the odor at that place and for a long time no complaints have been heard in this direction. The same care will be exercised in making the additions to the system and it is hoped that this will provide for Plainfield's needs for a long time to come.

There are some sections of the city which cannot be sewered by the city system, owing to the location of the property, and it will be necessary for the city to employ some means to connect this tract with the sewer. There are such conditions in the Second ward, where south of Watchung avenue there is a large territory not now provided for. In the Fourth ward the same condition exists, it being impossible for certain streets to be connected with the sewer mains.

THEY WANT $10,000 FROM THE N. J. S. R.

SUIT A RESULT OF MRS. HAMBURGER'S INJURIES.

Summons has been issued by Counsellor William Newcorn in the suit brought by Charles Hamburger and wife, of Westfield, against the North Jersey Street Railway. The action is a suit in tort and is brought to recover $10,000 by Mrs. Hamburger and a like amount by her husband.

While on a car of the Trenton-Jersey City through line on June 11 Mrs. Hamburger was injured in a collision between the car in which she rode and a car on the Turnpike line. The collision took place at the meeting point of the two lines, Chestnut and Newark avenues, Jersey City.

The woman knew she was hurt, but until she got off the car at the terminus, where she fainted, remaining unconscious for an hour and a half, her hurts were thought very slight.

Dr. McGill, the company's physicians, attended her and found one of her shins injured as well as the knee-joint. She was placed on another car and sent home to Westfield, fainting again on her arrival there.

After being under treatment for these first known injuries for about two weeks, Mrs. Hamburger consulted a New York specialist, who found her suffering from severe internal injuries.

These injuries make a dangerous and delicate surgical operation necessary, and in the opinion of Mrs. Hamburger's advisers may well cost the trolley company some thousands of dollars, where they expected to settle for less than two hundred.

Probably the case will come up before Justice Fort at Elizabeth in the October term.

Alfred Thorne, of Plainefild, visited friends here yesterday.

Miss Anna Durling, of this city, has been visiting relatives in Somerset county.

Mrs. R. F. Bogardus and her son Arthur spent the past week at Mt. Pocono.

The Constitutionalist
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Ed., Proprietor

Thursday, July 20, 1905

For Senator—
Charles Joel Fisk declines
Edward C. Coyne dies
Alexander Gilbert declines.
—Next.

Elizabeth woman cannot resist temptation to steal. Her name should be presented to the Equitable trustees before the list of new directors is completed.

Advertising is the greatest motive power of business today. But tomorrow it will be the only power. The manufacturer who does not advertise is, as a class, just as certainly doomed to extinction as the small retailer. The lesson of these things is obvious.—Exchange.

Wily Depew has the nerve to say that he resigns from the Equitable because of his advanced age and desire for more leisure time. 'Tis a pity that he and other men of the type cannot be convinced that the U. S. Senate is no place for multi-millionaires with loose consciences.

The Republican bosses of the State are just waking up to take notice of one Everett Colby.

"Scotty," the "millionaire" from Death Valley, is having his day, together with his dog, in New York. In about two weeks you may expect to hear of the Death Valley Gold Mine Company, and then watch 'em bite.

The time for revolt is at hand. Turn the rascals out! Somerset county can boast of one of the few State Senators who know the right and dare the right maintain, and he, the Honorable Samuel S. Childs, will be re-elected by and for the people.—Bound Brook State-Centre.

Pass around the pie!

This is the way the Newark News sums up "Our Chauncey:" "Depew as a director in the Equitable votes a loan of $250,000 on property valued at $150,000 to Depew as borrower; Depew as a borrower guarantees the loan to company, but as borrower-director repudiates it—loss to Equitable by this deal $225,000. Depew's salary at this time for expert legal advice $20,000 per year."

The Philadelphia Record says: "A jokelet now going the rounds of the press represents an amateur poet as attributing the rejection of his latest effusion to the editor's fear that it might distract attention from the advertising columns. While as a mirth-producer this item may not be an unqualified success, it contains a suggestion that ought to be useful to the business man. Advertisements can be, and often are, made as interesting as the liveliest matter in the paper in which they appear, and it should be the advertiser's aim to make his daily announcements so attractive that they will outshine not only the productions of the poets, but of the newsgatherers as well. The "ads" that compel rather than entreat attentive reading are the ones that make buyers.

There's a cure for the troubles which the New Brunswick Home News recites in the following editorial:

One of the annoyances which managers of newspapers have to contend with is for people to rush to the office of the newspaper when any of their friends get in trouble and request that no mention be made of the matter, or that the names of the accused be left out. One such instance occurred in this city this week, where, at the urgent request of prominent people, the names of four young men were omitted out of consideration for their aged parents or for some other reason. After this the names of the offenders appeared in a Trenton paper, with all the particulars of their offense. Then people ask why the New Brunswick papers were so slow? In Elizabeth this week a lady committed suicide in her bathroom, and the papers there the next day came out saying that the lady had died suddenly, with no other particulars. Reporters were refused information, and even the authorities delayed issuing the usual death certificate. Now the details of the suicide are being printed, and the news which the public had a right to get is being doled out. Newspaper managers are not hard hearted, but their duty is to print the news. Suicide is a crime against society, and there is no good public reason for suppressing the facts, even though the suicide is demented at the time of the commission of the crime. Some people delight in throwing every possible obstacle in the way of the reporter who is sent out to investigate and secure the facts in such cases.

Remedy—Publish everything that's news and is fit to print, and tell your friends that if their requests were granted there wouldn't be any newspapers. If they try to suppress the information desired, "spread" on the story.

Stars, 6; Frankforts, 2.

The Elizabethport Stars defeated the Frankforts at the Port yesterday by a score of 6 to 2. Scanlon and Bergen, of the Brooklyn Nationals, formed the battery for the Frankforts, and Waller and Walsh were in the points for the Stars.

AMUSEMENTS.

Captain Arthur Waldo Lewis, the soldier, who originated the Boer War spectacle now at Brighton Beach is an unique figure in the show world. His successful reproduction of the decisive battles in the South African War will be followed soon by a spectacle of still greater magnitude. His rise from a trooper in a regiment of irregular Canadian cavalry to a magnate in the show business in a comparatively short time won for him the confidence of those whose assistance he requires for the new project now being planned. Captain Lewis succeeded where others failed to secure the services of the Boer War heroes, who now enact the battles in which they took part five years ago. Both armies scoffed at his proposals to present a war spectacle to the American people.

Incubator chicks every fifteen minutes is the latest novelty installed at Luna Park, Coney Island. Ever since the advent of the "artificial hen" showmen have been endeavoring to perfect a plan whereby the public could be treated to the sight of a continual hatching of young chickens, where they could be seen breaking through the shell at small intervals of time. Hugh S. Thomas, chief electrician at Luna Park, devised a scheme which has accomplished the desired results. The incubators, enclosed in glass, skirt the broad promenade and contain 6,000 eggs, which have been placed in the patent hatchery at short intervals during the last three weeks. This week the little chicks began to put in an appearance. Patrons can bring their own eggs to be hatched out and the little chickens will be farmed out in various places near the Park.

Sam Bernard and "The Rollicking Girl" are gladdening the summer nights for New Yorkers and making the Herald Square Theatre the most popular warm weather amusement resort this town has ever had. They continue to attract record breaking crowds and to be sought after and talked about as only tremendous and enduring favorites could be. They will round out their second month of Metropolitan triumph this week. Sam Bernard and Hattie Williams and Joe Coyne, as the chief merrymakers of the clever army of eighty entertainers, singers, dancers and comedians that make this big show "go" have again established their right to be known as musical comedy artists of the very first rank. Mr. Bernard teems with fun in the role of Schmaltz, the wigmaker. In his every line and movement there is a laugh. He never had such opportunities for laugh making, and misses none of them. Hattie Williams is perfectly at home in the jolly, rollicking part of "the girl." She adds to the degree and quality of the enjoyment. Her song hits, "Friends That Are Good and True," "Tricks" and "The Girl in My Own Town," are delightful memories of the production that the audiences take home with them. Each of the songs is encored nearly a dozen times. In the galaxy of entertainers are Joe Coyne and Aimee Angeles, whose singing and dancing count for a great deal.

A wild animal musical comedy has been put on at Bostock's animal arena, Coney Island. It is named "The Dust Fletcher," and the words and music are by Frank C. Bostock, who also staged the piece. His principal star is Rey, (fils), a quivering bunch of absurdities, and who keeps the crowd in constant laughter by presenting himself about a hundred medals for bravery. The other characters are taken by four lions, three bears, a sloth and a Great Dane. The music is furnished by the sloth. The act is the most unique o fits kind and for daredevil bravery has never been equalled in the history of animal training. Capt. Jack Bonavita has had a strenuous week with his lions. The rest of the group seems to have acquired a temporary dislike for Mars, which is the Chinese lion, the others being mostly African. The result has been an attack on him the moment all enter the arena and Bonavita has to keep moving to hold them apart.

The New Amsterdam Aerial Theatre and Gardens are proving the most popular summer evening resort in New York. They are crowded every evening by people who delight in a clever sho wand bright music 120 feet above the curb line on a hot summer night. The attraction is John J. McNally's new local skit, "Lifting the Lid," in which his chief characters are District Attorney Jerome with his axe, and other notable public men. This is followed by another skit by Mr. McNally called "The Whole Damm Family." This presents a second company of comedians headed by Stella Mayhew, Maude Lambert and D. L. Don.

F. F. Proctor is determined to maintain his prestige as the purveyor of high class vaudeville, and to accomplish this purpose he has set a pace which heretofore has never been equaled in vaudeville circles. In mid July he is putting together programmes of unrivaled excellence, composed of the best acts to be found in vaudeville, and by going outside and taking, one by one, the favorites who have catered to the public in the dramatic and musical fields. The patrons of the Twenty-third Street house appreciate the efforts made for their entertainment, and Mr. Proctor has been rewarded with crowded houses, the like of which is unprecedented in the summer season. The quality of the attractions and the well known reputation of the Twenty-third Street Theatre for coolness and comfort, makes it the "Mecca of Shoppers," these warm summer days, where they may rest and enjoy a hearty laugh and go home refreshed and contented. Under such conditions shopping becomes a pleasure.

Since the return of Frederic Thompson from Europe last week, the shows have been booming in Luna Park and many changes have already been made while others are contemplated. Mr. Thompson's flying trip across the water each season is productive of many new ideas and schemes, the installation of which in Luna Park have served every to make it more attractive. Then, too, the wear and strain of the opening of the Hippodrome has passed away and the young showman can now spend all his time on working out amusement plans which he had in mind, but which were laid aside temporarily to make way for other more pressing calls on his time.

LITERARY.

A special million for Yale ought to make him about as tactful in the future as President Harper, or any other good, wise educator that knows his business." T. Roosevelt, of Harvard, was barking also, just before those $10,000,000 appeared upon the scene. Perhaps some conspicuous scion of that noble university now clamors for attention long enough to make a speech on the habits and duties of famous financiers. As for us, we cand o nothing to stem the tide, but you will kindly let us sulk. Moreover, we believe that the universities would do well to cavil a trifle longer, for rather than not acquire a restful silence Mr. Rockefeller would come out with a hundred million. So why not get as large a graft out of his predicament as we can?—Collier's, July 22, 1905.

Mrs. Burton Harrison's name has always been identified with particularly entertaining fiction, and for many years she has not given us so capital a piece of work as "The Carlyles," the long novel which opens the August number of The Smart Set. It is by far her most important story, and is a distinct departure from her former novels. The scenes are laid in and around Richmond, during the stirring days of 1865, and the introduction of several historical events adds greatly to the interest of a splendid dramatic love story. No novelist dealing with the Civil War period has succeeded in creating a more realistic atmosphere or characters more convincing.

The leading article in the July issue of Human Life, by Alfred Henry Lewis, the editor, ha sthis significant title: "The Man-Fishing of Life Insurance." It is the story of Hyde, the man of froth and the disgrace of the Equitable. In the opening paragraphs Mr. Lewis says: "Life insurance is the art of angling for men. The companies fish for the father and bait their hook with the child. Among those who most successfully fished was the Equitable. So excellent was it at this angling that it has over six hundred thousand fish, known in life insurance as policy-holders, swimming in its live boxes. This is aside and apart from those thousands upon thousands who, during the forty-six years in which the Equitable has whipped the streams of humanity for its prey, have died and been disposed of.

We hope there will soon be fewer with salaries like those of Senator Depew, and fewer corporations which seek to have their lawyers in the Legislature. "Old-fashioned honesty," Mr. Cleveland says, but he must be referring to some period before the Civil War. Americans are now endeavoring to halt a plunging commercial practical activity of the nation after '65. In a sense we are a new nation from that date. President Elliot has spoken of business as one of the learned professions, and so, in many of its divisions, it is coming to be. Miss Tarbell, in the latest of her Rockefeller studies, draws some graphic features of the most discouragingly successful money-grabber in the world. It is not a pretty picture, composed as it is of greed, cruelty, and disgusting piety. "According as you put something in," he observed to a Cleveland Sunday-school, "the greater will be your dividends of salvation." But he is not the type of business man who represents the future. His like are on the wane. The responsibilities and opportunities of money are becoming more widely understood, and its mere, rapacious accumulation tends every day more to become a source of shame.—Collier's, July 15, 1905.

Sewer Commissioners Meet.

The sewer commissioners met Saturday night, after going over the territory, where it is proposed to extend the sanitary sewers, to fix up the assessments prior to presenting their report to the Common Council. They will hold another meeting on Thursday night.

Ready for Emergencies.

It is fortunate for Union county Republicans that they have one so worthy as Assemblyman Perkins to don the mantle surrendered in the death of Assemblyman Coyne. The county will be represented ably by the solon from Westfield, and some day he may be in line for Senator. —New York Press.

STREET CAR SANITATION

Disease Spread by Lack of Proper Ventilation in Cars.

In the course of his inquiries as to the possible spread of diseases over the country through the unsanitary condition of railroad passenger and street cars, Surgeon General Wyman, of the United States Marine Hospital Service at Washington, has received a large number of letters from health officers of the various states and cities. From these letters it appears to be the almost unanimous opinion among health officers that many diseases are contracted by the traveling public through breathing vitiated air in the cars, or by the reception into their systems of disease germs from others infected. Especially is this said to be true of the "white plague."

From these letters it also appears that health boards and health officers in almost all parts of the country are making strenuous efforts to remedy this great evil, but that they are hampered in their efforts by the lack of legislation. Only one or two states have laws giving authority to the health boards to enforce sanitary rules and regulations on the railroads. In some other states the health officers have undertaken this good work without waiting for legislation.

All of the health officers who have written upon this question recognize the importance of the subject and express an earnest willingness to aid in every possible way to protect the public health by enforcing rigid regulations. On the question of the ventilation of street and passenger cars, Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the Indiana tSate Board of Health, writes:

"Its importance can hardly be exaggerated. Indianapolis has good street cars and very satisfactory service, but the ventilation is not good. I never think of riding in the inside of the cars, but always stand out on the platform, even in cold weather, because the air inside is always so extremely foul. It is my opinion that the people are more to blame for this condition than the street car company. As you know, the only method for ventilating street cars is by the ventilators in the roof and by the windows and doors. No passenger will permit a window to be lowered, and if doors are held open for even a moment, some one will rise and close them. The same is true in regard to the ventilators in the roof. I have repeatedly opened these ventilators only to see them immediately closed again by some other passenger. The street railway authorities will give orders to their conductors to keep the ventilators open, but passengers will close them.

"The problem of car ventilation is a most difficult one. Cars have been termed 'houses on wheels.' In these moving houses space is at a high premium, and to keep them supplied with sufficient pure air for the crowded occupants is a matter of extreme difficulty. Indeed, so difficult is the problem, I do not believe that cars can be thoroughly ventilated without creating drafts and without, in cold weather, lowering the temperature below comfortable endurance. Passable ventilation will doubtless be some day secured."

NEW VOTING MACHINES.

Commissioners Ask Bids for $50,000 Worth More for Use at Elections.

The State Board of Voting Machine Commissioners, Joseph A. Brohl, Franklin Phillips and Seward Davis, advertises that $50,000 has been appropriated by the Legislature for the purchase this year of additional voting machines, and bids are asked for the number that sum will purchase. It is probable about 100 machines will be added to those now in use, and they will be apportioned among the several counties when the contract has been completed. Each machine has to provide for seven different political parties and thirty candidates of each party, and also for votes on fourteen different questions.

The selection of the machines is not limited to the kind now in use, and any machine which presents advantages in construction or price may receive the contract.

To Administer Wallace Estate.

J. Herbert Case, treasurer and a director of the Plainfield Trust Company, has been appointed substitute administrator of the estate of the late Samuel A. Wallace, of North Plainfield. Judson Voorhees, of Cranford, who was nominated and who qualified under the will, died very suddenly before executing the trust, and Mr. Case's appointment was the result of a petition to the court by the widow and legatees for and administrator to qualify and administer the estate under the original terms of the will. Mr. Case has given bonds to the court for $2,500.

Dunellen Wins.

"Phil" Smith, the Plainfield High School twirler, easily defeated New Market Saturday by his masterly pitching. The score was 8 to 2. When it is considered that Wilson, the Murray Hill pitcher, faced Dunellen, the winners did most creditably.

City's Youngest Architect.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. D. Foster Updike, of 518 Park avenue, on Saturday evening.

JAP TALKS ON THE WAR

Y. Hirose Answers the Question "Is Japan the Enemy of Russia"

AT MEN'S MEETING.

Praises Patriotism of Flowery Kingdom People—Tells Why Russians Make Poor Soldiers.

In a forty-minute talk on the merits of the Russo-Japanese disputes, past and present, Y. Hirose, superintendent of the Japanese Mission, in East Fifty-seventh street, New York, held the attention of a small but appreciative audience in Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Hirose spoke on the subject, 'Is Japan the Enemy of Russia?" and by the moderation of his arguments and the evident sincerity with which they were advanced he convinced his hearers that the "Island Empire" is not only making a fight for its very existence, but is waging that struggle in a more Christian and humane manner than its European antago-

The speaker began by comparing the traditional policies of the two countries in so far as these policies affected their relations with Corea and China. He showed how Russia had adopted here as elsewhere a scheme of territorial expansion in the development of which she did no scruple to encroach upon the rights of neighboring countries to the extent of grabbing whatever territory she considered worth holding.

Japan, he said, had been preparing for the present struggle for some years, and as she was farsighted enough to include a system of public education in her programme of preparation, she proved herself fully able now that the test is being applied of coping with Russia, steeped in ignorance as the latter country is, and torn by civil dissensions.

Along the same line were Mr. Hirose's remarks describing the attitude of the populace of the two countries toward those at the front. The Japanese who shoulders his rifle and marches aboard ship for Manchuria knows that his family will not be asked to pay any rent for their little farm, that they will be furnished, should they need it, with free medical attendance, and that the government he fights for will do everything in its power to contribute to the welfare of the wife and children of its fighting man. The remission of rents is not compulsory, nor is it provided for by the government, but is a concession on the part of the landed proprietors, who take that means of bearing a proportionate share of the national burden.

The Russian, on the other hand, illiterate, imbruted by oppression and more often than not ignorant of the cause for which he is asked to risk death in a hundred forms, goes to the front under the care of officers, who in many cases have, by robbing him in the matter of clothing and rations, earned a heartier hatred from him than he will ever feel for the little yellow men from Nippon. He leaves behind him a family which, if he belongs to one of the conquered nations which have caused Russia so much political indigestion, may be killed in the progress of the next riot by the Cossacks, hereditary enemies of all Russians proper.

To sum the situation up, as Mr. Hirose said, Russia burns gunpowder in Poland and in St. Petersburg instead of in Manchuria, and she sinks or dismantles her fighting ships in the Black Sea instead of sinking those of Japan in the Straits of Tsushima.

He also spoke of the work done at his non-sectarian Japanese mission in New York. Here Japanese, attracted by the society of their fellow-countrymen, are brought under the influence of Christian teachings by Japanese workers, and on returning to their country render the progress of the work there more rapid and thorough because they are looked up to as men of travel and experience.

The Misses Praed, of Essex street, are registered at Asbury Park.

IN THE POLICE COURT

Colored Family "Jars" Occupy the Time of Judge Runyon.

ONLY ONE FINED.

Lee Wells Must Pay $10 for Enlarging a Woman's Cheek—Sadie Forman Made Goo-Goo Eyes.

Returning to the bench in the city court Monday a. m., after a week's absence, Judge Runyon found a collection of colored family quarrel cases awaiting his disposition.

In only one instance did he let loose his wrath, the unlucky victim being Lee Wells, who was fined $10 for "having words" with his common-law wife, Lily Cuff, and striking her in the face. The woman showed a very swollen cheek, the result of the blow, which Wells claimed was caused by crying. He couldn't explain how the crying affected only one side, and he was hustled back to a cell to think it over while friends went looking for the ten spot.

Miles Butler, second lieutenant in the Plainfield Colored Cadets, his wife Helen, and Sadie Forman, who has been making eyes at Miles, were trotted out by Patrolman Saunders on charges of quarreling and fighting on South Second street. The testimony showed there certainly had been a mixup and that it was due to Helen's antipathy to Sadie and Miles' anger toward Helen because friends had told him she was in the habit of eating ice cream with young fellows, both using the same spoon. The judge advised the Butlers to part company, and warned Sadie if she didn't keep away from Miles she would get a vacation at Elizabeth.

Mark Forman, colored, arrested for dumping over a lemonade stand at the carnival company, which showed last week on West Fourth street, had sentence suspended through testimony that the proprietor had first slapped him in the face because he did'nt treat several "lady" friends. Sentence was also suspended on John Wilson, arrested early yesterday morning by Patrolman Saunders for drunkenness.

TO MOVE HOUSE.

Schanz Building to Face on Second Street.

Charles W. McCutchen, of the borough, has just closed a deal with William Jeffery, the real estate broker, whereby he comes the owner of twenty-five feet of land on West Second street at the corner of Pruden's alley. It is said to be Mr. McCutchen's intention to move his brick building on Park avenue, formerly occupied by Charles Schanz, to the West Second street site so that building operations may be started soon on the Park avenue property adjoining that of the Plainfield Trust Company. The newly-acquired property was owned by Stephen O. Staats, who occupies the residence on the other portion of the land.

ARRESTED AFTER FUNERAL.

Police Catch Man for Whom They Had Waited Many Weeks.

Returning to the borough Saturday after a long absence, for the purpose of attending his father's funeral, James McKenna, of Grove street, was arrested by Chief Marshal Weiss Saturday. The officer had held a warrant for him for many weeks, and took him in custody immediately after the obsequies. The complaint against him was preferred by a young woman.

McKenna was taken before Justice Smalley and held in $400 bonds for a hearing later in the week. The amount was furnished.

M. Anderson's Funeral.

Funeral services over the remains of Maurius Anderson, aged forty-five, were held Saturday afternoon from the home of his brother, Andrew Anderson, on West Third street. Rev. L. T. Lindholm officiated. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N. Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System
New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River.

In effect June 25, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.26, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.20, 8.26, 8.46, 9.20, 9.50, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.03, 12.44, 1.18, 2.21, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.20, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.25, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 3.37, 4.47, 7.42, 8.01, 8.52, 9.24, 9.49, 10.02, 10.22 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.25, 6.48, 8.13, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.26, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.50, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44 4.13 4.47 5.20 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.24, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 6.52, 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville 5.19, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.33, 5.02, 5.29, 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.28, 7.12, 7.33, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.22, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.12 a. m., 2.02, 3.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.47 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55, a. m., 2.11, 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.21, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove)—8.52, a. m., 2.50, 8.12 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.34, 1.18, 2.49, (4.13 p. m. Lakewood only.)

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, 4.13 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.55, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 2.44 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 6.45, 9.55, 10.51, a. m., 2.45, 4.15, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, (10.51 Reading only), a. m., 2.45, (6.45, 8.21 through train.) 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.03, 5.37, 6.35 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.31 p. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.35, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m. 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. — C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after July 9, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

f 10.06, 11.43 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7.41 f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 2.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.35 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m., Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 4.25, 8.26, 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, f 4.04, f 3.44, f 5.43, and f 7.38 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.05, 10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. — J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.

GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express." Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 212 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

John Doe Fined $10.

The unidentified Italian who was arrested Friday night at the band concert for being drunk and causing disorderly conduct, was brought before Recorder Doud Saturday evening. The Italian was released upon paying $10 fine.

PLAINFIELD TAKES FIRST

Shuts Out the County Champions in Initial Game.

THE SCORE—4 TO 0.

Deegan Pitches a Great Game—No Scoring Done After the Fourth Inning.

Plainfield won the first in the series of ten games with Westfield Saturday afternoon at Recreation Park for the championship of Union county. It was a great game. The score —4 to 0— shows that.

As early as 2 o'clock the crowd began to arrive at Recreation Park and an hour later seats were at a premium. Those who came afterward had to content themselves with seats on mother earth at far distant points from the diamond. It was a happy and jolly crowd of the best people of the county and good nature prevailed throughout. All the old-timers—"Red" Waller, Mallen, Barry, Rochford and the rest were there and the Plainfielders were quick to give them a reception and continue it throughout the game. At times "Red" and "Hot Air" lost their heads and would have climbed into the grandstand and bleachers but for timely interference.

It was 3:55, when Umpires Merity and Henning walked to the diamond and the latter taking his position behind "Red" Waller called out the familiar words "Play ball." By this time the crowd was on edge and intensely excited, cheer after cheer being given by the Plainfield fans as Kiernan stepped to the plate. The inning opened auspiciously for the visitors. "Happy" was thrown out at first by Smithson. Turner received a pass, stole second and reached third on Rochford's bad throw to Barry. A second later the fans were brought to their feet when "Kid" Dalton, the new second baseman, smashed the leather sphere to left field for two sacks, scoring Turner. He then came home on Connolly's single to left. Cregan got a fielder's choice, Connolly going out from Waller to Kellogg. "Pete" made the third out trying to steal second, Waller throwing the ball to Rochford and the latter returning it to Kellogg in time to catch him. With the lead of two runs, everyone was jubilant, but Westfield.

"Willie" Deegan, who was chosen for the slab, owing to Beck's illness, divided the honors of the day with Dalton, and with perfect control of the ball he held his opponents safe at all times, allowing but two hits, while Jack O'Neill caught a superb game. He fanned the first two batsmen, Kellogg and Barry, and Rochford went out, Kiernan to Driscoll.

There was nothing doing for Plainfield in the second. Leonard and Driscoll struck out and O'Neill flied out to Bertwhistle. Westfield continued to draw a blank. Smithson was thrown out, from Kiernan to Driscoll, Bertwhistle flied out to short and Mallen struck out.

Both teams failed to do anything in the third act. Deegan flied out to Kellogg and Kiernan and Turner fanned. McGoey was thrown out at first by Kiernan, Cotter was out for bunting third strike, Waller got a pass, but died on first as Kellogg flied out to Turner, the only outfield fly for Plainfield.

The fourth inning again brought joy to the Plainfield admirers, when their team added two more runs to the score. Dalton sent a grass cutter through Barry for a single, Connolly sacrified, going out from third to first, Cregan sent the horse-hide to left for a single, Dalton coming home on Bertwhistle's aerial shoot to third base. Leonard followed with a single to right garden, scoring Cregan, and "Mike" died trying to steal second, Cotter's aim being too accurate. Two runs and three hits were the result, and there was no more scoring for Plainfield, while Westfield continued to draw blanks.

In the last of the fourth act Barry foul-flied to Leonard, Rochford struck out and Smithson flied out to Kiernan.

O'Neill opened the fifth inning with a beaut line drive to center for a single, Deegan sacrificed, going out from second to first base, and Kiernan gave Westfield a chance for a double by driving the ball into Smithson's hands, doubling O'Niell at second. Another short inning for Westfield. Bertwhistle flied out to Kiernan, Mallen went out from Leonard to Driscoll and McGoey foul-flied to O'Neill.

In the sixth inning Turner drove a hot one to Waller, who retired him at first. Dalton fanned. Connolly reached first on a pretty bunt, stole second, but was left there as Cregan fanned. Cotter flied out to Leonard. Waller ditto to Driscoll and Kellogg, who bunted, was thrown out at first by O'Neill.

Leonard opened the seventh inning by flying out to Smithson, Driscoll was thrown out at first by Smithson, O'Neill hit to left garden, but died there as Deegan chopped the air three times. For the other side, Barry was thrown out at first by Deegan, Rochford got the first hit, driving the leatherette to center, went to second and third on O'Neill's wild throw. Smithson then fanned and Bertwhistle flied out to Kiernan, leaving "Mike" at the third station.

Kiernan started the eighth inning with a sizzler to center, Turner in bunting was thrown out at first by Barry, and "Happy" in trying to steal second and third, was caught, Bertwhistle covering third took Cotter's throw down and in the mixup Bertwhistle's thumb was spiked, which delayed the game ten minutes. Dalton closed the inning by flying out to center. Mallen then got the second hit for his team, sending the ball to left field. McGoey flied to Kiernan, Cotter got a fielder's choice, he and Mallen being called safe on a close decision. They remained, however, as Waller flied out to Driscoll and Kellogg was thrown out at first by Dalton.

Plainfield's last try brought no results, Connolly fanning, Cregan going out at first, Rochford unassisted and Leonard being thrown out at first by Waller. Westfield had the same luck, Barry going out on Kiernan's throw to first, Rochford dying by the same route, on Dalton's throw and Smithson flying out to Kiernan.

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss | 0 | 1 | 6 | 2 | 1 |
| Turner, cf | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Dalton, 2b | 2 | 2 | 0 | 4 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 0 | 0 | 11 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c | 0 | 2 | 6 | 1 | 1 |
| Deegan, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Totals | 4 | 9 | 26* | 9 | 2 |

WESTFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kellogg, 2b | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Barry, 3b | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Rochford, 1b | 0 | 1 | 8 | 2 | 1 |
| Smithson, ss | 0 | 0 | 3 | 2 | 0 |
| Bertwhistle, lf | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 1 |
| Mallen, cf | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| McGoey, rf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Cotter, c | 0 | 0 | 9 | 2 | 0 |
| Waller, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 1 |
| Totals | 0 | 2 | 27 | 10 | 3 |

*Cotter out, bunted third strike.

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Plainfield | 2 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | —4 |
| Westfield | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | —0 |

Earned runs—Dalton. Two-base hit—Dalton. First base on balls—Off Deegan, 1; off Waller, 1. Struck out—By Deegan, 5; by Waller, 9. Stolen bases—Connolly. Sacrifice hits—Connolly, Deegan. Left on bases—Plainfield, 2; Westfield, 4. Double plays—Smithson unassisted. First base on errors—Cregan. Time of game—1 hour and 40 minutes. Umpires—Hennings and Merity.

GLENNEY BEATS DUMONT

Will Now Meet Dudley H. Barrows in Golf Championship Finals.

WEEKLY COMPETITIONS

Plenty of Players Out on Both Park and Country Club Courses—Good Scores Were Made.

The remaining semi-final match for the golf championship was played at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday afternoon, when W. L. Glenney beat Morris J. Dumont, by 1 up in 19 holes. The match was close and exciting from start to finish and Glenney's victory was a well-earned one. As a result he will meet Dudley H. Barrows on Saturday in the finals and the match is sure to be filled with interest, as both men are playing their best game.

H. C. Munger won the Consolation cup by beating C. B. Morgan, by 3 up and 2 to play, and E. E. Iremonger won the third eight cup by beating Charles A. Stover, by 3 up and 2 to play.

In the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup, Morris J. Dumont won first honors with a net score of 75. H. D. Hibbard finished second with a score of 76, while J. F. Raymond came in third with 78 net. The best scores returned were as follows:

Morris J. Dumont, 81, 6—75; Henry D. Hibbard, 82, 6—76; J. F. Raymond, 96, 18—78; C. C. Burke, Jr., 94, 14—80; A. T. N. Streuli, 108, 25—83; G. M. Furman, 92, 7—85; W. F. Merrell, 104, 17—87; A. L. Otterson, 97, 10—87; W. P. Boggs, 109, 19—90.

The scheduled clock golf competition for women was postponed, as was also the tennis match on the courts.

A. W. Kenworthy, Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll and R. D. Rice won the points for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club on Saturday with net scores of 82, 85 and 88. The points for the scratch cup were won by Raymond B. Carroll, Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll and Morgan T. Townsend. The leading scores returned were as follows:

A. W. Kenworthy, 103, 21—82; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 95, 10—85; R. D. Rice, 103, 15—88; Alexander Gilbert, 107, 17—90; Raymond B. Carroll, 91, 0—91; Charles W. McCutchen, 111, 19—92; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 105, 8—95; Reuben Knox, 119, 21—98; John L. Watson, 115, 17—98; Morgan T. Townsend, 100, plus 1—101.

Tennis Doubles Tourney.

The Westfield Club has arranged for two tennis tournaments, one in men's doubles and the other in mixed doubles, to be played on the club courts on July 22 and August 5. The tournaments will be open to members of clubs in Union county.

MISSIONS OF THE SYNOD

State Presbyterian Body Recites Needs Because of His Increased Scope.

$25,000 IS NECESSARY.

The Work Which Has Been Done in This Feld During the Past Year—An Explanatory Letter.

The Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey has issued a letter to the various churches throughout the State telling of the work which is being done along home mission lines.

One of the important features of the work thus described is the maintenance of a mission for 600 Hungarians at Wharton, in the heart of the iron mining and milling district. Continuing the letter relates:

"The Synod of New Jersey is the pioneer in the plan for synodical self-support. Eighteen years ago it determined that this State should thereafter take care of its own home mission work without calling on the home mission board for assistance, and without reducing its contributions to that board. That purpose has ever since been carried out successfully, and that pledge to the board has been more than kept.

"This effort to take care of all our own home mission work was called synodical home missions; it is mission work pure and simple, and it is distinctively home missions, for it is done entirely within the borders of our own State.

"The record of this work is one of constantly increasing responsibility and achievement. It has grown each year in the amount of money raised and expended, in the number of churches and missions assisted, and in the varied character of the work required. Feeble churches have been kept alive to bless needy communities; young churches have been nourished till they could stand alone; peoples of strange speech have heard in this, their adopted country, the Gospel in the tongue of their fatherland and have rejoiced in it.

"During the past year 103 churches and missions have been aided; at least 5,500 church members are represented in the churches assisted; and, of course, a much larger number have been reached by the Gospel; 665 have been added to the churches by confession of faith, and 211 have been added by letter. This has been accomplished at an expenditure of $19,250.84. Each year sees many churches approaching and some reaching self-support, there being seven which within the past year have determined to stand alone and ask no further assistance from this fund.

"The work, great as it has been, is only just beginning. Each year sees new demands for help made upon the resources of the fund, and an ever-increasing call for entering upon larger work. These calls must not be ignored and the work already established must be maintained. The work thus carried on and to be carried on, is not confined to one kind, but is divided among no less than four different kinds, each with its own peculiar claim upon the interest and support of everyone who loves to see the Master's work advanced. The work is divided along the following lines, viz.:

"1. The springs in the mountains from which refreshment is flowing yearly into the life of our cities: The trend toward the city has left in weakness and need many a church which was once strong and well able to take care of itself, but which now can be maintained only by assistance from outside.

"2. New Jersey is neighbor to two of the largest cities in the country, New York and Philadelphia, and from these cities an ever increasing number are seeking homes in our State. New communities springing up so rapidly need, and must have churches. And if Presbyterianism is to do its share of the Christian work, aid must be given to these struggling churches in their infancy. In a few years they can maintain themselves and become sources of aid for others, but they must be fostered at first, and the means for this end is the synodical home mission fund.

"3. The danger spots in the body politic are the cities. New Jersey has at least eight cities where mission work is now carried on by aid of this fund. Together with existing church extension committees it aims to seize upon and develop such opportunities for usefulness as may be presented as far as it has the means to act.

"4. Last year the special appeal for work among the foreign population was heard throughout the State. In the last year six different nationalities or races have felt the touch of the Gospel through this fund: Italian, German, Hungarian, Syrian, Armenian and negro. The demand is greater this year than last. The tide of immigration has not stopped, nor even decreased. Special gifts and larger regular gifts are required if the work is to be vigorously prosecuted. So far we are but touching its borders.

"The resources for this work are to be found in the 347 Presbyterian churches which compose the synod, and in the 73,310 members who compose those churches, together with those in connection with the church though not members. It is to the individuals who read this card that God gives the responsibility. If you do not take up this work and support it, it cannot be carried on. It has not invested funds, nor does it count on legacies, but it depends entirely upon the yearly gift of the churches. Synod asks its churches to raise this year for this work $19,667.53, but $25,000 will not be enough to perform all that might be done. The Lord of the harvest lays on each member an individual responsibility for a proportionate part of it."

The treasurer of the synod is William Paxton Stevenson, of Roselle.

HIGH HAT FASHION IS 100 YEARS OLD

BIT OF INTERESTING HISTORY CONNECTED WITH IT.

The high hat is celebrating its centenary this year.

It was in 1805 that the cocked hat of colonial times began to disappear, coincident with the passing of small clothes, and the long brocaded waistcoat of the eighteenth century.

The credit of introducing the "topper," as the beaver was nicknamed, has been credited to the celebrated Beau Brummel, but that arbiter of fashion of the early nineteenth century can only be credited with having introduced a change in its shape. The idea from which the modern high hat evolved came undoubtedly from the headgear adopted in the days of Henry of Navarre by Huguenot officers who wore cone shaped arrangements of hard felt with rolling brims. The hat passed entirely out of use until the revival at the opening of the nineteenth century attacked men's dress.

In 1805 the first high hat appeared in Paris. It had a cone shaped crown with straight, converging edges and a narrow, rolling brim. A wide band decorated with a buckle in front finished the first hat. In eleven years the topper underwent considerable change. The crown became decidedly belled, but the brim, band and buckle remained much the same.

By 1840 the real Beau Brummel hat came into fashion. It was a cumbersome affair of heavy, rough beaver that made the wearer look decidedly topheavy. The buckle hung on for eight years, when the crown assumed almost a modern shape, but the brim became flatter. The crown grew in height as years went on until 1860, when the sartorial monstrosity with a tall, straight crown and a nerrow flat brim afflicted mankind.

Fortunately the "war time" topper was short lived. It had undergone a radical change in shape in five years. The hat of 1865 was more like that of today than the silk hat of 1870, when the brim became narrower once more. In thirty years the silk hat has undergone few changes until today, when the tendency appears to be again toward a flat brim and a tall, slightly belled crown. The silk hat of the present time is not much unlike its ancestor of the period of 1816.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES ON BOARD SHIP

RICHARD P. CURRIER SUCCUMBS TO ATTACK OF HEART DISEASE.

Richard P. Currier, who until last fall resided in the large house at Leland and Berkley avenues, died Wednesday afternoon, July 12, on board the ship Santa Barbara, bound from Seattle, Wash., to Rodoado, Cal. The vessel arrived at the latter port Saturday, when the captain reported the death, saying that his passenger had succumbed to heart disease. The body was placed in charge of a local undertaker and will be brought East.

Mr. Currier was connected with the Legal Aid Society at 28 Whitehall street, New York, and made Plainfield his home. He was also in the real estate business, and it was to investigate some property holdings that took him West. He boarded the Santa Barbara at Seattle, intending to start for home. He leaves a widow and three children, all of whom are in New York at present ,although they have been out to Netherwood several times in the past few weeks. He also leaves a brother, I. L. Currier, of Somerset street.

CEDAR BROOK VICTORS.

Elms Club No Match for Them at Tennis.

In their first match play of the season the Cedar Brook Tennis team easily defeated the Elms Club.

Although Cedar Brook had the sets always well in hand, at times some excellent rallying was done by the Elms. J. Hervey Doane and Vincent B. Miner were Cedar Brook's team, an Sidney Craig and Burroughs played for the Elms. The scores of the three sets were 6—4, 6—2, 6—2.

Arrangements are now on for matches for the Cedar Brooks against the Park Club, Plainfield Country Club and the Westfield Club. These matches will be both in singles and doubles. The same team, Doane and Miner, will probably play in doubles. Among those who will compete to play in singles are Miner, J. H. Doane, Clark, Letson, Hall, Koons and Lounsbury.

MUST ELECT FREEHOLDER

City Charter Makes Action Mandatory Upon Common Council.

BEFORE JULY 26.

Within Thirty Days After Death, Removal or Resignation it is Imperative—The Law in the Case.

According to the city charter, lawyers say, it is incumbent upon the Common Council to choose a successor on the Board of Freeholders to the late Captain J. Franklin Hubbard before Wednesday, July 26. Provision is made for appointment of successors of officials, which are chosen exclusively by the people of the city at an election, within thirty days after death, removal or resignation. Captain Hubbard died on June 26, and the provision in the charter is mandatory.

Section ten of the city charter, adopted April 4, 1872, says: "That in case a vacancy happening in any office created and made elective by this act, by death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, except officers of election, on the day of election, it shall be filled by the said Common Council within thirty days thereafter, and the said appointment shall continue until the annual election, and no longer."

Freeholders are included in this list for in section two it says: "That hereafter there shall be chosen in said city, from among the citizens thereof, on mayor, one city judge, eleven members of the Common Council, one assessor, one collector, one treasurer, two chosen freeholders, two constables. * * *"

ANXIOUS TO BETTER CO. K'S MARKMANSHIP

TO GIVE SPECIAL ATTENTION TO THE LESS PROFICENT.

Notwithstanding the high place in rifle practice heretofore held by Company K, the officers have determined to do all in their power to better it this season by a new method.

The plan generally followed by company officers is to get the men of their command who show a natural proficiency in shooting, down to the State range as much as possible each year so that they can qualify as many as possible for the higher grades, as sharpshooter and expert.

This scheme has the defect of passively discouraging the man who, it may be has no objection to target practice other than the low score he usually makes, an objection which is weakened by every day's honest practice and which is bound to disappear in time. A man who knows that he is liable to make a low score at Sea Girt, it is said, is much less interested in sparing the necessary time from his regular business that the fellow who is used to seeing the figure 5 marked up for most of his shots.

There is another point to sending every man in the command to Sea Girt at least once during the season, and it lies in the fact that the percentage of the company is figured by the department of rifle practice on the basis of 200 points for each expert in the company, 150 for each sharpshooter, 100 for each marksman, 75 for each first class marksman, 50 for each second class marksman, and 10 for each third class marksman; the only man who has a rating that doesn't count something is the fourth class marksman, the fellow who doesn't care enought about the standing of his company to boost it ten points by going to the State range once each season. In other words, if fifteen men out of a company see fit to neglect target practice during the summer, they are costing the company 150 points on their percentage and that is equal to the loss of a sharpshooter. Every man who goes, even though he fails to qualify as a second class marksman, is rated as a third class man and helps the company by ten points.

In addition to this there is always the chance that among the apparently unpromising material, there are one or two good shots in disguise, waiting for a little persistent practice to show them what they are really capable of.

Children Have Fun.

The children at the Netherwood Home had an unusually good time Saturday afternoon. The time was spent in a peanut hunt. G. E. Hall and the Christian Endeavor Society were in charge. After the children tired of the hunt, Mr. Hall kindly furnished 250 bottles of soda and hired a hurdy-gurdy to entertain the children.

Apgar Known Here.

Following a sensational divorce suit, implicating residents of Jersey City's most fashionable section, Louis J. Apgar, named as co-respondent, committed suicide at his home in that place, Saturday, by shooting himself. The tragedy is of interest locally from the fact that Apgar has near relatives in Plainfield and visited this city frequently.

ASSEMBLY POSSIBILITIES

Tillman and Perkins Likely to be Renominated by Republicans.

THE SHRIEVALTY.

Kirkland, Wright, Lawrence and Adams All Have a Chance of Being Nominated for Sheriff—The Outlook.

Warm weather and politics don't go very well together but nevertheless there has been much discussion concerning the probable candidates of the Republican party in Union county for the Assembly and shrievalty. Plainfield will have no nomination to seek for either of these positions and will support those, it is said, whom the county leaders choose to elect.

Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway, and Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, will be without opposition but the third man is not decided upon. The Elizabeth regulars selected former City Attorney C. Addison Swift, of that city, but Mr. Swift prefers to hold down his berth on the county election board and will not accept the nomination. Robert M. Kellogg has asked for the nomination but there is considerable opposition to him.

The McKinley Club, of Elizabeth, has a candidate in Lawyer Charles Arthur Trimble. The club is very anxious to have Mr. Trimble, although its president, Robert B. Cissel, has been suggested. Mr. Cissel, when seen by a reporter, said that his name had been suggested without his knowledge and that he had never mentioned the matter to any one. He further stated that he had never given it the least consideration.

There are four candidates for sheriff. They are Captain Robert J. Kirtland, of Elizabeth, William H. Wright, of Rahway, Dr. William H. Lawrence, of Summit, and Freeholder Emmor K. Adams, of Cranford. Elizabeth wants Captain Kirtland, but a local leader thought Dr. Lawrence would be named.

DIED.

VAN NEST—In North Plainfield, Tuesday, July 11, 1905, Florence V., daughter of Charles H. and Theresa C. Van Nest, aged five years and five months.

WHITNEY—In this city, on July 12, 1905, Susan Curtis, widow of Bennet Whitney, aged 97 years.

PERRINE—In North Plainfield, N. J., Monday, July 17, 1905, Clifford H., son of Richard M. and Euphena C., Perrine, aged 2 years and 5 months.

McKENNA—In North Plainfield, Thursday, July 13, 1905, John McKenna, aged 49 years.

ANDERSON—In this city, July 13, 1905, Maurius Anderson, aged 45 years.

FRAZER—On Thursday, July 13, 1905, Johanna, daughter of James D. and Mary F. Frazer, aged 3 years, 5 months.

ROCKWELL—On Friday, July 14, 1905, Harriet Roberts, eldest daughter of William and Nora Locke Rockwell.

BEECHING—On Friday, July 15, 1905, Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beeching, aged 7 years, 4 months and 8 days.

LITTLEFIELD — At Philadelphia, Thursday, July 13th, John Littlefield, aged 81.

Wanted
Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided.

The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

. The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau
Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and wormanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Scientific American.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN D. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Jeremiah Manning, } Vice-Pres't
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Aves
Plainfield, N.J.

PREPARE FOR CAMPAIGN

Acting Chairman Smith to Give Notice of Appointment of Delegates.

ELECTING OFFICERS.

To Have Names Submitted at Meeting of County Election Commission in August—The New Law.

On account of the death of Assemblyman Edward S. Coyne, who was chairman of the Republican County Committee, Vice Chairman Frank Smith will send to each of the city, borough and township committees this month notice of how many delegates are to be selected by each to the Republican convention in September. This action was decided on at the meeting of the county committee last evening.

It was suggested that the names of the election officers for each district be prepared as soon as possible in order to be submitted to the county commissioners of election at their next meeting. These names should be sent in before the next meeting of the commission in August.

The members of the commission who have just been renamed by Governor Stokes are John W. Murray, Jr., of Plainfield; C. Addison Swift and Robert H. McAdams, Elizabeth; John L. Crowell, Rahway. J. W. Murray, Jr., had still a year of his term to serve under the old law as a member of the defunct County Board of Elections, but he has been reappointed under the new law for a full term of one year, beginning on August 1. C. Addison Swift's term would have expired on August 1. He has been appointed for two years. Crowell has been named for one year and McAdams for two years.

Under the old law this body was known as the County Board of Elections, and was made up of two Republicans and two Democrats. While in practice the board is still composed of two members of each of the big political parties, there is, theoretically, no such qualification. The law now provides that the commission shall be composed of two members from each of the two parties polling the largest number of votes, which covers the objection that Prohibitionists and Socialists are not eligible. They are eligible wherever they are one of the two dominant parties.

The old law was never declared unconstitutional, but the fact that it set up a political qualification was considered a defect. The point was raised in the case of the New Brunswick election officers, indicted last November because they refused to receive the ballots of the voters in an election district in New Brunswick. The Democratic members of the board refused to receive the votes of certain Rutgers students, and then the Republican officers declined to accept the ballots of men thought to be Democratic, and the consequence was that the booth was closed for the day and a large number of citizens were disfranchised. The new law was framed to cover the objection raised by Mr. Strong.

HITS COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

President of Trinity College Declares Sport is Demoralized.

The annual report of President Flavel S. Luther to the trustees of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., made public recently, contains a reference to collegiate athletics. The report says:

The general athletic situation has not improved. More and more the supposed interests of the various sports absorb undly the attention of the few, while healthful and improving recreation is neglected by the many whose physical limitations or whose more important occupations make it unlikely that they can attain athletic distinction.

Trinity has not escaped the widely prevalent demoralization, due to the importance unwisely attributed to thelltic success. We have had unpleasant evidence in our athletic history of blunted moral perception and of an indifference to the means made use of in attaining supposedly desirable ends, almost as discouraging as the corruption largely complained of in American business and politics.

"HIS FRIENDS, THE ENEMY."

Ex-Confederate Soldier Gives Money to G. A. R. Encampment Fund.

One of the recent contributions to the G. A. R. department encampment fund was from Henry Watson Dunn, superintendent of the Delaware and Raritan Canal. In sending the donation Mr. Dunn sent the following to County Clerk C. H. Baker, of the Trenton citizens' committee:

"An ex-Confederate encloses his check to help his friends, the enemy, in their celebration."

Mr. Dunn, who was born in Virginia, went to the front at the age of eighteen. He joined a company of heavy artillery, which was later merged into the Nineteenth Virginia Battery, and was in the war when the army surrendered. Mr. Dunn is a member of a Confederate veterans' camp of New York, which holds campfires every month in the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

George Rittenhouse, of Sandford avenue, has gone to San Francisco, where he will remain several weeks.

TROLLEYS BEHIND AGE

P. S. C. President Admits That West is Far Ahead of Us in Its Service.

Completely rested and in splendid spirits after a fortnight's trip through the Middle West, President T. N. McCarter, of the Public Service Corporation, has returned to his work, brimful of new ideas for improving the local trolley system and adding to the interurban branches. Mr. McCarter went West with the sole purpose of learning all he could of high speed interurban electric traction, with a view to putting such knowledge to practical use when the projected line from Park place, Newark, to Manhattan is materialized.

While the deductions of his experience have not yet been committed to paper—for Mr. McCarter will make an exhaustive report to the exutive committee of the corporation he heads—it is certain that he will acknowledge that the West is far ahead of the East so far as high speed electric traction is concerned. He will also admit that the local system in Fort Wayne, Ind., is the finest he has ever investigated, and that, in many respects, the system of his company will have to be improved before it can compare favorably with some features he saw. Incidentally he lunched with Mayor Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, the leading spirit in the municipal ownership movement, so far as traction systems are concerned, and exchanged ideas with him about perpetual and limited franchises and taxation. While he disagreed with Mayor Johnson in almost everything, Mr. McCarter declares that the Mayor is a charming man, with many splendidly practical ideas, but with fundamentally wrong ideals.

"I went from here to Fort Wayne by train," said Mr. McCarter, "and was met by William K. Schoepf, president of the Cincinnati Traction Company, and one of the ablest traction men in the country. Walton Clark, of our executive committee, acocmpanied me, and we took Mr. Schoepf's private electric car and went over the tracks of the Indiana Traction Company to Logansport, a distance of about seventy-five miles, over a superb line, mostly over private rights of way, save where the line enters a municipality, when it ran over the local tracks. We averaged fifty-five miles an hour between the two treminals, and so splendid are the tracks and roadbed that we shook less than if we had run ten miles over an ordinary system. Then we went on to Indianapolis, another eighty miles.

"The latter line is even finer. The roadbed is of railroad construction, with ninety pound T-rails, mainly single track, with overhead wires, fed from a central station with frequent sub-stations. In Indianapolis we inspected the new union interurban trolley terminal, which is in reality a regular station, such as the steam roads use. To one side of the train shed is a nine story office building of the company, the main floor being occupied as a waiting and baggage room, through which passengers pass to the shed, where electric trains start for all parts of the State. The whole system is unique in its up to dateness, especially as regards the 'limited' which it runs. This train is composed of Pullmans and smokers, and an extra fare is charged for the higher speed maintained.

"Next we went by rail to Cincinnati, where we stayed three days. Then we went to Cleveland and inspected the high speed lines there. I took luncheon with Mayor Johnson and discussed municipal ownership, franchise and taxation with him. While we disagreed on almost all major points, I found him a charming personality and full of practical ideas. From Cleveland we went to Toledo, and on to Detroit, where I learned much about franchises, for the local roads are much perturbed just now by the frequent expiration of theirs. Milwaukee, Minneapolis and St. Paul came next in our itinerary, our last place being Chicago. The latter city's lines are very inferior and seemingly badly managed.

"My deductions? They are too many to enumerate, but I will say that I have learned much, and that we will put many improvements into execution as soon as we can. It is no easy thing to rehabilitate an entire system so large as ours, but it will be done as rapidly as possible, and in the most modern and best way.

"Regarding the Newark-Manhattan sub-surface line, there is nothing new. We have not yet decided as to what system of transmission of power we shall use, nor has the exact route

S. P. C. A. Disbands.

The Elizabeth Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has disbanded. The disbanding of the society is a result of the unfortunate controversy as to the enforcement of the dog ordinance in Elizabeth. The S. P. C. A. has been in existence there for thirty years, during which time it has done much humane work in behalf of the dumb animals. The time, energy and money given by Edward P. Edwards and J. C. Cole, respectively the president and secretary of the society, will never be known to any but themselves. Their self-sacrificing labors have done much to prevent cruelty and to mitigate the sufferings of horses, dogs and other animals—the victims of carlessness, thoughtlessness or brutality.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE IMMIGRANTS

THE TRENTON TRUE AMERICAN DISCUSSES THE SUBJECT.

The Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation has decided upon the call for a national convention to consider the proper distribution of immigrants. It is understood that to aid in this matter of locating practically one million individuals, who come to this country, each year, the Governors of the various states will be requested to send delegates to the proposed convention.

It is to be hoped that Governor Stokes will give due consideration to this important subject.

The True American has frequently called attention to the fact that this State, with Ellis Island at her door, offers to a certain class of immigrants opportunities of the highest importance. Governor Stokes has given especial attention to the matter of reclamation of waste land, particularly in South Jersey, is acquainted with the local phase of the problem of irrigation, and has been a close student of the subject of forestry.

Among the mass of immigrants there are undoubtedly those who could aid in clearing and developing the thousands of good upland and lowland in the "Pines," and who would become wage earners and income producers within a zone whose southern radius would not extend over one hundred miles from New York city.

The object lesson is not wanting. In Governor Stokes' home county of Cumberland, Italians have established their berry farms at Vineland; in the adjoining county of Cape May, the Baron de Hirsch settlement of Hebrews at Woodbine, has converted a desert into a paradise. The Germans of Egg Harbor make wines rivalling those of France, for the product of which nation, under other labels, it is frequently sold. The German and Italian market gardens near Camden are famous far beyond Philadelphia.

The New Jersey problem presents nothing of spectacular interest to the foreigner newly landed on our shores, and it will therefore be somewhat difficult to divert a south-flowing stream of immigration. As suggested, only a class of new comers will be useful in this State, being those having special aptitude, or a willingness to learn. A certain amount of stability will also be required on the port of the immigrants.

Of such New Jersey can assimilate all that can be induced to remain within her borders. It is, however, to be hoped that this State will be represented at the immigration convention, and that Governor Stokes will see the wisdom of appointing men or women, as delegates, who understand the purposes of the convention, and recognize the special needs of the State.—Trenton True American.

PROPERTY TRANSFERS.

Numerous Changes Recorded at Office of Conty Clerk.

The following deeds have been filed in the office of the county clerk at Elizabeth:

Laura M. Lewis et al. to Joseph Harrigan, southeasterly side South Fourth street, corner Joseph Harrigan, Plainfield ............$879.48

Same to Catherine Emmons, southeasterly side South Fourth street, corner Adeline Albert, Plainfield... ....... .................. $1,400

James C. Manning et ux. to Lillian B. Campbell, Denmark road, 217 feet southeasterly of Berkeley avenue, Plainfield ....................$1

James C. Manning et ux. to Plainfield Land and Building Co., Berkeley avenue, 210 feet southwesterly of Denmark road, Plainfield .....$1

Plainfield Land and Building Co. to Laura Lyman, same as above..$1

Jacob Gordon to Vincenzo Vitali, southerly side Washington avenue, 217 feet of Broad street, Elizabeth ..........................$1,200

Amos Clark to William A. Clark westerly side Sheridan avenue, corner Amos Clark, Elizabeth .......$1

Hugh McDonnell et ux. to Annie A. Wyckoff, northwesterly side West Sixth street, corner Arlington avenue, Plainfield .............$2,600

Gertrude M. Fenno to Mary Toney, easterly side Richmond street, 500 feet southerly of Putnam street, Plainfield ...................$2,000

Cormick Caulfield et ux. to Moses Bender, southwesterly side Manson place, corner West Third street, Plainfield ......................$1

The following contract has also been filed:

Michael F. Watson with John A. McNally, entire work new building, southerly side South Second street, Plainfield ...................3,325

Briggs Will Attend.

Seate Treasurer F. O. Briggs will be a guest of the Republican County Committee on its outing to College Point July 29. An acceptance of the invitation extended to him a week ago was received by Chairman William Newcorn, of the outing committee, this morning.

Lawyer Changes Offices.

N. Douglas Drake, Esq., has given up his offices in the Vanderbeek and leased offices in the Jeffery building on Park avenue.

CHURCH TO WELCOME THEM IN NEGLIGEE

CHURCH WILL GREET BAREHEADED WOMEN AND MEN IN SHIRT WAISTS.

The hot weather of last Sunday made a noticeable difference in the attendance at the churches at New Brunswick. Many men and women stayed away and scores of empty pews could be counted in all the churches at both the morning and evening services. There was also a great falling off in the attendance at he Sunday schools and the officers of some of them are debating whether it would not be wise to close up for the balance of the summer.

Rev. J. F. Shaw, in the New Brunswisk First Methodist church on Sunday evening, during the prelude to his sermon, told the congregation that he would be glad to see the women attend the services without wearing hats, and he told the men that if they wished they could come during the hot weather in their negligee shirts without coats. He wants them to come to church, but he also wants them to be comfortable. If the hot weather prevails next Sunday it is probable that many will accept the invitation.

FORESTERS TREINNIAL.

Supreme Court of the Order Will Meet in Atlantic City July 31.

Members of the Independent Order of Foresters are looking forward with considerable interest to the triennial session of the Supreme Court, the highest governing body of the order, which will be held at Atlantic City, beginning July 31 and continuing for one week. Delegates from all parts of the globe are expected to be in attendance, and while there is nothing of any very great import to be submitted, the session, it is expected, will attract widespread attention on the part of the Foresters.

There are about 230 delegates comprising the supreme court, representing the order in almost every civilized country. This body meets once every three years for the purpose of adjudicating all legal or other questions which might arise in the order. The last session was held in Los Angeles.

The arrangements for the meeting are in the hands of the officers of the supreme court, all residents of this section of the country and two of whom are Plainfielders. They are: High Chief Ranger David T. Howell, of Newark; high physician, Dr. A. J. Mitchell, of Newark; high treasurer, Walter Williams, of Jersey City; high counselor, Asa F. Randolp,h of Plainfield; high vice chief ranger, Frederick Storm, Jr., of Jersey City; past chief ranger, Henry H. Lewis, of Plainfield, and high secretary, F. A. MacKenzie, of Elizabeth. Preparations are being made for the reception of the delegates, and a programme is being arranged for the week's stay at the shores.

The State high court of the order in New Jersey will convene on the last Wednesday in September, at which all the local courts in the various communities will be represented.

UP TO DATE MODES.

Handmade French Roses Trim the Modish Hat in the Back.

It takes at least seven large roses to modishly trim the back of the fashionably turned up hat, and as French handmade flowers are used it is no wonder that the milliners are asking such exorbitant prices for their artistic creations.

A pretty blue straw in the short backed sailor shape turned up in the back is trimmed with a wreath of deep red roses. Bunches of them rest becomingly on the hair in the back.

Pale pink coral is very much worn. Brooches, necklaces and bracelets are displayed in varying tints of the pink.

Silk gloves at a dollar a pair come in all fashionable colors of the season.

Silk rubber coats are among the most useful and attractive of the long summer coats.

Pale purple lilacs trim a white chip hat in the short backed sailor shape.

The "polo" hat is to be found in all colors and usually has a great bunch of roses placed at the left side, a rosette shaded ribbon or several wings placed flat on the brim pointing downward toward the back. On a pretty girl of the right type these little "pill box" hats are very fetching.

The Tommy Atkins hat illustrated is of fancy tan straw. On the brim at one side is a full, short bow of brown velvet ribbon. Falling over the bow, and standing upright above it, is a bunch of cherries and foliage.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Adirondacks.

"The Adirondacks and How to Reach Them" is a nice folder with maps and references to localities, hotels, boarding houses, mountains and rivers in the great wilderness of Northern New York known as the Adirondack Mountains. If you visit this region once, you will be sure to go again. A copy of "The Adirondack Mountains and How to Reach Them" will be mailed free, postpaid, to any address, on receipt of a two cent stamp, by George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

INSTRUMENT COMPANIES MAY CONSOLIDATE

STANDARD CONCERN TO MERGE WITH ROCHESTER FIRM.

Plans are now under way for the consolidation of two important industries, one of which is located in this city. The Standard Surgical Instrument Company, located at East Fourth and Washington streets, is about to form a combination with a similar institution conducted by Taylor Brothers, at Rochester, N. Y., and if the deal goes through, it will mean far more work for the local plant and the employment of a larger force.

The Plainfield concern manufactures clinical thermometers, needles and syringes, while the Rochester plant turns out thermometers and needles. There is also a third plant in Brooklyn run by the Standard company, and in case the New York State business is consolidated with the local one, it will also include the Brooklyn plant. At present a force of twenty-five men is employed at the local plant but as soon as the combination is formed it is expected that the force will be increased to double the present number.

The Standard Surgical Instrument Company has the control and manufacture of a clinical thermometer, a patent of one of the employes, which has shown the highest test obtainable at Washington. The patentee was recently offered $10,000 in cash and a guaranteed position of $40 a week for five years, by a rival concern, one of the largest in this country, but he refuses to sell. His present income he considers far more advantageous. The feature of the thermometer is that it has a double bulb at the bottom and with a slight shake the air passes out quickly, while with other makes it is necessary to give several hard shakes to rid the instrument of air.

HAY FEVER AGAIN.

Massaging Your Nose One Remedy for This Distressing Ailment.

Hay fever patients have hope before them in the series of experiments that have been undertaken in the laboratories of Germany. The recent results urge that the sufferer bare his arm and be vaccinated with a serum made from the pollen of plants and later have the mucous membrane of the nose massaged, says the Chicago Post. This cure has been worked by Professor Denker, of Erlangen. Chicago doctors say that it is wise for hay fever victims to take time by the forelock and begin at once to build up the health with tonics, and if robust conditions prevail in the system at the date fixed for the first hay fever paroxysm the attack may be warded off and escape possible, or if it comes the attack will be a light one.

Sneezing days begin as soon as the pollen on the grasses ripen. Sufferers from nose cold have had their hours of discontent ever since the first bud unfolded its leaves in the garden. Their disease is much the same as hay fever, so authorities state, and it is probable that a like sensitiveness to dust and atmospheric conditions exists in both cases. Rose cold comes as soon as the flower perfume is diffused in the air. It is accompanied with watery eyes, sneezing, general discomfort and a much swollen and inflamed nose. Peach fever, beginning later in the year, is akin to both hay fever and rose cold. The name probably suggested itself at the season when peaches were ripe and the first attack of this unhappy influenza set in.

COUNTRY CLUB TENNIS.

Lull in Play Until Tuesday, September 5.

During the early part of the season tennis has been quite a feature at the Plainfield Country Club, the opening event being the mixed doubles championship under the auspices of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association, three days play. Since then there have been women's handicap singles, boys' singles, senior mixed doubles and girls' singles. There will now be a cessation of play until Tuesday, September 5, when the junior mixed doubles will be played for cups presented by Henry L. Hall. Boys and girls under 18 years of age are eligible.

This play will be followed by the women's singles for the club championship and a cup presented by Henry L. Hall, from September 7 to 9, concluding with the men's singles for club championship for a cup presented by George P. Mellick, on September 9 and 16 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Gas Mains in Metuchen.

Metuchen will soon have a gas service. The Metuchen Gas Light Company is now laying eleven miles of mains, five of which are in the borough and six are to connect the line with the big gas main near Rahway Junction. A four inch high pressure main is being laid to the Rahway Junction and a five inch main in Metuchen. Patrick Convery is the president of the company, Robert Convery is the secretary and John W. Whelan is the treasurer.

Keep It in Mind.

Reserve Saturday, July 22, for an outing at Asbury Park with Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, and you will have a good time.

FORESTERS ARE TO MEET

Supreme Court Will Assemble in Force at Atlantic City, July 21.

Members of the Independent Order of Foresters are looking forward with considerable interest to the triennial session of the Supreme Court, the highest governing body of the order, which will be held at Atlantic City, beginning July 31 and continuing for one week. Delegates from all parts of the globe are expected to be in attendance, and while there is nothing of any very great import to be submitted, the session, it is expected, will attract widespread attention on the part of Foresters.

There are about 230 delegates comprising the Supreme Court, representing the order in almost every civilized country. The body meets once every three years for the purpose of adjudicating all legal or other questions which might arise in the order. The last session was held in Los Angeles.

The arrangements for the meeting are in the hands of the officers of the Supreme Court, all residents of this section of the country and two of whom are Newarkers. They are: High chief ranger, David T. Howell, of Newark; high physician, Dr. A. J. Mitchell, of Newark; high treasurer, Walter Williams, of Jersey City; high counselor, Asa F. Randolph, of Plainfield; high vice chief ranger, Frederick Storm, Jr., of Jersey City; past chief ranger, Henry H. Lowrie, of Plainfield, and high secretary, F. A. MacKenzie, of Elizabeth. Preparations are being made for the reception of the delegates, and a programme is being arranged for the week's stay at the shore.

The members are planning a trip to Atlantic City on Thursday, August 3, when a reception will be tendered them by the Supreme Court during the afternoon. In the evening they will attend a function at which there will be ample entertainment provided.

The State High Court of the order in New Jersey will convene on the last Wednesday in September, at which all the local courts in the various communities will be represented.

The Independent Order of Foresters received its birth in Newark in 1874. It began with less than 400 members. It was then an assessment order, but in 1881 this plan was abandoned and the level premium system adopted. The present membership is about 232,600. Of this number New Jersey boasts of 10,000. The accumulated surplus on hand last month was $8,849,000.

"BILLY" NASH GIVES TALK ON BASEBALL

EX-CAPTAIN OF BOSTON NATIONALS, A FREQUENT VISITOR HERE.

There are many old baseball fans who will remember "Billy" Nash, of the Boston Nationals of the old days, and they will be interested to know that he visits Plainfield every week, being located in Perth Amboy and having business that calls him here regularly. For nearly fifteen years Nash was captain and third baseman for the Bostons, where he made an enviable record of which any player might be proud. Today he feels just as young as ever, and says that he believes he could go out and put up a good game; although he has not played in many years.

When he was in the game, Nash had the reputation of being one of the best infielders in the business. When asked if he thought the game today is faster than in the old days, he said he did not think it was. He said that the plays then were just as fast and as for the pitchers he believed they had more strength of endurance than today. It was a frequent occurrence then for a player to pitch fifteen innings and over, while nowadays in such a contest two and three pitchers are used.

Nash is just as much interested in the game as ever and always attends when possible. He believes that Plainfield has one of the best teams in its class in the country and says that it should have no trouble in defeating Westfield in the coming series. In referring to some of the old-timers, Nash says that very few are living today, and of those who are, only a small percentage saved enough to live comfortably. Last season a benefit performance was given by two teams to help a man, who twenty years ago was one of the leading players and manager and who made a fortune in the game.

To Improve Rumson Drive.

The Rumson drive is to be improved next year at a cost of about $60,000. The larger part of the expense is to be borne by the State, as it will be stoned under the State Road Act. The road is nearly five miles long and extends from Red Bank to Seabright.

Schwab Prefers Soda.

Among the distinguished visitors to Plainfield recently was Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, and a party of friends, who stopped at L. W. Randolph's drug store, while enjoying an automobile trip through this part of the State.

ARCANUMITES IN REVOLT

Many Chapters Band Together to Fight New Assessment Plan.

A DETERMINED FIGHT.

Joint Protestants to Formally Open War on Saturday Night at Nutley—Movement Growing.

Members in New Jersey of the Royal Arcanum, of whom there are 25,000, are, in the main, in sympathy with the opposition to the re-rating of the insurance assessment plan of the order, which was adopted at Atlantic City by the Executive Committee of the Supreme Council.

The antagonistic movement is growing, according to the assertions of those at the head of the order in the New Jersey councils. Within a few days the plans of the opponents will have ripened so that a campaign for the withdrawal of the Executive Committee's plan will be actively waged.

The lead in the opposing movement has been taken by Kempton Council, of Nutley. This body declared that while it recognized the necessity of a readjustment of the rates of assessment, it condemned a change that would mean the crowding out of members over the age of sixty-five years. The plan adopted, according to the interpretation placed upon it by the members of Kempton Council, would produce this result, and it was condemned as being contrary to the spirit of the organization and a stultification of one of the cardinal principles of a fraternal order.

Not content with adopting condemnation resolutions, the Nutley Council declared for an open war against the new plan, and placed the fight in charge of a committee of three members—Past Regents Samuel Silverberg and Thomas N. Ritchie and Llewellyn E. Pratt. They were authorized to invite all the other local councils to appoint similar committees, the whole to constitute a council of war to force the Supreme Council to modify or change its new plan of assessment in such a manner that aged members may be given a share in the benefits of the fraternity.

The action of Kempton Council has met with popular response from other councils. Seven Newark councils joined with Kempton, most of them appointing committees to take up the joint fight. Following this, councils in Paterson, Passaic, Orange, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Rahway, New Brunswick and other centers did the same thing.

The first meeting of the point committee will take place next Saturday night at the headquarters of Kempton Council, in Masonic Hall, Franklin avenue and High street, Nutley. It is intended then to formulate a course of action which will include a declaration that the new rate plan is inequitable; that the prosperity and even the life of the order is threatened by the alleged discrimination against older members, and a call will be made on the Supreme Council to reconvene and reconsider the adoption of the new rate.

It is asserted that the proposed action of the subordinate councils has the sympathy of a great majority of the members, and the idea that the opposition is led by the old members, who will be the sufferers if the new rate is enforced, is refuted by the assertion that while the re-rating proposes to bring cheaper assessments to the younger members, it is the latter who are most severe in condemning it, many of them having declared, in the council meetings, that they will be willing to subscribe to a substitute plan that will increase their payments while it will lighten the burdens of the older Arcanians.

A Popular Book.

The new or summer edition of the telephone directory now being distributed is the most satisfactory in every particular of any ever issued by the New York & New Jersey Telephone Co. It contains a list of over 200,000 subscribers, all in and around New York. With such a list it becomes a valuable general as well as telephone directory. The getting out of this books means a tremendous amount of work, about 250 tons of paper is required for the edtion and twenty freight cars are needed to transport the stock from the printers in Philadelphia. The big increase in this list brings up the number of subscribers in the Bell system throughout the country to something over a million. These figures prove the growing demand for the service and the fact that "the telephone's the thing," and that no family or business place should be without it. As a reference or address book the new directory is worth pretty nearly what is charged for a year's telephone service at the present low rates.

They Know the Town.

The proprietors of the Sautelle-Welsh Brothers shows are aware of the fact that Plainfielders will pay almost any price to see a circus. When the aggregation exhibited here last week the price of admission for adults was fixed at fifty cents. At Bayonne and Elizabeth, where it appeared Friday and Saturday, the highest price was a quarter.

FINDS DYSENTERY CAUSE

Board of Health Says Atmospheric Condition is Responsible.

WATER IS O. K.

Dr. Dundon Advises Mothers as to Care of Children—Water Company not Using Tank.

Continuing his investigations to determine the cause of the dysentery epidemic in the borough, Dr. A. H. Dundon, of the Board of Health, has reached the conclusion that the extreme heat has had as much to do with it as any other cause. The statement that the water has been at the bottom of all the trouble is not correct, as in families where cases exist the water is secured from the city mains. In the houses along Harmony street, where the seat of the epidemic has been, the water is secured either from wells or pumps. Several new cases of dysentery were reported today, but there have been no further deaths.

Dr. Dundon advises that mothers be careful of childrens' diet during the heated term and as an extra precaution boil all water used for drinking purposes. They should also be kept in the shade as much as possible, as continued running about in the sun is an inducement to the ordinary summer complaint that precedes dysentery in its worst form.

A rumor that the water company was serving the borough from its supply tank on the mountain led Dr. Dundon to look into the matter, and he learned that this is not so. No water has been drawn from the tank in a long time. At the doctor's request, however, the company readily agreed to empty the receptacle and give it a thorough cleaning in the event of their having to use it within the next few months.

PLAINFIELDER SEIZED IN DISTANT NORWAY

HOGAN HANSEN WILL NOT BE ALLOWED TO RETURN TO AMERICA.

Returning to his former home in Norway last May to visit relatives, Hogan Hansen, for four years a resident of the city, was recently seized by the authorities in his native town and pressed into the army service. He went away from America without taking out citizenship papers, and as a result will not be able to get out of the predicament. Word of what had occurred came from him by letter to his sister, Mrs. Johnson, of Duer street, yesterday, just at the time when she was expecting to learn the date of his return.

Hansen is but twenty-two years old and is a baker by trade. He worked for W. W. Warnock during the greater part of the time he was here and by his genial disposition made many friends. When he went home he was not anticipating any trouble, but the crisis that has been brought on through the severing of relations between Norway and Sweden has led to the seizure of all available young men for military duty in the event of war being declared.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR AT Y. M. C. A. RESIGNS

F. A. HENGKEL TO GO TO BROOKLYN ASSOCIATION.

Physical Director F. A. Henckel, of the Y. M. C. A., has accepted the assistant directorship of the Brooklyn Central branch of the association and will assume his duties there September 1. Mr. Henckel's successor has not been settled upon as yet. John H. Scott, a classmate of M. Henckel at the Springfield Training School, holds the post of chief physical director at Brooklyn.

The retiring physical director came here one year ago September 1, after being graduated. He succeeded C. E. A. Heywood, who is at present in charge of one of the largest gymnasiums in England.

At present M. Henckel is visiting at his home, Albany, N. Y., but will return here August 15, remaining until the time arrives for him to go to Brooklyn.

McCARTHY CONVALESCENT.

Former "Prof" at Country Club is Getting Better.

Friends of Eugene McCarthy, golf professional at the County Club two seasons ago, will be pleased to hear that he is convalescing satisfactorily from the injuries he sustained at Columbia, S. C., about two months ago while riding a vicious saddle horse.

The horse ran away with McCarthy before he was fairly in the saddle, and finally collided with a telephone pole, injuring the rider about the chest and breaking his right thigh in two places. McCarthy is in New York at present with a seventy-pound plaster cast on his leg. Otherwise he appears none the worse for his narrow escape.

LOCAL FIRM OPENS BIG NEW AUTO GARAGE

F. L. C. MARTIN CO. NOW BETTER EQUIPPED THAN EVER.

The pioneers in the local field for bicycle and automobile distribution, the Frank L. C. Martin Automobile Company, of Park avenue, has set the pace for horseless vehicle dealers in the State by adding to its display rooms the largest garage in New Jersey. Workmen in the employ of the firm recently took possession of the building formerly occupied by Van Zandt & Voorhees, adjoining its salesroom, and they have transformed it into a fire proof structure capable of accommodating fifty large-sized cars. Though not yet fully completed, it has been thrown open and already auto owners have been quick to see its advantages and conveniences.

The garage measures 40 by 100 feet, exclusive of a large washroom in the rear, and is to be used exclusively for the storage of machines. With the big repair shop which the firm has had for the past three years and the immense salesroom, the whole establishment has assumed proportions second to none of its kind in the State. The new garage is to be connected with the main department, and offices are to be on each side. Everything that will tend to expedite the repair of cars has been provided, and while owners are waiting they can spend the time in retiring rooms, separate compartments having been fitted up for men and women. A patent pump arrangement supplies gasolene for the machines, the tanks being located at a distant point in the yard to guard against accident. The garage is to be open day and night and in a short time the attention of machine owners will be directed to it by a large electric sign placed over the front entrance.

Frank L. C. Martin, who is president of the company, and George MacIntyre, secretary and treasurer and also manager, will have supervision of the new addition.

THEATRE PROJECT WAS STARTED BY MEHAREY

POSTOFFICE INSPECTOR THE MAN WHO INTERESTED COUNIHAN.

Credit for the establishment of the new theatre here is due to Postoffice Inspector Meharey, who has just been here on a box-smashing case, according to a story told by Postmaster E. M. Bird. Meharey is the man who called Manager Counihan's attention to the city as a good unworked theatrical stand, and got him interested in putting up a playhouse.

It was when Meharey was here on the Reville case, early in the year, that his attention was called to the needs of Plainfield in the amusement line. The case kept him busy in this neighborhood for three or four days, and early in his work on it he told Postmaster Bird he was thinking of bringing his family here and staying overnight.

Mr. Bird invited the inspector to take dinner at his house, and Meharey was just on the point of accepting when he bethought himself of after-dinner amusement.

"What! a town of this size and nothing at all in the way of a theatre? I guess we'll go on to Philadelphia. But this place surely ought to have a theatre. I'll look into this."

Mr. Bird thought the latter observation was an airy nothing, but a few days later Mr. Counihan came to his office with a letter of introduction from Meharey, who is his brother-in-law. He wanted to know all about the theatre situation here. Mr. Bird told him.

Naturally, the old Music Hall was the first thing brought up. Mr. Bird introduced him to William M. Stillman, and a deal for the lease and reopening of a remodelled Music Hall came very close to consummation. At the last moment, almost, the deal fell through. Mr. Counihan by that time was convinced that the thing he most desired was a theatre in Plainfield, and he looked over the field again.

"Is there nothing else in the way of a readymade theatre site?" he asked.

Mr. Bird then suggested Washington Hall. Mayor Smalley heard of the Philadelphian's visit and lost no time in hunting him out, hoping to have a theatre located here. Mr. Counihan looked over the hall, pronounced it good, made the deal with the Elks, and on October 24 the fruit of a postoffice inspector's enforced trip to Philadelphia for an evening's entertainment will blossom in the shape of a perfectly appointed playhouse.

Fourth Census Bulletin.

The fourth bulletin of the New Jersey State census was issued yesterday from the office of the Secretary of State. Among other things it shows Atlantic City's population to be 37,593, an increase of 9,755 over 1900; East Orange, 25,175, an increase of 3,669; Burlington, 8,028, an increase of 646; Asbury Park, 4,526, an increase of 378; Vineland borough, 4,593, an increase of 222.

FINE HARVEST TIME FOR JERSEY CROPS

WEEK'S REPORT SHOWS HIGH TEMPERATURE—TRUCK IN GOOD CONDITION.

Fine harvest weather prevailed throughout New Jersey the past week, according to the climate and crop report just issued by Edward McGann, director of the State section of the United States weather bureau at Atlantic City. The report says:

"The temperature during the week was slightly above the normal. The maximum ranged from 75 to 90 degrees and the minimum from 63 to 70 degrees. Light showers were quite general in all sections on the 3d and in portions of the northern section on the 5th and 8th. The rainfall for the week was largely deficient in all sections. Fine harvest weather prevailed and much hay and grain was housed in fine condition. The former is below the average yield, but the quality is good.

"Thrashing of wheat was begun in the southern portion. Oats are ripening and promise an unusually large yield, but the straw is short. Truck crops are in fair condition, but would be greatly benefited by rain, especially in the central section, where growth and development have been greatly checked for want of moisture. Apples, both early and late, continue promising, although excessive dropping was reported from some places."

OFFSET KNOCKS OUT $200 CONTRACT CASE

DEFENDANT GETS VERDICT FOR $50 IN BROKAW AGAINST FULTOD.

An offset filed by the defendant completely destroyed W. H. Brokaw's contract suit against LeGrande Fulton in Justice Mosher's court Friday afternoon. The jury to whom the case was submitted brought in a verdict of $50 for Fulton.

Brokaw, a contracting carpenter, claimed $200 due on a house erected for the defendant. His original claim was for $253, but he waived the $53 to enable him to bring suit in a small cause court. Fulton is a painter, and he took the contract from Brokaw for painting his own house. On this contract he presented a claim for $305. This left Brokaw, according to the claim, $105 in his debt. The painter's offset was proved, and after twenty minutes' deliberation the jury brought in the verdict for $50, allowing, evidently, for the $53 Brokaw has waived in bringing suit.

Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., was counsel for the defendant, and V. W. Nash, Jr., appeared fo rthe plaintiff.

CHORUS OF 600.

Philadelphia Singers Will Join Ocean Grove Body July 22.

The annual three-day excursion of the members of the Philadelphia Festival chorus and their friends to Ocean Grove and Asbury Park this year will commence on Saturday, July 22. A special train of fine coaches will leave the Quaker City on that date at 8 o'clock in the morning. Those who desire to remain for a longer time can have their tickets extended for the season upon the payment of $1.25.

The Philadelphia chorus will join the Ocean Grove chorus, making a total of 600 voices, in a grand concert at the Ocean Grove Auditorium on July 22, assisted by the following soloists: Corinne Rider-Kelsey, Edward Johnson, Julian Walker, Helen Neibuhr, Frederick C. Freemantel and William Harper.

QUEEN MUST BE BRUNETTE.

Carnival Committee Will Not Select a Blonde This Year.

It has become known that the committee on the choice of the queen for the baby parade carnival at Asbury Park has set its heart on a brunette this year, and the result is that all the pretty dark-haired girls for miles around are flocking to this resort in the hope that Titania's crown will be placed upon their raven locks.

The queen committee, which comprises Frank B. Conover, chairman; Mrs. T. H. Beringer and Miss Fannie Richards, nods its head wisely and keeps its own counsel as to who and what the next baby parade ruler will be, but every pretty girl at the weekly hotel hops is an unconscious candidate for the throne, and those who have watched the members of the committee closely notice that brunettes are in high favor.

The cause of this partiality is given out unofficially that they desire a change from the blonde beauty of last year's queen.

One more event has been added to the series which forms the succession of gayeties during carnival week. This is a queen's reception, which is to be held in the Arcade, August 28 is announced as the date set for the coronation, and the ceremonies will be brought to a close on September 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis M. Thorpe, of this city, are summering at Clinton Hill Farm, Annandale.

READING'S 90 MINUTE N. Y. TRAINS BIG SAVING

ABOUT 5000 HOURS A DAY THE PROFIT TO BUSINESS MEN.

Reading officials who are keen for the ninety-minute express train schedule between Philadelphia and New York have collected some very interesting statistics on the subject. Here are some of the remarkable figures:

Every year nearly 4,000,000 passengers ride between Philadelphia and New York, and the great majority of them ride both ways in the same day.

The daily average of passengers between the two cities is 10,000. Business men form the largest percentage of the total.

To cut off half an hour from the present express schedule would mean an aggregate daily saving to all the passengers of 5,000 hours.

This would be a saving to the business world making the trip between Philadelphia and New York of 200 days every day in the year.

The only obstacle in the way of the new schedule is the Pennsylvania interest on the Reading directorate.

It was learned yesterday that the Reading would have established a ninety-minute schedule to and from New York nearly ten years ago if it had not been for the interference of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Not only had the reduction in running time been determined upon, but the new schedule was actually in the hands of the printer when the Pennsylvania officials learned of the project and sent word that it must be abandoned.

"New York time must not be reduced below two hours," was the message.

Zealous Reading traffic managers sent back word that the company was managing its own affairs. In less than an hour notice was served upon the president of the Reading that unless the old schedule was adhered to the Pennsylvania would retaliate by cutting the prices of anthracite coal.

That settled the ninety-minute schedule for the time being. Whether the same threat or one of a similar nature will be effective this time is doubtful, for President Baer has his heart set upon getting his trains to New York in an hour and a half, and he is hard to dissuade from a purpose when once his mind is made up.

MRS. HAHR'S COMPLAINT LEADS TO DAMAGE SUIT

LEWIS DUNAVAN ASKS $3,000 FOR PROSECUTION AND ARREST.

Sheriff B. Frank Coriell today served on Felix J. Hahr and his wife, Catharine Hahr, of West Fourth street, in a suit for $3,000 brought against them by Lewis Dunavan, a member of the city fire department stationed at West End house, No. 3. The complaint alleges false arrest and malicious prosecution and sets the October term of the Supreme Court as the date for hearing.

The suit is the outcome of various troubles which the parties concerned have had recently and which led to Dunavan's arrest on Mrs. Hahr's complaint of assault and battery on May 20. His trial was set down for May 25, but at that time Mrs. Hahr's counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, asked for an adjournment of thirty days. It was granted and on the new date neither the counsel or Mrs. Hahr appeared and the complaint was dismissed.

Dunavan then consulted his counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and the damage suit is the outcome. The complainant and defendants reside in adjoining houses on West Fourth street.

Elizabeth Getting Old.

Elizabeth will be 240 years old on July 29. At least that date will be the two hundred and fortieth anniversary of the arrival of the ship Philip, bringing here Captain Philip Carteret, with a commission from Lord John Berkeley, and Sir George Carteret, who had bought the territory from the Duke of York. He found a few settlers here, and they produced the Indian deed by which they claimed their right of settlement. Carteret made concessions, and he went up from the place of landing to th esettlers' homes with a hoe on his shoulder, thereby intimating his intention to become a planter. On that day Carteret named the settlemend Elizabeth Town, in honor of Lady Elizabeth, his brother's wife. Perhaps some time Elizabeth will celebrate her birthday, and the recent successes of the Revolutionary anniversary celebrations gives assurances of her ability to do it just right.—Elizabeth Journal.

Judged by Newark Ways.

If the basis of Judge Runyon's claim for the Senatorial nomination in Union county is, as stated by his friends, that he is entitled to something more than $50 a month from the public treasury, then there is no use for his Plainfield supporters to organize. The money question is not going to cut any ice this year.—Newark News.

TWO RAILROADS TO USE ELECTRICITY

PENNSY AND JERSEY CENTRAL TO CHANGE POWER.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, on its main line and branches between Jersey City, Washington and Pittsburg, is to use electricity as a motor power. Developments in the railroad world have brought to the front newer and heavier demands upon the resources of the company. Millions have been spent in the overhauling and strongest spent in the overhauling and strengthening of the roadbeds and the erection of large shops and roundhouses, notably at Trenton and Morrisville, Pa. The enormous increase in freight traffic had been so rapid that the company found it difficult to handle its business. Within the last two weeks, however, all freigth blockades have been removed and the officials of the road were congratulating each other upon the facility with which the business of the company was carried on when the newer problems referred to were presented.

As a result the engineering and motive departments of the corporation are again busy perfecting plans for further improvements that will involve changes along the main arteries of through Western and Southern traffic, as well as local innovations on a scale that will call for the expenditure of more millions.

The new station to be erected in Elizabeth will be recognized as but one of many side issues in the general scheme now in contemplation.

The Central Railroad is considering plans involving the use of electricity as a motive power. With the Pennsylvania Railroad electricity as a motive power is one of the most important objects to be attained in the working out of the plans now in hand in the main offices of the company at Philadelphia. The statement that the steam locomotive has had its day, so often repeated, will soon be realized, and it is not unlikely that within the next five years electricity will be the motive power in use between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

"And if it is practicable on those branches of the road, why not on all of the other branches?" said one of a number of railroad officials, discussing the subject.

One of the first results of the completion of the tunnel under the Hudson River to the new Pennsylvania Railroad terminal in New York will be the running of trains by electricity directly from Newark under the Hudson River, and thence via the Long Island Railroad to all parts of Long Island. The equipping of the Long Island Railroad for electrical propulsion is but a part of this general plan for the retiring of the steam locomotive. The approach to the tunnel on the New Jersey side will practically begin at Newark, where, it may be asserted on pretty good authority, a large power house will be erected. Another immense distributing center of the electrical force necessary will probably be reader on the meadows either east or west of the Bergen Hills. The company is endeavoring to maintain the greatest secrecy concerning its plans for the future, but the further development of the scheme of electrical motive power steadily westward may be anticipated once the plans are fully carried out between Newark and Long Island.

WANTS $10,000 FROM THE TROLLEY COMPANY

HARRY RYAN SEEKS COMPENSATION FOR INJURIES RECEIVED IN APRIL.

Harry Ryan, engineer at the Rushmore Dynamo Works, has instituted suit for $10,000 damages against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Traction Company and the Public Service Corporation. The action is brought in the Supreme Court at Trenton, through Counsellor William Newcorn.

Ryan seeks compensation for injuries sustained in an accident at Watchung avenue and Fourth street April 25. It is alleged that he was thrown and dragged by the sudden starting of the car as he was on the point of boarding it, and that his hurts developed into spinal meningitis, leaving him in serious condition. It is claimed that he is still lame from the effects of the injuries.

Buys Demler Store.

Henry C. Meyers, of Scotch Plains, has purchased of William Demler, of Watchung, the store property recently occupied by the late George Williams, who was murdered by George Wood. Charles Meyers, son of the new owner, purchased of Mrs. Williams the grocery business several weeks ago. The purchase price is said to have been $5,000. Counsellor George Ball was the attorney in the transfer of the necessary papers.

Quietly Married.

Albert G. Perry, Jr., son of Colonel Albert Perry, of Harrison avenue, and Miss Mary J. Shea, of Lincoln place, were quietly married Thursday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons at his home on Park place, with only the necessary witnesses in attendance. The young couple will make their home in the borough.

NO SPECIAL ELECTION

But Law Says Assemblyman Shall Be Chosen to Fill Vacancy.

IT COSTS TO MUCH.

Union County Paid $19,000 to Place Perkins in Embree's Job—No Necessity for Successor to Coyne.

It is not considered at all probable that there will be any special election held to fill the vacancy in the General Assembly caused by the death of Edward S. Coyne, although when George H. Embree died a special election had to be held to fill the required representation for Union county. Then the Legislature was in session and it had a busy term before it. Now the Legislature has adjourned.

The terms of Assemblyman are for one year, and therefore the term of Mr. Coyne would have expired shortly after the first of the year. If Governor Stokes saw fit he could, under the law, issue a writ for a special election, for section 135 of the General Election laws of 1904 reads:

"Whenever any vacancy or vacancies shall happen in the representation of this State in the House of Representatives, it shall be the duty of the Governor forthwith to issue a writ of election to fill such vacancy or vacancies, unless the term of service for which the person or persons whose office or offices shall become vacant will expire within two months next after the happening of such vacancy or vacancies."

The cost of the special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George H. Embree was something like $19,000. At that time it was thought that the election was a needless expenditure, and there is a strong feeling that there is no necessity of a special election to fill Mr. Coyne's place, in view of the fact that there is but little probability that a situation will arise before the expiration of Mr. Coyne's term which would call for a special session of the Legislature.

It will be remembered by those who followed the discussion as to whether the last special election was absolutely necessary according to the strict interpretation of the law, that the Attorney General at that time expressly stated that the word "shall" as it applied to the Governor issuing a special writ of election, was mandatory.

The situation with regard to the present exigency is quite parallel. The State Constitution has this to say in reference to this matter:

"Each House SHALL direct writs of election for supplying vacancies, occasioned by death, resignation or otherwise; but if vacancies occur during the recess of the Legislature, the writs MAY be issued by the Governor under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

In Article 5, under the head of Executive and in the twelfth section it says: " * * * When a vacancy happens during the recess of the Legislature in any office which is to be filled by the Governor and Senate, or by the Legislature in joint meeting, the Governor shall fill such vacancy and the commission shall expire at the end of the next session of the Legislature unless a successor shall be sooner appointed. * * * "

Now the question has been brought up as to whether it is mandatory with the Governor to issue writs for a special election. According to the opinion of Attorney General McCarter, when the last special election was held, if the Governor does not order a special election he will be evading the law, and if he does order the special election the outcome will be practically a needless waste of money, which will have to be borne entirely by Union county.

FIGHT 'PHONE TRUST.

Independent Company to Operate Along the Entire New Jersey Coast.

An independent telephone company that will unite with the other independent companies in the New England, Middle and Southern States in opposition to the Bell companies filed articles of incorporation in the Hudson county court house at Jersey City. The name of the new company is the Coast Line Telephone Company of New Jersey, and its capital stock is put at $10,000,000. Simultaneously, it is stated, articles of the Coast Line Company were filed in South Dakota.

The latter is capitalized at $1,000,000. The New Jersey company is to be a constructing company and the South Dakota company an operating company. The president of the construction company is D. A. Reynolds, of Manhattan, manager of the Atlantic Telephone Company, and the head of the operating company is Elias S. Beach, also of Manhattan.

The articles were files in Jersey City by Counsellor William Midlidge, who stated that the new company would cut rates and put the telephone within the reach of almost every person and make it as common in the East and South as it is in the West, where low rates prevail.

Mrs. Walter Hoffman, of Farmersville, was operated upon at the hospital recently for an abscess in her side. She is now convalescing.

E. S. COYNE IS BURIED

Large Gathering of Officials and Other Personal Friends at the Obsequies.

SERVICES AT HOME.

Judge Cross and Hamilton Kean Among Honorary Pall Bearers —Resolutions of Respect Adopted.

The funeral of Assemblyman Edward S. Coyne were held at 2 o'clock Fridya from the late home in West Jersey street, corner of DeHart place, and were attended practically by all of the county officials, as well as the officials of this city, Elizabeth and other towns in the county. Rev. Dr. Everett K. Tomlinson, pastor of the Central Baptist church, of which Mr. Coyne was a member, conducted the services, which were short and simple in character.

There was a wealth of floral offerings from the organizations to which Mr. Coyne belonged. In accordance with the wish of the family, the members of these organizations attended as individuals, it being their desire that the services should be as unpretentious as possible. The floral tribute from the Union County Republican Committee was a vacant chair.

The honorary pall bearers selected for the funeral were Hamilton F. Kean, Franklin Brooks, Frank H. Davis, Hon. Joseph Cross, C. H. K. Halsey and Charles P. Russ.

The Union County Republican Committee met at Elizabeth last night to take action on the recent death of Assemblyman Edward S. Coyne. Vice-Chairman F. H. Smith, of this city, was in the chair. The request of the family was that the many organizations to which Mr. Coyne belonged attend the funeral services to be held from the late home this afternoon as individuals and not in a body.

The committee adopted resolutions concerning the death of Mr. Coyne and the secretary was instructed to send a copy of them to the family. The committee on resolutions comprises Former Assemblyman William Newcorn, Chester M. Smith and William F. Hall.

The Colored Republican County Committee met in Elizabeth Wednesday night and adopted resolutions of condolence.

DUNELLEN CITIZENS AROUSED OVER WATER

SUPPLY SCARCE FOR OVER A MONTH—PETITION TO COUNCIL.

Indignation over the service accorded them by the Watchung Water Company is stirring the citizens of Dunellen more and more each day. The conditions for the past month have been growing worse instead of better, in spite of repairs at the Greenbrook pumping station, which were supposed to remedy the difficulty. Unless the service is bettered, action by the borough council is likely.

When the scarcity of water was noticed first, about six weeks ago, it was attributed by the water officials to the scarcity of rain. Then they discovered that the flue of their plant was not in good condition and hazarded the opinion that this might be the cause. They announced that the flue would be repaired and promised better service as soon as it was attended to. This was more than two weeks ago, and the service is still of the most inadequate character.

Early in the trouble the water almost ceased to flow entirely for two weeks, and again on Sunday it failed completely. At no time during the past month has it been more than the merest apology for service, and the citizens have become thoroughly aroused.

A petition is being circulated among the householders and property owners asking the council to investigate the matter, and take such steps as may be calculated to compel the company to remedy the conditions, if the latter spring from negligence or incompetence, or, in any event, to force the company to make allowance for the lack of service in the bills presented.

The lack of pressure causes much uneasiness among the fire officials. There is actually so little force to be depended upon in the hydrants that the firefighters, under present conditions, would have to depend on bucket brigades and well water, or call on the Plainfield steamer, in the event of a blaze. The seriousness of this aspect of the matter cannot be overrated.

Hiram Woodruff, of the borough, is enjoying his annual vacation.

Miss Marion Worth, of this city, has returned from a visit with Somerville friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schwartz and daughter, Edith, of West Front street, have been visiting relatives at Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Woodhull, of West Front street, will leave the first of the week for Lake Hoptacong, where they will remain at their summer cottage.

IN LETTER TO REPUBLICAN CLUB RUNYON ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

City Judge Consents to Stand For State Senatorial Nomination.

STATES HIS POSITION

Wants No Factionalism — Club Has the Right Ideals, He Says— Its Constitution Adopted.

Meeting for the second time in the rooms of the Arion Club on North avenue, Monday, a large number of local voters completed the organization of a Republican club and had read to them a letter from City Judge William N. Runyon, in which he joins with them in their stand for clean politics and becomes their candidate for the Senatorial nomination. His acceptance was greeted with applause and the enthusiasm of the gathering was almost doubled. The letters is as follows:

CITY JUDGE WILLIAM N. RUNYON.

"Mr. Henry L. Hall,
"Plainfield, N. J.

"My Dear Mr. Hall:

"I beg to submit herewith a statement regarding my position with reference to the Union county Senatorial nomination, and an outline of my views concerning the Republican organization effected Friday evening last.

"In the matter of the Senatorship, I should have been extremely glad to do all in my power for Mr. Fisk or Mr. Gilbert, had either gentleman decided to accept Plainfield's support for the nomination, because I, in common with all others, regard them both as pre-eminently qualified to discharge the duties of the office with great credit, not only to themselves, but to the county and State. Inasmuch, however, as both gentlemen have declined the honor, leaving the field practically open, and inasmuch as I have been repeatedly and sincerely urged to allow the use of my name in this connection, I have decided to accede to the many requests which have been made, announce my candidacy for the nomination for Senator, and leave all else in the hands of those who may desire the accomplishment of this end, asking of my friends, both in and out of this organization, but one thing, that my candidacy be carried out upon absolutely fair and square lines, and that whether success or failure attend your efforts, no slightest suggestion of taint or trickery attach to our actions.

"To the objects of the new organization as explained by you I most heartily subecribe. I believe that a well managed association, having in view only the highest and purest motives, and resolved to accomplish them only by the highest and purest means, must command the respect and support of every right-thinking citizen of Republican preferences, and I shall be very proud to join and help further, so far as I can, the interests of such an organization in my native city.

"I agree with you entirely, however, that this organization must not start with the idea of engendering factionalism in Plainfield, but have for its avowed and sole object the nomination and election of the best men for every office. An association espousing any sort of factionalism will soon become a house divided against itself, and worse than useless, whereas, if continued along the lines as now, projected in your association, it cannot fail to militate toward making our Plainfield Republicanism akin to that which existed when the party was formed.

"Thanking you most heartily for the confidence reposed in me as implied by your committee's message, and with a firm resolve to prove myself at all times worthy of it, I beg to remain,

"Very truly yours,
"WM. N. RUNYON.

HENRY L. HALL,
President Plainfield Republican Club.

"Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1905."

The new organization is to be known as the Plainfield Republican Club and on Friday evening of this week, the enrollment of members will commence. According to the constitution as adopted last night, its objects are: To advocate, promote and maintain the principles of Republicanism as communicated by the Republican party; to direct and interest in politics those who have more or less indifferent to their political duties; to encourage attendance at the caucus or primary meetings, in order that honest and capable men may be nominated; to guard and defend the purity of the ballot box, and to perform such other work as may best conserve the interests of the Republican party, nationally and locally, thereby exerting the most potent influence in behalf of good government.

The meeting was in charge or Henry L. Hall, of Netherwood, elected president last wek, who told of the committee calling upon Judge Runyon to secure his consent to stand with the promotors.

"We told him," said Mr. Hall, "that the organization was not formed for the purpose of promoting factionalism, as stated in Saturday's issue of the Courier-News, but to purify politics. We also said that his candidacy for the Senatorial nomination would have to stand on lines as broad as those of the organization, that we wanted clean politics to represent the young men of Plainfield and the best men of Plainfield. He told us that he was under obligations to no one and suggested that he write the letter giving his views."

Following the reading of the letter, the following motion was made by C. T. Elliott and unanimously adopted: "Resolved, That Judge Runyon's letter be accepted and that he be our candidate for senator and that we pledge our hearty support to his candidacy."

The remainder of the session was devoted to the transaction of general business, during which Joseph M. Shellabarger was appointed a member of the executive committee.

Corporation Taxes.

The State Board of Assessors has filed with the State comptroller schedule No. 3 of the miscellaneous corporations. This schedule contains 562 companies and the taxes on them amount to $96,786.96. The three schedules filed contain 6,646 corporations representing taxes due to the State amounting to $2,561,951.53.

West Ends' Next Game.

The West End A. C., of Somerville, will play the St. Agnes Lyceum team from New Brunswick Saturday afternoon at Cammann Filed. A son of John Harkins, the erstwhile crack twirler of the local nine in the palmy days of the West End-Crescent series, covers first base for the Lyceum nine, and is a batter like his father of old.

ARCANUMITES ORGANIZE

Campaign is on Against the Increase of R. A. Rates.

PLAINFIELD IS IN IT.

Regent Lowry Appoints Degelates to Session to be held at Jersey City on July 31—D. W. Littell is Chairman.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will be represented at the meeting of the organizations of the order in New Jersey to be held as a protest against the increase in rates recently adopted by the Supreme Council. The session will be held in Elks Hall, Jersey City, on Tuesday night, July 31, and will be attended by delegates of practically every council in the State. Plainfield Council passed drastic resolutions at its last meeing and has joined in the "rebellion" in earnest.

Regent Lowry has named prominent men to attend the session as delegates from the local council. D. W. Littell is made chairman. The other members of the committee are Floyd T. Woodhull, D. E. Titsworth, Salmon C. Baker and L. B. Woolston. Jersey City started the campaign and it has found recruits in all sections of the State.

Representatives of twenty-nine councils of the Royal Arcanum in New Jersey, including nearly all the organizations of the order in the counties of Essex, Union, Passaic, Hudson and Bergen, met in Masonic Hall, Nutley, with Kempton Council, Saturday, and formed a permanent organization to fight the new rate schedule adopted at Atlantic City by the Supreme Council.

The most prominent men of the various councils attended. Among them were a past grand regent and several past regents. Some of the councils represented had tentatively or actually accepted the new rate.

The chairman of the joint meeting was C. J. E. Noelte, of Avaret Council, Jersey City. In view of the fact that the delegates present represented the Northern New Jersey councils only, it was proposed at first to restrict the permanent organization to that section, but when assurances were given that the same spirit prevails practically throughout the entire State, it was decided to make the movement embrace all New Jersey.

The discussion of the question of rates was exhaustive. A resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote, demanding that the Grand Council of New Jersey petition the Supreme Council to reconvene before October 1, the date on which the new rate schedule is to go into effect, and abandon that schedule. A committee of fifteen will be appointed to carry on the fight.

The plan of practically forcing from beneficial membership those who reach the age of sixty-five years was bitterly denounced by many of the delegates with broad hints that the hind of the old line insurance companies might be discovered in it.

"What is to prevent these men from making other changes at some future time that will shelve our members from the anticipation of benefits at a younger age than sixty-five, if we do not place an effectual check upon this movement and force a return to the old rates?" asked one delegate.

One member proposed that the court be asked for an injunction restraining the National Council from putting the re-rating schedule into effect, but this was frowned down.

"The logical sequence to an injunction will be a receivership," said another. "If the Grand Council shall refuse to do our bidding and the Supreme Council ignores us, we must remember that they are out creatures, and it is within our power to turn them out and send men to these higher councils that will do our bidding. We may not do it this year or next, but we may eventually succeed.

"If, however, we cannot make them yield, the time may be opportune for the formation of an 'American Arcanum,' where the spirit of fraternalism will be properly fostered."

In advocating a return to the old rate schedule it was generally agreed that to strengthen the finances, an additional assessment, at the old rates, might be made at stated periods, such as once each quarter. Under this plan with 300,000 membership, $1,200,00 would be raised the first year, with increasing amounts as the membership increases in future years.

Gowns for All State's Courts.

The determination of the judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals to wear black silk gowns, similar to those of the Federal jurists, has resulted in the decision to wear gowns in all of the State courts. Chief Justice Gummere declared the effect will be especially beneficial in criminal cases, where the aim is to impress the criminal classes with the dignity and majesty of the law.

Next Sunday night, July 23, there will be a special musical service by the choir of Trinity Reformed church, and on the last Sunday evening in the month, July 30, the commencement of Dr. Schenck's vacation, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

NINETY MINUTE TIME MAY BE IMPACTABLE

IT MEANS 78 MINUTES ACTUALLY BETWEEN PHIA. AND JERSEY CITY.

There is a feeling among some railroad men that the proposed plan of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad to operate hourly trains between Jersey City and Philadelphia on an ninety minute schedule, will not prove a success. They say that allowing twelve minutes for crossing the ferry, leaves but seventy-eight minutes for the run to or from the Quaker City.

According to the present schedule 120 minutes is allowed for the run between the two cities, and eliminating the twelve minutes for the ferry, 108 minutes is taken for the trip. If the new schedule is adopted it will mean a cutting off of thirty minutes in the run, and there are railroad men who look upon the matter as impracticable, yet President Baer, of the Reading, has always been anxious to make the run in ninety minutes.

GIRLS' HOME MANAGERS HAVE ADOPTED PLANS

ADDITION WILL BE 130 FEET LONG, ACCOMMODATING 30 INMATES.

Plans for the addition to the State Home for Girls, at Trenton, were adopted by the managers of the home at a meeting Saturday afternoon at the summer residence of Mrs. Welling G. Sickel, Spring Lake. Mrs. Sickel is a member of the board, and the managers met at her home by invitation, as several of them are spending the summer in that vicinity.

The plans were drawn by George E. Poole, assistant commisioner of charities and corrections. They were adopted as presented, with the excep*tion of a few minor changes. The* new structure will be 130 feet long and built of brick. It will provide accommodations for thirty girls, besides the necessary rooms for administration purposes. The building will cost $45,000.

At the close of the meeting Mrs Sickel entertained the members at luncheon. Those present were President Thomas P. Fay, Long Branch; Mrs. Frederick Johnson, Newark, vice-president; John D. Rue and Thomas B. Holmes, of Trenton, and Mrs. Elizabeth V. Mansell, superintendent of the home.

GOVERNOR STOKES A BAD JUDGE OF WATER

DECIDED ON MERIT OF WRTER FROM TWO SPIGOTS.

"I do believe the new water is the colder," said Governor Edward C. Stokes, after sampling drinks from two spigots, labeled "new water" and "old water," at the cigar store of Mark Smith, in Millville.

There has been some contention between the Millville Water Company, which furnishes rain water to the city, and its rival, the People's Water Company, which draws its supply from artesian wells. The product of the former company is known as "old water," and that of the latter as "new water."

When the Governor made his observation, after trying a drink from each of Smith's spigots, a smile went the rounds of the bystanders.

The executive was puzzled until he was told that both spigots tapped the same barrel of ice water. That was Smith's joke.

LET ALL BEWARE.

It is a crime in New Jersey to lounge in the open air on a summer day. It must be so, for Justice Von Minden, of Dunellen, has committed a man to jail for this offense, and the justice ought to know a bit about law, for he has served on one of Middlesex county's distinguished Grand Juries and heard the law expounded before this body, and besides he is a justice and therefore full of law.

William H. Klein is the poor unfortunate who got within his jurisdiction yesterday and he is serving a term of 60 days in jail. The poor fellow, with the thermometer at 95 degrees, sought the open air to get relief from the hot wave. In Dunellen one can get all the relief possible indoors, but to venture out and lounge in the open air is a high misdemeanor, and woe betide the man who is so thoughtless as to venture out of doors and "lie down in green pastures," to be scriptural.

Look at Klein's fate. He is in jail, where he supposedly must stay until September 7, all because he was caught in the open air. The charge as set forth upon the commitment on which Klein was taken to jail reads that he did "lounge in the open air and failed to give a reasonable and good account of himself."

Let this be a warning to all persons who seek this sort of comfort. Stay in doors or you may find yourself in jail if Justice Von Minden happens to come this way.—Perth Amboy Chronicle.

FATALITY MARS PRACTICE

Company K Riflemen at Sea Girt When Marker is Killed by Accident.

DUE TO CARELESSNESS

Three of the Plainfield Men Qualify as Marksmen — Next Trip on July 26.

A party of riflemen from Company K, of this city, which went to Sea Girt, Saturday, in charge of Lieut. John M. Lewis, had their day's practice cut unexpectedly short at 4:30 in the afternoon owing to an accidental fatality among the markers.

John Barenberg, twenty-one years old, of 419 East Eighty-eighth street, New York, chief marker of the 500-yard hit, was shot through the body while in an exposed position on the open slope in the rear of the 500-yard targets, having left the protection of the pit without first telephoning to the range officer to see that the coast was clear.

Barenberg was employed last season as a marker and bore a good name for carefulness, which led to his being placed in chrage of the butts on the 500-yard range. He was shot during the progress of a skirmish run and died before Surgeons Bray and J. H. McCullough reached his side.

On July sixth, when the first delegation from the local company went to Sea Girt for target practice, an instance of this sort of recklessness was seen and commented upon. One of the targets jammed so that it could not be withdrawn and the marker climbed out of the pit and started to clear the target, but changed his mind when a Krag-Jorgensen bullet struck the edge of the embankment in front of his target, showering him with dust and causing him to retreat with more speed than grace.

Lieutenant Lewis took thirteen men of the Plainfield company to the range and out of that number Privates Manning, Mundy and Richardson qualified as marksmen, in spite of the early close of the range which prevented many of the others from completing scores which would have qualified them without any doubt.

The others in the party were Corporals A. R. Phillips, A. R. Tranchand and J. B. Conkling, and Privates Nelson Peterson, Ferris Pearsall, W. E. Bond, Oliver Ulmer, R. A. Weaver, W. B. Mosher and S. E. Beetham.

Of this number, Corporals Philips and Tranchand and Private Bond will go down again to complete their qualifying scores; Corporal Phillips as expert and Tranchand and Bond as sharpshooters.

The progress in rifle shooting has been all that could be desired so far this season, twenty-eight out of thirty-seven men who have gone on the range having qualified. This is exclusive of Captain W. B. Martin, who has not, as yet, qualified, being engaged in the competition for places on the State team.

The next trip to Sea Girt will be made on July 26th, at which time it is expected that those who were prevented from finishing Saturday, will all be on hand to complete their scores. It is also probable that a party from Plainfield will go to the range on the 29th of this month so that every member will have an opportunity of showing what sort of material he has in his make-up.

Quartermaster-Sergeant Albert I. Littell, who has been prevented for over a year from all practice, except at the armory range, as the result of an accident, and who is one of the finest shots in Co. K, will go to Sea Girt on one or the other of these trips. Littell is looked upon as another strong possibility for the State team.

COYNE'S SUCCESSOR MAY BE R. B. CISSEL

ELIZABETHIAN MENTIONED FOR REPUBLICAN COUNTY CHAIRMANSHIP.

Robert B. Cissel, of Elizabeth, is prominently mentioned by politicians in that city in connection with the Republican county chairmanship succession. He is also supported by politicians throughout the county, and it is claimed can easily get a majority of the board to endorse him for the place.

Another suggested for the office is Vice Chairman Frank H. Smith, of this city. Mr. Smith is the former collector of taxes in this city and at present fills the position of register of deeds of the county. He is popular with the politicians generally.

High Price for Rare Quarto.

A perfect copy of the fourth quarto edition of Shakespeare's "Tragedie of King Richard the Third" has been sold at Sotheby's, in London, for $8,750 to A. Jackson, and it is understood that it will come to America. The book was printed in 1605 by Thomas Creede, and was sold by Matthewe Lawe, "dwelling in Paule's Church Yard at the signe of the Fox, near S. Austins Gate." It consists of forty-six leaves.

CAVE-IN AT NETHERWOOD TUNNEL BURIES GANG OF EIGHT WORKMEN, INJURING FIVE

A Boat Tour of Jersey Coast.

The time has come when even the most dilatory can no longer postpone their flight to the beaches or suburban resorts. It is now that people have nothing but good to say of New Jersey as they seek sanctuary from the terrors of the "man-stifled town." Once on the swift Sandy Hook boat and every discomfort of the overheated city is left behind. Atlantic Highlands, an imposing bluff forming the northern end of the Highlands of Navesink, is about an hour's sail from New York. There is splendid anchorage which is always alive with craft from one end of the season to the other. The New York Yacht Club has a sub-station here and it is the home of the Pavonia Yacht Club. From the Highlands there is an extensive view in all directions. Sandy Hook points toward the north like an index finger, with its lighthouse, life saving and signal stations, fort and barracks. The Narrows are plainly discernable and the sandy shore of Long Island stretching east. The blue hills of Staten Island are seen to end abruptly at Raritan Bay. Toward the south lies a fertile farming country, prettily divided by streams and marked with groves. The resorts along the shore run the gamut of all attractions, so that to the fastidious it is only a matter of a short search to find the heart's desire. There are romantic scrambles over the hills; beautiful drives through the back country; still water bathing from the long piers, and fishing and yachting. Transient visitors and tourists may hoose their quarters from among hundreds of well kept hotels. There is an all rail line to the Jersey coast besides the Sandy Hook route. Upon application to C. M. Burt, General Passenger Agent, Central Railroad of New Jersey, New York, a hotel book and seashore time table will be sent free to any address.

GERMAN FAIR.

The members of the Gesang and Turn Verein have decided to hold a fair for one week in October, the date to be decided upon later. At a meeting held recently this committee was appointed: A. Wolf, chairman; R. Blyer, corresponding secretary; Joseph Haurand, financial secretary; Frank Gelig, Sr., treasurer; Fred Schmidt.

This committee will meet with the ladies' section in a few days, when a similar committee will be appointed by the women and further arrangements will be completed.

Battin School Head.

William F. Little, of Stamford, Conn., was elected principal of the Battin High School, at Elizabeth, at a salary of $2,000 a year by the Board of Education Thursday night. Although no provision was made by the board of school estimate in the budget for a principal, the school law permits the Board of Education, according to one member of that body, to use money set aside for one purpose for another appropriation, and under this clause the Board of Education was empowered to cut down some of the expenses for several purposes, and apply them to the salary for the principal of the High School.

Voehl Residence in Ashes.

The residence of William Voehl, at Dewey Park, was totally destroyed by fire on Saturday night. The cause of the fire is attributed to an oil stove that was left burning in the kitchen near a window. On the window sill lay a newspaper, which the wind blew on top of the stove, causing a blaze that quickly caught the window shade and woodwork. The members of the family were sitting on the front porch, and when the fire was discovered the blaze had spread over the entire kitchen. The fire department of Dunellen responded to a call from the residents of that community, but the house was located beyond the limits of the water supply system and nothing could be done. The loss is estimated at $2,500, which is partially covered by insurance.

P. B. C. Pupils at Work.

Some recent graduates of the Plainfield Business College hav ebeen successful in securing positions. Miss Edith Pennington is bookkeeper for Howard Allen; Miss Catherine Wall has secured a position as stenographer for Lawyer Beekman, of Somerville; Miss Alice Sharkey has taken a similar position with F. L. C. Martin; Miss Theresa Haynes has a position as stenographer and typewriter for C. W. Spicer, while Miss Dayton is substituting for Miss Mattison at the Board of Health offices while the latter is on her vacation.

W. S. Campbell Hurt.

Willian S. Campbell, of West Front street, had a bad fall on Park avenue a few days ago. One of the iron sidewalk doors in front of Craig A. Marsh's building, turned up at the corner and Mr. Campbell caught his foot under the door and was thrown to the pavement. Although he suffered only a few bruises and the tearing off of the sole of his shoe, he was mortified at his fall and his friends are trying to persuade him to bring suit against the owner of the building for damages to body and feelings.

Jar of Express Train Loosens the Ground, Causing Tons of Earth to Drop.

VICTIMS AT HOSPITAL

Prompt Work of Section Hands Prevented Loss of Life—Remainder of Laborers Refuse to Continue Excavating.

Jarred by the passing of an express train, the earth above the tunnel being excavated under the Jersey Central tracks at the Netherwood station, caved in Tuesday, burying eight Italian laborers working beneath it. But for the fact that assistance was near at hand several of them would have been killed, the tons of loose sand and gravel hiding them from sight. As it was, five received injuries of more or less consequence that necessitated their removal to Muhlenberg Hospital.

The victims are John Romano, aged twenty, of New York, factured ankle and contusions; Francisco Casado, aged forty, of this city, severe contusions about the hips and possible internal injuries; Zeppie Umborto, aged twenty-four, of Elizabeth, abrasions and a slight wound of right elbow; John Manjanco, aged twenty-seven, of Fanwood, abrasions and Agneliow DeLamo, of Elizabeth, contusions and crushed toe. All were suffering from shock but Manjanco and DeLamo left the institution after receiving treatment. The others will be detained at least several days.

The tunel work is being done by the McCloud-Brennan Company, of Elizabeth, and at present is in the early stages. The Italians started boring in from th north side of the tracks, shoring up as they went along. It has been their custom to dig in several feet or more and then jar down the greater part of the earth above, trimming to the height desired. The tracks are at a high elevation at this point and a great deal of ground has been left above, forming an arch. It was this part that dropped suddenly, just where there was no shoring, catching the eight men beneath.

Several other laborers on the outside yelled for assistance and Section Foreman James Hannon's gang, working a short distance away, were huried to the spot. They soon extricated all but Casado, who was the last one taken out and who was but partially conscious. The three most severely injured were hurried to the hospital in the ambulance and the other two went by trolley.

The cave-in caused a suspension of the tunnel work as the remainder of the Italians refused to continue because of fright. An accident of this nature always means the securing of another gang as without exception, the injury of one will cause the others to quit.

HIS HEAD IN A WHIRL; GOT BADLY TANGLED UP

TOO MANY MAMIE TAYLORS CAUSE MAN TO BELIEVE HE WAS IN WEST END

Under the impression that he was in West End, near Long Branch, Andrew Currin, of the former place, landed in town from a New Jersey Central train Monday and engaged a cabman to take him home. His head was in a whirl from a score or more of Mamie Taylors imbibed in New York and he gave the cabby a half dozen different addresses as his destination. When none of them panned out, he discharged the driver and went into a saloon to think it over. Somebody there set him right as to the town he was in, and he started back for the depot, but his feet got tangled so badly that a cop took him in.

To Judge Runyon this morning he said he had gotten on the wrong train at Jersey City and mistook the Plainfield station for the one at West End on the Long Branch road. Currin is an exceedingly dapper looking man under ordinary circumstances, but his night in a cell and the sense of his humiliation made him a sorry appearing figure.

"Judge, your honor," he exclaimed, waiving a little cane about his head, "I was never arrested in my life before, only once, and that was as a suspect in a South American revolution."

He got off with a suspended sentence, and after getting a clean collar at a nearby store, made a hurried dash for the depot.

Those who want the Republican nomination for Senator from Union county are having hard work to get it, while those who don't want it, have to take positive steps to avoid it.—Westfield Standard.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1905. NO. 20

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Corner Stone of the Union, as Well as Its Laws as Its Authorities."—Madison

UNION COUNTY POLITICS

Republican Paper at Elizabeth Sizes Up the Situation.

NO FACT NS

Runyon's Candidacy—Kirkland and Shrievalty—Swift Not a Candidate for the Assembly.

Relative to the political situation in Union county, the Elizabeth Evening Journal said last night:

"The political situation in the county where a State Senator is to be elected in November to succeed Senator Judge Cross is attracting no little attention throughout the State and is furnishing plenty of material for the newspapers.

"The Journal last week printed a story on the conditions in Plainfield, which was admitted on all sides and by all interests to be a correct review of the situation.

"In regard to the county as a whole, certain facts are so plain that none should be able to go astray. It has been printed far and wide that the death of the county chairman, Assemblyman Coyne, and the accession to the head of the county committee of Frank H. Smith marks the supremacy in the committee of forces hostile to Senator Kean. Smith is to be chairman of the committee by the grace of the votes of his fellow committee men, and the election is yet to take place. A canvass of the committee has revealed no one who is opposed to Smith, and all say that his election will be unanimous. Now, if he were hostile to Senator Kean, how would the election be unanimous? It is not necessary that the vice-chairman of the committee should be elected to the vacant chairmanship. Of course, Smith is not hostile to Senator Kean, nor is any other member of the county committee, for that matter.

"It is a mistake to speak now of 'Kean' and 'Fowler' factions in Union county politics. There have been no divisions within the party on such lines since three years ago, when there was a battle at the primaries for delegates for Joseph Cross and William N. Runyon. This struggle practically ended at the primaries, for the convention made the nomination of Cross unanimous and also the nomination of Benjamin F. Coriell for the shrievalty, and Plainfield supported both men well.

"Congressman Fowler was not identified with the memorable bolt from the party nearly two years ago, and whatever feeling has existed on Kean and Fowler lines in the past is now dead. The trouble two years ago was caused by the refusal of the delegates from the rest of the county to vote for Mayor James F. Buckle, of Plainfield, as an Assembly candidate. William T. Kirk, of that city, was chosen instead, but in opposition to the wishes of the majority of the Plainfielders, who left the convention, then worked for and elected the Democratic ticket.

"Some politicians believe they see trouble of the same kind ahead this year. They think that if Runyon is the choice of the Plainfield delegates and is ratified by the convention as a whole, he will be cut in Elizabeth by the friends of the late Assemblyman Coyne, who was a victim of the bolt. Again, they fear that if the convention should refuse to accept Runyon and nominate someone else, which will probably be in its power to do, there would be cutting of the Republican ticket in Plainfield. Some of the politicians believe it is unwise to tell these facts so plainly, but many of them say it can do no harm, and may do a great deal of good to make things clear.

"There is no objection here on personal grounds to Runyon. It is recognized that he is a man of capacity, but in the minds of many he committed an almost unpardonable political sin by working tooth and nail for Democratic success two years ago.

"Several members of the county committee said last night that everything would be settled to the satisfaction of all, that a candidate from Plainfield would be selected, and that Elizabeth would turn out a big Republican majority for him, as it did for Governor for the Republican ticket. Everyone concedes Plainfield's right to name the candidate, provided he is a strong man in his own city, and can command the confidence of the rest of the county.

"There may be a contest for the shrievalty, but it won't amount to much as far as Elizabeth is concerned, perhaps to nothing. Robert J. Kirkland may even now be said to have the support of all the lower wards of the city, including the Fifth and Seventh. It is said that he also has the support of the workers in the Sixth Ward and that he may have those from the Eighth Ward for the asking. There only remain the Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth Wards.

(Continued on Page 8.)

DEACON CONWAY WANTS REPUTATION SAVED

SAYS A WOMAN'S "ABUTMENT," HAS PLACED IT IN DANGER.

Deacon Spencer Conway, who has a habit of appearing in the city court, for some reason or other every little while, dropped in yesterday with tears in his eyes and appealed to Judge Runyon to help him save his reputation. In an explanation that required forty minutes to spin out, the deacon declared a bold, bad woman had been saying things about him and that she had put in an "abutment" to keep the Calvary Baptist church officials from confirming him as an expounder of the Gospel, and that his good name in the community is in serious danger in consequence.

"All I want, Judge," asserted Mr. Conway, "is to be allowed to live in peace and have the respect of the community, as I have had it for forty years. I'm a church worker, and these stories that have been floating around because of this woman's ramblingness have angered Rev. Scott Wallace and the leaders of Calvary Baptist church and they have refused to let me preach. Please, Judge, do something for me to keep my good name?"

The deacon became impassioned in his appeal and though Judge Runyon sympathized with him, he declared the matter to be out of his jurisdiction, recommending an Ecclesiastical court. The name of the woman who is so vindictive or what the stories are was not brought out.

DEEGAN IN THE BOX AGAIN ON SATURDAY

THIRD OF CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES TO BE A HOT ONE.

The third of the county championship series between Plainfield and Westfield will be played at Recreation Park on Saturday, and judging by the first two contests, it will be full of excitement and give every fan an opportunity to see the best article of baseball. Last week there were many rumors afloat that Manager Denman was "on the level" his team and many new faces would be seen in the lineup. Even up to a half hour of calling the game it was confidently believed by some that several big leaguers would oppose the locals. But neither of the only two new faces were seen—those of Lynch and Ed. Stallings, the former at short and the latter on second base.

Manager Denman believes that he has a team that can beat Plainfield, and there is no reason to believe that he will make any wholesale changes. He is perfectly satisfied with his battery, "Red" Waller being one of the best slab artists in this section, and Colter's work being all that one could desire. His infield is playing a fast game and his outfield is all right. That he will make a more determined effort this week to win goes without saying, and he has instructed his team, from Capt. Deegan down, to play their best. Mr. Denman is no grumbler, and because he has lost two games it does not stand to reason that he is going to give up the fight.

The locals, on the other hand, can be depended on to play their same great game, and the Plainfield supporters can rest assured that if possible the team will add the third contest to its string of victories. Every man is anxious to win every game and is playing the best he knows how. It is said that Manager Daab will use Deegan on the firing line Saturday. Despite the most excellent work of Beck, and many believe that the team can win with him in the box, the team seems to have a trifle more confidence when playing behind Deegan. It must be admitted that he is quicker in fielding his position and covering first base. Yet all honor is due Beck for his good work a week ago in holding Westfield down to nine hits in nine innings, while Waller was touched for ten, including a home run and a three bagger.

Manager Denman has given no notice of further changes in his team, but Manager Daab will use his same lineup. It is to be hoped that Dalton will be well enough to cover second base. The greatest interest is being shown in the approaching struggle, and the fact that Plainfield has won two games has not lessened it one bit. The fans expect that Westfield will get onto its game and make the locals play all the harder to win.

Funeral of Miss Calcea.

The funeral services of Miss Edith Calcea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Calcea, will be held from the home in Orchard place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

—For best results try The Daily Press.

DISMISSES AUTO CASE

Dunellen Squire Upholds Contention of Stanbery's Lawyer.

Spectators Indignant Over Court's Action—New Complaint to be Made—Civil Suit Also.

Through the efforts of his counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, the charges against William R. Stanbery made by Oscar Harris immediately after the automobile crash on West Front street, near Jefferson avenue, Sunday night, were dismissed by Justice Campbell at Dunellen this morning. The outcome of the affair was greeted with disapproval by a large gathering of residents that crowded the town hall and many of them declared that proceedings would be taken in another form with the borough of Dunellen as complainant. Harris and his wife, William Sanford, also asserted that a civil suit for damages would be instituted against the automobilist as soon as the other charges were disposed of.

Harris, in his complaint, alleged Stanbery to be guilty of reckless driving in running his machine on the wrong side of the road at a high rate of speed. The charge was made to Marshal Mohan within a short time after the accident occurred and then both men were blaming the other for it. The officer took them to Justice Campbell and there the complaint was lodged and the hearing set.

In his address to the court, Counselor Swackhamer first challenged its jurisdiction in the matter and then moved that the case be dismissed for the following reasons:

1. That the defendant was arrested without a complaint on oath or affirmation having been made against him. 2. That the defendant was arrested by an officer who was acting without authority, having no warrant in his possession for the defendant's arrest. 3. That the complaint made in this proceeding after defendant's arrest is insufficient, formal and void. 4. That the said complaint is irregular and contrary to law in that it does not charge any violation of law. 5. The arrest and subsequent proceedings are contrary to law for the reason that the defendant is not a resident of Middlesex County and his apprehension and arrest were not made according to the command of the statute. 6. The arrest and subsequent proceedings are irregular, illegal and void in divers other respects and the defendant therefore moves the court to dismiss the proceedings and discharge the defendant.

Justice Campbell acceded to the lawyer's request, though it was vigorously opposed by Mr. Sanford, and the complaint was dismissed. The residents of Dunellen have practically made the affair a personal matter and for this reason it may be inferred that this morning's action will not be the end of the case.

A despatch from New Brunswick to The Daily Press at noon today stated that Prosecutor Berdine, of Middlesex County, had taken the matter up. He has instructed Justice R. P. F. Von Minden, of New Market, who is a member of the Grand Jury, to investigate the affair thoroughly and report to that body tomorrow. In the event of carelessness having been shown by either Stanbery or Harris, it was said, the prosecutor would take the usual legal steps.

PROMOTING WORK OF FRESH AIR HOME

MEETING TO BE HELD AT GRACE CHURCH ON SUNDAY NIGHT.

A public meeting in the interest of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home will be held in Grace church Sunday night at 8 o'clock, at which time children from the home will speak and sing. The speakers of the evening will be Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector emeritus of the church; Winfield S. Applegate, Esq., and Miss Curry, matron of the home, and possibly James F. Parker. An offering will be received for the benefit of the work.

A similar meeting will be held in the First Baptist church on Sunday night, August 6, at 8 o'clock, when the speakers will be Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney and Miss Sara Curry. Children from the home will also speak and sing at this service and an offering will be received.

Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll will occupy the pulpit of the Congregational church on Sunday, August 6, and Rev. George A. Francis on Sunday, August 13, and on Sundays, August 20 and 27, the church will be closed.

GENTLEMAN BURGLAR IS OUT ON PAROLE

WALLER IS GIVEN A CHANCE TO LEAD AN HONEST LIFE.

John Waller, the gentleman burglar who was sentenced in the Somerset County Court at Somerville in April, 1904, to serve five years in State prison for committing numerous robberies, has been paroled by the Court of Pardons because of ill health. Waller, who is reported to be a member of a prominent family in the West, was a boarder at the Berkeley Hotel, Bound Brook, in the winter of 1904. He posed as a gentleman of leisure and associated with people of the town. In this city he boarded at a hotel and during his stay several robberies occurred. He also made love to a number of young women at Bound Brook and other places and gave them diamond rings and gold watches.

One of the young women left a watch which Waller had given her with a local jeweler for repairs. The jeweler identified the watch as one that had been stolen from the residence of one of his customers. Waller's arrest followed. He was charged with a score of mysterious robberies in Bound Brook and nearby towns. A lot of valuable loot was found in his room at the Berkeley Hotel, and a large quantity of jewelry which he had stolen was recovered in pawnshops in Philadelphia.

Waller assisted the authorities in restoring the property to the owners. He pleaded guilty to six charges of robbery. When Judge Schenck sentenced him to five years he thanked the Court for its lenency and said if he lived to get out of prison he would live an honest life.

WILL ELECT SMITH CHAIRMAN TONIGHT

PLAINFIELDER TO BE MADE HEAD OF REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE

The Republican County Committee will meet this evening in the Dix building at Elizabeth for the purpose of selecting a chairman of that body. Frank H. Smith, of Plainfield, is the man slated for the position, and there is no doubt that he will receive the united vote of the entire committee.

It had been planned not to make any appointment in this office until after the excursion on Saturday, when there will probably be lots of other important Republican business transacted.

There is a question as to who will be made vice chairman of the committee. Addison Swift, of Elizabeth, is mentioned for the place, and so is James White, the assistant postmaster of Elizabeth, who is also vice chairman of the city committee.

Mr. Smith has been in Asbury Park for the last few days and could not be seen this morning. There is no doubt whatever that he will accept it and he will receive the support of everybody in the committee.

Injured Boy's Condition.

Edward Leroy Smith, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. T. Smith, of Allen place, who was seriously injured on Monday by falling backward down the steps at his home, is doing very well at the present time. A fracture at the base of the skull, is not what is feared most by the physicians, but there is a possibility of spinal meningitis. If this does not develop the lad's chances for recovery are good. He suffers almost constantly from a high fever, which at times reaches 104 degrees.

Hendrickson Goes to Jail.

Nelson Hendrickson, who gave his name to Chief Marshal Weiss as Nelson Henry when he was arrested Monday night for intoxication and disorderly conduct, was brought before Recorder Doud last night. Old charges combined with this new offence was responsible for the Recorder sending him to the county jail for sixty days. Chief Weiss took the prisoner to Somerville early this morning.

Excursion to Asbury.

The great combination excursion to Asbury Park under the auspices of the First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist Sunday Schools, takes place tomorrow. It will probably be one of the best of the season. Everyone is assured a good time. Be at the North avenue station a few minutes before 8 o'clock tomorrow morning and "get aboard."

At the Fresh-Air Home.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church will have charge at the Netherwood Home on Saturday. Miss Ethel Boice is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

LONG STILL AT LARGE

Negro Murderer Eludes Pursuers Though Sighted Several Times.

DETECTIVES ON GUARD

They Believe He Will Yet Be Found in Dismal Swamp and Are Trying to Drive Him Out.

Confident that he is still in hiding in the recesses of Dismal swamp, below South Plainfield, detectives from Trenton and farmers in the vicinity are making every effort to capture Charles Long, the murderer of Matthew Cunningham at Trenton last week. The negro exposed himself to view several times yesterday but luck seemed to be against him so far and he got away in each instance. The swamp has an area of six square miles and in places has a dense undergrowth so that it is an easy matter for anyone to lie concealed. The officers have hopes of catching him soon, however, as he will be forced out by starvation if nothing else.

Long was first seen at 6 o'clock yesterday morning near the South Plainfield station by Dennis Harlan. He located the Trenton detectives and put them on the trail but the murderer had evidently gone back to his hiding place. At noon time while all his pursuers were beating about South Plainfield, he appeared near the Picton station of the Lehigh Valley road, near the lower end of the swamp. He was noticed by the station agent who telephoned to this city.

Chief Kiely and Detective McCarthy in Harry Marshall's automobile set out for Picton and arrived there within a half hour only to learn that Long had been seen skirting the edge of the swamp, going back to South Plainfield. They followed on the roadways and found several people who had noticed a negro answering his description hurrying by and the trail ended back in the deep part of the swamp again. The search is being continued today but up to noon the man had not been located. The Trenton police notified Chief Kiely this morning that they would send up an additional force of detectives with automobiles.

Most of the residents who have been taking part in the man-hunt have been induced to do so in the hope of getting the reward of $250 offered by the city of Trenton. At a meeting of the Mercer county Board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon a resolution to offer an additional $250 was laid over by a vote of 17 to 5.

BRASS BAND METHODS NOT FOR ACKERMAN

SAYS HE WILL NOT SEEK NOMINATION BY SPECTACULAR WAYS.

Ernest R. Ackerman, president of the Lawrence Cement Company, of New York, whose friends are urging him to announce his candidacy for the Senatorial nomination, is ill at his home in West Eighth street. In conversation with a reporter, Mr. Ackerman said in reference to the political situation:

"I am not seeking a nomination for Senator or for any other office. If such an offer was made to me unanimously I think I would consider it, but I would consider it not as a representative of the Kean faction nor as the representative of the Fowler faction.

"I am very friendly with Mr. Fowler. I believe him to be an able man, and I have the utmost respect for him. I am also very friendly with Senator Kean, although I am better acquainted with his brother, Hamilton Kean. I have gone out of my way many times to help Mr. Fowler and I have done the same thing for Mr. Kean, and I would do the same again for either of those gentlemen; but as to going out with a brass band to seek the nomination, I would not do it. I cannot say that I am a candidate in that sense. I am sorry I cannot give you something more definite at present."

Preparing to Move Brick Building.

Frank Mobus, of this borough, who has the contract for moving Charles W. McCutchen's brick building, is making preparations to place the structure on the West Second street property recently purchased by Mr. McCutchen. Application has been made for a permit to transfer the building, and Mr. Mobus hopes to start work soon.

K. of G. E. Hold a Smoker.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, K. of G. E., met last night and transacted routine business. After the business meeting the members enjoyed a smoker.

G. O. P'S IN READINESS FOR ANNUAL OUTING

WILL BE A WATER FROLIC AND TAKES PLACE SATURDAY.

The first outing by water of the Union County Republicans will take place next Saturday. Their destination will be Point View Grove, on Long Island Sound, and every Republican of prominence in the county who is not away on a vacation will try to be on hand.

The rank and file are not expected to go, as arangements have only been made to accommodate 400 on the steamship Isabel, which has been chartered for the trip. All the active workers, however, are expected to be on deck, and it promises to be a great day for the political slates for next fall's election, when candidates for Senator, sheriff and three Assemblymen are to be voted for.

The affair is under the auspices of the county executive committee. Heretofore the outings have been in the form of a clambake, but the last one thoroughly disgusted the leaders. It was held at Galvin's park, near Fanwood, and all the hoboes in Union county flocked to the feast and invaded the grove in such numbers as to drive the guests away from the tables and to eat up everything in sight.

That experience settled the land clambakes, so far as Union county Republicans were concerned. Saturday's event therefore will be somewhat of an exclusive affair, but it is hoped will be none the less enjoyable.

"PLAINFIELDER" ARRESTED FOR ROBBING FREIGHT CAR

AFTERWARD TURNS OUT TO BE AN EASTON CHARACTER.

A man who registered at the Union Hotel at Whitehouse Station Saturday night as Frank Howard, of Plainfield, was arrested in Elizabeth yesterday by Detective Gaffney, of the New Jersey Central Railroad, on suspicion of being the thief who broke into a freight car at Whitehouse Monday evening. The man when seen at Whitehouse seemed to act strangely. He was well dressed, wearing a long-tailed coat, and all day Sunday was accompanied by a small man.

While a west-bound freight was taking water at Whitehouse Station Monday evening the door of a freight car was broken open and a crate of shoes consigned to a dealer at Allentown, Pa., thrown out before the train started on its way. The robber then sorted the shoes and took thirteen pairs, leaving eleven, which were found sometime later. Detective Gaffney was at once assigned to the case and he went to Whitehouse and soon learned of the man who had been seen about there for several days. He followed up the clue and the arrest was the result.

It is believed the man is the one who has been committing similar robberies along the line and who the central authorities have been looking for for some time.

It has been learned the real name of the man is Frank Simpson and that he hails from Easton. He was committed to the county jail at Flemington today.

Mrs. Lunger to Teach.

Mrs. Maria Lunger, of Whitehouse, widow of the late former Patrolman George Lunger, of this city, has been engaged to teach in the primary department of the Rocky Hill public school. Before her marriage Mrs. Lunger was a teacher at Barley Sheaf, Hunterdon county, and it was while she was there she met Mr. Lunger, who at that time resided at Cherryville. Mrs. Lunger has rented her property at Whitehouse to former Assemblyman John J. Matthews, of Elizabeth, who will move there with his family.

Will Enter Smith College.

Miss Ethel Daggett, of Whitehouse, who graduated from the North Plainfield High School two years ago, has passed the necessary examinations for admittance to Smith College, Northampton, Mass., and will begin a four-year course there in the fall. Miss Daggett is a daughter of Samuel Daggett, a wealthy farmer of Whitehouse, and is an elocutionist of note. She has spent much of her time this summer reciting at various social functions in Hunterdon county.

Home for Short Stay.

Mase Edwards, who has been spending the summer at Block Island, arrived in town yesterday for a few days. He expects to return to Block Island on Friday or Saturday to join his wife, who is there. Later he will go to Newport for a short stay, and then to Providence and other places in that part of the country, returning here early in September.

M.G.A. HANDICAP REPORT

Chairman Calkins Tells of Results of the System in Use.

304 NEW M

Poorer the Player the Greater Chance for Improvement—Work of the Committee.

Of great interest to golfers in the metropolitan district, especially in this vicinity, is the report presented by Leighton Calkins, chairman of the 1905 handicap committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association, which has been adopted by the executive committee of the association. The report is as follows:

"We have handicapped 1,560 players this year, against 1,256 in 1904, 1,096 in 1903 and 1,013 in 1902. After allowing for a small increase each year, there are probably over 200 players who find a place on the list this year owing to the adoption by the committee of the new handicapping, which, in addition to basing all handicaps on par, as heretofore, takes into consideration and attempts to measure the greater chance to improve which the poorer players have as compared with the scratch men and the men with low handicaps. All clubs, with two exceptions, returning lists to this committee certified that the handicaps as returned were allotted in accordance with the new system; and the other two clubs notified the committee that no records of last year's play had been preserved, this preventing entire compliance with the system this year.

"The results of the handicap events at Lakewood, Garden City, Fox Hills and Westbrook show improvement which this committee believes to be due to the fact that players are no longer given, in all cases, the exact difference between par and their average best score. A certain number of strokes is deducted from that difference, one stroke from men whose handicaps otherwise would be between 5 and 8 inclusive; two strokes where the handicaps otherwise would be between 9 and 12 inclusive, and three strokes where the player who before would have received 17 strokes now gets 13, and the player who now just gets on the list with 17 strokes would before have been rated at 22, on par, at his home club. These deductions are made on the theory that the poorer the player, the greater his chance to improve. A man who has played a good course in par figures, may not, in a year's time, lower his record; but a man whose record is 97 may at any time be the proud possessor of a 92. By the old method the high handicap men had by far the best chance to win. By the new method the scratch men, if playing in their best form, have an equal chance with those rated at 18.

"The Lakewood handicap was won by Walter E. Egan, with 77, 2—75. He played more nearly up to his best form than any other player and fully deserved to win. The eleven lowest net scores were between 75 and 80; and of these eleven men, five had handicaps of 7 and under.

"At Garden City, D. B. Fuller, Jr., won the Friday handicap, with an aggregate of six strokes and net scores of 77 for eighteen holes and 157 for thirty-six holes. On Saturday he tied with B. C. Fuller (handicap 12), with 154 for thirty-six holes. In these events the winners played more nearly up to their game than the others, and were fully entitled to win.

"At Fox Hills, S. Maddock, with 11, and C. A. Dunning, with 16, tied at 69 for the eighteen-hole handicap. On their gross scores, 80 and 79, respectively (the best in a field of over eighty players), it seemed to this committee that their handicaps were too high, and accordingly we corresponded with the clubs from which these players were entered, in order to ascertain why they were rated so high at home. Our inquiries were answered promptly and courteously. In the case of Mr. Maddock he is believed by his club handicapper to have improved somewhat this spring over his previous form, but not to be capable of another such win; and in the case of Mr. Dunning it is admitted by his club handicapper that he has come on very fast since his rating of 10 was sent in last March. This is the not uncommon case of a fine young player jumping suddenly into prominence. While we believe both club handicappers to have exercised care in preparing their lists, we wish to suggest the importance of having these lists revised from time to time as cases of marked improvement on the part of any player. With the exception of the two cases mentioned, the result of the Fox Hills handicap was exceptionally fine. There were 41 net scores between 73 and 83, and there were 23 net scores under 80.

"This committee has sent out to

(Continued on Page 8.)

RUSHMORE FOUND GUILTY

Fined $50 For Not Stopping His Auto When Signaled By Colored Coachman.

PAID UNDER PROTEST

Backed by the Automobile Club of America He Will Carry the Case to the Supreme Court.

For the first time in the history of the State, section 6 of the new automobile law, which declares that failure on the part of a chauffeur to stop his machine when signalled by the driver of a spirited horse constitutes a misdemeanor, was enforced at Scotch Plains Friday, when S. W. Rushmore, of this city, proprietor of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, was fined $50 for the offense. The complaint was preferred by Charles R. Vincent, of Fanwood, and the hearing took place in Justice Clark's court room, crowded to the doors with interested spectators. Rushmore's counsel paid the fine under protest and gave notice that appeal would be taken immediately.

The trial was only the opening of what promises to become a famous case, as the Automobile Club of America is back of Rushmore and will no doubt carry the case to the highest court to test the new law.

The action of Harding & Co., counsel for the A. C. of A., who were looking out for Rushmore, showed that the fight is on to a finish. Every technical point was raised, the court's jurisdiction was questioned and the complaint was declared to be defective, inasmuch as the law says driving or riding a horse, while the plaintiff's testimony showed his team was standing in the gutter along the roadway. This, counsel claimed, would make the complaint null and void.

Recorder Clark overruled all objections and said he was satisfied the complaint was correctly drawn, and he would hear the case.

The only witnesses for the State were Vincent and his colored coachman, Edward Alexander. Mr. Vincent said he was not pushing the case for revenge, but that he wanted the court to understand that he was doing it for the sake of protecting the public in general from the abuses being heaped upon them by automobilists as a rule. That he is in earnest was shown by his interests being looked out for by L. D. H. Gilmour, counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Both Mr. Vincent and his coachman told practically the same story of being out driving with a fractious team on the morning of July 4. While driving on Mountain avenue, near Park, a leather shoe on one horse became loosened. The coachman alighted to tighten the shoe just as Rushmore's automobile loomed up in the distance. Mr. Vincent told his man to give the signal to stop, but the driver of the automobile paid no attention to him. Mr. Vincent did not know the driver, but caught the registry number as the machine flew past. He wrote the Secretary of State, and found the owner to be Mr. Rushmore. Both admitted that the horse had not been unmanageable while the automobile was passingg, although very nervous.

When the State ended its testimony counsel for Rushmore again asked to have the case dismissed, claiming that no violation as charged had been proved. Whne this was refused by the court, he said that he and the defendant had decided to make no defense, but to challenge the jurisdiction and findings of the court. While the justice was summing up the case counsel for Rushmore, for some reason, changed his mind and wanted to put Mr. Rushmore on the stand. This was refustd, as the court said they had failed to put in a defense at the proper time, and the case was closed, the findings of the court being that Rushmore broke section 6 of the automobile law and for this violation he was fined $50 and costs.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

Thirty-five Properties to Be Disposed of in Borough.

Public notice has been given by George F. Brown, collector of the borough of North Plainfield, that he will sell at public sale all real estate of delinquent taxpayers for the shortest term for which any person or persons will agree to take same.

The sale will take place at the collector's office, 94 Somerset street, Tuesday, September 5, at 2 o'clock. The full list of properties owned by delinquents and advertised for sale numbers thirty-five.

Cardinal Gibbons is 71.

Southhampton, L. I., July 23.—Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, who as usual is summering here, was seventy-one years old yesterday. He celebrates his birthday today. The Cardinal will receive those who call on him, but will have no formal celebration. Congratulations have already begun to pour in. He spent yesterday quietly, preaching in the morning and again at vespers in place of Father O'Hara.

Mrs. L. L. Deuel Skeel Dead.

Mrs. Lucy L. Deuel, wife of Rev. Harlow Skeel, died on Monday, July 17, at Ilion, N. Y., after a brief illness. She was a relative to Mrs. Weir-Lewis, of Rockview avenue.

"JOHN PASCO" IS HELD

Lad Who Shot Fellow Workman in Neck Taken to Middlesex Jail.

USED ASSUMED NAME

Stepfather Refused to go His Bail—Hearing Before Justice Von-Minden.

Before Justice vonMinden in the Borough Council rooms, Dunellen, Friday afternoon, John Sacuntine, otherwise known as "John Pasco," was given a hearing on a charge of assault in connection with the shooting of John Stillger, at the Dunellen brick yards Thursday afternoon. The Council rooms were filled to suffocation with interested spectators, many being foreign born. Neither side was represented by counsel, and the proceedings were short. Sacuntine was held for the September term of the Middlesex County Grand Jury and after the hearing was taken to New Brunswick by Constable Mohan. The prisoner's step-father, who was present, refused to furnish his bail, declaring that the boy had a bad temper and he thought a few weeks in the county jail would do him good.

Stillger was able to attend the hearing and after Justice vonMinden read the charge he was given an opportunity to tell his story. He said that each had been given a certain amount of work to do and he noticed Sacuntine was shirking. He spoke to him about it and received a sullen reply. This made him angry and he gave the lad a punch. Sacuntine then went to the barn, got his revolver, and soon afterward, without any warning, shot Stillger in the shoulder.

John Laird, another employe at the brick yard, who wrested the revolver out of the boy's hands, corroborated Stillger's story. Sacuntine was then asked whether he wanted to plead guilty or not guilty, but he could not comprehend the question and Justice vonMinden decided to hold him for the Grand Jury.

Afterward the lad's stepfather was asked whether he could furnish bail. He said that he could, but wouldn't. It was learned at the hearing that the boy had used his stepfather's name, John Pasco, when arrested, and that his real name was John Sacuntine, that being the name of his own father, who died some time ago. The stepfather admitted that the boy had always behaved himself, but added that during the past three years he had displayed an ugly temper.

GEOLOGIC EXHIBIT FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

THESE WILL SHOW FORMATIONS AND PROCESSES OF MANUFACTURING.

State Geologist Henry B. Kummel is preparing a set of exhibits to be given to the high schools of the State asking for them, which will present in a graphic manner New Jersey's geologic treasures. Each exposition will set forth the various rock formations, the valuable ores and minerals, and also the fossils marking the different geologic periods. They will be made up of between 250 and 300 specimens, which Professor Kummel has collected while engaged in his work as State geologist.

Professor Kummel yesterday described two of the exhibits as showing what the clolection will be like. The zinc collection was one outlined. This contains fine specimens of zinc ore just as it is taken from the mines, and then there are samples from every stage of the crushing and separating processes by which the pure zinc is segregated from the foreign and waste products.

The method of manufacturing Portland cement will also be shown. Starting with pieces of the natural rock, as it comes from the quarry, specimens will be included from every stage of cement making. The collection of samples will be made up of crushed and ground rock, known as "chalk," pieces of "clinker" or the raw materials after burning, and finally the completed cement.

The collection will be distributed to the high schools of the State as far as they will go, on the basis of first come first served. Each school securing one will be expected to pay the cost of packing and shipping.

A GOLD MINE FOR DUNDY.

The Luna Park Mimeograph Reports a "Strike" in Wyoming.

Elmer S. Dundy, one of the proprietors of Luna Park at Coney Island, told his friends yesterday that a gold mine he invested in some years ago out in Wyoming was showing rather more than "pay dirt." His claim, 600 by 3,000 feet, was staked out in 1899 on Spar Mountain at an altitude of 8,000 feet, after an avalanche caused by the rain had disclosed gold bearing quartz.

Mr. Dundy said that $180,000 had been taken out of the mine at one haul. Yesterday being Sunday, Mr. Dundy was unable to substantiate his statement with affidavits.

BOX SEATS OF THEATRE TO BE AUCTIONED OFF

THE MANAGEMENT ALREADY BESIEGED APPLICATIONS FOR RESERVATIONS.

The date of opening for the new Plainfield theatre having been positively announced as August 24, Proprietor Counihan and Manager Gelatt have already been besieged with requests for the reservation of seats. At the present time about one-half the house has been asked for but it is impossible to issue tickets until the chairs have been installed and it is certain what the floor plans will be. Competition for the boxes has been so keen that Mr. Counihan said today that the only way he could avoid favoritism in their disposal is to auction them off, as is generally done when a new theatre is opened.

It has been decided by the management to regulate the scale of prices for the houses according to the class of attraction. For the big musical comedies and standard dramas the seats will range from twenty-five cents to $1.50. There will be numerous other good attractions at which the best orchestra chairs will be but seventy-five cents. This is the plan that has been followed out successfully at Jacobs theatre, Elizabeth, and several of the New York houses off Broadway.

The list of bookings is being added to daily and sof ar dates have been given only to the very best companies. Among the big attractions for which Mr. Counihan is negotiating are "Babes in Toyland," next to "The Wizard of Oz," the Majestic theatre's greatest success; Klaw & Erlanger's big Drury Lane spectacle, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast;" McIntyre and Heath, the former vaudeville favorites in the new musical piece, "The Ham Tree," and Master Gabriel, of "Buster Brown" fame, in a new comedy.

HEAT MENACED RAILROADS.

Threw Interlocking Switches Out of Adjustment.

The extremely hot weather that has prevailed in this vicinity for several days has not only resulted in the serious illness and death to human beings, but has made traveling on the steaf railroads hazardous. The heat of the sun beating down on the rails and switches at interlocking plants on the Central Railroad caused them to expand considerably yesterday near Elizabeth and throw a number of interlocking switches out of adjustment.

This was particularly so at the Elizabethport station, where the Central Railroad operates two interlocking switch towers. Two men were at work during the better part of Wednesday keeping the switches adjusted and in a safe condition for moving trains over them.

At Spring street tower, Elizabeth, a small freight wreck occurred at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Wednesday, caused by the switches being out of adjustment. Two cars left the track at the tower. The train in which they were being hauled was not moving fast, or a serious accident might have occurred.

It is said the same conditions existed on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

N. J. CADETS RECORDS.

N. P. Rogers, Jr., of this City, Among the Number.

The records of the first, second and third classes of the U. S. Military Academy, at West Point, showing the standing of the members at the latest examination, have just been made public. The first class has seventy-seven members, and is headed by William A. Johnson, of New York. Frederick E. Humphreys, born in New Jersey, but appointed from New York, is No. 6. Edward L. Wildrick, born in New York, appointed from New Jersey, is 491. The second class has 119 members, and is headed by James G. Steese, of Pennsylvania. Nathaniel P. Rogers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Rogers, of this city, born in New York, appointed from New Jersey, is No. 7. Bruce D. Butler, of Montana, appointed from New Jersey, is No. 99. The third class is headed by Charles H. Hall, of New York. James W. Lyon, born in Pennsylvania, appointed from New Jersey, is No. 17. Harold Geiger is No. 32. Robert E. Jennings, of Colorado, appointed from New Jersey, did not qualify.

COMPLETING ASSESSMENTS.

Plainfield Board Has About Finished Its Work.

The Plainfield Board of Assessors has about completed its work for this year and the members are now preparing their books preparatory to presenting them to the Common Council next month. It is expected that Plainfield will show a substantial increase in property valuation this year over last, when the total reached something over $9,000,000.

The greatest increase this year will probably be shown in the Fourth Ward, where there has been considerable building since the last assessment was made.

The assesors will present their books to the Common Council about the middle of August, and after being approved by that body they will be taken to Elizabeth, where the county board of assessors will use them in making the county rate and establishing Plainfield's rate.

IN U. S. CIRCUIT COURT

Suit has been brought in the United States Circuit Court at Trenton by the American Hoist and Derrick Company, of St. Paul, Minn., and Oliver Crosby against the John A. Roebling's Cons Company and the Trenton Iron Company to restrain them from manufacturing certain wire rope clamps. An accounting of the profits alleged to have been made from the sale of the goods is also asked for.

It is claimed the companies infringed upon patent rights of the derrick company by making the clamps.

The Fidelity and Deposit Company, of Baltimore, has brought suit against the Fidelity Trust Company, of Newark, and the Essex County National Bank, also of Newark, and Anna T. Wilson, executor of the estate of William B. Wilson.

An accounting is asked for of the moneys held by the defendants belonging to Wilson and of those deposited to the credit of the Supreme Council of Chosen Friends, of which Wilson was Supreme Treasurer.

Judge Lanning heard argument and reserved decision in the matter of Walter A. Kirkpatrick, of Philadelphia, against the American Alkali Company. The argument was on a petition to have an assessment levied on the preferred stock of the company.

The Gould Storage Battery Company, of New York, has brought suit against the Electric Storage Battery Company, of New Jersey, and asks for an injunction restraining it from the further manufacture and sale of electrical appliances upon which the complainant cliams to possess a patent.

The Columbia Avenue Trust Company, formerly known as the Columbia Avenue Saving Fund, Safe Deposit and Trust Company, of Philadelphia, has begun suit against Frank H. Williams, of Como, and John H. Hulse, of New Egypt, for the recovery of $7,000. It is alleged that Williams and Hulse broke a contract for the improvement of certain property.

Judge Lanning heard argument in the application of the Western Union Telegraph Company for an injunction to restrain A. V. D. Polhemus from cutting down poles belonging to the company in Neshanick, Somerville and other places in the State. Decision was reserved.

IMPORTANT DECISION IN LANDLORD CASE

COURT HOLDS IN ABSENCE OF AGREEMENT—TENANT MUST MAKE REPAIRS.

Jersey City, July 21.—Judge Erwin, in the Second District Court, has decided that in the absence of any specific agreement between landlord and tenant all repairs must be made by the latter.

The decision was given in a suit instituted by Elizabeth McManus against Michael H. Nagle to recover $70.10 which she had expended in repairs on a stable owned by her at 240 Mulberry street, Newark. Nagle leased the stable, but failed to keep it in repair. When he left she was obliged to expend the amount named for repairs.

As an offset the defendant claimed that the leaky roof of the stable had so lessened the value of a horse that cost $145 that he was obliged to sell the animal for $67.50.

The judgment was for the plaintiff for the full amount claimed.

Big Auto Registration.

Some interesting figures are furnished by the new registration of automobiles at Albany, N. Y., during the first four months of 1905. Although they cannot be taken to indicate all the cars that have been sold by manufacturers, the report gives a foundation for figuring which gives evidence of the remarkable popularity that power driven machines are enjoying. In those four months licenses were issued for 2,041 cars, of which 1,842 were of American manufacture and 199 were imported.

This does not indicate the number of automobiles in use, for under the present laws a driver has to register his car in every State where it is used. It is the hope of automobilists that sooner or later a license number taken out in one State will answer in every other State. Thousands of dollars are being put into the State treasuries under the present laws, with no return to the motorists, who consider th leicensing an unjust tax. It is the general opinion that a fair way would be to have the money from such registration to be used for the improvement of the highways. No automobilist would object to paying a registration fee if the money should be put to such use.

Cranford's Paid Fire Department.

The Township Committee of Cranford has organized a paid fire department as follows: Edward O'Donnell, chief, $50 a year; Harry Bowers, assistant chief, $25 a year; James E. Warner, captain of Hose Company, $25; George Waterson, captain Truck Company, $25; Alfred H. Miller, superintendent fire alarm and secretary of department, $25. Ten men were appointed to each company at $15 a year each. The department is to be under the supervision of the Fire Committee.

NAME TWELVE COUNTY SUPTS. THIS YEAR

MANY CANDIDATES IN THE FIELD FOR GOOD-PAYING JOBS.

The next regular meeting of the State Board of Education will take place October 3 at Trenton, and the first business that will occupy its attention will be to name twelve county superintendents to fill as many vacancies, caused by the expiration of the three-year terms.

Superintendent A. W. Hartwell, of Mercer County, is one of those whose terms will expire. He will try for reappointment, and is likely to get the place for three years more, as no one has appeared in opposition.

The other superintendents whose terms will expire are: Atlantic county, S. D. Hoffman; Burlington, Herman A. Stees; Camden, C. S. Albertson; Cape May, Aaron W. Hand; Gloucester, William Eldridge; Middlesex, H. Brewster Willis; Ocean, Peter Tilton; Somerset, H. C. Krebs; Passaic, H. A. Wilcox; Sussex, Ralph Decker; Warren, Franklin T. Atwood.

The vacancies will be filled by the board after examining each applicant. Each applicant must be the holder of a State teacher's certificate.

The members of the committee who will conduct the examination are: Judge Francis Scott, Paterson, chairman; Edward Russ, Hoboken; Samuel St. John McCutcheon, Plainfield; Everett Colby, West Orange, and Mr. Barraclough, New Brunswick.

There are quite a number of applicants for the job.

COUNTY SCHOOL HEADS.

State Board of Education to Name Dozen Superintendents.

The next regular meeting of the State Board of Education will take place October 3 an dthe first business that will occupy its attention will be to name twelve county school superintendents to fill as many vacancies, caused by the expiration of the three-year terms.

Superintendent A. W. Hartwell, of Mercer county, is one of those whose term will expire. He will try for a reappointment and is likely to get the place fo rthree years more, as no one has appeared in opposition.

The other superintendents whose terms will expire are: Atlantic county, S. D. Hoffman; Burlington, Herman A. Stees; Camden, C. S. Albertson; Cape May, Aaron W. Hand; Gloucester, William Eldridge; Middlesex, H. Brewster Willis; Ocean, Peter Tilton; Somerset, H. C. Krebs; Passaic, H. A. Wilcox; Sussex, Ralph Decker; Warren, Franklin T. Atwood.

SALES AND RENTALS.

Reported by the Mulford Agency, of North Avenue.

These sales and rentals have been effected through the Mulford real estate agency of North avenue: H. B. Suydam, of Clinton avenue, has purchased the adjoining lot to his residence from Amanda Klein; G. Ginder, the new ferrymaster at the Twenty-third street ferry of the New Jersey Central, in New York, has rented the property at 825 West Fifth street and will take possession next week; J. F. Dorthy, of New York, has rented the Esterbrook estate house at the head of Sandford avenue, and C. B. Lawson, of Jersey City, has rented the property at 826 West Sixth street; Mr. Scull, of Central avenue, has rented the house at West Sixth street and Lee place.

ANOTHER BUSINESS COLLEGE.

A Drake Concern to Locate Here on September 1.

Through the real estate agency of Joseph T. Vail, of North avenue, the entire second floor of the Brunson building on East Front street, formerly occupied by the Y. M. C. A. and later by the Salvation Army, has been leased for a term of ten years to the Drake Business College, which will open a school here September 1.

There are five such business colleges conducted under this same management, there being one in Newark, one in Jersey City, another at Orange, another at Bayonne and one at Passaic. The building leased here will be entirely remodelled and repaired, making it up to date in every respect.

Solid for Runyon.

Former Mayor Gilbert, of Plainfield, who was being actively boomed as a candidate for Senator this fall on the Republican ticket, has publicly declined to allow his name to be considered for the position. The friends of Judge W. N. Runyon, of that city, are now actively at work to bring about his nomination, and the prospects are that Plainfield will be solid for the young Judge.—Rahway Advocate.

Public Service Wants Two Tracks.

The Public Service Corporation will soon ask the New Brunswick Board of Aldermen to lay a double track for its trolley line through Perth Amboy, according to reports. The rumor could not be confirmed in Perth Amboy Thursday although the corporation officials admitted that it would be a great benefit. It is understood that with double track at New Brunswick, the through cars from New York to Trenton could be run that way, saving eighteen miles.

SEASONS ARE THE SAME

Prof. Willis L. Moore, Chief of the Weather Bureau, expresses the opinion that, contrary to the theories of many, there has been no radical alteration in the weather conditions of this country from the earliest periods of its history up to the present time. "That is to say," stated the Professor, "while there is reason to believe that, while one or even more seasons disclose ver ysensible differences with previous years, there has been no permanent variation of atmospheric conditions which would warrant the statement that the climate had undergone any alteration.

"Thomas Jefferson, writing in 1781, said: 'A change in climate is taking place very sensibly. Both heat and cold are becoming much more moderate within the memory of even the middle aged. Snows are less frequent and less deep. They do not often lie below the mountain more than one, two or three days, and very rarely a week. The snows are remembered to have been formerly frequent, deep and of long continuance. The elderly inform me that the earth used to be covered with snow about three months in every year.'

"But Jefferson and his neighbors were mistaken. Never during the period of authentic history has the snow covered the ground in Virginia (the State where Jefferson made his observations) for periods averaging taree montas per year for three years in succession. The old inhabitants of Jefferson's time were like those of today, they remember only the abnormalities of the climate of twenty-five or fifty years before, and, in comparing the usual conditions of long ago with the average of the present, were deceived. I have known intelligent and truthful men publicly to declare that they knew from personal recollection that the climate of their particular places of residence had changed since they were boys; that they had reliable landmarks to show that the streams were drying up ;that the rain and snowfalls were becoming less frequent and that the winters were becoming milder and this, notwithstanding the fact that carefully taken observations of temperature and rain for each day for the previous hundred years showed no alteration of climate at such places. Of course, wide variations sometimes extending over periods of several years, had occurred, but a deficit at one time was made up by an excess at another.

"It is my personal belief that no sensible change has taken place in the climate conditions of any part of the world since the beginning of its history. Quite accurate records of the opening of navigation in the rivers of Europe and of the time of vintages for 500 years show no change in the average data of the first ten years as compared with the average of the last ten years, and the date palm, the vine, and the fig tree flourish as luxuriantly today in Palestine as they did in the days of Moses. Dried plants have been taken from the mummy cases of the Pharaohs exactly similar to those now flourishing upon the soil once the abiding places of those ancient monarchs.

"It was noted in this country some years ago, when the tide of foreign immigration was strong, that there were several years of rather more than average rainfall in regions that theretofore had had little precipitation. These two conditions were coincident by mere accident, but the observed fact probably gave rise to the theory that civilization brings an increase in precipitation. It was thought at the time referred to that the breaking of the virgin soil, making it more permeable, and thereby conserving the scant deposit of moisture, the planting of trees, and the propogation of vegetation by restricting the sun off and by drawing up the moisture from below the surface of the ground through roots; the enormous quantity of aqueous vapor injected into the air by the combustion incident to a teeming population, had all combined to increase the rainfall and to render the sub-arid plains more responsive to the labors of the husbandman.

"It is to be regretted that this beautiful theory cannot be supported by fact but a moment's thought will indicate to the physicist that the volume of super-incumbent air is so great and its capacity for retaining moisture so enormous that the additional vapor of water evaporated as I have indicated, and as sufficed for the theorists alluded to, great though it be, is ineffectual to change appreciably the amount of rainfall which nature beforehand had ordained should be precipitated. The size of continental areas, the topography of the land surface, the proximity of large bodies of water and the direction of the prevailing winds are all factors in determining the weather conditions of a region, and these, of course, are not subject to radical alterations in their nature, except, perhaps, in long geologic periods. Thus, if the Rocky Mountains could be lowered to the height of the Appalachian chain, the vapor-laden winds from the Pacific would be blown inland, and probably cause copious rainfall as far east as Colorado, Western Kansas and Western Nebraska. Such a contingency, however, is practically an impossibility. As it is, the world will, in all its parts, have to get along with the same sort of weather that was known to the first man therein."

ELECTION LAW CHANGES

State Preparing Summary of Acts With Last Legislature's Amendments.

SOME ARE IMPORTANT

How Elections Are Called—The Primaries—Fines and Penalities Prescribed.

Several changes were made in the election laws of the State by the last Legislature and the departments of the Attorney General and Secretary of State are preparing to issue a book giving the laws complete as they are now on the statute books. A summary of the new laws and amendments adopted last winter is as follows:

Chapter 1, approved January 20, provides that when writs of election are issued by the Senate or Assembly for the purpose of filling vacancies in the Legislature the political parties of the county in which the vacancy occurs may nominate candidates in such manner as provided by the county committee of the respective political parties.

Chapter 2, approved January 25. Providing for elections to fill vacancies in the Legislature. Advertising the writ of election in at least four newspapers in the county affected constitutes sufficient notice of the election. The nominations must be duly certified to the county clerk. The boards of registration are to sit regularly the Friday preceding the election, from 1 to 8 p. m. Official ballots are to be used, due certificates of election issued and the total compensation of the members of the election boards is fixed at $10 each.

Chapter 3, approved February 15. Act abolishing spring elections in townships and boroughs and combining them with the general election in November. Affects all officers except members of school boards or school trustees. Under the provisions of this law the terms of office of all officers, except justices of the peace, hereafter elected in any township or borough shall commence at noon on January 1 succeeding their election, and continue for the respective terms already fixed by law. This law will make it necessary to nominate and elect November 7 all the officers in the townships and boroughs that would have been elected last spring under the old law.

Chapter 117, approved April 6. Amends section 6 of the general election law, revision of 1898, provides that political parties may adopt resolutions declaring for the election of members of county, city or other municipal committees at the regular primary election, which will be held this year September 5. After adopting the resolution the party must file a copy, signed by the chairman and secretary, with the clerk of the municipality affected, and it shall be lawful thereafter to elect the committee at the primary election in the manner provided for the selection of party candidates to be voted for in a single ward or township.

Chapter 118, approved April 6. Providing a penalty in cases where election officers are guilty of neglect of duty. Any public officer or election officer upon whom a duty is imposed by the election laws of the State, who refuses or wilfully neglects or wilfully fails to perfrom such duty, or who wilfully performs it contrary to law, shall for each offence, if no other penalty is imposed by the general election act, be punished by a $500 fine or imprisonment for three years, or both.

This act makes a further penalty of $500 fine or imprisonment for three years, or both, for each offense in illegal registering, or voting, or hindering a legal voter from voting, or aiding or abetting in any of those offences. The same penalty is applied for tampering with or injuring any ballot box or voting machine. This law was the result of the trouble at New Brunswick election day last November, when the election board in one district refused to permit a large number of Rutgers students to vote.

Somerville Healthy.

The Somerville Board of Health, at a meeting held the other night, elected Dr. A. L. Stillwell president; William R. Sutphen, secretary, and George D. Totten, inspector. During the year past sixteen cases of scarlet fever, seven of typhoid and twelve of diphtheria were reported, only two deaths resulting—both from typhoid. At present there are no contagious diseases, and the general condition of the town is good.

West Ends Won.

The West Ends defeated the Orange Field Club team Saturday afternoon in a close contest by a score of 6 to 5. The score:

| | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| W. E. | 0 0 0 0 2 0 2 0 1 | 6 | 5 | 3 |
| O. F. C. | 0 2 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 | 5 | 5 | 4 |

Batteries—Parent and Boyle, Bird and Randolph.

Admiral Dewey Buys $1,000 Horse.

Admiral Dewey has bought from John Keron & Son, of Elizabeth, the $1,000 prize gray cob which won the blue ribbon several times in the Tennessee Horse Show. The horse was bought by the Admiral and his wife to drive, and he has ordered it sent to Bath Beach.

PULPIT TALKS FOR SHUT-IN PLAINFIELDERS

No 6—The Divine Element in Human Life, By the Rev. Charles E. Herring, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. C. E. Herring.

should have ministered to Joseph's conceit. At home, under the tender care of Jacob, the sterling virtues of Joseph's character would never have been developed. It required years of hardship to make a man of him.

God, then, is above all human actors.

If this difficult experience were not best for Joseph it would never have happened.

God permits a man to pass through the valley of deep darkness when that experience is needful for him;

"It was not you that sent me hither but God."—Genesis 45:8.

"Not you but God." God in His power, wisdom and love infallibly guiding you. Do you believe it?—believe it with all your mind and heart.

Joseph is not anxious for vengeance on his brethren, for his, and he conscious is that God's providence was in all this experience, for he said "God sent me hither to preserve life." Joseph's brethren could not have done a better thing had they planned it all in love.

After all these years of trial and experience Joseph said it was not you but God. The father's favoritism was not calculated to develop the best in Joseph, and very natural was it that the coat of many colors should not only have excited the envy of the brothers, but that it and when David, in the 23d Psalm, speaks of that valley, he is thinking not of the last hours of a man's life, but of the dark hours that are often his as he passes through life. We all have to pass through such a valley. When David, in the 23d Psalm, Joseph passed through such a valley when he was forced from his father's home by his brethren.

He emerged from the valley when his wisdom won him an honored position in Potiphar's houses, for Potipher was evidently a man of influence in Egypt.

But ten years of success were followed by three years in prison under a false charge. It was a dungeon, and at first his feet were bound with fetters.

If we must pass through such a valley, let us be conscious that God is not simply leading us into that valley, but through it. We shall emerge some day and be richer and happier for the experience.

Scripture says a great deal about waiting for God. We have learned what it is to wait on God, but it is a far more difficult thing to wait for God. In the 40th of Isaiah the American Revision translates they that wait for God instead of they that wait on God shall receive their strength.

The 33d Psalm says the eye of Jehovah is upon them that wait for him. The American Revision seems to have intensified the thought of waiting God's time.

So Joseph waited patiently, and in due time God elevated him.

The fact that Joseph was elevated and the brothers failed in their design did not relieve them of responsibility. They meant harm, but God did not permit any harm to come from it.

"no touch of harm came, but all good, all happiness, not one faint fleck of failure."

Some one gives this illustration of how God turns harm into good.

A man in the woods fires a gun to kill his brother. He misses his brother, kills a panther instead, just at the moment the panther is springing at his brother. The brother's life is fortunately saved by the very bullet that was intended to kill him.

God used the selfish designs of Joseph's brethren to be his salvation and theirs. Yet the spirit of these men is the same.

Judas, far from defeating the plans of God, simply carried them out. Yet we may be sure that God judges a man not by what he accomplishes, but by his intentions.

Joseph needed all those years of experience to make him what God intended him to be. His supremacy at home was too easy. He was visionary and self-conceited. He needed to come into closer touch with the world.

We are always better for our struggles and bitter experiences, and it is a mark of God's approval when he permits us to pass through them, for it indicates that there is some latent power within that needs to be cultivated.

Browning speaks of man as the clay upon the wheel of plastic circumstance, and God the potter.

The potter is shaping us.
"Earth changes, but thy soul and
God stand sure.
What entered into thee
That was, and is, and shall be."

But it takes the wheel of plastic circumstance to shape us.

God led Joseph into Egypt that the circumstances of that life might be used in his making.

We don't find in the history of Joseph that failure ever made him despondent. He fell, but always on his feet.

His brethren and the Midianites did not appreciate his value, but Potipher, the captain of the king's body guard, recognized the executive abilit yof Joseph and made him head of his household—a slave, yet a commander—That service would tell in future years.

In prison three years—fettered at first—he soon became the dominant spirit in the prison. Then he was not only prominent in the court of Pha*raoh he was as a father to Pharaoh,* a man whose natural endowment and experience made him wise in counsel, so that Pharaoh consulted him as a child would a parent.

Joseph had to travel a very devious path before he reached the goal God marked out for him.

He is his father's favorite. His brother's envy is excited. They leave him in a pit to die, then, by chance, a band of Midianites pass that way, and he is sold to them. In turn, he is sold to another company of merchants. Then he is sold to Potipher and made a servant in that family. Then he is falsely accused and cast into prison, where he remains three years.

Certainly no evidence in these circumstances that God is leading him. None of these men had any other than a selfish thought with reference to Joseph. The purpose of the merchants was simply a selfish one. They were simply serving their own selfish purposes, yet they were carrying out the plans of God. No matter how selfish men may be, they are God's instruments. In some way, in your life and mine, that is if we are God's servants, the plans of God are being realised.

If you are a child of God, every event in your life is bringing you nearer the goal God has planned for you. God's people were to be trained in Egypt, and the pit was the first step towards the realization of the plan.

The brothers of Joseph little thought when they placed him in the pit they were forging one of the links that would bind them to Joseph. The pit was the first step to the throne, the first step to his domination over them.

We speak of luck as favoring some men. Everything they touch turns into money.

Sometimes it does seem so. Yet the making of money is not the supreme goal of a Christian's life.

There is absolutely no luck in what is the supreme good for us. Providence, not luck, is shaping our lives. Perhaps He prevents our making too much money that we might be rich toward God.

When Joseph stood before his brethren and looked back upon his life, he said it was all good, and the brethren by their wickedness had not in the slightest hindered God's purpose.

Is it not an inspiration to know that what God has purposed for us shall be realized in God's time? And what we call failures in our lives are not really failures, but unrecognized blessings.

In every's man's life there are circumstances which he can control, and circumstances which he cannot control. He must be careful in marking the distinction.

A man may call certain things necessities, which merely evidence his lack of will.

Joseph preserved his incorruptibility even though his resistance meant prison for him. It might have been more politic for him not to have resisted. He might have said he was powerless in those circumstances. But no circumstances could force him to be impure.

Yet there were circumstances in his life over which he had no control, and to those he simply submitted. Resistance to his brethren was useless. Resistance to the Midianite merchantman was useless. He becomes a slave, and there is no help for it.

Providence does not do for a man what he can do for himself, but Providence does help His own in their helplessness. And as young as Joseph was he was sufficiently aware of this truth.

There are moments in our experience when we feel our powerlessness, then we submit, but not without the consciousness that God is all powerful, and that what he has planned will be realized. There is inspiration in this thought. You have had your dream, and you have been disillusioned. Submit graciously, let things take their course. You will be a prince when God realizes his plan, and you will then say it was not man, but God.

Joseph lost the blessings of home—and what a home he had. Think of the love of his father. But that loss was the making of Joseph; that experience developed his genius and make him a blessing to Egypt, and finally to his home and the world.

Shall I not then learn to pray? Lord, bless every loss to me that thou dost permit, that I may find through that loss something better and richer which I cannot lose.

PASTOR SUPPORTS THE FAIR DIVORCEE

SAYS ALL VICE CHANCELLORS CAN'T CONVICT MRS. MEYERS.

Rev. Dr. Charles Herr, the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Jersey City, who championed the cause of Mrs. Clara E. Meyers, from whom George Morehouse Meyers, the envelope manufacturer, obtained a divorce on Friday, which was followed next day by the suicide of Louis J. Apgar, who was named co-respondent, made some illusions to the case at Sunday morning's service. According to several parishioners, he expressed the opinion that Mrs. Meyers was an innocent woman, who had been greatly wronged. Mrs. Meyers was a regular attendant and active worker in Dr. Herr's church.

When seen by a reporter after the service, Dr. Herr said:

"I have declared by views in the statement made yesterday. I have said all I'm going to say."

Mrs. Meyers didn't go to church Sunday. She remained home all day.

The funeral of Mr. Apgar took place at his hom,e 94 Sip avenue, yesterday. The service was private.

The statement about the case which Rev. Dr. Herr made Saturday is as follows:

"I do not doubt that Vice Chancellor Garrison did his duty as he saw it, but there was one thing that he was not clear-minded enough to see—namely, the self-evidencing simplicity and innocence of Mrs. Meyers' character. It is lamentable that he did not find a category in which to place a woman who is childlike in her purity, naturalness, truthfulness, openness, goodness, modesty and unsuspiciousness of evil; but all the vice chancellors in Christendom could not make Mrs. Meyers guilty of the crime with which she was charged. The result of the trial will not in the least disturb the faith and loyalty of those who know her. She has from the first confidently left her case to the righteous decision of the public, and I have no doubt that the confidence has not been misplaced."

SPEAK-EASY MAN GETS 7 DAYS AND $20 FINE

RECORDER DOUD PUNISHES MARGENTINO IN RIGHT FASHION.

Chief Marshal Weiss' crusade against illegal liquor selling in the borough led to the arrest of Frank Margentino, of Somerset street, on that charge yesterday. He was arraigned before Recorder Doud last night and pleading guilty, was fined $20 and given seven days in jail as an added reminder that "speak-easies" are not wanted over the brook.

Margentino, who recently returned to the borough from Westfield, conducts a peanut and fruit store on Somerset street opposite Manning avenue. His place has been under surveillance for several weeks, and yesterday Chief Weiss landed a couple of drunks who had bought their "red eye" of the proprietor in the rear part of the store. They agreed to stand by their testimony, and the arrest followed.

Potter, 15; Somerset, 8.

Another victory came to the Potter A. C. Saturday afternoon when it defeated the Somersets by the score of 15 to 8. This makes ten games won and two lost for the Potter aggregation. Batteries for Potters, F. Terry and P. Terry; for Somersets, Decoursey and Burns.

Runyon Gathering Support.

Judge Runyon appears to be fast gathering support for the Republican nomination for Senator from Union county. Senators elected this year have a vote for United States Senator to succeed John F. Dryden in 1907.—Westfield Standard.

In the Hospital Now.

Mrs. J. P. Mosher, of West Fifth street, who received injuries a number of weeks ago, the result of C. W. Holland's automobile jumping from the street and striking her, has been removed to the hospital, where she continues to improve.

Full Day at the Shore.

Don't fail to go with Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., on their excursion to Asbury Park on Saturday. A full day at the shore, leaving there at 9 o'clock at night.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 30.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Missions in Japan.—Mic. v. 2, 4, 12, 15.

The fifth chapter of Micah is decidedly a Messianic chapter. It contains the familiar prophecy concerning Bethlehem of Judah, which, though small, should become great as the birthplace of Christ. It prophesies also concerning His kingdom and His victory, especially over idolatry. These prophecies concerning Christ and His kingdom applied in a general way to Japan suggest some features of missions in the island empire.

1. Japan, though a small island empire, may become great by accepting Christ. Bethlehem was a small and unimportant village near Jerusalem. There were many places in Palestine much larger than Bethlehem, but Christ was born in Bethlehem and from that day on it has been exalted among cities. The names and sites of many oriental towns larger and more important than ancient Bethlehem have passed away, but Bethlehem still remains and as the birthplace of Christ becomes of more importance every year. Japan is a small empire with great opportunities and possibilities provided its people accept Christ as their personal Saviour and make Christianity the bulwark of their new civilization. Human civilization alone cannot make and keep Japan great. Let Christ be born there—born into Japanese civilization, born into the hearts and the lives of the people—and Japan's place among the civilized nations is an assured fact. Leave out Christ, and the nation cannot attain to a national standard of righteousness that will be both exalted and permanent.

2. Japan must not merely accept Christ to become a permanently great nation, but must rule in the name of Christ. The government must be Christian, and in administering domestic and foreign affairs it must be guided by the principles of Christian righteousness and equity. The nation that shall stand and rule in the strength of the Lord, in the majesty of the name of the Lord his God * * * shall abide," but "the nation that forgets God shall perish." The history of nations proves the absolute correctness of these two statements.

3. Japan to have permanent politica. success must crush out idolatry. Everything that is heathenish must be done away with. All false philosophies, all evil and sinful practices and all worship of idols must be done away with before Japan can be truly great and exalted. The day of the successful idolatrous nation has passed away. There is not one wholly given to idolatry that counts for much among the nations of the world. Japan is reaching toward the fulfillment of these conditions. Let us earnestly pray and give and labor until they are completely realized.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxxiii, 12; cxxxv, 15-21; Prov. xiv, 34; Isa. xi, 1-9; lii, 7-10; Nah. i, 15; Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; Rom. x, 14, 15; I John v, 21; Rev. xxii, 17.

The Pledge.

If there is anything unreasonable about promising to perform plain, ordinary, specific Christian duties, unless prevented by some good reason, which satisfies one's conscience, I fail to see it. But I am not dogmatizing in these articles or merely presenting my own opinions. I am trying to bring the light of twenty-five years of history to bear on the subject. Christian Endeavor history is unanimous for the covenant pledge. The first society has always had it and is as strong today as it ever was. Many societies are more than twenty years old and ascribe their continued strength and activity to the covenant pledge. Other societies have discarded or essentially weakened it and have suffered in a greater or less degree. Some of these have died, some are living at a "poor dying rate," some are kept alive by the personality of the pastor or some strong members; others—and there are not a few—have reorganized on substantially the old basis and have regained their strength and vigor.

Let history teach its salutary lessons.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., LL. D., in Christian Endeavor World.

About Our Name.

In a strong editorial printed recently that admirable Baptist paper, the Watchman, said: "The Christian Endeavor movement has sometimes been lightly criticised for its name, and it has been suggested that a 'Society of Christian Achievement' would be an improvement. But it appears that the name chosen by Dr. Clark for his young people's society in Portland, Me., nearly a quarter of a century ago is, after all, more in accord with the real spirit of the religion of Jesus. The Christian life is a life of endeavor. It can never truly be anything else. There may be and there must be accomplishment along the way, but there can never be anything like full and final achievement either in service or in character."

Progress Abroad.

The society organized in the Moravian church at Roebuck, island of Barbados, last August with twenty-four members has greatly increased. A union has been formed with the two other societies on the island under the supervision of Rev. S. A. Estabrook and a rally held. Working bands, who do open air work, have been busy in various parts of the island. A tract distributing committee has circulated more than a thousand tracts, and the missionary committee has raised $20.

Yorkshire, England, now has 978 Christian Endeavor societies, with 28,000 members. Few American counties can beat that.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

July 30: "Missions In Eastern Asia."—Ps. xxii, 27, 28; Jer. xvi, 19.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

Recent events have turned the eyes of all the world upon the far east. The struggle between Japan and Russia in Manchuria and on the sea has for the time drawn attention from Korea and the Philippines and the exciting events so lately occurring in China.

These far regions were but lately scarcely more than names hiding a dim and mysterious civilization. We have learned more of these lands and peoples, their customs and resources, during the past few years than had in as many centuries before filtered through the barriers they had erected around themselves.

Vast changes are in progress—commercial, political and industrial. The movement is worldwide in its effects. To one who observes the surface only it seems as if the controlling force is political. Those who see below the surface declare that the real power is financial, and aver that greed of gain is responsible for all the worldwide turmoil of these present days.

A deeper insight reveals One who sitteth in the heavens whose is the kingdom and the power over all. He is making even the wrath of men to praise Him and the religious force to be the most powerful of all that moves the affairs of men.

If we would have the clew to the maze we must study the religious movements of the times. Keep your eye on the religious changes in China and you shall be able to forecast the future by the signs of the times. To be fully abreast of the work one should take some time to acquaint himself with the older works on China treating of its history, government, peoples and their customs and religions. With this basis there should be some attention given to the story of foreign commercial and military contact during the last half century or more. Then should come the study of missionary enterprise since Christians began in earnest in the last century to work for the regeneration of China.

To move this most inert mass of humanity the world has ever seen, compacted as no other people on the face of the earth, with a civilization the most venerable, seemed a task too stupendous for human accomplishment. To all but those who have the gospel of Jesus Christ it would have seemed hopeless as well as uncalled for. These have the prophetic promise that "all the ends of the world shall remember and turn to the Lord." So they have toiled on in hope, and that which they asked for comes. The mass is moving, slowly, to be sure—very slowly indeed—but this is well. A more sudden movement would mean an avalanche, and that would be destructive. Better that they should lift as the great tides lift along their shores. The most recent events along the Yangtse and far into the interior and distant west of the empire show that since the days of the Boxer uprising and the siege of Peking a change of sentiment toward the foreigner and the Christian religion has become apparent. Inquiry has taken the place of apathy; desire for betterment appears where before was stolid indifference and hopelessness.

All this is significant. The awakening of the east means much to the world. Are we arousing a brother to share with us in the struggle and prize of life or a giant enemy to oppose the good? Who can prophesy what the next century holds of blackness and of beauty? There confronts us a veritable "yellow peril." The orient can help mightily in the solution of the problems of man, but will do so only as Christianized. Its type of Christianity must be different in many respects from that of the west. It may and should be higher and better.

Our work is now to help all possible to give the light and life to these long darkened peoples. We can do it only as we are intelligent, prayerful and gitftul toward them. Will you lift your share?

Keynote of Christian Life.

Christian humility must be the keynote of the Christian's life. How does the very thought of Christ's love for us fill our own hearts with love and humility! It is at the foot of the cross that humility is born. That is its natural soil. That divine flower, hitherto unknown by the world, came out of the earth moistened by the blood of Christ. Elsewhere it will only perish. Cultivated in our hearts, we cease to glory in anything less than Christ Himself. The world and the things of the world are nothing but vanity. This is the way which leads to God, a way where we can walk with God. There is little in this world worth glorying in but the way of God is full of the brightness of His presence. Let us pray that we may find and keep that way and glory only in it.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

The Royal Visitor.

My thoughts are often like a motley crowd
That fill the street with ignominious cry,
But now and then amid the tumult loud
The kingly truth goes by.

I know not whence he comes or whither bound;
Our city's royal visitor may be,
But where he walks a silence spreads around—
All yield instinctively.

Then many narrow views which I have held,
Mistaken aims and selfish hopes and pride,
Hasten away, by very shame compelled,
And from my presence hide.

So pure is truth, so beautiful and kind,
So all commanding is the voice that calls,
A hundred aspirations, long confined,
Break from their prison walls.
—Stephen Tracy Livingston in Forward.

SOME HINTS FOR THE COOK

Berry Pudding.

Sift together two cupfuls of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt and three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder; rub into the flour one heaped tea*spoonful of butter, until the flour* feels fine and mealy; stir in one cupful of milk and one heaped cupful of berries that have been picked over, washed if necessary, dried and dusted with flour; turn into a well but*tered pudding mould, bowl or lard* pail that has been floured, or sprinkle with fine bread crumbs; fill only a little over half full, cover tight and place in a steamer or a kettle with sufficient boiling water to reach one*third up the form; boil or steam an* hour and a half.

Four ounces of finely chopped suet may be used in place of the butter, if desired, but on no account use lard. If preferred, batter may be turned into small cups buttered and crumbed, steamed forty minutes and served one to each individual.

Peach Custard.

Moisten one tablespoonful of corn starch with two teaspoonsful of cold milk. Add one-half cupful of sugar, stir well, turn into a stew pan, add one teaspoonful of butter and a little at a time, one pint of boiling milk. Separate the yolks and whites of two eggs. Beat the yolks till light and blend with them one tablespoonful of cold milk. Stir this into the corn starch mixture, place all over the fire and cook three minutes, then set on ice. When quite cold, add to the custard six ripe peaches pared and cut into small pieces. Over the top spread a nicely flavored meringue, made of the two whites of eggs and two dessert spoonfuls of pulverized sugar.

Spanish Buns.

Five eggs, well beaten; cut up in a cup of warm new milk, half a pound of fresh butter, one pound of sifted flour and wineglass of yeast. Set it to rise for an hour, in a warm place; when risen, sift in half a pound of white sugar, and half a grated nutmeg, add one wineglass of rosewater, and one cup of currants, which have been previously cleaned, mix these well, pour it into pans and set to rise again for half an hour. Bake one hour.

The above is a famous recipe and dates back over one hundred years.

Stuffed Cucumbers.

Pare the cucumbers, cutting and peeling as thin as possible. Divide each cucumber in half lengthwise and carefully scoop out the seeds and soft pulp so that the walls of the cucumbers may be left intact. Prepare a filling as follows: One cupful of fine bread crumbs, one cupful of minced cold chicken, one teaspoonful of minced parsley, 10 drops of onion juice, one tablespoonful of melted butter, two tablespoonfuls of cream and salt and pepper to taste. The filling may be softened with more cream if it is too stiff. Fill the cucumber boats, rounding at the top, and place in a baking dish. Pour around them a well-seasoned stock of gravy, sprinkle with fine bread crumbs and bake covered half an hour, then uncover and brown. Remove to a platter and thicken the gravy with a little brown flour and pour around the cucumbers.

Veal Soup.

Take a knuckle of veal, crack the bone, was hand put in on to boil in more than sufficient water to cover it. After boiling some time, pare, cut and wash two onions, five of six turnips and put in with the meat. Whne this has been boiled one hour, add some sweet marjoram rubbed fine with salt and cayenne pepper to taste. Then take flour, which mix with cold water to the consistency of cream and add to the soup while boiling. Care must be taken not to make it too thick. Then pare and cut into pieces six or eight potatoes, which wash and add about half an hour bfeore being served; and about ten minutes before sending to table. Dumplings may be added, if liked.

Cream of Spinach.

Cut and wash the leaves from two quarts of spinach, and throw them into a perfectly dry soup kettle. Stand the kettle over the fire and stir constantly for fifteen minutes, until the spinach is wilted and cooked. Drain, saving the water. Chop the spinach very fine and press through a sieve. Grate a small onion, and with the spincah add to the water. Cook this with a quart of milk in a double boiler, run a rounding tablespoonful of butter and two of flour together, add them to the milk and stir until smooth. Season to taste, strain and serve with bread sticks.

Fight Over Hotel Ownership.

Another round in the warmly contested Hotel Sterling at Trenton, litigation will be fought out at the State House, Trenton, August 1 at 10 a. m., when, under an order made yesterday by Vice Chancellor Bergen, the creditors and stockholders of the Fleming Hotel Company, which operated the hostelry when the receiver was appointed, must show cause why the receiver's sale of the hotel furnishings and lease should not be confirmed, and Charles J. Fury, of Somerville, the purchaser, put in possession.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Suit has been brought before Justice Hand by A. G. Gordon & Co., of New York, against Harry Fetzberg, on contract. The papers in the case are returnable Thursday, July 28.

TESTING THE AUTO LAW

Mr. Rushmore Arrested For Not Stopping Machine When Nearing Balky Horse.

TRIAL ON FRIDAY.

A. C. or A. May Back Him—C. K. Vincent, the Complainant—In Justice Clark's Court.

Taking advantage of the sixth sec*tion of the new automobile law,* which states that failure of a person to stop running a machine when signalled to by an officer or driver of a spirited horse may be construed as a violation, the Scotch Plains authorities will arraign S. W. Rushmore, of this city, on Friday night before Justice Clark on that charge. It is the first time in Union county that this section has been enforced, and the outcome will be watched closely by auto owners.

The specific complaint against Rushmore, who is the head of the dynamo works on South avenue, is preferred by Charles K. Vincent, of Fanwood. He alleges that while out driving with his family on July 4 he was compelled to stop on Westfield avenue, Graceland, because of one of his horses throwing a boot. While fixing it an automobile loomed up in the distance, going at record-breaking speed, and Vincent's team began plunging about. He signalled the autoist to stop, but his warning was ignored, the machine flying by him, scaring his horses almost beyond control and endangering the lives of the carriage occupants.

Mr. Vincent did not know the identity of the machine driver, but he caught the registry number and determined to follow the matter up. The Secretary of State furnished Rushmore's name and the warrant for his arrest was secured. When brought before Justice Clark the defendant asked for an adjournment of the hearing, and it was put over until Friday night at 7:30.

The case promises to rival the famous legal wrangle between Fanwood township and Hermann Unger, the Newark millionaire, who was fined $25 by Justice Clark for exceeding the speed limit for automobiles. An appeal was taken and the matter dragged along for many months, Unger losing in the end. It is said Mr. Rushmore belongs to the Automobile Club of America, and that it has a fund ready to test the legality of the new law.

ELIZABETH DISPUTES OTHER TEAMS' CLAIMS

DENIS RIGHTS OF WESTFIELD OR PLAINFIELD TO CHAMPIONSHIP

The Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. team is growing anxious over the rivalry and series of games being played by Plainfield and Westfield for the county championship honors, and believes that it should be considered before the honors are awarded. This is the way the Elizabeth Journal describes the situation:

"The Plainfield and Westfield baseball teams have hung up signs along the highways of the country from the boughs of trees, and in the cities on every corner where baseball is talked, proclaiming it loud to the world that these nines are playing a series for the championship of Union county. Some wise fan has asked: 'Who gave them a license to play for the county championship?'

"Manager Denman may have championship timber, so may Manager Daab in his Hoboken nine, which is representing Plainfield this year, but there are other teams in the county that would like to have a look-in for a chance to play before the championship is arbitrarily advertised as the property of either one of two teams.

"The Y. M. C. A. team, of Elizabeth, ought to be in line for a county championship struggle, and as a matter of fact Manager Fredericks is willing to stack his combination up against either the Plainfield or Westfield teams. Mr. Fredericks thinks that the two teams down the line have been a little too previous in arrogating the championship honors to themselves.

"The Y. M. C. A. team has met but one defeat this season, and has played some of the best semi-professional teams in the country. That defeat was at the hands of the Stars in a mid-week game, when Waller pitched for the victors. Though the Y. M. C. A. team was the beaten nine, Waller was batted all over the lot that day; in fact, twice as hard as the Y. M. C. A. pitcher was batted. Waller does not look like a difficult proposition for the Elizabeth boys to solve.

"Since the Westfield and Plainfield teams have started out to play for the championship, however, let them keep the game up, and when they have decided which is the better, let a series be arranged with the Y. M. C. A. team here. Denman and Daab now have the floor."

Mrs. John Cashman, Jr., of Providence, R. I., returned home Saturday after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Cashman, of Richmond street.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

Thursday, July 27, 1905

The only good political machine is the automatic voting machine.

Few men refuse to listen to the people's call when the salary is big enough.

This is the time of year when the rust is kept off the newspaper office scissors.

Come to think of it, Jim Martine has not been brought out for the senatorship.

La Follette is keeping quiet.—Newark News.

So is everybody else just now.

"Francis T. Mongomery is mentioned as a Councilmanic possibility in the Second ward. He is of the right calibre for the office.

Senator Platt says that his life has been a failure. His admission proves that he is a more sensible man than most people have given him credit to be.

There's lots doing in Union county politics, but it is impossible to stir up any excitement in Somerset. The politicians over there wait until the last moment and then make up for lost time.

From present appearances Charles N. Fowler is about as near to the U. S. Senate as Peary is to the North Pole, notwithstanding that some newspapers seem to think he has a show of getting there.

From Trenton comes the tidings that Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, may be the next chairman of the Union County Republican Committee. What's the matter with Frank H. Smith for the place?

An exchange throws out the suggestion that Kean ought to be worried pretty for the reason that Frank H. Smith is to be the county chairman and William N. Runyon is hot after the senatorship. Why?

These are the days when contributions to the baby camp should come in steadily. Morris Van Buren holds to that opinion and, accordingly, has sent his check for five dollars. The amount has been transmitted to the chairman of the committee in charge of the work. The full list of contributors to date is published in another column.

It is indeed unfortunate that a row should have taken place over an umpire's decision in the Plainfield-Westfield championship contest on Saturday. Such scenes take away all the pleasure there is in baseball and for the sake of the sport should be avoided in the future. Plainfield wants to win the series but no loyal fans desire to have championship honors marred by such unseemly disputes, even though the rival team may be responsible. Remember what the umpire says "goes."

Philadelphia's director of public safety has ordered some 31,000 fraudulent names crossed off the registry list. That means a difference of 62,000 votes, which have gone to make up that "grand majority of 275,000 in the Keystone State," of which we have heard Republican campaign orators boast. It can be said conservatively that when the polling lists are purged entirely of fraudulent names 125,000 would be a big majority for Pennsylvania to give any Republican candidate.

Concluding an elaborate review of a costly booklet forwarded to it for editorial eulogy, an advertiser's magazine says that "the general effect is so artistic that even one without interest in the subject drops the circular into the waste basket reluctantly." As one of the main objects of the advertiser is to draw the trade of those originally "without interest in the subject," his effort is a failure when his "ad" is consigned to the waste basket. Proper use of newspaper space would eliminate the number of uninterested and pave the way for a more cordial and open-minded reception of circulars.—Ex.

"Men of advertising," said Professor Small, of Chicago University, in a recent address to the Agate Club, of Chicago, "may you succeed in making the average man consume as much as the average family, and may you put that man on the up grade to a higher quality of demand." And that is just what the advertising men are doing. A page might be filled with a list of products which are consumed in greater quantities by individuals today than they were by whole families comparatively a few years ago, because they have been persistently kept before the public. The only way the consumer can maintain a balance in the treasury nowadays is by cutting down his appropriations for unadvertised articles as his purchases of advertised articles increase.—Ex.

Money for Free Swimming Pool.

Through the efforts of W. T. Mundy, of 141 Duer street, $32 was raised last week for the boys' swimming pool. He collected the money on Park and North avenues, but as soon as he learned of the generous contribution of $60 by a Plainfielder he stopped collecting, as it is believed that sufficient funds have been received for the enterprise.

AMUSEMENTS.

One of the coolest and most delightful places in New York these hot evenings is the New York Roof Garden and Wistaria Grove. High up on top of the New York Theatre the air is particularly refreshing, and the show, it is simply immense. A novelty occurs every ten minutes and they are of the kind seldom seen at summer performances. The Red Domino is the attraction that will hold any crowd. "When we are forty-one" is of a high order. In it are Harry Bulger, who needs no introduction to theatregoers; Elsie Janis, Edith Blair and a number of other stars of the right magnitude. The Avalos and Sam Elton, in addition to many varieties, make up the rest of the bill. Performance starts at 8:20. It's one round of pleasure from start to finish.

Underlined for the week of July 24th at Keith's are Charles Guyer and Nellie O'Neill, for two years the comedy feature of "Babes in Toyland," presenting their new acrobatic comedy entitled "Watch the Finish;" John W. World and Mandell Kingston, the singing and dancing comedy duo; Emil Hoch, Jane Elton & Co., in their comedy success, "Mlle. Ricci;" the Three Navaros in one of the best balancing acts in the varieties; the Avon Comedy Four, who combine music with mirth; Yamamoto Brothers, Japanese gymnasts; Orth & Fern, the clever pianist and dancing comedian; Ben Welch, the natural Hebrew character impersonator; the Baileys, America's neatest colored entertainers; O'Rourke & Burnett, clog dancers; Misses Mills and Morris, the burnt cork soubrettes; Barr & Evans, sketch team; Violet Staley, singing comedienne, and Gates & Nelson, balancers on the revolving globe.

The Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association of Kings county will inaugurate its first seashore festival on Wednesday evening next, when the association and its friends will visit Pain's Port Arthur at the fireworks amphitheatre, Manhattan Beach, the association participating in the tickets sold. This is a most worthy object and deserves a great deal at the hands of people in City of Churches, whose charity is conducted on the highest plane. Do not forget that every ticket bought from the officers or friends of this association adds to the fund which is doing so much good. Of the many comments which have been made on Port Arthur, few have been unfavorable, yet now and then the adverse criticisms have been of value, as was the case when a high dignitary of the Greek church took exception to the way in which the flags were blessed.

A balloon ascension by a daring young aeronaut, and open air concerts by the Jerseyland Orchestra Band are some of the special features arranged for Sunday, July 23, by the management of Jerseyland Park. This should effectually disapprove the report that the park is about to close. On the contrary, the management say they are "here to stay," and hope by the continuance of proffering clean, up to date attractions to eventually receive the support of the best class of people of the vicinity.

NO BOXING BOUT.

Newark Police Captain Prevented a "Go" in That City.

Captain Michael Corbitt, of the Third precinct, Newark, refused to sanction a bout in which Jack Munroe, the husky miner pugilist, and "Kid" Miller, were to have been the principals Saturday afternoon at Jefferson Oval in that city. Munroe umpired a ball game, and it was arranged to have the fist fest as a sort of a side show. The doughty captain had not been counted on, however, and when he received advance information that a bout was to be pulled off, he caused word to be sent that he would not countenance any such infraction of the statutes within his precinct.

An officer was sent to the ball grounds to see that the edict was carried out. He reported that no attempt was made to carry out the illmade arrangements.

BROKE HIS LEG ON RAILROAD.

While Attempting to Steal Ride, Young Man is Hurt.

On Saturday night, Percy Beers, twenty years old, was taken to Somerset Hospital, Somerville, from Lebanon, Hunterdon county, where he was severely injured while attempting to board a moving coal train. Beers slipped and fell under the wheels. One leg was broken and he was otherwise severely injured.

Dr. F. L. Johnson, of Stanton, and Dr. H. H. Miller, of Lebanon, attended him until a train could be secured to take him to Somerset Hospital. It is expected he will recover.

Somerville, 16; New Brunswick, 4.

The West Ends, of Somerville, defeated the New Brunswick Lyceum team at Somerville on Saturday by a score of 16 to 4. The visiting team played a very poor game, ten errors being charged against them. The home team put up an excellent game. Galbraith pitched good ball. George Allen made a three bagger, which was the feature. The score:

| | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| W. E. | 5 0 0 4 1 2 4 0 x | 16 | 16 | 2 |
| N. B. | 0 3 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 | 4 | 8 | 10 |

Batteries—Galbraith and Russell; Harding and Bowen.

LITERARY.

There is a growing interest among thinkers and progressive people in such subjects as drugless healing, nature cure, psychic research, practical every-day psychology, auto-suggestion, will-power, memory culture, brain building and allied subjects. Those topics are discussed in the August issue of Suggestion, a journal of the new psychology for health, happiness and success. The principle articles discuss stability, poise and determination in character building; hygiene; the cause and cure of old age, etc. Suggestion Publishing Co., 4020 Drexel Building, Chicago, Ill.

In connection with the recent change of name by which Leslie's Monthly takes a title more in keeping with its character, American Illustrated Magazine, it is interesting to remember that the first monthly periodical to be issued in this country, which was published in Philadelphia in 1741 by one Andrew Bradford, was also called the American Magazine. Bradford's paper appeared a century and a half before the days of great circulations. Periodical advertising was a thing unknown and the magazine did not live to struggle through its first year. The scheme slept for a time, but Noah Webster, the famous maker of dictionaries, revived it in 1788 and retaining the name American Magazine, published the second monthly periodical which this country has known. Its subscription price of $2.50 did not suffice it to keep it alive through more than a few volumes. Times are indeed changed in the magazine world.

The Greeks believed that the length of a woman's head should be one-eighth of her total height. American women's heads average longer in proportion. Some foolish student of Greek art announced that this bigness was all wrong; and that the American women were of bad proportions. The answer is, of course, that the American women have bigger brains than the Greek women had, and need more room for them; and anyway, if you take the American woman for the standard, the Greek statues will be found to be all out of proportion. Discretion and experience impel us to decide in favor of the American woman—"With the Procession," Everybody's Magazine for August.

The cover design on the August Metropolitan Magazine is by Blendon Campbell and is in full color, as is also the frontispiece by George Gibbs. The latter is perfectly reproduced in four printings, the original being a pastel of extreme delicacy in handling and color. There is a four-page colored insert describing the method by which original paintings the reproduced and printed in this magazine, and a full-color page from the original by Henry Hutt to accompany Caroline Duer's story, "The Escapade."

In the August issue of "Success Magazine" Arthur W. Dunn has an interesting sketch entitled "Senator Morgan as a Long Talker." He tells this amusing anecdote:

Some fifteen years ago, after one of his extended efforts, when he spoke for two or three days to aid in the defeat of the election bill, some one asked him how he could really talk.

"It depends upon the subject," he replied. "If it were a matter that I thoroughly understand, I could talk for two or three days, if it were upon a matter I knew nothing about, I could talk for two or three weeks."

One of Nantucket's summer visitors strolled into the little shop kept by an old man, a native of the place.

In looking about she found a kind of linen cloth which she bought for fancy work. Some friends who saw and liked it, went to the shop and purchased all that remained.

In a few days the proprietor went to the "mainland" to replenish his stock, and bought more of the same goods, which, also, were soon sold.

"Well!" exclaimed Uncle Hi as the last yard went, "if any more of you folks want that stuff you can go ter the mainland an' git it. I can't keep nothing in this here shop!"—Frances B. Phipps, in August Lippincott's.

It is nearly a year since an American magazine has been fortunate enough to secure a story from Kipling; but the August Century prints a tale, "An Habitation Enforced," which gives us Kipling at his best. Someone, in comparing Kipling with the old, three-volume novelist, has said that he gives us "the Liebig extract of those cattle lowing on a thousand hills," so here, where two Americans, a nervously broken millionaire and his wife, take up an enforced habitation in an enchanted corner of England, he contrives to give a quintessence of American and British civilization—a commentary, in brief, with vistas such as only a Kipling can open up. A delightful vein of satire crops out wherever the British way and the American way meet, a vein which will charm readers on both sides the Atlantic. Most readers, too, will find in this latest story of the greatest of living English story-writers the spiritual touch which was so strongly manifest in "They," seemingly marking a new and higher phase of development in man and writer.

Criterion Club's Outing.

The Criterion Club will spend the last two weeks in August at Asbury Park. Many of the members will spend their regular summer vacation at that time.

GLENNEY IS DEFEATED

Loses to Dudley H. Barrows in Play For Golf Championship of Country Club.

WINNER IN GOOD FORM

E. B. Shoemaker Takes First Honors in Golf Committee Competition—Other Results Saturday.

To the surprise of many of his friends, W. L. Glenney was defeated on Saturday for the golf championship at the Plainfield Country Club, Dudley H. Barrows winning by 5 up and 3 to play. While Glenney was hardly up to his usual form, Barrows played a strong game and held his lead throughout, much to the pleasure and satisfaction of his admirers. Barrows will now hold the honors until next year, when he will have to defend them in play again. During the past year he has improved very much in his game and he bids fair to reach a place of prominence both here and in some of the more important matches.

In the weekly play for the golf committee cup E. B. Shoemaker took the first three points with a net score of 75. W. D. Riggs finished second with 78, while H. R. Stockton, E. A. Cruikshank and Earl Stockton, returning a score of 80 each, receive a third of a point. The leading scores were as follows:

E. B. Shoemaker, 76, 1—75; W. D. Riggs, 96, 18—78; H. R. Stockton, 87, 7—80; E. A. Cruikshank, 95, 15—80; Earl Stockton, 91, 11—80; G. M. Furman, 89, 7—82; W. L. Glenney, 80, plus 2—82; H. D. Hibbard, 88, 5—83; C. B. Morgan, 87, 2—85; A. T. N. Streuli, 111, 25—86; J. P. Murray, 105, 13—92.

The only event at the Park Golf Club on Saturday was the weekly competition for the president's and Park Golf Club trophies. Alexander Gilbert and J. L. Watson finished first and second, while there were three players, R. B. Carroll, Reuben Knox and L. R. Thurlow, tied for the remaining point. For the scratch cup, R. B. Carroll won first honors, while Mr. Gilbert finished second and Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, third. The best scores:

Alexander Gilbert, 100, 18—82; John L. Watson, 103, 20—83; Raymond B. Carroll, 85, 0—85; Reuben Knox, 106, 21—85; Leon R. Thurlow, 103, 18—85; Rev. Dr. H. K. Caroll, 101, 6—95.

Decisive contests in many events were played at Cranford Saturday. The survivors of the preliminary medal play contest, at twelve holes, for the H. P. Woods prize, were the former winners, Miss Polly Weathers and Mrs. A. Madden. Mrs. E. Hicks, with the aggregate of 114 for the four contests, each of eighteen holes, won the prize presented by Frank Bonner. In the men's contest in Class A, J. C. Edgecombe won the last of eight handicaps for the president's cup, the gift of Cyrus T. Wood, and won the prize through having the best aggregate net score in all the events. A. Edgecombe was second.

The Class B prize, given by William Sperry, under the same conditions, was won by Sidney Smith, of Bayonne.

TIMBO'S OUTING CLUB.

Popular Organization Will Go to Lake Hopatcong on August 27.

Encouraged by the success of its outing at Fanwood last year, the Timbo Social Club has arranged for a similar affair this season on a larger scale. The members and their friends will go by special train to Lake Hopatcong on August 27, where they will spend the day in athletic games and enjoying the amusements provided by the popular resort. Dinner will be served at the American House and a steamer has been chartered to take the entire gathering to every part of the inland water sheet.

The arrangements have been perfected by a committee composed of Theodore Larew, Jack Gaffney, Frank Schuck and John H. Cose. From present indications there will be several hundred participants.

Rahway, 6; Cranford, 4.

The Rahway Field Club defeated Cranford at the latter place Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 4. Cranford did not play its usual snappy game, and Rahway had an easy time of it. The score:

| | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Rahway | 1 0 0 4 0 1 0 0 0 | 6 | 14 | 3 |
| Cranf'd | 3 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 | 4 | 8 | 4 |

Batteries—Engel and R. Potter; Maurer and W. Poole.

Zimmerman Quits Grocery.

Henry B. Zimmerman, a former resident of his city, and who for the last few years has kept the general merchandise store, in which the postoffice is situated, at Martinville, has sold out the store business to William Way, a resident of that place. Mr. Way will take charge on Monday. James Beekman, the postmaster, will have the postoffice in the same building.

New Brick Yard.

A new brick yard, which has been in the course of construction for some time on Leland avenue, is now almost completed. It will be run, it is said, on up to date methods, and by A. J. Jimerson, of Netherwood.

SURGICAL INSTINCT NOTED IN ANIMALS

BIRDS THAT DRESS THEIR WOUNDS—DOGS AS SELF-DOCTORS.

A party of Johns Hopkins students were talking about "immunity" one night recently, says the Baltimore News. One of them remarked that a dog's saliva has a perfect bactericidal and healing power, and suggested that perhaps it would make a good antiseptic, although it seemed that no bacteriologist had caught the hint contained in the simple process of a dog's licking a sore, a process seen every day.

The idea was discussed generally. The young man who first mentioned it took down a pile of old magazines, and after a diligent search produced a clipping from a medical journal containing a paper by Dr. George M. Gould. Here is a part of it:

"When we commence the observation of the origin of medical discovery and treatment we are struck by the fact that our brothers the animals were first in learning not a little of medical art. It has been noticed that birds often show a true surgical instinct. M. Tatio on several occasions had killed woodcock that were, when shot, convalescing from wounds previously received, and in every instance found the old injury neatly dressed with down, plucked from the stems of feathers and skillfully arranged over the wound, evidently by the beak of the birds.

"In some instances a solid plaster was thus formed, and in others ligaments had been applied to wounded or broken limbs. Ten times in his experience he has found birds whose limbs had been broken by shot, with the fractured ends neatly approximated and litigated together—a statement that is vouched for by no less a naturalist than Fulbert Dumonteil.

"Dr. James Weir says that when bees are attacked with diarrhoea they at once begin to suck astringent pieces of the dogwood, poplar, wild cherry or hickory and rapidly cure themselves. Their instinct carries them so far that in winter if they should happen to be afflicted they will readily drink a decoction of wild cherry if it is placed in the hive. Moreover, they seem to know that filth is a source of disease.

"Dr. Weir further believes that many of the higher animals have discovered and use a materia medica that should be recognized by human physicians. For instance, dogs will seek out and devour the long blades of couch grass (triticum repens) when they are constipated; horses and mules will eat clay when they have scours; cattle with eczema have been seen to plaster hoof and joint with mud. He speaks of seeing a cow break thin ice on a pond and treat her itching joint to a mud poultice. Cats will go miles when they are 'under the weather' for a dose of catnip.

"The saliva of animals seems to have a distinct curative action. Dogs, cats, cattle, rodents, monkeys, all lick their wounds when they can get at them and soon effect cures. Weir also tells of a large dog-faced monkey who scratched his shoulder badly on a projecting nail in his cage. He immediately went to a corner and, seizing a handful of clean sawdust, pressed it on the bleeding scratch. In a few moments the bleeding ceased and the blood dried, leaving a coating under which the healing was prompt.

"The Rev. Egerton R. Young, a missionary in Northwestern Canada, shows us that the surgical instincts of the dog may become so far developed as to produce a real surgeon-doctor. One of his dogs spontaneously took up this work and became so expert the Indians called him Muskeke Atim, the surgeon. Galls, wounds, frozen feet, etc., in the other dogs were successfully and systematically treated by 'Dr.' Rover. The wounds or sores that could not be reached by the dog's own tongue did not heal. The fact shows that, in a state of health and with pure food, the dog's saliva has a perfect bacterial and healing power. Perhaps it would make an ideal antiseptic."

PURE CHRISTIANITY A PASTOR'S THEME

REV. MR. HERRING DWELLS ON "THE QUEEN OF HEAVEN."

"The Queen of Heaven" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in that edifice last night. His text was: "The children gather wood; and the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead their dough, to make cakes to the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink offerings unto other gods, that they may provoke me to anger." Jeremiah VII—18.

This worship of the Queen of Heaven originated long before Christianity, he said. The Israelites thought it brought them prosperity and even today it seems a beautiful faith but it is a pagan institution and not in accordance with the teachings of the Bible, declared Mr. Herring. In Naples some years ago an image of worship called the "Black Madonna" fell into the possession of thieves and the money into the hands of the thieves believing in the magical powers of the image.

The teaching of the Russian church, said he, is causing the nation's destruction today. They, also, believe in the power of magic. Different nations believing in the Queen of Heaven celebrate the feast under different names, such as "Healing Lady" and "Our Lady of Mount Carmel." The Mary of these feasts is not, however, the Mary of the Gospel, he declared.

Where the crown, he said, has been taken from the brow of Christ and placed on the creature, blight and destruction have followed; as in the case of Spain, Portugal, Austria and France.

Rev. Herring concluded by saying: "Oh! that we might have unity, but we are still protestants, we believe in crowning the Lord Jesus Christ Lord of all."

President's Honorary Degrees.

President Roosevelt has received twice the highest number of this kind of degrees (honorary) ever given any other President. Two doctorates have been conferred upon him this year. His bachelor of arts was conferred upon him twenty-five years ago by Harvard. In addition he may now write his name eight LL. D.'s and one L. H. D. He is the first President to receive the latter degree.

His graduation from Harvard came in 1880. The order in which he has received his degrees is:

1880—Harvard, B. A.
1899—Columbia, LL. D.
1901—Yale, LL. D.
1901—Hope College, LL. D.
1902—Harvard, LL. D.
1903—University of Chicago, LL. D.
1903—Northwestern University, LL. D.
1903—University of California, LL. D.
1905—Clark University, LL. D.
1905—Williams College, LL. D.

An impression has existed that a majority of the Presidents of the United States have not been college bred; that in education qualifications and the discipline of college work they were deficient. Recorded facts disprove this. Fourteen of the twenty-five presidents received a college training in their youth.—Chicago Evening Post.

Recent Arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bauer, of Somerville, are rejoicing over the arrival of a son on Saturday. Mrs. Bauer was formerly Miss Maude Van Dyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Van Dyke, of East Fifth street, and Mr. Bauer is a clerk in the Somerville post office. The son has been named Kenneth Van Dyke Bauer.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. Victor Lorton, of West Fourth street, on Thursday.

Dunellen, 8; Imperial A. C., 0.

The Dunellen team defeated the Imperial A. C., of Elizabeth, on the home grounds, Saturday, by a score of 8 to 0. "Phil." Smith, pitching for the locals, was invincible, and not once during the contest did the visitors have a chance to score. He was given almost perfect support.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River.

In effect June 25, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.35, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46 9.30, 9.59, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.03, 12.44, 1.18, 2.21, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.12, 4.47, 5.30, 5.53, 6.29, 6.42, 7.08, 7.32, 8.35, 9.25, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 3.37, 4.47, 7.47, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 9.49 10.02, 10.22 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.20, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.12, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44 4.13 4.47 5.30 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.34, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 6.52, 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville 5.19, 7.12, 8.21, 9.22, 9.55, 11.09 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.32, 5.03, 5.29, 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.28, 7.12, 7.23, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.22, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.12 a. m., 2.02, 3.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.47 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55, a. m., 2.11, 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 4.12, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.34, 1.18, 2.49, (4.12 p. m. Lakewood only.)

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, 4.12 p. m. Sundays —8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.55, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51, a. m., 2.45, 4.15, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, (10.51 Reading only), a. m., 2.45, (6.45, 8.21 through train,) 1.17 night Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.08, 5.37, 6.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.35, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m. 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.
C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after July 9, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.25 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

f 10.06, 11.43 a m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.25, f 3.23, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7.51, f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 2.25 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m., Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.25 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 4.25, 8.26, 9.27 a. m., f 1.02, f 3.04, f 3.44, f 5.43, and f 7.38 p. m. week-days. Sundays —9.05, 10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager.
J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.
GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.27 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.88 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

The prayer meeting at the church last night was of more than ordinary interest, in part because of a larger attendance.

Miss Kate Conger is recovering from an injury to her knee received several weeks ago by falling from a bicycle.

PLAINFIELD WON IN THE TWELFTH AFTER A SCRAP

Lively Dispute in the Seventh over Umpire's Decision Nearly Ends Game.

SCORE FIVE TO FOUR

Chief Kiely and Detail of Police Kept Busy—Randolph Perkins as a Peacemaker—Kiernan's Timely Hit.

In a twelve inning contest bitterly fought from the time play was called until "Happy" Kiernan brought "Jack" O'Neill home in the last inning with the winning run by his timely hit over second base, Plainfield defeated Westfield in the second of the county championship series on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon by a score of 5 to 4. In many respects it was the greatest contest ever witnessed in this city, the rivalry reaching fever heat and several times threatening trouble among the players and spectators. Frequently the police were obliged to clear the diamond and separate those who wanted to fight. Every questionable decision was the cause for dispute, and the contest was fought inch by inch by the hardest kind of effor.

"Happy" Kiernan.

The climax was reached in the eleventh inning and the abrupt termination of the game threatened. Stallings was at the bat. He had two strikes on him and the next ball pitched by Deegan was a trifle low, but Stallings struck at it. It passed O'Neill, and some say it was a foul tip. Umpire Mority declared it to be a dead ball and called the batsman back. He continued running and reached third base, as O'Neill did not attempt to throw him out at second, understanding that he had been called back. Westfield contended that it was a passed ball on third strike, and after wasting twenty-five minutes arguing the matter it was settled by Stallings being given another time at the bat. Randolph Perkins was largely instrumental in adjusting the matter. Some were willing that Stallings should go back to first. Manager Denman was entirely opposed to the decision and neither he nor the Westfield team would have continued the game if their opinion prevailed. Manager Daab was willing to stand by the umpire's decision. During the dispute the police, headed by Chief Kiely, were kept busy quieting the players and spectators, as some of the latter were spoiling for a fight.

The locals were hardly up to their usual form, and some tarnished fielding allowed runs. Cosgrave tried to cover too much territory and he had two errors that were costly. One fly could easily have been caught by Connolly, but "Wally" was too anxious. In hitting, the home team excelled, Waller being pounded for fourteen bingles, including a home run and a three bagger by Brogan and three singles by Connolly and Leonard. Cregan lead in hitting with three singles. Honors were about even between Beck and Waller, the former being touched for nine hits in nine innings, while the locals walloped "Red" for ten in the same number of innings. Manager Daab wisely replaced Beck by Deegan in the tenth inning, and he held his opponents safe, while the Daabsters made four hits during the remainder of the game. A feature was the brilliant work of Brogan, who covered second bag. In the sixth inning he made a home run and tried to repeat the performance in the tenth. He had a chance of reaching home, but the quick return of the ball by Bertwhistle and Barry to Cotter nipped the player at the plate. The work of the youngster brought the rooters to their feet and they yelled themselves hoarse. "Mike" Leonard also distinguished himself by a three bagger, while Connolly continued his hard hitting.

The game opened with Westfield at the bat, Lynch, who replaced Smithson at short, being first up. Beck threw him out at first. Barry flied out to Cregan and Rochford was thrown out at first by Kiernan. In the next half Kiernan flied out to Stallings, who covered second base. Cosgrave flied out to Lynch and Brogan went by the same route to Bertwhistle.

In the second act Stallings was thrown out at first by Brogan, and Bertwhistle swatted the sphere to centre for one bag and stole second on Driscoll's poor throw. Mallen reached first on Brogan's fumble of an infield teaser and Bertwhistle scored the first run. On McGoey's infield hit to Leonard, Mallen was forced out at second, but "Mac" remained on the initial bag, as Cotter flied out to Kiernan, the result being one run and one hit for Westfield and two errors for the locals.

The Daabsters failed to do anything in their half. Connolly flied out to Cotter, Cregan followed with a single over second base, Leonard put a long fly into McGoey's hands, and Driscoll hit safe over second, sending Cregan to the middle station, where he remained, as O'Neil fouled flied to Cotter.

Waller started the third inning by going out on a fly to Brogan. Lynch hit for two bases and Barry knocked into a double, Brogan to Kiernan, retiring the side. In the next half Beck fouled flied to Cotter, Kiernan fanned, Cosgrave singled to centre, and was left on second, as Brogan was thrown out at first by Lynch.

Rochford opened the fourth inning by being thrown out at first by Brogan. Stallings flied out to Cosgrave and Bertwhistle went out at first on Leonard's throw. Connolly aroused the fans in the local's half by a scorching three sacker to left. Bertwhistle made a quick return; but "Dan" came home on Lynch's poor throw to third. Cregan then singled to left, Leonard sacrificed, going out to Rochford unassisted. Driscoll went out by the same route and O'Neill flied out to Lynch, leaving Cregan on third.

Neither side scored in the fifth. Mallen singled to centre, was thrown out at second by Beck on McGoey's fielder's choice, and Cotter hit into a double, retiring McGoey and himself, Leonard to Kiernan to Driscoll. Beck and Kiernan flied out to Mallen and Cosgrave went out on a line drive to Barry.

In the sixth Waller reached first on a scratch hit. Lynch sacrificed, going out at first on Beck's throw, and Barry reached first on Cosgrave's error. Rochford sent another fly to the field and Cosgrave missed it, allowing Waller to score, but "Mike" was put out trying to steal second, O'Neill throwing to Kiernan. Stallings made the third out, Brogan to Driscoll.

Brogan started things in the last of the sixth by making a sensational home run. He drove the ball far into left field and everybody went crazy with the excitement as he circled the bases. Connolly followed, and flied to Cotter, Cregan was thrown out at first by Stallings and Leonard fanned.

There were no hits or runs for Westfield in the eighth. Bertwhistle received the first pass, stole second, Mallen fanned, McGoey sacrificed, going out at first on Brogan's throw, and Cotter died at first on Kiernan's throw. The locals tallied a run in their half. Driscoll bunted and succeeded in making the circuit on Cotter's wild throw into the crowd. O'Neill flied out to Mallen, Beck struck out and Kiernan sent a fly into Mallen's hands.

Westfield then evened matters by another tally. Waller singled to centre, went to second on Lynhe's sacrifice, and Barry drove the leather over Leonard's head. He stole second and on Rochford's out to Connolly, Waller came home. Stallings went out at first on Brogan's throw. The locals then drew a blank. Cosgrave flied out to Bertwhistle, Brogan struck out, and Connolly singled to centre, but was left there, as Cregan flied out to Bertwhistle.

In the ninth Bertwhistle fanned, Mallen reached first on a close decision, and McGoey surprised himself by driving the ball to left garden for two bases, scoring Mallen. On Cotter's fielder's choice, McGoey was put out at second, Leonard to Brogan. Waller went out at first on Beck's throw, leaving "Paddy" on the bag.

It was a day of surprises, and Leonard sent a sky scraper to deep centre for three bases in this half. Driscoll went out on a line fly to Lynch, O'Neill singled to centre, scoring Leonard, and "Tuck" Turner, who batted for Beck, hit into a double, retiring O'Neill and himself, Stalling to Rochford.

In the tenth Deegan went to the firing line amid the cheers of the crowd. It seemed to put confidence in everyone, although Beck had performed well. Lynch went out to Driscoll unassisted. Leonard threw Barry out at first and Rochford died on first on Driscoll's throw to Deegan who covered the bag. In the other half, Kiernan flied to Lynch and Cosgrave foul flied to Cotter. Brogan, determined to win the game, stepped to the plate and hit one of Waller's fifty-seven varieties to deep left for another homer. He tried desperately to make the circuit, but was caught on Bertwhistle's throw to Barry and the latter's quick return to Cotter.

At the opening of the eleventh inning occurred the dispute regarding the third strike on Stallings. He returned to the bat and flied out to Connolly. Bertwhistle did likewise to Cregan and Driscoll made a pretty catch of Mallen's fly. For the locals, Connolly struck out. Cregan singled to right garden and Leonard hit into a double, retiring Cregan and himself, Stallings to Rochford.

In the last inning McGoey flied out to Leonard. Cotter popped a fly to Driscoll. Waller singled to second, but was left on first, as Lynch flied out to Connolly. Then the Daabsters made one last effort to end the suspense, and they were successful. Driscoll flied out to Mallen. O'Neill drove a hot one to Lynch, who fumbled, allowing him to reach first. "Willie" Deegan was right there with the goods when he singled to right, advancing O'Neill, who a moment later crossed the plate with the winning run on Kiernan's timely single, making the score 5 to 4. The crowd rushed on the diamond, giving continuous cheers and praising Captain Driscoll and his men. The score:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss | 0 | 1 | 5 | 4 | 0 |
| Cosgrave, cf | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 2 |
| Brogan, lf | 1 | 3 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 1 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 0 | 3 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 1 | 1 | 2 | 4 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 1 | 1 | 16 | 1 | 1 |
| O'Neill, c | 1 | 2 | 2 | 2 | 0 |
| Beck, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 |
| Deegan, p | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Turner | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals | 5 | 14 | 36 | 22 | 4 |

WESTFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Lynch, ss | 0 | 1 | 4 | 2 | 1 |
| Barry, 3b | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Rochford, 1b | 0 | 1 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Stallings, 2b | 0 | 0 | 3 | 3 | 0 |
| Bertwhistle, lf | 1 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 0 |
| Mallen, cf | 1 | 2 | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| McGoey, rf | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Cotter, c | 0 | 0 | 11 | 0 | 1 |
| Waller, p | 1 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals | 4 | 10 | 34* | 6 | 2 |

Batted for Beck in ninth inning.

*One out when winning run was made.

Plainfield ..0 0 0 1 0 1 0 1 0 0 1—5
Westfield ..0 1 0 0 0 1 0 1 1 0 0 0—4

Earned runs—Brogan, Waller, Mallen, Leonard, O'Neill. Two base hits—Lynch, McGoey. Three base hits—Connolly, Leonard, Brogan. Home run—Brogan. Stolen bases—Bertwhistle, Barry. Sacrifice hits—Leonard, Lynch, 2. First on balls—Off Beck, 1. Struck out—By Beck, 2; by Waller, 5. Left on bases—Plainfield, 7; Westfield, 6. Double plays—Brogan to Kiernan, Leonard to Kiernan, to Driscoll, Stallings to Rochford. Hits off Beck, nine in nine innings; off Deegan, one in three innings. First base on errors—Mallen, Barry, Driscoll, Rochford. Time of game—2 hours and 15 minutes. Umpires—Meritty and Henning. Attendance—2,000.

UNION COUNTY POLITICS

(Continued From Page 1.)

where Kirkland is also strong.

"Dr. W. P. Lawrence, of Summit, is also a candidate for the shrievalty, and will come to the convention with the backing of at least the eight delegates from Summit. E. K. Adams, of Cranford, has also been spoken of and is a candidate.

"Tillman and Perkins will be renominated for the Assembly. The third candidate is yet to be decided upon. R. B. Cissel has been mentioned and his name has been received with favor. He is president of the McKinley Club. The mention of Cissel's name is by his friends without his previous knowledge, and it is not known whether he would accept a nomination were it offered to him.

"Lawyer C. Addison Swift has been spoken of as an Assembly candidate also. Mr. Swift's friends say emphatically that he is not in the race and does not want to be in the race. Mr. Swift is a member of the county board of elections. He was asked this question by a Journal reporter this morning:

"'Can a member of the county board of elections be a member of the Assembly?'

"'I do not consider there is any possibility of my being a candidate for Assembly,' said Mr. Swift, as he recognized the drift of the question.

"The question put to Mr. Swift is still open for an academic discussion.

"Several persons have been anxious to know the position of Ernest R. Ackerman in regard to the situation in Plainfield. Ackerman is not a candidate for the State Senatorship in the sense that he will enter into the contest for it, it is said by his friends. He is at present fit at his home in Plainfield, and has not made any statement himself."

SEA GIRT OPEN DATES.

List for the Benefit of Company Commanders.

Company commandants of the Second Regiment are endeavoring to get a good showing of their outfits on the State rifle range and some of the captains are sending out postals to their men informing them of the open dates.

The dates open at the range are July 20, August 5, 12, 19, 21, 22 and 23. On these days the soldiers under command of an officer may go on the ranges.

It is desired by the board of officers that at least sixty-five per cent. of the regiment get to Sea Girt for practice.

The Second is especially anxious to make a good showing and those who have already shot have made good scores.

Those who have not yet been at the shore will probably take advantage of the open dates.

—Harry Campbell has purchased an automobile of Dr. F. C. Ard, of Park avenue.

MISS ETHEL DERBY WEDDED TO A. B. DAVIS

MARRIAGE IN PERTH AMBOY PERFORMED BY DR. SNODGRASS.

Miss Ethel Mae Derby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Derby, formerly of this city, and Alvah Berkeley Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Davis, of East Fifth street, were quietly married Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in Perth Amboy, in the presence of seventy-five guests, comprising relatives and a few intimate friends from this city, Summit, East Orange, Point Pleasant, Long Branch, Shamokin and Mt. Carmel. The home was profusely decorated with palms and flowers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, of this city, but now of the M. E. church, Perth Amboy. The wedding took place on the wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

The bride was gowned in white, trimmed with lace and ribbon, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. Her only attendant was a niece, Helen Derby, who acted as flower girl. The best man was Robert Davis Nicoll, of Summit, a cousin of the groom. The wedding march was played by Miss Etta Raybert, of this city. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

A reception followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Davis left for a wedding trip. They will reside at Perth Amboy upon their return, the groom being in the employ of the Gresen-Derby Engineering Company, of that place. The bride received a large collection of handsome gifts, including silverware, cut glass and furniture.

M. G. A. HANDICAP REPORT

(Continued From Page 1.)

all clubs in the association a request to furnish a report on such players as have improved in play since April. We plan to call for further reports in September. The purpose of getting in these reports from time to time is not merely to revise the list at stated intervals, but also to make it clear to club handicappers that the responsibility must ultimately rest with them if players from their clubs are rated higher than they should be, to any considerable extent. While this committee can itself look out for any marked improvement in the play of the best known players, it is apparent that we cannot be watchful over 1,500 golfers; and that no system ever devised can work out good results in golf handicapping of an association of clubs unless the individual members of the association will cooperate with us in our work.

"This committee has held twelve meetings and has employed clerks who have found it necessary to devote over one hundred and forty hours to the work this spring. We have also devoted considerable additional time ourselves in supervising the clerks' correspondence etc. We think the handicap list can be improved greatly by the co-operation of the clubs in reporting voluntarily individual cases of improvement whenever they occur, and we hope to accomplish still better results before the end of the year.

"We recommend that next year's handicap committee be appointed on or about December 1st, that it may have the winter months in which to get out the list without crowding the arduous work before it.

"We further recommend that the list include players rated at 18 and less; and that no player whose name is not returned by his club to the handicap committee for a rating be eligible to compete in the open or invitation handicap events of clubs in this association, except in the discretion of the handicap committee, and after receiving a post rating by it.

"Yours respectfully,
"LEIGHTON CALKINS,
"Chairman 1905 Handicap Com.
"July 1, 1905."

ORDER HOSE WAGON.

Combination Vehicle is Ordered by North Plainfield Council.

The contract for the new combination hose and chemical wagon for the borough fire department has been awarded to the Heywood Company, of New York. The wagon will be almost a duplicate of the one in use in this city, except that it will have revolving chemical tanks and roller bearing axles and fifth wheel. It will have rubber tires.

Chairman Charles Lee, of the fire committee of the borough Council, yesterday signed the contract for the wagon, and Chief Howard Woolston visited the Heywood Company factory in New York and made a few suggestions as to advantageous changes which will be made.

Death of an Infant.

Leora, the eight-months-old daughter of Nicholas and Maries Deazio, of Scotch Plains, died Friday after a brief illness. The funeral was held Saturday and interment was made at Stony Hill.

—Miss Mildred Tyrrell, of East Fifth street, has returned home after visiting Miss Ethel Wyckoff, of Somerville.

GEORGE H. DUNHAM HAS PASSED AWAY

WEALTHY MAN WHO GAVE $100 BILLS AS DINNER FAVORS IS DEAD.

George H. Dunham, of the firm of Lesher, Whitman & Co., New York, died at his home, 9 West Fifth street, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, of Bright's disease. Mr. Dunham was born at Piscataway, June 9, 1834, and was the son of George W. Dunham and Phebe Vail.— He spent his boyhood days at home and on May 1, 1849, he went to New York and entered the dry goods house of William E. Lawrence, at Bleecker and Barrow streets. He remained there until February 2, 1855, when he secured a position as bookkeeper with Lesher, Whitman & Co., and later became a member of the firm, and remained so until his death, a period of fifty years. In September, 1857, he married Eliza Dyer, daughter of Charles C. Dyer, who survives him, with six children, one daughter, Mrs. W. W. Kelchner and one granddaughter, Miss Georgia Dunham Kelchner.

Mr. Dunham was a member of Republic Lodge, No. 490, F. & A. M., the Union League Club and the New York Athletic Club, all of New York. On the celebration of his last birthday anniversary Mr. Dunham entertained his children, grandchildren and other relatives and at each plate was found a $100 bill as a present.

PRACTICAL FORESTRY

STATE'S PROPOSITION

LAW PASSED BY LAST LEGISLATURE AT STOKES SUGGESTION.

New Jersey is about to begin its first real work as a State in practical forestry. At the suggestion of Governor Stokes, the last Legislature passed an act for the establishment of forest reservations and created a State Board of Forest Park Reservation Commissioners. Under the provisions of the law creating the board (Chapter 47, Laws of 1905) the commissioners were authorized to acquire a fee simple estate in any lands to be used for the purposes of forest park reservations, the acquisition to be accomplished either by deed, gift or devise; or, if necessary, by condemnation proceedings; and when the land for this purpose is once acquired it is to be held for the benefit of the people of New Jersey. To the commission was given the care, management and preservation of the reserves, and it was also directed, to quote the exact wording of the law, "to keep in view, and, so far as it can, put in operation the best method to re-forest cut-over and denuded lands, to prevent injury of forests by fire, the administering and care of forests on forestry principles, the encouragement of owners in preserving and growing timber for commercial and manufacturing purposes, and general conservation of forest tracts around the headwaters and on the water sheds of all water courses of the State."

From the foregoing extract it will be seen that the law contemplates rendering great service to the timber land owners of New Jersey, and it is to be the aim of the commission to carry out the provisions of the statute as fully as it is possible to do so. To this end, therefore, the commission is asking the newspaper of each county to put before their readers just what the new law is. In this way it is hoped to reach the owners of forest or timber tracts, who would sell their property to the State for forest reserves or who would like to have the aid of practical forestry in the development of their tracts.

Information which would greatly facilitate the work of the commission by saving the preliminary investigation necessary to ascertain who have forest lands to sell. If all such owners to whom this notice comes will communicate with the secretary of the commission, William H. Chew, of Camden, giving the size, character, locatio and price per acre at which they would sell their tracts the information will be filed with the commission, to be taken up at an early meeting. It is to be hoped that all timber land owners, as well as others interested in forestry in New Jersey, will co-operate with the commission in this matter.

Former Plainfielder Dead.

Mrs. Cather Miller, a former Plainfield resident, died Friday night at her home in New York. The body was brought to this city yesterday and funeral services were held at Cole's undertaking parlors, Rev. C. H. Schnee-gas having charge. Interment was made in the Methodist cemetery. Mrs. Miller leaves two sons, William, of Westfield, and Louis, of New York; also two brothers and two sisters, the latter being Mrs. Fred Decker, of Westfield, and Mrs. Charles Geise, of Westfield, formerly of this city.

Hazel Plemmer Buried.

Hazel Plemmer, the one-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. George Plemmer, of Newark, was buried Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from her late home on Brunswick street, Newark. Interment was made in the family plot at the Springdale cemetery. The parents are the grandparents of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Coddington, of Grove street.

GREATER PLAINFIELD; 24,084 INHABITANTS

THE POPULATION OF NORTH PLAINFIELD IS 5,616.

The seventh census bulletin issued by Samuel D. Dickinson, Secretary of State, shows the population of North Plainfield borough to be 5,616, an increase of 607 in the last five years, when it was 5,009. This makes the combined population of the borough and Plainfield 24,084.

The First district of the borough has 2,606 and the Second 3,008.

The bulletin also shows the population of Linden Borough to be 403, an increase of one person in five years. This is the smallest increase reported in the State.

In Knowlton Township, of Warren county, the population is 1,212, an increase of 12, while Frelinghuysen Township, of the same county, it is 728, a decrease of 69 over five years ago.

A Distant View.

"The people of Union County will elect a State Senator, a sheriff and freeholders this fall," says the Plainfield Press. Perhaps that is the way The Press has of letting the Plainfield bosses know that their action will not entirely settle who is to be elected next November. — Newark Evening News.

DIED.

BEECHING—On Tuesday, July 18, 1905, Myrtle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beeching, aged 2 years, 2 months and 7 days.

RUNYAN—On Monday, July 24, 1905, Beatrice M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O. Runyan, aged 2 years, 7 months and 9 days.

WALSH—In this city, July 24, 1905, Edward Joseph Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Walsh, aged 7 years, 10 months, 21 days.

MARSH—In North Plainfield, July 17, 1905, Ivy, eldest daughter of Geore W. and Virginia Marsh, in her twenty-seventh year.

BROWN—In North Plainfield, on Wednesday, July 19, 1905, Wallace Noel Brown, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown and grandson of Joseph Noel, aged one year and eleven months.

STOVER—On Wednesday, July 19, 1905, Caroline Howard, widow of Rowland M. Stover, in the 72nd. year.

RONAYNE—At Dunellen, N. J., July 19th, 1905, Helen Francis, youngest daughter of Terrence and Annie F. Ronayne, aged one year, two months and one day.

UNDERHILL—In this city, July 19, 1905, Miss Anna M. Underhill, daughter of the late Dr. Alfred Underhill, of New York city.

CONKLIN—On Friday, July 21, 1905, Edwin W. Conklin, ager 59 years.

CHANDLER—On Friday, July 21, 1905, Elizabeth, wife of John

MATTOX—In this city, July 21, 1905, Earl L., son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mattox, aged 2 years and 6 months.

SKEEL—Died on Monday, July 17, at Ilion, New York, after a very brief illness, Lucy L. Deuel, wife of Rev. Harlow Skeel.

DUNHAM—George H. Dunham, suddenly, July 22, 1905.

HUNTER—On Sunday, July 23, 1905, Kathryne M., daughter of Harry F. and Kathryne E. Hunter, aged 2 years, 10 months, 7 days.

Wanted Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided. The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly keeping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau
Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited
P. O. Box 192, Dunellen, N J., or at store in care of Constitutionalist
Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers. Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in classes.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsoria line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section, are those who put the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres'd
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January 10th will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. Good salary guaranteed, position; extra commissions and expenses paid if satisfactory, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Aves
Plainfield, N J

COUNCILMANIC SITUATION

Bullock, Gloak, Wilson, Higham, Daniel, Murphy and C. Randolph out this Fall

FIGHT FOR NOMINATION

Likelihood that the Primaries Will Be Hot—Battle for Tax Collectorship.

As the Newark Evening News says, it is a cold week when there isn't a political story in Union county. There's one every twenty-four hours in Plainfield, and the one today seems to be about the councilmanic situation. A number of councilmen will come to the end of their terms of office this fall and there'll be something doing at the primaries—as usual.

Clarence Murphy, Fourth Ward; J. Stephen Higham and Leslie M. Daniel, Third Ward; Theodore Wilson, Second Ward, and William Starr Bullock and W. m Gloak, First Ward, are out this fall. So is Charles Randolph, of the Fourth. Randolph was the successor of Robert Lee when the latter was chosen tax collector. Under the city charter his term only lasts until the next regular election.

A number of these men are not on friendly terms with the administration, and no secret is made of the fact that there will be a determined fight to defeat them. According to one administration man, many must go. Wilson, in the Second Ward, it is said, is particularly marked for defeat. There is authority also for the statement that Bullock will be retired if the administration has everything its own way.

Councilman Daniel is receiving bouquets from all factions, and he is sure to be renominated.

It is also said that no fight will be made against William Gloak.

As yet no candidates have been trotted out. The reason for this is said that neither the administration nor the anti-administration wings of the party wishes to show its hand.

It is also reported that a fight will be made to retire Tax Collector Robert A. Lee. No one can say who has been picked by the administration as a rival candidate. When any administration or anti-administration politician is interviewed he says "wait and see."

REVISED SCHOOL LAWS.

New Edition of Acts Being Prepared for Distribution.

Under the direction of J. Brognard Betts, assistant State superintendent of public instruction, the State Board of Education is preparing to issue a new and revised edition of the school laws of New Jersey. The last edition was issued in 1903 and is now exhausted. Besides there have been so many changes in the school laws, a new edition has become a necessity.

The new issue will be based upon the old, but the school laws will be brought up to date. Every new act, supplement and amendment will be given in full, and all the repealed sections will be stricken out. An important portion of the book will be a section devoted to all court decisions relating to school matters that have been announced since 1903. Each section of the work will be annotated in a thorough manner.

As soon as issued the edition will be distributed among school superintendents, teachers and others interested in school matters.

RAILROAD FIREMAN DIVORCED.

Degree in Chancery for Mrs. Elizabeth Heilig.

Chancellor Magie has signed a final decree of divorce in favor of Elizabeth Heilig (nee Wals), a former resident of Newark, against her husband, William F. Heilig, a fireman on the Central Railroad, running between Jersey City and Dunellen.

The grounds of the divorce were desertion. Mr. Heilig in her declaration says she was married to the defendant at Newark, January 31, 1902. Immediately after the ceremony, she says, her husband requested her to stop with her aunt in New York for a couple of weeks, when he would send for her. She went to New York and he to Bayonne, where he had been boarding. When the two weeks were up and he failed to redeem his promise, the bride went to him, but he refused to have anything to do with her. She remained in Bayonne a few weeks, and then returned to her mother's home. In June of last year she instituted the suit for divorce.

AFTER TAX DELINQUENTS.

Collector Lee Must Sell Property and Is Preparing List.

Tax Collector Robert L. Lee is now preparing a list of the unpaid real estate taxes for 1904, prior to selling the properties under the tax act of 1903. This new act provides that the collector is compelled to advertise and sell all real estate upon which the taxes remain unpaid on July 1 following the date upon which they are due.

In this case the taxes were due December 20, 1904, and after being advertised for the usual time beginning July 1 of this month, they are to be sold for the taxes.

SHOT BY ITALIAN BOY

Assailant Wounded Stillger in the Neck and Escaped.

CAUGHT BY WEISS.

Angry Words in Dunellen Brick Yard Led to Attack — Victim Not Seriously Hurt—Hearing Today.

As the result of a dispute regarding some work at Rajatti's brick yard in Dunellen, William Stillger was shot Thursday afternoon by John Pasco, an Italian, about fifteen years old. The lad afterward escaped, but was captured at 10:30 o'clock last night by Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough, at the home of his father, near Hand's brick yard, in North Plainfield. At first he put up a fight, but was finally overpowered and taken to the borough lockup, where he was detained over night. This morning Constable Mohan, of Dunellen, took the boy to Dunellen on a warrant issued by Justice von Minden, and he will be given a hearing this afternoon.

Stillger and Pasco were engaged in hacking brick. The boy finished his task first and Stillger asked him to help him with his work. According to the boy's story, Stillger was overbearing in his manner when he refused to assist, and followed it up by punching him. This angered him so that he went to the barn nearby and got his revolver, making up his mind that if Stillger persisted in his cations he would use it.

Soon after he returned, he says, Stillger again went at him, and in the heat of the argument Pasco pulled the revolver and shot. He then made his escape.

Stillger sought the services of Dr. Platt in the meantime, and the physician discovered that the bullet entered the left side just above the collarbone, escaped the lung, entering the muscles of the back. He found the piece of lead between the spinal column and the lower angle of the shoulder blade.

The bullet was removed and Dr. Platt says that the man's condition is not serious.

The whereabouts of Pasco were learned through several negroes who saw the lad running toward his father's home. When Chief Weiss arrived at the Pasco home he found several officials from Dunellen in the vicinity, they having heard that the lad was in that neighborhood.

SUITS STARTED IN THE CIRCUIT COURT

ONE AGAINST AMERICAN SANITARY CO. $35,000 SEVERAL AGAINST P. S. C.

The following suits have been started in the Union County Circuit Court, and will probably be disposed of during the October term.

Charles Arny, of Elizabeth, a blacksmith, sues the Public Service Corporation for $10,000 damages. On July 8, last, he and a friend spent the evening at Galvin's Park, Westfield. Arny and his companion boarded the last car down from the park that night, each paying a fare of ten cents. He alleges that after the car passed Garwood, the conductor again demanded the second fare from him, which he refused to pay, whereupon the conductor, assisted by the motorman, took hold of him and attempted to throw him over the car railing into the street. Arny received a broken nose and is still confined to his home. The case will be prosecuted by Lawyer J. A. Kiernan.

John C. Lechthaler, administrator of Blanche S. Lechthaler, sues the United States Express Company for $5,000, for the killing of his daughter, who met her death by being run over by one of the company's wagons on March 4, last, the accident occurring on Florida street.

William Long, who lost his left leg on November 14, 1904, while in the employ of the American Sanitary Company, sues to recover $35,000 damages. He alleges that the accident was caused by reason of the gearing about a rolling machine being uncovered, and the poor lighting of the works.

A suit for $10,000 damages has been brought by James J. McGuire against the Babcock and Wilcox Company. On October 26, 1904, he was severely injured in the company's works at Bayonne, by a crane, which he insists, was insecurely fastened, falling on him.

Charlotte Grant sues the North Jersey Street Railway Company for $10,000 for injuries she sustained February 13, last, by slipping on the icy platform of one of the defendant's cars while coming from Newark to her home in Elizabeth.

Ida V. Schmidt and Herman Schmidt, her husband, sues the North Jersey Street Railway Company for injuries received on June 5, last. While riding a bicycle on East Jersey street, the wheel on which Mrs. Schmidt was riding was struck by one of the defendant's cars, and she was thrown to the roadway and badly injured.

SOME ARGUMENTS OF COLBY FORCES

"CASE OF THE PEOPLE," THEIR TEXT-BOOK, APPEARS AND MAKES READING.

"The Case of the People" is the title and "To every man a square deal—Roosevelt" is the text of the book issued today by the Republican Committee for Limited Franchise and Equal Taxation, of which Everett Colby is the standard-bearer. In it are to be found most of the arguments used by Mr. Colby's supporters in his efforts to secure the State Senatorial nomination and are supplied for the use of orators at Colby meetings and for the mental food of limited franchise and equal taxation adherents. The little book has a picture of Mr. Colby as frontispiece and a biography of the candidate taken from the Legislative Manual.

The textbook contains the statements made by Mr. Colby when he announced his candidacy, which was published at the time and expounded in his speech at the Newark Theatre late in June. Under the head of "Conservatism Abused," the pamphlet says that there is no contention against capital as capital, but that a new situation has been created by aggregations of capital conducting public utilities and enjoying public privileges by which the conservative sentiment of the country has been abused and which is being met by the demand of conservatism that aggressions upon public rights shall cease.

Limit the Franchises.

In the matter of limiting franchises the book cites a number of cities throughout the country which have insisted upon it. In the cases quoted the public is declared to have benefited while the corporations have themselves made money. The "home rule" contention of Major Lentz comes in for a scoring and its alleged evil effects are shown.

Under the heading "The Bane of Perpetual Franchises," much space is given to an article published in February last, showing how the Public Service Corporation has $97,357,000 outstanding as stocks and bonds and collateral securities against a cost of installing their entire plant of $29,200,000. The natural sequence of the enormous burden of fixed charges involved in this over-capitalization is that the trolley service is bad and the local authorities do not enforce improvements. In this connection the Board of Works gets a lively hauling over the coals. The textbook says the solution of the problem will be found in the selection at the primaries of candidates for public office who will pledge themselves to the enactment and enforcement of laws which will restrict public utilities corporations to such conditions as will make possible good public service.

The question of equal taxation is gone into deeply, about half the book being taken up with its discussion. Concessions which have been made are declared to have been nullified and that the situation as regards discrimination in assessments is as bad as ever.

LICENSING POWER OF CITY.

Atlantic City Man to Sue Aldermen for Conspiracy.

The entire licensing power of Atlantic City will be attacked by E. M. Collotty, whose application for a place on the lower board walk was refused by City Council while they were granting the batch of city licenses under a newly passed law.

Besides certiorarying the ordinance under which the licenses were granted, Collotty announced yesterday morning that he would bring action against the councilmen for conspiracy on the claim that there was an agreement to "turn down" his application before the meeting for licensing was called.

Leading lawyers of Atlantic City have been retained and the fight is likely to be a bitter one.

Change of Contractors.

The syndicate which recently purchased the Cadmus property in the West End of the borough, expects to have the work of improvements started soon. A contract was made wit ha party to make the proposed changes, but it is understood that he gave up the contract and within a few days papers will be signed with another contractor, after which the work will be pushed forward rapidly.

Women Bathe in Canal These Days.

The hot weather of the week has lined the shores of the river and canal from Sandy bottom to the Landing near New Brunswick with men and boys bathing morning, noon and night, and the relief thus obtained from the sweltering heat has been appreciated by hundreds. The men, however, have not been the only ones thus helped. For the last three nights scores of Hungarian women have been bathing in the river above the deep lock. Home made bathing suits were in fashion and in some instances even these were lacking.

Compositor Heir to $50,000.

Frank Diviny, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., who was formerly a compositor in Elizabeth, has fallen heir to a fortune estimated at $50,000. Diviny is a nephew to the late Daniel Manning, President Cleveland's first secretary of the treasury.

LIQUOR BAN ON CLUB

The Revenue Department of the Federal government, it is said, has placed a construction upon an act of Congress that may bring sorrow to social and athletic clubs.

It demands the payment of a special tax on clubs selling liquor at a picnic or ball. The text of the ruling is as follows:

"Where a club giving a dance, a ball or a picnic every year, hires a hall or grove or park for this purpose and conducts a bar for the sale of its own liquors, it is required to pay special tax and take out stamp required therefor. The stamp (license) held by proprietor of grove, hall or park will not answer for bar connected with the club."

For the violation of this statute, the ruling being based upon the Revenue Department's interpretation of the law, a fine of not less than $200 or more than $500 and imprisonment of one to five years may be imposed, at the discretion of the Federal judge.

In effect this rulings says, that unless a projected "outing," picnic, dance, ball or any other form of amusement is conducted upon strict lines of absolute prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors, the Federal revenue officers will collect $25 from the "committee," even if the proprietor of the hall, park, grove or excursion steamer has a license. In the future no club can escape. After paying $25 the club committee must hang the revenue stamp in a conspicuous place that everyone may see the government toll has been paid.

In does not make the slightest difference if the club renting the hall, park or steamer for that day brings even one quart of whiskey or half a dozen bottles of beer and sells them to thirsty persons, they must pay their $25 or be liable to the penalty.

Thus in estimating the cost of a ball or "outing," all social clubs should add to the expense budget the sum of $25, due and payable to the Federal government, or else retain counsel to contest the constitutionality of the statute. None the less, the matter is interesting in that the special revenue tax will aid in lessening a treasury deficiency, while the social clubs will have an opportunity, if they see fit, of making a fight against what appears to be legislation of a purely sumptuary character.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST A SUNSTROKE

Feeble persons, being most liable to sunstroke, should remain within doors during the hotter periods of the day. When possible always take the shady side of the street or use an umbrella.

Wear light clothing and walk slowly. Avoid hurry and worry.

Hearty meals are to be avoided, as well as spirituous liquors of all kinds.

The least sign of over fatigue should be taken as an imperative reason for immediate rest. Headache, oppressed breathing and nausea are often precursors of collapse.

Frequent bathing of head, face and hands in cold water are salutary measures.

Water, properly cooled and swallowed, is the best of all drinks. Next to this is iced milk, cold tea or lemonade.

The outside worker should be careful to protect the head and back of the neck with suitable covering. Stokers, furnace men and the like should have frequent intervals of rest.

BEAUTIFYING PRINCETON.

Cornwall House Being Removed—New Gateway Completed.

Princeton University campus is being beautified by the removal of the Cornwall house adjoining the First Presbyterian church. The house is directly in line with Alexander Hall, the most beautiful building on the university campus, and cut off the view from Nassau street to the hall. The lecture room of the First church, which adjoins the Cornwall residence, will also be removed, and the excavations will be levelled off and sodded, with a beautiful driveway leading to the hall. This has been the aim of the university authorities for a number of years.

The new Fitz-Randolph gateway which was donated to the university is also completed and is a most beautiful addition to the university.

The new class dormitory is also being rushed toward completion, but it is not thought it will be completed in time for the opening of college in the fall.

187 Marksmen in Second Regiment.

As the result of the rifle practice of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., on the Sea Girt range, 187 members of the regiment have qualified as maksmen. Colonel Collins, Lieutenant - Colonel Cline and nearly every commissioned officer in the regiment qualified. The marksmen are divided as follows: Field staff and non-commissioned staff, 12; field music and band, 6; Company A, 8; Company B, 18; Company C, 10; Company D, 9; Company E, 7; Company F, 9; Company G, 8; Company H, 5; Company I, 15; Company K, 26; Company L, 28; Company M, 22.

SOME FAMOUS NAMES IN THE TWIN CITIES

OCEAN GROVE AND ASBURY PARK HAVE PRESERVED MEMORIES.

Asbury Park, July 19—Brimful of significance to Twin City visitors are the names of the streets and avenues here and in Ocean Grove. With few exceptions all the thoroughfares save the numbered avenues bear the surnames of men and women who have helped make the Methodist Episcopal church the power in the world that it is today, and the mere calling out of the streets by the trolley car conductors should bring to mind bishops, preachers and pulpit orators, many of whom made gigantic sacrifices in the olden days that the church which they served might live. It is fitting that Ocean Grove, the seat of Methodism in New Jersey, should thus keep alive memories of great men of the denomination. James A. Bradley, founder and formerly sole proprietor of Asbury Park, is, and always has been, a Methodist and being closely allied with the interests of Ocean Grove, it was natural for him to pattern after the sister resort, and on the north side of the north side of the lake that divides the two cities, continue the roster of illustrious followers of John Wesley.

Every true Methodist who lives on or near Benson avenue, in Ocean Grove, should know that the late Joseph Benson, a Methodist minister for whom the avene is named, published a "Commentary on the Holy Scriptures" in five volumes, which is highly esteemed to this day, although the author lived and wrote a hundred years ago.

Then there is McClintock street, a contraction of MacClintock. The Rev. Dr. John MacClintock, after whom that Ocean Grove thoroughfare is called, was an eminent scholar and divine, born in Philadelphia in 1814. He was made editor of the Methodist Quarterly Review in 1848, and conducted it for eight years. In 1857 he was appointed pastor of St. Paul's *church, in New York, where he ac*quired a reputation as a pulpit orator. In 1860 he accepted the charge of the American Chapel, in Paris. During the Civil War he rendered great service to the Union cause with his voice and pen, and his home in Paris was known as the rallying place for patriotic Americans in France. In 1867 he organized Drew Theological Seminary. He was also famous as a writer.

Olin street brings up recollections of the Rev. Stephen Olin, D. D. LL. D., a pulpit orator who lived in the early part of the last century, and was once president of Wesleyan University. Then there was Philip Embury, generally regarded as the earliest Methodist preacher resident in America, who is recalled by mention of the avenue bearing his name. The man was born in Ireland in 1729, and became a minister in 1758. In 1760 he came to New York, working as a carpenter at first, but in 1766 he took up preaching in earnest, and made that his life work.

Dr. Adam Clark, after whom Clark avenue is named, was another Irish born Methodist minister, particularly distinguished as a Biblical commentator, who was sent to school near Bristol, England, by John Wesley. Abbott avenue is called so after Benjamin Abbott, another early preacher of that denomination, born in Pennsylvania in 1792, who, while uneducated, had wonderful powers of oratory, and took part in one of the greatest deligious epochs the country ever saw.

Stockton avenue causes Methodists to think of a famous New Jersey preacher, the Rev. Thomas Hewlings Stockton, D. D., born in Mt. Holly in 1808, who filled the post of chaplain to Congress for many years.

Mountains and hills, famous in Biblical literature, have been called upon to designate five important thoroughfares. There is Zion Way, recalling the highest hill in the city of Jerusalem, and one of the original elevations on which the city was built.

Mt. Carmel, looked upon by the Jews from earliest times as a sacred spot, where the prophet Elijah assembled the people, and where an altar to Jehovah existed before the introduction of Baal worship, furnishes a name for another "way."

Then there is Mt. Tabor Way, bringing recollections of the Bible story of how Barak, at the command of Deborah, assembled his forces on Mt. Tabor, and upon the arrival of the opportune moment, descended with ten thousand men after him into the plain, and conquered Sisera, on the banks of Kishon.

Mt. Hermon, towering about the plains, its lofty summit surmounted perpetually with snow when the country is parched by the summer sun; the elevation where some think the Saviour's transfiguration took place, and at the base of which the lunatic boy was healed, is recalled by Mt. Hermon Way.

Then comes Mt. Pisgah Way, named after the range of hills which Moses traversed when he "went up from the plains to Moab unto Mount Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, that is over against Jericho," to die and be buried by God.

New Jersey and three of the States adjoining—Delaware, New York and Pennsylvania—are honored by having avenues in Ocean Grove called after them.

When Mr. Bradley bought the tract of land now known as Asbury Park, thirty-five years ago, and decided to make of it a summer resort, he had no idea what he should call it. He first laid out the place, then cast about him for a fitting name. Perusing a history of the Methodist Episcopal church in the interim, he was impressed with the work of Bishop Francis Asbury, the first bishop of the Methodist church in the United States. When in Baltimore a short time afterwrd Mr. Bradley visited Bishop Asbury's grave in the cemetery adjoining the old Eutaw Street Methodist Episcopal church there, and then decided to call his new resort after the first bishop of his church—Asbury. But as there was already an Asbury in the State, he had to add a second part to the name to avoid postoffice complications. Taking his cue from the dense woods the covering that part of Monmouth county, he made it Asbury Park. One of the principal thoroughfares bears Bishop Asbury's name, as well as an avenue in Ocean Grove.

The place formally designated, it was natural for Mr. Bradley to call the streets after other ppromient Methodists, and so generally was this done that as long as names of the streets and avenues remain, the pioneers of the Methodist Episcopal church will not be forgotten.

Kingsley street is named after the Rev. Calvin Kingsley, D. D., who was an American Methodist clergyman and bishop, and editor of the Western Christian Advocate in 1856. He died at Jerusalem in 1870 while on a tour of the world.

Barbara Heck, foundress of American Methodism, who formed the John Street Methodist Episcopal church, New York, the first of its denomination in America, has been honored by having Heck street, in Asbury Park, and Heck avenue, in Ocean Grove, named after her.

The memory of Bishop Philip E. Emory, an Irishman, who opened his home in New York for the first meeting of the Methodists in this country, will always be kept green if Emory street continues to exist. Thomas Emerson Bond, an American physician and Methodist clergyman, born in Baltimore in 1782, a local preacher and defender of Episcopal Methodism during the controversy which resulted in the organization of the Methodist Protestant church, inspired the name of Bond street. Dr. Bond was editor of the Christian Advocate and Journal for many years before he died, in 1856.

Cookman avenue was named after the Rev. George G. Cookman, an eloquent divine, who was twice chaplain to Congress. In 1841 he embarked for Europe on the steamer President, which was never heard from after she left her American port.

Hiram Hattison, for whom a business street is named, was an American preacher, belonging at first to an independent Methodist organization. He was a prolific writer on religious themes and noted for hospility to to Roman Catholics and slavery. He died in Jersey City in 1868.

The Rev. Nathan Bangs was an American minister of the Methodist denomination. He was president of Wesleyan College.

PUBLISHING CONCERN MOVES.

New York Company to Consolidate With Staples Printing Company

The United Educational Company, of New York, established in 1874, has purchased stock in the Staples Printing Company, of Elizabeth, and will move its composing, printing and binding departments there on or before August 1, and occupy the building 16-20 Jefferson street, which it has leased from E. M. Staples. Although thus combined with the Educational Printing Company, the Staples Printing Company will continue actively in the job printing business under its own name.

The Educational Company publishes four educational periodicals—The Teachers' Magazine, monthly; The School Journal, weekly; Our Times, weekly, and Educational Foundations, monthly. It is intended, also, to issue another magazine of large size and circulation. In addition to the above periodicals, the company has a large book business, along educational lines, of its own publication.

The combined plant will, it is expected, give employment to about 100 people, many of whom will come to this city as soon as the plant can be moved.

CHIDSEY'S TO RESUME.

New Corporation to Take Charge of Delivery Business.

Business men and other citizens seem pleased with the announcement that the Chidsey Free Delivery Company, of Elizabeth, will resume business within a short time. The old concern, it will be remembered, made an assignment a few days ago to the Union County Trust Company, and steps were at one etaken to reorganize the concern on a more extensive basis.

The new concern will be known as the Chidsey Express Delivery Company. It is to be capitalized at $200,000 and $85,000 of this sum is offered to public subscribers in gold bonds at five per cent. After July 23 the subscription books will be closed. The same routes will be gone over as under the old regime. C. A. and J. M. Chidsey will manage the concern jointly.

Mrs. D. C. Adams and daughter, Miss Helen Adams, of Grove street, have returned from a two weeks' stay at Paradise Inn, Paradise Valley, Pa.

TO ENLARGE ACADEMY

Local Women Intereste in Synodical Society's Home Mission Effort in Utah.

RAISING SUBSCRIPTIONS

Mrs. W. E. Honeyman President and and Mrs. J. H. Manning Secretary of Women's Society—What is to be Done.

Members of the Woman's Synodical Society of Home Missions in the New Jersey Synod, some of whom are Plainfielders, are making vigorous efforts to consummate their plans to enlarge the New Jersey Academy at Logan, Utah, and expect that by the fall enough subscriptions will have been raised to permit the work to be undertaken. Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of North Plainfield, is president of the Synodical Society, and Mrs. J. H. Manning is treasurer. All that stands in the way of success now is the lack of funds, and a special appeal has been made by the New Jersey Synod of the Presbyterian church and by the Board of Home Missions for aid in the worthy project.

The career of the academy dates back to 1890, when two years after the inception of the plan the structure was completed. The money which was subscribed toward the cost of erection in no way interfered with the pledged work of the society.

Although the academy was located in a strong Mormon town, so popular did it become that in 1894, four years after its erection, a demand for accommodations for boarding pupils was so urgent that a building was secured and fourteen boarding pupils were entered. As it was impossible to obtain a lease of this temporary boarding home, in the following year the academy building was reconstructed, the upper story being set apart for a girls' dormitory, and a few rooms on the first floor appropriated for the boys.

Ten years have passed since this change was made and during all this time every available space in the academy has been occupied, while scores of worthy applicants have been turned away—sent back to Mormonism—for lack of room. Now the time has come when enlargement is a necessity.

Of the students who have gone out from this school two are professors in State universities, one in Wyoming, the other in California; one has an important position in the Logan Bank and is a ruling elder in the church; another is a prominent business man in Portland, Ore., and an earnest Christian worker; one is a successful public school teacher in Logan and an efficient worker in the Sunday school; four are teaching school in other places, and three more will take up work the present year; one is a minister in charge of a mission church in Indian Territory, while two of his sisters were long connected with our work as mission teachers. One of the most faithful and efficient teachers in the New Jersey Academy at the present time was a former pupil, and the hope of the managers is that more teachers and preachers may be turned out each year.

The plan is to erect a dormitory on the academy grounds which will accommodate fifty or sixty girls, besides teachers; and to utilize all the dormitory space in the academy building for young men and boys. The new building will cost at least $6,000, but it serection will make it possible to increase the enrollment 100 per cent. or more, while the increase in the cost of maintenance will be not more than 10 per cent., since no addition to the faculty will be required. "It is indeed a serious matter," writes Principal I. N. Smith, "when in this Mormon region we must refuse admittance to a large number of young people, who would attend a Christian boarding school. Long before school closed this year we were obliged to refuse applications made by boys for next year. These will undoubtedly find boarding places in Mormon homes and attend the Brigham Young Academy; the same is true of scores of girls and young women, and I need not tell what all this means."

The officers of the Synodical Society are: Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of this city, president; Mrs. E. C. Miles, Roselle, corresponding secretary; Miss Elizabeth D. Paxton, Princeton, recording secretary; Mrs. William Nelson, Paterson, secretary literature; Mrs. M. Katherine Jones Bennett, Englewood, Young People's secretary; Mrs. Francis S. Irwin, East Orange, secretary Freedman; Mrs. J. H. Manning, 413 East Sixth street, this city, treasurer.

Don'ts for the Home.

Don't be afraid of a little fun at home. Don't shut your house lest the sun should fade your carpets, and your hearts, lest a hearty laugh shake down some of the musty old cobwebs there, says the Chicago Journal. Therefore let the fire burn brightly at night and make the homestead delightful with all those little arts that parents so perfectly understand. Don't repress the buoyant spirits of your children; half an hour's merriment round the lamp and fireside of home blots out the remembrance of many a care and annoyance during the day, and the best safeguard they can take with them into the world is the influence of a bright little domestic sanctum.

LOCAL FIREMEN ROUTED

Brooklyn's Laddies' Nine Did Them to the Tune of 8 to 0.

DINNER FOLLOWED

Pretty Game Up to the Seventh Inning, When the First Run Was Made—Feast at the Waldorf.

With the encouragement offered by first-class atendance and the promise of cooler weather as the play progressed, the baseball match between the teams of the Brooklyn Fire Department and the local fire laddies was played Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of the Plainfield Firemen's Pension Fund. Plainfield lost; 8 to 0.

The local team knew they were up against as good a combination of ball players as can be found in any fire department in the country, but placed considerable confidence in their battery, Smith, pitcher, and Davis, at the receiving end. The first seven innings more than justified their trust for the visitors failed entirely for six innings, to connect with the horsehide and only scored once in the seventh, when Boyne came in with the goods on a passed ball and revived the self-confidence of the Brooklynites who had decided that if they failed to "do it" in this inning they might as well quit the job. Boyne had already shown that he had the defensive end of the game down to a pretty fine point but when he found the globule with his stick in the seventh, he was rewarded with a large chunk of silence from the local rooters, which was, in its way the finest tribute offered any player during the game.

Smith, by the way, showed how the strike-out game could be worked also, beginning with Ward and Daly in the second and repeating it on them and Murphy in the fifth.

Davis, his partner, held about everything that came his way till the break came in the seventh and one got by him, going between the bleachers and the stand, letting Boyne home with the first run. He was criticised to some extent also for short throws to the infield but played a good game taken all through.

After the seventh the game rather palled on the local rooters, two more runs, one by Cavanaugh and the other by DuFlon, being scored in the eighth and five more in the ninth.

Cavanaugh and DuFlon repeated in the ninth, setting an example which was followed by Boyne, Daly and Riley.

While lack of practice prevented any star playing on the part of the Plainfield players, there is no doubt that they could with the same amount of attention to the game, develope as fine a team as the Brooklyn men have.

Young in particular showed that he could hit, driving the leather into the outfield twice where it would have been safe if the Brooklyn men had been fielding as the Plainfield team were.

Captain Townley also, at second base, made good by nabbing several at the proper moment.

In the early part of the game a comical looking error was made by Daly at first. He muffed the ball and dropped it in the only spot on the diamond where he couldn't see it, letting the runner land safely on the sack. He immediately retrieved himself by nabbing a foul fly sent his way by Hederman and putting the visitors out, DuFlon and Cavanaugh having fanned already.

The line up for each team follows in the order which the men batted:

Plainfield—Young, ss; Townley, 2b; Smith, p; Jaeger, 3b; McCabe, cf; Pearson, lf; Clark, rf; Davis, c; Daly, 1b.

Brooklyn—Cavanaugh, rf; DuFlon, 3b; Boyne, p; Alphonsin, lf; Hederman, cf; Ward, 2b; Daly, 1b; Murphy, ss; Riley, c.

Umpire—Arthur McGinley, of the local police force.

Returning to Fire Headquarters shortly after 5 o'clock, both teams shed their uniforms, washed the marks of the fray from their features and proceeded to the banquet room of the Hotel Waldorf, where a plentiful supply of roast stuffed chicken, roast beef, mashed potatoes, vegetables and relishes awaited their onslaught.

When the hunger of the seventy-five or more guests had been satisfied, liquid refreshment and cigars were passed and song and story took up an exceedingly enjoyable hour or two.

Chief Doane, of the local department, after apologizing for the absence of Mayor James F. Buckle and Judge Runyon, who had expected to be present, introduced Captain Clifford, of the metropolitan fire department, who paid a tribute to the city and its firemen. Captain O'Neill, of Jersey City, who spoke next, said that Plainfield was the most hospitable city it had ever been his good fortune to visit.

Songs were sung by Jack Todd, Thomas DeMena, George Cose, John Cose, Harry Blimm and Fireman McCabe, of this city, and by a number of the visitors, including James McGowan, of Brooklyn, who sang an original song, the words and music of which were composed of Frank Marr, of Truck Sixty, Brooklyn.

The visitors left about 9 o'clock for home. A return game will be played at Brooklyn in the near future.

SCHOOL SCHEME HELD UP

No Likelihood of New School House at New Market Just Yet.

SAID TO BE ILLEGAL

Attorney General Balks at Approving Legality of Vote—Women Were Allowed to Cast Ballots.

Although the friends of the proposition to build a $20,000 public school at New Market were successful in their efforts at the last public meeting held in that place, there is no prospect of the structure being erected just now, owing to the manner in which the proposition was adopted. Those who opposed the expenditure of so much money at New Market have appealed to the attorney-general of the State for his opinion as to the legality of the vote and it is understood that he will not approve the action. Rather than have the work stopped by court procedure after it is once started, the school commissioners will wait until the matter is settled right.

The opponents of the proposition to build such an expensive high school at New Market, contend that the illegal part of the proceedings was that some women were allowed to vote at the meeting who had no right to do so and that ballots containing but the one proposition, "$20,000," were used at the meeting, thus preventing those who opposed this amount from casting a ballot according to their opinion.

A prominent resident of the township in speaking of the matter yesterday said that he was convinced at the time that many things were illegal and that the action would not stand law.

While the residents of South Plainfield are in a measure satisfied with school conditions, it having been decided to establish the higher grades in their public school, they will still oppose the plan to spend $20,000 at New Market, believing that one-half that amount is sufficient. They contend that if the children of that place want a high school education it can easily be arranged to have them attend the Plainfield schools, but they con see no reason why the taxpayers of the township, many of whom cannot afford it, should be burdened with a heavy tax to give the limited number of children there a higher education.

Now that South Plainfield will have higher grades, the children will be spared the tiresome trip to New Market every day. This will mean quite a saving. It is also believed that if New Market fails to get a $20,000 building other parts of the township will have a chance to secure a school building so that the children from other distant points can be saved the trip to New Market.

There is need of a school at Gallagher's Corner and one in the vicinity of Rock avenue, and the citizens in these localities are sincerely hoping that school accommodations will be provided at these points for their children.

HEALTH OFFICER GIVES HOT WEATHER ADVICE

A FEW SUGGESTIONS AS TO THE DISPOSAL OF GARBAGE.

The present hot wave has brought no end of trouble to the Plainfield Board of Health, many citizens finding it an excellent opportunity to register a "kick" of one sort or other, no matter how trivial. As a result Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow has been on the jump looking after many violations of the health code.

"This is just the season of the year and the right temperature for the propogation of bacteria," said Mr. Thurlow, "and every little nuisance is called to the attention of the Board. In many cases the complaint is a cause of 'spite work' on the part of neighbors and it results in making bad friends."

Mr. Thurlow advises all householders to be very careful these days about their garbage and not allow it to remain about the house or yard any longer than possible as it will quickly produce disease when permitted to stand any length of time. He also advises that extreme care be taken to keep the house and yard clear of everything that produces germs.

Owing to the extreme heat, Mr. Thurlow has temporarily stopped the house-to-house inspection work which is being done by Inspector Robert W. Meeker. He decided that the weather was altogether too warm to continue this work and it will be taken up just as soon as there is a change in the atmosphere.

Mr. Thurlow reports that the general health of the city is excellent, and that there are very few cases of contagious disease.

We Envy Them.

The colony of Plainfielders stopping at the Felmly Farm, Lebanon, Hunterdon county, report that the weather has been quite comfortable with an absence of extreme heat. This is especially true at night.

HE MADE JAIL A WRECK

Crazed Man Attempted to Brain Deputy Sheriff While on Rampage.

IRON BAR HIS WEAPON

James Henderson Smashes Everything in Reach at Somerset County Jail—Taken to Asylum.

The Somerset county jail looks more like a wreck today than it ever did before, owing to a crazy man being confined within it walls Wednesday. James Henderson, a brother of Officer Henderson, of the Somerville police force, was arrested yesterday morning by Officer Koch on charges preferred by his wife.

Henderson had been drinking too much lately and when he went home yesterday he knocked down his wife and turned the hose on her. As soon as he was committed to the county jail he became violent. He broke an iron bar from one of the windows and went on a Carrie Nation-like smashing tour, breaking locks, windows and everything that came in his way, until it looked as if a cyclone had passed through the jail.

Deputy Sheriff Anderson summoned two policemen to help confine Henderson in a cell. For a time the prisoner held the officers at bay with the iron bar. He attempted to brain Deputy Anderson, but Officer Holmes stayed the prisoner's arm in the nick of time. Finally the men got Henderson down and put him in a cell.

Later on he was taken to the State Insane Asylum at Trenton by Sheriff Casper and Officers Henderson, the brother, and Holmes.

MORE STRINGENT RULES FOR THE HACKMEN

PROBABLE MOVE TO AMEND THE PRESENT ORDIANCE.

The license committee of the Common Council in regulating the business carried on by the hackmen at the North Avenue station, is trying to make the ordinance more strict. It has always been permissable for the hackmen to drive up to the curb upon the arrival of a train, upon which there is a passenger who has engaged him beforehand. There has been objections to this, however, and now the committee seeks to prevent this.

A citizen in speaking of the matter today said that it has been the habit of many people to inform their hackmen that they would arrive home on a certain train and upon the arrival of it would naturally approach the curb and wait for the fare. The reason for objections to this is said to be that owners of private carriages are sometimes interfered with and annoyed by the efforts of the hackmen to ply their trade.

It is said that Chairman Tyler, of the committee, intends to present an amendment to the ordinance to license and regulate the hack business in which more restrictions will be placed on these men.

THEIR TERMS EXPIRING.

Seventeen Sheriffs to Go Out of Office Within Two Months.

The terms of seventeen of the twenty-one sheriffs of New Jersey will expire within the next two months, and successors to the present incumbents will be chosen at the coming election. Of the retiring sheriffs, nine are Republicans and eight Democrats. The nine Republicans are: Samuel E. Kirby, Atlantic; Joseph G. Bower, Burlington; Frank C. Somers, Camden; Charles G. Diament, Cumberland; Thomas H. Thropp, Mercer; William Carman, Middlesex; Abraham Ryerson, Morris; Courtney C. Carr, Ocean; B. Frank Coriell, Union. The Democrats are: William C. Nicholl, Essex; William T. Jones, Gloucester; John Zeller, Hudson; Jacob Dilts, Hunterdon; Obadiah C. Bogardus, Monmouth; William Johnson, Salem; Joseph C. Andrews, Sussex; William J. Barker, Warren.

None of these men can be re-elected this fall, as a sheriff is prohibited by law from holding two terms in succession. Their successors, except in the counties of Essex and Hudson, will continue to be compensated by fees. A law passed last winter puts the next and succeeding sheriffs of Essex and Hudson on a salary basis.

Old Jersey Railroad Man Dead.

The funeral of George W. Demarest, who died last Wednesday morning, took place yesterday afternoon in Baltimore. Mr. Demarest was born in New York State and began a railroad career in the Erie shops at Piermont, N. Y., as a carbuilder. In 1856 he went to the Camden and Amboy shops at Bordentown, N. J., as a carbuilder, and in June of 1856 to the Trenton Locomotive Works at Trenton, N. J., as foreman of the car shops. In 1859 he went to the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad. At one time he was treasurer of the Master Carbuilders' Association of America. He was a prominent Odd Fellow and had reached the thirty-third degree in the Masonic Order.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Good Stories for Summer Reading.

Albert, T. B.—Marjorie Dow, and other people.

"Artful stories, wit characterizing not only the style but the manipulation of plot. Every tale is logically worked out, and usually ends in a surprise."

Aldrich, T. B.—Sea turn, and other stories.

Austin, Mrs. J. C.—Standish of Standish.

"Tale of the Pilgrims of Plymouth colony in the 17th century."

Barr, Mrs. A. E. H.—Bow of orange ribbon.

"Story of New York in 1756."

Brown, Alice—Meadow grass.

"Short tales of New England village life."

Brush, Mrs. C. C.—Colonel's opera cloak.

"Happy-go-lucky life of a southern family in a northern town."

Bunner, H. C.—The midge.

"Story of the French quarter in New York."

Burnett, Mrs. F. H.—The lass o' Lowrie's.

"Thoroughly realistic portraiture of the humble life of the working classes of Lancashire."

Cable, G. W.—The Grandissimes.

"Romance of New Orleans and its creole inhabitants a century ago."

Churchill, W.—Richard Carvel.

"Autobiography dealing with the period of the American revolution."

Clemens, S. L.—Personal recollections of Joan of Arc.

"A prose epic which seizes the undying charm of Joan's character. Story put into the mouth of an actual fifteenth century knight."

Craddock, C. E.—In the Tennessee mountains.

"Studies of dwellers in the Great Smoky mountains, reproducing dialect, and depicting scenery and aspects of mountain weather."

Crawford, F. M.—Saracinesca, and its sequels.

"They afford a panorama of Roman society from 1865 to present time, in the form of annals of a princely house."

Curtis, G. W.—Prue and I.

"A quiet rumor and reverent faith in goodness and charity give these fables and reminiscences a charm and grace like that of Lamb's more personal essays."

Daskam, J. D.—Madness of Philip, and other tales of childhood.

Davis, R. H.—Gallagher, and other stories.

Deland, Mrs. Margaret—Old Chester tales.

"'Good for the soul' and 'Where the labourers are few' stand out among these chronicles of the old country town that forms the little world in which most of Mrs. Deland's characters move."

Fernald, C. B.—The cat and the cherub, &c.

"Six of the stories deal with the Chinese and are written with a sympathetic insight into Chinese character."

Ford, P. L.—Janice Meredith.

"Romance of the war of independence. The battles and other historical incidents presented with accuracy."

Garland, H.—Main-traveled roads.

"Stories of the Mississippi valley."

Goodwin, Mrs. M. W.—White aprons.

"A romance of Bacon's rebellion."

Grant, R.—Unleavened bread.

Hale, E. E.—In His name, &c.

"Story of the Waldenses at end of 12th century."

Hale, E. E.—Man without a country, &c.

"Fictitious memoir of an American officer who said he wished never to hear of the United States again, and for punishment had his wish fulfilled."

Hardy, A. S.—Wind of destiny.

"Story of subtle psychologic quality, its scenery and characters partly French and partly American."

Jersey City Bill Killed.

Governor Stokes at Sea Girt has vetoed Assembly bill No. 212, which authorizes cities of the first class to provide for the payment of water works by issuing bonds secured by mortgages upon said works and other property of the city. The bill is known as the Jersey City water works bonding bill, and was introduced by Mr. Duff. The bill made the issue of $7,595,000 of bonds that Jersey City will have to float to pay for her new water works at Boonton gilt-edged by making the bonds first lien on the works.

Spent $247.75 on Roosevelt.

The recent reception given to President Roosevelt at Perth Amboy cost the city $247.75. At the last meeting of the Common Council the bills were presented as follows: Decorations, Laggren Brothers, of Elizabeth, $100; music, N. Morrisey, $60; special policemen, thirty-eight at $2.25 each, $85.50. Warrants were ordered for all these bills.

Their Wedding Day Set.

The wedding of Miss Mabel Leek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leek, of East Fifth street, and William J. Tunison, of Somerville, has been set for Wednesday evening, August 30, at the home of the bride. A gathering of relatives and friends will be in attendance.

Excursion Deficit $160.

The First Baptist church excursion to Asbury Park on Thursday was not the success that it was last year. This year the deficit amounted to $160. The recent extreme hot weather is believed to be the cause.

MC CUTCHEN BLDG PLANS

Architect Marsh Submits Designs for a Business Block.

ON PARK AVENUE

Structure to be of Brick and Stone Two Stories High —General Plans.

A. L. C. Marsh, the architect, has prepared plans for the new building which Charles W. McCutchen, of the borough, proposes to erect on Park avenue, adjoining the property of The Plainfield Trust Company. They call for a handsome business block of brick and stone two stories high. The first floor will be devoted to stores of good width and depth, while the second floor will be arranged for offices.

The new structure will extend from the trust company line to the property purchased by John G. MacLaughlin and architecturally it will harmonize with the handsome banking building to be erected at Park avenue and West Second street.

While Mr. McCutchen has not accepted the plans, it is believed that he will do so. Just now estimates are being secured to ascertain the cost of construction and if these meet with Mr. McCutchen's approval it will probably not be long before the work is started.

There will be a vacant space of eighteen feet between Mr. McCutchen's new building and that of The Plainfield Trust Company, it being purposely planned by the company to allow this space on the side and in the rear of the bank building so that in the future others may be prevented from getting too close to the company property.

NEW JERSEY STATISTICS AT LIEGE EXPOSITION

MANUFACTURERS IN FRENCH TRANSLATION OF INDUSTRIAL BETTERMENT.

The New Jersey State Bureau of Statistics has a large exhibit at the exposition now in progress at Liege, Belgium, and James T. Morgan, deputy chief of the bureau, stated yesterday that it has attracted much attention and received the highest commendation.

The exhibit consists of large sheets showing the methods pursued by the bureau in collecting statistics, its tabulation methods, a large collection of photographs of the betterments and improvements in Jersey factories and other similar material. A special part of the exhibit is devoted to two documents issued by the bureau, which have been translated into French for the purpose. One is the book on "Industrial Betterment Institutions in New Jersey Manufacturing Establishments." This describes what has been done in the factories in this State for the benefit of the employes. It is splendidly illustrated and the English edition attracted much attention in this country and Canada.

The other work is a compilation of articles published in the twenty-seventh annual report of the bureau. It includes a complete digest of the New Jersey labor laws. The American exhibit, of which the New Jersey branch forms a large part, has been pronounced by the judges second only to that of France.

HAY'S WILL FILED.

Late Secretary of State Leaves Property to Family.

Washington, July 21—The will of John Hay, late Secretary of State, was filed for probate in the office of the register of wills for the District of Columbia. The beneficiaries are his wodiw and his brothers and sisters.

His brother, Leonard Hay, and his sister, Mary Hay Woolfolk, are given all of the property at Warsaw, Ill., and the sum of $25,000 each. His brother, Charles Edward Hay, is given $50,000, and Harwood Otis Whitney, of Keokuk, Iowa, $2,000.

All the rest of the property of all descriptions is left to his widow, Clara Stone Hay. Nothing is contained in the will to indicate the value of the estate.

Payne Whitney and James Wolcott Wadsworth, Jr., sons-in-law of the deceased, are named as executors of the estate, and the request is made in the testament that no bonds shall be enacted.

Another R. F. D.

Matthew P. Lane, of Somerville, has been busy circulating a petition for a new rural free delivery route from Somerville to Pluckamin, to Larger Crossroads, to Lamington, to Burnt Mills, to North Branch, and back to Somerville. The matter is now in the hands of Congressman Wood.

Case Is Settled.

In the contract case of Mokaway against James H. Robley, before Justice Smalley, Wednesday, Lawyer F. P. J. Huff, for the plaintiff, secured a settlement in full.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD

Former Gov. Voorhees Defendant in Suit Over Union County Water Stock.

IN CHANCERY COURT

Washington M. Lewis, of Long Branch, Says Voorhees Appropriated His Stock.

Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, as secretary of the Union Water company, has been made defendant in a suit in chancery brought by Washington M. Lewis, of Long Branch, who charges the former governor with fraud in connection with a certificate for 76 shares of capital stock of the water company. United States Senator John Kean is named in the bill as president of the company.

In his bill of complaint Lewis alleges that the late Sylvester Cahill, Jr., of Elizabeth, became indebted to former Governor Voorhees for $163 in July, 1893, and pledged as security the stock certificate, the value of which, it is claimed, was $650. Lewis says that no time was named for the repayment of the money or the return of the certificate, but that in October, 1897, Cahill offered to pay Voorhees. It is claimed that the former governor refused the money and also refused to return the certificate, and that he still refuses to settle.

The bill states that subsequent to Voorhees' refusal to return the stock, as alleged, Cahill assigned the stock to the complainant in this suit, and that Lewis is now the equitable holder of it. Lewis charges that on application of Voorhees the water company has issued a new certificate to him in his own name, this taking the place of the one formerly held by him as security for the claim against Cahill.

Lewis alleges that he has frequently sought the return of the stock, but that Voorhees always refuses to settle, claiming that the stock was assigned to him on account of legal services rendered by him for Cahill.

The complainant declares that the company is prosperous and the value of the stock has greatly increased while in the hands of the former governor. He says the 6 per cent. dividends which Voorhees has received for the stock while in his hands has more than repaid the claim against Cahill, and, therefore, the defendant is illegally holding the certificate. The complainant says an accounting would show that Voorhees is indebted to him. It is charged that Voorhees used his position as secretary of the company to secure the new certificate for the stock without the knowledge of the complainant. Lewis asks for an accounting and that the former governor be compelled to turn the stock over to him.

REAL ESTATE CHANGES.

Local Property Transfers of Interest to Plainfielders.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded at the office of the county clerk:

J. D. Louizeaux et ux. to George B. Staats, southerly side Jackson avenue, 110 feet westerly of George street .......................$1

Amelia L. French to Peter J. Zeglio, easterly side Front street, corner Wilson land .......................$1

Elizabeth Giese et al. to Caspar F. Waglow, Elm place, 35 feet easterly of George Thorn .......................$1

Thomas B. King, et al. to John R. Westervelt, Dunellen avenue, 398 feet southwesterly of Albert ave..$1

Laura M. Lewis et al. to Jennie A. Cole, northeasterly side Netherwood avenue, corner New street ....$400

Adeline Albert et al. to Amos Andrews, southeasterly side Columbia avenue, 100 feet southwesterly of Frederick street .......................$1

William Jeffery et ux. to Samuel H. Craig et al., lot 2, block 2, "Map of C. E. Gulick" .......................$1

Fred C. Morris et ux. to Louis Shiff, northeasterly side Spooner avenue, 100 feet northeasterly of Third street .......................$1,487.50

This contract has also been filed:

C. R. R. Co. of N. J. with Wm. J. McCloud & Co., to construct concrete passenger tunnel and steps at Netherwood station .......................$6,675

AT "LITTLE WHITE HOUSE."

Governor Stokes Gives a Dinner to Politicians.

The "Little White House" was deserted, as well as the quarters of the quartermaster-general's department, Wednesday night, for General Murray gave a dinner at the Ross Fenton farm to the Governor and his staff of the commissary department. Those who attended were Governor Stokes, Adjutant-General Breintnall, Colonel Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Captain Harry C. Kramer, Lieutenant Mahlon Margerum, Colonel William Early, Lieut.-Col. Alexander Fordyce, Col. James V. Oliphant, Captain Harry B. Salter, Vivian M. Lewis, Colonel D. Stuart Craven and Edward W. Gray, the Governor's secretary. The party returned late at night in automobiles.

Colonel Joseph S. Frelinghuysen is a frequent visitor to the Beach House as his mother, sister and cousin are staying there.

W. C. T. UNION INSTITUTE

Summer Season at Ocean Grove July 26 and 27.

THE PROGRAMME.

Miss Bowne to Preside — Bishop Fitz Gerald to Extend Welcome—The Officers.

Arrangements are being made for the summer institute of the New Jersey Woman's Christian Temperance Union, to be held July 26 and 27 in Ocean Grove. The local union will be well represented. The institute will be called to order on the first day by Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark, the State president, and Bishop Fitz-Gerald, president of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, will extend the greeting.

The Rev. Dr. J. W. Marshall, of Ocean Grove, and Mrs R. B. Chambers will also speak. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of this city, will be heard on "Woman's Suffrage Association," and Mrs. M. Sparks Wheeler, of Ocean Grove, will give a Bible reading. The noontide prayer will be given by Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson. The afternoon session will be opened with a prayer by Mrs. A. G. Senser, of Camden, and Mrs. S. M. Clark, of Newark, will be heard on "How to Teach the Next Sunday school Temperance Lessons." "The Duties of a County Leader of Loyal Temperance Legion" will be the subject of Miss M. S. Mullock's address, and Mrs. A. R. Fisher, of Sayreville, will speak on "The Duties of a Local Leader of Loyal Temperance Legion." An address to mothers and daughters will be given by Mrs. A. M. Hammer, of Bayonne, and the Rev. T. T. Mutchler, secretary of the Philadelphia Sabbath Association, will speak on "The Sunday Newspaper and the Poor' Man's Sunday."

The next day's session will be opened with an address by Miss Gertrude Roberts, of Newark, on "How the Young Woman's Branch Co-operates with the Young People's Societies of the Churches," and Mrs. I. H. Demarest, of Newark, will be heard on "Our Social Problems—How the W. C. T. U. is Solving Them." Mrs. A. M. Hammer, of Newark, will give a Bible reading and Dr. Eva M. Lake will give the noontide prayer. "Immigration at Ellis Island" will be the subject of a lecture to be delivered by Miss Mary L. Orr, a W. C. T. U. missionary. Miss Mabelle Biggart, of New York, will be heard on "The Social Octopus," and Mrs. Ella M. Thatcher, of Florence, will speak on "What the W. C. T. U. Knows About Post Exchanges, Forts, Soldiers' Homes, etc."

At the evening session E. Tennyson Smith, the renowned English temperance evangelist, will be heard on "Tug of War Between Temperance People and the Liquor People."

The officers of the association are: Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark, president; Mrs. I. H. Demarest, of Newark, corresponding secretary; Dr. Eva M. Lake, recording secretary, and H. L. Caminade, treasurer.

TO ENTER U. S. TOURNEY.

Mrs. N. P. Rogers to Take Part in Championship Play.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers has decided to enter the United States Golf Association championship play to be held at the Morris County Club in October. This play will open on October 6 and 7, with the inter-city team matches. New York and Philadelphia will meet on the first day and the winners will meet the Boston team on the second day. Mrs. Rogers will be a member of the New York team, composed entirely of women.

On October 9 to qualifying round for the United States championship will be played, and it is expected that the entry list will be the largest in the history of the association. The play will continue until Saturday, October 14.

POST OFFICE TO STAY.

Uncle Sam Not to Change Its Location.

After all the talk, Plainfield's post office is to stay just where it is. The Babcock building is good enough for Uncle Sam as a place to transact his mail business, and that settles it.

A Federal post office official in charge of such business has arranged to renew the lease with William M. Stillman when certain improvements are made. Uncle Sam wants a paper distributing case and a registering case for the carriers installed before he will sign an agreement to keep on paying rent. These articles of post office furniture will be supplied by the landlord.

D. C, Smalley Purchases Property.

David C. Smalley, the North avenue butcher, has purchased the property on East Third street now occupied by "Ted" Flannery's blacksmith shop. This is one of the old landmarks in the city. Mr. Smalley says that he has not made up his mind as to what he will do with this property, but suggests that it would make a good site for a beef house, owing to its proximity to the railroad. Mr. Flannery will continue the blacksmith business for the present.

BOLD DASH FOR LIBERTY

"Professor" Ernest Austin Eludes Officer and Takes to His Heels.

PISTOL STOPS HIM.

Originally Sentenced for Sixty Days, Judge Runyon Adds Another Hundred.

Sentenced to sixty days at Elizabeth for wife beating, Tuesday, Ernest Austin, the well known colored boot black and baseball rooter, made a bold dash for freedom that gave him a few moments of liberty but cost him an additional 100 days in jail. He was recaptured after an exciting chase, in which a revolver shot finally brought him to bay, and was immediately returned to the city court, where Judge Runyon was still holding session. The magistrate showed him not the slightest bit of leniency and inflicted the heaviest punishment within his jurisdiction.

Austin has been in an ugly frame of mind for the past three or four weeks, and almost nightly has returned to his home on Park avenue, opposite North, and kicked and beat his wife. The usual performance was in progress about 10 Monday night, when Patrolman Meyers was attracted to the place by the woman's screams. As the officer ascended one flight of steps back of the Clifton & Campbell building, Austin fled down another, clad only in his underclothing. He escaped in the darkness, but while the police all over the city were being notified to watch for him, he walked into headquarters and gave himself up to Sergeant Frederickson.

Austin did not deny the charges when arraigned in the city court, and after a scathing lecture Judge Runyon gave him sixty days straight. He was put back in a cell and Patrol Driver O'Gorman, who is on his vacation, but who happened to be present, was instructed to take the prisoner to the county jail. Austin seemed to be unusually submissive, and as he had never been sentenced before, the officer did not handcuff him, but walked a little ahead of him for the outer door.

An Elizabeth trolley car was just approaching from Somerset street, and with a "Come on, Ernest," O'Gorman started toward it. Ernest, however, had other plans in view, and bending his head low, darted up East Front street at a speed that threatened to break all running records. When O'Gorman looked around the wife beater was half way to Watchung avenue, taking race horse strides up the middle of the street. Just the same, O'Gorman wasn't daunted and took out after him, almost the entire court gathering following in the rear. Chief Kiely jumped on a wheel and also joined in the chase, and the rumor that the murderer Long was the fugitive upset the whole thoroughfare.

Austin turned into Watchung avenue and ran back of the long row of shanties that border the raceway. He lost considerable time there because of not knowing the ground and was just crossing the raceway near Tier's dam when O'Gorman hove in sight. His cry of "Halt" was unheeded, but Ernest changed his mind when a pistol shot rang out and a bullet "zipped" passed his head. He doubled on his tracks and came back to the raceway bridge on Watchung avenue, under which he cowered. O'Gorman, forgetting neatly blacked shoes, a white vest and Sunday trousers, plunged into the six inches of water and four feet of mud and brought the negro out. He made several attempts to get away going back to headquarters, but the officer kept a tight hold on him with one hand and gripped his pistol in the other, and there was "nothing doing." When the additional sentence was imposed Austin was locked to an officer and the interrupted trip to Elizabeth was resumed.

NO FAST SCHEDULE.

Railroad People Say Reading Will Not Have Ninety Minute Trains.

Despite the recent reports that the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad officials intend to adopt a ninety minute schedule for through trains between Jersey City and Philadelphia, it is the opinion of many railroad people that it will not be done. It is contended that the present schedule is fast enough for all purposes and that the officials have never been in favor of a faster one.

The Reading system is controlled by the Pennsylvania and Lake Shore roads and it is not likely that any changes will be made whereby the interests of the Pennsy will suffer, as that road is also looking for its share of the traffice between New York and Philadelphia.

Plainfielders to Camp.

A party of vacationists to leave the city August 1 will comprise George Morton, T. Ashley Weaver, William Thorn, George L. Apgar and Arthur Robinson. They will spend the time at "Camp Restawhile," which they will establish at Swartswood lake, in the wilds of Sussex county, near the New York State line. The lake abounds with bass and pickerel and they are assured of plenty of piscatorial sport at least. They expect to be gone two weeks.

APPARENT DEFECTS IN THE CENSUS LAW

THE ACT SEEMS TO REQUIRE IMPOSSIBILITIES—NEWARK'S POPULATION.

The local work of census enumeration, which, to comply with the law, should have been completed by the second week in June, was not finished on time. Those in charge of the worksay they did their best to hurry it along as rapidly as was consistent with a thorough canvass, and if this be true it would appear that the law requires impossibilities. The canvass act also says that the tabulations shall be completed by August 1.

Judging from local conditions it would appear that the act, which was passed at the last session of the Legislature, is open to criticism in certain features. One is the brief space of time it provides for the enumeration; another is the provision which directs that the work of the canvassers shall be done in the summer, a season which finds many of the urban residents away from their homes. Locally, much delay was occasioned by the effort to obtain the names of absentees, and many of these are still on the list of the missing. Whether a future Legislature will correct these apparant defects in the law remains to be seen.

"Upon the receipt by the Secretary of State of the tabulated returns of the various supervisors," says the act, "he shall prepare ageneral account specifying the result thereof in the several counties, cities and other municipal divisions, as evidenced by the supervisors' returns, with a full recapitulation of the whole, which report shall be submitted to the Governor on the first day of December in each year, or as soon thereafter as completed, and such submission shall be taken as and be the official ascertainment and promulgation of said census, and thereafter published in pamphlet form, and the returns as filed by the Secretary of State shall be carefully bound together by districts and deposited in the State Library, together with a bound copy of the general account and the recapitulation thereof."

WASHINGTON HEIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS STARTED

FRANK MOBUS CONTRACTS TO DEVELOPE PART OF THE BOROUGH.

The actual work of improvement of the large tract of land in the West End of the borough which was recently purchased by a syndicate, was started on Saturday and rapid progress is now being made. Frank Mobus, of the borough, assisted by William Emmons, has the contract for the work and a large gang is now employed.

The work began with the cutting down of a number of trees near the West End avenue bridge to make room for the widening of that thoroughfare, and yesterday all of the stone flagging on the west side of the avenue, extending many feet from the bridge, was taken up and stored in a nearby lot.

Much of the dirt taken from the upper part of the avenue is being used to fill in near the bridge on the borough side. It is the purpose of the owners of the property to close up the raceway running north and south, as it is nothing more than a breeding place for mosquitoes. The course of Green brook which runs through the property, will be straightened, preparatory to making a large lake. This body of water will be about 1,500 feet long and 300 feet wide. It is also proposed to locate handsome dwellings in the vicinity of this lake, as well as along the new boulevard.

In laying out the boulevard the plan is to make the avenue one hundred feet wide. In the centre will be a row of trees together with electric lights and there will be driveways on either side. It is also possible that a thoroughfare may be provided for automobiles.

MAYOR BILL EXPOUNDS.

Why He Prefers Motor-Cycle to Automobile.

"Mayor" Bill Smith's latest fad is a motor-cycle of the approved type.

"No more autos for me," says the "Mayor" of New Market. "You are obliged to take your friends out for a ride, and they use you for a good thing. With a motor-cycle you go alone and enjoy yourself."

Back from Tuxis Camp.

Orra S. Rogers, chairman of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., has returned from Camp Tuxis, Tuxis Island, where a number of Plainfield boys are spending their vacation. C. M. Thorpe, another officer of the association, is now there, and Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary, is in charge of the camp, assisted by several association members.

Shot a Mad Dog.

Because a dog on Steiner place was barking and whining and foaming at the mouth, it was locked in a barn on the street. Chief Weiss was called and he put an end to the mad dog's sufferings with a bullet.

HYDE CASE DISMISSED

Effort to Have Plainfielder Declared Bankrupt Meets With Failure.

CHARLES SPIER'S FIGHT

Litigation Started Five Years Ago—Hyde Will Now Seek to Have a Judgment Reversed.

After a sensational trial in the United States District Court at Trenton, Monday, the application of Charles L. Spier to have Charles L. Hyde, of this city, declared a bankrupt was dismissed.

In the course of the trial it developed that Spier and Hyde have been engaged in litigation in New York for about five years. Recently, on May 31st, 1905, Spier secured judgment against Hyde in one of the inferior courts of New York city, and on the same day filed a petition in the United States District Court of New Jersey to have Hyde declared a bankrupt. Spier did not notify Hyde that the judgment had been entered, nor ask Hyde whether he proposed to pay, or appeal. He instantly began bankruptcy proceedings.

Papers were issued to the United States marshal in New Jersey for service upon Hyde. Hyde claims that Spier has been trying to force him into paying money which he does not owe by means of sensational reports in the papers.

On the morning of June 2d last, the United States marshal served Hyde at his house with notice of the bankruptcy proceedings, though several New York papers published a sensational tale which asserted that the marshal had spent the previous day in chasing Hyde, who, it was stated, was in his automobile, all over northern New Jersey. Hyde was described as flying to avoid service.

Yesterday the marshal said that the story was absolutely without foundation; that he read it in the papers before he left Trenton to serve Hyde at all, and that he had not had any difficulty in serving Hyde, whom he found at his residence.

From the judgment which Spier obtained, Hyde has appealed, and a reversal is confidently expected by him.

After hearing the witnesses yesterday the court refused to declare Hyde bankrupt, and dismissed the case.

The firm of Battle & Marshall, of New York, with whom were Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, of New Jersey, represented Spier, while Charles A. Reed, of this city, with Henry B. Singer, of New York, appeared for Hyde.

Hyde was formerly prominent in the Tuxedo Park colony and is connected with several large enterprises and president of Brunswick & Birmingham Railroad.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Handkerchief sachets of linen with detachable covers embroidered with initials are very attractive.

Some girls are making blouses of all-over embroidery. They are elaborate without the necessity of tucking and inserting, says an exchange.

Bolero jackets of white linen cost $3.50 ready stamped for embroidering, and the more elaobrate frock-and-frill jackets $1 more. These frequently have the edge finished with an embroidered scallop, and one of the prettiest patterns is an all-over dot. Cut out in open rings, these are also pretty.

For traveling a housewife-shaped pinholder is most convenient. This is made of an oblong, gay-colored silk or cretonne, lined with a plain silk, having a layer of flannel or batting between, and bound at the edges with baby ribbon. It is filled with pins in rows inside and then folded up envelope-wise, fastening with a bow or ribbon.

For the bedroom a shoe case can be made of a bag of the cretonne divided into sections for slippers and shoes and finished with robbons and bows, and a bag for soiled handkerchiefs and turnovers should also match the rest of the little draperies. Net, appliqued with cretonne flowers and put over a plain, colored lining, is always pretty and can be combined in little things with cretonne draperies.

Collars and cuffs of heavy lace brighten up a silk shirt waist and are easily made at home. The collar takes three-eighths of a yard of heavy lace two inches wide and the cuffs half a yard more. The collar can be shaped in front or left in a perfectly straight piece and pinned with the three small pearl head or gold pins at the back. If it is liked one can bone it at either side and on one end at the back to keep from slipping down and wrinkling. Collar bone can be bought for a few cents a yard already covered with silk for this purpose. A Velenciennes set which could not be bought ready made under several dollars was made at home from a few scraps of the lace left from a dress. Two rows of insertion with a frill edging formed the collar, while three rows, also bordered with the edging, made the cuffs.

While fishing Monday evening, Elmer Teeple stepped in a hole and received a severe injury to his knee joint.

MORE GRAND COUNCILS OF R.A. IN RATE REVOLT

NEW DEMANDS FOR RECONVENING OF SUPREME BODY.

Quiet work on the part of the joint committees of the councils of the Royal Arcanum in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Richmond, The Bronx and Long Island has accomplished much in the last two weeks toward shaping the opinions of the members of the Grand Councils throughout the country. The committees have accumulated evidence that will disprove the statements made by the Supreme officers that the dissatisfaction caused by the new assesment rates is confined almost wholly to Manhattan and Brooklyn. They are prepared to show that the order throughout the country is threatened with disintegration unless the new tables are modified materially. The Grand Councils of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania have already decided to meet and call upon the Supreme Council to reconvene. It is necessary that a majority of the supreme representatives shall sign the call for the new convention, and the leaders of the movement in this city are confident there will be no trouble in getting the required number.

The joint committees of Manhattan, The Bronx, Brooklyn and Richmond, with the approval of a committee representing the councils of central New York, have sent out a call to the supreme representatives of every State wherein the Arcanum is organized to meet in extraordinary session at some convenient time and place before October 1 to reconsider the legislation enacted in Atlantic City in last May. In this call it is made clear that there is "a spirit of insurrection so widespread and unquestionably spontaneous that it must of necessity have originated in a real wrong." The supreme representatives of every State are assured that in the "storm centres" of the order, Manhattan and Brooklyn, "the processes of disintegration, consequent upon this unfortunate legislation, are beyond the ability of the most loyal members to stay."

The rates are discussed as being "revolutionary, wrongful and fallacious." The new tables are called fallacious because "the principle upon which they are based is clearly faulty in reason, will prove to be deceptive in operation and must inevitably defeat the avowed purpose of the Royal Arcanum."

The Grand Council of Pennsylvania will meet on Wednesday at the call of Grand Regent Frank B. Wickersham, of Harrisburg. The delegates have been instructed by the councils of Pennsylvania to submit three propositions to the supreme representatives. One of these demands is that benefit certificates shal have a cash surrender value when held for at least ten years. The second is that there shall be an advance of 50 per cent. on each member based upon the assessment rate paid at the time of entering the order. The third proposition is that members who have attained 60 years shall surrender their $3,000 policies, if they hold them, and that new policies be issued to them for $2,000 at the monthly rate of the higher figure.

These suggestions will not be acceptable to the New York delegates, it is said, for the reason that they are opposed to the imposition of a penalty for age. They are opposed to the cash surrender value because it is not fraternal, and the strong objection the members in this city have to the new rates is that they practically wipe out fraternalism, which is the corner stone of the Arcanum.

MERITY'S DISPUTED DECISION.

Report That He Changed His Opinion After Game.

It is reported semi-officially today that Umpire Merity admitted after Saturday's game that his decision relative to the question as to whether Stallings was entitled to a base on what appeared to be a third strike, which was missed by O'Neill, was wrong, but that he could not change his decision. Many claim that the ball struck the ground or the edge of the home plate before it reached the batter, and that Stallings struck at it, risking the chance to get a base on a wild pitch.

The decision was somewhat similar to the one which terminated the disputed game at Westfield last season, when Manager George Johnston wanter Umpire Watt to change his decision. The official would not make a change and the game was forfeited to Westfield, 9 to 0.

Water Scarce.

Owing to the drougth the Somerville Water Company has posted notices to water takers regarding the use of lawn hose for sprinkling purposes. People are not permitted to use water for lawns between 9 o'clock in the morning and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Raritan river is very low, the short showers yesterday not raising it at all, and it is feared there may be a water famine—not enough for household use and drinking purposes.

Miss Florence Johnson is visiting friends at Roselle.

The South Plainfield junior baseball team defeated the Samptown juniors yesterday afternoon in a game played at the latter place. The score was 16 to 6.

M'DONALD FREEHOLDER

First Ward Man Selected By Common Council to Succeed Capt. Hubbard.

ONLY TWO CANDIDATES

J. Fred MacDonald is Known as an "Anti-Machine" Man—Will Serve Until Election.

At the special meeting of the Common Council, Monday, J. Fred MacDonald, of the First ward, was elected freeholder to succeed the late Captain James Franklin Hubbard, who died a few weeks ago. There were several persons mentioned as candidates for the office, but the contest narrowed down to Mr. MacDonald and F. A. Pope, the latter of the Third ward.

This was the only business to be considered by the Common Council and after Clerk MacMurray read the call, President Daniel called for nominations. Councilman Bullock nominated J. Fred MacDonald and it was seconded by Councilman Higham. Councilman Gloak then named F. A. Pope and Councilman Frank Randolph seconded this nomination. There being no other candidates, President Daniel closed the nominations and appointed Councilmen Bullock and Randolph as tellers.

Mr. MacDonald received six votes and Mr. Pope received four votes.

The successful candidate is known as an anti-machine man and as soon as his name was mentioned, his election was conceded by many persons present. Mr. MacDonald, while he has been active in politics for a number of years, has not taken much part in them of late. For several years he was one of the leaders in a fight against the "machine" which controlled the administration, but was never successful. His choice to succeed the late Captain Hubbard is looked upon as another blow at the "machine," although it is said that neither Mr. MacDonald nor Mr. Pope made any great effort to get the office.

After the election there was no other business, and the meeting adjourned.

Mr. MacDonald will only serve until the next election, unless he secures the nomination and is elected for a full term. There is no doubt but that it is the intention of his friends to place him in nomination at the Republican primaries to be held in September.

Mr. MacDonald has been identified with the growth of Plainfield and by his business tact and ability has attained a place among financiers. He is of Scotch descent and belongs to one of the old families of New Jersey. In 1856 Mr. MacDonald's father established the first grocery store in this city. Mr. MacDonald was born in Plainfield April 12, 1858, in the house in which he now resides. He received his education in the private and public schools of this city, leaving the high school with the Class of 1877. Within the year of his graduation he entered the store of his father in the capacity of clerk. In 1888 he purchased all interests and remained sole proprietor for many years. This store was one of the landmarks of the town.

Mr. MacDonald subsequently retired from the grocery business to engage in that of real estate. He is interested in a number of properties both here and in Bergen county, this State, and in addition he has become the adjuster of a number of large estates for other people. He is one of the executors of the Lattimer estate and has constantly in hand large trusts. He is a director of the City National Bank, and has also been treasurer of the city and county Republican organizations.

Mr. MacDonald was married October 13, 1880, to Miss Maria Rockwell, daughter of Dr. Jacob VanDeveer, of New York, and granddaughter of Dr. William Rockwell, at one time a member of the Board of Health of New York city. Mrs. MacDonald comes from a family of physicians, in both her paternal and maternal lines of descent. Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald are members of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

OUTING FOR THE POOR.

Salvation Army Wants Contributions for Worthy Object.

Ensign and Mrs. Magee, officers in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army, have arranged to give a free outing to two hundred of the poorest children at Boynton Beach on Friday. The conditions upon which this outing will be given are that the parents of the children cannot afford to give them an outing and that the children do not expect to have an outing during the year through any other channel. The outing will cost about $100, and anyone desiring to contribute toward the fund can do so by sending the same to Ensign T. A. Magee, 116 Park avenue, this city.

Special trolley cars will leave Plainfield at 9 o'clock on Friday morning, arriving at the beach at 10:30. The cars, returning, will leave the beach at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, arriving here about 6 o'clock. The entertainment will include free tickets to all harmless amusements on the beach.

LEAGUE UMPIRES FOR COUNTY SERIES

MANAGER DENMAN OF WESTFIELD MAKES THE SUGGESTION.

Owing to the many disputed decisions thus far in the two contests between Plainfield and Westfield, and especially the one on Saturday, over what Umpire Merity declared to be a "dead ball," Manager Denman, of Westfield, has decided to ask Manager Daab, in a spirit of fairness that he drop Umpire Merity for the series, and in return he will drop Umpire Henning. In their places Denman will suggest that two league umpires be engaged to officiate in the rest of the games. He says that such a change would cost but a trifle more and would add at least $100 additional to the receipts. Mr. Denman also states that a number of the best people of Westfield have personally said to him that they would not attend the future contests if Umpire Merity officiated, and he has made up his mind to make the above suggestion to Mr. Daab, hoping that he will agree to the change.

When Mr. Denman's mind was refreshed concerning Dick Watt's work, last season, he admitted that the Plainfield people had a right to kick and he did not blame them, and he recognizes that there are many this year who object to Umpire Henning. He is willing to drop the latter, if Manager Daab will drop Merity, and agree upon two league officials. Mr. Denman says that he regrets the disputed decision on Saturday, for aside from the fact that he believes his team would have won, he is convinced that such work robs the game of much interest.

No one believes for a momen that Umpire Merity gives a wrong decision intentionally, that he tries to be very fair, goes without saying. In doing this he frequently gives the home team the worst of the decision. This happened on Saturday when once or twice he decided against Plainfield, when it appeared to many that it should have been in their favor. Just how Mr. Daab will take Mr. Denman's suggestion is not known, but he can be depended upon to do what is right and fair. He has always had this reputation and no one is willing to do more for the best interests of the game than he.

BUSY Y. M. C. A TENTS AT SEA CIRT CAMP

STATE GUARDSMEN APPRECIATE THE ATTRACTIONS AND CONVENIENCES.

One of the busiest spots in the First Brigade encampment of the New Jersey National Guard at Sea Girt, is the tents of the Camp Stokes branch of the New Jersey Young Men's Christian Association. The tents were erected and furnished with floors, tables and chairs last year through the courtesy of the quartermaster-general. The State executive committee, with office at 141 Halsey street, Newark, supports the two secretaries in charge and furnishes lights, ice water, stationery, periodicals, talking machine, baseball outfits, quoits, checkers, chess, etc.

Evening entertainments and song services, in co-operation with the chaplain, have helped break the monotony of camp life. Stationery is furnished free, while stamps and souvenir post-cards are sold at cost. Mail is also handled, and the fact that 4,979 letters and postals were mailed from the tent shows how this feature of the enterprise was appreciated.

The State executive committee of the New Jersey Young Men's Christian Association also keeps a secretary throughout the year with the regular army men at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, in the new building there, and maintains a library and reading room at New Jersey's other army post—Fort Mott, in Salem county. While a new departure, this work among the soldiers of the National Guard and regular army is fully as promising as the organizations among railroad men, among students and among the young men and boys of the cities and towns.

The army sub-committee of the State committee has direct charge of this department, consisting of the following: Edward P. Holden, Madison, chairman; T. S. Gladding, Montclair; J. H. B. Coriell, Morristown; Judge John Rellstab, Trenton.

State Secretary Hearne and Associate State Secretary Charles B. Brown have been rendering special help at Sea Girt, and W. F. Langdon, of Jersey City, is camp secretary, assisted by M. J. Caldwell, of West Hoboken.

Witnessed Big Blast.

Charles B. Morse, representing the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, was at Portsmouth, N. H., on Saturday to witness one of the greatest dynamite blasts ever made. Fifty tons of dynamite were used in the charge, at a cost of $750. Mr. Morse will visit friends in New Hampshire for several days, returning home the last of the week.

Silas Dewey Drake intends to start a newspaper in Lincoln, a weekly publication, about September 1. He will call it the Central Star.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Mrs. W. A. Westphal Dies From Hurts Received in Auto Accident.

CONSCIOUS AT END.

Took Part in Episcopal Service and Gave Instructions for Her Funeral Arrangements.

From the effects of the injuries she received in the automobile accident at Dunellen Sunday night, Mrs. William A. Westphal died at her home in the Jackson building at 1:35 Tuesday a. m. Though badly hurt when first picked up after being hurled twenty feet from the wrecked machine, it was thought that her chances of recovery were favorable, but yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock internal injuries, the extent of which had not been known, became manifest. Dr. Thomas Platt, of Dunellen, the attending physician, summoned Drs. Boone and Endicott. The three were with her almost constantly until the end, but her condition was such that their efforts were of no avail.

Mrs. Westphal was conscious until almost the last moment and mentioned to the relatives gathered about just how she wished her funeral to be conducted. She also took part in the service for the dying of the Episcopal church, conducted by Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace church. In addition to her immediate family, five sisters from Newark were in attendance.

The apparent injuries Mrs. Westphal received were four broken ribs and a dislocated thumb. In the examination conducted by the physicians afterward it was learned that she had been doomed from the beginning and that it was a miracle that she had not been killed outright. The head of Oscar Harris' horse, with which the auto collided, struck her with crushing force in the side and explains how she came to receive the brunt of the shock. In addition she was hurled to the roadway and fell on her back. She retained consciousness, however, and her first cry was:

"My daughter, O save my daughter."

The daughter, Miss Ada Westphal, was rendered partially unconscious by the shock, but quickly revived, and hastening to her mother's side, reassured her of her safety.

Mrs. Westphal was born in England, but had lived in Newark all her life until twenty years ago, when, with her husband, Freeholder William A. Westphal, she moved to Plainfield. Her maiden name was Amelia Wood and her family is widely known in Essex county. During her residence in Plainfield she was an active worker in the Church of the Holy Cross and had been a member of the choir from the time she entered the parish. For the past twelve years she had taught a class in the Sunday school and was greatly interested in the Woman's Guild. Her work in this field was conducted in a quiet way, but she never allowed anything to interfere with it.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two children, Miss Ada Westphal, who graduated from the Plainfield High School last June, and William Westphal, Jr. There are also six sisters, only one of whom did not reach her bedside Monday, on account of being at the Thousand Islands, and one brother, who is in Collinsville, Ill.

The other occupants of the machine received injuries of a slight character and are rapidly recovering. Miss Ada Westphal and Walter Vail are still suffering from shock and William R. Stanbery, the owner, has numerous severe contusions and cuts.

MANY NEW BUILDINGS TO BE ERECTED HERE

CONTRACTS SIGNED FOR RESIDENTAL AND BUSINESS STRUCTURES.

Mrs. Annie M. Toeser, of East Seventh street, has contracted with Joseph Naylor for the erection of a two and a half story dwelling on East Seventh street. Frederick L. Lancaster is the architect, and the contract price is $3,470.

Charles W. McCutchen, of the borough, has contracted with Frank Mobus for the sum of $1,000, to remove his brick building from Park avenue, adjoining The Plainfield Trust Company property, to West Second street and Pruden's alley.

Samuel Stranahan, of 1328 West Third street, has contracted with Charles F. Stahl, for the erection of a small dwelling on West Third street, for $1,200. W. H. Clum is the architect.

Woodhull & Martin who are to erect a building on East Front street, adjoining their present large dry goods house, have awarded contracts as follows: Mason work, B. F. Tallamy & Bro., $12,772; painting, Harold Hansen, $695; iron work, W. T. Kirk Co., $2,750. The building will be constructed on the store and apartment plan. Marsh & Gette are the architects.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1905. NO. 33

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well as Its Limitations as to Its Authorities"—Madison

COUNCILMAN SUGGESTS

Chairman Murphy Asks Citizens to Join With 1st Ward Republican Club

HITS "MACHINE" HARD

Leaders Meet Secretly and Fix Up Slate, He Declares—Tells Why Councilmen Are Turned Down.

As announced some days ago by The Daily Press exclusively, the Republicans of the First ward have organized to fight the "machine" and they are now ready to begin an active campaign. Their purposes are set forth in a letter from Councilman Murphy to this paper which is reproduced below. Mr. Murphy is the temporary chairman and William Simmons the temporary secretary of the organization. Regular officers will be elected at a meeting to be held at Central Hall tomorrow night.

Councilman Murphy's letter follows:

The independent Republican voters of the First Ward in this city have organized the First Ward Republican Club, and if you will permit me, I will briefly state the reasons why this club was organized and the objects for which it is formed.

The election this year is of great importance to the citizens of Plainfield for the reason that this fall there will be elected seven members of the Common Council, one from each of the four wards, and three Councilmen at Large. As the Common Council consists of fifteen members, but six of these constitute a majority for the passing of any resolution or ordinance, the result of the coming election will determine who shall constitute the working majority of the Council for the next two years and what the policy of these representatives will be.

Heretofore the selection of candidates and delegates to the convention has been left to a few men who are commonly known as the leaders or bosses of the local political "machine' and who each year secretly meet together and make up a 'slate" or list of candidates and delegates which contains the names of their particular friends or of those whom they could influence or control when at the convention or holding office.

Voters attending the city primaries have been handed one ticket containing the names of these men and no others, which ticket they could vote or not as they pleased. Whether they voted or not made little or no difference, as the attendance at the primaries was generally small, and, if the primaries were well attended, the leaders of the "machine" took good care to see that a sufficient number of their friends were present to elect their ticket.

The effect of this system has been that very often the men selected for the office of Councilman or delegates have not been representative citizens nor the best that could have been secured, but have been chosen for their friendship to the local leaders or their loyalty to the "machine."

Our city Council is an important body, for it controls the collection and disbursements of all money collected by taxes, fixes the tax rate and assesses valuation of property, grants all local franchises and licenses, and superintends and controls the various departments of this city.

For the last two years the leaders of the local "machine" have lost control of the city Council by reason of the refusal of some of the members who were elected through their influence refusing to comply with unreasonable demands made upon them by the local leaders, who now have openly declared that these Councilmen who have opposed their wishes shall be retired from office at the expiration of their term and that their places shall be filled by men who will more readily accede to their demands.

The issue this fall to be determined by the Republican voters at the primaries is briefly this: Shall the leaders of the local "machine" be supported and be allowed to control the city government, or shall the citizens determine for themselves who shall represent them and thereby shape the policy of the city government for the best interests of all?

That is what the members of this club stand for and are endeavoring to have a full ticket presented to the voters at the First Ward primary which will include the names of the best men who can be prevailed upon to accept the honor of nomination for office or delegates to the city convention. This club is formed in the

(Continued on Page 8.)

REFORM WITHIN PARTY

140 DELEGATES TO COUNTY CONVENTION

DAYS OF REGISTRY ARE SEPTEMBER 12, OCTOBER 10 AND 34.

The Republican County Committee has announced that there will be 140 delegates to the county committee, sixty-two being accredited to Elizabeth. Particular attention was called to the fact that delegates must have their certificates filed with the county clerk on or before September 2, ten days before the primary on September 12. Wherever there is a contest tickets must be executed seven days before the primary. The registry days this year will be September 12, October 10 and October 24.

A communication from the Secretary of State, announcing that in the allotment of new voting machines for the purchase of which the last Legislature had appropriated $50,000, five would be sent to Union county.

A request was made in the letter for a report as to the localities in which to place the new machines. It was referred to the executive committee for consideration.

NO VETO FROM MAYOR ON SALOON ORDINANCE

BUT MR. BUCKLE WILL HAVE ONE BE FORE FRIDAY.

Mayor Buckle has two days more in which to prevent the saloon restriction ordinances becoming effective. He has taken no action as yet but informed a representative of The Daily Press today that he will file his objections to the measure, as required by the city charter, on or before Friday.

The veto must be filed with the city clerk and ten days are allowed from the time the measure is passed on third reading by the Common Council. The city fathers passed it on Monday, August 7. As was expected, the Mayor announced that he would veto it. Members of the Common Council, favoring saloon restriction, declare that their ordinance will be passed over the veto. This will require but a majority vote.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Miss Cora Doty, of Dunellen, Becomes Wife of Lloyd Williams.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Doty at Dunellen this morning, when their daughter, Miss Cora Doty, was made the wife of Lloyd Williams, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Casselberry, pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church and was attended only by a few relatives. At its conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for Norfolk, Va., the grooms' former home, where they will spend a week. On returning they will reside in Dunellen.

Mr. Williams has been a resident of Plainfield the last three years and is an expert workman at the Rogers Corporation factory on Madison avenue. He is a member of the Knights of Pythias and several local social organizations.

MRS. BURTIS DEAD.

Passed Away at the Home of Her Daughter on Fairview Avenue.

Mrs. Laura F. Burtis, widow of William A. Burtis, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ernest A. Lowe, of Fairview avenue. She had been ill but a short time. Mrs. Burtis was in her seventy-seventh year and had lived in this vicinity for the past ten years. She was a native of Maryland.

The funeral will be held from Mrs. Lowe's residence Friday morning at 11 o'clock and the interment will be in Woodlawn cemetery.

Special Service at Plains.

Next Sunday morning at 7:30 o'clock, Mr. Fox, of New York, will give an address in the M. E. church on the work of the Union Fresh Air Mission, of which he is of New York Special arrangements have been made for this service and it will no doubt prove very interesting as Mr. Fox will also be accompanied by some of the Mission children, who will take part in the service.

Will Be Rockview Park.

The new residential tract now being developed along West End avenue on the former Cadmus property is to be known as Rockview Park. It was originally intended to be known as Rockview Heights but the promotors have been informed that a section of ground below Dunellen has been so designated for several years.

MINISTERS IN SESSION

Convocation of Seventh-Day Baptist Pastors Continues Here.

GENERAL DISCUSSION

Rev. Clayton A. Burdick Conducts Talk on "The Minister in the Pulpit"—A Round Table Every Day.

Discussion of the morning topic, "The Minister in His Study," was continued at the afternoon session yesterday. Rev. Dr. O. U. Whitford, of Westerly, R. I., President V. C. Davis, of Alfred University, President T. L. Gardner, of Salem College, and Rev. Madison Harry, of Rhode Island, spoke.

The discussion revolved about two questions: "What Shall the Minister Read?" and "For What Purpose Shall the Minister Read?" The minister's attitude toward general and religious literature and the various forms of literature, and his attitude from the standpoint of the people's reading were touched upon. It was generally agreed that the minister should be a very wide reader of current literature as well as of religious writings.

The session ended shortly after 4 o'clock. The clerics met again at 7:30 o'clock. An address by Rev. Dr. William Clifton Daland, president of Milton College, on "The Bible and Modern Thought," was the feature of the evening session.

Dr. Daland's discourse was a simple presentation of modern thought as to the Bible, inspiration, revelation, and the correlated subjects. It was not controversial in any degree. In the course of the address Dr. Daland called attention to the fact that modern thought, so-called, was not in essence any newer than ancient thought. The rabbis in the ancient temple discussed the validity and inspiration of various verses of the Old Testament, much as do the critics of today. They asked whether Job was fact or fiction; whether Jonah composed his song while in the belly of a great fish or whether some one wrote the song afterward and put it in his mouth; questioned the authenticity of the book of Daniel; debated on the story of the creation, and indulged in other incursions into "higher criticism." Most of the discussions took place before the birth of Christ.

Dr. Daland spoke of the effect modern thought has had on the popular conception of the creation, of miracles, of sin, of the atonement, of the unity of Christ, of sacrifice, and of the after life. The newer thought regards miracles as unusual manifestations of unknown law, rather than a suspension of natural law; looks upon sin, not as the result of a historic fall, but as a falling behind of man to a lower type, and rates the divinity of Christ as different to that of other men only in degree and not in kind.

A round table discussion on the subject followed the address.

Sabbatarian clergymen from all sections of the country are present at the convocation. Several more arrived last night, including Rev. G. W. Hills, of Noronville, Kan.; Rev. M. G. Stillman, of Walworth, Wis.; Rev. Dr. Daland, Rev. S. R. Wheeler, of Southern New Jersey, and Rev. T. J. Van Horn, of Albion, Wis. Between thirty and forty in all are attending the convocation.

There is talk of permanently organizing a "School of the Prophets," and action along that line is very likely to be taken before the present "school" adjourns.

The four-day session of the pre-conference convocation at the Seventh-Day Baptist church was opened this morning at 9 o'clock by a discussion of "The Minister in the Pulpit." Rev. Clayton A. Burdick is the conductor. A round table followed, in which the clerics present generally joined.

AUGUST RAINFALL.

Heavier Already Than Normal Amount for Whole Month.

August is doing all right as a rain maker. The fifteen days just closing have turned out more rain than the normal fall for the whole month.

The fall, so far, measures 5.85 inches. The normal amount for the month is 5.02 inches.

Prospects for a record fall for the month are bright. In August last year 10.45 inches fell. This month will beat that if the present pace is maintained.

The rainfall yesterday amounted to 2.89 inches. The temperature at noon today was 67 degrees.

An Approaching Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Leek, of East Fifth street, have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Mabel Crane Leek, to William G. Tunison. It will take place at their home on Wednesday afternoon, August 30, at 5 o'clock.

PROF'S ODD QUESTIONS

Former Plainfielder at Chicago University Creates a Stir Before Class.

TO TEST EDUCATION

Suggests Series of Queries to be Put to Every Man Before He Is Given His Degree.

Professor F. J. Miller, examiner at the University of Chicago, created a stir before the junior college in chapel yesterday when he presented a list of questions which he declared ought to be asked of every man before he received his bachelor degree. Mr. Miller was principal of the Plainfield High School from 1882 to 1887. At one time he was also president of the local Y. M. C. A.

The professor argued that university education developed the mind and not the heart. In order to test the finer feelings of candidates for collegiate honors he suggested a number of questions, including the following:

Do you see anything to love in a little child?

Have you sympathy with all good causes?

Can you look straight in the eye of an honest man or a pure woman?

Will a lonely dog follow you?

Do you believe in lending a helping hand to weaker men?

Do you believe in taking advantage of the law when you can do so?

Can you be high minded and happy in drudgery?

Can you see as much beauty in washing dishes and hoeing corn as in playing golf and the piano?

Do you know the value of time and money?

Are you good friends with yourself?

Do you see anything in life besides dollars and cents?

Can you see sunshine in a mud-puddle?

Can you see beyond the stars?

The questions which the professor propounded had a visible effect on the class and every now and then some student was seen shifting uneasily in his place.

FORGIVES HALLIWELL.

D. M. Kellogg Willing To End Prosecution of Farmhand.

Lee Halliwell, the farm hand who made a murderous assault on Lawyer David M. Kellogg, of Oak Tree, and who is now in the New Brunswick jail awaiting disposition of the charge, wants to be tried. The prosecutor sent Detective Mulvey to Dunellen to try to learn about the case Monday, and Constable Pearce told the detective that the lawyer did not want to prosecute the man further.

Prosecutor Berdine made this statement of the case in court yesterday morning, but added that he did not think that the information at hand was sufficient to warrant the court in disposing of the case in the absence of any statement from the lawyer. The court was of the same opinion and said that if the lawyer does not want to prosecute a letter from him to that end would answer the purpose.

Incidentally the prosecutor criticised Justices of the Peace for not sending in their cases promptly. He said that Justice Von Minden had just sent in the papers in his case, and that the man had been in jail for some time.

JR. O. U. A. M. CELEBRATION.

Holton Council Observes Fourteenth Anniversary.

The fourteenth anniversary of William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Dunellen, was held last night in Apgar's Hall. S. V. Sanford and Mr. Irving, of New York, made the hits of the evening.

The entertainment was provided by H. R. Thorn, manager of the Plainfield Entertainment Bureau. Theodore F. Voorhees, Albert C. Giddes and Walter Brokaw took part. The programme rendered follows:

Piano selection, Miss Alice Apgar; address of welcome, John R. Henry; stories and impersonations, S. V. Sanford, of New York; violin selection, Miss Kittie Liable; feats of magic, Prof. Irving, of New York; piano solo, Miss Alice Apgar; monologue, S. V. Sanford; feats of magic, Prof. Irving; violin solo, Miss Kittie Liable; humorisms, S. V. Sanford.

Death of Helen F. Tappen.

Helen Faulks Tappen, the infant daughter of Harry and Lennie Tappen, of Lyman place, died last night after a brief illness. The child was one year and ten months old. The funeral will be held from the parents' home, Friday morning at 10:30 and interment will be at Hillside.

Fred H. Andrews, of Central avenue, will occupy the pulpit at Hope Memorial chapel Sunday morning Rev. L. R. Howard still being upon his vacation.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL

Death Comes to Mrs. J. P. Mosher From Hurts Received on June 4.

AN ODD ACCIDENT.

Oldest Son Reaches Home From Panama Just In Time To Have Her Bid Him Good Bye.

Despite the efforts of the best medical aid to be obtained, Mrs. John P. Mosher, of West Fifth street, died last night from the effects of injuries she received on June 4, when she was knocked down by an automobile at Seventh street and Spooner avenue. Her right lung was punctured and her system sustained such a severe nervous shock that her condition was critical from the outset. She was at first treated at home until July 13, when she was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital for an operation, but it could not be performed and she was brought back.

Dr. Marcus Clawson was in constant attendance and he was assisted in caring for the patient by Drs. Ellis and B. VanD. Hedges and two New York specialists. She was conscious the greater part of the time until yesterday, when she sank steadily until the end. Her oldest son, J. Stanley Mosher, reached home from Panama Monday night just in time to have his mother recognize him and bid him goodby. By the merest chance he caught an express steamer which brought him north in five days, otherwise he would have had to take a slower boat due in New York tonight.

Mrs. Mosher was in her fifty-fourth year and had been a resident of this city since 1895, coming here with her husband and family from Alfred, N. Y. She became a member of the local Seventh-day Baptist church and was very active in its religious and social affairs. She was superintendent of the Sabbath School primary department, a member of the Woman's Auxiliary, and a member of the Plainfield Primary Union. She enjoyed a wide acquaintance throughout the city and was greatly liked for her many exceptional qualities.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. George Homan, of West Front street, and four sons, J. Stanley, Wendell, Theodore and Willis Mosher, with whom reside at home. Stanley Mosher has been engaged in engineering work on the Panama canal.

The funeral will be held from her late home Friday afternoon at 2:30.

BARBER'S STRAIN.

Itinerant Knight of Razor Explains Boozing Among the Craft in Court.

William Zimmerman, a barber who was arraigned before Judge Runyon for drunkenness this morning, Zimmerman was frank.

"I was drunk," he said. "I know I am making a fool of myself. I guess a good thing for me would be as big a fine as you can put on me."

"How is it that so many travelling barbers are drinkers?" asked the Judge.

"It's the strain of handling a sharp weapon all day," explained Williams.

"Oh, if you work under such a strain, I don't see how we can fine you for a harmless jag," said the magistrate. "Sentence suspended."

Open Golf Championship.

The programme of the first open championship of the Metropolitan Golf Association, of which Leighton Calkins, of this city, is secretary, has been announced. There will be three events: Open championship competition, four-ball match, and open handicap. The competition will begin on September 14, at the Fox Hills Club, and go three days. Seventeen prizes are offered in the three events. Professionals will receive prizes in money, and amateurs in plate.

Knights of Pythias' Field Day.

The annual field day of the Past Chancellors' Association, Knights of Pythias, will take place September 4 at Hillside Park, Belleville. In the morning there will be a parade in Newark and the line will be reviewed by the grand chancellor, grand lodge officers and others. At Hillside Park there will be competitive drills by companies of the uniformed rank from various parts of the State.

Donohoe Committed.

James Donohoe, a familiar figure around the city, chiefly notable for having made his home in a tiny shed on Second street until forced to move by the erection of the new Salvation Army building, was sent to the county jail for twenty days this morning by Judge Runyon. He was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Overbaugh. Donohoe was once a prosperous business man.

Drunk Freed.

Charles Murphy, a laborer, arrested for helpless drunkenness, was released under suspended sentence in the city court this morning.

DETECTIVE DISOBEYED PROSECUTOR'S INSTRUCTIONS

MR. RANDOLPH GETS PROMISES OF SUPPORT

LETTERS AND PERSONAL ASSURANCES OF CO-OPERATION.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph has received a large number of favorable letters to his suggestion that the citizens of Plainfield organize to down the "machine," but has taken no definite steps in the matter as yet. He says that prominent men in various parts of the city have spoken to him personally in commendation of the stand he has taken and that in addition many have written formal letters stating that they would be glad to co-operate with him.

A few days ago Mr. Randolph addressed an open-letter to the citizens of Plainfield decrying the condition of affairs in the municipal government and placed the blame on the "machine." He declared that inefficiency and extravagance characterized the conduct of several departments of the city and that there was a great need for a reform. In this connection he suggested that voters holding the same opinion organize to correct the alleged abuses.

ENGINEER COMPLETES A "FEATURE" CITY MAP

"SALOON QUARANTINE" DISTRICT DESIGNATED IN GREATER PLAINFIELD.

Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh has just completed a map of the city and borough which for detailed information exceeds anything of a similar nature heretofore issued. The city area has been divided into four wards and they can be distinguished at a glance through a tinting process. The borough is also divided into the two voting districts, the first and second. Circles drawn through the map define distances from the center of the city and these lines and a stranger can easily gain an idea of its extent.

An added feature of the map is the designation of the "saloon quarantine" district recently established by the Common Council and which is now awaiting the signature of Mayor Buckle. It catches the eye instantly because of its being in a bright tint which some people might say is the only appropriate hue. This is the first time the district has been mapped off and it will give residents a clearer understanding of the situation.

The map has been placed in The Daily Press office for public inspection.

JAIL BIDS REJECTED.

Contractors All Exceed Estimated Cost of Proposed County Jail.

All the bids, on the structure complete, three in number, for the proposed new jail in Somerville, were rejected by the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at a special meeting yesterday. None of them came within the estimated by the committee. The committee and architect were instructed to revise the plans and specifications, and new bids will be advertised for.

The estimated cost was $40,000. The bids were as follows:

VanDorn Iron Works, of Cleveland, O., $27,391 on building complete; $17,750 on cell work complete; plumbing, $2,500; total, $47,641.

Richards & Gaston, Somerville: $28,000, building complete; $17,750 on cell work complete; $2,885, plumbing; total, $48,585.

George Tobin and the W. T. Kirk Company, of this city, informed the Board before the bids were opened that they had desired to file proposals but were unable to do so on account of the limited time allowed them.

Murdered Man Not Italian.

Chief Murphy, of the Jersey City police, asked Chief Kiely to make public this morning that the supposed Italian found murdered in Jersey City August 6, without a clue to his identity, is now believed to have been a Syrian or Armenian.

Death From Dysentery.

Hazel Rickert, the two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mabel Rickert, of Somerset street, died last evening from dysentery. The funeral will be held from the parent's home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Death of Westman Schaefer.

John Augustus Westman Schaefer, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Schaefer, of East Sixth street, died this morning after a brief illness. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

PROSECUTOR ANGRY

He Will Insist on Full Process of Law and Not Allow Warrants To Be Held Up—Scores Officers.

Arrests are still likely to be made in the manslaughter case growing out of the Harrison-Stanbery accident, in spite of the amiable attitude taken by County Detective Francis Mulvey, of Prosecutor Berdine's office, at the trial of the civil suit in Dunellen Monday. Prosecutor Berdine is indignant over the detective's failure to arrest both men, and says he disobeyed specific instructions when he allowed Harrison and Stanbery to go free.

Mr. Berdine told a Daily Press reporter this morning that he would insist on the law taking its course, and so instructed the officers.

"Will arrests be made?" he was asked.

"I will have everything possible done," was the reply. "Sometimes we have to take bitter doses, but I don't think we will in this case. They will find they cannot stir up this thing and fix it to suit themselves. I am able to go at one or all of them."

"When these manslaughter warrants were sworn out," continued Mr. Berdine, "the lawyers tried to see me to arrange for some understanding as to the civil suit's procedure. Justice Von Minden did see me, and a letter from him was read. I was allowed to go through without interruption by criminal process, and I told him the law would have to take its course.

"Detective Mulvey was sent to Dunellen with specific instructions to arrest both men. I understand that the constable who had the original warrants and the lawyers fixed up the matter between themselves. The men were allowed to go under a simple agreement to appear before the Grand Jury.

"The officers had no right to take such action. An officer with a warrant in his possession has no right to allow the man against whom the warrant is issued to leave his presence without making an attempt to arrest, no matter what his ideas of the situation may be.

"Constable Pearce said yesterday that he did not have the warrants on Monday," the reporter told Mr. Berdine. "He said he gave them up."

"He had no right to surrender those warrants," said Mr. Berdine, emphatically. "The justice himself has no right to withdraw warrants, and Pierce must explain why he gave them up. Who issued the warrants?

"Justice Von Minden issued the Stanbery warrant and Justice Warden issued the one against Harrison," he was told.

"They will hear from me this morning. I have sent for the officers and will go into this thing thoroughly. It is very far from being ended."

Mr. Berdine made no attempt to conceal his anger over the free-and-easy way in which the law had been handled by the officers. He will press the action vigorously, and arrests may be made at any moment. It was said by one of the lawyers this noon that he knew instructions had been issued for the arrest of the accused men.

Inquires for Waif.

Chief of Police Kiely received a letter this morning from the sister of Annis Smalley, a young street walker picked up recently by the local police, asking about the whereabouts of the girl. The sister lives in Cranford. As a result of sympathy of the officials and she was placed in the Probation Officer's hands with a special request for care. She is now on a farm in the northern part of the State, where it is hoped she will forget the things she learned on the streets.

Costly Error.

Eugene McLaughlin, a borough youth, is coaxing a broken nose back to health as the result of a misjudged fly in a ball game. The man blinded by the sun looked up at the sphere, and the ball struck him on the nose, cracking the cortilage.

Rev. Mr. Leggett in Charge.

Rev. Lester G. Leggett, of Nebraska City, will lead the prayer meeting in the First Presbyterian church tonight. His subject will be: "The New Testament's answer to the question: What Is a Christian."

R. A. RATES REPUDIATED

New Jersey Grand Council Declares Increase in Insurance Wrong.

A HEATED DISCUSSION

Clash Between Preamble and Resolutions May Cause Some Trouble —Plainfield Councils Represented.

Representatives to the New Jersey Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum in special session at New Brunswick decided Friday by an overwhelming vote to repudiate the action of the Supreme Council in raising the rates of insurance in the order.

Clarence Goss, regent of Plainfield Council, No. 711, was present. Greenbrook Council was also represented.

This action was unqualified and no substitute solution of the plain was suggested. The result was arrived at shortly before 7 o'clock, after scenes of disorder and heated discussion. It was a complete surprise, even to the side which won, for it had been expected that there would be an evening session and perhaps another session today.

The committee on resolutions composed of Col. E. C. Stahl, of Trenton; J. N. Van Benthuysen, Bayonne; L. P. Nettleton, Hoboken; O. W. Mark, Arlington; W. G. Nelson, Jersey City; B. C. Austen, Camden, and Rev. W. T. Dorward, Stelton, presented three reports. There was a majority report signed by five members, a minority report from Col. E. C. Stahl, and a minority report from Rev. W. T. Dorward.

Mr. Dorward's resolution indorsed the action of the Supreme Council. This was briefly discussed, but it was voted down.

Col. Stahl's resolutions suggested that the action of the Supreme Council be held in abeyance, pending the discovery of some more suitable plan. This was discussed for nearly an hour, but is was defeated as a substitute for the majority report.

The majority report comprised three resolutions with a preamble submitted by Germania Council, of Hoboken. The first resolution was submitted by Bayonne Council and the two others were submitted by Frederick Cabs, of East Orange.

The preamble and resolutions were contradictory in that the preamble called for a readjustment of the rates while the resolutions instructed the State's representatives to the Supreme Council to demand and work for a repeal of the Supreme Council's new schedule of rates.

The discussion was most earnest. Supreme Council Representative McDowell wanted to know what the representatives were to say when the resolutions asked for the repeal of rates without suggesting some substitue. He was howled down. The preamble and resolutions then were passed.

The action of the council is the more surprising in view of the fact that the grand officers were in favor of the action of the Supreme Council, and the address of the Grand Regent was an ardent plea in favor of an increase of rates.

One of the members of the Grand Council declared in debate that the action in adopting a preamble so contradictory to the resolutions which followed it was little short of ridiculous.

The council adjourned immediately after adopting the resolutions.

'PHONES ON BARBER CHAIRS.

Paterson Shop Tries An Experiment.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 11—Telephones on barber chairs are the latest innovation in Paterson, and so popular is the plan that before long it is expected other barbers in the city will have telephones installed. The barber shop in the Romaine building is the only one, it is believed, in the United States which can boast of having telephones on its chairs. Through them it is possible for a business man, while being shaved to hold constant communication with his office.

The barber in charge says that he put in the telephones as an experiment, and he has been congratulated by several of his customers, who are unanimous in their opinion that, while the plan is a novel one, it is soon to become popular in other places.—N. Y. Tribune.

An Engineeress.

Running an engine, firing the boiler, and keeping the books in her husband's establishment is the way in which Mrs. H. D. Schaefer, of Logansport, Ind., is proving a true helpmate to her husband. Finding it difficult to secure a man to do the work satisfactorily, and appreciating the fact that no one else would feel so keen an interest in the business Mrs. Schaefer learned to handle and care for the machinery, and thinks a woman can do such work as efficiently as a man. In addition to her business efforts, Mrs. Schaefer does all her housework, not neglecting the care and education of her two little girls—surely performing the full duties of wife and mother—while her husband solicits and attends to all orders and outside work—The Pilgrim.

Mrs. William Wiedenhaupt is entertaining relatives from out of town.

LITERARY.

A highly complimentary sketch of Frederick W. Parker, formerly manager of the Lake Pigment Company, West Front street, and since July 1 general sales agent of the corporation with an office in New York, appears in the August number of the Wall Paper News. Mr. Parker is a resident of New Brunswick. eH is credited with having much to do with making the Pigment Company a success. He is the author of a brochure on "Lake Pigments; What they Are and How They Are Used." A cut of Mr. Parker heads the article in the trade journal.

The August number of The Era Magazine presents an attractive variety of illustrated sketches and entertaining fiction as well as articles of serious import on topics of current human interest. "Frederick of the Flags," by Catherine Frances Cavanagh, gives a new version of the Barbara Freitchie incident, and many hitherto unpublished facts closely associated with a cherished shrine of American patriotism. "Society's Marital Exchanges" is the title of a piquant sketch, illustrating the divorce entanglements of the smart set of New York and Newport. The ninth in the series of articles on mismanagement in life insurance brings out in strong relief many surprising facts. Judge J. M. Mason contributes the second of a studious and impressive series of articles on the railway rate question. Besides these special features, there is the usual number of short stories, while the general ensemble and handsome typographical effects of the current number give substantial evidence of the recent great improvement in this popular and progressive periodical.

NOTES AND INCIDENTS.

The highest elevator in the world has been opened on the Burgenstock, a mountain near Lake Lucerne. It lifts tourists 500 feet to the top of a vertical rock.

The London City Council is likely to establish a system of automobile ambulances.

Thirty-seven rabbits which had been inoculated with the typhoid bacillus have been stolen from the bacteriological institute at Saarbruck, Prussia.

The London Lancet says a German doctor has discovered a new and valuable anesthetic. It is called "hydrochlorate of benzoyltetramethyldiamoosthyldimethylcarbinol."

Harry Lauder, a Scottish comedian, is so popular in Great Britain that he is booked at the music halls till Christmas, 1912.

There is an animal hospital at Lodeptur, near Calcutta, where there are usually about a thousand animals under treatment—horses, oxen, mules, elephants, dogs and even sheep, all comfortably housed and looked after by a staff of eighty native "nurses" under the orders of a British veterinary surgeon.

At the end of June there were 41,340 Chinese coolies at work in the Transvaal mines. The number of families is two—two wives and twelve children.

"How long is an egg 'fresh laid?'" asked a London judge of a witness the other day. "As long as it is good," replied the witness. The London newspapers duly record this incident, but what pleases them most about it is the name of the Judge who asked the question is Bacon.

A resident of a London suburb who thought he had a sure tip on the race for the Stewards' Cup turned in a fire alarm, so that he might communicate the good news to as many of his neighbors as possible. But the officers of the fire department were not sporty and turned him over to the police.

M. Caverau, of France, has discovered that the eggs of insects contain the same characteristic poison venom as the sting of the insect. So also the eggs of serpents. The discovery is important in its bearing on the phenomena of heredity.—N. Y. Evening Sun.

GETS RAILROAD TAX.

Dunellen Will Levy on $62,054 C. R. R. Valuation for Local Taxation.

Notice from the State Board of Assessors to add the Central Railroad property to his list for local taxation was receivedd on Wednesday by Borough Assessor John L. Peters, of Dunellen. The notice directed him to add the sum of $62,054 as the railroad's share to local ratables.

Mr. Peters declares that the new rating will reduce Dunellen's taxes by forty cents this year. The announcement of the railroad tax has aroused a good deal of delighted comment from the boroughites. Dunellen is very largely a railroad town, many conductors, engineers and other employees living there. It is one of the terminals of the road and one of the round houses is in its limits.

Tom Butler's Violent End.

Thomas Butler, the bicyclist with Barnum & Bailey's show, who has been doing a loop-the-gap act, known to local followers of the bicycle races in the early days of the sport through his appearances on the old Crescent track, died at Missoula, Montana, last night from injuries sustained at Helena Wednesday. Butler failed to cover the forty-foot gap and struck the platform, falling to the ground and fracturing his skull and sustaining internal injuries. He was known as "Volo," and his wife does the automobile "dip to death" act with the same show. His brother, Nat Butler, rode on the track here with him.

WORTH KNOWING.

White serge has been revived, and bids fair to become extremely popular, as it is considered newer than the embroidered linen which has had such a run.

The new serge is of French make, very soft and used mostly for coat suits—not many using it for a blouse. The preferred shades are ivory and cream rather than white, and with it are worn belts of cream or white, blouses, gloves, hats, parasols, stockings and shoes of white. Can you fancy anything prettier? Color is rarely introduced in these white costumes and then only by some color introduced on the hat.

Lace is not used on serge unless it be a bit of real Irish crochet lace; but hand embroidery is often used with excellent effect.

The suits of serge are unlined, and the skirts are worn over full, well-fitting white petticoats—silk petticoats not being much worn at this season.

Braid is used on the white serge suits, and especially on the skirts; often used in graded widths, and in groups of narrow braid at the knees and above the hem, with straight lines of wider braid between.

The skirts are quite short as are all the skirts for out-door wear. In many instances the whole shoe and instep is shown. Nothing could be prettier for a yachting costume than white serge, white cap and shoes of white.

For bathing ther are a variety of fabrics, and they are made with as much care as to fitting well as for any other costume. Wash silks, brilliantines, mohairs, and pongees all are adapted to this purpose.

A new fashion is that of wearing the Scotch cap with feather at the side and two ribbons behind with tennis suits. The most popular tennis suit consists of white cloth skirt and a white tussore blouse with Irish lace collar fastened with knot of red plaid silk like that on the velvet cap.

Much is being said about women wearing separate waists in decided contrast from her skirt on the street. This is considered very bad taste unless one wears a coat. Many are putting elbow sleeves in fine white waists and these are to be worn in the house with any kind of skirt. It is better to count on having sleeves elbow length in all blouses, and adding elbow cuffs of sheer material whenever they are wanted.

MEET TROUBLE BRAVELY.

It is a grand thing to be courageous, to carry a brave heart that sees the bright side of things and rises supreme above the worries and troubles of life.

We all number a few cheery souls of this kind among our friends, and what a comfort they are to live with.

There has come to light one woman who has lost money, position and even confidence in the one who should have been nearest and dearest to her.

She has had to slave early and late to keep a roof over herself, her husband and her three helpless babies, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

If ever woman had cause to feel and look discouraged and sour she has.

But in spite of all she wears the sweetest expression ever seen on a woman's face.

Every one loves her, every one goes to her for encouragement and mental stimulation.

We call her a "soul tonic."

This woman is, of course, unusual in her brightness and courageous way of taking life, but we can all take a chapter out of her book if we put our minds to it.

Let us begin with the little things that jar and fret us every day.

If we wish to conquer the big troubles we must first tackle the little ones.

It takes more perseverance and courage to deal with the latter than with the former.

For we are praised when we are brave over big things, but no one notices us when we are brave over little ones.

Don't be easily cast down and conclude that just because a few things go wrong you are a blighted being with nothing left to live for.

As long as you exist in this wonderful, beautiful world, there is a great deal worth living for.

Put your shoulder to the wheel and say: "I will be bright, I will make the best of things."

If you wish to achieve any success in life, the surest way to do it is by keeping at whatever your appointed task may be with unflagging interest and energy.

If at the end of the day you feel discouraged at your lack of progress don't sit down and lament over it; find out your mistake and try to do better next day.

This all sounds like sermonising, and you may be tempted to ask me if one can practice what is preached.

One may try, dear girls, but of course, many slips are made, for sometimes it's almost impossible to feel bright and hopeful when everything seems wrong, isn't it?

Just remember that "every cloud has a silver lining."

Don't be overpowered by the dark side; keep at it until you find the bright one, for "weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning."

S. N. VanAlstine has been entertaining relatives from Allenwood.

Mrs. Lydia Jacobs has moved into the flat over the Nelson store.

Thurman Ayers is slowly improving from his recent illness.

Mrs. David Griscoim is recovering from her severe illness.

PLAINS GOLD HUNTING

Village Gets the Fever Again After L. B. Coles Finds Shiney Metal.

LOCATES VEIN OF IT

Discoverer Thinks He Has Discovered the Mother Lode of Precious Metal—Find to be Assayed.

The gold fever has struck Scotch Plains again. As on the other occasions the fevered ones are certain that a rich deposit or vein is on the point of being discovered.

Louis B. Coles, who lives on the Coles homestead on Front street, near Terrill road, started the excitement. An old well caved in on his place Thursday and he started in to dig it clear. Fifteen feet below the surface he saw grains of glittering substance in the dirt. Coles put some of the glitter specked dirt in water and the shiny particles immediately separated themselves from the dirt.

Coles took a fresh grip on his shovel and dug deeper. A few feet further down he struck a small vein of the shining material, running south across his property. Coles knocked some of the rock off and took them, with some of the dirt, to a jeweler here. The jeweler said he had strong suspicion that the substance was gold, but advised Coles to have an assay made. The samples will be sent to an assay in New York.

Without waiting for the result of the assay, the 'Plains people have accepted glittering particles at face value. Everybody who has had digging to do since Thursday has looked every shoveliul of dirt over carefully. And those who haven't had to dig have dug just the same. Even the small boys are digging along the side of the roads.

It is known for a fact that traces of gold—unassayed traces—have been found in the Scotch Plains neighborhood, near the mountain. It is also a fact that gold—in traces—is to be found pretty much all over Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Hundreds of attempts have been made to find it in paying quantities, but nothing like "pay dirt" nas ever rewarded the farmer prospectors.

But Coles thinks he has struck the mother lode under East Front street. The mother lodes of even small veins might pay to work.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR THE SHRIEVALRY

G. E. VAN VOORHIS, OF ELIZABETH, THE LATEST ASPIRANT.

George E. Van Voorhis, of Elizabeth, deputy collector of internal revenue, publicly declared himself a candidate for the shrievalty nomination yesterday. He is the fifth man who has given out that he would like to succeed Sheriff Coriell.

Van Voorhis is a former member of the Elizabeth City Council, and at the present time is a member of the Republican City Central Committee.

In announcing his candidacy Mr. Van Voorhis said that the Fifth ward in which he resides, is the only Republican ward in the lower part of the city, and is therefore entitled to recognition if any of the nominations are to go to that section.

Two new names have been mentioned in connection with the assembly. Frederick J. Faulks, of Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, is being boomed by friends in the organization. Robert L. Patterson, of Elizabeth, is also mentioned prominently in connection with an assembly nomination.

COME BACK.

Come back, oh, my darling; I need you.
Each hour for your coming I pray—
For favoring breezes to speed you,
For sunshine to lighten your way.
Alone I know nothing but sorrow;
Thy sweet, gracious presence I lack.
I wistfully think on the morrow
That brings you. Oh, loved one, come back!

Come back, oh, my darling; come quickly,
My fast drooping spirits to cheer.
About me the clouds gather thickly;
My life's whole horizon is drear.
You know that to add to your pleasure
I'd cheerfully lie on the rack,
But can you be happy, heart's treasure,
Without me? Then, darling, come back.

Come back, dear. The whole house is looking Like, well, I will say like distress.
My forte, you're aware, isn't cooking—
I've eaten the awfulest mess.
I hate to cut short your vacation,
But, please, on receipt of this pack,
I'll meet you, of course, at the station.
I'm starving; so, darling, come back.

—Chicago News.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Mrs. Deborah Stillman, of Easton, Conn., 104 years old, remembers the stirring times of the War of 1812 as well, she says, as if they were yesterday. She has never ridden in a railroad train, and has not even seen a trolley car. She has not been out of Connecticut since 1819. She retains all her faculties except that of hearing.

The Countess of Jersey possesses attainments many and varied and she has an immense fund of general information. She has justly earned for herself the character of being one of the best platform speakers in England. She has written several books of travel and stories for children.

Harold A. Loring, of Portland, Me., has received an appointment from the Secretary of the Interior as supervisor of native Indian music. Mr. Loring has studied some time among the Sioux Indians of the Rosebud Indian reservation in South Dakota.

Eugene Richter, the Great German radical, who has recently gone blind, was a thorn in the flesh of Prince Bismark. No member of the Reichstag was more dreaded by the "Iron Chancellor," and no other member so often caused him to lose his temper. This was largely due to Richter's extraordinary command of figures and finances.

Countess Lonyay's collection, which is to be sold soon in Paris, includes a veil presented her by the city of Brussels on her marriage to Rudolph of Austria, showing the united arms of Belgium and Austria.

The late Sir D. M. Petit, a parsee of Bombay, who founded numerous cotton mills in India, gave $2,500,000 to benevolent projects and was created a baron, an honor conferred on only one other native.

John Butler Burke, who through the discovery of radiographs has suddenly become the most talked of man in the United Kingdom as a man of science, is an Irishman, and was graduated from Trinity College.

Miss Edna Dickerson, a Chicago court reporter, has come into undisputed possession of a fortune of $2,000,000, bequeathed to her by a second cousin whom she had rarely seen.

Miss Anna Hoch, daughter of Governor Hoch, of Kansas, who has been chosen sponsor for the new battleship Kansas, is looked upon by the politicians of the State as one of the strongest gubernatorial influences. Although she is just past her majority she is close to her father in all of his administrative duties.

A Popular Coast Trip.

There can be no doubt that the water trip to the New Jersey coast greatly enhances the popularity of the resorts of that state. The three handsome steamers "Asbury Park," "Monmouth" and "Sandy Hook," plying between Atlantic Highlands and New York are the fastest boats of their type in the world. From the time the sky-scrapers are left behind, points of interest are thick along the route. Castle William, the Statue of Liberty and Robbins Reef Light are close to the course, and passing between Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth the boat emerges from The Narrows into the lower bay. The quarantine stations on Hoffman and Swinbourne Islands; and West Bank Light are passed in quick succession on the right. Romer Beacon, locating the treacherous shoals of that name, lies toward the ocean, and soon after is is left behind the boat passes within the beacons of Sandy Hook. The landing was formerly made at this point before the peninsula was acquired for the United States ordnance proving grounds and other military and government purposes. From Atlantic Highlands an express train service is maintained to all the principal resorts. At Long Branch the all rail route to New York joins the sea-board line. Well appointed hotels are to be found along the entire coast and facilities in all the seashore recreations are at command. A hotel book and seashore time-table will be sent to any one, free of charge, upon application to C. M. Burt, General Passenger Agent, Central Railroad of New Jersey, New York.

NATION'S WHISKY SUPPLY.

Almost all the Kentucky distilleries have closed for the season, and will likely not reopen until December or January, unless the public thirst develops unusual proportions. There are, according to authoritative figures given, more bonded goods in the warehouses, both in this State and elsewhere, than in many years. On April 30 of this year the following amounts of whisky were in bond: Kentucky, 118,606,933 gallons; Pennsylvania, 36,910,370 gallons of rye whiskies, and Maryland, 20,150,854 gallons of rye. There need be, therefore, no apprehensions regarding the distillers' ability to provide material for all the juleps, punches and other life-savers that may be desired. On the other hand, the assurance is given that the distillery men have no cause for fear, as the population of America is growing so rapidly that they are able to cope with any amount of whisky that the stills of the country may produce. Only two distilleries are now running in Jefferson county.—Louisville Herald.

Miss Marion Porter, of New York, has returned home after a two weeks' visit to her sister, Mrs. Arthur McVoy, of West Fourth street.

Mrs. Clarence Murphy, of Sandford avenue, is suffering from a slight illness.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When you pack for your vacation don't pack any worries—you can get them wherever you go.

The juice of onions will quickly allay the intolerable stinging pain from a bee or wasp sting.

A ruffle on the bottom of a work apron, well starched, will prevent spots on the skirt below.

No excuse for fragments to lodge in corners and crevices of the refrigerators when skewers will dislodge them so quickly.

A piece of new matting placed between the mattress and thin pad will give a cooler bed for the summer months.

A few pieces of glue tucked into the earth around house ferns and palms will furnish the soil fertilizer in an unoffensive manner.

Spar varnish is the liquid to use on all furniture for out of door use, as it is weatherproof and lasting.

Grated Irish potato scattered freely, then well swept off, is recommended as a fine carpet cleaner, reviving the colors without injury to delicate shades.

Unpainted wire netting not only makes a god rest for flatirons when several thicknesses are used, but is most effective to clean them on.

Paraffin can be used the second time to cover jelly and jam if it is washed clean and boiled before being turned over the fruit again.

The short ends of candles are most satisfactory to start a fire with, since they burn with a steady flame till the kindling and wood are well lighted.

It is said flies will not congregate on the outside of a screen door if the wod work is rubbed occasionally with kerosene, the odor of which sems to be offensive to them.

The Southern laundress ties a lump of arrowroot in a thick cotton cloth, and boils it with the fine white pieces to give them a dainty odor more beautiful than sachet powder.

The label on a glass jar will keep clean and in place longer if pasted on the inside. Of course this only applies where dry materials are used, such as rice, tapioca, etc.—Pilgrim.

PITCHED TWENTY INNINGS.

"Rube" Waddell Tells How It Feels.

Rube Waddell, the twirling star of the Philadelphia team, looks upon the twenty-inning game in which he beat Cy Young, 4 to 2, at Boston, on the afternoon of July 4, as the crowning feat of his career.

"That game," said Waddell in an interview, "was the best I ever pitched, and I am glad and proud to have taken part in such a fine contest. But it didn't take a feather out of me. I felt just as good after the game as I did during the contest. I knew what it meant, and I felt every confidence that we would win, although Cy Young is the best pitcher in the business even now, and to have won over him is credit enough.

"I must have pitched two hundred and fifty balls in the twenty innings. I averaged about ten to an inning, but in this game I had about a dozen strikeouts, and they counted about five to each man. I wasn't a bit exhausted after it was over, and was no more tired than usual. I slept a little sounder than usual, due to the extra work, but I wasn't tired out and arose at six o'clock the next morning as usual.

"I have pitched many extra inning games, more than any other pitcher, probably. I never noticed the umpires in this game and I realize that they are liable to make a bad decision. I can't figure that we are benefitted or injured by the umpires. I may have said a word now and then about a strike or a ball, but it was only temporary excitement that caused me to expostulate. I can't claim that I did better work than Young. I had the luck. Of course, I had to pitch god ball all the time and had to work just as hard during each of the extra innings as during the regular innings. It did not require any more muscular effort, although after the game I had my left arm, which is earning my salary massaged.

"There wasn't much difference between the two teams, and luck played the important part in the contest. I knew after we had made two runs in the twentieth inning that we had the game won. I knew the Bostons would be easier, as they would be too anxious, so I did not get nervous.

"The no hit no run game in which Young pitched against us last season proved to me that "Cy" was the world's greatest exponent of the pitching art."

NEW JERSEY THIRD.

Among the Clay Producing States in the Union.

New Jersey ranks third among the States as a clay producer. The United States Geological Survey report issued today, shows that the value of the clay products in the entire country in 1904 amounted to the enormous total of $131,023,248. This was somewhat less than in 1903, which was $131,062,421. In the report for last year, Ohio stands at the head of the list, the value of its clay products having amounted to $25,647,783. Pennsylvania comes next with a total of $16,821,863. New Jersey's output is valued at $13,304,047. Of this amount $7,354,294 represents the value of brick and tile and $5,949,753 the value of the pottery.

Back From Honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Doane, Jr., have returned from their wedding trip. The couple is staying at 438 West Fifth street.

TO END STREET FLOODS

Union County Freeholders Co-operating With the Common Council.

TO PROVIDE INLETS

East Seventh and Richmond Streets and Plainfield Avenue Suffer From Effect of Heavy Rains.

In connection with the improvements planned by the city to relieve the flooded condition of Richmond street during heavy rains, an ordinance which was adopted on second reading at the meeting of the Common Council Monday night, the Board of Freholders has decided to assist in the work.

Members of the Board visited the section yesterday and it was decided that by placing two large inlets, 24-28 at East Seventh and Richmond streets, one on each side of the street, that a surplus amount of water would be carried away more easily and would probably do away entirely with the flooding at that point.

These two large inlets will be placed near the bridge over Cedar Brook and will lead into the stream. In addition the city will locate a number of other inlets in Richmond street and the separate drains will all lead into the ones to be built by the freeholders.

Mr. Gavett, the street commissioner, has given considerable time and attention to this improvemnt, for the purpose of giving the residents in the vicinity of Richmond and East Sixth and Seventh streets the relief desired. In every heavy rain the streets there are entirely covered and practically impassable. With the co-operation of the freeholders the city feels sure that the proposed improvement will accomplish the desired end.

A similar condition exists in Plainfield avenue, and it will not be long before the street committee will take up this improvement. There is a large section there which needs proper drainage of surface water and larger drains will be installed. It will be only a question of time when Grant and West End avenue will have to be taken care of in the same way, and as soon as possible the committee will take it up.

GOOD BREEDING.

One's ailments are never matters of public interest, and one's trouble annoy those whom they do not sadden.

Guests should not allow their hosts to incur needless expense on their behalf. When visiting city friends they should pay their own cab hires, car fares, express charges and telephone tolls, if messages are sent at long distances; but, if the host will not permit, it is better taste to yield the point than to prolong a discussion.

In order that children may learn politeness they must be treated with courtesy—thanked when they do little services, and spoken to in a controlled voice when reprimanded. Above all else, parents and elders must treat one another with well-bred politeness before them, for children are very imitative little creatures.

The behavior of father and mother toward each other sets an example that will probably serve as the standard of conduct in the households of which the children in their turn will be the heads.

It is no longer customary at the tables of those socially well-placed to serve the hostess first. It is an old fashion, a survival of the times when for the hosts to taste wine or food first was the assurance to the guests that it was not poisoned.

At church weddings every woman, including the bride, should wear a hat—unless she wears a veil. This is according to custom and precedent.

In well-regulated households no caller is ever told at the door that the servant "will see whether the mistress is at home or not." Instructions to that effect should be given in advance so that a caller's time may not be wasted in such investigation.

In going upstairs a woman is given precedence by a man, but in descending a staircase he goes first, to avoid stepping upon her gown, or, in case of a misstep, to afford her support.

In nothing does a girl show herself unbred so much as when lacking in respect and deference to her mother, except when such affront is offered to her father. If such a one had the gift of seeing herself as others see her she would feel nothing but disgust.

It is very bad form not to return a first call, unless the caller be a really objectionable person to know. But the first call returned, none other need follow and the acquaintance may be allowed to drop. For the person, however, who makes the first call not to make a second after the former one has been courteously returned would be indefensible unless for some very cogent reason. Why begin an acquaintance only to drop it?—Newark Advertiser.

Dr. and Mrs. P. B. Cregar, of Grant avenue, are entertaining the latter's mother and sister from Lewisburg, Pa.

Michael Evans is working at the Pond Tool Works.

P. S. C. WANTS SWITCHES

Asks Common Council's Permission to Locate Some More.

ROUTINE WORK.

Public Hearing on Sewer Commission's Report September 5—The Dog Catcher's Troubles.

So that it will be possible to use single end trolley cars in this city, the Public Service Corporation asked the Common Council at the August meeting, last night, to give it permission to locate extra switches at Richmond and East Fifth street, West Fourth street and Grant avenue, West Front street and Grant avenue. With these switches a reversal would be very easy, and it is believed that the request will be granted. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Among the petitions received were for lights, two on East Third street and one on East Second street, between Richmond and Berckman streets. They were refused.

The League of American Municipalities extended an invitation to the Common Council to send a representative to the ninth annual convention to be held at Toledo, Ohio, August 24-26. Mr. Bullock remarked that he thought it would be an important conference and advised the city to have a representative there and Street Commissioner Gavett's name was proposed. The matter was finally laid over until tonight's meeting.

Much amusement was occasioned by the resignation of Pierre H. Moore as dog catcher. He stated that his expenses had been $1.50 more than he had received for the capture of eight canines at twenty-five cents, besides he had more enemies than he could make up and the position had lost him considerable work. The matter was referred to the police committee and later accepted.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported the granting of 111 sewer permits, and Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that during July, twenty-two building permits were granted.

The report of the sewer commissioners, Robert A. Meeker, John W. Murray, Jr., and S. P. T. Wilbur, was presented and on resolution offered by Mr. Tolles, Tuesday night, September 5, was fixed as the time when it will be considered and a public hearing will be granted those interested.

A resolution offered by Mr. Tolles and adopted, provided for an appropriation of $30 to L. Moraller & Son, the Park avenue jewelers, for the care and keeping of the town clock for one year from July 1, of this year to July 1, 1906.

Mr. Tolles called up the supplement to the tax ordinance and the sewer improvement ordinance and they were adopted on third reading. Another resolution by Mr. Tolles which was adopted, provided for the transfer of $500 from the general to the poor fund.

Mr. Wilson reported on the petition of Mary Skillman for the grading of Midway avenue, and on his recommendation it was referred to the corporation counsel for further consideration. He also recommended that the petition of Mary Laing and P. Connolly asking that the name of Laing avenue be changed, be denied for the present, as it is likely that other changes will be made in the avenue later.

The ordinance providing for the installation of a portion of the Richmond street sewer to carry off the surface water, was adopted on second reading. This improvement will cost about $2,500 and it is expected that succeeding Common Councils will extend the work, which it is estimated will cost $20,000 when completed.

The ordinance calls for fifteen inlets in the vicinity of East Fifth, Sixth streets and South avenue, and will go a long way toward relieving that section of the city in high water.

Mr. Bullock reported on two petitions for fire hydrants, one from Ida C. Weyer and others asking for a hydrant on North avenue and Terrill road and Mr. Bullock recommended that it be denied owing to the fact that there are very few houses in that section. He recommended the granting of one at East Sixth and Central streets, and this was adopted.

Mr. Bullock offered a resolution authorizing the expenditure of a sum not to exceed $500 to make necessary repairs in the nature of painting, papering at No. 1 and No. 3 fire houses and the placing of new doors at No. 1 house, together with the painting of some of the apparatus. The resolution was afterward withdrawn to permit the itemizing of the expenditures and it will be presented tonight.

Mr. Higham, chairman of the public affairs committee reported on the complaints made against the Public Service Corporation regarding certain violations on the West Fourth street line and stated that they had been corrected. As to the petition from the Board of Health asking that Tier's pond be cleaned and put in sanitary condition, he offered a motion that a sum not to exceed $50 be appropriated for the cleaning of the pond on the city side, the work to be done under the direction of the street commissioner. The motion was adopted.

On the recommendation of Mr. Murphy two electric lights were granted on West Third street, near Clinton avenue and one on Arlington place.

For information solely, Mr. Wilson called up the ordinance to extend the sanitary system of sewers and he offered a resolution providing that the ordinance be considered at a public hearing to be held Tuesday night, September 5. The resolution was adopted. After Mr. Wilson offered an ordinance providing for the establishment of the curb and sidewalk lines in certain streets in the Netherwood district, he asked to have it referred back for further consultation with the corporation counsel.

In view of the fact that there is a certain section in the southern part of the city which cannot be sewered by gravity, Mr. Wilson offered a resolution, which was adopted, appropriating a sum not to exceed $500 to conduct an investigation into the matter and learn the cost of installing pumping stations for sewering this part of the city. Mr. Tolles moved that when the meeting adjourn it be to meet tonight for the purpose of passing the tax duplicates.

OLD ELIZABETH DWELLING.

Stone House On Elizabeth Avenue Has Stood in Three Centuries.

One of the oldest dwelling-houses in Elizabeth is the stone building on Elizabeth avenue, near Reid street. It was erected in 1759 by Moses and Mary Ogden, a stone tablet on the east end stating this fact. During the Revolutionary War it was occupied by the family of Colonel Francis Barber, and one day, while the British were in the occupancy of the town, several drunken soldiers entered the house. Mrs. Barber, being alone and without protection was greatly frightened at the conduct of the ruffians, who roamed through the mansion at their own sweet will and pleasure.

The British soldiers had gathered many articles of value which they intended carrying away, when they entered a room and found a picture of General Wolfe at the siege of Quebec. The surprise of the hero and his red-coated men was so great that they stopped the work of pillage doffed their shakos, saluted and retreated from the place, leaving their plunder behind. The house was never again visited by the enemy.

After the Mexican War the house was occupied by the Angus family, and by them kept in a good state of repair. Of late years it has been occupied by Professor James, the musician.

Recently the house was purchased by Mr. Miller, who has greatly improved the appearance of the place, an iron fence ornamenting the front yard.

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

Welcoming the Editor.—George W. Miller, who for the past two and a half years has been local editor of the "Warren Tidings," has resigned and is succeeded by Louis I. Bennett late of the "Evening Post," of Bridgeton, Conn. Editor Bennett will also become the treasurer of the Tidings Publishing Company. The "Tidings" is one of our most interesting exchanges and under the local guidance of Mr. Miller it has been greatly improved, a fact which its editor and proprietor, Hon. J. B. R. Smith, generously admits in a leading editorial in its last issue. We feel sure that the well known perspicacity of Brother Smith has added to the ranks of New Jersey journalism a man who will be fully able to take up the work where his predecessor left off and not allow the progress of the "Tidings" to be retarded. Editor-in-Chief Smith has set the political position of the "Tidings" too high to admit of any "wooden nutmegs" in Republicanism to be inaugurated, and Brother Bennett will no doubt conform to the pure and unadulterated G. O. P'ism that has marked the past history of the paper. Here is your hand, Brother Bennett may you live long in New Jersey, the best State in the Union, though a little out of place just now in its political bearings, but in Warren county you may be saved.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

A VACATION.

They told him that he needed rest,
He hurried far away
Where o'er the ocean's foamy crest
The wholesome breezes play.

He shot the chutes, he looped the loop;
He joined the mazy dance;
He saw the side show minstrel troupe,
And watched the ponies prance.

He ate hot sausages and things
He ne'er had seen before;
He won a cane by throwing rings
Until his arms were sore.

He walked the boardwalk all day long,
And heard the music play
Where rival organs big and strong
In discord grind away.

He drank long mixtures filled with ice,
Ate lobsters and sardines;
He dallied with the cards and dice
And played the slot machines.

He tried to keep the pace in vain,
He did his level best.
He had to hurry home again
Because he needed rest.

—Washington Star.

ABOUT STAINS.

Yellow stains left by sewing machine oil on white fabrics may be removed by rubbing the spot with a clean rag wet with ammonia, before washing with soap.

Ribbons and other silks should be put away for preservation in brown paper, as the chloride of lime used in manufacturing white paper frequently produces discoloration. If anything has taken out the color in spots, a little hartshorn applied with a very soft rag will usually restore it, or if any application has slightly altered a delicate shade, hartshorn should be tried.

Sometimes it may be necessary to use one remedy for a stain and hartshorn for restoration of color. Blood stains may be removed from an article that you do not care to wash by applying a thick paste made of starch and cold water. Place in the sun and rub off in three or four hours. If the stain is not entirely removed repeat the process and soon it disappears.

To remove iron rust spots from fabrics place a bright tin over a kettle steaming with boiling water. Moisten the goods with water and hold the iron rust spots closely to the tin and rub them with oxalic acid. As soon as you see the rust disappear rinse in cold water to remove the acid, as it tends to rot the material, but if the process is performed quickly there is no danger of this.

The removal of grease stains may generally be accomplished in washing if the material has fast color. Ether is a very good thing for removing grease.

If the material is cloth, powdered French chalk should be used. It should be placed on the stain, and then held over a heated iron. The heat will melt the grease and the chalk will absorb it. Apply spirits of turpentine with a sponge, and rub with a clean rag. Extract of lemon will correct the smell of the turpentine.

HINTS AND SUGGESTIONS.

Don't dry the face with a rough towel if you want to keep the skin smooth; instead use a fine damask one, and "dab" the face with it. This preserves the delicate appearance of the skin.

For dry hair an effective wash is one part of glycerine and three parts rosewater, with five grains of salt or tartar to about one-half pint of the lotion. All lotions must be well shaken before using.

Clean windows in damp weather with a little methylated spirit, and you will have no difficulty in polishing them.

Stains on the hands can be removed by rubbing with salt moistened with lemon juice.

A grease spot can be removed from leather by applying a little benzine. It may make the surface dull, but you can restore the polish with the white of an egg.

Never rinse white lace in blue water under the impression that this will improve the color. Real lace should be finally rinsed in skim milk, which will give it the soft, creamy tint so much desired.

Try rubbing a mirror with a ball of soft paper slightly dampened with methylated spirit, then with a duster on which a little whiting has been sprinkled, and finally polish with clean paper or a wash leather. This treatment will make the glass beautifully bright.

Shabby dark leather will look like new if rubbed over with either linseed oil or the well beaten white of an egg mixed with a little black ink. Polish with soft dusters until quite dry and glossy.

See that the sides or walls of your refrigerators are occasionally scoured with soap or soap and slacked lime.

AGREEABLE COMPANY.

She was stylish and handsome, and she was on her way to spend a week-end with her dearest friend on the south shore of Long Island. There was no parlor car on the train, so she was forced to ride in the day coach. She kept her own window closed to protect herself from the dust, but the man in front of her had his open, and the cinders bothered her.

"Will you be kind enough to close your window?" she asked.

"No, I will not," he replied brusquely.

She was not accustomed to being refused, and for a moment was stunned. Then rallying her sweetest tones she explained that the cinders were not only unpleasant but dangerous to her eyes.

"Then you can change your seat," said the brute, hardly giving her a glance.

There was no other desirable seat, so she told the guard what the situation was, and he promptly closed the man's window. The man growled and made himself as unpleasant as possible for the ensuing hour.

When the young lady reached her destination she was warmly greeted by her hostess, who introduced to her the man who had been her fellow passenger. He had been invited to help make the week-end agreeable for the hostess' dearest friend.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Mowing Time at Long Branch.

Why shouldn't the Council order that offending property owners be directed to cut high grass on the sidewalks and in the evnt of their failure to do so that the work be done by the street department and the cost assessed against said property owners?—Long Branch Record.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 20.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The duty of winsomeness.—Prov. xv. 13-15; xvii. 22; I Cor. ix. 19-22.

We may do well to place especial emphasis upon the word duty in the topic—the duty of winsomeness. Too many people place too much stress upon their feelings and inclinations when it comes to religion. They pray when they feel like it; they attend the public worship in God's house when their personal inclinations lead them to do so; they are full of zeal and service so long as their emotions are aroused. But all the exercises of our religion are duties as well as joyous privileges when we feel like doing them. "Men ought to pray," says Christ. "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together" is the injunction of the apostle. Nothing is left to feeling or inclination. Duty is given the supreme place.

Winsomeness or cheerfulness is a Christian duty. Christ Himself commands us to be cheerful even amid the tribulations of life. "In the world ye shall have tribulations, but be of good cheer. I have overcome the world." And, therefore, so shall we. The Christian has every reason for cheerfulness. Above all men, he should have a cheerful heart, for in Christ he has the promise of the life that now is and of that which is to come. But Christian cheerfulness does not mean an assumed cheerfulness. It must be a reality. It must begin in the heart. "A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance." The cheerful countenance that has not the merry heart back of it is hypocritical. By real true faith in God and our Saviour we are to keep our hearts cheerful and buoyant amid all circumstances in life, and this is to be manifested in our lives. And even then there are times when the heart is bowed down and a "cheerful countenance" would be unseemly. "To everything there is a season and a time to every purpose under heaven * * * a time to weep and a time to laugh, a time to mourn and a time to dance." Criticise not those who may seem too sad. They may be passing through weeping times and mourning times of which you know nothing. Keep up your own faith, your own courage, your own cheerfulness, but judge not others, for God has made no man a judge of his brother.

Winsomeness is beneficial. "A merry heart doeth good, like a medicine." Nothing is more contagious than cheerfulness. It is a joy to hear a good, ringing laugh that comes honestly from the heart. It is indeed like medicine to the sick, to the downhearted and discouraged. Physicians, having at last learned the wisdom of Solomon, now insist that all in the sickroom shall be cheerful. Let us try, then, for the benefit of others as well as ourselves to cultivate true Christian cheer. The way may be hard, but God will be with you and strengthen you. And, no matter how hard—

Sing as you go.
For your song may cheer one behind you
Whose courage is sinking low.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. i, 1, 2; xvi, 11; xxx, 5; cxxvi, 1-5; Prov. xii, 25; Neh. viii, 10; Ps. xlviii, 2; Phil. iv, 1-4; Rom. xii, 12; 1 Thess. v, 16.

Christian Endeavor In Scotland.

The report issued in connection with the annual convention held recently in Dundee shows that since the previous meeting fifty new societies, thirty-seven senior and thirteen junior, have been added to the register. Geographically they dot the map of Scotland from Aberdeen to Galashiels and from Dreghorn to Dundee. Denominationally fully 60 per cent belong to the United Free church, the remainder being fairly well distributed among the other churches. Representing altogether six different denominations, they have a total membership of 1,758, of whom 1,232 are active and 526 associate or trial members. The total membership of the senior societies is 10,593 active and 2,070 associate members; total, 12,663. Of the intermediate and junior societies 3,925 are active and 2,806 associate or trial members; total, 6,731. The grand total, therefore, of active and associate members in senior, intermediate and junior societies is 19,394, being an increase of 1,063 over the aggregation of last year.—London Christian.

International Gatherings.

The following is a list of the dates and places of the twenty-two International Christian Endeavor conventions: 1882, Portland Me.; 1883, Portland, Me.; 1884, Lowell, Mass.; 1885, Old Orchard, Me.; 1886, Saratoga, N. Y.; 1887, Saratoga, N. Y.; 1888, Chicago; 1889, Philadelphia; 1890, St. Louis; 1891, Minneapolis; 1892, New York; 1893, Montreal, Canada; 1894, Cleveland, O.; 1895, Boston; 1896, Washington; 1897, San Francisco; 1898, Nashville, Tenn.; 1899, Detroit, Mich.; 1900, London, England; 1901, Cincinnati, O.; 1903, Denver, Colo.; 1905, Baltimore, Md.

Some Chinese Committees.

The Endeavorers of Shikitien, China, have a "pure body committee," which opposes intemperance and all kinds of impurity; a "heavenly foot committee," which advocates unbinding the feet, and a "heavenly union committee," which aims to arrange marriages of Christians with other Christians rather than with the heathen!

With the President in Colorado.

A note from Rev. Horace Mann, secretary of Christian [illegible] the Christian church, [illegible] Rifle, Colo., says, "A [illegible] service at [illegible] Schoolhouse, [illegible] Sunday, with President Roosevelt in attendance."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Aug. 20: "The Duty of Winsomeness"—Prov. xv. 13-15; xvii. 22; I Cor. ix. 19-22.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

What a difference there is in people! Some have such a sunny way with them that they irresistibly spread good cheer wherever they appear. Others as distinctly depress the spirits of any with whom they come in contact. As every variety of flower has its own peculiar perfume, as animals have their distinctive odor, so people have a personality which they impart to their surroundings, an atmosphere which affects all within the radius of their influence.

Some are more striking than others in their peculiar aroma of character. Some are more susceptible to impressions of this character than others. There are all degrees of receptiveness and all shades of impartiveness. In some degree we all have both characteristics.

What we are in inner nature determines what perfume we exhale. The lily never smells like the rose. If you know the odor you can name the bloom and describe the plant.

Do you know any plant of great usefulness and beauty which has a disgusting odor? In boyhood I found a curious blossom with a penetrating, disagreeable smell. A few breaths produced a violent headache lasting many hours. I have never seen a second specimen, nor have I searched widely for one, believing that if it was of any value its use could be well dispensed with for plants less dangerous.

In life among folks the disagreeable is often the dangerous. Beauty and usefulness are linked indissolubly in this, God's, world. Form, color and perfume all have linked hands in the interest of the good, the right and the true.

In human nature the ugly can never be the admirable. Features may be plain by inheritance or scarred by suffering and seamed by exposure, but beauty can and does often shine through all these masks and reveal the shining soul beneath. There is beauty and winsomeness in a baby's face, but the wrinkled face and bent form of grandmother has a glory far greater.

What then? Must not each one shed forth just what he is? If unattractive, how can one help it? Can all be winsome? Truly we cannot long simulate what we are not. If ugly within, we shall display the same in tone and manner and repel others. But what need of inner deformity? Why not each become beautiful within and breathe out in all activities the cheer and pleasantness of goodness?

Happiness is less, far less, a matter of outward circumstance than one of inner sentiment. If the peace of God abide in us we shall be content in whatever condition we may find ourselves, content to let God lead, confiding in His care, hopeful of better things, but determined in pain and sorrow to learn and do His will. All this inner calm and sweetness must show itself in outward signs. No fretfulness quavers in the voice because none is in the heart. No hardness settles in the lines of the face, for the soul is tender beneath the Father's touch. The mystery of mastery and secret of sweetness thrill in the tones and the touch and win those who suffer to find the same Consoler who has given us His comfort.

Be winsome. It is best for your own soul. It is needed by others. The Master needs your winsomeness to draw the sorrowful and heavy laden ones to His restfulness.

Helping by Prayer.

We really can know but little of the lives about us. It is scarcely safe even to try to help another by changing his condition or circumstances. We may only mar the Master's work in him if we try to make life easier for him. It is better that as we pray we let God do what His wisdom knows best for him. But we should never cease our intercession. We have not a friend who does not need our prayers for something. We do not know how much of the blessing wrought by Christ when He was on earth came through His prayers. He spent whole nights in supplication. On His heart He carried the burden of human sorrow and human sin and went continually with it to His Father. Then we are told that His work now in heaven for His people is continual intercession. All the blessings that come to us these days come in answer to the pleading of our great High Priest. Much of our work as Christians likewise should be intercession. People need our prayers. We are not altogether faithful to the friend for whom we do not pray. "Pray for whom thou lovest," says an old writer. "Thou wilt never have any comfort of his friendship for whom thou dost not pray."—Forward.

Sentence Sermons.

The church with a mission never dies for lack of money.—Henry F. Cope.

Only the Golden Rule of Christ can bring the golden age of man.—Frances E. Willard.

I hate to see a thing done by halves. If it be right, do it boldly; if it be wrong, leave it undone.—Gilpin.

We must never throw away a bushel of truth because it happens to contain a few grains of chaff.—Dean Stanley.

No definition of religion satisfies us except that which declares that it is the completion of the life of man.—Phillips Brooks.

Every one of us, however lowly, who hears a clear word of God and sends it on without a lisp is a prophet.—John G. Woolley.

Great is he who enjoys his earthenware as if it were plate, and not less great is the man to whom all his plate is no more than earthenware.—Seneca.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Speculation is Premature.

Speculation concerning the succession to the head of the Chancery Court is at this time premature. It is doubtful whether Chancellor Magie would accept another reappointment to the office, the duties of which are arduous and perplexing. He is 73 years of age, and, while he is vigorous, both mentally and physically, it is said that he has expressed to some of his near friends a desire to be relieved of the responsibilities of the office, and an opportunity to seek the rest that he has earned by half a century of hard work, half of which has been spent in the Chancery and Supreme Courts.—Trenton Times.

The Value of Canals.

Shall New Jersey sacrifice its canal transportation system which rightly conducted, is essential to the development and progress of the State? Shall the State commit the monumental folly of making a gift of the assets of the wrecked canal to the wreckers, who have been plotting and scheming for five years to get private possession of the property, and who have not hesitated to use corrupt means and agencies to that end? Can we learn nothing of the great economic public value of canals from the examples of other states and other nations and see no utility in the enterprise of Europe, which is expending hundreds of millions in new canals? Does not the semi-centennial of the Sault Ste. Marie Canal teach something?

Sportsmen and the Game Laws.

At this season of the year, when New Jersey is visited by thousands of non-resident fishermen, there is a great demand for copies of the State fish and game laws. The State being too parsimonious to pay for publication of the laws in the newspapers, private enterprise has met the popular quest for information by printing, in various forms, a compilation of the fish and game statutes a revision being made annually as soon as possible after the legislative adjourns. This year sportsmen have been kept in ignorance of changes in the laws because of unusual delay in the Executive disposal of legislative measures, so that it has been impossible to publish a complete and accurate compilation of the fish and game laws of the State. Visiting sportsmen will have to consult their old game manuals and trust to luck that they do not through ignorance become violators of the law.—Camden Post-Telegram.

Made a Good Deal.

Deal is to be congratulated that it has at last consummated the purchase of its own beach front. Municipal ownership of this right will be the making of Deal and that resort will doubtless blossom forth with new splendors.—Asbury Park Journal.

Attention Girls

It is hoped that a crusade against naughty and overly-frank bathing costumes can be averted this season. These crusades are always embarrassing, both to the authorities and the wearers, not to speak of the onlookers. But even Mayor Stoy, who does not like to stir up these delicate questions, admits that the line must be drawn somewhere. He does not say exactly where, but leaves it to be inferred that it should be at least a foot or two below the waist line. The Press of yesterday morning told of a "dashing" young woman who appeared on the beach on Sunday clad in a handsome costume of brown that attracted considerable attention from the fact that a ruffle was worn as a substitute for a skirt. Now, everyone must admit that in such a case the line was drawn too high, and the young lady herself gave tacit consent to this judgment by returning to her bath house on the advice of a beach guard to "let out the hem a foot or two." Ballet skirts are proper and appropriate when worn on the stage by a ballet girl. But they are entirely out of place when worn on the beach by a society belle. Girls should study appropriateness in bathing costumes, as well as in gowns for the street, the golf course, or the ball room. If they don't they are liable to get mixed and appear in a combination ball gown and bathing suit, and might result in a panic and a general alarm of fire.—Atlantic City Press.

LARGE SALARIES FOR WOMEN.

There is a general impression that women are poorly paid for their services. It might be interesting to make an investigation and find what ground there is for this feeling. Certainly when women begin to draw salaries above the average they are in no way in danger of starvation. As private secretary of Gage E. Tarbell, of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, Miss Anna Amendt received $12,000 a year. Miss Florence Mason Rhett, as household secretary of J. Pierpont Morgan, receives $10,000, and Miss Katherine Harrison obtains a like salary from H. H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate. Miss Helen Gould pays Miss Elizabeth Altman $8,000 a year to look after her philanthropic affairs. The Equitable Life Assurance Society gives Miss Florence E. Shall $11,000 yearly to manage the Massachusetts woman's department of the organization. Mrs. Stella E. P. Drake, who is in charge of the woman's department of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, draws a yearly salary of $11,000. In the handicrafts only women do not seem to be receiving as generous wages as men.—From Madam.

HOLE EIGHT MILES LONG

Pennsy Will Have An Approach That Long to its North River Tubes.

FILLING IN MEADOWS

Railroad Company Will Bore to Cortlandt Street for Electric Traffic Route—How It Is Being Done.

Recent operations in the vicinity of the shaft in Weehawken Heights, from which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is extending its North River tunnel, reveal some of the hitherto unpublished purposes of the company in connection with that great enterprise.

One of the unguessed problems—and probably the most important, because of its effect upon the surrounding communities—has been as to the method and point of approach to the river bore. Work that has just begun on the great salt meadows that stretch from the west foot of the Palisades for miles to Newark, shows that the approach will be from the little town of Kearny, on the extreme western line of the meadows, on the bank of the Passaic River.

There are eight miles of swamp between the town and the deep tunnel shaft in Weehawken Heights. The company will build a roadbed from Kearny across the meadows till the west side of the Heights is encountered. Through the hill a tunnel is to be blown to the heading of the river tunnel. The ride through this auxiliary bore to the river opening will be nearly a mile. Men are now at work on it.

The new roadbed, with swamp land that the company has heretofore filled in for its use, and other enterprises contemplated by the Lehigh Valley, Erie, and Lackawanna roads will rescue large areas of the meadows from the mosquito, and the expectation is that all the meadows lying within the limits of Hudson county will soon be converted into solid ground, thus extinguishing the mosquito-breeding quagmires that the residents are so industriously fighting with Standard oil and dykes.

The opening on the west side of the Heights is above the level of the swamp, to carry the road over the tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road, and the earth taken from it is already banked up to make the needed elevation.

This plan of work seems to indicate that Jersey City will lose much of her importance as a terminal. Within recent years the company has spent $4,000,000 to straighten the approach through Bergen Cut into Jersey City, thereby gaining four minutes in the running time between New York and Philadelphia. The enormous iron trainshed and the handsome station at Jersey City will also be far less busy than at present.

Important changes in the course of the road through Newark are also likely, because Kearny is miles further up the Passaic than the company's chief station in Newark, at Market street.

Recent developments on the water front at Jersey City are taken as signs that the company may contemplate the use of electric motors for local traffic to Newark, Elizabeth and possibly beyond, into New York. It has been understood almost from the start that the tunnel now being built from Exchange place, under the river to the foot of Cortlandt street, is to be for trolley use, and the shaft from which the tunnel diggers are building riverward is sunk in the yards of the Pennsylvania Company.

Secrecy has been observed as to the exact uses of this tunnel, the approaches to it, and the location of the stations, but those in Jersey City who are closest to the company hint that when this second under-river bore shall have been completed, a thorough system of electric service between Jersey City and points beyond will be instituted.

ENGLISH PLAYERS COMING.

Football Match to be Played in America.

England's leading Amateur Association football club, the Corinthians, will pay their first visit to America this fall. The team has arranged for matches in Canada, Fall River, Mass., and Philadelphia. The club has also accepted an invitation from the Staten Island Cricket Club to play a match against an all-New York team on the Livingston grounds, September 13, at 4 o'clock. The all-New York team will be captained by A. Warren Smith, and will be impartially selected from all New York clubs of strictly amateur standing.

The Corinthians will bring over with them several players of international fame—among them G. O. Smith, who, although now somewhat past his best days, probably has no superior as centre forward.

Association football has made such great progress in popular favor during the last few years that the visit of the Corinthians will arouse considerable interest, and local players are looking forward to the opportunity of comparing the styles of play which prevail on both sides of the water.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Ed. ... Proprietor

Thursday, Aug. 7. 1905.

Isn't it about time that a thorough investigation be made in this city as to the cause of the prevalence of dysentery.

A minister at Easton, Pa., waxed eloquent in his pulpit Sunday on the subject, "Is the world growing better?" It most certainly is but the divine will never realize the fact if he stays in Easton.

An exchange declares the "Count" Van Ness trial at Scotch Plains made more excitement for the residents than when the circus came to town. Let's see when did the last circus appear at Scotch Plains?

The Trenton correspondent of the New York Tribune believes that the Republican party in New Jersey needs a leader, and quotes some who favor John Kean. Well, if Kean has not been the boss for some time past who has?

A pretty young woman who shot herself in New York Saturday refused any information about herself but afterward wrote a letter to "Kid" McCoy, the prize fighter, asking him to come to her. She probably wants him to do the talking.

M. Witte, the Russian peace envoy, celebrated his arrival in Portsmouth by kissing a train hand. Supposing M. Roosevelt and M. Fairbanks did the same trick; what would become of the great American handshake as a vote getter?

Seventeen sheriffs are to be elected in New Jersey this fall, the terms of that number expiring. Under the law the same man cannot hold the shrievalty two terms in succession. Consequently there are seventeen good jobs awaiting favored ones. Except in Essex and Hudson counties, the sheriffs receive their compensation in the shape of fees and in the majority of cases these foot up to a considerable figure. The Democratic incumbents to go are those in Essex, Gloucester, Hudson, Hunterdon, Monmouth, Salem, Sussex and Warren and the Republicans are those in Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cumberland, Mercer, Middlesex, Morris, Ocean, Union.

Answering the challenge of Mayor Lentz, Assemblyman Colby declares that an Essex county leader attempted to pursuade him to kill one of his bills in the interest of a corporation and failing in this "reached" members of the Legislature. They "were seen," according to Mr. Colby, and and bill was killed. The Essex county reformer does not charge that they were bribed, but leaves that as the logical deduction. Accusations of this kind are hard to prove in courts of law. Testimony which would be accepted by the average man is not admissable for such purposes. As a consequence the value of the statement depends upon the character of the man who makes it together with the possible objects he has in making it. That is the way in all cases and the Legislature is no exception.

Benjamin S. Church, one of the committee of three that investigated the advisability of the city buying the water supply plant, is a former Plainfielder, but a surprisingly few residents seem to be aware of the fact. He lived until last fall on Watchung avenue at Hillside and commuted regularly for years. As an engineer he stands among the foremost men of his profession in the country and some of his achievements have attracted world-wide attention. His most notable engineering feat, perhaps, was the building of the Quaker dam at New York's Croton aqueduct and a thirty mile subway leading from it to the city. In most places it is 200 feet below the surface and at one point, where it drops below the Harlem river, it is 300 feet. The manner in which this was done was little short of marvellous, and the New York Board of Aldermen passed resolutions commending Mr. Church and afterward had all his plans, drawings and specifications elaborately lithographed and handsomely bound. He is considered an authority on water sheds and water supply but at the present time is devoting his attention to the perfection of a steam turbine wheel designing. Mr. Osgood and Mr. Saunders, the other members of the committee, are also men of unquestionable ability who have been successful in their respective callings. The former is the chief engineer of the New Jersey Central and the designer of its unique bridge in the draw over Newary bay. Mr. Saunders is president of the Ingersoll-Rand Drill Company, the largest concern of its kind in the world. It manufactures machinery used in mining and engineering, and at times the head of the concern is of a necessity called upon to assist in the devising of a new bit of mechanism to meet some unforeseen problem. He is considered an expert in engineering matters. The people of Plainfield were indeed fortunate in securing the services of these three men to investigate the public ownership of its water supply.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Fantana" will have its 300th performance at the Lyric théatre on the evening of Tuesday, September 12. The termination of the run has not yet been announced. Matinees, Wednesdays (at popular prices), Saturdays and Labor Day.

Margaret Anglin will be seen at the Princess theatre on September 18 in a new play, entitled, "Zira." Miss Anglin will be supported by a special company under direction of Henry Miller. "Zira" is to be followed by other dramas of like character.

"The Earl and the Girl," in the hands of a cast including Eddie Foy, Georgia Caine and Amelia Summerville, will be the initial attraction at the new Casino. The house will be opened on or about September 4.

Last evening the regular fall season of the Academy of Music was inaugurated with an elaborate and entirely new production of the greatest of all rural plays—"Way Down East." It has been nearly two years since New Yorkers have had an opportunity to witness this New England gem, as it has purposely been kept out of the city for a year or more preparing for this special opening, and it is now promised by the management that never before in the history of the stage has such vastness, realism and beauty in the way of scenery been seen in any rural play, and it is said to be their intentions to eclipse all past presentations and make this one of the memorable productions in this home of greatness. In the play there is a combination of humor and pathos with incisive dramatic incident, a tremendous amount of human interest. The passions and emotions that sway the simple people of the New Hampshire farm are the same that have governed all people of all ages since the world began.

At Proctor's 58th Street theatre, as the summer draws to a close, the productions seem to increase rather than decrease in importance. Week of August 14 will be no exception to this rule, when Lawrence Marston's powerful drama of heart interest, "A Woman's Sacrifice," will be presented. This production will be most elaborately staged by the author himself, under whose direction beautiful scenery, accurate properties, accessories, etc., are being prepared. All the favorites of the 58th Street Proctor company will be seen in this offering, including Miss Adele Bloch, William P. Carleton, Miss Agnes Scott, Charles Arthur, William Norton, Miss Louise Mackintosh, Robert Rogers, George Howell and others of equal note.

Saturday evening, August 19, at the Majestic theatre, New York, will be a notable occasion: It being the opening of the regular season, and it will also be the first presentation in New York city of that best of all pastoral plays, "York State Folks," with a most elaborate production and a cast that has seldom been equalled. Of course James Lackaye will be seen in his original creation of the part of Simon Peter Martin; Ray L. Royce, as the old organist Myron Cooper; Miss Leilia McIntyre, who was the original in the part of Jennie, has been engaged for this engagement. "York State Folks" is a delightful departure from the conventional rural drama. There are no "Hay-seeds" or exhibits of farming machinery, and there is not even a mortgage, neither is there a villian nor a woman with a story of wrong.

Hammerstein's Paradise Roof Gardens still keep the lead as the most popular attraction in New York these days. The bill changes weekly and in addition to the customary roof show nightly matinees are given daily in the Victoria theatre. Greatly reduced prices are asked at the afternoon performances although the bill is the same as is seen nightly on the roof garden. This week Abdul Kader and his three wives are to be seen. They arrived in this country last week and have made a great hit with the crowd that makes it a rule to visit Hammerstein's weekly. Then Carmencita is to be seen also. Others on the bill are Ernest Hogan and Company, the three Joscarys, Peschkoff's troupe, Hill and Sylvany, Martini and Maximilian, Will R. Rogers and last but not least the Six Cuttys.

Percy Williams' Vaudeville Shows at Manhattan Beach have been the means of diverting the crowds from other resorts where New Yorkers and suburbanites generally spend their evenings during the summer. His big productions are given every afternoon at 3 and every night at 8:30 and have been the greatest drawing card in the history of the Manhattan Beach attractions. The show is well balanced and the numbers are all head-liners. So popular have they proven that Mr. Williams has been urged to place the show on the road as soon as the season there closes but he has not made final decision as yet.

Waldo Lewis, the soldier, who originated the Boer War spectacle now at Brighton Beach, is an unique figure in the snow world. His successful reproduction of the decisive battles in the South African war will be followed soon by a spectacle of still greater magnitude. His rise from a trooper in a regiment of Irregular Canadian cavalry to a magnate of the show business in a comparatively short time won for him the confidence of those whose assistance he requires for the new project which is now being planned. Captain Lewis succeeded where others failed to secure the services of the Boer War heroes who now enact the battles in which they took part five years ago. Both armies scoffed at his proposals to present a war spectacle to the American people. The British thought the Boers might entertain the proposition but were almost positive in their assertion that Tommy Atkins would never consent to take part in the lesson to humanity who little know of the real vicissitudes of war and who calmly read of events in the Far East with admiration for the victor and perhaps pity for the dead and wounded but with no conception of the suffering of the fatherless, childless and homeless.

Keith's has another big comedy bill scheduled for the week of August 21. Every act on the programme is a tried and approved laugh-producer of the highest proof, and will be literally "more than a box of monkeys." For, by special arrangement with Barnum & Bailey's, Galletti's Dog and Monkey Circus, one of the greatest animal acts in the world, will on that date begin a brief vaudeville tour at the Union Square. Miss Mignonette Kokin, daughter of the celebrated Prince Kokin, will re-appear in her singing and dancing specialties. Leona Bergere, sister of Miss Valerie Bergere, is the feminine feature of the Jorsky-Bergere Co presenting the screaming one act farce, "Je, She and He," while Vistor Moore and Emma Littlefield are making their farewell appearance in vaudeville with their laughable traversty on variety, entitled "Change Your Act" or "Back to the Woods." The Marvellous Merrills, America's cleverest comedy cyclists, will uphold the athletic end of the bill; May Duryea and W. A. Mortimer present "The Imposter;" Dixon and Anger appear as "The Baron and His Friend," while the Barrett Bros. have a bunch of Hibernian bon mots and songs. The Kinetograph, with funny pictures, which has become a strong feature, is interesting to old and young.

Seats are now on sale at the Madison Square theatre for the engagement of Blanche Walsh, who will appear at this theatre for a limited period in Clyde Fitch's greatest play, "The Woman In The Case," beginning next Monday night. There has been already a big demand for seats, and there is every indication that the interest shown in this remarkable play during its long run at the Herald Square theatre, has not in the least abated. Miss Walsh's portrayal of Margaret Rolfe is one of those unique dramatic silhouettes, which is likely to linger in the public memory for many years. The role of Claire Foster, which will be played by Miss Dorothy Dorr, has of course added immensely to the reputation of that eminent artist. But for that matter, there is not a character in "The Woman In The Case" which is not vitally and humanly interesting. It may be of interest to Miss Walsh's large following here that after her forthcoming engagement at the Madison Square, she will not be seen again in New York until after the conclusion of her Australian tour which will be inaugurated in the City of Melbourne early next spring.

BAND LEADER BENEFIT ON FRIDAY NIGHT

MAYOR SMALLEY ARRANGES THE CONCERT.

At the suggestion of Mayor Smalley and other boroughites who have been instrumental in providing the weekly band concerts, the one Friday night is to be made a benefit for Leader Ben LaVere. It is to be given the popular bandmaster in recognition of his untiring efforts in securing the musicians and soloists and his general activity for the cause. He has been conducting local concerts for many years and without recompense, frequently going to great expense in getting new music.

The coming concert will be made unusually elaborate and will include a display of fireworks as well. Arrangements for the latter have been perfected and representatives of one of the big manufacturing companies will have charge. There are to be bombs and set pieces between every instrumental selection and no waits from beginning to end.

The soloists will be four in number and will include Miss Nellie Florede, the well-known vaudeville artist who appeared at Saengerbund hall in connection with the band concert entertainment last winter. She will sing two selections and others will be provided by "Billy" Redmond, "Billy" Murray and "Lew" Leever, the favorite trio. Beside the vocalists, John S. Lelick, the famous cornettist, will return after a week's absence through filling an engagement at Proctor's Newark Theatre.

All told this collection of artists, the fireworks and the fact that the proceeds are to be donated Mr. La Vere should result in bringing out a record breaking crowd. On account of the big expense the admission fee to the grandstand will be made fifteen cents. In the event of rain the programme will be given Monday night.

DECIDE AGAINST FARMER

City Solicitor of Trenton Says Long Reward Goes to Police.

SCORES VAN NUIS.

Declares His Assistance of the Fugitive Murderer Precludes Him From Reward Alone.

City Solicitor Bird, of Trenton, has filed an adverse opinion on Franklin Van Nuis' claim to the reward offered for Charles Long's capture. He says the Plainfield policemen who made the arrest are clearly entitled to the money. The opinion is formal and official and settles the question definitely as far as the $250 offered by the city of Trenton is concerned. Opinion as to the money offered by the County of Mercer has not yet been filed by County Prosecutor Crossley, but he will undoubtedly decide as the city solicitor did.

The opinion scores Van Nuis for sheltering Long and hindering the police, and declares for that reason alone he would not be entitled to the reward, but cites authorities to prove that the actual capture as demanded under the terms of the reward circular was made by Chief Kiely and his men. The solicitor is of the opinion that Van Nuis' actions during the hunt for Long would preclude him from suing and recovering the reward.

In part the opinion is as follows:

"It must be conceded, I think, that the taking of Long was the result of the active work of the Plainfield police, and not of the passive conduct of the claimant Van Nuis, although such conduct undoubtedly contributed towards this result.

"The word 'apprehension,' as employed in the circular letter issued by order of William J. Crossley, prosecutor of pleas of this county, is used in a legal sense and means 'To seize a person for the purpose of taking him before a magistrate to answer for some offense alleged to be committed by him.' This the claimant did not do.

"Apprehension means manual caption, and it seems that nothing short of this fills the full measure of the word. The same construction is given to the phrase 'apprehend and pursue.' Am. & Eng. Ency. of Law (2d Ed.), Vol. 24, page 948, and cases cited.

"This interpretation of the meaning of the word 'apprehension' is supported by the cases of Shuey vs. U. S., 92 U. S. 73 and Lovejoy vs. Atchinson, &c., R. Co., 53 Mo. App. 386.

"Again in the cases of Burke vs. Wells Fargo Co., 50 Cal. 218, and Austin vs. Milwaukee Co., 24 Wis. 278, it is held that 'The giving of information leading to an arrest will not constitute an arrest.'

"The conduct of this claimant in relation to the work of pursuing and apprehending Long has been such as would, in my opinion, preclude him from suing for and recovering the reward offered, but as he did not 'apprehend' the prisoner (and is therefore not entitled to the reward, for that reason) a consideration of this matter is not essential to the disposition of this question.

"Upon this principle and authority I am of the opinion that Franklin Van Nuis is not entitled to the reward offered by the City of Trenton and advise accordingly."

SECOND REGIMENT CONTEST.

Results of Shoots Held at Somerville Thursday and Friday.

On Thursday and Friday on the range of Co. M at Somerville the competitive shooting of the members of the Second Regiment for a place on the regimental rifle team, which will shoot in the matches at Sea Girt this month, was held. Excellent scores were made.

The following is the standing of those who shot both slow fire and skirmish:

| | |
|---|---|
| Priv. Hooey, Co. M | .728 |
| Priv. McRostie, Co. L | .725 |
| Lt. Spencer, Co. M | .712 |
| Capt. Libby, Co. L | .683 |
| Maj. Dungan | .68 |
| Sergt. Sylvester, Co. L | .643 |
| Sergt. Dohm, Co. L | .585 |
| Lt. Col. Clime | .579 |
| Corp. Farr, Co. L | .522 |
| Priv. Hudson, Co. L | .541 |
| Sergt. Williams, Co. L | .509 |
| Lt. Corey, Co. E | .501 |
| Corp. Lloyd, Co. L | .421 |
| Corp. Sylvester, Co. L | .305 |
| Priv. Van Doren, Co. I | .298 |

The following is the standing of those who shot only at slow fire:

| | |
|---|---|
| Capt. Phillips | .83 |
| Capt. Stevens | .712 |
| Priv. Mallette | .645 |

The best scores made by the local marksmen were:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Maj. Dungan, | 500 yds | .47, 10 shots |
| | 600 yds | .38, 10 shots |
| | Skirmish | .65. |
| Lt. Spencer, | 500 yds | .44, 10 shots |
| | 600 yds | .18, 5 shots |
| | Skirmish | .77. |
| Priv. Hooey, | 500 yds | .48, 10 shots |
| | 600 yds | .46, 10 shots |
| | Skirmish | .58. |

At the Baby Camp.

The Nonpareil Orchestra, composed of seven pieces rendered sacred selections at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp Sunday afternoon and evening. Mrs. George Staats donated cake and ice cream.

PRACTICAL MEN AT MUNICIPAL CONVENTION

PLAINFIELD TO HAVE A REPRESENTATIVE AT SESSIONS.

Among the important papers to be discussed at the annual convention of the League of American Municipalities, to be held at Toledo, Ohio, August 23-25, will be that of Prof. L. G. Powers, chief statistician of the Department of Commerce and Labor Washington, D. C., on the subject of "Municipal Finance and Accounting." Louis Betz, city comptroller of St. Paul, Minn., will lead in the discussion which will follow Prof. Powers' paper.

City Surveyor Andrew J. Gavett who will attend this convention as Plainfield's official representative will be much interested in the discussion of "Street Cleaning," on which Mayor Cook, of St. Louis, will present an exhaustive paper. City Engineer Rosewater, of Omaha, will speak at length on the question of paving construction, and Mayor Jeffery, of Columbus, Ohio, will discourse on "Municipal Ownership." The paper by Judge Oscar Leser, of Baltimore, setting forth the benefits derived by the Maryland metropolis as a result of its great fire, will be of particular interest.

City officials from all parts of the country are regular attendants at the annual conventions of the league and all of them find that the interchange of ideas on subjects of mutual interest, as well as the extensive commercial exhibits of leading manufacturers of municipal machinery supplies and equipment, are of very material advantage to them in their several departments of city work.

The league is composed of the practical administrators of city affairs in all sections of the country and it cannot be doubted that those in attendance at its annual conventions add enough to their practical knowledge to much more than compensate their cities for all the expenses for their trip. The Common Council deemed it for the best interests of Plainfield in sending Commissioner Gavett as its representative.

FARMERS' PICNIC.

Swackhamer to be One of the Speakers.

The Hunterdon county farmers' picnic, which will be held on the Flemington fair ground, August 23 and 24, will probably be the largest that has been held in years. The committee on arrangements have increased the number of amusements this year. An effort is being made to have a much larger exhibit of farming machinery and products of the soil. The political problem will be fathomed by an able corps of speakers of various beliefs.

Here are some of the speakers that have just been announced to make addresses: Samuel S. Swackhamer, James A. Hamill, E. E. Potter, H. W. Kice, J. B. Cleaver and A. M. Ryan. Nearly all of these speakers have made addresses on former occasions when large crowds were were attracted to the ground to hear the pro and con of the different issues.

William Moore Longcope.

William Moore Longcope, who forseveral years had been a searcher of records of the county clerk's office at Elizabeth and who since the office has ben divided had been the official searcher for Register Frank H. Smith, dropped dead at Asbury Park, Sunday afternoon from paralysis of the heart. Mr. Longcope had been staying there for the summer with his wife, and came to his business in Elizabeth every day, returning to Asbury at night. He was about forty-five years of age, an a native of Philadelphia, wher the body will be taken for interment. He leaves a wife but no children.

Marriage Announcement.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Louise Frances Manne, of Troy, N. Y., to Clarence M. Rogers, of Miami Fla., formerly of this city. It will take place on August 23. Mr. Rogers is assistant engineer on the Key West extension of the Florida East Coast railway.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR DEPARTED SCHOLAR

PARK AVE. BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONDUCTS IMPRESSIVE PROGRAMME.

In place of the regular Sunday-school session at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Sunday morning, the scholars conducted a service in memory of Walter Van Winkle, one of its faithful members who died three weeks ago. The young man was a devoted worker in his department and in the school he was a great favorited.

The nature of the programme made the service very impressive and it was attended by a large gathering. In detail it was as follows: Hymn, "Whiter Than Snow," by the school; scripture reading; hymn, "When the Mists Have Rolled Away," by members of the Junior and Intermediate departments; hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," school; reading of letter from Mrs. W. S. Lowery, superintendent of the Intermediate department to which Walter belonged; hymn, "Saved by Grace," by the Junior and Intermediate departments; reading of letter from Mrs. D. M. Runyon, who was Walter's Sunday-school teacher; selection, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," by quartette; reading of letter from Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the church; selection, "Some Time We'll Understand," by quartette; prayer; hymn "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," by the school.

The letters read were sent by Mrs. Lowery, Mrs. Runyon and Mr. Finn because of their inability to be present.

NEW FIRE COMPANY.

Dewey Park Citizens Organize and Arrange to Order Steamer.

Dewey Park has a regularly organized fire company and will soon have a steamer. Papers in the incorporation of Dewey Park Fire Co. No. 1 were filed with the county clerk at New Brunswick Saturday. The trustees are named as follows: Michael A. Gallagher, Richard Thomas, Harry Van Fleet, Gustave Pervesus and Henry C. Vogel.

The company was organized at an adjourned meeting of citizens at S. D. Drake's house Friday night. Officers will be elected at a meeting to be held August 25. It is agreed that 250 feet of hose will be ordered purchased at that meeting. Arrangements for the purchase of a steam engine, to be delivered by June 1, 1906, will be made at the same meeting.

The hose company at Lincoln, in which Mr. Drake is also interested has ordered 500 feet of hose to be delivered by September 15. With this lot, Lincoln will have 1,000 feet of hose.

A Dinner Party.

A dinner party wass given Friday night by Miss Lizzie R. Kinley at the residence of Mrs. Werd Watkins, on East Third street in honor of Miss H. M. Lane. Covers were laid for eight. Among those present were Miss Lane, Miss Brodna, MissPlummer and William Bonns, both of Detroit, Mich., Walter Reed, of New York; R. B. Fisher and A. Casey.

Drs. F. A. & J. A.

GREENE,

SPECIALISTS

in the Treatment and Cure of Nervous and Chronic Diseases.

101 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Long e-tablished and successful practice. Proved professional skill and ability. Expert and honest treatment. High standard of medicines. Reasonable and fair charges. Advice at office or by mail absolutely free.

All patients who c-ll or write receive the personal attention of Dr. Greene himself, the well-known Medical Lecturer and proprietor of the great family medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

Booklet, descriptive of Dr. Greene's methods, remedies and treatment will be mailed free upon application. 833

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River.

In effect June 25, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 2.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46 9.30, 9.59, 10.23, 11.00 a. m., 12.03, 12.44, 1.18, 2.21, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.30, 5.53, 6.29, 6.48, 7.08, 7.22, 8.25, 9.25, 9.49, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 2.37, 4.47, 7.47, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 9.49 10.02, 10.22 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.20, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44 4.13 4.47 5.30 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.22, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.34, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.20, 5.41, 6.48, 6.52, 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

